7. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and empty bottles at the Wall. She also wanted me to give her names of other boys who were throwing stones and empty bottles with me. I told her I did not throw stones and that the boys who were with me were my cousins and friends. About 15 minutes into the interrogation she asked my father to leave the room.

8. Then she repeated the same accusations. In the end I confessed to throwing an empty bottle at the Wall. Then the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did without understanding what it said. I did not know I shouldn't sign any documents. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints.
9. After the interrogation I was put in the back of the jeep with my father. They dropped my father off at the checkpoint and told him to go home and the jeep took me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at the prison at around 3:30 a.m. At Ofer prison I was searched in my underwear and taken to Section 13.
10. Two day later I was taken to Ofer military court where I waited in a room from around 6:00 a.m. until around 5:00 p.m. before I was taken into the court room. My parents were in court and a lawyer and I was allowed to speak to them.
11. The lawyer told the military judge I was interrogated without having access to a lawyer but the prosecutor told the judge the interrogator had asked me and my father whether we wanted a lawyer or not. The prosecutor also falsely said my father had said he did not want a lawyer.
12. In the end I was fined NIS 1,000 which my parents paid. I was released on 2 April 2017, at around 7:00 p.m. and I went home with my parents. I don't know whether I was also given a suspended sentence or not.

Name: A.K.A.J.
Age: 16
Date: 4 April 2017
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.K.A.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. after he heard loud banging at our front door. He then went to open our front door and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home. They told my father they wanted to arrest me.
2. After I got up a soldier showed me some photographs of clashes between youth from the village and soldiers that took place near the village cemetery. Then a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was painful. I was also blindfolded.
3. I was then taken outside. No documents were provided to us about the arrest. Outside the house I was beaten on the head. The soldiers then led me on foot for a long distance.
4. After walking for a long time I was put in the back of a military jeep and made to sit on the floor. Inside the jeep a soldier verbally abused me calling me "a son of a whore" and another soldier took a photo of me. The jeep drove to the settlement of Karmi Zur where we arrived at dawn.
5. Inside the settlement I was taken to a room and I sat on a chair. A soldier swore at me calling my mother and sister "whores". I sat on the chair until just before noon. I could not sleep. Just before noon I was taken to a military vehicle which took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I arrived at Etzion at around noon.
6. On arrival at Etzion I was left under a shed for a couple of hours. When I tried to remove the blindfold someone slapped me. Then I was taken for interrogation at around 2:00 p.m.
7. The interrogator started to beat me as soon as I entered the room. I was still tied and blindfolded. He punched me on my side and I felt severe pain in my kidney. Then he sat me down on a chair and started to kick and slap and verbally abuse me. He called me "a son of a whore". Then he told me I had to name the boys in the photo who were throwing stones. I told him the boys were all masked and I did not know who they were. He interrogated me for about 45 minutes without informing me of my rights. Instead, he told me if I remained silent I would be convicted in court. He did not remove the tie and the blindfold until the very end. I confessed to throwing stones when I felt I had no choice.

8. After I confessed I was taken to see another interrogator who did not inform me of my rights. There was a tape recorder on the desk. He asked me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator and he recorded everything I said. I told the second interrogator I wanted a lawyer. The interrogator called my father and lied to him and told him I had given names of other boys. He also called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to confess and said he would come and help me afterwards. Then the second interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did because I wanted to get it over with.
9. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. I was also searched with my underwear on. I was then taken to a cell where I was given some food. Later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched again in my underwear and taken to Section 13.
10. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My father was in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had six appearances in the military court, most of them took place without a lawyer because the lawyers were on strike.
11. At my last military court appearance I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months valid for three years. I did not want to agree to the plea bargain but my father accepted it on my behalf. I did not want my father to pay the fine but he did.
12. I was released on 19 June 2017, I went home with my father. In prison I studied the alphabet which was not very useful or interesting.

Name: M.A.A.H.
Age: 16
Date: 4 April 2017
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.A.H. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 1:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in the neighbourhood; she wanted me to get dressed and be prepared in case they came to arrest me. The soldiers went to my uncle's house and then to my grandparent's house before my father went downstairs and found out they were looking for me.
2. About seven soldiers entered our house and around a dozen others were outside. Some of the soldiers were wearing face masks. One soldier showed me some photographs of clashes with soldiers and I told him I was not among the stone throwers in the photos. Then they went into my bedroom looking for a particular jumper seen in the photographs. When they realised I was wearing a similar jumper they told me I was under arrest. They did not give us any documents and did not tell my parents where they were taking me.
3. The soldiers then pushed my siblings into the living room and did not allow them to leave. Outside the house they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties; one on top of the other. The ties were not painful. I was also blindfolded. I could hear my sisters crying and shouting as they argued with the soldiers and tried to prevent them from taking me away. One soldier told my sister they were arresting me because I threw stones during clashes between the village and soldiers.
4. The soldiers led me along a dirt road and I fell on the ground many times. Then I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor because the jeep was full of soldiers. Inside the jeep the soldiers were singing and shouting as if they were having a party.
5. The jeep drove for about two hours to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba where I was examined by a doctor with the ties and blindfold still on. Then I was taken back into the jeep where I sat on the floor and the jeep drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was taken to a room where I waited for about an hour. During this time I used the toilet but I was not given any food or drink. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a tape recorder on the table. He removed the blindfold and replaced the plastic ties with metal handcuffs and handcuffed me to the front. He did not inform me of my rights and started by telling me he would send me home if I confessed against the boys who threw stones with me. I told him I did not throw stones and therefore I had nothing to say. He was upset with my answer and banged the table with his gun. He insisted I did throw stones and wanted me to confess and to give him names of other boys. I continued to deny the accusation.

7. He interrogated me for more than three hours and I continued to deny the accusation and did not give any names. He was typing on his computer during the interrogation. About half way through the interrogation he asked me whether I wanted a lawyer. He asked me if I knew one and I gave him the name of a lawyer I knew. Then he called the lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to be afraid but did not tell me I had the right to silence.
8. Then the interrogator showed me a document written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign it but I refused to sign and asked for a translation. Then he left the room and came back with a document in Arabic. The document said I was brought to Etzion police station and that I was going to be taken to Ofer prison and that I was not hurt. I signed the Arabic document.
9. Then I was taken to another room where I was searched in my clothes. I was then driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched again in my clothes and then I was put in Section 13.
10. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My father was in court and my lawyer asked for my release on bail but the military judge rejected the request. I had five appearances in the military court and during this time I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel.
11. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison fined NIS 1,000. In addition was given a suspended sentence of three months valid for three years. I was sentenced without a lawyer present because the lawyers were on strike. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted the whole thing to be over because the trip from Megiddo to Ofer for the hearings was exhausting and I could not take it any longer.
12. I spent three months in Megiddo prison and then I was transferred back to Ofer prison. My parents visited me about two months after my arrest because the permit took that long to be issued.
13. I was released from Ofer prison on 13 September 2017, and I arrived home after midnight. Lots of family and friends were waiting to greet me. In prison I studied Hebrew, Arabic and mathematics. I want to quit school because I am finding it hard.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.M.S.G. of Sabastiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking with a friend on the road near the archeological site at around 5:30 p.m. At the time there were some Israeli settlers nearby but there were no clashes. All of a sudden a group of Israeli soldiers appeared from a nearby olive grove. They fired shots in the air and started to chase us. I could not run fast enough and the soldiers caught me.
2. The soldiers immediately started to beat me all over my body using their guns. They talked to me in Hebrew but I did not understand what they were saying. Then they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight. Then they took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Shave Shomron.
3. At the settlement I was taken to a courtyard and a doctor examined me. He removed the blindfold and then put it back on when he was finished. Then I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Ariel settlement where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator had a tape recorder in the room. He removed the blindfold and before he started to question me, he told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he allowed me to speak to my parents on the phone and I told them I was at Ariel police station. I did not speak to a lawyer.
5. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and told me there were soldiers who saw me. He spoke to me in a loud voice. I denied the accusation. The interrogator did not show me any photographic evidence and did not confront me with the soldiers. I asked for a drink and to use the toilet and the interrogator allowed me after I pleaded with him.
6. Then the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and told me it was identical to what I had told him and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign and told him I wasn't going to sign anything I did not understand. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints. I was then blindfolded again and taken back to a jeep which drove for about an hour to Huwwara military base.
7. At Huwwara I was strip-searched and then taken to a cell where the tie and the blindfold were removed. I spent a night at Huwwara.

8. The following morning I was shackled and handcuffed and put in a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The carrier drove for a long time to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. We arrived there at around 1:00 p.m. At Megiddo I was searched with my clothes on and then taken to the juvenile section.
9. On Sunday, 9 April 2017, I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed but my lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned.
10. I had six military court hearings. During this time I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, for two nights but then I was taken back to Megiddo. At the last hearing I was sentenced to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a one year suspended sentence valid for five years for throwing stones at a military jeep and causing damage to the jeep.
11. I ended up spending 4 months in prison and I was released on 6 August 2017. I went home by myself from Al Jalama checkpoint because my parents did not know I was going to be released. In prison I did not study.

- 1, I was walking with a friend near the archeological site when a group of Israeli soldiers suddenly appeared out of an olive grove. They fired shots at us and then chased us and caught us. As soon as they caught me they beat me all over my body. I was then blindfolded and handcuffed tightly to the front with metal handcuffs. I was then put in the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
2. The jeep drove for about five minutes to the nearby settlement of Shave Shomron. At the settlement I was put in a courtyard where I sat on the ground until around 9:00 p.m. Then I was put in a police car, where I sat on a seat in the back, and we drove to the police station in Ariel settlement. On arrival at Ariel I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept my handcuffs on. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I told him I was not going to say a word before I was allowed to speak to a lawyer and to my family. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to sign any documents.
4. Then the interrogator repeated the accusation and I told him I did not throw stones at anyone. Then he told me soldiers saw me throwing stones and that they were willing to testify against me. I continued to deny the accusation. I was interrogated for about 90 minutes. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.
5. In the end the interrogator told me even if I did not confess, the soldiers' testimonies against me were enough to convict me. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
6. After the interrogation my photograph and fingerprints were taken. Then I was put in a vehicle which took me to Huwwara military base. At Huwwara I was strip searched and put in a cell where my handcuffs were removed. I spent a night in this cell.
7. The following day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. While at Megiddo I had six military court hearings. My parents did not attend the first hearing because they were not notified.
8. At my last military court hearing I was sentenced to seven months in prison based on the soldiers' testimonies. My lawyer appealed and the sentence was reduced to four months and a fine of NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of four months valid for five years.

9. I spent my entire sentence at Megiddo prison except for two days when I was transferred to Ofer prison because of problems among the prisoners at Megiddo. I did not study while in prison because it was the summer holiday and there were no classes. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 6 August 2017 at around 6:00 p.m.

I, H.M.H.Z. of Qaddura refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 11:00 a.m. I went to an area near Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, to demonstrate because it was national prisoner's day. There were Israeli soldiers in the area and very quickly clashes erupted. Then I was surprised by a group of soldiers who ambushed us from behind. More than 20 soldiers and about seven military jeeps started to chase us.
2. I started to run as fast as I could but a military jeep drove behind me and nearly ran me over and I fell to the ground. Some soldiers immediately grabbed me and started to beat me. They also swore at me calling me "a son of a whore" and "a brother of a whore". One soldier punched me in the face and my nose started to bleed and I felt pain in my eye. Another beat me with his gun on my back and then handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful.
3. Then the soldiers started to push me over the terraces on a hill. I fell to the ground and I was hurt. A soldier also deliberately pushed me over some barbed wire and my trousers were torn and I was cut and bleeding.
4. Then I was taken to a courtyard near Ofer prison and a group of soldiers started to swear at me saying bad things about my religion. They also deliberately pushed me around. Then a soldier told me to wash the blood off my face and then took a photo of me. Some soldiers told me to work for them which I understood to mean they wanted me to become a collaborator. I was left in the courtyard for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem.
5. At Atarot I was left in a room for about four hours. During this time I saw my father from a distance. He later told me he had come to the police station to check on me after he heard I was run over by a military jeep. He refused to leave the police station until he was sure I was alright. I was not given any food and I was allowed to use the toilet. I remained handcuffed. At around 5:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. My father did not attend the interrogation even though he came to the police station. I was taken to a back room where a commander and a soldier were looking at video footage of the clashes. They did not inform me of my rights. One soldier asked me to kiss the commander's hand but I ignored him and refused. Then he showed me the footage and asked me to name the boys but I told him I did not know them. When I refused to say names the soldier threatened to shoot me and to demolish our house. Then another interrogator came and took me to a separate room. This interrogator pretended to be the nice guy.

7. The second interrogator removed the handcuffs and quickly mumbled something about rights but I did not understand what he meant. Then he asked me whether I needed anything and I said no. Then he turned on a tape recorder and immediately accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He also accused me of throwing Molotov cocktails and of incitement and of taking part in protests. I denied all the accusations and told him I was just watching. Then he showed me some more footage and I confessed to throwing two stones which missed.
8. I was interrogated for about 45 minutes and in the end I was shown a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic. I was told it was my statement and I should sign it which I did.
9. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and brought me some food. After I ate I was taken to a room where I sat on the floor until around 3:00 a.m. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep which drove to Ofer prison.
10. On arrival at Ofer prison I was strip searched and a soldier asked me to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken into Section 13. By then it was around 4:00 a.m. I was never examined by a doctor although it was clear I was physically hurt.
11. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. Both my parents were there and my lawyer and the military judge extended my detention. I still had a bruised eye but the judge did not see it. The hearing took a few minutes and all the paperwork to extend my detention had already been prepared. When I asked my lawyer to tell the judge I had been beaten the lawyer told me this would not make any difference and dismissed my request.
12. In all I had about eight military court hearings. The prosecutor asked for one year in prison and a NIS 2,000 fine. Then my lawyer and the prosecutor agreed on a plea bargain where I would be sentenced to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 4,000 - but my father rejected this offer. There were more negotiations and in the end I accepted a plea bargain where I was sentenced to eight months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for five years. I was sentenced after I had already spent seven months in prison.
13. I spent my prison sentence in Ofer prison and my parents visited me five times. The first visit was three months after my arrest because the permit took this long to be issued.
14. I was released on 26 November 2017, and I went home with my father and younger brothers and a group for friends who had come to greet me. I cried when I saw my younger brothers and they cried too. I was very happy to be home. I appreciated the taste of freedom only after I had lost it. In prison I studied Arabic and Hebrew.

Name: M.A.K.M.
Age: 16
Date: 19 April 2017
Location: Beit Ummar, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.A.K.M. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was fast asleep when I heard loud banging at our front door. It was around 2:30 a.m. I got up and went downstairs with my brother to open the door. About 20 Israeli soldiers, all of whom were masked, immediately stormed into our home and asked for our identity cards. They then checked our names against a list. When the commander saw my name he told me I was under arrest.
2. I was in shock because I was not expecting it. My mother told the commander I was not involved in any wrong doing and pleaded with him not to arrest me but he did not listen to her. He allowed me to change and to say goodbye to my family. I was then taken outside. The soldiers did not give my family any documents.
3. Once outside my hands were tied behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not tight or painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The soldiers around me were laughing loudly as they kicked me. A soldier also flicked his finger in my eye and I felt my eye was about to pop.
4. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur where I was left on the floor of a shipping container, tied and blindfolded, until around 8:00 a.m. I could not sleep at all. Then I was taken in a jeep to the police station in Etzion settlement at about 9:00 a.m.
5. At Etzion I was examined by a doctor who asked me some medical questions while I was still tied and blindfolded.
6. At around 10:00 a.m. a person took me behind the shipping container and slapped me and told me I had to confess to throwing Molotov cocktails. He grabbed me by my T-shirt and told me someone had asked him to "take care of me" meaning he was told to beat me up and treat me badly. I was shocked when he slapped me because I was still tied and blindfolded.
7. This person told me his name was captain "Omar". He did not inform me of any rights. Then he struck me in the stomach with a baton and beat me on my shoulder and head. He also swore at me saying bad things about my religion. This went on for about an hour and in the end I confessed because I could not take any longer. I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail.

8. After I confessed the interrogator called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess but I told him I had already confessed.
9. Then I was taken to a room where a person in civilian clothes removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He asked me to repeat the confession I gave outside and told me he needed to type it up on the computer and told me he would then send me home. He also did not inform me of any rights.
10. I repeated what I had told the first interrogator and the second interrogator recorded what I said on a tape recorder and typed into a computer. This lasted for about 30 minutes. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did without understating what it said.
11. After signing a statement my photograph and fingerprints were taken and I was searched in my underwear.
12. Then I was taken to a cell where they removed the ties and brought me some food which I found unappetizing and did not eat. After about an hour I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my underwear again and taken to Section 13. By then it was around 11:00 p.m. I ate and went to bed.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend because they were not informed of the hearing and the proceedings was adjourned.
14. In all I had about 18 appearances in the military court. In the course of these hearings my lawyer told the court I was beaten and the judge summoned the interrogator to give a testimony in court. The interrogator did not show up in court although he was summoned many times.
15. In the end my lawyer told the court if the interrogator does not show up the court must take action. Then two interrogators showed up in court and they were cross examined for about four hours. My father and uncle were in court. The judge was very upset when he found out that the person heard in the tape recorder interrogating me was not the same person who showed up in court to testify. My lawyer was upset too and the two interrogators were kicked out of the court room.
16. Then the judge heard me and believed me when I told him I confessed because I was beaten hard. He also made comments about the fact that the file presented by the prosecutor had some missing information like the time of my arrest and the name of the commander who was in charge of the arrest.
17. At the last hearing, which was at the beginning of November 2017, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 11 months in prison and fined NIS 7,000. In addition I was given a suspended sentence of another 18 months in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told I would spend much longer in prison if I rejected it.

18. I spent three out of the 11 months in Megiddo prison, inside Israel (between May and July), the rest of the time I spent at Ofer.
19. In prison I studied mathematics and Arabic but the standard was very low and I did not find it useful at all. My mother visited me in prison about nine times but my father did not because his permits were revoked including his work permit.
20. I was released on 25 February 2018, and I went home with my father and uncles. It was amazing to be home after this long time in prison. My mother had cooked a nice meal and our house was full of people who had come to wish me well.
21. After my release I found out that a suspected collaborator was arrested by the Palestinian Authority about a week after I had been arrested.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.F.T.T. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went to bed at around 1:30 a.m. after watching a football match at the local coffee shop with some friends. At around 2:30 a.m. I woke up to the sound of someone telling me to get up. I looked up and saw three Israeli soldiers in military gear in my bedroom. One of the soldiers was masked. At first I thought I was dreaming but when I rubbed my eyes I realised it was for real.
2. One of the soldiers pulled out a photo album and the masked soldier nodded indicating that they had come to arrest me. I got up and went to the living room where the rest of my family was. I saw about seven soldiers inside our home and many more were outside.
3. The soldiers checked the annex to my father's identity card and then told my parents they wanted to arrest me. They showed my father a document in Hebrew and asked him to sign it but he refused.
4. I was then handcuffed with my hands in front of me and grabbed by the neck and taken outside. The handcuffs were not painful. My sister and mother tried to pull me away from the soldiers but they failed. I wanted to use the toilet but they did not allow me. Outside the house my mother brought me a jacket and trousers and the soldiers allowed me to put them on.
5. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where they covered my head with my hood and I sat on a helmet on the metal floor. The jeep drove to a nearby open area where an Israeli ambulance was waiting. A paramedic asked me some medical questions and I was taken back to the jeep which then drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement. At the entrance to Binyamin a soldier blindfolded me.
6. Then I was taken to a small room where I sat on the floor until around 2:00 p.m. when I was taken for interrogation. During this time a lawyer came to the room and talked to me. He told me to remain silent because if I did I would be sent home. He told me the interrogator would try to scare me to make me talk but that I should not be scared and remain silent. During this time I was not given any food but I had some water and I was allowed to use the toilet. When I tried to fall asleep a soldier would call me and wake me up.
7. There were three interrogators in the room. One of them removed my handcuffs and gave me something to eat and told me I had the right to see a lawyer and the right for my parents to attend the interrogation. I later found out that my parents came to Binyamin but they were sent back and told they were not allowed to attend my interrogation because I was accused of a security offence.

8. The interrogator also told me I had the right to remain silent but if I did speak he would send me home. Then he asked me about an incident in the village when a military jeep was stoned. He wanted to know who the person was who opened the jeep's door and tried to attack the soldier. I told him I wanted to remain silent until a lawyer was present. When I said this he raised his voice at me and told me to talk. He repeated the same questions and asked me to identify some boys he showed me in a picture taken during the same incident. I insisted on my right to remain silent and told him I wasn't going to speak. I had learned this from my father who told me if I ever get arrested I should remain silent and refrain from giving any information without a lawyer.
9. Then he typed up something in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused. I also learned not to sign documents from my father. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and the other two interrogators tried to urge me to answer the questions. I did not confess to anything and did not give any information or names.
10. At around 5:30 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken into Section 13. I had dinner and went to bed because I was exhausted.
11. I had my first military court hearing on the 26 April 2017. My mother and sister attended and my lawyer too. The hearing was adjourned. I had about 18 military court hearings which my family attended except for one.
12. During this time I was taken for interrogation two more times. The first was on the 28 April 2017, and the same interrogator repeated the same questions and I told him I wanted to remain silent. The second interrogation was by an intelligence officer on the 29 April 2017. The intelligence officer repeated the same questions but he was more aggressive and raised his voice at me. He wanted me to answer his questions and I told him I wanted to remain silent. At one point he took out his pistol and put on the table in front of me and left the room. All three interrogations were audio-visually recorded.
13. After many hearings the prosecutor requested a prison sentence of 12 months or a fine of NIS 12,000 for throwing stones at soldiers. My parents told the military court they were not going to pay this amount to release me. Then I was offered a plea bargain of six months in prison but my lawyer was able to reduce this to three months and a fine of NIS 3,000 fine in addition to a suspended sentence of six months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to get out of prison as quickly as possible. My lawyer told me if I rejected the plea bargain they were going to send me back for more interrogation and keep me in prison. He recommended that I accept the bargain and I did.
14. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer prison. During this time I studied Arabic, English and mathematics. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not issued a visiting permit in time.

15. I was released on 19 July 2017, at around 5:00 p.m. My parents and relatives waited for me outside Ofer but I was released at Beit Sira checkpoint and my lawyer informed my family and they took me home.

Name: A.S.Y.T.
Age: 16
Date: 24 April 2017
Location: An Nabi Saleh, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.S.Y.T. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went home at around 1:30 a.m. after watching a football match between Barcelona and Real Madrid with some friends in the courtyard outside our house. I was very pleased because Barcelona had won the game and I went to bed at around 2:00 a.m.
2. At around 2:30 a.m. I heard my mother's voice shouting "why do you want to arrest him?". She was talking about my older brother. I got up to see what was going on and I saw my father talking to a group of Israeli soldiers in our living room as they tied my brother's hands.
3. I said good-bye to my brother and went to my grandmother's room but a soldier prevented me from doing so. He asked me for my name and age and then went to talk to a masked person in the jeep waiting outside the house. Then the soldier came back and told another soldier to tie my hands because they wanted to arrest me too.
4. The soldier handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful. Then he wanted to take me outside but my mother told him I needed to put on some warm clothes. She threw a jacket over my shoulders and I managed to change my trousers. Then I said good-bye to my family and the soldiers took me out. Outside the house my uncle told me not to confess. When I responded to my uncle the soldier who was holding me painfully pressed on my neck.
5. Then they took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on a seat. Young men from the village started to throw stones at the jeep and the soldiers responded with tear gas. All the tear gas went inside the jeep and I found it difficult to breathe. A soldier then took my jacket and covered my face with it.
6. The jeep drove towards the petrol station in the village and a soldier swore at me saying I was "a son of a whore". I yelled back at him and told him there was no need to verbally abuse and humiliate me. When I complained to the commander the soldier pushed me off the seat and on to the floor.
7. The jeep then drove to the nearby military watchtower at the entrance to the village where it stopped and somebody examined me and asked me some medical questions. A group of soldiers took a picture with me as they made fun of my T-Shirt which had Messi's name on it. They started to call me Messi. Then I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement.

8. At Benjamin I was taken to a room where I sat on the floor facing the wall. I was not allowed to speak to anyone. While waiting a lawyer visited me and told me to remain silent during the interrogation and whatever the interrogator asks me I should tell him I am remaining silent. During this time I asked to use the toilet and I was allowed.
9. At around 2:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation. The interrogator did not remove the handcuffs and asked me for my name and showed me a document written in Hebrew, English and Arabic saying the police won't allow my parents to attend the interrogation and that I had the right to remain silent and anything I say may be used against me in court. The document also said I had the right to see a lawyer. Then he asked me to sign it and I did.
10. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on 3 March 2017, during clashes in the village. I denied the accusation and told him on that date I was at my grandparents' house visiting my sick grandfather. He interrupted me and repeated the accusation assertively.
11. Then he showed me a picture and told me the boy seen throwing stones in the picture was me. I denied it was me and denied the accusation. Then he wanted me to identify other boys in the picture and I told him I wanted to remain silent. He kept insisting that I tell him who the boys were and to confess but I remained silent. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and the interrogator occasionally banged the table.
12. At around 5:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where they took my fingerprints and photograph. A soldier wanted to strip search me and I objected and told him I wasn't going to strip. The soldier insisted and told me he was just doing his job and I felt I had no choice so I pulled my trousers down and the soldier asked me to crouch up and down several times while naked. Then I was taken to Section 13 and I went to bed because I was very tired.
13. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer military court. My sister and mother and my lawyer were there and the hearing was adjourned to allow for further interrogation. Two days later I was taken for interrogation at Benjamin settlement. The same interrogator was there and he showed me a document saying I had the right to silence and the right to see a lawyer. Then he accused me of attempting to kill a soldier and of attempting to steal his weapon and of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusations. I also told the interrogator I wanted to remain silent. Then the interrogator showed me a picture and said the boy seen throwing stones was me but I denied it. Again I told him I wanted to remain silent and I did.
14. The interrogator lost his temper and then started to ask me questions about my brother. He wanted to know where my brother worked. Then he told me my brother had confessed against me but I did not believe him. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused because I worried he may have added something I did not say that would incriminate me. The interrogation was quick and I was taken back to Ofer prison.

15. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court but the lawyers were on strike and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 15 military court hearings which my family attended. On the last hearing, which was on 24 July 2017, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for three years. I had to accept the plea bargain because my lawyer told me the prosecutor was asking for 10 months in prison and a fine of NIS 12,000 on the basis of the photographic evidence. I felt I had no choice.
16. I spent my entire sentence at Ofer prison. My parents did not visit me because they were not issued a permit in time.
17. I was released on 1 August 2017, but my parents were not informed so they were not there to take me home. I used the telephone of the kiosk keeper outside Ofer prison to call them. In prison I did not study because it was the summer holiday. I played table tennis and lifted weights and I cleaned the rooms and washed dishes.

Name: A.S.A.O.
Date: 24 April 2017
Location: An Nabi Saleh, West Bank
Accusation: Attacking a military vehicle

I, A.S.A.O. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. She told me to get up because Israeli soldiers had come our home looking for me. I got dressed and went to the living room where I saw a group of soldiers talking to my father. They told him they wanted to take me for questioning and would return me home afterwards. They did not give us any documents and I did not ask what they were going to question me about.
2. I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful and taken out of our house. Once outside I was also blindfolded. I was then put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a metal bench. The jeep then drove to the nearby settlement of Halamish.
3. On arrival at Halamish I was taken out of the jeep and a doctor examined me. He removed the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health and whether I was beaten by the soldiers. Then I was blindfolded again and the soldiers took me back to the jeep which drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement. We arrived at Binyamin at around 4:00 a.m.
4. At Benyamin I was taken to a room where they removed the blindfold but kept me handcuffed. I sat on the ground and there were soldiers in the room who were sitting on chairs. They made me sit on the ground facing the wall from 4:00 a.m. until around 3:30 p.m. During this time they brought me some food but I did not eat and they allowed me to use the toilet.
5. During this time I was taken to another room where I met a lawyer. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to say anything or answer any questions. At around 3:30 p.m. I was shackled and then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. Before he questioned me he gave me a document in Arabic which said I had the right to remain silent. It also said I was not physically abused or beaten during the interrogation. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign this document and I did. I later found out he had called my father and asked him to come to the police station to attend the interrogation but my father refused.
7. The interrogator told me he wanted to question me about an incident which took place in the village when a military jeep was attacked. He showed me some photographs of the incident. When I denied that I was involved in the incident the interrogator banged the table aggressively in an attempt to scare me. He told me he had the power to lock me up in prison for up to five years. He questioned me for about 90 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation.

8. In the end he printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign because I did not trust him. Then they took my photograph and my fingerprints and gave me another medical examination.
9. After the interrogation I waited in a corridor with other detainees from my village. I later found out they were listening in on our conversation but what we talked about was not used against us later in court.
10. Later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where we arrived at around 6:00 p.m. On arrival at Ofer I was strip-searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to the juvenile section. I had dinner and went to bed.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they did not know I had a hearing but my lawyer came. The hearing was adjourned.
12. The following day I was taken back to Benyamin police station for another interrogation. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but it won't do me any good if I chose to remain silent. Then he showed me some photographs of the same incident and accused me of being involved but I denied it. Then I was taken back to Ofer.
13. Two days later I was taken for a third interrogation at Benyamin. This interrogator was an older person and he was accompanied by a policeman. He told me he had 33 years of experience as an interrogator and accused me of attempting to murder a soldier and I denied the accusation. He asked me whether I wanted to spend 20 years in prison and told me if I did not then I had to confess.
14. The following day I had another military court hearing which was adjourned. In all I had about 25 appearances in court. My charge sheet included attempting to steal a weapon from a soldier. My lawyer asked for me to be released on bail but the request was rejected.
15. On 18 June 2017, I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel and was transferred back to Ofer prison in the West Bank on 22 July 2017.
16. On the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 5,000. I also received a seven-month suspended sentence suspended for five years. I accepted the bargain because if I did not I was going to face at least 18 months in prison. This is what my lawyer told me.
18. I was released from Ofer prison on 28 August 2017. My parents were not there to meet me because there was some confusion and a delay because of payment of the fine. Outside Ofer I called my parents and they came and took me home. In prison I studied and I sat for my final high school exams and I got good grades.

Name: S.A.M.Q.
Date: 25 April 2017
Location: Beit Fajjar, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, S.A.M.Q. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I heard loud banging at our front door at around 2:00 a.m. My mother answered the door and four Israeli soldiers entered our home. They told my mother they wanted to take me for questioning because I was suspected of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. They gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest.
2. I said goodbye to my family and the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. Then I was put in the back of a military jeep and made me sit on a seat. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement.
3. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a room where I waited on a chair. I could not sleep. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. As soon as I entered the room he removed the tie and told me he and I needed to be cordial with each other and therefore I had to confess to throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. He did not inform me of any rights. I denied the accusation. He repeated the same accusation again and told me there were confessions against me from other boys. Still, I denied the accusation again.
5. The interrogator left the room many times and kept me waiting. As a result the interrogation went on for a long time, maybe five or six hours. He kept repeating the same accusation and told me a boy from the village gave a confession against me. I held out and did not confess.
6. At the end of the interrogation he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and he called one and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me he would see me in court and told me not to confess. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silent but the lawyer in court told me not to say anything in court. Then the interrogator showed me some documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did without understanding anything.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother was in court and my lawyer and the hearing was adjourned.

8. I had about 10 hearings and in the end I accepted a plea bargain of nine months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison suspended for five years. My conviction was based on the confession provided by another boy. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told by the lawyer I would face a higher sentence if I rejected it. The lawyer told me I would spend 15 months in prison if I rejected the bargain.
9. During my prison time I was transferred to Megiddo prison inside Israel where I spent about six weeks. I was then transferred back to Ofer prison and I was released from Ofer on 3 January 2018.
10. My mother visited me in prison about nine times. I did not study in prison because I don't go to school anymore. I want to work and earn money to support my mother and sisters. I am finding it hard to adjust to life outside prison where I got used to the routine. Soldiers come to my village all the time, especially at night, and when they come to our neighbourhood I worry.

Testimony 503

Name: J.M.Y.A.
Age: 15
Date: 26 April 2017
Location: Deir Abu Mish'al, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, J.M.Y.A. of Deir Abu Mish'al, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers at the entrance to my village earlier in the day. When things calmed down I took my bike to buy bread from the bakery at around 4:00 p.m. On the way I was suddenly surprised by a group of about 20 soldiers who appeared from an olive grove. They immediately attacked me and pushed me off my bike without any reason. I tried to run away but a soldier hit me hard on my leg and fractured it. I was in severe pain.
2. The soldiers then took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. Inside the jeep they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for days.
3. The jeep drove towards the nearby military base where I was left on the ground in an outdoor area for about two hours. Then I was taken back to the jeep which drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement. We arrived at Binyamin at around 10:00 p.m. and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a tape recorder on the table and he turned it on. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He did not inform me of my rights and started by telling I was like a son to him. He then accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he told me five soldiers had seen me throwing stones but I continued to deny the accusation.
5. Then the interrogator showed me photos on his mobile phone of young men throwing stones and wanted me to give him their names. He promised to send me home if I did. I told him I did not know the boys in the photos. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. In the end he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. Then they took my photograph and my fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth.
6. After the interrogation I was examined by a doctor. I told the doctor about the pain in my leg but he did not do anything. When I told him I was beaten by a soldier he, and another soldier in the room, made fun of me. After the medical exam I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to Section 13. The other prisoners gave me some food and I went to bed.

7. A few days later a senior prisoner complained to the prison authorities about the pain in my leg. As a result I was taken to a clinic at Ramleh prison, inside Israel, where I was examined. The X-ray showed I had a fracture in my shin bone. They put me in plaster and then sent me back to Ofer. While at the clinic, and during the examination, I was shackled and handcuffed and I felt very uncomfortable.
8. On 3 May 2017, I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were in court but there was no lawyer because the lawyers were on strike. The hearing was adjourned.
9. The following day I was taken for another interrogation at Binyamin police station. The second interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. Before he asked me any questions he gave me a document in Hebrew and Arabic which said I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to silence. I understood this to mean I had to remain silent and listen to the interrogator while he spoke and that I could only speak when he stopped. He asked me to sign this document and I did.
10. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything I did not do. Then the interrogator told me I had to confess. I told him I did not do anything to confess about. Then he told me soldiers saw me throwing stones. I told him the soldiers were not telling the truth. He banged the table occasionally and started to speak in a loud voice in Hebrew when he became angry. I insisted that I was innocent and told him the soldiers were liars.
11. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did because I was scared. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and I was then taken back to Ofer prison.
12. In total I had about 20 military court hearings and three different lawyers who kept telling me I was going to be released. But the hearings kept being adjourned and I was not released. They also kept amending my charge sheet and each time I was able to prove something was wrong with the charge sheet they would amend it.
13. On the last hearing I was told there was secret evidence against me and the prosecutor was requesting 15 months imprisonment for me. I was shocked. My lawyer then negotiated a plea bargain with the prosecutor and I was sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 5,000. I accepted the plea bargain although I was innocent because I wanted to get out of prison as soon as possible and in time for the new school year.
14. I was released on 3 September 2017, and I went home with my parents. In prison I studied Arabic and Mathematics and my family visited me twice. While I was in prison my mother gave birth to a baby boy and I was very happy to see him and hold him.

Name: A.F.A.O.
Date: 27 April 2017
Location: Kafr Qaddum, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.F.A.O. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. when I heard commotion outside our house. Israeli soldiers had jumped over the fence into our courtyard and then started to bang at our front door. My father answered and some soldiers entered and told my father to bring everyone to the living room.
2. When we were in the living room the commander asked me for my name and then told me to get my identity card. I told him I was too young to have an identity card but he thought I was lying and lost his temper. Then he checked my age on my father's identity card and told my father I was under arrest. He told me to change and then took me outside the house without giving my family any documents.
3. Once outside the soldiers blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties connected to each other. The ties were very tight. Then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove a short distance to the settlement of Qedumim.
4. When we arrived at the settlement I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair and a doctor examined me. The doctor removed the blindfold and asked me whether I suffered from any illnesses and then blindfolded me again.
5. A soldier then brought me some food but I could not eat because I was still tied and blindfolded. I asked them to remove the ties and the blindfold so that I could eat but they refused. I remained there until around 9:00 a.m. At around 9:00 a.m. I was put in a police car and taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. We arrived at the settlement at around 11:00 a.m. and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of any rights and immediately accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He told me he had photographic evidence against me. I denied the accusation and told him this was not true because I did not throw stones at soldiers. Then he told me it was better for me to confess because if I did not he was going to lock me up in prison for a long time. He also told me my future would be destroyed because I would not be able to enter university and I would not be given a permit to work in Israel.
7. I was interrogated for about three hours. In the end the interrogator asked for my father's number and called him and told him to come to the police station. My father came to the police station and he was allowed to attend that last part of the interrogation. Then I was taken to another room where I was interrogated by another interrogator.

8. The second interrogator also did not inform me of my rights and showed me a picture of a boy throwing stones at soldiers and claimed the boy was me. The boy had a mask on his face and I told the interrogator this was not me. He then wanted to know who the boy was if it wasn't me. I told him I did not recognise the boy. Then he asked me for names of boys who take part in protests in the village and I told him I had nothing to do with protests because I focus on my school work.
9. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator did not ask me to sign any documents. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to the commander in charge and brought my father in. The commander asked me some questions in the presence of my father. He asked me general questions and the main purpose was to warn me in front of my father and to deter me from taking part in protests. The commander kept us for about 30 minutes and did not allow my father to say anything.
10. At around 5:30 p.m. I was released without charge and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.

Name: M.R.D.S.
Age: 15
Date: 7 May 2017
Location: Tuqu', West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.R.D.S. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of banging at our front door. I don't know who answered but I got up and went to the living room where I found a group of Israeli soldiers inside the house asking for me. They talked to my father and gave him a document in Hebrew but we didn't understand what it said. Then the soldiers asked to see my birth certificate and then told me to get dressed because I was under arrest.
2. After I dressed I was taken out of our house where I was blindfolded and my hands were tied behind my back with one plastic tie. The tie was very tight and painful. By this time young men from the neighbourhood started to throw stones at the soldiers. In response the soldiers put me in front and used me as a human shield. I was lucky not to be hurt.
3. I was then put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove towards the entrance to the village where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination and then he put it back on afterwards. I was then taken to the military watchtower where I sat on a chair for about three hours.
4. After about three hours I was taken back to the jeep which drove towards the nearby military base where I was put in a shipping container until around 8:00 a.m. Then I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator did not immediately remove the tie and the blindfold and did not inform me of my rights. He started by saying he was like a father to me and that I had to tell him the truth and tell him everything. I told him I did not understand what he wanted from me. Then he accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktail at soldiers. When I denied the accusation he became very angry and asked me to lift my hands up and then stuck his fingers in my stomach. He also slapped me. I was terrified.
6. He interrogated me for about four hours and in the end I confessed to throwing stones at soldiers because I did not want him to implicate me in more serious offences. I was also very scared and did not want him to physically abuse me anymore. I confessed to throwing a stone with a slingshot but missed the target.
7. After I had confessed the interrogator gave me a document which said I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he printed out a document in Hebrew and when I asked him what it was he told me it was a document about my release.

He asked me to sign it and I did. I later realised it was my statement and had nothing to do with my release.

8. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then the interrogator showed me an aerial image of my village and pointed to some houses and wanted me to tell him who lived in those houses. I told him I did not know. He also asked me to confess against other boys from the village and to say that they throw stones but I told him I did not know anyone. Then they searched me in my underwear and then took me to a room where I waited for about two hours.
9. After about two hours I was handcuffed and shackled and taken to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The carrier drove me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On arrival at Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing but my lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. I had more than 10 military court hearings which my parents attended and I was allowed to speak to them. At the last hearing I was sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence of four months suspended for three years. I do not know whether there was a plea bargain or not.
11. I spent my entire prison sentence at Ofer where I studied Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I was released on 23 August 2017.

Name: M.A.A.S.
Age: 16
Date: 8 May 2017
Location: Tuqu', West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, M.A.A.S. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 1:30 a.m. to the sound of commotion in the neighbourhood. Then I heard loud banging at our front door. My mother answered and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our house and told her they had come to arrest me. They said I was accused of throwing stones at soldiers. They told her they were going to take me to the police station in Etzion settlement for questioning.
2. I was allowed to get dressed and then I was taken outside where I was blindfolded. My hands were also tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were not painful. I was then put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the floor but when the jeep started to move they allowed me to sit on the seat.
3. The jeep drove towards the entrance to the village where it stopped by the military watchtower. I was taken inside the watchtower and a doctor examined. I stayed inside the watchtower for about an hour.
4. After about an hour I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to a military base. I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair for about 90 minutes. After about 90 minutes I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about an hour to Etzion police station.
5. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a room where I sat on the floor in a corner for about two hours. I was still tied and blindfolded. Every now and then people walked in and kicked and slapped me hard. I think they were soldiers. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator did not remove the ties and the blindfold and did not inform me of my rights. He immediately accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers on the main road. He also accused me of throwing pipe bombs at soldiers inside the village. When I denied all the accusations the interrogator became angry. He raised his voice at me and slapped me hard. I was in such pain that I confessed. I did not want him to implicate me in more serious offences. After I had confessed the interrogator allowed me to speak to my parents and to a lawyer.
7. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and told me it was identical to what I had told him and that they would never be unfair to me. He removed the blindfold and asked me to sign it and I did and then blindfolded me again.

8. After I signed the statement I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then they searched me in my underwear and took me to a cell where they removed the ties and the blindfold. I stayed in the cell until around 2:00 a.m.
9. At around 2:00 a.m. I was shackled and handcuffed and taken to the back of a troop carrier. The troop carrier drove for about 90 minutes to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched in my underwear and then taken to the juvenile section.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed about it. I had about 20 military court appearances. At the last appearance I was sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000 based on my confessions. My lawyer appealed the fine because my father is unemployed and the court cancelled the fine and imposed an additional suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years.
11. I spent my sentence at Ofer prison and I studied a little bit. I was released on 24 August 2017, and I went home with my parents.

Name: K.I.S.S.
Age: 14
Date: 9 May 2017
Location: Beit Ummar, West Bank
Accusation: None

I, K.I.S.S. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep and I woke up to the sound of Israeli soldiers surrounding our house. It was 4:00 a.m. Then I heard loud banging at our front door. My mother answered and a large group of soldiers entered the house and ordered all of us to gather in one room.
2. The soldiers said they were looking for my brother Ahmad who was not at home that night. The soldiers then searched our house and turned things upside down. They threw things on the floor and the house was a mess.
3. When they did not find my brother the commander said that they would arrest all his male siblings until he handed himself in. The commander then gave my mother a document summoning my brother Ahmad to the police station in Etzion settlement the following day. The commander then gave my mother a document with details about my arrest but he did not tell her where they were taking me.
4. The soldiers then took me outside and tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties. The ties were very tight and painful and caused me severe pain for a long time. I was also blindfolded. I was then put in the back of a jeep where I sat on the floor.
5. The jeep drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to an open area where they made me sit on the ground. It was during Ramadan and I was fasting at the time. As the day got hotter I passed out from the heat and hunger. I asked the soldiers to move me to the shade but they initially refused. I continued to plead with them and eventually a soldier aggressively lifted me up and threw me in the shade.
6. Later that morning I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold. When I complained to him about the ties he cut them off. After the examination I was tied again as before and the ties were tight and painful. Then I was taken to a hot room where my other brothers were being held. By this time I had a severe headache and my hands were painful so I started to shout and scream because I could take it no longer.
7. The soldiers then took me to a cooler room with a fan and allowed me to wash my face and to drink water. Then the soldiers took me and my brothers to a troop carrier which drove for about 90 minutes and stopped at a place I did not recognise. They took my brothers for questioning and told me they were going to question me too but they never did.

8. I asked for food because I was tired and hungry and they brought me some food and I ate. By this time it was around 4:30 p.m. Then I was taken back to the troop carrier with my brothers which took us to Etzion where I was released with one of my brothers at around 7:00 p.m. and we went home. We arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

Name: A.M.T.A.
Date: 11 May 2017
Location: Kafr Qaddum, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.M.T.A. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of strangers inside our home. I got up and went to the living room where a group of Israeli soldiers were asking my father for me. When I identified myself the soldiers told me to get dressed because they were going to take me for questioning. They did not give us any documents and did not give a reason for my arrest. The soldiers had a camera with them and were documenting the arrest.
2. Once I was dressed the soldiers took me outside and made me walk for about 15 minutes towards a military jeep. At the jeep they shackled and handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were tight. Then they put me in the back of the jeep and made me sit on the floor. The jeep drove a short distance to the nearby settlement of Qedumim.
3. At Qedumim I was taken to a courtyard. I asked the soldiers to release the handcuffs as they were causing me pain but instead a soldier slapped me. Then I was examined by a doctor who asked me some medical questions. I remained at the settlement until around 7:00 a.m.
4. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken back to the jeep where I sat on the floor again. The jeep drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Ariel settlement. At Ariel I was put in a courtyard where I sat on a chair until around 2:00 p.m. I asked several times to use the toilet and they finally allowed me to use it when they realised I was desperate. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator questioned me while I was handcuffed. He asked me to sign a document which said I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. I told the interrogator I wanted to see a lawyer but he told me the lawyers were on strike. The interrogator then accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and showed me a picture of a boy throwing stones and told me the boy was me. I denied it was me and told him I did not throw stones at soldiers. At this point he raised his voice at me and repeated the accusation. I continued to deny it. I was interrogated for about 30 minutes and then I was taken back to the courtyard for about 15 minutes and then I was interrogated again.
6. The interrogator repeated the same accusations and I continued to deny them. In the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and told me it was my statement and asked me to sign it. I refused to sign. Then he took my photograph and fingerprints.

7. I was then blindfolded and taken to a police car where I sat on a seat and the car drove for about an hour to Huwwara military base. At Huwwara I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to a cell where they removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and I spent a night.
8. The following morning I was shackled and handcuffed and taken to a troop carrier which took me to the military court at Salem. My parents were not in the military court because they were not informed of my appearance but a lawyer was there. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel.
9. At Megiddo I was searched in my clothes and then taken to the juvenile section. A few days later I was taken back to the military court but the hearing was adjourned because the judge wanted the soldier who claimed to have seen me throwing stones to appear as a witness.
10. The soldier did not show up at the next hearing and the judge decided to release me on bail for lack of evidence. My parents had to pay NIS 1,000 as bail. I was released on 25 May 2017 at Salem and I went home with my parents.

Name: F.A.S.H.
Date: 14 May 2017
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, F.A.S.H. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About two months before I was arrested Israeli soldiers came to our house at around 2:00 a.m. looking for me and my brother, but we were not home. My mother told the commander to give her a summons and she would bring us to the police station. The commander told her there was no need for a summons because he knew how to get us when he wanted us.
2. On 14 May 2017, my mother received a phone call at around 8:30 a.m. telling her to bring me and my older brother to the police station in Etzion settlement for questioning. We all went to the police station as ordered. My older brother was questioned for about two hours and then he was released. My mother had a sense of relief thinking I would be questioned and released within two hours too, but she was wrong.
3. I was taken into the interrogation room at around 12:00 p.m. As soon as I entered the interrogator wished me well because I had fractured my arm playing football the day before and I was in plaster. Then he told me he wanted to ask me a couple of questions and then he would send me home. He told me he was a straightforward man and had a dislike for people who told lies.
4. The interrogator then he wanted to know when I threw stones. I told him I never threw stones. Then he mentioned some names and asked me whether I knew those people and I told him I did not.
5. Then he accused me of throwing Molotov cocktails after the funeral of a person who was shot dead by soldiers. I denied the accusation and told him I had no idea how to make Molotov cocktails and that I was not involved in any resistance. When he heard my response he accused me of lying and started to count my "lies" saying "one".
6. Then he accused me of throwing a paint bottle at a military watchtower. When I denied this accusation he told me this was my second lie and counted "two". Then he accused me of throwing stones. Again I denied the accusation and I told him I was only interested in my school work. He accused me of continuing to lie. Then he showed me some photographs and wanted me to identify the people in the photographs. I told him I did not know anyone.
7. Then he lost his temper and started to raise his voice and to swear at me. He called me "a son of a whore" and told me I had to confess. I told him I had nothing to confess. He took out metal handcuffs and a blindfold and threatened to use them if I did not confess. Then he banged the table and shouted at me saying I had to confess.

8. Half way through the interrogation he showed me a document and asked me whether I could read. The document was in both Hebrew and Arabic and said I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He asked me to sign it and I did. Also half way through the interrogation he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on the phone. The lawyer asked me whether the interrogator had beaten me and told me not to confess.
9. Then another interrogator walked in. He looked scary. He did not inform me of my rights and told me I had to confess. I told him I had nothing to confess. Then he asked me whether I threw stones and I said I did not. Then the first interrogator held my broken arm and twisted it and told me there were confessions against me by other boys and named three boys. I was in severe pain.
10. Then the first interrogator said that in December 2016 I threw stones at soldiers during a funeral. I denied the accusation. Then he told me in January 2017 I threw stones with some friends on Route 60 at a passing settler car. Then he told me on another date in January a settler bus was stoned and I was there and was heard telling my friend who was arrested not to confess. I denied all the accusations.
11. Then a third interrogator entered the room and showed me some photographs of clashes without informing me of my rights. The first interrogator then twisted my broken arm again and punched me in the face. I was in such pain that I told him I threw stones near the mosque. He asked me who I threw stones with and I told him I did it by myself. He asked me whether I was masked and I told him I was not. He typed my confession.
12. After my confession was typed the interrogator phoned the lawyer again and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and I told him I had already confessed. The interrogation lasted for about three hours. I was not given any documents to sign at the end.
13. After the interrogation I was taken to another room where a fourth interrogator told me to repeat what I had told the other interrogators. He did not inform me of my rights but he recorded what I told him. Then the first interrogator walked in and started to make fun of me. He put his glasses on my face and asked me whether I wanted a piece of cake or coffee.
14. The interrogator then told me I had a military court hearing in two days and that they were going to take me to Ofer prison. A soldier blindfolded me and took me to a room where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor asked me why I throw stones and told me I was going to prison. Female soldiers who were around started to swear at me saying “fuck everyone in Al 'Arrub” and “fuck all Arabs”.

15. Then I was taken to a room where the air conditioner was freezing cold. I was left there for about two hours. I sat on a chair and I asked for some water. I tried to fall asleep but a soldier woke me up each time I fell asleep; he kicked me and told me to wake up.
16. At around 4:00 p.m. I was taken to a prison cell in Etzion but the guards refused to admit me. I was left in an outdoor area until around 11:00 p.m. and I could not sleep at all. Then I was taken in a vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
17. At Ofer I was strip searched and examined again by a doctor who removed the plaster. Afterwards I was taken to Section 13.
18. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and brother were in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had around 10 military court hearings and on the last one, which was on 30 October 2017, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a 12-month sentence suspended for 5 years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me if I did not accept it I would spend 9 months in prison.
19. I spent my entire prison sentence at Ofer prison. My mother visited me 9 times. I was released on 22 November 2017.

Testimony 510

Name: N.S.M.S.
Age: 14
Date: 16 May 2017
Location: Azzun, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / setting a fire

I, N.S.M.S. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was still awake at around 2:30 a.m. when I saw on Facebook that Israeli soldiers were in the village making arrests. Shortly afterwards I heard commotion around the house. I looked out the window and I saw a large number of soldiers and military jeeps outside. I realised they were coming to our house.
2. Moments later my 17-year-old sister walked into my bedroom shivering; she could hardly talk. Then I heard loud banging on my uncle's front door; he lives in the same building. Everyone woke up and we heard the soldiers enter my uncle's house. Then they banged at our front door.
3. My father looked for the key but he couldn't find it. Meanwhile the soldiers went mad because he did not open the door immediately. They kept banging more and more aggressively with their guns and boots. My father finally opened the door and a large number of soldiers entered our home. Some of the soldiers had camouflage paint on their faces.
4. The soldiers told my father to gather us in the living room downstairs where my aunt lives. One of the soldiers told my father he wanted to talk to me outside for five minutes. I asked him if I could put some clothes on but he refused and forced me out into the courtyard. The other soldiers remained inside my aunt's living room where all my family members were and they aimed their guns at them.
5. The commander scribbled a note in Hebrew on a piece of paper and asked my father to sign it. The note said I was arrested in my father's presence. My father, who understands some Hebrew, signed the piece of paper and the commander took it with him.
6. Outside our house I saw about 50 soldiers in full military gear. One of them tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left a mark on my wrists for a long time. Five soldiers stood guarding me. At this point I realised it wasn't going to be a few minutes. I remained there in my shorts and T-shirt for about an hour while soldiers searched the house. I heard my father say he wanted me to put on proper clothes but the soldiers refused. In the end they allowed him to bring me some clothes and a soldier removed the tie and allowed me to get dressed and then tied me again.

7. After about an hour the soldiers led me a short distance and put me in the back of a jeep where they blindfolded me. They made me sit on the metal floor and I could feel every bump on the road when the jeep drove away.
8. Inside the jeep a soldier verbally abused me and called my mother and sister "whores". I was very upset and said similar thing back to the soldier. The jeep drove a short distance to the nearby military base at Zufin. At the base I was taken to a small room which was very cold. It felt like I was inside a refrigerator. I sat there until noon without food or drink and without going to the toilet.
9. At one point a female soldier came into the room and put her face very close to mine and I felt uncomfortable. I told her to move back because she had bad breath. She got upset and kicked me and then left. While in the room I sat on a chair and I was able to sleep on and off.
10. At around noon I was examined by a doctor who removed the tie and the blindfold during the examination and put them back on when he was finished. He tied me tightly to the front and I complained and he started to laugh. He then replaced it with a looser tie to the back.
11. Then I was taken to a corridor where I sat on the floor for about 10 minutes and then I was taken to a room with other detainees before being put in a troop carrier which drove to the nearby settlement of Yaqir. A short while later I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. I don't know what time it was when I arrived at Ariel but it was still light. I was then taken for interrogation.
12. The interrogator, who told me his name was "Sharif", removed the tie and the blindfold and told me he was going to release me if I promised not to throw stones again. I told him I did not throw stones and this upset him very much and he started to swear saying bad things about god. He asked me for a telephone number for my lawyer and I told him I did not have a number for a lawyer on me and I asked him to call my father. He called my father and told him I would be in Salem military court the next day, then he hung up.
13. Then he told me if I chose to remain silent that would be fine but it would affect me and I would be convicted. I understood that to mean it wasn't wise to remain silent and refusing to answer questions would cause me troubles. He did not tell me I could talk to a lawyer.
14. Then the interrogator told me he had photographs and video footage of me throwing stones. I denied the accusation and challenged him to show me the photographs and the footage but he never did. The interrogation lasted for about 90 minutes.
15. In the end I confessed to setting tires on fire which is not such a serious offence. I was worried if I did not confess to something I would be released a few days later and people in the village would suspect me of being a collaborator because I was arrested earlier in the year and released within four days.

16. At the end of the interrogation I was shown a document in Hebrew and the interrogator told me to sign it after he translated it for me. I signed it because it was identical to what I had told him.
17. Then I was taken to a troop carrier which drove me to Huwwara military base. The driver went very fast and we arrived at Huwwara in less than 20 minutes. At Huwwara I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to a cell. By this time I was very hungry and thirsty and I started to bang at the door asking for food. In the end the soldiers got sick of the banging and brought me two slices of bread and some water. I spent one night there.
18. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. The trip was exhausting. I was jammed in a small cage-like area inside a vehicle together with another boy. We sat on top of each other. The trip took about three hours. At Salem I was taken straight to court.
19. My parents were at court and I was allowed to speak to them. There was no lawyer to represent me in court because of the lawyers' strike and the hearing was adjourned. After the court I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was strip searched and taken to the juvenile section.
20. I had four more military court hearings and they were all adjourned. At the last hearing I was given the choice of either two months in prison or a NIS 2,000 fine and be released immediately. I chose to pay NIS 2,000.. I was also given six months suspended for two years. I was released from Megiddo on 1 June 2017, at around 6:30 p.m. and I went home with my parents who were waiting for me at Al Jalama checkpoint.
21. I did not study in prison because the level was very low. They offered to teach us the alphabet and simple mathematics like addition and subtraction.

I, K.O.A.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. when I heard loud banging at our front door. I stayed in bed and shortly afterwards my father came into my bedroom together with a group of Israeli soldiers. I was very scared.
2. The commander asked for my name and then told me to get up because I was under arrest. The soldiers did not give us any documents and did not tell us where they were going to take me or why. My father told the soldiers I was too young to go on my own and insisted on accompanying me. In the beginning the commander refused to allow my father to accompany me but my father kept insisting and the commander finally agreed.
3. The soldiers allowed me to put my clothes on then they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then led with my father towards the military base outside our village. We were taken inside the base where we sat on chairs until around 6:00 a.m.
4. At around 6:00 a.m. me and my father were put in the back of a jeep where we sat on the seats. The jeep drove towards the nearby settlement of Zufin. On arrival at Zufin we were put in a shipping container where we sat on seats for about two hours.
5. After two hours a doctor removed my blindfold and examined me and put it back again when he was done. Then we were taken to the settlement of Yaqir.
6. At Yaqir I waited in a shipping container for about an hour. At around 9:30 a.m. my father and I were taken in a police car to the police station in Ariel settlement where we waited in an outdoor area on chairs for about four hours. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. My father and I entered the interrogation room and the interrogator started to ask us some general questions like where we lived and what my father's profession was. Then the interrogator told my father to leave the room and he started to interrogate me on my own.
8. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. I did not speak to a lawyer. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and setting fire to tyres. Then he showed me pictures of a boy throwing stones. Afterwards I confessed to throwing stones.

9. Then the interrogator asked me about my friends and wanted me to confess against them and to give their names. He wanted me to say they throw stones at soldiers. The interrogation lasted for about two hours.
10. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did without understanding what it said. I was too scared to say no. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to where my father was waiting. There they tied and blindfolded me again after they allowed me to use the toilet. We remained there until around 11:00 p.m. I was not given any food during this time.
11. At around 11:00 p.m. my father and I were taken in the back of a police car to Huwwara military base near Nablus. At Huwwara I was searched in my underwear and my father was told to go home. The soldiers removed the tie and the blindfold and I spent one night at Huwwara.
12. The following morning I was handcuffed and shackled and taken in a police car Salem interrogation centre. At Salem a policeman, who had a tape recorder, asked me the same questions. This lasted for about 10 minutes and then I was taken to the military court. My parents did not attend my hearing because they were not informed about it but a lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. After the hearing I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched and taken into the juvenile section.
13. I had two more military court hearings which my parents attended and I was allowed to speak to them. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a three-month sentence suspended for three years.
14. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo where I studied Arabic and mathematics. I was released on 18 July 2017 at around 4:00 p.m. and at Al Jalame checkpoint.

I, M.K.A.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I heard loud banging on our front door at around 4:00 a.m. My father opened the door and Israeli soldiers entered our home and told my father they had come to arrest me. They did not give my father any documents and did not tell us where they were going to take me. They did say they wanted to question me about throwing stones at soldiers.
2. After I put on my clothes the soldiers took me outside where they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another one connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
3. The jeep drove towards the entrance to the village where there is an Israeli military watchtower. At the watchtower I sat on the ground and a doctor examined me. He removed the blindfold and put it back on after he asked me some questions about my health.
4. Then I was put back in the jeep which drove for 15 minutes to a military base I did not recognise. At the military base I was put in a shipping container where I sat on a chair until around 8:00 a.m. During this time I was able to sleep.
5. At around 8:00 a.m. I was put back in the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I sat on the ground in an outdoor area for about an hour and then soldiers led me inside the police station compound to the interrogation room.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept my ties on. He did not inform me of my rights and immediately accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He showed me a photo of someone throwing stones and said it was me. When I denied that it was me the interrogator became angry and slapped me on the face and punched me in the stomach. I was scared and confessed that I threw stones at soldiers.
7. I was interrogated for about an hour. At the end the interrogator called my parents and asked them to appoint a lawyer for me. When I confessed I was taken to see another interrogator who wore an Israeli police uniform and had a tape recorder. The second interrogator repeated the accusation but I told him I had stones in my hands but when I saw soldiers I dropped the stones on the ground.

8. The interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign it and I did. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was searched in my underwear and taken into a cell at Etzion where they removed the ties. I remained there until around 5:00 p.m.
9. At around 5:00 p.m. the soldiers shackled my legs and handcuffed me to the front. I was then taken to a troop carrier which drove to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken into Section 13.
10. While at Ofer I had around 10 military court hearings. My parents did not attend the first one because they were not notified but they attended the rest and I was allowed to speak to them. At my last military court hearing the court decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 1,000. I was released on 21 June 2017.
11. On 23 August 2017, I had a military court hearing and my file was closed. The court was satisfied with the time I had already spent in prison but I was also given a suspended sentence of three months suspended for a year. While in prison I studied Arabic and mathematics.

Name: Q.A.M.A.
Age: 16
Date: 18 May 2017
Location: Kafr Qaddum, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Q.A.M.A. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of banging at our front door. My mother answered and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home and asked for me. The commander told me to prepare myself because I was under arrest. He told my mother he was going to take me for questioning and would return me home shortly afterwards. They did not give us any documents and did not tell us the reason for my arrest or where they were going to take me.
2. The soldiers took me out of the house and handcuffed me to the back with metal handcuffs which were tight. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep drove a short distance to the nearby settlement of Qedumim.
3. On arrival at the settlement I was transferred to a troop carrier which drove for about an hour to Huwwara military base near Nablus. At Huwwara I was examined by a doctor who removed the handcuffs and replaced them when he was done. Then I was blindfolded and taken back to the troop carrier which drove for another hour or so to the police station in Ariel settlement.
4. On arrival at Ariel I was taken to a corridor where I sat on a chair for about 15 minutes before being taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept my handcuffs on. Before questioning me he told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He called my mother and told her to come to the police station to attend my interrogation. He also called my cousin and asked him to appoint me a lawyer. I later found out that my cousin had come to the police station but he was not allowed in. I did not speak to a lawyer.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He wanted to know where I was on Friday during the weekly protest. I told him I was at home. Then he showed me a photograph of a boy throwing stones at soldiers and I told him it was not me. He interrogated me for about an hour through an interpreter. During this time the interrogator verbally abused me and swore at me saying bad things about my religion. The interpreter also slapped me on the neck when I remained silent and did not respond to the questions. I continued to deny the accusation the whole time.
7. Then the interrogator printed out a document in both Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign it but I refused because I wasn't sure that the Hebrew was identical to the Arabic. The interrogator lost his temper and told me it was in my interest to sign and not signing was not good for me. He started to swear at me and to say this was going to harm me in court but I insisted and refused to sign anything.

8. After the interrogation my photograph and fingerprints were taken. I was then blindfolded again and taken to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The troop carrier drove me to Huwwara military base.
9. At Huwwara I was strip searched and a soldier asked me to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to a cell where they removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and I remained by myself until around 5:00 p.m. At around 5:00 p.m. I was blindfolded and handcuffed again and put in a troop carrier which drove for about two hours to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched with my clothes on then I was taken to the juvenile section.
10. While I was at Megiddo I had three military court hearings which my family attended and my lawyer and I was allowed to speak to them. At the last hearing the military judge asked whether there was a soldier or someone else who could verify that the boy in the picture seen throwing stones was me but no one came and the judge decided to release me for lack of evidence.
11. I was released on 1 June 2017 at around 3:00 a.m. at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my family. We arrived home at around 5:00 a.m. I was released without charge and without paying any fine.

Name: M.T.M.A.
Age: 17
Date: 22 May 2017
Location: Tuqu', West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.T.M.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 4:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father answered and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our house and told my father they had come to arrest me. I was scared. The soldiers did not give my father any documents and did not say why they were arresting me and where they were taking me.
2. I got dressed and then the soldiers took me outside where I was blindfolded and my hands were tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were not tight or painful.
3. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove for about 15 minutes towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our village. At the watchtower a doctor examined me. He removed the blindfold and the ties and then put them back on when he was finished. Then the jeep drove for another 30 minutes to the settlement of Etzion where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He did not inform me of my rights and immediately accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He told me there were confessions against me from other boys and he named some of them. I told the interrogator I did not know the boys and that I did not throw stones at soldiers. When I denied the accusation he slapped me on the face and called me "a fucker son of a whore". Then he pushed me to the ground in an attempt to scare me and make me confess.
5. The interrogator questioned me for more than two hours and only in the end did he call a lawyer and allow me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent but I told him it was too late. Then the interrogator printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused because I did not understand what it said.
6. After the interrogation was over I was photographed and fingerprinted. I was then searched in my underwear and taken to a cell where I remained for a few hours. After a few hours soldiers came and shackled my legs and handcuffed me. I was then taken to a troop carrier and driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On arrival at Ofer I was again searched in my underwear and put in the juvenile section.
7. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not present and my lawyer was on strike so the hearing was adjourned. I had about 10 additional military court hearings which my parents attended and I was allowed to speak to them.

8. At the last military court hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and given a one-year additional sentence suspended for five years. I was also fined NIS 2,000. In the plea bargain I confessed to throwing one stone which missed.
9. I was released from Ofer prison on 30 August 2017, at around 11:00 p.m. and I went home with my parents. In prison I studied Arabic and mathematics.

Name: O.B.O.A.
Age: 16
Date: 28 May 2017
Location: Beit Ummar, West Bank
Accusation: Shooting

I, O.B.O.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Soldiers raided our home at around 3:00 a.m. looking for me but I was staying at my uncle's house. When they did not find me they wanted to take my brother until I handed myself over but my father assured them he would hand me over in the morning. The soldiers left my brother and told my father to bring me to the petrol station at the entrance to the village at 10:00 a.m. They did not give my father any documents.
2. Later that morning my father and I went to the petrol station as ordered. A military jeep was waiting for us. The commander asked me if I threw stones at soldiers and I told him I did not. Then he took a photo of the bullet wound in my knee. I was shot by soldiers on 5 May 2017, when I was standing outside our house during clashes. Then the commander told me to go home.
3. About 30 minutes later the commander phoned my father and told him to bring me to the military watchtower at the entrance to our village because they wanted to ask me a couple of questions at the police station in Etzion settlement. He told my father he would send me home after the questioning. My father took me as ordered.
4. As soon as we arrived at the military watchtower a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat.
5. The jeep drove to Etzion settlement where I was put in a courtyard until around 2:00 p.m. I sat in the sun most of the time. During this time a doctor gave me a questionnaire with questions about my medical condition. He removed the blindfold and then blindfolded me again. I filled out the questionnaire with my hands tied.
6. At around 2:00 p.m. two soldiers took me to an interrogation room. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a tape recorder in front of him which he turned on and off during the interrogation. He did not inform me of my rights. I wish he had told me I had the right to silence, I would have remained silent. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied. Then he started to mess with my mind. He told me I was a good boy from a good family, and told me he would send me home if I told him everything. He also told me if I did not cooperate he was going to lock me up in prison for three years.
7. Then he accused me of shooting at soldiers during clashes. I denied the accusation. I told him I was outside our house when I was shot and that I was not involved in anything. He kept repeating the accusation and insisting that I should confess but I continued to deny the accusation. He told me I had to answer his questions. When I did not he shouted at me and told me to talk. He lost his temper and raised his voice at me many times. He also banged the table to scare me. Still, I did not confess. The interrogation lasted for about 90 minutes and then I was taken to see another interrogator.

8. The second interrogator told me he was going to ask me some questions and I had to answer them. He had a tape recorder and typed what I was telling him on a computer. He did not inform me of my rights and directed the same accusation at me. I denied the accusation. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. I told him I was not going to sign something I did not understand. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me it was ok to sign if I hadn't confessed and I signed the document.
9. At around 5:00 p.m. my father came to the police station. They had asked him to bring a copy of my identity card and to sign a document. My father went home and I was left in an outdoor area until around 11:00 p.m. A soldier brought me some yogurt. Then I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell.
10. At around 9:00 a.m. the following day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, but the prison authorities refused to admit me because of my injury. I was taken back to Etzion and then taken back to Ofer; this time I was admitted. I arrived at Ofer at around 10:00 p.m. I was strip searched and then taken to Section 13.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and brother were in court and my lawyer. I was told I was accused of shooting at soldiers and the hearing was adjourned.
12. During my second appearance in the military court I was told there wasn't enough evidence against me and that they were going to change my charge sheet to setting tires on fire and concealing my identity during clashes by wearing a mask and a military style uniform.
13. I had about 13 hearings in the military court. During one of the hearings my lawyer tried to get me released on bail but the court rejected his request. During another, the prosecutor requested 18 months imprisonment for me. At another hearing my father brought the trousers I was wearing when I was shot and some photographs and proved to the court that I was not wearing a military uniform nor was I masked.
14. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told two soldiers had testified against me and their testimonies carry a lot of weight in the military court and that I would face 18 months in prison if I rejected the plea bargain.

15. I spent the last 10 days of my sentence in Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was transferred to Megiddo because of over crowdedness at Ofer prison. My parents did not visit me in prison because their permit was not issued in time. In prison I did not study because it was the summer holidays.
16. I was released on 13 August 2017, at Salem checkpoint and I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m. It was a difficult experience for me because I did not do anything wrong. I would expect to be punished had I been involved but I wasn't.

Name: M.J.K.O.
Age: 16
Date: 1 June 2017
Location: Hebron, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.J.K.O. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was ambushed by a group of Israeli soldiers as I walked home from work. It was around 7:00 p.m. I think somebody informed on me. I tried to run away and hide but they caught me.
2. One of the soldiers sat me down on the ground and asked me for my identity card and told me he knew everything there was to know about me. Then he accused me of throwing stones and wanted me to confess. He did not inform me of any rights and I denied the accusation. Then he showed me some photographs and walked me towards a military checkpoint and told me the commander wanted to "have a word".
3. When we arrived at the checkpoint I was tied with my hands to the front with a single plastic tie. It was very tight and painful and left a mark on my wrists for weeks. I was then taken inside a building and shown some more photographs.
4. While looking at the photographs a soldier looked at my Facebook postings on my phone and wanted me to give him the names of boys and young men in the postings. He wanted me to confess on myself and to give up names. When I refused he punched me in the chest and kicked me on my legs. One soldier then yelled at me and asked me why I threw stones. By this time I was blindfolded and the punch and kicks were a shock. Then I was taken to a room where I was left until around 5:00 a.m., tied and blindfolded.
5. I could not sleep at all and a soldier was guarding me the whole time. I sat on a metal bed and I felt tired. The soldier asked me if I wanted to eat anything and allowed me to use the toilet.
6. At around 5:00 a.m. I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. On arrival at Etzion I was immediately taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed my blindfold but kept me tied. He immediately started questioning me about throwing stones without informing me of any rights. When I denied the accusation, he swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". He also banged the table aggressively to scare me.
8. Then I was taken to another room where two interrogators in military uniform were waiting for me. They were calm and spoke gently and one of them offered me water and cigarettes. Then he wanted me to confess to throwing stones and damaging checkpoints in the old city. He did not inform me of my rights. He mentioned the date of 25 April 2017. I denied the accusations. At that moment another soldier, who was of African descent, entered the room and started to slap me on the face.

9. Then he sat down in front of me and told me he wanted to begin interrogating me. Before he said anything else he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to say anything that might incriminate me and to only speak about things that might help me. He also told me I had the right to remain silent and said if the interrogator shouts at me and is angry I should tell him I have the right to remain silent. The interrogator continued to question me about throwing stones but I did not confess.
10. Then they took me to another room where they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was taken to a nearby military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a room where I was left until around 10:00 p.m. This was my second night in a row without any sleep.
11. At around 10:00 p.m. I was taken for more interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me he would visit me in prison and would see me in the military court.
12. Then the interrogator showed me some images on his computer screen. He zoomed in because the faces were not clear. Then he wanted me to give him names of people in the image. He banged the table aggressively and called me a "son of a whore". By then I was exhausted and decided to confess. I confessed to throwing five stones which missed.
13. The interrogator printed out some documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused and told him to show them to me in Arabic and only then would I sign. He brought me the documents in Arabic and I signed.
14. Then I was examined by a doctor and taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched in my underwear and taken to Section 13. By then it was around midnight. I ate and went to bed.
15. On 8 June 2017, I was taken to Ofer military court. My family did not attend and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had around 12 military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison with a fine of NIS 1,500. I also received a one-year sentence suspended for five years. I had to spend an additional 45 days in prison because my family could not afford the fine.
16. In December 2017, I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was released from Megiddo at Salem checkpoint on 22 February 2018, and I went home by myself. In prison I attended some lessons but I left school when I was in sixth grade. My family did not visit me in prison.

Name: M.M.M.N.
Date: 4 June 2017
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.M.N. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was up at around 5:00 a.m. because it was the month of Ramadan. I heard the sound of commotion outside our house and went to the roof to see what was going on. Then I heard banging at our front door. My mother answered the door and about 11 Israeli soldiers entered our home, two soldiers were masked.
2. The soldiers asked everyone to gather in the living room, even my uncles' families who live on other floors in the same building. The soldiers asked for our identity cards and the commander asked for me by name. Then he told me they wanted to talk to me and took me outside after allowing me to change. I did not see them give my family any documents.
3. Once outside my hands were tied behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were painful. The soldiers pushed me in order to keep me walking towards a nearby building outside the camp. There they blindfolded me very tightly to the point that my eyes hurt. Then I was put in the back of a military vehicle where I sat on a seat. When I complained that the ties were painful a soldier replaced them with looser ones.
4. The jeep drove for a short distance to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur. On arrival at the settlement I was taken to a courtyard where I stayed for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where a doctor examined me. The doctor removed the blindfold but kept the ties on and then he blindfolded me again when he was finished. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold and told me I was like his own son. Then he told me I could remain silent if I wanted but remaining silent would be an indication that I was hiding something. I understood this to mean if I spoke and confessed the ordeal would be over. He also told me I had the right to see a lawyer, but I did not speak to a lawyer. Then he asked me why I throw stones. I told him I did not throw stones. Then he accused me of throwing stones and bottles at a settler bus and when I denied the accusation he banged the table aggressively.
6. The interrogation lasted for about 90 minutes. The interrogator did not show me any documents and did not ask me to sign anything. In the end the interrogator called an Israeli policeman who took me to the military base just outside Beit Jala where I stayed in an outside area for about 90 minutes. During this time I was tied and blindfolded. I was fasting because of Ramadan and that is why I did not eat or drink. Then I was taken for another round of interrogation.

7. The interrogator told me his name was "Bashir". He was in civilian clothes and as soon as I entered he read my rights to me. He told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to see a lawyer and he made me sign a document saying I was informed of my rights. He also called my parents. Then he accused me of throwing bottles and stones at a settler bus and at the military watchtower at the entrance to the camp. He told me a soldier had testified against me. I continued to deny the accusations.
8. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused and I told him I was not going to sign anything unless a lawyer or someone from my family was present. Then he called my uncle and spoke to him and then he told me that my uncle wanted me to sign. I insisted I was not going to sign and asked him to bring my uncle over because I wanted to speak to him. At this point he was upset and told me he was not going to release me.
9. At around 5:00 p.m. I was taken back to Etzion. At Etzion I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell. At around 1:30 a.m. I was shackled and handcuffed and taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. At Ofer I could not sleep.
10. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer military court where I waited until around 4:30 p.m. before I was taken into the courtroom. My parents were not in court because they did not know I had a hearing but my lawyer was there.
11. My lawyer told me it was great I did not confess and the military judge told me not to throw stones again and that if I did and was arrested again something bad and unexpected would happen to me. He also told me I had to pay a fine of NIS 1,000. At around 7:30 p.m. I was released. I was released on 6 June 2017, and I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Accusation: None

I, Q.W.F.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at about 5:00 a.m. and told me that Israeli soldiers were in our home asking for me. I was in shock because I could not think of any reason why they might be looking for me. I got up and went to the living room where I saw about 16 soldiers, one of them was wearing a mask.
2. As soon as they saw me the commander identified me and told me to put my clothes on because I was under arrest. I then said good-bye to my family and the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties, one inside the other. The ties were very tight and painful and left a mark on my wrists for a long time. I complained and asked the soldiers to tie me to the front but they refused.
3. As they took me outside the house a soldier deliberately pushed me against the wall and then against some barbed wire which caused me a lot of pain. By this time young men from the camp started to throw rocks at the soldiers and one of the rocks nearly hit me on the head. I was scared.
4. The soldiers made me walk for about 30 minutes towards the nearby military base. There they shackled and blindfolded me and aggressively pushed me into the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The soldiers in the troop carrier swore at me. They called me "a son of a whore" and "a brother of a whore".
5. I remained at the military base for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken to the entrance of the camp where I remained for another 30 minutes. Then I was taken in another vehicle where I was pushed on to the metal floor.
6. The vehicle took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. Inside the settlement they made me walk for a long distance and then left me outside a shipping container. I asked for the time and a soldier told me it was noon. Then I was transferred to the military base outside Beit Jala where they kept me outside on a chair until the evening.
7. In the evening I was taken in vehicle to the Etzion roundabout at the entrance to town of Beit Fajjar and dropped off. The soldiers removed the ties, the blindfold and the shackles and told me to go home. I crossed the road and walked home by myself. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting.

I, M.M.A.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 6:00 a.m. and told me that Israeli soldiers were at the door. I got up and looked out the front door and I saw about 30 soldiers outside our house. Some of the soldiers were masked and there were two female soldiers among them. My uncle was with the soldiers because they first knocked at his door looking for me.
2. About 10 soldiers entered our home and searched it without causing any damage. The commander asked for the annex in my mother's identity card and for my birth certificate. Then he took them and never gave them back.
3. Then the commander told me to say goodbye to my parents because they were going to arrest me. Two soldiers held me by the arms, handcuffed me to the front and took me outside. They did not give my parents any documents and did not give any reasons for my arrest. The handcuffs were not painful.
4. The soldiers led me towards a military jeep where I was blindfolded. I was put in the back of the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep I felt the breath of a dog sniffing my hands and I was terrified.
5. The jeep drove for about 10 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and asked some questions about my health and then put them back on again. Then the soldiers walked me inside the Etzion compound while handcuffed and blindfolded for about an hour. I was very tired. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. As soon as I entered the interrogation room I was slapped on the face. I was still blindfolded and handcuffed. I was in shock. Then the interrogator removed the blindfold and asked me for my name and then blindfolded me again. I was handcuffed and blindfolded throughout the interrogation. Then he started to ask me questions without informing me of any rights.
7. The interrogator wanted to know what I had done with another boy whom he named. When I told him I hadn't done anything wrong he lost his temper and started to verbally abuse me saying terrible things about whores. He told me if I didn't cooperate with him he was going to give me a hard time. I told him I wasn't going to confess to something I did not do.

8. Then he accused me of throwing stones at a settler bus and of taking part in protests. I denied the accusations. He told me I was a liar and said he was going to take me to the toilet where he told me I was a "fucking whore" and he slapped me while blindfolded and started to bang with something that sounded like a pipe.
9. An hour into the interrogation he called my father and told him to appoint a lawyer for me but my father told the interrogator it was his responsibility to appoint a lawyer and pay the legal fees. The interrogator then called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to say anything and I told the lawyer it was too late. Then the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it after he told me it was about appearing in court. I signed the document.
10. After the interrogation I was searched in my underwear and taken into a cell at Etzion. At around 2:30 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched again in my underwear and taken into Section 13. The soldier wanted me to strip but I refused.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed but a lawyer was there and my detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.
12. I had two more hearings and on the last one the military judge told me I was accused of throwing stones at a settler bus and of taking part in a protest. I was given a copy of the charge sheet in Hebrew. Again I denied the accusations. The judge then told me they were going to bring in the 14-year-old boy whom he named and claimed had testified against me but they never brought the boy.
13. In the end I was offered a plea bargain. In the beginning I was offered three months in prison and NIS 3,000 fine but my mother objected. The military judge then offered two months in prison and NIS 4,000 fine which my mother accepted. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months in prison valid for three years.
14. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer and my parents did not visit me because they were not granted a visiting permit in time. The worst thing about prison was the crowdedness.
15. I was released on 31 July 2017, at around 5:30 p.m. and I went home with my father and sister. Prison was a bad experience which was meant to scare me but I am not scared of soldiers.

Name: D.N.F.H.
Date: 16 June 2017
Location: Kafr Malik, West Bank
Accusation: Attacking a settler vehicle

I, D.N.F.H. of Kafr Malik, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was out with my friends near the water spring during Ramadan. It was around 5:00 a.m. Suddenly we were ambushed by a group of Israeli soldiers. About 15 soldiers blocked the road and forced the car we were in to stop. Then they smashed the windows of the car with the back of their guns and forced us out of the vehicle.
2. They forced me out of the car and immediately searched me and then beat me all over my body. Then they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. They also blindfolded me.
3. I was then pushed into the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was examined by a doctor. While waiting soldiers poured hot and cold water on me and swore at my religion.
4. Then I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I waited inside a room until it was my turn to be interrogated. I was tied and blindfolded the whole time and I could not tell the time.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call one for me. He called the father of another boy who was arrested with me and told him to tell my father I was at Benyamin police station. I later found out that my father and the father of the other boy came to the police station based on the phone call but they were turned back at the gate and they were not allowed in.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and immediately told me my friends who were arrested with me had confessed against me and I had no choice but to confess. He named the boys and I told him I did not know them. He wanted me to confess to attempting to attack a settler car. I denied the accusation.
7. Then he told me that the soldiers had also testified against me and claimed they had photographic evidence against me. It turned out that they had taken pictures of me and my friends walking in the fields enjoying ourselves at dawn. I was not seen doing anything wrong in the photos. He interrogated me for about two hours and kept repeating the same things over and over again and I continued to deny the accusation.

8. Then he printed out some documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did. I had no idea what was written in the documents but I thought it was a routine thing for me to sign them and I did. Then I was blindfolded and taken back into the room where I waited.
9. Later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. It was around 4:00 a.m. by the time I arrived at the prison and the other detainees prepared some food for me.
10. On Monday, 19 June 2017, I was taken to the military court. My father was in court and so was my lawyer. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to Ofer prison.
11. After my first hearing I was taken back twice to Binyamin police station. The first time I was taken in the vehicle to Binyamin but I was never interrogated and I was taken back to Ofer prison. The second time I was interrogated.
12. The second interrogator told me all my friends had confessed against me and told me to confess. I denied the accusation and did not confess and I asked to see a lawyer. The interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to sign any documents. This interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. At the end the interrogator printed out some documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign based on the lawyer's advice. I was then taken back to Ofer prison.
13. In all I had about 10 military court hearings. In the end I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of 13 months in prison suspended for five years. The sentencing was based on the testimonies of soldiers.
14. I turned 18 in prison and then I was transferred to a prison in the Negev inside Israel. I was released on 22 February 2018, at Adh Dhahiriya checkpoint and it took me more than two-and-a-half hours to get home with my family.
15. In prison I was bored. I slept a lot and walked around the compound twice a day. My family visited me seven times in Ofer but only once in the Negev.

Name: J.M.A.B.
Age: 16
Date: 16 June 2017
Location: Kafr Malik, West Bank
Accusation: Attempting to ambush a jeep

I, J.M.A.B. of Kafr Malik, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. It was during the fasting month of Ramadan when people stay up all night. I went for an outing just after dawn with my friends to a nearby water spring. It was around 5:00 a.m. when we sat down in a field to enjoy the view.
2. Shortly afterwards I saw a group of Israeli soldiers nearby and I had a feeling they were about to provoke us. My friends and I decided to get into our car and go home. Just as we were driving away we were surprised by a flying checkpoint. The soldiers started to shoot in our direction when they saw our car. I think they shot more than 20 bullets and we were terrified.
3. When we stopped the car the soldiers told us to get out. As I got out of the car a soldier kicked me in the back and threw me down on the ground. About five minutes later another soldier brought plastic ties and I was tied to the back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. My wrists swelled and turned blue and the tie cut through my wrists and I was bleeding. It left a mark on my wrists for about two months. Then soldiers started to kick me all over my body. About 15-20 soldiers kicked and beat me with the back of their guns. I was scared and in pain. Then they covered my head with the T-shirt I was wearing, bending my head forward. I had neck pain for about two weeks from this position.
4. Then I was taken to the back of a troop carrier. My stomach was exposed and I was shivering because it was cold and I was scared. I sat on a seat and the troop carrier drove to a nearby military base.
5. At the base I asked the soldiers to remove the painful tie but they did not respond. They made me sit on barbed wire and poured cold and then hot water on me. I felt sick. I asked to use the toilet and it took them two hours to allow me to use the toilet.
6. At around 9:00 a.m. I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the tie and then tied my hands to the front using three plastic ties, one on each wrist and another connecting the two. He also pulled my T-shirt down and blindfolded me with a white cloth. My neck hurt so much from bending forward for a long time.
7. Then I was taken to the police station in the settlement of Binyamin where I waited in a room until around 7:00 p.m. I was fasting and I asked for some water to break my fast and they brought me some water. Soldiers made fun of me and started to shout "Allahu Akbar". They turned the air conditioner on cold and I was freezing. At around 10:30 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He turned a tape recorder on. He removed the blindfold and the plastic ties and replaced them with another three ties which were tighter. When I asked him to remove the ties because I was in pain he swore at me and called me a "son of a whore" and a "brother of a whore" and told me he was going to lock me up in prison until "god frees me". The he threw his pen at me and hit me in the chest.
9. The interrogator then accused me of waiting for a military jeep to pass by in order to throw stones at it. I denied the accusation. Then he told me the soldiers should have shot me instead of arresting me and that I was not worthy even of a cell. Then he showed me a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic saying I had the right to contact a lawyer and the right to remain silent during interrogation. It also said choosing to remain silent could be used against me in court. When I asked for a lawyer he told me he would allow me to speak to a lawyer later.
10. Then he repeated the same accusation and I continued to deny it. During the interrogation he swore at me again and called me a "son of a whore". He interrogated me for about 40 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation. In the end he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent. Then he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did without understanding what it said.
11. After the interrogation I was taken to a room full of soldiers. The air conditioner was very cold and the soldiers slapped me each time I asked them to turn it up. I sat on the floor and I was freezing cold.
12. Later I was taken in a vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer just after midnight. I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. The other detainees prepared some food for me and I slept until dawn.
13. On 19 June 2017, I had my first hearing in the military court. My father was in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 14 hearings.
14. During this time I was taken twice to Binyamin police station for two more interrogation. The first interrogator did not inform me of my rights and wanted me to confess on myself and other boys. He interrogated me for 45 minutes. He swore at me and called son of a "whore" and spat at me. He also raised his voice to scare me and wanted me to sign documents in Hebrew but I refused to sign. The second interrogator questioned me for about 30 minutes and was not aggressive. He did not inform me of my rights and told me one of my friends had confessed against me.
15. At the last hearing, which was on 8 January 2018, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 5,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 18 months suspended for five years.

16. I spent my entire sentence in Ofer prison. In prison I attended classes but they were not very useful because the level was low. My parents visited me in prison seven times. I was released on 25 January 2018, and I went home with lots of people from my village who had come to greet me. I arrived home at around 3:30 p.m. and had a nice meal with my friends and family.

Name: Q.W.F.W.
Date: 21 June 2017
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, Q.W.F.W. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 7:00 a.m. and told me something was going on outside our house. My father was traveling and we were alone with my mother. Shortly afterwards I heard very loud banging at the front door and then it sounded like the front door had been broken.
2. My mother rushed to see what was going on as a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home and started to search before we even had time to open the door. One soldier dragged me outside the house, took a picture of me on his mobile phone then shackled and handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were painful. I wanted to say goodbye to my mother but they refused.
3. I was then led towards the nearby military base. On the way I was put in the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. I was then also blindfolded.
4. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. On arrival at the settlement I was left outside in a shipping container for about 30 minutes. During this time I asked to use the toilet and they allowed me. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. Somebody called captain "Moshe" took me to a corridor and started to question me. He turned the lights off and spoke to me via an interpreter. He asked me why I throw Molotov cocktails at soldiers. I told him I did not throw Molotov cocktails. Then he told me he did not like liars and took me into a room where another interrogator was sitting.
6. The second interrogator did not inform me of my rights and immediately accused me of throwing stones on Route 60 and hitting a settler car. He told me the settler's name was Ismail. Then he asked me whether I attended a particular funeral and I told him I did not. Then he told me a friend of mine, who hangs out with me, had told him I threw Molotov cocktail during the funeral. I told him I was at home at the time of the funeral and did not take part in it.
7. Half way through the interrogation he called a lawyer and showed me a document which said I had the right to consult with a lawyer and he made me sign the document. Then he showed me some pictures and asked me to identify the boys in the pictures and told me to confess against the boys. He also told me that 10 other boys had already confessed against me and named seven of them. The interrogation lasted for about two hours and I denied the accusations.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to a room where I tried to rest for about 30 minutes in order to be able to answer more questions. Then I was taken back for interrogation.
9. This time the interrogator started by telling me he did not like liars. When I told him I was not telling lies he banged the table and shouted at me saying I was a liar. Then he wanted to know who my uncles were and who my father's uncles were and who my cousins were. I told him all my cousins were young. Then he threw a bunch of documents and scattered them around and told me he did not like liars.
10. Then the interrogator showed me a picture of a boy and asked me for his name. He told me to stop lying. He told me he was willing to drop the accusation that I hit a settler car but in return he wanted me to confess against other boys. He told me they had already confessed against me and urged me to confess against them. I challenged him to confront me with the boys but he never did. In the end he told me he was going to lock me up in prison.
11. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. Then he told me if helped him he was going to help me in return and send me home. I refused to confess.
12. After the interrogation I was taken to a courtyard where I sat in the sun for about an hour. Then my mother came and took me home. I arrived home at around 6:00 p.m. I was released without charge.

Name: A.S.M.H.
Age: 15
Date: 25 June 2017
Location: Beit Fajjar, West Bank
Accusation: Pipe bombs

I, A.S.M.H. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. It was a festive night in the village, the night before Eid, and I was out with my friends very late. At around 3:00 a.m. my uncle called me and told me that Israeli soldiers had come to our house looking for me. He said they wanted to arrest me and that they had detained my father and would release him once I turned myself in.
2. I immediately went home to say goodbye to my mother. My uncle was in touch with my father who was being held at a nearby military base. A group of soldiers met us at the entrance to the village and my uncle handed me over.
3. The soldiers immediately tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a metal box on the floor. The jeep drove to where my father was held and the soldiers released him. They gave my father a form filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest.
4. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was put in a shipping container and placed on a chair. During this time I intermittently fell asleep. I was also examined by a doctor who removed the tie and the blindfold and put them back on later. Then I was taken for interrogation. I didn't really know what time it was.
5. The interrogator kept me tied and blindfolded and immediately accused me of weapons possession. He did not inform me of any rights. Initially I denied the accusation. But then I became scared when the interrogator started to yell and swear at me calling my mother and sisters "whores". When I asked him to remove the blindfold he deliberately tightened it even more. Later on he removed the blindfold and replaced the plastic tie with metal handcuffs. I was so scared that I confessed to making pipe bombs.
6. During the interrogation the interrogator offered me cigarettes but I refused. Then he made me sign documents written in Hebrew. I signed without understanding what was written. Then I was taken to see another interrogator.
7. The second interrogator was typing on a computer and asked me to repeat what I had told the first one. He did not inform me of my rights but half way through the interrogation he told me I had the right to talk to a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess but I told him I had already confessed. The second interrogator also made me sign documents written in Hebrew.

8. After the second interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then I was strip searched and made me crouch up and down while naked. Then they took me to a prison cell at Etzion where I was given some food. At around midnight I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched with my clothes on and taken to Section 13.
9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My lawyer was in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 12 appearances in the military court during which not much happened. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence but I can't remember the details.
10. My conviction was partly based on the confession of another boy who the interrogator told I had confessed against him, which was not true. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told by my lawyer I would spend more time in prison if I rejected it.
11. I spent my entire sentence in Ofer prison and I was released on 23 August 2017. In prison I did not study because I no longer go to school. My parents did not visit me in prison because I was released before they were issued with a permit to visit.
12. On 24 October 2017, soldiers again came to our house at around 12:30 a.m. My mother woke me up and told me the soldiers had come back. I was terrified because I thought they had come to arrest me again. When my father answered the door they handed him a summons for me to show up in court as a witness on 5 November 2017. I went with my father on the specified date and I testified as requested.
13. I have been reluctant to leave home since I was released. I haven't been to Bethlehem which is about 30 minutes from my where I live because I don't want to be seen or stopped by soldiers. The first few days in prison were very difficult especially because I missed Eid with my family. It was hard for my family too who did not celebrate because I was not with them.

Accusation: Pipe bombs

I, A.S.A.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. It was during Eid and I wanted to stay up all night and wait for the dawn prayers. So when my parents went to bed I went next door to my uncle's house.
2. At around 3:00 a.m. I heard loud banging at our front door next door and heard a commotion around the house. Someone was shouting "open up". My father answered the door and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home. They asked for me and my mother told them I was not home. Then they searched the house and made a huge mess, turning furniture upside down and throwing our possessions on the floor. They told my father they were searching for pipe bombs. They found nothing.
3. Then they asked my father for his identity card. My father told the soldiers that his ID card was in the car. So the soldiers followed my father to the car and took the car keys. They told him they would take the car and his ID card if I did not turn myself in. They told my father they did not want to arrest me but rather wanted to ask me some questions for 10 minutes.
4. My mother sent a message to my uncle's house telling me to come home and I went home promptly. The commander told me he wanted to ask me some questions outside. He took me outside and asked me where I had hidden the pipe bomb. I told him I had no idea what he was talking about and that I did not have any pipe bombs. He hit me on my head and slapped me twice on my face and repeated the question. I told him I had no pipe bombs. Then he told me if that was the case he was going to arrest me.
5. The soldiers gave my parents a form filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. Then they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to a troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement.
6. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a room where I waited until around 8:00 a.m. At 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator asked me about the pipe bomb. I told him I did not have any pipe bombs. He did not remove the tie and the blindfold and when I asked him to remove them he tightened them even more. Then he told me I had the right to make one phone call either to my parents or to a lawyer. I told him I wanted to speak to a lawyer and he called one and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. The interrogator also said something about silence but I did not understand what he meant.

8. Every half an hour or so the interrogator would take me outside the room and punch me in the stomach. During the interrogation he named a boy and told me he had confessed against me. I asked him to bring the boy in and he did. The boy said he had confessed against me and later I found out that the boy confessed because the interrogator told him I had confessed against him, which was not true.
9. During the interrogation the interrogator swore at me and called me a "son of a whore" and a "brother of a whore". He interrogated me for a long time, possibly six or seven hours and I continued to deny the accusation throughout.
10. In the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused and asked him to provide me with an Arabic translation. The interrogator did show me the documents in Arabic and I signed. After the interrogation I was searched in my underwear and taken to a prison cell in Etzion.
11. At around 2:30 a.m. I was taken to Ofer prison where I was searched with my clothes on before being taken into Section 13.
12. The following morning I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court because they were not informed but my lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned.
13. In all I had about 16 appearances in the military court. During one of my court appearances the boy who confessed against me was brought in to testify and his testimony was in my favour. He explained to the military court that he confessed because of pressure and because he was told I had confessed against him which was not true.
14. At the last hearing, which was about six months after my arrest, the lawyer told me I was going to be released. My lawyer was able to reduce a previous suspended sentence I had from one year to six months and I was released on 20 December 2017. I was also fined NIS 1,000 and I was given an additional suspended sentence of one year suspended for three years.
15. I spent the entire imprisonment in Ofer prison. My parents visited me seven times in prison. My parents, my brothers and uncles and their wives and my grandparents all came to Ofer to take me home. When I hear soldiers in the village now I run home. I don't want to see them ever again.

I, S.M.S.O. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 5:00 a.m. to the sound of banging at our front door. My father answered and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our house and told my father they wanted to arrest me and my younger brother.
2. My father told the commander I was not feeling well because I had an injury and my arm was in plaster. The commander told my father I could take my medicine with me. Then he told me and my brother to prepare ourselves and then immediately took us outside the house. The soldiers did not give us any documents and did not tell us the reason for my arrest or where they were going to take me.
3. Once outside the soldiers tied my hand to my brother's hand with a plastic tie which was not painful. They also blindfolded me. We were then taken to the back of the jeep where I sat on a seat while my brother sat on the floor. The jeep drove for about five minutes to a nearby settlement.
4. On arrival at the settlement my brother and I were taken to a shipping container where they removed the blindfold and a doctor examined me. He checked my arm but did not say anything. Then I was blindfolded again. I was left inside the shipping container with my brother for about an hour.
5. After an hour me and my brother were taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Ariel settlement. At Ariel I was put in a courtyard with my brother where we remained for about four hours. After four hours and interrogator cut off the tie and took me for interrogation.
6. Before he started to question me, the interrogator contacted a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to sign any documents. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and showed me a picture and told me it was a picture of me throwing stones. I denied the accusation. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. I was questioned for about 30 minutes. Then the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign because I did not understand what was written in it.
7. After the interrogation I was taken back to the courtyard where I remained for another two hours. Then I was taken to a jeep together with my brother and we were tied together again and blindfolded. The jeep took us to Huwwara military base.

8. On arrival at Huwwara the tie was cutoff and the blindfold removed and then I was strip searched. They told me to crouch up and down while naked and I felt embarrassed. At first I refused to take off my clothes but I was scared they might beat me if I didn't. I spent a night at Huwwara.
9. The following day soldiers shackled and handcuffed me and I was taken to Salem military base. I waited in a room for about an hour. Then I was driven to Afula hospital but I was never taken inside the hospital, I just waited outside in the vehicle. Then I was taken back to Salem, where I waited in a room before being taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived at Megiddo at around 10:00 p.m. and I was without food or drink all this time.
10. At Megiddo I was searched in my clothes and then I was taken to the juvenile section.
11. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend the hearing but a lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. My parents attended the next hearing and my lawyer was able to prove that the person in the picture the interrogator showed me was not me and the military judge decided to release me on bail. My parents had to sign a document guaranteeing I won't be involved in any actions that would lead to my arrest and had to pay NIS 1,500 bail. After the hearing I was taken back to Megiddo.
12. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 12 July 2017, at around 6:00 p.m. and I went home with my parents.

I, A.M.T.R. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My brother woke me up at around 4:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were surrounding our house in all directions. I quickly got up and put my clothes on because I had a feeling they had come for me.
2. Soon the soldiers started banging on our front door and my father answered. As soon as the soldiers entered our home they asked for me and I identified myself. The commander then told me I was under arrest. The soldiers did not give us any documents and did not tell my father the reason for my arrest or where they were taking me. They only told him they were taking me for questioning and would return me home shortly.
3. Then they took me outside and led me on foot for about 15 minutes to the nearby settlement. They made me stand near the military jeeps and then they shackled and handcuffed me to the front. The handcuffs were tight. I was also blindfolded before being put in a shipping container where I sat on a chair for about an hour. During this time a doctor examined me. He removed the blindfold during the examination and put it back on later.
4. After about an hour I was put in a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Ariel settlement. At Ariel I was left on the floor of a room for about five hours before being taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He removed the blindfold and the handcuffs but kept my leg shackles on. He immediately asked me about my role in throwing stones at soldiers and told me he had photographic evidence of me throwing stones. I asked him to show me the evidence and he showed me an old picture for which I had been interrogated in the past and then released when I was able to prove the person in the picture was not me. I said this to the interrogator.
6. I was interrogated for about 30 minutes and I denied the accusation. Then he took me to a courtyard where I sat on the ground for about 30 minutes and then the interrogator took me inside. He printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign and told him there was no way for me to verify what was written in it.
7. Then the soldiers blindfolded and handcuffed me again and took me to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The carrier drove for about an hour to Huwwara where I remained in the carrier outside for about four hours. Then I was taken inside where the blindfold, the shackles and the handcuffs were removed and I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to a cell. I remained there until around midnight when I was shackled and handcuffed and put in a troop carrier. The carrier drove for about two hours to Megiddo prison, inside Israel.

8. At Megiddo I was strip searched and taken into section 3. The following day I was taken to the military court at Salem. My parents did not attend because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned. My parents and my lawyer attended the second hearing and the military court decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 1,000 bail. I was sent back to Megiddo and then I was released at Salem at around 4:00 p.m., 12 July 2017.

Date: 3 July 2017
Location: Kafr Qaddum, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, S.M.S.B. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 4:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our house. I got up and went to the living room and my father explained to me the soldiers had come to arrest me and my brother. The soldiers did not give a reason for my arrest and did not give us any documents.
2. The commander told me to get dressed while my father argued with him. My father told the commander I was too young to be arrested but the commander insisted on arresting me.
3. Once I was dressed the soldiers took me and my brother outside and tied our hands together with a plastic tie which was not painful. Then we were taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
4. The jeep drove for about 15 minutes to a nearby military base where my brother and I were put in a shipping container. I sat on a chair and a doctor examined me. I was left there for about two hours and the whole time I was tied to my brother.
5. After about two hours we were taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Ariel settlement. On arrival at Ariel we were put in a courtyard where we waited. The soldiers untied us and took my brother for interrogation and about an hour later I was taken for interrogation.
6. I was interrogated for about 30 minutes. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and asked me what I was doing on 27 January 2017. I told him I did not remember. Then he showed me a photo and told me this was me throwing stones at soldiers. I denied that the person in the photo was me and denied the accusation.
7. Then he repeated the same accusation and told me it was better for me to confess. He also wanted me to confess against other boys and to give the names of boys who take part in protests and throw stones at soldiers. I told him I did not know anyone. Then he wanted to know how the boys felt about throwing stones at soldiers and I told him I had no idea. Then he told me he was going to take me into the courtyard and throw stones at me to make me experience how the soldiers feel when stones are thrown at them. Then he said it would be a better idea to throw a Molotov cocktail at me.

8. After 30 minutes the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused and told him I was not going to sign anything I did not understand. Then he took my photograph, fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth. I was then taken back to the courtyard where I sat on the ground for about 30 minutes.
9. After 30 minutes I was re-tied to my brother and we were both taken to a troop carrier which drove for about an hour to Huwwara military base. At Huwwara they removed the tie and I was strip-searched. After being searched I was taken to a cell where I remained for about two hours.
10. After about two hours my legs were shackled and I was handcuffed and taken to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The troop carrier drove for about two hours to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched with my clothes on and then I was taken to the juvenile section.
11. While at Megiddo I had two military court hearings at Salem court. My parents did not attend the first hearing because they were not informed but they attended the second one and I was allowed to speak to them. At the second hearing the military court decided to release me on bail and my parents had to pay NIS 1,000 bail. I was released on 12 July 2017 and I went home with my parents.

Date: 10 July 2017
Location: Sabastiya, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing fireworks / pointing a laser

I, M.Y.J.S. of Sabastiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 9:00 p.m. I went for a walk with some friends near the archeological site where we always go. I suddenly saw some figures in a nearby olive grove and I quickly realised it was a group of Israeli soldiers. The soldiers yelled at us and started to chase us and we all scattered. The soldiers were faster than me and caught me.
2. A soldier slapped and kicked me and two other soldiers held me by my arm and searched me. Then they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight. They also blindfolded me and kept me in the area for about 30 minutes.
3. My uncle came to the area when he heard I had been detained and stood at a distance and called my name. I answered and told him I was detained. One soldier was very upset and slapped me on the face and hand. My uncle came closer to the soldiers and started to talk to them. The soldiers told him they saw me pointing a laser light at the settlers who were visiting the area and throwing fireworks in their direction.
4. The soldiers did not tell my uncle where they were going to take me. Shortly afterwards a military doctor examined me and then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove for about 30 minutes and then stopped at a place I did not recognise.
5. I was taken to a room and the soldiers removed the tie and the blindfold. A commander started to question me without informing me of my rights. He removed the blindfold and wanted to know why I threw fireworks at settlers and aimed a laser light at them. I told him we were playing with each other and did not do anything wrong. Then he wanted to know who else was with me. I told him I did not know who the other boys were because I had never met them before. The commander was angry and started to shout and bang the door and then he slapped me on the shoulder. He questioned me while I was standing.
6. He then told me I had better confess or I would be in "trouble" if I did not. He then cocked his gun, went on his knees and aimed his gun in my face. I was terrified because I thought he was going to shoot me. Then he made me sit on a chair and removed the tie and then tied my hands to the front. The tie was very tight and painful. Then he took me outside and made me sit on a chair. He then called someone and asked me to speak to him. He told me the person was an intelligence officer.

7. The intelligence officer spoke to me in Arabic and asked me for my name and address. When I told him my name he accused me of lying and threatened if I did not tell my real name he was not going to release me.
8. Then I was examined by a doctor who asked me some questions in Hebrew and I told him I did not understand his questions. He then gave me a questionnaire in Arabic to fill out with some questions about my health. The document also said I was not subjected to physical abuse during arrest. The doctor wanted me to sign the document but I refused to sign because it was false.
9. Then I was taken to another room where I sat on a chair and a soldier guarded me. I asked to use the toilet but he did not allow me. Then he took me outside and wanted me to pee while he was watching and I refused.
10. After a while I was taken to a jeep which drove me to the Tulkarm junction which is about 5 km away from my village. A soldier cut off the tie and I was released. It was around 4:00 a.m. It was dark and I was scared because I know there are wild boars in the area. I walked a short distance then I stopped a car which drove me home. I arrived home at around 5:00 a.m.

I, R.T.I.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Two days before I was arrested Israeli soldiers came to our house at around 1:30 a.m. looking for me. I was not at home and the soldiers gave my father a document summoning me to the police station in Etzion settlement the following day.
2. Later that morning my father took me to the police station in the settlement as requested. We arrived there at around 9:00 a.m. but nobody let us in and we left at around 3:00 p.m. On the way home soldiers also stopped us at checkpoint and told my father to hand me over to the police.
3. One day later I was still awake at around 2:00 a.m. expecting the soldiers to arrest me. I suddenly heard loud banging at our front door. My father answered and a group of soldiers entered our home and asked my father for me. My father told me to come to where the soldiers were. I was terrified when I saw them. They looked like they were going to war.
4. The soldiers gave my father a document with details about my arrest and told him they were going to take me to the police station in Etzion settlement for questioning because I was accused of throwing stones at soldiers. They also told him there were confessions against me by other boys.
5. The soldiers allowed me to put my clothes on and then took me outside where they handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were not tight or painful. Then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our village. At the watchtower a doctor examined me.
6. Then soldiers then blindfolded me and made me sit on the ground for about 30 minutes. After 30 minutes they put me in the back of the jeep which drove for about 15 minutes to the nearby military base. I waited there on the ground in an open area until around 8:00 a.m. I could not sleep because I was scared. Then I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to Etzion and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept the handcuffs on. Before he started to question me he told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He then called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to confess.

8. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones on the main road and told me there were confessions against me. Then he showed me pictures of boys and told me they confessed against me. I denied the accusation and told him I did not know the boys. I was interrogated for about three hours. During this time the interrogator hit me on the back and chest and called me a "son of a whore". Still, I did not confess. He swore at me several times.
9. In the end he showed me a photo of a boy throwing stones and told me that boy was me. I denied that it was me. Then he changed the tone of his voice and told me he needed my help and asked me to give him names of boys who throw stones at soldiers. He said if I helped him he was going to help me. I told him I did not know any boys who throw stones and that I focus on my school work.
10. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused. He became angry when I refused to sign. Then another interrogator walked in and signed the document. Then they took my photograph, fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth.
11. After the interrogation the interrogator called my father and told him to come to the police station to pick me up. Then he punched me in the face and took me outside the police station where a relative of mine was waiting and he took me home. I was released at around 5:00 p.m.

Name: K.I.H.A.
Age: 16
Date: 19 July 2017
Location: Beit Ummar, West Bank
Accusation: Membership of a banned organisation

I, K.I.H.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. On 6 June 2017, Israeli soldiers came to our house at around 7:00 a.m. and delivered a summons in my name asking me to go to the police station in Etzion settlement. In accordance with the summons I went to the police station with my father and I was questioned by an intelligence officer who claimed he had information that I took part in protests and threw stones at soldiers. The purpose of the meeting was to warn me against taking part in such activities any more. He told me he was going to arrest me if I did not stop. The meeting took about two hours and both my father and uncle were present.
2. On 19 July 2017, I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. when I heard banging at our front door. My father answered and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home and told my father they had come to arrest me. They did not give him any documents and did not give a reason for my arrest.
3. They barely gave me time to get dressed before taking me outside where I was blindfolded and handcuffed with my hands behind my back. The metal handcuffs were very tight and painful. They also shackled my ankles and then put me in the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. Someone hit me in my waist and I felt severe pain.
4. The jeep drove for about 15 minutes to the military base in the settlement of Karmi Zur. On arrival at the base I sat on the ground for about 15 minutes. During this time soldiers passed by and verbally abused me and said terrible things about my mother. Some of the soldiers kicked me as they went by.
5. After about 15 minutes I was put back in the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to the settlement of Kiryat Arba. At Kiryat Arba a soldier grabbed me by my T-Shirt and tore it then he pushed me to the ground and my trousers were torn. Then I was examined by a doctor. I complained to the doctor about pain in my waist because of the beating but he did not do anything.
6. After the medical check I was put back in the jeep where I remained for about 15 minutes. Then the jeep drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement.
7. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a room with lots of computer screens and lots of soldiers. I sat on a chair in the corner. I was still handcuffed, blindfolded and shackled. It was possible to see a bit from beneath my blindfold. The soldiers asked me to bend my head down and they pushed my head down each time I lifted it up. Later a soldier tightened my blindfold. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the handcuffs and offered me a cigarette which I refused. He asked me how I was and I told him I was fine. Then he told me I had two choices: either I could co-operate with him in a straightforward way or I don't. I told him I was going to be straightforward. He did not inform me of my rights and did not contact my parents.
9. The interrogator accused me of belonging to a banned organization and throwing stones, Molotov cocktails and pipe bombs at soldiers. When I told him this was not true he became angry and blindfolded me and handcuffed me again. Then he pushed me and showed me a photograph of me sitting doing nothing. Again I denied all the accusations and he slapped and punched me hard in the face and my nose was bleeding.
10. I was interrogated for about an hour. Then another interrogator took over. He repeated the same accusations and told me he knew everything going on in the village and that he had informants who told him everything about me and the village. He told me there were more informants in the village than I could ever imagine and that their numbers exceeded non-informants. He said it was in my interest to tell him the truth. He urged me to confess. I told him I did not do anything wrong and there was nothing for me to confess.
11. At the end of the interrogation he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused because I did not want him to implicate me. At around 11:00 a.m. I was released without charge. On my way out a commander told me next time he was not going to arrest me but send me to God in a black bag. He also told me that when I turn 18 he was going to lock me up and never release me. I went home by myself and I arrived home at around noon.

Location: Bir Zeit, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.T.A.G. of Bir Zeit, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. It was the summer holidays and I was training as a car mechanic when I saw an Israeli military jeep near our shop. It was around noon. I was scared when I saw the soldiers and instinctively went inside.
2. Shortly afterwards the soldiers entered the shop and immediately threw me to the floor and started to beat me all over my body; on my back, on my legs and shoulders, slapping and kicking. Then they took me outside and more soldiers took part in slapping and kicking me. I was terrified.
3. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep and threw me on the metal floor. They continued to beat me inside the jeep. They slapped me on the back of my head and kicked me on my legs. They also swore at me and called my mother and sisters “whores”.
4. The jeep drove for about 10 minutes to a place I did not recognise and I was left out in the sun for about an hour. Then I was taken back to the jeep where I sat on the floor again. Inside the jeep a soldier tried to tie my hands with a plastic tie but it was too tight and he removed it. Instead, I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful.
5. The jeep drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left on the floor in a room with some soldiers until around 4:00 a.m. Inside the room I was shackled and I could not sleep at all. I was very uncomfortable and scared. I was not given any food but I was given some water and allowed to use the toilet.
6. I later found out from my mother that at around 11:00 p.m. that night somebody from the police station called my mother and asked her to appoint a lawyer for me. When she told him it was impossible to find a lawyer in the middle of the night the person told her they would appoint one for me. Later that night a lawyer called my mother and told her he was going to represent me and attend my interrogation.
7. At around midnight a lawyer called me on the interrogator’s telephone and told me he would try to get me released in court and that I had to spend the night at the police station. At around 4:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
8. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a tape recorder in the room. He removed the handcuffs but kept my shackles on and asked me if I wanted a lawyer. He told me I had the right to appoint a lawyer and the right not to confess or say anything. The lawyer who told my mother he would attend my interrogation never did.

9. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation and told the interrogator I was scared when I saw the soldiers and that was why I ran into the shop.
10. The interrogator questioned me for about 20 minutes and was typing on his computer while questioning me. In the end he printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign and asked him to provide a translation and he did. I signed the Arabic version because it was identical to what I had told the interrogator.
11. Then I was examined by a doctor and then they took my photograph and fingerprints and I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13 where I ate for the first time in about 20 hours.
12. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and my lawyer were in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 10 military court appearances. The military court summoned the soldiers to court but they never came.
13. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain of six months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for four years. Around mid-December I was taken to Ramleh court inside Israel to decide whether they would grant me early release. I appeared in that court twice and in the end I was granted early release.
14. I was released from Ofer on 20 December 2017, and I went home with my brothers. My mother invited my friends for a meal the following day to celebrate my release.
15. In prison I studied mathematics and Arabic but the standard was low and I did not find it useful. I missed a whole semester at school and I have to work very hard now to try to catch up.

I, H.M.H.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I knew Israeli soldiers were in my village so I could not sleep. At around 2:30 a.m. I could hear the soldiers in my neighbourhood. I looked out the window and I saw soldiers walking towards a house down the street. I relaxed a bit but about a minute later I heard loud banging at our front door and loud voices swearing at us and telling us to open up.
2. My father went to open the front door and about 12 soldiers entered our home. Three of the soldiers wore masks and they were accompanied by two female soldiers.
3. A soldier asked my father to name all his children and to bring them to the living room. When my father named me they immediately tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very painful. I was also blindfolded before being taken out of our house. All of this happened in less than five minutes. They did not give us any documents but when my father asked them for reasons the commander said they just wanted to question me and if they find nothing they would send me home.
4. Once outside I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the nearby military base where I was left on a chair until around 7:30 a.m. I asked them to loosen the tie and a soldier replaced it with three plastic ties loosely tied to the front. I also asked for water and they brought me some.
5. During this time the commander phoned my father and summoned him to the military base. When my father arrived they gave him a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic saying they were taking me to Etzion police station for interrogation.
6. At around 7:30 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was put in a courtyard. Shortly afterwards I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I waited in the jeep outside the gate until around noon. Then I was taken back to Etzion. I arrived back at Etzion at around 1:00 p.m. and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
7. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator slapped me while I was still tied and blindfolded. I was in shock because I wasn't expecting it. Then he told me I had to confess or else. He threatened to arrest my father if I did not confess. He did not inform me of any rights.
8. I asked the interrogator to remove the blindfold and he did. He wore civilian clothes and had a tape recorder on his desk. Then he accused me of throwing stones and showed me some photographs. I denied the accusation and told him the photos were not authentic. Then he pointed to one of the photos and told me it was me holding a slingshot. I continued to deny the accusation. Then he banged the table and swore at me calling my mother and sister "whores". He interrogated me for about an hour.

9. After about an hour the interrogator took me to a courtyard for about 10 minutes and then I was taken to see another interrogator. The second interrogator was much calmer and had a tape recorder. He called my father and then called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to be afraid. The interrogator also gave me a document written in Arabic saying something about the right to silence but I did not really understand what it meant. The interrogator asked me to sign the document and I did.
10. Then he pulled out another document and told me a boy had confessed against me. He also showed me a photograph. I then confessed to throwing two stones which missed. The second interrogation lasted for about an hour. In the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and told me it was my statement and asked me to sign them and I did.
11. Then I was taken into another room where two people were sitting. They showed me photographs of me and two other friends from the village and wanted me to identify them. It was a selfie of me and my friends doing nothing and I decided to give my friends' names because we were not doing anything wrong. Then they showed me a satellite map of the village and pointed to some houses and asked me to tell them who lived in the houses but I refused. This lasted for about 45 minutes.
12. Then I was blindfolded again and taken to the courtyard where I sat on the ground. Two hours later I was transferred to Ofer prison where I was strip searched and taken to Section 13.
13. On 26 July 2017, I was taken to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba for another interrogation. The interrogator wanted me to repeat what I had told the second interrogator at Etzion but instead I told him I had denied all the accusations. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and I was taken back to Ofer prison.
14. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed about the hearing and it was adjourned. I had about 10 appearances in the military court. At the last hearing, which was about four months after my arrest, I accepted a plea bargain of five months in prison and a fine of NIS 3,000. I was also given an additional one year in prison suspended for three years. My father objected to the high fine and managed to reduce it to NIS 2,000.
15. I was released on 10 December 2017. I arrived home with my father at around 6:30 p.m. My mother prepared a nice meal and lots of family members and friends came to our house to greet me.

16. I spent my entire prison sentence in Ofer prison. In prison I attended some classes but they were not very useful. They taught us the alphabet. My parents visited me five times in prison.

Name: B.M.M.K.
Date: 24 July 2017
Location: Al Ram, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, B.M.M.K. of Al Ram, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around midnight I was on my way home from the barber's shop where I work when I was surprised by clashes between Israeli soldiers and some young men who were throwing stones at them.
2. I stopped to have a look and a group of soldiers ambushed me and another boy. About 20 soldiers chased me, caught me and immediately started to beat, kick and punch me. I tried to tell them that I had my spleen removed following a car accident but they did not make any attempt to understand what I was saying. They swore at me saying my sister and mother were "whores" and swore at my religion.
3. The soldiers tied my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs which were very tight and painful. I lost sensation in my thumb and could not move it for about a week. They accused me of throwing stones and then pushed me into the back of a military jeep and threw me on the metal floor.
4. The jeep drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was taken to a room. The soldiers made me turn my face to the wall and banned me from talking to anyone. Another detainee was in the same room and he was bleeding heavily from his head and I was scared and worried about him. He was left to bleed for two hours without any medical attention. When I complained about the handcuffs a soldier replaced them with one plastic tie to the front which was also painful. When I complained again the soldier looked at me and did nothing.
5. At around 2:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. There was a tape recorder on his desk. He removed the tie and asked me what I was doing in the area where I was arrested and I explained what had happened. Then he asked me about the other young men and boys who were throwing stones and I told him I did not know them. He also told me a soldier had seen me with a stone in my hand and I denied it.
6. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. Half way through the interrogation the interrogator gave me a document written in both Arabic and Hebrew saying I had the right to consult with a lawyer and that I was only allowed to speak in response to the interrogator's questions. He also called my brother and asked him to appoint a lawyer for me.

7. After the interrogation I was searched with my clothes on and kept in the same room with the other detainee until around 6:00 a.m. During this time I was allowed to use the toilet but a soldier accompanied me.
8. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to a military base near Al-Ram. On the way the soldiers made me cover my face with my shirt and they made fun of me. At the base I was taken to a small dark room and they made me turn my face to the wall. I could hear soldiers around me making fun and laughing. I was left there for about an hour.
9. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to an open-air area where they made me sit on a metal stool without a back. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor before being transferred to another vehicle where I sat on a seat. I was then driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
10. At Ofer prison I was examined by a doctor. While waiting a soldier offered me a cigarette and told me it would be good for me and would make me a tougher person if I wanted to throw stones. Then I was strip searched and taken into Section 19. I was relieved to be among other Palestinian prisoners. By this time it was around 2:30 p.m. I had lunch and rested a bit because I was exhausted.
11. Three days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My family did not attend the first hearing because there was confusion about the date and they came the day before. The hearing was adjourned.
12. I had two more military court hearings and on the last occasion, which was on 18 September 2017, I accepted a plea bargain of four-and-a-half months in prison and a fine of NIS 4,500. I also received a 10-month suspended sentence for five years. In the plea bargain I confessed to throwing two stones which missed. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer advised me so and because the other detainees in prison told me to accept the first bargain they offer me because if I start to negotiate they would think I was wasting the court's time and the judge would be upset for turning the offer down.
13. I was released early on 9 October 2017. The soldiers dumped me at the wrong checkpoint while my family was waiting outside Ofer. I took a taxi home and called my brother. I did not receive any family visits as I was released before a permit was issued for my family to visit me.

I, O.I.A.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was awake keeping an eye on the neighbourhood as I heard that Israeli soldiers were in my village. It was around 2:00 a.m. I looked out the window when I heard a commotion outside and I saw about 40 soldiers. When I saw my cousin with them I realised they were coming to our house.
2. Shortly afterwards I heard very loud banging at our front door. My father answered and about 20 soldiers entered our home. They immediately asked my brother for his age and then asked me. Then they asked to see my identity card. Two soldiers followed me into my bedroom and when they saw my identity card they told me to get ready because I was under arrest.
3. The soldiers did not tell me why I was under arrest but they gave my family a document with some details written in Hebrew. I was allowed to dress and to say goodbye to my family. Then I was taken outside where I was handcuffed to the front which were not painful. I was also blindfolded. Then I was put in the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
4. The jeep drove to the nearby military base where I sat on a seat until around 7:00 a.m. During this time I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and put it back on afterwards. Then I was taken back to the jeep which drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. I arrived there at around 8:00 a.m.
5. Shortly after arrival at Etzion an interrogator took me to a room. On the way he slapped me hard while I was still blindfolded and asked me whether I knew who had been interrogated the day before. Then he named one of my friends and told me he was at the police station the day before.
6. Once in the interrogation room I was made to sit on the floor. The interrogator slapped me again on the face very hard. I was still blindfolded and handcuffed. He did not inform me of my rights. Then he took me outside and told me he wanted to know how many times my friend threw stones with me. He also wanted to know where and why. I told him I did not throw stones and did not know anyone who did. He told me I was a liar and slapped me harder. Then he tightened the hand cuffs and I was in pain. Then he swore at me and called my mother and sisters "whores". He also threatened to lock me up in prison for 20 years.

7. Then he told me he did not want me to confess against anyone else but wanted me to confess against myself. He told me if I confessed to throwing one stone on one occasion he would release me. I denied the accusation but he kept repeating the question and slapping me. In the end I confessed to throwing one stone, which missed, from a distance of 80 meters. I confessed because he kept beating me and I wanted him to stop.
8. Then he asked me if I wanted a lawyer. At first I said no but then I told him I wanted a lawyer. Then he took me to see another interrogator. The first interrogator interrogated me for about an hour and did not show me any documents to sign.
9. The second interrogator did not inform me of my rights either. He removed the blindfold and wanted to know when I threw stones. He had a tape recorder in the room but I don't think it was turned on. He told me my friend had confessed that I had thrown stones on 23 December 2016. I denied the accusation but he kept repeating the same accusation. He kept insisting and in the end I confessed to throwing one stone. The second interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. He did not ask me to sign any documents and took me to see a third interrogator.
10. The third interrogator had a tape recorder on. He showed me a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic about my right to remain silent and my right to consult with a lawyer. I did not understand it very well but I understood I should not confess. He repeated the same questions as the other interrogators and was typing on his computer. Then he printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign and asked for an Arabic translation. He gave me the document in Arabic and I read it and then I signed it.
11. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on the phone. The lawyer asked me whether I had confessed and I told him I confessed to throwing one stone. Then he told me he would see me in court.
12. Then I was taken to a prison cell at Etzion where they removed the handcuffs and I was searched in my underwear. I was given some food but I found it unappetizing and did not eat. At around midnight I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, but I was immediately sent back to Etzion where I spent the night.
13. The following day I was taken to the military court at Ofer. My lawyer was not there and the hearing was adjourned for six days. During this time I was taken to Al Mascobiyyeh police station, in West Jerusalem, but the authorities refused to admit me and I was taken back to Etzion and then to Ofer.
14. On the way to Ofer my nose was bleeding from all the slapping and a soldier gave me some tissues. I arrived at Ofer at around midnight. At Ofer I was searched in my underwear and then taken to Section 13.
15. A couple of days later I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba where I was interrogated by an intelligence officer. He did not inform me of my rights and questioned me for about 10 minutes. He told me that in my confession it was written that I threw a stone at around 4:00 p.m. whereas the military report said the clashes happened at around 2:00 p.m. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer prison.

16. On 2 August 2017, I had another military court hearing. My parents were not in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 12-15 military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 29 November 2017, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. Because my family could only pay NIS 1,000 I had to spend an additional month in prison. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for 3 years.
17. On 17 December 2017, I was taken to a court in Hasharon prison, inside Israel, where they were supposed to decide whether to grant me an early release from prison. The hearing was adjourned because the intelligence officer did not give his opinion in time. I spent a night at Ramla prison inside Israel. Then I was taken back to Ofer. I had another hearing in a court inside Israel and I was granted early release.
18. I was released on 24 December 2017 and I arrived home at around midnight. I spent my entire prison sentence at Ofer and my family visited me four times.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.M.M. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 2:00 a.m. and told me an Israeli military jeep was in our village. I got up and looked out the window and saw soldiers surrounding our house from all directions. Soon afterwards we heard loud banging at our front door.
2. My father opened the door and seven soldiers entered our home. They asked my father to gather all his children in the living room. Then they asked to see our identity cards and when they saw mine they told me to get ready because they wanted to take me for a short while for questioning. They did not give my parents any documents but told my father to go to Etzion if he wanted to check on me.
3. I put on my clothes and quickly said goodbye to my family. Then the soldiers took me outside where they blindfolded and handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were painful. A soldier also beat me on my back.
4. The soldiers led me towards the municipality building nearby where I was put in the back of a jeep and I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to the nearby military base where I remained until around 7:00 a.m. During this time I was examined by a doctor. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to the settlement of Etzion where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. There were three people in the interrogation room, one was typing and the other two played good cop, bad cop. One of them turned a tape recorder on and told me I was not allowed to speak in court and that I had to remain silent in front of the military judge. He removed the blindfold and told me to cut it short and confess so that I get sent to Ofer as quickly as possible. He threatened to arrest my father if I did not confess. I did not speak to a lawyer.
6. He showed me some photos taken during the funeral of my uncle who was killed by soldiers and told me there were confessions against me that I was throwing stones. Then he raised his hand as if he was about to slap me. At first I denied the accusation but later I confessed. I confessed to throwing one stone which missed. Then he wanted me to confess against other boys but I refused.
7. The interrogator then phoned my father and allowed me to speak to him. Then the interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him too. The lawyer told me to depend on god and not confess. When I told him I had already confessed to throwing a stone he told me it wasn't a big deal.

8. The interrogation lasted for about four hours. In the end the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused and asked for a translation. I was given the Arabic translation and I signed it.
9. Then I was taken to a cell in Etzion where I was searched in my underwear. I remained there until around 2:00 a.m. They brought me some food but I did not eat because it was unappetizing. At around 2:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was taken to Section 19.
10. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court but the hearing was adjourned. I had many hearings and my parents attended most of them. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain of six months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 1 year valid for five years.
11. I spent my entire sentence in Ofer prison. I did not study in prison because the standard was too low and I did not find the lessons useful.
12. I was released on 4 January 2018, and I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m. My family and friends came to our house to great me and my mother cooked a nice meal for me. I found it hard to sleep the first two days at home. My parents visited me four times in prison and I found life inside very boring.

Accusation: Intention to stab a soldier

I, M.M.S.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. The day before my arrest an Israeli intelligence officer phoned my father around noon and asked him to bring me over to the Bethlehem checkpoint the following day for questioning. My father and I were planning to go the following day but the soldiers came to our house that night and arrested me.
2. At around 2:30 a.m. the day after the intelligence office phoned I woke up to the sound of commotion outside our house. Soon I heard banging at our front door and my father answered. Around 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home and asked to see my identity card. Then they told me I was under arrest. They did not give my father any documents and did not tell him why they were arresting me.
3. Once I was dressed the soldiers took me outside the house where they pulled my T-shirt over my head so I could not see. I was also handcuffed with my hands in front. The metal handcuffs were tight and painful.
4. I was then led on foot towards the centre of the village where I was put in the back of a jeep and sat on a seat. The jeep drove towards the military watchtower at the entrance to the village where I was examined by a doctor. Then they made me sit on the ground for about an hour before putting me back in the jeep.
5. The jeep drove to a military base near Beit Sahour where I was taken to a room and I sat on a chair until around 9:00 a.m. At around 9:00 a.m. I was put in the back of a jeep and taken to a police station - I don't know which one. On arrival at the police station I was taken for interrogation.
6. There were four intelligence officers in the interrogation room. Before they started to question me one of them told he was going to allow me to speak to a lawyer and he was about to call a lawyer but he never did. Another one told me it was in my interest to speak frankly and to tell the truth. When I asked him what truth he was talking about he told me they had information I intended to stab a soldier at the military base at the entrance to the village following a row with my brother. I told him this was not true and I never made any statements about intending to stab a soldier. Then he told me if I did not confess he was going to lock me up in solitary confinement where he would also beat me.
7. I was interrogated for about 10 minutes and the whole time they were trying to understand the reason for the row between me and my brother. They also asked me about boys who throw stones and wanted me to give names and I gave names of some boys I knew were involved in throwing stones at soldiers.

8. After 10 minutes I was taken to see a policeman who asked me the same questions and I gave the same answers. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and told me it was identical to what I had told him and asked me to sign it and I did.
9. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was released at around 4:00 p.m. However, as I was leaving the settlement the soldiers at the entrance stopped me and checked my identity card and told me I was wanted for questioning. I told them I had already been questioned but they did not believe me.
10. The soldiers blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie and made me sit on the ground. Then a commander spoke to me and when he realised what had happened he told the soldiers to release me. I went home by myself at around 5:00 p.m.

Accusation: Intention to stab a soldier / throwing Molotov cocktails

I, S.M.S.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was still awake at around 2:00 a.m. when I heard banging at our front door. My father answered and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home and asked for me. I identified myself and the soldiers told me to get ready because I was under arrest. They gave my father a document with details about my arrest and told him they were going to take me to Etzion police station for questioning but they did not say for what.
2. After I got ready the soldiers took me outside and blindfolded me. They also handcuffed my hands to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful. The soldiers wanted me to walk but I told them I was in pain because my leg hurt so they brought a jeep and put me in the back where I sat on a seat.
3. The jeep drove towards the entrance of the village where they made me sit on the ground and a doctor examined me. The doctor removed the blindfold for the examination before replacing it. I sat on the ground near the military watchtower until around 8:00 a.m.
4. At around 8:00 a.m. I was put back in the jeep which drove for about 15 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement. On arrival at the settlement I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to sign any documents. I don't remember anything about the right to silence.
6. The interrogator asked me whether I had planned to stab soldiers or run them over. I told him I had no idea what he was talking about. Then he told me he had information I had threatened to commit such acts following some row with my family. I denied the accusation and told him I had an argument with my brother and arguments do happen among siblings. I also told him I had no intension of doing anything against soldiers.
7. Then he lost his temper, pulled out his gun and cocked it and aimed it at me as if he was going to shoot me. Then he put the gun away. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. The interrogator then told me I was "a son of a whore" and hit me on the head.
8. At the end of the interrogation he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign and I did although I did not understand what was written in it. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints, blindfolded me again and took me to a troop carrier which drove to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.

9. At Ofer I was strip-searched. The soldier who searched me asked me to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to the military court. My parents did not attend the hearing but a lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. I did not attend anymore hearings and I was released without charge on 6 August 2017.

I, M.K.A.M. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was studying late at night when I suddenly heard loud banging on our front door. It was around 2:30 a.m. I woke my father up who then answered the door and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home. They told my father they had come to arrest me because I was accused of throwing stones at soldiers. The commander gave my father a document with details about my arrest and told him they wanted to question me at the police station in Etzion settlement.
2. The soldiers allowed me to put my clothes on and then took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. Just before getting inside the jeep I was blindfolded. Inside the jeep I complained about the tie and a soldier replaced it with a looser tie.
3. The jeep drove towards the military watchtower at the entrance to the village where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health and then put it back on. Then I sat on the ground for about 15 minutes. After 15 minutes I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about 15 minutes to a nearby military base. At the base I was left on the ground in an outdoor area until around 7:00 a.m.
4. At around 7:00 a.m. I was driven in a jeep for about 30 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion the soldiers made me stand for a long time and the weather was very hot. During this time some soldiers kicked and slapped me and called me a "son of a whore". I asked the soldiers to allow me to sit down but they refused and I was so exhausted and hot that I passed out. Soldiers sprayed me with water and I regained consciousness. Then they gave me some water and allowed me to sit on the ground. About 30 minutes later I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie and allowed me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to confess and to remain silent and not to sign any documents. After speaking to the lawyer the interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but told me I had to confess. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and told me other boys had confessed against me. I denied the accusation and asked him to name the boys but he did not and I realised he was not telling the truth. When I denied the accusation he became very angry and called me a "son of a whore" and slapped me. Then he showed me a photo and told me the person in the photo throwing stones was me. I denied it and told him it was not me. He interrogated me for about three hours.

6. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused based on the lawyer's advice. Then they took my photograph, fingerprints and strip-searched me. I was then taken to a cell for about two hours.
7. After two hours my legs were shackled and I was handcuffed to the front. I was put in a troop carrier which took me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again and taken into Section 13.
8. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court because they were not notified and the hearing was adjourned.
9. After court I was taken for another interrogation this time by an intelligence officer. He did not inform me of my rights. The intelligence officer repeated the same accusation and I continued to deny it. He told me there were seven confessions against me that I threw stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers. I denied the accusations. He questioned me for about 30 minutes.
10. I was released on 13 August 2017, before the date of my second military court hearing. I was not charged and did not have to pay any money. I went home by myself and I don't know whether my file had been closed or not.

Name: M.A.M.A.
Date: 7 August 2017
Location: Tuqu', West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.M.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was working a night shift at my local bakery. At around 3:00 a.m. my uncle came by with about 10 Israeli soldiers. My uncle told me that the soldiers had already been to our house looking for me.
2. One of the soldiers, who was wearing a face mask, held me by the arm and dragged me home. Once home the soldiers allowed me to change my clothes but did not allow me to say goodbye to my family. The soldiers gave my mother a document including handwritten details about my arrest noted in Hebrew. They asked my mother to sign the document and she did.
3. Then I was taken outside where I was handcuffed with metal handcuffs to the front. The handcuffs were not painful. They also tightly blindfolded me over my glasses which caused me pain. Then I was put in the back of a jeep which was parked about 100 meters away and sat on a seat. Inside the jeep a soldier grabbed my face aggressively and asked me why I throw stones at soldiers. He also verbally abused me and called me a "son of a whore".
4. The jeep drove to the nearby military base and then to the police station in Etzion settlement. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a shipping container where the soldiers made me stand in an awkward and painful position: half crouching half standing for about 30 minutes. During this time a doctor came to examine me. He removed the blindfold and took my blood pressure and then replaced my blindfold. I was allowed to use the toilet but the soldiers refused to remove the handcuffs and insisted on leaving the bathroom door open.
5. After about 30 minutes a person took me behind the shipping container to an isolated area. He told me to cooperate with him otherwise he was going to "organize your burial ceremony". I was able to see a little from under the blindfold and I could tell he was nervous and did not want anyone to see him. Then he beat me hard on my head and kicked me in my genitals causing me severe pain. He beat and kicked me while I was handcuffed and blindfolded. When I tried to protect myself with my hands he removed the handcuffs and replaced them with my hands behind my back.
6. This person then accused me of throwing pipe bombs and Molotov cocktail at soldiers and told me if I did not confess I was never going to see my parents again. He also told me I would never have a family of my own because he was going to castrate me. When I denied the accusations he beat me more. Then he told me he was going to take me to see an interrogator.

7. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the handcuffs and I immediately realised from his clothes and his boots that he was the same person who had just beat me behind the shipping container. I pretended I did not know because I was too scared. When I told him I was beaten hard he told me he would send me back to those who beat me if I did not confess. He did not inform me of any rights.
8. Halfway through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and then spoke to the interrogator in Hebrew.
9. The interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail on 5 August 2017. He told me there were confessions against me by other boys and he named some of them. When I denied the accusation he called me " a son of a whore". Then he told me he wanted to give me two minutes to think and reconsider my answer.
10. Two minutes later the interrogator asked me whether I had anything to say. When I told him I did not understand what he wanted from me he lost his temper and started to yell and shout at me saying I had to confess. I was so scared that I decided to confess to throwing one stone during a protest in support of the prisoners' hunger strike. After I had confessed he took me to see another interrogator.
11. The second interrogator had a tape recorder. He did not inform me of my rights and asked me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator but I did not. Instead I told him I denied all the accusations. Then he sent me back to the first interrogator who was very angry and beat me when he realised I did not confess to the second interrogator. After beating me he sent me back to the second interrogator and I confessed to throwing one stone as he typed on a computer.
12. When the second interrogator finished typing he showed me two documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I asked him to explain to me what the documents were he told me they were to help identify me. I signed the two documents because I wanted to be done with the whole thing. The two interrogations lasted for about two hours.
13. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints and then strip-searched me. I was then taken to a cell where I remained until around 7:00 p.m. During this time I was brought some food.
14. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again. This time they made me crouch up and down. Two soldiers made fun of me and I was embarrassed. Then I was taken to Section 13 where I ate and went to bed.
15. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed but my lawyer was present and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had five more military court appearances which my father attended with my lawyer.

16. In the end I was sentenced to three months in prison and fined NIS 2,000 in a plea bargain. I was also sentenced to eight months in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because the sentence was going to be harsher if I did not. I also realized that my charge sheet said I had thrown stones on two occasions which was not what I had confessed to. In the plea bargain one of the charges was dropped.
17. My parents visited me once in prison and I spent my entire sentence at Ofer. In prison I studied Arabic and mathematics. I was released on 23 October 2017.
18. It was a difficult experience for me and for my family. My parents did not know where I was for 3 days after my arrest and this worried them a lot. My father lost workdays to attend the military court hearings and both my parents had many sleepless nights. When I see soldiers in town now I run home and watch from the window.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.I.I.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 3:00 a.m. I was still at the bakery where I work at night when the owner told me my brother was looking for me. I went to see what was going on and I saw a group of Israeli soldiers with my brother. They told me they had come to arrest me.
2. The soldiers walked me back to the house where they told my father they wanted him to accompany me. They gave my father a document written in Hebrew with details about where they were taking me. Then they took us outside.
3. Outside our house they blindfolded my father. Then they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They made us walk down the street where a military jeep was waiting. I was put in the back of a jeep and made to sit on the metal floor. Then they removed my father's blindfold and told him to go home. When my father left they made me sit on a seat.
4. The jeep drove for about 10 minutes to a nearby military base where I was taken inside and I sat on a chair until around 6:00 a.m. I was with other detainees who had also been arrested. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken back to the jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was left outside in the sun until around 9:00 a.m. when it was my turn to be interrogated.
5. The interrogator took me behind a shipping container and told me I had to behave myself and confess against boys who were throwing stones at soldiers two days earlier during clashes. I told him I did not know any boys who threw stones. Then he took me to a room where he removed the ties and the blindfold and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and told me I had to confess. He did not inform me of any rights.
6. The interrogator kept showing me video footage of boys throwing stones and repeated it about 10 times. He wanted me to tell him the names of the boys seen in the footage. I told him I did not know the boys.
7. Then he pulled the shutters down and turned the lights off and hit me on my head saying I had to confess. He threatened to treat me "harshly" and to bring soldiers into the room if I did not confess.

8. Half-way through the interrogation he showed me a document in Hebrew and told me it was about my right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent. Then he showed me an Arabic version of the document and asked me to sign it and I did. Then he asked me if I needed a lawyer and I named a lawyer for him. The interrogator called the lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess.
9. The interrogator kept insisting I had to confess and threatened to lock me up in prison for 6 years if I did not. In the end I confessed to throwing stones on two occasions. I confessed even though the lawyer told me not to because I did not want to be beaten and I was scared of the interrogator.
10. Then the interrogator took me to see another interrogator who had a tape recorder and typed from a paper the first interrogator had given him which I think was my testimony. Then he made me sign three sets of documents written in Hebrew. I signed because I did not know better.
11. After I signed the documents I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell inside Etzion police station where I was given some food. At around 8:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to section 13.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed that it was on. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had five military court appearances. In the end I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months valid of five years.
13. I accepted the plea bargain because the charge sheet they presented me with included things I did not confess to like throwing four stones with one of them hitting the target. There were also confessions against me by other boys. I was told my sentence would have been harsher had I not accepted the plea bargain.
14. I was released on 25 October 2017, and I went home with my parents. In prison I attended classes where they taught us the alphabet, which I found very boring.

I, M.A.K.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up when I received a message on my smart phone telling me there were Israeli soldiers in our neighbourhood. It was 4:00 a.m. Shortly afterwards I heard a bang at our front door. My father answered and about seven masked soldiers entered the house. There were many more outside.
2. The soldiers separated me and my father from the rest of the family and asked for our identity cards. The soldiers then told my father they wanted to arrest me. They gave my father a standard printed form with details filled out in Hebrew about my arrest. They allowed me to say goodbye to my family and to put my clothes on. They asked my father if he was hiding other boys in the house and he said no. My younger sister was terrified when a soldier with a gun stood outside the room and prevented anyone from leaving.
3. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and very painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then put in the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
4. The jeep drove a short distance to the nearby military base. On arrival at the base I complained about the tie. A soldier replaced the tie with a looser one and tied me to the front and gave me some water to drink. A doctor removed the blindfold and took my blood pressure and then blindfolded me again.
5. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I asked to use the toilet but I was denied. At around 7:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He kept the tie and the blindfold on and gently held me by the neck and told me I was like his son. Then he accused me of throwing stones and Molotov at soldiers on the day when a young person from the village was killed. I denied the accusation. Then he accused me of lying and insisted that I confess. He then said I was "a fucker son of a whore". He also threatened to send me to a room where soldiers would beat me up if I did not confess. He told me to be straight with him if I wanted him to be straight with me. I told him how on earth did he expect me to confess with my eyes still blindfolded and then he removed the blindfold.
7. Then the interrogator took me to another room and made me show him all the photos on my telephone. I showed him selfies with my friends. He wanted to know my friends' names. When I refused to give names he blindfolded me again. He interrogated me for about 90 minutes. Then he took me to another room where he took my fingerprints and then he took me to see another interrogator.

8. The second interrogator had a tape recorder. He showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. He told me the document was about my right to remain silent. I signed the document. Then he asked me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator because he wanted to record everything. I told him I denied all the accusations. Then he showed me other documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused.
9. The second interrogator then he called a person and spoke to him in Hebrew and then told me this was a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. I had doubts that the person was a lawyer and I made this clear to the person and told him I did not want to speak to him. The person told me to remain silent and not to confess or give confessions about others.
10. In all the interrogations lasted for about seven hours. I was without food or drink the whole time. The interrogator at one point offered to bring me some tea but he never did. He asked me whether I smoked and I said no.
11. At the end of the interrogations I was taken to a cell in Etzion where I was searched in my underwear. At around 11:00 p.m. I was taken in a GMC vehicle and taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to Section 13.
12. Three days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had four appearances in the military court. At the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. In addition I was given a suspended sentence of eight months valid for three years.
13. In prison I studied Arabic and Mathematics. I was released on 22 October 2017, and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around midnight.
14. This was my second imprisonment and my father told me he wasn't going to visit me in prison or attend court hearings or pay any fines if I am arrested again. He was very upset when I dropped out of school. He wants me to go back to school but I don't want to.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.D.M.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was working at the bakery when Israeli soldiers raided at around 2:00 a.m. They dragged me outside and took me home where I found out they had come to the house earlier looking for me. They told my father they wanted to arrest me without telling us why. I did not see them give my father any written documents. Then they told my father they wanted to take him too.
2. They took me outside our house where they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were tight. The soldiers then led me towards the centre of the village and put me in the back of a jeep and made me sit on the floor. They put my father in another jeep. The jeep drove towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our village.
3. At the military watchtower I was taken out of the jeep and a doctor examined me. I complained to the doctor about the ties but he did not do anything. I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to a nearby military base.
4. On arrival at the military base I was taken to a courtyard where I sat on the ground until around 10:00 a.m. Then I was taken back to the jeep which drove for about 30 minutes to the police station in Etzion settlement.
5. At Etzion I sat on the ground for about two more hours and then I was taken for interrogation at around 12:30 p.m.
6. My father was also taken to Etzion but he was not allowed to attend the interrogation. The interrogator removed my blindfold and the ties. He did not inform me of my right to silence, instead he told me I had to speak. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer advised me not to confess and not to sign any documents. He also told me he would see me in court.
7. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and said there were confessions against me from boys who claimed I was throwing stones with them. When I denied the accusation the interrogator slapped and punched me. He also verbally abused me and called me a "brother of a fucking whore". Then he repeated the accusation and I continued to deny it. I was interrogated for about 90 minutes.

8. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator printed out my statement in Hebrew and convinced me to sign it by saying it was identical to what I had told him and that signing the document was necessary for transferring me to prison. Then he took my photograph and fingerprints. I was then strip-searched and taken to a cell at Etzion where I remained for about two hours.
9. After about two hours some soldiers shackled my legs and handcuffed me to the front and took me to a troop carrier which drove to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip-searched again and taken to Section 13.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not notified but my lawyer was present and the hearing was adjourned. My parents attended the second hearing and I was allowed to speak to them. I had about six military court hearings.
11. On the last military court hearing the military judge decided to release me on bail and my parents had to pay NIS 2,000. I was released on 31 August 2017. My next hearing is on 11 September 2017.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.N.K.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was up at around 1:30 a.m. looking at Facebook feeds about Israeli military activities and arrests in my village. The night before a friend of mine told me the interrogator who questioned him showed him photos of me. When I read the news on Facebook I expected they would come for me.
2. Shortly afterwards soldiers knocked at our door and my brother answered. About 12 soldiers entered our home and told my father they wanted to arrest me. They gave him a printed form with handwritten notes in Hebrew with details about my arrest. My brother told me to be strong and not give names when interrogated.
3. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They walked me a short distance and made me sit on the ground behind a military jeep where they blindfolded me. The blindfold was tight and caused me pain. Then I was put in the back of a jeep where I was made to sit on the metal floor.
4. The jeep drove around the village and then went to a nearby military base. A soldier at the base asked to see my telephone. When I refused he kicked me hard which was painful.
5. Then the soldier took me around the base on foot. I think he wanted to make sure I was disoriented. He sarcastically told this was a tour around the Ka'ba. Then I was taken inside where a doctor removed the ties and the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health. Then he tied and blindfolded me again.
6. After the medical check I was taken in a troop carrier to another military base where I was put in a room until around 10:00 a.m. I was not given any food or drink and I could not sleep because the soldiers around me were very noisy.
7. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken back to the troop carrier which picked up other detainees from another base and then drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was left in an outdoor area in the sun. I was so tired that I fell asleep for about 15 minutes but then the interrogator came and slapped me hard on my neck and took me to a room.
8. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not remove the ties or the blindfold. He immediately accused me of throwing three Molotov cocktails the day before I was arrested. I denied the accusation.

9. Then the interrogator removed the blindfold, aggressively held my face and asked me whether I was truly a man. When I said I was he said "let us then speak man to man and I will release you within half-an-hour". He told me if I confessed he would send me home. When I denied the accusation and refused to confess he raised his voice at me and told me I had to confess. He threatened if I did not confess he was going to lock me up in prison for four years.
10. Then a second interrogator came and took me to another room. The second interrogator had a tape recorder and played good cop and told me the first interrogator was short tempered and angry but things were different with him. He told me the two of us could sort things out and come to an agreement. Then he told me he wanted me to a lawyer. He called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to her. The lawyer told me not to confess and to remain silent. She also told me if I was subjected to pressure to confess to throwing one stone which missed.
11. The second interrogator then left the room and came back with two cups of coffee. He asked me if I smoked and I said I did not. Then he started talking about his son and how he wished his son would quit smoking. Then he wanted to know why I threw Molotov cocktails at soldiers the day before my arrest. Then he named a friend of mine, the same boy who had told me the interrogator had photographic evidence against me, and asked me whether I knew that boy. When I said I did not know him he reminded me he was the one who spoke to me two days ago and named the place where we sat together. Then he told me the boy had confessed against me and told him that I threw stones using sling shots. I denied the accusation.
12. Then the interrogator showed me a document in Arabic informing me of my right to remain silent. He asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. During the interrogation he was typing on his computer. Then he printed out what he was typing in Hebrew and asked me to sign. When I refused to sign and asked him to translate it for me he told me he was not allowed to translate it for me. Then I told him I could not read or write. He told me he would hold my hand and help me scribble a signature on the document. He kept insisting that I had to sign. By then it was around 3:00 p.m. and I was tired and sick of this so I decided to sign. I continued to deny the accusation and refused to confess. The interrogator told me I would be convicted even if I did not confess because my friend had confessed against me and that was enough evidence.
13. Then the interrogator showed me photographs of boys and asked me to identify them but I told him I did not know them. Then he asked me if I had anything more to say and I told him I was tired and wanted to get out of there. The interrogation lasted for about five hours during which time I was without food or drink. When I asked to use the toilet he told I would be allowed to use the toilet after the interrogation.
14. After the interrogation I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell in Etzion. About 15 minutes later I was put in a vehicle and driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip-searched. After being searched I was taken to Section 13.

15. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. I had my first meal in the court complex. My parents did not attend the hearing because they did not know I was in court and the proceedings were adjourned.
16. In all I had six military court appearances. At the last appearance I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor dropped the more serious accusations of throwing Molotov and as a result my prison sentence was less.
17. I spent my sentence in Ofer prison and my parents visited me twice. In prison I studied Arabic but I dropped out of school and my father promised to send me to a vocational school. I was released on 23 October 2017.

I, A.W.M.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 1:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father answered and a group of eight Israeli soldiers entered our home. My uncle was with them because they went to his house first looking for me.
2. The soldiers ordered all of us into the living room and asked my father for my identity card and then compared it to a list of names they had. The commander saw my name on his list and ticked it.
3. Then the commander told my father they wanted to take me for a couple of hours and then they would bring me back afterwards. He gave my father a document with details about my arrest. I prepared myself and said goodbye to the family.
4. The soldiers then took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and cut into my wrists and caused bleeding. They left a mark on my wrists for a long time.
5. The soldiers walked me a short distance to where a military jeep was waiting where I was blindfolded. I was then put in the back of the jeep where I sat on a seat next to two other detainees.
6. The jeep drove a short distance to the nearby military base where a doctor examined me. The doctor removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He then replaced the blindfold after the examination.
7. Then I was taken to another military base where I was left on the ground outside for about seven hours. I was tied and blindfolded the whole time. At one point a soldier tightened the blindfold and I felt my eyes were going to pop up. The soldiers brought me some water and allowed me to pee behind some shipping containers but with my hands still tied.
8. After about seven hours I was put in a troop carrier and driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. A soldier inside the troop carrier put his boots on the seat I was sitting on and swore at me calling me a "fucker son of a whore". Another soldier told him to leave me alone. About one-and-a-half hours I was taken for interrogation.

9. The interrogator did not inform me of any rights. He kept me tied and blindfolded and told me if I was straight with him he was going to be straight with me. Then he asked me where my father worked. When I told him my father had a job inside Israel he told me if I did not cooperate with him he was going to revoke my father's work permit and destroy his livelihood.
10. Then he wanted to know what I was doing on 30 July 2017. I told him I could not remember what I was doing on that exact date but generally I go to school in the morning and I stay home studying in the afternoon. As soon as I said this he slapped me on the face and hit me on the head and told me I had to confess to throwing stones at soldiers. I was beaten so hard and I was so scared that I confessed to throwing a stone from a distance of 450 meters at military jeeps in the village but the stone missed the target. Then he wanted to know who else was throwing stones. I told him all the other boys were wearing masks on their faces and I did not recognise them.
11. Then I was taken to see another interrogator who had a camera and a tape recorder in the room. He gave me a document informing me of my right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer who told me not to confess. I told the lawyer I had already confessed.
12. The second interrogator asked me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did after he translated it for me.
13. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked then I was taken to Section 13 where I ate and went to bed.
14. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court because they were not notified of the hearing. My case was adjourned.
15. In all I had seven military court appearances. At the last appearance I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. In addition I was given another six months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told I would spend eight months in prison if I didn't.
16. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer and my mother visited me once. In prison I played chess and studied a bit. I am not doing well at school and I am thinking of dropping out.
17. Now when I hear that soldiers are in my village I go home and stay there. My parents suffered because of my imprisonment, especially my father who lost workdays when he attended my court hearings.
18. I was released on 23 October 2017, and I went home with my father.

1. I was looking at Facebook reports about Israeli military activities in my village. It was around 1:30 a.m. and I could not sleep. I looked out the window and saw a group of soldiers in the neighbourhood. Then I saw the soldiers knock at my uncle's house nearby. Then I heard a knock at our door.
2. My father answered the door and three soldiers entered our home and immediately asked my father to name all his children. Then they came to my bedroom and asked me for my name and then told me I was under arrest. They gave my father a document with details in Hebrew about my arrest. They asked my father to sign it and he did.
3. I put on some clothes and said goodbye to my family. The soldiers then took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They also blindfolded me.
4. I was then pushed into the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. A soldier made fun of me and deliberately spilled water on my leg. Another soldier swore at me and called me son of a "whore" and hit me on my head but the commander told him to stop.
5. The jeep drove a short distance to a nearby military base where a doctor examined me. He removed the blindfold and put it back on when he was finished. Then I was taken to another military base where they made me sit on a chair in an outdoor area for about four hours. They brought me some water and I was tied and blindfolded the whole time.

7. The interrogator, who wore civilian clothes, did not inform me of my rights. He told me he was an intelligence officer and that he knew everything there was to know about me and told me to tell him everything. Then he asked me how many times have I thrown stones at soldiers. When I denied the accusation and refused to confess he punched me in the stomach. He swore at me and called me son of a "whore".

8. Then he showed me a picture of me standing on the side of a road not doing anything. However I denied it was me because I thought he would still use it as evidence against me. Then he asked me for the names of my friends but I did not give him any names. This lasted for about an hour. Then he told me he was not going to release me until I confessed. Then I confessed to throwing one stone which missed because I wanted to put an end to this.
9. After I confessed the intelligence officer took me to another room where another interrogator was sitting. He asked me where I was when I threw stones and wanted to know more details about what happened at the time when a young person from my village was killed.
10. In the end the second interrogator handed me a document informing me of my right to silence and my right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer but the lawyer did not answer. Then I asked him to call another lawyer and he did. The lawyer told me not to confess but I told him I already had. I remember the interrogator had a tape recorder in the room.

I, Y.Q.A.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 1:30 a.m. when I heard loud banging at our front door. My mother answered and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. Three of the soldiers wore facemasks. The soldiers asked me for my name and then went to my bedroom.
2. The soldiers had a photograph and were looking for a particular T-shirt worn by an individual in the photograph. Then they held a T-Shirt against me and took a picture of me and then told me they wanted to take me for questioning at the police station in the settlement of Kedumim. They did not give us any documents. My mother told the commander I was too young to be taken away on my own but he did not pay attention to what she said.
3. The soldiers then took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties; one on top of the other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then led me towards the nearby military base on foot. On the way to the base I tripped and fell down because I was blindfolded. When I fell down a soldier kicked me in the back and I was in pain and shock.
4. When we arrived at the base I was taken inside where I sat on a chair, tied and blindfolded, until around 5:30 a.m. I was not given any food or drink and I could not sleep. At Around 5:30 a.m. I was taken to another military base in a military jeep. At the second base I was examined by a doctor. At around noon I was taken to the police station in Kedumim settlement.
5. While waiting for my turn to be interrogated I saw soldiers take another boy from my village and beat him. I was scared and worried I might be beaten too. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept my ties on. I complained to him that the ties were painful but he did not respond. He immediately started to swear at me and cursed my religion. Then he told me if I remained silent it would be used against me. I understood this to mean that if I did not answer his questions it would be considered an implied confession. He also told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. He called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer asked me whether the interrogator had informed me of my rights. Then he asked me for my name and did not say anything else.

7. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones on Route 55 and showed me pictures and video footage. He also told me other boys had confessed against me. When I denied the accusation he raised his voice at me and repeated the accusation. I continued to deny the accusation. The interrogation went on for about 90 minutes. In the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base near Nablus. We arrived at the base at around 8:00 p.m. On the way I was blindfolded and tied. All this time I was still without food or drink.
9. On arrival at Huwwara I was strip searched before being taken to a cell where I slept on a very thin mattress on the floor. I was uncomfortable and did not sleep well. I was given some food in the morning. At around 7:00 a.m. the next day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched in my underwear and asked to crouch up and down and then I was taken to the juvenile section.
10. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. Nobody from my family came to court because they did not know I had a hearing. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had about 10 hearings in the military court. At the last hearing on 25 October 2017, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and a NIS 2,000 fine. I was also given a suspended sentence of nine months suspended for three years.
11. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo prison and my mother visited me three times. After I was sentenced I appeared in court again and the judge decided to grant me an early release. I think the prison was too crowded and many boys were granted early releases.
12. I was released on 28 December 2017 at Al-Jalama checkpoint. My family was not informed of my early release and so were not there to meet me. I used a driver's telephone to call my brothers who came and picked me up and took me home. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.
13. In prison I studied but I don't think I will go back to school. I finished 10th grade and I want to help my mother support the family because my father died.

I, A.S.L.S. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My brother woke me up at around 2:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers had come to our house. My parents were following the news of a military incursion into our village on Facebook and were already awake. I got up and went to the living room where I found five soldiers. My cousin was with the soldiers because they had gone to my uncle's house first.
2. The commander asked for our identity cards. When he saw mine, he took me to my bedroom and started to search my wardrobe looking for a T-shirt and a pair of shoes seen in one of the photos he had. Then he asked for my telephone and told me to get ready because I was under arrest. He did not give my family any documents but he told us they wanted to question me without saying why.
3. I said goodbye to my family and went outside where the soldiers tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie which was painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where they made me sit on the metal floor.
4. The jeep drove for about 10 minutes to a nearby military base. At the base, they made me sit outside on a rock and then took pictures of me with the T-Shirt they took from my wardrobe. I was left there for about an hour and then I was taken to the settlement of Zufin. We arrived at Zufin at around 4:00 a.m.
5. On arrival at Zufin I was taken to a room and allowed to use the toilet. A soldier removed the tie and then replaced it with three ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. I was also examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and put it back on later.
6. After the medical check I was taken to Qedumim settlement. I arrived there at around 3:00 p.m. At Qedumim I waited until the evening and then I was taken for interrogation. I was still without any food or drink. I was very tired, hungry and sleepy.
7. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold and the ties and turned a tape recorder on. He asked me what I was doing in his office and I told him I had no idea. Then he told me I had to confess and asked me whether I wanted to answer his questions or remain silent. I told him I was going to answer his questions. I thought to myself if I remained silent he would then write anything he wanted. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to confess only if I had done something and not to confess if I hadn't. Then he called my father and told him he was interrogating me and asked my father to attend the interrogation but my father chose not to.

8. Then he showed me some photos and wanted me to give him names of people in the photos but I told him I did not know anyone. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on Route 55 from a distance of 50 meters with a group of young men. I denied the accusation. He also showed me photos taken during clashes with soldiers and told me I was in the photos. Still, I denied the accusation. The interrogator was calm throughout.
9. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. In the end the interrogator showed me some documents and asked me to sign them. I signed the first page which was in Arabic but when I realised the other pages were in Hebrew I scratched my signature and refused to sign the other pages.
10. Then I was taken in a troop carrier to Huwwara military base. I arrived there at around 11:00 p.m. but I was left outside in the cold until around 1:00 a.m. Then I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell where I stayed with another detainee from my village. I was still without food or drink. I slept from around 2:00 a.m. until around 6:00 a.m. when soldiers brought me some food.
11. After I ate I was searched again in my underwear, shackled and handcuffed and taken in a troop carrier to Salem military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed but a lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. After court I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was again searched in my underwear and then I was taken into the juvenile section.
12. I had about nine military court hearings which my family attended. On the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. In addition to a suspended sentence of seven months valid for three years. I was told if I rejected the plea bargain I would be sentenced to nine months in prison. That is why I accepted the plea bargain.
13. I spent my entire prison sentence at Megiddo where I attended some classes. My family visited me six times. I was released on 15 February 2018 at Al-Jalama checkpoint. I don't go to school anymore but I work at a restaurant which my family owns.

Name: N.S.M.R.
Age: 16
Date: 9 August 2017
Location: Azzun, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.S.M.R. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 2:00 a.m. and told me to get up and follow him to the living room because Israeli soldiers were in our home. I got up and went to the living room where I saw about 20 soldiers. Around half of the soldiers were wearing face masks. I was scared.
2. The commander told my father he wanted to take me for a “quick chat”. He did not explain more and did not give my family any documents. Then the soldiers searched the house and turned things upside down and caused a lot of damage to the furniture. They broke the wardrobe in my parents’ bedroom and deliberately poured olive oil on our clothes. They spent about two hours inside our house.
3. The commander wanted to make sure I was the person he was looking for so he called a masked person into the house who was not a soldier and the person immediately nodded when he saw me. I think this person was a collaborator. Then they took photos of me with the shirt that my older brother was wearing.
4. I was then led out of the house and my hands were tied behind my back with two plastic ties, one on top of the other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time. They also tied my legs with plastic ties and blindfolded me and then led me outside. I tumbled and fell down three times because I could not walk properly or see.
5. On the way I was slapped on the neck and beaten on the head. Then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
6. The jeep drove for a few minutes and then I was taken out of the jeep and made to sit in front of a house for about an hour. Then I was led a short distance to a nearby taxi office where they made me sit on the ground. When I tried to remove the blindfold because it was bothering me I was slapped and beaten on my legs.
7. Later I was taken back to the jeep together with another detainee and the jeep took us to the nearby military base of Zufin.
8. I spent about five hours at Zufin. During this time I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and the ties and put them back on later. I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet. Then I was taken to the settlement of Qedumim for interrogation. It was around 3:00 p.m.

9. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He turned a tape recorder on and called my parents and told them where I was. Then he gave me the name of a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on the phone. The lawyer told me I had rights. He told me if the interrogator asks me questions and I don't answer him it could be used against me as an admission. The interrogator gave me a document in Arabic about the right to silence and asked me to sign it and I did.
10. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on Route 60 from a distance of 50 meters. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me pictures of young men during clashes and told me I was among them but still I denied the accusation. Then he wanted me to give names of people shown in the pictures but I told him I did not know any of them. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. The interrogator did not ask me to sign anything.
11. Then I was taken back to a jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep drove to Huwwara military base. At Huwwara I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I slept. It was around 1:00 a.m. I was not given any food or drink until around 6:00 a.m. the following morning.
12. After breakfast, I was taken in a jeep to Salem military court. My parents were not there but my lawyer was and the hearing was adjourned. After court I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched and taken to the juvenile section.
13. About a week later I was taken for another interrogation at the police station in Ariel settlement. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and told me there was a new confession against me. He named a person and wanted to know if I knew him. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
14. I had numerous military court appearances. At the last hearing, which was on 19 September 2017, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told my sentence would be worse if I did not.
15. I spent my entire sentence in Megiddo prison and my mother and brother visited me six times. My father was denied a permit to visit me. During my time in prison a social worker interviewed me and wrote a report. On 26 December 2017, I had an additional hearing to decide whether I am entitled for early release. The judge rejected the request and I was very disappointed.

Name: B.R.M.M.
Date: 11 August 2017
Location: Beit Ummar, West Bank
Accusation: Burning tyres

I, B.R.M.M. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on village land opposite the settlement of Karmi Zur with my friends at around 4:30 p.m. There were no clashes with Israeli soldiers at the time. Two soldiers suddenly appeared behind us. I was terrified when I saw them but I did not to run away. The soldiers immediately stopped us.
2. The soldiers started to question me in Hebrew and some Arabic but I did not understand what they were saying. The soldiers then checked my hands and took my mobile phone. Then they led me on foot towards the settlement.
3. At the gate to the settlement the soldiers tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie. The tie was tight and painful. They also blindfolded me. Then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. They made one of my friends sit on my lap. We remained inside the jeep for about 30 minutes. A soldier asked me whether everything was ok and I told him everything was fine.
4. After about 30 minutes the jeep then drove towards a nearby military base. We remained inside the jeep once we arrived at the base. About 15 minutes later the jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement.
5. At Etzion I was taken to a courtyard where I sat on the ground. A soldier asked me what I was doing near the settlement (Karmi Zur) and whether we had intended to set fire to tyres. I told him we were not doing anything wrong. Then he told me they were waiting for the interrogator to arrive in order to question us. I was not informed of any rights.
6. I was kept at Etzion for about two hours. During this time I asked to drink and to use the toilet and the soldiers allowed me to pee in the courtyard while tied and blindfolded.
7. After about two hours some soldiers took me to a jeep and I sat on a seat. The jeep drove for about 30 minutes and then stopped at a hilly area where I was taken out of the jeep and the soldiers made me sit on some rocks for about 10 minutes. Then I was put in a shipping container which had one metal bed. A soldier was there to guard me and my friend. Every now and then a soldier walked in and verbally abused me. He told me I was a "fucker son of a whore".

8. By this time the blindfold was causing me pain. I asked them to remove it to allow me to use the toilet but they refused. I asked for water and they brought me some. Then the soldier fell asleep and I was able to sleep too.
9. Later another soldier threatened to lock me up in prison if I did not tell him what I was doing in the area near the settlement. I told him I was not doing anything wrong. Then I was taken back to a jeep which drove to the entrance my village. The soldiers removed the tie and the blindfold and released me. It was around 3:00 a.m.

I, I.J.S.J. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Our house is located near an area where weekly protests take place against the occupation. On the day of my arrest I was on my way to the shop to buy some groceries at around 5:30 p.m. An Israeli military jeep pulled over and I did not run away.
2. The soldiers stepped out and asked me to put my hands up and to bend over the jeep because they wanted to search me. Then they asked to see my hands to check whether I had dirt from throwing stones or setting tyres on fire. My hands were dirty because I touched the jeep and I was worried they would think I was involved.
3. When the commander saw my hands he accused me of throwing stones and setting tyres on fire but I told him I was at home during the protest and I did not take part. I showed him where I lived.
4. The commander did not believe me and continued to question me. He wanted to know why I threw stones at soldiers and why I set tyres on fire. I told him I did not throw stones or set tyres on fire.
5. By this time my father tried to intervene but the soldiers did not allow him close. Then the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties, one inside the other. The ties were not painful. Then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and a soldier took a picture of me on his mobile phone. The jeep drove outside the village and then stopped.
6. I was taken out of the jeep and another commander, who recognised me, told the soldiers to un-tie my hands. He knows me because he often comes to monitor the neighbourhood during protests from our roof top. Then he took me aside and started to question me. He told me he really wanted to release me but he needed my help first. When I asked what kind of help he needed he told me he wanted me to give him names of the boys who throw stones at soldiers. I told him I could not help him because I did not know any boys who throw stones.
7. The commander then told me not to rush an answer and to take my time to think. He told me to sit on the rock and seriously think about my answer because he really wanted to release me. I told him I did not want to sit on the rock because I did not want to help anyone.

8. The commander left me for about 15 minutes and then again asked me for the names of boys who throw stones. I told him I did not know any boys who throw stones. He then sarcastically asked how I can live in Kafr Qaddum and not know the boys. I was kept there for about four hours. Then my father came and took me home.

Name: A.A.A.H.
Date: 29 August 2017
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.A.H. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 1:00 a.m. I read on Facebook that Israeli soldiers were in my town. At first, I did not believe it. I went with a friend to see the person who posted the news who told us it was true.
2. Shortly afterwards six military jeeps came to the neighbourhood. I quickly ran to our neighbor's house and hid on the roof and watched. I saw a large group of soldiers first go to my uncle's house. They banged very loudly and my uncle answered. They asked him for my grandfather and my uncle told them he was in his grave. Then they showed my uncle photos and then he realised they were looking for me. My uncle showed them the way to our house. I watched and heard this from our neighbor's roof top.
3. The soldiers banged at our front door. My mother answered and they told her they were looking for me. My mother thought I was in bed but when she went to find me and she didn't she told the commander I was not at home. They made my mother; my father and my uncle gather in the courtyard and took my brother into the house and asked him about me. My brother told them I was at my grandparents' house in Qalqiliya.
4. The commander was angry and started to shout at my father. The commander told my father that I was at home five minutes ago so where did I go? I was shocked when I heard this because I realised the information must have come from a collaborator.
5. The commander then gave my family five minutes to hand me over. After five minutes they detained my father and wanted to lead him around town looking for me. My father refused to go and told the soldiers that the whole town would think he was a collaborator if they did that. This argument lasted about two hours.
6. In the end the commander told my father he had to bring me to the police station by 8:00 a.m. and gave him a summons written in both Arabic and Hebrew summoning me to the military base at Zufin. He threatened that if I did not show up at 8:00 a.m. as requested he was going to raid our house every night and cause damage. The soldiers left our house at around 3:00 a.m.
7. I went back home and a group of young men from the village came to our house and gave me some advice as to what to expect during interrogation and in prison. Then I told them to leave because I wanted to get some sleep.

8. I got up at around 6:00 a.m., had breakfast and my father ordered a taxi. I said goodbye to my family and went with my father to Zufin military base as ordered in the summons.
9. My father and I waited outside the military base for about one-and-a-half. Finally, a military jeep arrived at the gate and the soldiers told my father to go home. Then they took me inside the base and searched me. A soldier handcuffed me with metal handcuffs to the front which were not painful. I was also blindfolded and then taken inside the base.
10. Once inside the base I was taken to a small room where I waited for about 30 minutes. Then I was put in the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat next to another detainee. A soldier swore at me when I talked to the other person. The jeep drove to the police station in Ariel settlement.
11. At Ariel I was taken to a room where I waited with other detainees for about an hour. Then I was taken outside where I waited another one-and-a-half hours. I told a soldier I was hungry and the soldier swore at me for asking for food. Then he brought me a small cake which I shared. Then I was taken for interrogation. It was around mid-day.
12. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold. He had a computer, a printer and a voice recorder. He asked me for my name and wanted to know where I was when the soldiers raided our house. Then he turned the voice recorder on and told me he was going to start interrogating me. He told me I had the choice of either speaking or remaining silent but he scared me when he said remaining silent could confirm the allegations against me leading to a conviction. I was scared and decided not to remain silent.
13. Then he told me he was going to get me a lawyer. He phoned someone but did not allow me to speak to him. Then he phoned my father and asked him whether he wanted to attend my interrogation. My father decided not to come because he was worried it might put him under emotional and psychological pressure.
14. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and I denied it. He repeated the accusation and I continued to deny it. Then he accused me of throwing Molotov cocktails at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He mentioned a date in July when he claimed I threw the Molotov cocktail. When I denied the accusation, he added another one to put more pressure on me to confess to the lesser accusation. He accused me of burning tires and of cutting the fence along the Wall. Again I denied the accusation.
15. Then he asked me if I wanted to see the evidence against me and I told him I did. He showed me some photographs and pointed to a person and said that person looked exactly like me. I denied it. Then he wanted me to tell him who the other young men in the photograph were. I told him I did not know them.
16. The interrogator then wanted me to sign on the photograph as an admission that I was seen there. I held the pen and was going to sign but then I changed my mind and the interrogator became angry. He swore at god and put his gun on the table in front of him.

Then he kicked me out of the room and told me he no longer wanted to interrogate me. The interrogation lasted about 30 minutes and the interrogator did not give me any documents to sign.

17. I was taken outside for about half-an-hour and then driven to Huwwara military base. I arrived there at around 5:00 p.m. I was taken to a shipping container where I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to a cell by myself. I was given some food but I could not eat it because it was unappetising. Then I slept.
18. The next morning, I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where they wanted to search me without my clothes and I refused and there was an argument.
19. About a week later I was taken to Salem military court. My lawyer and my parents were present. The hearing was adjourned.
20. In all I had about 14 military court hearings in about four months. During one of the hearings the military judge told me I was accused of throwing stones. I denied it and raised my voice at the judge who told me to be respectful of the military court.
21. My lawyer told me he wanted to negotiate a plea bargain with the prosecutor to save me and my parents the hassle of coming to court. He told me he wanted me to plead guilty to relieve me and my family and to relieve him too because the case was taking too long. I was convinced that pleading guilty would send me home sooner so I confessed to throwing one stone from a distance of five meters about a year ago. The judge wanted to know if someone else was with me and I told him I was by myself.
22. In the end I was sentenced to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for five years. The plea bargain was accepted on 12 December 2017.
23. I spent my entire prison sentence in Megiddo. My parents visited me six times. The first visit was four-and-a-half months after my arrest. In prison I cleaned and cooked and emptied the garbage. I also attended mathematics and Arabic classes and I was given a certificate. I also played volley ball.
24. Following my arrest my father was banned from entering Israel to work for five years. His work permit was revoked at a military checkpoint when he came to visit me in prison inside Israel. He used to work as a gardener in Tel-Aviv and is now unemployed.
25. I was released three months early on 15 March 2018, at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my family. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m. and my friends took me around the town in cars, celebrating my release.

Testimony 552

Name: M.F.F.A.
Age: 16
Date: 6 September 2017
Location: Hebron, West Bank
Accusation: Attempted stabbing

I, M.F.F.A. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was near the mosque in Hebron at around 1:00 p.m. when an Israeli soldier stopped me and asked to see my identity card. When I told him I had forgotten it at home he accused me of lying and wanted to search me. When he put his hand in my pocket and found a pen knife he went crazy. He took away my telephone and my money and made me take my shoes and my top off.
2. About five minutes later around six soldiers walked towards me and the soldier who conducted the search pointed at me. Another soldier then tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful and cut into my wrists. He also blindfolded me and pushed me to the ground.
3. Once I was on the ground the other soldiers started to kick and beat me all over my body. They also swore at me saying I was a "son of a whore". Then they removed the blindfold and made me walk a short distance and made me stand in a corner. One of the soldiers then beat me with the back of his gun and pushed me to the ground. I fell on my jaw because my hands were tied which caused me severe pain.
4. A soldier noticed my wrists were bleeding because of the tie and he replaced it with metal handcuffs to the front. I remained like this for about 30 minutes.
5. After 30 minutes I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. At the police station they made me sit on a metal stool for about three hours while handcuffed. During this time I was allowed to use the toilet and to drink some water. Then I was taken for interrogation. It was around 5:00 p.m.
6. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He turned a tape recorder on but did not remove my handcuffs. He asked me if I knew a lawyer and I told him I did not. He then phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to her. The lawyer told me not to confess. The interrogator also phoned my mother. He also told me I had the right to remain silent and the right not to sign any documents.
7. The interrogator accused me of attempting to stab a soldier while reciting "Allahu Akbar" and claimed he had photographic evidence of this. I denied the accusation and asked him to show me the photographs but he never did. He repeated the accusation; this time he raised his voice at me and accused me of lying. I continued to deny the accusation. Then he asked me to sign some documents in Hebrew. When I asked him to explain what was written in the documents he told me not to be afraid of signing. I signed without understanding anything.

8. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints. I was then taken to a room where I sat for about three hours. During this time I was examined by a doctor. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was strip searched. I was then taken to a cell where they removed my handcuffs. I was not given anything to eat.
9. The following day I was taken to the military court at Ofer, near Jerusalem. My parents were not in court because they did not know I had a hearing. My lawyer was there and my detention was extended and the hearing adjourned.
10. I had four more appearances in the military courts which my parents attended. At the last hearing the military court wanted my father to pay NIS 5,000 for bail but my father told the court he did not have that kind of money. The judge decided to reduce the amount to NIS 3,500. My father paid the amount on the same day and I was released on bail on 25 September 2017. I arrived home at around 2:00 a.m. but I was very happy to be home especially because I would be able to attend my sister's wedding.
11. I have attended two more military court hearings since I was released on bail but they were both adjourned and nothing happened. My next hearing will be on 21 February 2018. I have dropped out of school and I now have a job as a painter.

Name: M.H.M.Q.
Date: 8 September 2017
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, M.H.M.Q. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke up at 2:30 a.m. to tell me that Israeli soldiers were raiding our home. He told me not to be scared. I got up and went to the living room where I found about 14 soldiers in full military gear.
2. The commander went straight to my bedroom, opened my wardrobe and took out a shirt. Then he looked at me and said I was under arrest but did not say why. He told my father he wanted to take me for a couple of days and my father said he wanted to accompany me. The commander did not give my parents any documents.
3. I put on some clothes and my mother started to cry. She tried to prevent the soldiers from taking me away. A soldier pointed his gun at my mother and threatened to fire a stun grenade if she did not move back.
4. Then they took me outside and my father insisted on accompanying me. They walked both of us down the hill to a nearby valley. We walked in the dark for about two kilometers on dirt roads. My father held my hand and kept telling me not to worry and not to be afraid. My father became very tired from walking and was panting. The soldiers stopped and allowed my father to catch his breath.
5. At one point the soldiers handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful. Then a troop carrier arrived and we were put inside where we sat on seats. Inside the troop carrier soldiers blindfolded me and my father.
6. The troop carrier drove to the nearby military base of Zufin where we were taken into a room and a doctor examined me. He removed the blindfold during the examination and put it back on later. My father accidentally banged his head on a sign sticking out of the wall and the commander decided to remove his blindfold. My father was in shock and pain. They brought us some chocolate milk but we did not drink it because it was sour.
7. At around 9:00 a.m. we were taken to Qedumim settlement. We waited for about 30 minutes in a corridor. At around 12:30 p.m. I was taken to an interrogation room and my father was allowed to accompany me.
8. The interrogator removed my blindfold and shackled my ankles and tied me to the table. Then he told me I had the choice not to speak but he warned me that remaining silent would be interpreted as an admission. He also told me if I wanted a lawyer he would bring me one. He had a tape recorder and he turned it on. I did not speak to a lawyer.

9. Then he asked me what I did with my time. I told him I go to school and when I am at home I spend my time studying and doing my homework. Then he told me he had evidence against me. I denied being involved in anything wrong. Then he showed me six photographs and claimed they were taken on 21 July 2017 during clashes with soldiers. He asked me where I was on 21 July and I told him I did not remember.
10. Then he accused me of taking part in clashes on that day and I told him the whole town was out protesting. At this point my father intervened and accused the interrogator of provoking me. He told him I was under duress because of the manner in which I was arrested in the middle of the night and anything I said was not to be taken seriously. The interrogator told my father to shut up and threatened to kick him out of the room if he spoke again.
11. Then the interrogator wanted to know who were the boys in the photographs. I told him I did not know anyone. Then he asked me whether I knew that throwing stones could cause damage to the paint on a military jeep.
12. In the end I confessed to throwing stones from a distance of 50-60 meters. Then he asked me how many stones and claimed I had thrown five stones. My father intervened again and accused the interrogator of putting words in my mouth. The interrogator told my father to shut up. Then he told him it was his duty to forbid his children from marching to the Wall and throwing stones at soldiers and threatened to revoke his work permit.
13. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them after he had explained to my father what the documents said. I signed. He also made me sign the photographs. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes.
14. When the interrogation was over the interrogator told my father to leave and I was taken to Huwwara military base. When we arrived I was strip searched and then driven to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. On the way the soldiers turned the air conditioner on very low and I was very cold. We arrived at Megiddo at around 8:30 p.m. I was taken to the juvenile section without being searched again.
15. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed about the hearing. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned.
16. I had about nine military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I also received a 10-month sentence suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain based on my lawyer's advice who told me it was in my interest not to reject the offer.

17. I spent my entire sentence in Megiddo prison and I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 23 January 2018. My parents were not there because they were told to wait for me at Salem. I called them from a taxi driver's phone and told them I was waiting at Al Jalama.
18. My mother visited me eight times in prison but my father did not because he worried they might tear up his work permit at the checkpoint.

I, M.A.N.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was woken up by an Israeli soldier in my bedroom shining a torch in my face at around 2:30 a.m. I looked around and saw two other masked soldiers in my bedroom. I was terrified and did not know what was going on. The soldier asked me for my name and then told me to get up because I was under arrest.
2. The soldiers were in a hurry but I managed to put on a jacket and slip on my shoes, but without socks. They did not allow me to say goodbye to my family and they did not give us any documents about the arrest.
3. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then led me along a dirt road up a hill towards the nearby village.
4. Once up the hill I was put in a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The troop carrier drove to the settlement of Karmi Zur where I was taken to a room and I sat on a chair until around 7:00 a.m. I was tied and blindfolded the whole time and felt cold and I couldn't sleep.
5. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to a military jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was examined by a doctor.
6. After the medical check an interrogator took me to a kitchen and told me I had to confess to throwing Molotov cocktails. He did not inform me of any rights. When I told him I had never even seen a Molotov cocktail he accused me of lying and told me the only language I understood was the language of violence. Then he slapped me hard on my face and beat me on my leg and told me he was going to show me the way. At that point my blindfold fell off but the he put it back on later.
7. The interrogator then removed the plastic ties and handcuffed me to the back with metal handcuffs which were painful. Then two other interrogators came in and told me I had to confess. They all beat me hard and verbally abused me calling me a "son of a whore" and a "brother of a whore".
8. Then the interrogators left the kitchen and I rushed outside to see if my father was there to help me. I was terrified and acted out of panic. When the interrogator saw me outside he kicked me and I fell to the ground. He then took me back to the kitchen. The interrogator also banged my head against the wall and stuck his finger in my eye. I was in severe pain and I thought I was blinded because my eye started to bleed. He threatened to give me a hard time if I did not shut up. Then he tightened the handcuffs even more and left.

9. Sometime later I was taken to see another interrogator who removed the blindfold but kept me handcuffed. He did not inform me of my rights and immediately asked me whether I wanted to confess and I told him I had nothing to confess. Then he told me if I did not confess he was going to let the soldiers beat me. He also told me if I confessed to throwing one stone he would send me home with my father. He told me my father was waiting for me outside but this was not true. I so badly wanted to go home and I was scared of being beaten by soldiers that I decided to confess to throwing a stone.
10. Then the interrogator phoned my father and asked him if he wanted to appoint a lawyer for me but then hung up before my father gave him an answer. Then the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. When I told the lawyer I had already confessed the interrogator snatched the phone from me and hung up.
11. Then the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did without understanding what it said. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then he told me he was going to send me home with my father but instead I was taken to a cell at Etzion. I was searched in my underwear and the blindfold and the handcuffs were removed. I spent about six hours in the cell and I was not given anything to eat or drink.
12. Later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court but a lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. The judge saw that I had an injured eye but he did not say anything. My lawyer told the judge I confessed because I was beaten hard and the judge decided to send me back for another interrogation. He also summoned the interrogators to court but they never showed up.
14. After the first hearing I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba for more questioning. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights. I told the interrogator I confessed to throwing a stone because the interrogator told me he would release me and send me home with my father if I did. The interrogator asked me whether my lawyer gave me instructions to say that and whether this was indeed what I wanted to say. Then he made me sign three documents in Hebrew.
15. In all had six appearances in the military court. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months in prison suspended for three years.

16. I spent my entire prison sentence in Ofer prison. In prison I studied Arabic and mathematics. My parents did not visit me in prison because they did not get a permit in time. I only saw them in the military court.
17. I was released on 10 November 2017. My father hung a banner outside the house with my name and picture to celebrate my release. My mother cooked a nice meal and we all celebrated. I was very happy to be home.
18. I am in 10th grade and I want to study hard to pass my high school exams. I want to make my mother happy again. When I hear there are clashes in the camp I stay home. Last week there was a national anniversary and my parents decided to keep me at home and not send me to school because they did not want me to be in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.H.J.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up terrified to the sound of loud banging on the front door. It was 2:30 a.m. My father opened the door and about 20 Israeli soldiers entered our home. Three of the soldiers were wearing face masks.
2. The soldiers asked for our identity cards and when they saw my name in my father's identity card the commander asked me to prepare myself for arrest. I put my clothes on and then I was taken outside. We were not given any documents about my arrest. On the way out the commander told me I was accused of throwing stones at soldiers.
3. The soldiers walked me to the military watchtower on the main road where a soldier told me they wanted to take me to Etzion settlement for questioning. He tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were not painful. He also blindfolded me and then told me to start walking. I told him I could not see so he led me by the hand. I could feel a dog sniffing me and I was terrified.
4. The soldier led me inside the watchtower and asked me whether I was hungry or thirsty. About 10 minutes later I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur.
5. On arrival at Karmi Zur I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair until around 7:00 a.m. During this time I was allowed to use the toilet and I managed to sleep for about 10 minutes or so. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken back to the jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken for interrogation.
6. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator told me I could remove the blindfold. I removed it and looked around me and saw the interrogator behind a computer and a picture of Al-Aqsa on the wall. The interrogator was staring at me intently without saying a word. I looked back at him and did not say a word. He did not inform me of my rights.
7. The interrogator then started to talk about my father and brothers. He named one of my brothers and told me he was a doctor and told me my father was in administrative detention years ago. Then he told me my fate was going to be similar to my father's because I was accused of throwing a Molotov cocktail. I told him I had no idea what he was talking about.

8. I was then pushed from behind by a soldier who was in the room and I fell on a metal cabinet. Then I was blindfolded again and taken to another room where I was questioned by another person.
9. The second interrogator did not inform me of my rights either and made me stand in the corner. He started by asking me what good my country was going to do me. I asked him to remove the blindfold but he swore at me saying I was a “son of a whore”. Then he told me that on 14 September 2017, I threw stones at soldiers during clashes. I denied the accusation.
10. Then the interrogator removed the blindfold and I saw that his face was just 10 cm from my face. He told me I should be scared of prison and asked me for names of people who throw stones. I told him I did not know anyone. Then he told me someone had confessed against me but he did not say who. I asked him to bring that person so I could confront him but he never did.
11. The interrogator then he asked me if I wanted a cigarette or a cup of coffee. I told him my father told me not to accept anything from him. He then took me outside and I was left in the sun for about an hour. I was re-blindfolded.
12. After about an hour I was taken back inside, the blindfold was removed and the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I refused to sign he became angry and lost his temper and started to swear at me saying things about god. I told him my father told me not to sign anything. He tried to force me to sign and when I refused he slapped me. I asked him to call my father and he did.
13. The interrogator put my father on speaker phone. I told my father where I was and told him the interrogator wanted me to sign documents. He told me not to sign. The interrogator started to swear again and my father heard him and then he hung up. Then he slapped me and told me I had a stubborn father.
14. At this point there were three people in the room and they all took part in slapping me. One of them placed his pistol on the table. Then I told the interrogator I wanted to speak to a lawyer. He named a lawyer and called him and allowed me to speak to him on the phone. The lawyer asked me for my name and told me to stick to my position and said he couldn't say any more in front of the interrogator. He also told me not to sign anything. The interrogator heard this and started to swear at the lawyer.
15. Then I was re-blindfolded and taken to a room where I could hear a very annoying sound, like a broken speaker. I was left there on a chair for about 30 minutes. I was made to sit backwards on the chair so that I could not lean back.
16. After about 30 minutes I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell at Etzion. They brought me some food and I was with another child detainee. I could not sleep for a long time. I think I slept for 30 minutes or so.

17. In the middle of the night soldiers came and shackled and handcuffed me and took me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched in my underwear and taken to Section 13. I arrived there at around 2:30 a.m.
18. Three days later I was taken to Ofer military court. The military judge decided to release me because the prosecutor failed to present a charge sheet. I was released on 28 September 2017, without charge and I went home with my family. When I called my mother to tell her I was released she started to cry.

Name: F.H.F.S.
Date: 25 September 2017
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, F.H.F.S. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. and told me not to be scared but there were Israeli soldiers inside our house. I got up and went to the living room with my father where I saw soldiers in full military gear.
2. The commander asked my father for his children's names. He stopped at my name and went to my bedroom and took a T-shirt from my wardrobe. Then he looked at my father and told him they wanted to take me away for five minutes and would bring me back. He did not say why and did not give my parents any documents.
3. My father told the commander he was not going to let me go with them on my own and insisted on accompanying me. The commander told him this was not permitted but my father kept insisting.
4. As soon as I was dressed the soldiers took me outside where my hands were tied behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. The ties left a mark on my wrists for a long time. I was also blindfolded.
5. The soldiers then took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a small metal box on the floor which was very uncomfortable. My father was with me in the back of the jeep. A soldier wanted to tie and blindfold my father too but he refused and the commander was fine with that.
6. The jeep drove to the nearby military base of Zufin where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the tie and the blindfold for a minute during the examination and then put them back on.
7. At the base my father and I were left inside a shipping container until 8:00 a.m. Then we were taken to Ariel settlement. We arrived there at around 8:30 a.m. and we were taken into a room and the air conditioner was on cold. I remained there with my father until around 4:00 p.m. when it was my turn to be interrogated.
8. My father was allowed into the interrogation room with me but the interrogator warned him that if he spoke one word he would be thrown out. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and had a camera and a tape recorder in the room. Then we waited for about 20 minutes and nothing happened. After 20 minutes the interrogator asked me where I was on 21 July 2017. I told him I was at school. Then he told me the 21st was a Friday and I told him in that case I was with my father at work. Then he accused me of throwing stones. My father objected and the interrogator threatened to throw him out.

9. Then the interrogator told me I was accused of throwing 10 stones at soldiers and that I hit a soldier on the head. My father intervened again and told him I was too young to be questioned like this and that he was bullying a 15-year-old child. The interrogator was very upset and threw my father out of the room.
10. After my father left the room the interrogator showed me a photograph and wanted me to identify the boys and young men in the photograph. I refused. Then he pointed to a boy in the photograph and told me it was me. I denied it. Then he started to play tricks on me. He said: "let's assume you and your brother were throwing stones at each other, how many stones would you throw at him." I told him one stone. He asked me from what distance and I said 100-150 meters. When he asked me whether I would hit my brother from that distance and I said no.
11. This was later used against me as a confession and I was charged with throwing four stones from a distance of 50 meters with the intention of causing harm.
12. The interrogator also accused me of causing damage to the side mirror of a military jeep and taking part in an illegal protest. At the end of the interrogation he told me I was lucky he did not beat me because my father was in the room. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign but I refused to sign.
13. About half way through the interrogation I was shown a document in both Hebrew and Arabic which said I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. The interrogator asked me to sign the document and I did. Then he told me if I remained silent he would answer the questions himself and that was not going to be good for me. He convinced me it was in my interest to speak.
14. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. The interrogator left the room and spoke to my father who was waiting outside and told him to appoint a lawyer for me. I did not have access to a lawyer before or during the interrogation.
15. After the interrogation I was re-blindfolded and taken in a military vehicle with other boys to Huwwara military base. My father was dropped off on the way. A soldier swore at us when we complained that we were nauseous and asked to turn the air conditioner off. Before my father left he saw that one of the soldiers was live streaming us on his Facebook page.
16. I arrived at Huwwara at around 10:00 p.m. I was taken to a shipping container where I sat on a chair. I was very tired and sleepy. Later I was searched in my underwear and asked to crouch up and down. Then I was put in a vehicle and driven to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. We arrived at Megiddo at around 11:30 p.m. On arrival at Megiddo I was again searched in my underwear and examined by a doctor before being taken to the juvenile section.

17. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My father was there and my lawyer. The hearing was adjourned. In all I had about nine military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I also received a six-month suspended sentence suspended for three 3 years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told that if I did not accept it I would be sentenced to eight months in prison.

18. I spent my entire sentence in Megiddo prison. My parents visited me seven times. In prison I exercised and played table tennis and attended classes. I also helped in the cooking. I was released on 4 March 2018, at Al Jalama checkpoint. I arrived home in the morning and my parents had a party for me with music and food.

I, O.A.A.J. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was awake because I knew Israeli soldiers were in town conducting arrests. It was around 2:30 a.m. Shortly afterwards I heard loud banging at our front door. I woke my mother and sister and my father answered the door.
2. Four soldiers initially entered our home and then another group of about 12 soldiers followed them. Two of the soldiers wore face masks and another had a camera and was filming. The commander asked my father to bring his children.
3. The commander called me and asked to see my identity card. Then he told my father the police wanted to have a word with me. My father told him I had to go to college in a week but the commander told him they wanted to ask me some questions and would bring me back afterwards.
4. Then the soldiers searched our house without causing damage. They went into my bedroom and looked in my wardrobe for a particular shirt but they did not find it. Then they told me to get ready to leave. I put my shoes on and said goodbye to my family. Once I was dressed the soldiers took me outside. They did not give my parents any documents.
5. Outside the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was not painful. They also blindfolded me and took me into the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
6. The jeep drove for about an hour and then stopped at a place I did not recognise. I was taken out of the jeep and I stood in an open area. A soldier removed the blindfold and took a picture of me on his mobile phone.
7. I was taken back to the jeep which drove to the settlement of Qedumim. At the settlement I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and then put it back on. Then I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. I sat on the floor in a room with three other young men and I was tied and blindfolded the whole time. I fell asleep for a short while and I was given some food and drink and was allowed to use the toilet. At around 11:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
8. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a tape recorder on his desk. He removed the tie and the blindfold. A soldier allowed me to speak to my father on the phone and told me my father could attend the interrogation. I decided I did not want to bother my father because his presence was not going to make any difference. Then the interrogator spoke to my father and told him I was at Ariel police station. He also told him if he wanted to check on me he should come to the military court the following day. He also asked him if he wanted to attend my interrogation and my father told him there was no need because I had done nothing wrong. He also told him I did not need a lawyer.

9. Then the interrogator told me I needed to remain silent while he talked. I understood this to mean I was not allowed to interrupt him. Then he read out from a document in Arabic something about the right to silence. He did not inform me I had the right to consult with a lawyer.
10. Then the interrogator asked me whether I knew why I was in his office. I told him I did not. Then he told me I was suspected of throwing stones at soldiers inside the village. I denied the accusation and told him there was no evidence to justify the accusation. Then he showed me four photographs of young men throwing stones and accused me of being among them but I denied the photographs were of me and told him they were not clear. Then he turned his computer screen and showed me enlarged images. Still I denied the photographs were of me.
11. Then he told me if I confessed I would be sentenced to three months in prison and that would be the end of the story. I told him there was no reason for me to confess and spend even one day in prison. The interrogation lasted for about 25 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign on the photographs and to say they were not mine and I did. He did not show me any other documents. Then I was taken back to the waiting room.
12. At around 5:00 p.m. I was handcuffed and blindfolded and taken to Huwwara military base. I arrived there at around 6:00 p.m. I was strip searched and then taken to a room where the handcuffs and the blindfold were removed and I was given some food. I remained in the room for about four hours.
13. After about four hours I was handcuffed and taken to the back of a vehicle which drove me to Megiddo prison, in Israel. I arrived there at around 2:00 a.m. At Megiddo I was strip searched again and taken to the juvenile section.
14. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My father and my lawyer were in court and the hearing was adjourned.
15. I had two hearings which were conducted in Hebrew and I did not understand anything. On the last hearing the guard in court looked at me and said congratulations. When I asked him to explain he told me the judge had decided to release me for lack of evidence. I was thrilled.
16. I was released on 3 October 2017. The court wanted my parents to pay NIS 5,000 but my father refused and told the court I was innocent and could not understand the reason for the amount. The court insisted but reduced the amount to NIS 2,000. In the end my father decided to pay because he wanted me released as quickly as possible. They made my father sign a NIS 20,000 bond which he would have to pay in the event I am arrested again.

17. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint but my father was told to wait for me at Salem. I arrived home just before midnight and I had a big party with my friends.

I, A.B.N.H. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep on the couch in the living room when I heard loud banging at our front door. It was around 2:30 a.m. My father opened the door and in a no time about 20 Israeli soldiers were aiming their guns at me. They did not allow me to move and I was terrified.
2. The soldiers started to search the house and turned it into a mess. They were looking for a particular shirt I was wearing when they were filming clashes. Then the commander told me he wanted to have a word with me and my father. I did not think much of it and thought they would soon leave.
3. My father and I went downstairs where the soldiers tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was overtightened and painful. They also shackled and blindfolded me and did the same to my father. They did not give us any documents.
4. Then they took both of us to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. By this time the whole neighbourhood was awake and young men and boys started to throw stones at the jeep. With each stone that hit the jeep I was slapped on the face by a soldier.
5. The jeep took us to the nearby military base at Zufin where we remained from around 3:00 a.m. until around 6:00 a.m. We were left in a room with the air conditioner turned on very cold. I was freezing and so was my father.
6. At one point a soldier started to question me without informing me of my rights. He wanted me to give him the names of people in a photograph he showed me. I did not give any names.
7. After being questioned I was examined by a doctor who removed the tie and the blindfold and put them back on later. They also examined my father and found his blood pressure very high.
8. About 15 minutes later my father and I were taken to Ariel settlement for interrogation. We arrived there at around 9:30 a.m. I was left on the floor in a room with my father and we were tied, blindfolded and shackled. At around 11:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation with my father.
9. As soon as I entered the interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and read a document about my rights. He told me I had the right to remain silent and that he was going to question me in my father's presence. He also told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call one. He made me sign on this document which was written in Arabic. There was a tape recorder in the room.

10. The interrogator asked me about photographs taken during clashes and accused me of taking part. At first, I denied the accusation and my father intervened and the interrogator started to shout at both of us. He threatened to kick my father out if he intervened again. My father wanted to see the photograph but the interrogator told him he would be kicked out if he stood up.
11. I was questioned me for about 30 minutes. In the end I confessed. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused. My father was then told to leave and I was taken to a room where I waited for about four hours. Then I was tied and blindfolded and taken to Huwwara military base.
12. At Huwwara I was strip searched and then I waited outside for about an hour. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched with my clothes on and then taken to the juvenile section. The cell I was taken to was not ready yet. It did not have mattresses on the beds and there were no pillows. I could not sleep.
13. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents were in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had about six military court hearings.
14. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told my sentence would be 10 months in prison if I did not accept it.
15. I spent my entire sentence at Megiddo prison. My parents visited me four times. It was a tough experience for me especially because I knew my mother has cancer and was undergoing treatment. I wanted to be with her during this difficult time but I could not. I was released on 11 February 2018.

Name: K.M.N.N.
Age: 15
Date: 25 September 2017
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.M.N.N. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of very loud banging at around 1:30 a.m. I got up and discovered that Israeli soldiers were banging on my grandparents' door next door. Then I heard the soldiers ask my cousin about me and my cousin told them he did not know where I was.
2. Soon afterwards about 10 soldiers walked towards our house, two of them were wearing face masks. My father was not home so my mother rushed and opened the front door before they started banging. The soldiers immediately told everyone to step back from the door. My uncle came to our house to give support to my mother.
3. I was standing next to my brother and the commander took me aside and asked to see my wardrobe. He was looking for a particular shirt and threw all the clothes on the floor. When he did not find the shirt he was looking for he looked inside the washing machine and found it there and took a photo of it. Then he told me I was under arrest and shouted at my mother to bring my ID card and telephone. Then the soldiers took me outside without giving my family any documents.
4. Outside the house they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. I told the commander I was in pain and he replaced the ties with metal handcuffs which he tied to the front and they were not painful. Then a soldier blindfolded me painfully. When I told him I had had surgery in my eye and the blindfold was too tight he tightened it even more.
5. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep and I banged my head because I could not see. The soldiers laughed at me. Inside the jeep I sat on a seat. They allowed my uncle to accompany me and they wanted to tie and blindfold him too but he refused and told them he was not under arrest.
6. The jeep drove to another house and the soldiers arrested another boy. Then the two of us were taken to the military base at Zufin. The driver had the air conditioner on very cold although the weather was cold. The jeep stopped on the way and a soldier took me outside the jeep, removed the blindfold and took a photo of me with the shirt they took out of the washing machine. He blindfolded me again and took me back to the jeep which drove to the military base.
7. At the base a soldier removed the blindfold and asked me some medical questions and whether I was beaten. He made me sign the medical questionnaire which was in Arabic and I did. Then I was re-blindfolded and taken in a jeep to the police station in Ariel settlement.

8. We arrived at Ariel at around 6:00 a.m. I waited on the floor of a room until around 3:00 p.m. During this time, I was allowed to use the toilet. At around 3:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation and they allowed my uncle to attend the interrogation.
9. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold but kept my handcuffs on. There was a computer, a printer and a pistol on his table. He did not inform me of my rights. He asked me why I threw stones at soldiers on 21 July 2017. I denied the accusation. Then he told me I had to confess and if I did not my life would be destroyed. He also threatened to lock me up in a small cell in solitary confinement if I did not confess. Still, I denied the accusation.
10. My uncle intervened and told the interrogator I was not involved in anything and I did not go near the Wall where the clashes took place. The interrogator then kicked him out of the interrogation room. This was about 10 minutes into the interrogation. Then he continued to threaten me. He said he was going to lock me up in prison for a long time if I did not confess. He also threatened to bring my father and said he would lock him up too.
11. Then he tried to put words in my mouth. He asked me whether I threw 20 or 30 or 40 stones. I told him I did not throw any stones. Then he showed me photos during clashes and told me I was amongst the boys throwing stones. He also wanted me to give him the names of the boys. Then he raised his voice at me and swore at god. I felt I was under tremendous pressure and I decided to confess.
12. I confessed to throwing 10 stones from a short distance. I told him I took part in the clashes because I wanted to defend Al Aqsa. He started to laugh when I said this and phoned his wife and started to chat with her. Then he peeled an orange and started to eat it. The interrogation lasted for about two hours.
13. Towards the end of the interrogation the interrogator wanted me to sign on the photos but I refused. I was scared and asked for a lawyer. He told me there were no lawyers and that I had to sign on the pictures. He told me he was going to keep me in the room for a long time until I signed, even if it takes days. In the end I decided to sign. He did not ask me to sign any other documents.
14. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base. I was left waiting outside in the sun for about 30 minutes and then I was allowed in. I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to a cell with another detainee. They brought me some unappetising food and I could not eat it. While I was there a lawyer came to see me and asked me whether I had confessed and I told him I had.
15. At around 9:00 p.m. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down. I asked to see a lawyer and a soldier told me there were no lawyers in prison. Then I was taken to the juvenile section and I slept.

16. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My father and a lawyer were there. The hearing was adjourned. I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told I would spend 16 months in prison if I did not.
17. In prison I was in charge of cleaning. I also attended Arabic and mathematics classes and I was given a certificate. My parents visited me in prison seven times but only three months after I was arrested because the permit took time to be issued.
18. My grandfather died while I was in prison and I found it very hard to cope. I was released on 3 April 2018, and I went home with my father. My mother cried when she saw me and we all had a nice meal together.

Name: A.M.Q.B.
Age: 17
Date: 25 September 2017
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.M.Q.B. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 4:00 a.m. to the sound of a commotion inside our house. My mother came into my bedroom and looked worried. She told me she had seen Israeli soldiers around the house and told me to stay in bed. Then she looked out the window and saw that the soldiers were at our back door.
2. I hardly had time to get dressed when five soldiers entered our home. The commander looked at me and told me he wanted to take me for a couple of hours "to have a word". Without any more details he asked me to lead him to my room. Then he asked me for a particular black shirt. He opened my wardrobe and took the shirt out.
3. Then I was taken outside via the back door. When I asked the commander if I could say goodbye to my grandparents he asked me why I was not sleeping at their house as I had planned. This made me realise that somebody very close to me was a collaborator.
4. Outside the house a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and very painful and left a mark on my wrists. Then they took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on a metal box in the middle. I was also blindfolded. My father wanted to accompany me but they did not allow him in the same jeep. He went to another jeep.
5. The jeep I was in went to Zufin military base where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed my blindfold and the ties and put them back on when he was finished. Then I was taken into a courtyard where I sat for about an hour. Then I was taken to a very cold room and I was freezing. I sat in the room for about two hours before being taken to Ariel settlement for interrogation.
6. I was interrogated at around 3:00 p.m. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He removed my blindfold. He did not inform me of any rights. He had a voice recorder on his table and a pistol on his side. He asked me whether I throw stones at soldiers and I told him I don't. Then he told me not to lie to him because he had photographic evidence against me. Then he showed me dozens of photographs on his computer screen and I continued to deny the accusation. Then he showed me another photograph and I decided to confess. Then he grabbed me by my shirt and asked me why I threw stones. I told him because of Al Aqsa and because my country is occupied.

7. The interrogator then showed me some documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign something I did not understand. Then he asked me whether I wanted him or my family to appoint a lawyer for me. I told him I wanted my family to do it. Then he called my uncle and told him to appoint a lawyer.
8. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted and blindfolded again. I was taken to a room where I stayed for about 30 minutes before being taken to Huwwara military base. It was dark when I arrived. I waited for about two hours outside the base because they refused to admit me. I was tired and wanted to sit on the ground but a soldier did not allow me to sit down and slapped me on the face. I was blindfolded and the slap was a shock.
9. Then a soldier brought me Coca Cola and some biscuits and I ate. Then I was taken to a car which took me to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived there at around 11:00 p.m. I was strip searched and taken to the juvenile section.
10. My first military court hearing was on 28 September 2017. My parents and lawyer were at court. The hearing was adjourned. I had eight military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain based on my lawyer's advice and because I was tired of being transported back and forth from prison to court.
11. I spent my imprisonment at Megiddo and my parents visited me seven times. In prison I exercised and helped with the cleaning and I attended mathematics and Arabic classes. The military court decided to release me two months ahead of time because of my good conduct and because the prison was overcrowded. I was released on 15 March 2018.

Name: O.A.A.N.
Date: 2 October 2017
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, O.A.A.N. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was standing at the entrance to our refugee camp where I live opposite an Israeli military watchtower. It was around 7:30 p.m. All of a sudden three soldiers grabbed me. The soldiers immediately tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful. They also blindfolded me.
2. The soldiers then took me inside the military watchtower without any explanation. Inside the watchtower a soldier accused me of throwing stones and I denied it. Soon my father came to the watchtower and spoke to me. He told me to take care of myself and not to worry.
3. About two-and-a-half hours later I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. Inside the jeep the soldiers slapped me on the face and swore at me calling my mother and sister “whores”. We arrived at Kiryat Arba at around 1:00 a.m. and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. As soon as I entered the room the interrogator asked me whether my father had hired a lawyer and I told him I did not know. Then he called my father and asked him whether he had hired a lawyer. When my father said no the interrogator hung up.
5. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and burning tires without informing me of my rights and without removing the ties or the blindfold. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me some photographs and told me soldiers had testified against me. Still I denied the accusation.
6. The interrogator questioned me for about three hours and kept repeating the same accusation. At times he was angry. He swore at me and called me a “son of a whore”. He threatened if I did not confess he was going to shoot me. During this time I kept asking him to remove the blindfold and the ties but he did not remove them until the last 30 minutes.
7. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a gun on his side. He had a tape recorder on his desk. He put his hand on his gun in a threatening gesture. He also threatened to lock me up in solitary confinement for my entire life.

8. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I asked him to explain the documents he told me they were insignificant and I had to sign them. In the end I signed without understanding what they said.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to a vehicle which drove first to the police station in Etzion settlement and then back to Kityat Arba. Back at Kiryat Arba the soldiers ate some pizza and then I was driven back to Etzion.
10. On the way back to Etzion the vehicle stopped at the entrance to Al 'Arrub and I was transferred to a troop carrier and a soldier started to question me. He did not inform me of any rights. He slapped and beat me. Then I was transferred to a jeep which took me to Etzion police station. We arrived back at Etzion at around 3:00 a.m. where we waited outside by the gate for about an hour.
11. Once inside the police station I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I slept for about 30 minutes. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again and I was asked to crouch up and down while naked before being taken to Section 13. I ate and had a shower and went to bed.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed of the hearing. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned.
13. In all I had about 13 military court hearings. The court did not find any evidence against me. The prosecution presented pictures of me standing at the entrance to the refugee camp doing nothing. Then the prosecutor claimed they had two soldiers as witnesses. The military court ordered both of the soldiers to come to court to give evidence but only one of them showed up. When he gave his testimony it contradicted what the prosecutor had accused me of. My lawyer asked for my immediate release but the prosecutor appealed twice.
14. In the end the military judge decided to release me. I was released on 21 December 2017, at around 6:00 p.m. I arrived home at 2:30 a.m. My parents did not have to pay any fines.

Name: A.N.A.B.
Age: 13
Date: 12 October 2017
Location: Aida refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktail

I, A.N.A.B. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with two friends in the area near Rachel's Tomb at around noon when an Israeli military jeep pulled over. The soldiers arrested me while my other two friends ran away.
2. A soldier immediately handcuffed my hands painfully behind my back and walked me towards the nearby military base where I was blindfolded. Some soldiers verbally abused me and called me a "son of a whore".
3. I remained in a courtyard inside the base for about three hours. Soldiers were eating in front of me but did not offer me any food. They did not bring me any water and did not allow me to use the toilet.
4. After about three hours I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was immediately taken for interrogation. By then it was dark.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused. He did not inform me of my rights and was quite polite in the beginning. Then he showed me video footage of me and my friends which also showed one of us dropping a bottle as soon as the jeep approached us. I denied it was me and I refused to give him the names of my friends.
6. Sometime into the interrogation, at around 10:00 p.m., my father arrived and the interrogator asked him whether I was his son. Then another interrogator joined and both questioned me about the bottle and wanted me to give the names of my friends.
7. One of the interrogators hit me with his pen on my face in front of my father. Then he banged the table aggressively. In the end I was worried they might arrest my two friends and I confessed to attempting to throw a Molotov cocktail at the jeep. After the interrogation I was photographed and finger printed.
8. My father left and at around midnight I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13. I was exhausted and I went straight to bed.
9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and sister attended as well as my lawyer. The hearing was adjourned. In all I had about nine military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I also received a five-month sentence suspended for three years.

10. I was released a few weeks early on 26 March 2018. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m. My mother had decorated our house with flags and posters and I was very happy to be home. I served my sentence at Ofer where I attended classes. My parents visited me four times.

Name: M.S.A.S.
Age: 16
Date: 21 October 2017
Location: Tuqu', West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.S.A.S. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was up late studying when I heard a commotion outside our house. It was around 2:30 a.m. Then I heard loud banging at our front door. My father answered and four Israeli soldiers entered our home while dozens more surrounded our house outside. The soldiers were accompanied by my uncle who showed them the way.
2. A soldier asked for my father's identity card and looked at the annex where his children are listed. When they read my name the commander told my father they wanted to take me for "15 minutes" to ask me some questions and would then bring me back. The commander did not say what he wanted to question me about and did not give my parents any documents.
3. I put some clothes on and said goodbye to my parents and the soldiers took me outside where they handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful.
4. I was then led for about 50 meters to a waiting military jeep where I was blindfolded. At first I was made to sit on a seat but then I was told to sit on the metal floor. Once inside the jeep a soldier slapped me on the face but not too hard. The jeep took me to the nearby military base.
5. When we arrived at the base I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair until around 8:00 a.m. I was not able to sleep. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation.
6. As soon as I arrived at the police station a soldier introduced himself and told me he was the Area Commander. He named someone and said that this person had confessed against me saying that we had thrown stones together on four occasions. I denied the accusation and I was then taken to an interrogation room. He did not tell me I had any rights.
7. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and had a camera and a tape recorder in the room. He removed the blindfold and the handcuffs and asked me whether I needed anything. He asked me whether I threw stones at soldiers and I told him I did not. He kept repeating the questions again and again and I continued to deny the accusation. Half way through the interrogation he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. The interrogator told me I had the right to say whatever I wanted.

The interrogator also told me that I had to tell him everything I had done because he knew everything about me anyway. He did not tell me I had the right to silence.

8. The police interrogator questioned me for about three hours. After a while I got fed up and wanted to get over with it so I confessed to throwing a stone from a distance of 500 meters. I was very tired and felt he was not going to let me go until I confessed.
9. After I confessed the interrogator printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I refused to sign and asked him to provide me with a translation in Arabic which he did. I then signed the document. He asked me whether I had anything to add and I said no.
10. Then I was taken to another room where they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was taken to see another interrogator.
11. The second interrogator did not inform me of any rights and showed me some photographs. He wanted me to confess against the boys in the photographs. I told him I did not know them. He warned me that if I lied to him he was going to send me to a third interrogator. He showed me albums with lots of photographs and then took me to see a third interrogator.
12. The third interrogator did not inform me of my rights and wanted me to give him the names of the boys in the photos. I told him I did not know any of them. Then he wanted me to tell him who has weapons in the village. Then he showed me a satellite image of the village and pointed to houses on the map and wanted me to tell him who lived in those houses and who owned weapons. Then he claimed I had planned to stab a soldier and wanted to know what I was thinking at the time when I kept a knife with me. I told him I never kept a knife with me and I never intended to stab anyone. I told him this was my honest truthful answer.
13. Then he showed me more photos and told me if I really wanted to help myself and go home I had to give him names. I told him I had no names to give. At this point he became angry and banged the table and put his hand on his pistol and told me the only choice left for him was to shoot me in the head. He slapped me on the face and swore at my religion. Then he called a soldier and told him to take me out.
14. The three interrogations lasted for about six hours in total and I was without food or drink the whole time.
15. After the final interrogation I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. I was then taken to a room where I stayed for about 30 minutes. During this time I asked for something to eat and they brought me some food. After about 30 minutes I was shackled and handcuffed and taken in a vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
16. On arrival at Ofer prison I was searched with my clothes on and I was given a prison uniform. I was then taken to Section 13.

17. Three days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. On the second hearing my lawyer told me I was going to be released and that I had to pay a fine of NIS 2,000. She told me if I did not pay the fine I would have to spend four months in prison. My parents paid the fine and I was released on 1 November 2017.
18. My lawyer told me that the authorities would monitor my activities for six months and that they might come back and arrest me again. As I left prison a soldier swore at me and told me I was a "son of a whore" and that he did not want to see me ever again. He pushed and beat me on my chest, legs and back.
19. It was a difficult experience and I still live in fear because the six-month probation period is still current. Whenever I hear sounds at night I worry that soldiers might be in the neighbourhood and will come and arrest me.

Name: H.K.H.A.
Date: 22 October 2017
Location: Tuqu', West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, H.K.H.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was watching television at around 1:30 a.m. when I heard the sound of military jeeps in the neighbourhood. I looked out the window and saw three jeeps and an armoured vehicle.
2. Shortly afterwards I heard loud banging at the door of my father's shop below our house. Then I heard somebody shouting "open up, open up". I woke my mother up and told her soldiers were downstairs. When the soldiers saw my father on the balcony they told him to let them into our house.
3. About 30 soldiers surrounded our house and some entered. Three soldiers were wearing masks. They immediately asked to see my identity card and the commander compared it to a list he had. He then said I was under arrest. He did not give a reason or say where he wanted to take me. Then they wanted to see my telephone and when I told them I did not have one they stormed into my bedroom and started to search looking for the phone. They threw everything on the floor and made a huge mess and took away an old broken telephone.
4. They allowed me to put on some clothes and to say goodbye to my family before they took me outside. Then they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then they blindfolded me and a soldier slapped me on the face.
5. They led me a short distance to where the armoured vehicle was waiting. I heard a soldier cock his gun while we were walking which terrified me. I think they wanted to keep my family from following me. They also pushed me and I fell to the ground. I was made to sit on the metal floor of the vehicle which drove to the nearby military base.
6. At the military base I was examined by a doctor. The doctor did not remove the ties or the blindfold. A soldier walked in and asked me for the password for the chip in the broken telephone and slapped me in front of the doctor who did not say or do anything. Then I was taken to another room where they made me sit on a stool until around 7:00 a.m. I could not sleep on the stool because I could not rest my back and when I asked to sleep on the floor the soldiers did not allow me. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement.
7. On arrival at Etzion I was immediately taken for interrogation. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He did not inform me of any rights. He asked me whether I wanted to cooperate with him man to man or whether I wanted him to treat me like an animal. I told him I wanted to be treated like a man. Then he accused me of throwing stones and I denied the accusation. Then he took me to another room where he punched and slapped me in my stomach and legs and swore at me calling me a "son of a whore". Then I was taken to see another interrogator.

8. The second interrogator had a tape recorder. He removed the ties and accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails. Then he showed me some photographs of my friends and told me they had confessed against me. He told me I was accused of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails based on their confessions. I told him I did not know the boys and denied the accusations. He showed me more photographs and told me they were of me but I denied it. Then he showed me some names and I told him I did not know any of them.
9. In the end he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to her. The lawyer told me she would see me in court and told me not to say anything even if I am beaten. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He gave me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did. He told me it was my statement.
10. Then they allowed me to use the toilet. Afterwards they tied my hands as before and blindfolded me and took me to a courtyard and made me turn my face to the wall. I remained there until around 3:00 p.m.
11. At around 3:00 p.m. I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell in Etzion where they removed the ties and the blindfold and gave me some food. I remained in the cell for about two hours. After two hours I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken into Section 13.
12. Four days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My father was in court but the hearing was adjourned because the prosecutor did not have a charge sheet ready. I had another hearing and that was when the court decided to release me on bail. My father had to pay NIS 2,000 bail. The lawyer told me in the six months following my release on bail anything could happen including re-arrest. She also told me if no charge sheet is presented within six months my file would be closed.
13. I was released on 1 November 2017 and I went home with my parents and sister. Since my release on bail I worry that they might come and arrest me any time. I wake up to the slightest sound outside and my mother finds it hard to sleep at night worrying that soldiers might raid our house again.

I, H.M.N.O. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 4:00 p.m. I went to join my father who was picking olives in the fields. At the time I was carrying a slingshot I use to hunt pigeons and a small knife. On the way an Israeli military jeep passed me and I think the soldiers saw the slingshot. I started to run but the soldiers started to shoot at me so I stopped. I was terrified.
2. I was approached by four soldiers who started to beat me with the back of their guns. Then they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for a week. They also swore at me and called me a “son of a whore”. They asked me why I had a sling shot and a knife and I told them. I don’t think they believed me.
3. Then they took me to the back of the jeep where they blindfolded me. By this time my father had heard the gunshots and rushed over to where I was. The soldiers tied and blindfolded my father and allowed him into the jeep with me. We were both then taken to the nearby military base at Zufin.
4. On arrival at the base I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and examined me before replacing it when he was finished. I remained at Zufin for about an hour and then I was taken to another military base where I spent a night in a shipping container with my father. I was given some Humus and water and I slept on the floor with my hands tied. I was very uncomfortable.
5. The following day we were taken to the police station in Ariel settlement for interrogation. At Ariel we waited for about two hours and then we were taken into the interrogation room.
6. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and told my father not to say a word. The interrogator told me I had to tell him what exactly happened. There was a tape recorder on the table and the interrogator asked me why I threw stones at soldiers without informing me of my rights. I denied the accusation and the interrogator told me I was a liar. He claimed he had video footage of me but he never showed me anything. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then he told my father to leave.
7. After my father left I was handcuffed and drive to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my underwear. Within 10 minutes I was put in another vehicle which took me to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I had dinner and went to bed. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My father was there and the hearing was adjourned. I had two military court hearings.

8. Before the second hearing I was taken for another interrogation at Salem. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights. Again I told the interrogator I was trying to hunt pigeons. He made me sign documents in Hebrew which I did not understand and then I was taken to the military court.
9. In court I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison but the military judge gave me the choice of either spending the two months in prison or paying a fine of NIS 2,000. My father decided to pay the fine and get me released. He did it for my mother who could not sleep for two days and because he wanted me back at school. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for five years.
10. After court I was taken back to Megiddo and then I was taken from Megiddo to Salem checkpoint although they told my father to wait for me at Al Jalama checkpoint. It was 26 October 2017. I arrived home with my father just after midnight. My mother was very happy to see me. She had prepared a nice potato dish. I ate and went to bed.

I, M.H.M.T. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I heard loud banging at our front door at around 2:30 a.m. I got up startled and went to the living room where I found about 10 Israeli soldiers already inside our home. Some of the soldiers were wearing face masks.
2. The soldiers collected our identity cards and then called my name and told my parents they wanted to arrest me. The commander told my mother to get my birth certificate and she did. My father objected and told the commander he would bring me to Etzion police station in the morning but the commander refused. We were not given any documents about my arrest.
3. I was then taken outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. I was also blindfolded.
4. The soldiers then took me to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The troop carrier drove to my uncle's house, where they arrested my cousin, and then drove to the settlement of Karmi Zur. At the settlement I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair until later that morning. I could not sleep.
5. Later that morning I was put in a jeep where I sat on a seat. I was then driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. The soldiers attached my hand ties to the jeep which caused me a lot of pain.
6. On arrival at Etzion I was examined by a doctor who removed the ties and the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health. He made me sign a document and then tied and blindfolded me as before. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold but kept my hands tied. He took me to a small dark room and asked me whether I burned trees near the settlement of Karmi Zur. I told him I did not. He asked me this question without informing me of any rights. Then he slapped me on the face and shouted at me and called me a liar. I was very scared and confessed. This lasted about 15 minutes.
8. After I confessed the interrogator took me to another room where another interrogator was sitting. He asked me questions and typed everything on his computer. He told me to repeat my confession. I confessed to setting fire to trees on Friday but he wanted me to confess to setting fire on Tuesday. I denied setting fire to trees on Tuesday.

9. At the end of the second interrogation he showed me a document which said I had the right to silence and the right to consult with a lawyer. The document was in Arabic and Hebrew and he asked me to sign it and I did. He also showed me another document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did without understanding what it said. This interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes.
10. Then I was taken in a vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was immediately taken to the military court. My parents were not there and the hearing was adjourned. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was searched in my underwear and taken to Section 13.
11. About a week later I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba for another interrogation. The interrogator asked me the same questions about the fire but this time I denied the accusation. Half way through the interrogation he told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He made me sign a document about my legal rights. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to her. The lawyer asked me what had happened and I told her I denied the accusation and she was pleased. My lawyer later told the military court that in the beginning I confessed because I was beaten and scared.
12. This interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was taken back to Ofer prison.
13. I had about seven military court hearings which my family attended. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain. The court was satisfied with the time I had already spent in prison. In addition, they fined my parents NIS 4,000 and imposed a suspended sentence of five months in prison valid for two years. This was based on my lawyer's advice who told me if I accept the plea bargain I would be released immediately.
14. I was released on 16 November 2017, and I arrived home with my two brothers at around 12:30 a.m. My mother had prepared a nice meal and I ate and went to bed. My parents did not visit me in prison because my stay was too short. It was a hard experience for me but having my cousin in prison with me helped a lot.

Name: A.B.M.T.
Date: 1 November 2017
Location: Beit Ummar, West Bank
Accusation: Setting a fire

I, A.B.M.T. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep on the couch at 2:30 a.m. when I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father answered the door and about 12 Israeli soldiers entered our home. Three of the soldiers were wearing face masks.
2. The commander approached me, shook my arm and asked me for my name. He asked me for my identity card and I told him I did not have one yet because I was under 16. He then checked my father's identity card and told me to get dressed because he was going to hold me "accountable for your actions". My mother told him I was too young to be taken away and his response was "small by age, big by deeds". I don't recall seeing them give my parents any documents.
3. As I got dressed a few soldiers followed me into my bedroom. Then they took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and they left a mark on my wrists for about two weeks. They also blindfolded me.
4. I was then taken to the back of a troop carrier with another detainee and driven to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur. I was put in a room and sat on a chair until around noon. I could not sleep.
5. At around noon I was taken in a military jeep to the police station in Etzion settlement. I sat on a seat. Inside the jeep the soldiers tied my hands to the jeep which was painful. On arrival at Etzion I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and replaced it later. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator threatened to "wipe the floor" with me if I did not tell him the truth. He did not inform me of any rights. He accused me of setting fire to trees near the settlement on Friday and wanted to know who was with me. I told him I was not there and his question was not relevant to me. Then he accused me of setting fire to trees on Wednesday. When I denied it he slapped and kicked me and kept repeating the accusation. In the end I confessed to setting fire to the trees on Friday. I confessed because I did not want to be beaten. The interrogation lasted for about 90 minutes.
7. Then I was taken to see another interrogator who told me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator and he typed everything I told him on a computer. The second interrogator did not inform me of my rights either. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign them. I did not read the documents and did not sign them. This interrogation lasted for about an hour.

8. At the end of the second interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. I told I had already confessed. Then he told me he would see me in the military court.
9. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. We arrived at the prison at around 10:30 p.m. On arrival at Ofer I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to Section 13. I could not sleep that night, thoughts kept coming to my mind and I could not relax.
10. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court because they were not informed of the hearing. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. The following day I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba for another interrogation.
11. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He showed me a document about my rights and made me sign it. He had a tape recorder on his desk. He spoke in a raised tone of voice to intimidate me and was very upset when I did not know who set fire to trees on Wednesday. Then I repeated what I had told the first two interrogators. Then he showed me my statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did. This interrogation lasted for about 20 minutes and I was then taken back to Ofer prison.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court again and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had about six military court hearings. In the end I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 4,500. I also received a six-month prison sentence suspended for two years.
13. I was released from Ofer prison on 30 November 2017, at around noon and I went home with my father. I could not believe it when I arrived home, I was very happy.

Name: M.M.M.T.
Age: 14
Date: 9 November 2017
Location: Al 'Azza, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.M.T. of Al 'Azza, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking home from school with my 13-year-old brother and 11-year-old sister at around 12:30 p.m. when clashes broke out with Israeli soldiers near Rachel's Tomb. A soldier called me over to him and told me not to be afraid. I went with my sister and brother but the soldier told them to go home and he kept me.
2. The soldier took me inside a military watchtower where he tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left a mark on my wrists. Then soldiers slapped me on the face and beat me all over my body. A short time later my father came to the watchtower and I could hear his voice outside calling my name.
3. When I asked to use the toilet an Israeli settler followed me to the toilet and punched me in the stomach. A soldier saw all this but did not intervene. They also poured water on me and I was soaked.
4. After I went to the toilet the soldiers allowed my father into the watchtower. He was shocked when he saw the marks on my face. He asked the soldiers to release me immediately but they refused. Then the two of us were taken in a police car to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. My father and I sat on a seat in the back. To get to the car we had to walk through a group of settlers who verbally abused us. They called us "sons of whores".
5. At the police station my father and I were locked up in an outdoor cage. We were left there for about four hours. My father felt claustrophobic and asked for some water but we were not given any water. About four hours later my father and I were taken to an interrogation room.
6. My father and I sat next to each other in the interrogation room. I remember there was a camera in the room. The interrogator told my father he wanted to question me in his presence and that he was not going to force me to say anything. Then he looked at me and told me to speak only in response to his questions and that I was not allowed to speak otherwise. He also told me not to look at my father. He did not say anything else about my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer at all. The first time I saw my lawyer was in the military court.
7. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones. I denied the accusation. Then he wanted to know why I was brought to the police station and I told him a soldier pulled me aside and told me not to be afraid and then he detained me. Then he told me a soldier had seen me throwing stones and testified against me. Then he started to raise his voice at me. When my father intervened and told him not to raise his voice at me the interrogator told my father I was impolite and rude just like my father.

8. Then he showed my father photographs on his laptop and told him I had taken part in the clashes and threw stones at soldiers. My father denied that it was me in the photographs. My father asked me whether I was among the boys seen in the photographs and I told him I was not. Then the interrogator said both me and my father were liars.
9. The interrogator then left the room and came back with a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic. He showed it to my father and my father signed it after he made sure it did not include a false confession.
10. Then my father and I were taken outside and the interrogator told my father to have a private word with me so that I tell the truth about what happened. Privately my father told me not to be scared. He thought the interrogator was listening in on our conversation.
11. My father then left and I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 6:00p.m. A lawyer took me straight to the military court. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to Atarot police station where I remained until around 2:00 a.m. Then I was taken back to Ofer prison where I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to Section 13.
12. The following day I spoke to my father from prison. I was very sad when he told me he could not sleep all night. In all I had five military court hearings.
13. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of eight months in prison valid for four years. I accepted the plea bargain because the lawyer told my father if I rejected it I would be sentenced to eight months in prison and fined NIS 8,000.
14. I spent the last seven days of my sentence in Megiddo prison, inside Israel, the rest of the time I was in Ofer prison. I was released two weeks early for good conduct on 25 December 2017 and I went home with my family who picked me up from Al Jalama checkpoint. My mother had prepared a nice meal and I was very pleased. In the morning I woke up very early thinking I was still in prison. I couldn't believe it when I realised I was at home.
15. My parents did not visit me in prison because their permit was issued on the day when I was released.
16. In prison I studied Arabic and attended drawing classes. My father told me his work permit was revoked because of my imprisonment. One day he went to work in the morning as usual but the soldiers at the checkpoint stopped him and told him his permit was no longer valid. My family depended on my father's work permit for more than 15 years. We are eight people at home and my father cannot provide for us anymore.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.S.M.Y. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My teacher picked me up in his car at around 7:30 a.m. and give me a lift to school in the nearby village as usual. Two other students were also in the car.
2. When we arrived at the Israeli military watchtower at the entrance to my village the soldiers stopped us and asked to see our ID cards. Three soldiers opened the doors and asked us to step out and took photos of us without any explanation. Then they told us to get back into the car. They made us wait in the car for about 30 minutes.
3. After about 30 minutes a soldier told me and the other students to get out of the car and told the teacher to leave. A few women from the village tried to intervene but the soldiers sent them away. Then a soldier took me inside the military watchtower where he tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was painful. He also blindfolded me and told me to sit on a chair.
4. While inside the watchtower I asked to use the toilet outside. A soldier accompanied me and beat me on my legs and back in the toilet which was painful. Then I was taken back inside the watchtower.
5. At one point I heard someone walk into the room and I tried to lift the blindfold to see who it was. When the commander saw me lifting the blindfold he yelled at me and threatened to pluck my eyes out if I tried to remove it again. Then he removed the tie and replaced it with another plastic tie which was tighter and more painful. He also tightened the blindfold which was painful.
6. Then the commander told me he had photographic evidence of me throwing stones at soldiers. I told him the photographs were old and I had already spent time in prison. Then he accused me of continuing to throw stones at soldiers after my release from prison and threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time. I denied the accusation. At no time did he inform me that I had any rights.
7. Then he spoke again about the photographs and I told him to show them to me. He left the room for about two hours and came back but without photographs. I asked him to release me and complained to him that he made me lose a day of school for nothing.

8. At around 1:00 p.m. the commander took me outside where he removed the tie and the blindfold. He slapped me on my shoulder and told me he did not want to see my face ever again. He said that if he did see me he was going to shoot me and lock me up. Then he let go of me and I walked home by myself. I arrived home at around 1:30 p.m.

Date: 19 November 2017
Location: Bi'lin, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.M.I.R. of Bi'lin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our home looking for me. My father prevented the soldiers from entering my bedroom and made them wait for me to come to the living room.
2. When I came to the living-room some soldiers went to my bedroom and took a black T-shirt. They then told my parents I was under arrest but they did not provide us with any documentation. The soldiers wanted to handcuff me inside the house but my father asked them not to humiliate me in front of him and my mother.
3. Once outside the house the soldiers handcuffed me to the front which were painful. Then they put me in the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Once inside the jeep I was blindfolded and the jeep drove to the nearby military base. On the way soldiers slapped me many times while I was blindfolded and handcuffed and each time it was a shock. Each time they slapped me they laughed.
4. At the military base I was taken inside where I spent the rest of the night on the ground, handcuffed and blindfolded, and I could not sleep. I was allowed to use the toilet but I was not given any food or drink.
5. At around 9:00 a.m. my legs were shackled and I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. The jeep stopped many times on the way and I arrived at around noon. At the police station I was taken to a room where I waited for about two-and-a-half hours before I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed my blindfold and handcuffs but kept me shackled. He was in Israeli police uniform and there was a camera on the wall in the interrogation room. Before questioning me he told me I could remain silent. He also told me he was going to call my father to ask him to appoint a lawyer for me but he never did and I did not speak to a lawyer.
7. The interrogator showed me photos of clashes near the Wall which included images of boys using sling shots. He accused me of taking part but I denied the accusation. He raised his voice at me in anger and told me he was going to discipline me and the whole village.
8. Then another interrogator entered the room and told me he was going to “teach me” not to throw stones. I told him I did not throw stones. He shouted at me and accused me of lying.

Then he banged the table and threw an old mobile phone on the floor. He wanted to scare me in order to confess. At first I denied the accusation but then I confessed.

9. After I confessed one of the interrogators showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign. I asked him to translate but he was not clear and I asked him to repeat. Then he told me the document says I was informed of my right to silence and that I had access to a lawyer. I told him I was not going to sign because I did not see a lawyer. He told me he was going to allow me to speak to a lawyer after I sign. I believed him and signed but he did not call a lawyer.
10. After the interrogation I was taken to another room where I waited until around 5:00 p.m. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to Section 13.
11. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother was there and a lawyer. The hearing was adjourned. In all I had four military court hearings.
12. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain and I was given two choices: either seven months in prison without a fine, or five months in prison with a fine of NIS 2,000. I accepted the second offer because I wanted to go back to school. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months valid for 18 months.
13. I was released on 5 April 2018, two weeks early for good conduct. In prison I attended classes in mathematics and Arabic. I also attended drawing classes. My mother and brother visited me three times but my father was allowed to visit me only once because he was denied a permit for security reasons.

I, M.I.M.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to find Israeli soldiers standing over me. It was around midnight. Around five soldiers entered my bedroom and there were more in the corridor.
2. They made me sit on a chair by the door and one soldier put his face very close to mine and blew in my face. He also twisted my arm behind my back and held it in a painful position against the wall with his gun. He threatened next time he was going to break it.
3. When my sister brought me a glass of water a soldier swore at her. Then they told my father to bring me to the interrogation centre at Etzion by 7:30 a.m. They gave my father a summons with details about where they wanted me to go and for what reason, all written in Hebrew. The commander had written my identity number on his hand. He also had my brother's name written on his hand too.
4. Later that morning I went with my father to Etzion as instructed. We waited until 2:00 p.m. and no body let us in. In the end a guard told us to leave and come back the following morning because there were no interrogators available at the time. My father and I went home.
5. The following day we went back to Etzion again. I waited from 7:30 a.m. until around 11:30 a.m. when I was taken to an interrogation room. They allowed my father into the police station but they did not allow him into the interrogation room with me.
6. As soon as I entered the room the interrogator asked me whether I knew about a person who was in a Skoda firing with a hunting rifle. When I told him I did not he accused me of lying. He did not inform me of any rights. Then he pulled out a photo album with photos of me together with other boys some of whom were masked. Then he accused me of passing a stone to one of the masked boys in one of the photos and wanted me to tell him the boy's name. I told him I had a tissue in my hand and how would I know who the boy was when he was masked. Then he showed me photos of two young men from the camp and wanted me to confess against them and say they threw stones. Then he claimed he had photos of me throwing stones during a demonstration. I asked him to show me the photos but he never did.
7. Later he took me to see another interrogator who asked me the same questions without informing me of my rights either. He accused me of throwing stones which hit the target. He asked me whether I hit settlers or soldiers and I told him I aimed at soldiers but I missed. Then he told me a soldier was injured but when I denied I had hit a soldier and hurt him he lost his temper and started to shout at me and bang the table aggressively. He also swore at me. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused. He swore at me again when I refused to sign.

8. Then he took me outside and left me there for about two hours. I was then strip searched and taken into a cell at Etzion. I was in the cell by myself and I could not sleep.
9. The following morning, I was taken in a car and dropped off near a military watchtower. I was told my father was going to come and take me home. I started to walk and about 30 minutes later my father came and took me home. I later found out that my father had to pay NIS 2,000 to get me released. I was released on 23 November 2017.

Date: 7 December 2017
Location: Hebron, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.O.K. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on my way to work at around 11:30 a.m. when an Israeli soldier stopped me at a checkpoint and sent me back the way I came. I then went to another checkpoint in order to get to work but there were clashes nearby following Trump's announcement to move the US embassy to Jerusalem.
2. As soon as I approached the second checkpoint soldiers attacked me and started to beat me thinking I was taking part in the protest. They punched me in the chest and a soldier who was wearing metal mittens punched me from both sides and crushed my head. I was in such pain that I vomited and passed out for a short time and fell to the ground.
3. When I woke a soldier tied my hands behind my back with five plastic ties on top of each other because the first two snapped. The ties were very tight and painful and caused my wrists to bleed. They left a mark on my wrists for a long time.
4. The soldiers continued to beat and kick me while they led me to the nearby checkpoint in the old city. There were lots of soldiers inside the shipping container at the checkpoint and many of them took part in beating me very hard: on my head, my legs, my back and shoulders. I vomited again and passed out once more.
5. Someone poured cold water on my face to wake me up. I could hear lots of people screaming and shouting trying to rescue me. One woman shouted very loud and a journalist who was filming was shot at.
6. I was kept inside the container for hours and one soldier told me Jerusalem was the capital of Israel and I told him no, Jerusalem was the capital of Palestine. He was very upset with me and slung a rubbish bin into my face, spat at me, poured water and dumped rubbish from a bin over me.
7. Later I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. Inside the jeep I was blindfolded. The jeep drove to a nearby military base called Al-Jabara. I was left out in the cold weather and when I asked them to take me inside and to give me some food they refused. They finally allowed me to use the toilet four hours later. I felt humiliated and scared. At around 2:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
8. A soldier removed my blindfold and took me inside a room. I sat on a chair and the interrogator started to bang the table to scare me. Then he turned on a voice recorder and immediately wanted me to confess to throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation and told him exactly what had happened. I explained to him I was on my way to work when soldiers attacked me without reason. Then he told me if I confess I would be sent home. I told him I was not going to confess to something I did not do.

9. Towards the end of the interrogation he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on the phone. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything I did not do and that he would see me in court on Sunday. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and interrogated me for about 90 minutes. I denied the accusation and did not confess.
10. In the end the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign until he translated it for me. Only after he had translated it for me did I sign it.
11. After the interrogation I was examined by a doctor who did not say anything when I told him I was beaten. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me outside where I remained until around 5:00 a.m. I was still without food or drink and was feeling weak and tired.
12. At around 5:00 a.m. I was taken in a troop carrier to the police station in Etzion settlement. I sat on a seat and was tied but not blindfolded. Inside the troop carrier a soldier swore at me and told me I was a "son of a whore" and I swore back at him.
13. On arrival at Etzion I was strip searched and then taken to a cell where I spent about four hours. There was an awful smell in the cell and I could not sleep and nobody brought me any food or water. During this time, a commander came to the cell and asked me if I wanted to go to Hadassah hospital to be examined. I decided not to go because I thought going to the hospital would take a long time and I wanted the whole thing to be over as quickly as possible. They took another detainee to hospital who was severely beaten and was bleeding.
14. Later I was taken in a vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer in the afternoon. At Ofer I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13. The other detainees gave me some food; it was my first meal since my arrest. I ate and went to bed.
15. On Sunday, 10 December 2017, I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend because they were not informed of the hearing and the proceedings were adjourned.
16. I had five military court appearances. At the last hearing, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of 10 months valid for three years. I was convicted based on the testimonies of two soldiers. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told my sentence would be harsher if I did not.
17. I spent my entire sentence at Ofer prison where I took some classes in mathematics. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not given a permit in time. I was released on 21 February 2018, and I went home with my father. It was a dreadful experience which I will never forget.

Name: R.I.M.M.
Age: 15
Date: 30 December 2017
Location: Rachel's Tomb, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, R.I.M.M. of Al Khadr, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was very upset after Trump announced he was moving the American Embassy to Jerusalem and felt I needed to do something. On 24 April 2018, I took a sling shot and went to Rachel's Tomb, at the entrance to Bethlehem, at around 10:00 a.m. I wanted to do something to show my disapproval.
2. As soon as I arrived at Rachel's Tomb an Israeli soldier aimed his gun at me and ordered me to stop. Then a group of soldiers overpowered me, pushed me to the ground and handcuffed my hands to the front. The handcuffs were not painful. Then they took me to the military base nearby and left me there for a few hours.
3. While I was at the military base the soldiers contacted my mother and told her to come and take me home. My mother arrived but instead of sending me home with her they left her waiting for about three hours.
4. After a few hours I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. My mother was allowed to accompany me. The jeep drove us to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. At around 4:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation and they allowed me mother into the interrogation room with me.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and wanted to know what I was doing near Rachel's Tomb. Then he and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation but he repeated it again and again and I was provoked. I was stressed and my mother intervened and told the interrogator I had told him I did not throw stones so why was he repeating the question. The interrogator raised his voice at my mother and told her not to intervene. I could not tolerate the pressure any longer and I was trembling. I felt I could no longer control my behavior.
6. Then he showed me some images on his computer screen and wanted me to confess to throwing stones and to give him names of boys in the images. I told him I did not throw stones and refused to give him any names. Then I found myself pulling my hair in frustration and I had a nervous condition which was out of my control and I started to shiver and shake.
7. My mother started to scream when she saw me in this state of mind. The interrogator opened the door and threw my mother out. The interrogator left too and I was left in the room alone, I don't know for how long. I was hungry and tired. Then he came back and showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. I signed without understanding what they said.

8. At around 8:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched. I was then taken to Section 13.
9. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother was in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had about four military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. My mother and my lawyer objected and we presented medical reports from the mental health clinic and the judge reduced the sentence to three months in prison and a NIS 500 fine. I also received a suspended sentence of six months valid for a year.
10. I spent my sentence in Ofer prison where I did a lot of weight lifting. I also attended some classes. My parents only visited me twice because it took a long time for their permit to be issued.
11. I was released on 31 March 2018, and I arrived home with my parents at around noon.

Name: M.A.I.J.
Age: 15
Date: 2 January 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.A.I.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I heard loud banging at around 2:00 a.m. and I thought it was the wind. Then I heard a voice saying “open up, open up”. My father opened the door and four Israeli soldiers entered our home. It was raining and the soldiers walked into our house with mud on their boots. My mother was very upset.
2. The commander called our names and asked for me. Then he told me to get ready because they wanted to take me away. My father asked for the reason and the commander told him he did not know the reason and that their job was to make arrests without asking questions.
3. My father insisted I had done nothing wrong to justify my arrest but the commander told him he should not worry if I had done nothing wrong. He also told him to check on me at the police station in Etzion settlement. They gave my father a document with information written in Hebrew.
4. I put on my clothes and wanted to say good bye to my family but the soldiers did not allow me. Outside the house they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. My hands turned blue after a while and I was in pain. They led me along a dirt road to the main street. Along the way they made me take off my trousers and they wiped their boots with my trousers.
5. When we arrived at a military jeep I was blindfolded and then pushed aggressively into the back of the jeep. I banged my head against the edge of a seat. I was in pain and I had a bump on my forehead. I wanted to sit on a seat but a soldier told me to sit on the metal floor. I could hear lots of soldiers inside the jeep but I could not see how many. Inside the jeep a soldier kicked me and the commander was very upset. One soldier swore at me and told me I was a “son of a whore”.
6. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a shipping container. I was shivering because it was very cold and I did not have my trousers on.
7. Some soldiers were eating chips and made fun of me and chewed the chips right in my ear so that I could hear the crunching. Later I was given a pair of trousers and was left there for a long time, maybe 10 hours. I was tied and blindfolded and without food or drink the whole time. After about 10 hours I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator removed the tie and replaced it with metal handcuffs. He also removed the blindfold. He introduced himself as "Captain Moshe" and asked me whether I had eaten and I said no. I asked if I could have some water and he brought me a glass of water. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to be scared of the interrogator. He also told me not to confess. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.
9. Then the interrogator asked me how many Molotov cocktails I had thrown. I said none. He told me there were confessions against me and showed me pictures of young men and told me to give their names and confess against them. Then he asked me whether I splashed blue paint on a military jeep and how many shots I fired. I told him I had nothing to do with these things.
10. Then he asked me how I got shot in my knee. I told him I went to the shop to buy some groceries and clashes erupted and I was shot in my knee. He did not like what I said and slapped me hard on my face. Then he told me to get up and leave and called someone from outside who took me to another room.
11. The second person took a statement from me. He typed on his computer as I repeated the same answers. I did not confess. He was impatient and swore at god and all the residents of Al 'Arrub and accused all of us of being terrorists. Then he showed me satellite images of the camp and Beit Fajjar, a neighbouring town, on his computer screen. He showed me our house on the screen marked in red and told me he never wanted to see me again. He took my picture but did not ask me to sign any documents.
12. Then I was taken back to a shipping container where I was shackled and blindfolded, still without food. I was left there for a couple of hours and then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
13. On arrival at Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. The other detainees gave me some food which I was desperate for and I went to bed. By this time it was around 3:30 a.m.
14. Later that morning I was taken to Ofer military court. My detention was extended and the hearing adjourned. I had a number of military court hearings.
15. At the last hearing, which was on 10 January 2018, the military court decided to release me but the prosecutor appealed. In the end I was released on 18 January 2018. My family had to pay a fine of NIS 6,000 and my file was closed. My mother borrowed money from relatives and neighbours.
16. My father was waiting for me outside Ofer prison and I went home with him. We arrived home at around 4:30 p.m. I don't go to school because I was not doing well; I want to work and support my family.

Name: N.T.H.I.
Age: 16
Date: 9 January 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.T.H.I. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep on the couch in the living room when I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. It was around 1:30 a.m. My mother opened the door and about 30 Israeli soldiers entered our home and asked for me and my brother. They gave my father a document in Hebrew and asked him to sign it and he did.
2. Then they took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very painful. Then they walked me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to the camp where they blindfolded me and left me out in the cold for about 30 minutes. Then I was put in a troop carrier where I sat on a seat.
3. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken to a small kitchenette. I sat on the floor from around 2:30 a.m. until around 8:00 a.m. Someone kicked and slapped me while I was tied and blindfolded. He also swore at me and called me a “son of a whore” and threatened to arrest my father. I complained to the commander when he came to check on me but the soldier denied having kicked and slapped me. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He left the room for about 10 minutes and then came back and removed the blindfold and the ties. He did not inform me of my rights and started to question me about throwing stones. He told me other boys had confessed against me. I denied the accusation and asked him to confront me with the boys who confessed against me. He told me he was not going to confront me with anyone and if I wanted to sort things out with them I should find them and if necessary beat them up.
5. Half-way through the interrogation he tied and blindfolded me again and made me stand for about an hour. He continued to question me while standing and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and threatened to bring soldiers to beat me up if I did not confess. I continued to deny the accusation. He did not give me any documents to sign.
6. In the end the interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and to stick to my position. Then he told me he did not want to say much in front of the interrogator.

7. After the interrogation I was led to the gate of the police station where a lawyer wanted to speak to me. But before I could speak to the lawyer I was rushed onto a bus that took me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
8. At Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed of the hearing. My lawyer was there and the court wanted me to pay NIS 2,000 but I refused and insisted I was innocent. The hearing was adjourned.
9. About a week later I had another hearing. My parents did not attend and the court reduced the amount I had to pay to NIS 750. My lawyer accepted the reduced amount and the court decided to release me.
10. My parents paid the amount and I was released on 22 January 2018. I went home with my father.

Name: M.G.A.B.
Age: 13
Date: 13 January 2018
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.G.A.B. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes going on near the Wall between the youth and Israeli soldiers. It was around 4:00 p.m. Two soldiers ambushed me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were not painful. They also blindfolded me and made me sit on the ground until my father came about 30 minutes later. My father asked the soldiers to release me but the commander refused.
2. Shortly afterwards two military vehicles arrived and the soldiers thought my father was the one under arrest but then my father clarified the situation to them. Then they asked me about the boy seen in a photograph they showed me and I told them I did not know him. They accused me of lying. Then they told my father to go home and told him they wanted to take me to the military base at Zufin. My father refused to leave and told them he was not going to leave me alone.
3. The soldiers then tied my father's hands and blindfolded him and took both of us to the back of a jeep where we sat on seats. The jeep drove to Zufin.
4. At the base a soldier told my father to go home because they were going to release me within half-an-hour but my father did not believe them and refused to leave. Then I had a medical examination and the doctor removed the blindfold and then put it back on. At the base they removed the ties and the blindfold from my father.
5. At around 8:30 p.m. I was taken with my father to the police station in Ariel settlement. The jeep drove for a long time and my father asked the driver if he could remove the blindfold off my eyes and the driver agreed. We arrived at the police station at around 1:30 a.m.
6. A police woman told my father to leave because they don't beat up children at the police station. She told my father he could ask me if I was beaten when the interrogation is over. Then she took me to the interrogation room without my father.
7. The police woman did not speak good Arabic and spoke to me via an interpreter. She called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid because they don't beat, they just threaten to beat. The police woman did not say anything about my right to silence. She gave me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did.

8. Then she accused me of taking part in the protest near the Wall and throwing stones. I denied the accusation. She was mad at me and banged the table aggressively. She repeated the same accusation many times and I continued to deny it. She did not show me any photographic evidence. She questioned me for about 30 minutes and then she sent me out for my photograph and my fingerprints to be taken.
9. Then I was taken in a vehicle to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived there at around 6:00 a.m. I was tired and hungry. On the way a soldier kicked me when I fell asleep; he wanted me to stay awake. At Megiddo I was searched in my underwear and then taken to the juvenile section.
10. About 30 minutes later I was taken to Salem military court. My father was at court. The proceedings were adjourned. The military judge wanted to schedule the next hearing eight days later but my lawyer disagreed and he asked for the next hearing to be two days later. I had two more court hearings and at the last one the court ordered my release upon payment of a NIS 2,000 fine. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 18 January 2018, at around 10:30 a.m. and I went home with my father.

I, M.I.S.S. of Kafr Ni'ma, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends in the valley beside a road used by settlers when all of a sudden a group of Israeli soldiers started to chase us. It was at around 3:00 p.m.
2. I started to run away but one of the soldiers yelled at me to stop. I was scared that he might shoot me if I did not stop so I stopped and I lay on the ground face down. The soldiers approached me and started to beat me with the back of their guns on my back and shoulder. I was in pain which lasted for a week. Soon I found myself surrounded by about 15 soldiers.
3. One of the soldiers tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very painful and left a mark on my wrists for days. Then they took me aside and started to interrogate me. One soldier wanted to know what I was doing in the area near the road used by settlers; another wanted to know the names of the boys who were with me. The third one wanted to know what I was throwing on the road. The three soldiers questioned me without informing me of my rights.
4. The first soldier asked me whether we were nine boys. When I told him we were not nine he threatened to shoot me and throw my body in the valley.
5. Then a commander came and told me if I spoke I would make it easier for myself. He told me if I told him what happened the soldiers would quickly take me to court and the whole thing would be over and nobody would hurt me. At that point I told him we were five boys and I gave him some names. When I gave the names a soldier told me I had to repeat what I had just said and he recoded my statement on video. During this whole process nobody told me anything about my rights. I was scared and in pain.
6. Then the soldiers dragged me along and I fell to the ground and hurt myself and then I was left near one of the terraces. About 30 minutes later the commander came and all the soldiers stepped aside. The commander told me to let him know if I needed anything. I asked for a cigarette and he gave me one but then another commander came and was upset with the first commander for giving me a cigarette and he took it away from me.
7. Then I was taken to a vehicle and a soldier accused me of lying to him because one of the other boys whom he had questioned confessed that we were nine boys. Then he pressured me to name all nine boys and I gave him more names because I was scared. Then I was blindfolded and a soldier wrapped the seat belt around me and I could not move.

8. The vehicle drove away and a soldier put a telephone near my ear and I heard the voice of a commander who wanted me to repeat what I had told the other soldiers and I did. The commander then told me I was going to spend at least three years in prison. We arrived at a nearby settlement and I was taken to a shipping container. I sat on a chair for about five minutes and then they made me sit on the floor. They allowed me to drink water and to use the toilet.
9. About 25 minutes later a group of soldiers brought my friends in and they started to make fun of us. One soldier touched my hair and asked me whether my sister was pretty. He told me he wanted to bring her over and have fun with her. Then he asked me where my mother was. I told him he needed to tell me where his sister was before I told him where my mother was. He slapped me and wanted to slap me again but the other soldier moved him away from me.
10. Then I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I sat on a chair in a shipping container until around 5:30 a.m.
11. Later that day I was taken to Bet El settlement where they removed the blindfold and I was handed over to the Palestinian police. My father picked me up and took me home. I arrived home in the afternoon. My father told me he had to sign documents guaranteeing that I won't throw stones anymore. I was released on the 14 January 2018, and for a whole week I could not sleep well.

1. I was with some friends in the valley alongside a bypass road used by settlers when I saw an Israeli military jeep approaching us. It was around 3:00 p.m. I started to run and then I heard sounds of shooting, possibly tear gas.
2. I jumped down three or four terraces before I fell to the ground. Then the soldiers fired a stun grenade in my direction. I was terrified. A soldier ordered me to put my hands behind my head and to sit down on the ground. I did as he ordered.
3. Then a soldier started to beat me in the back with the butt of his gun. This caused me a lot of pain. He also swore at me calling my sisters and my mother "whores". Then he dragged me towards the road and made me lie with my face down.
4. At the road my hands were tied behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then he blindfolded me and started to question me without informing me of any rights. He wanted to know who else was with me and what I was throwing on the road. He asked me whether I threw a Molotov cocktail and paint tins. I told him I wanted to speak to my father but he refused my request.
5. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep drove to a nearby settlement where I was taken to a shipping container and I left there for about two or three hours.
6. Then I was taken to a military base where I was left in a room until around 11:00 p.m. Then I was taken in a vehicle and I saw I sign to Jerusalem but I could not tell where I was. I was left somewhere for about three hours. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken to another place.
7. Later that morning I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left in a meeting room for about two hours. Then a policeman came and removed the tie and blindfold and asked me how I was and started to question me without informing me of my rights. He asked me the same questions about who I was with and what I was throwing on the road. He wanted to know the names of the other boys who were with me but I did not give him any names.
8. Then I told him I wanted to speak to a lawyer but he told me he was going to send me to Al Mascobiyeh prison, in West Jerusalem. Then he called my father and told him he did not want to destroy my future and that he was going to release me this time. He told my father if I am ever arrested again he was going to lock me up for a minimum of eight months. He did not ask me to sign any documents.

9. At around 2:00 p.m. I was taken to Beit El settlement where I was handed over to the Palestinian police. My father then picked me up and took me home. I arrived home at around 4:30 p.m.

I, J.H.J.W. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. when I heard terrifying loud banging at our front door. My parents answered the door and about 12 Israeli soldiers entered our home. More soldiers remained outside and they were accompanied by service dogs and a couple of female soldiers.
2. The soldiers asked all of us to go downstairs and pointed to my older brother thinking he was me. When they realized it was me they had to arrest they took my photo and sent it to someone for confirmation because I looked too young. My father told them I was too young to be arrested but the commander told him they wanted to take me for questioning but did not say why. They did not give my parents any documents.
3. I said goodbye to my parents and my younger brother and the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful. They also blindfolded me and some soldiers kicked and slapped me, they just did not care.
4. The soldiers then led me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our refugee camp where they left for about 30 minutes. Some soldiers swore at me. After about 30 minutes I was put in the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
5. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion a doctor removed the blindfold and examined me and then blindfolded me again. Then I was left outdoors in the cold weather until around 8:00 a.m. While waiting I asked to use the toilet but a soldier slapped me hard on my face. It left a mark on my face. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. There was a voice recorder on his desk. He also had a baton. As soon as I entered the room he removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He told me I had the right to remain silent and then accused me of throwing stones. Then he asked me who else was with me when I threw stones and I told him I did not throw stones. He became angry and banged the table in an attempt to scare me and he swore at me. Then he told me soldiers had testified against me.
7. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. During this time the interrogator wanted me to confess against other boys but I continued to deny I was with anyone because I did not throw stones. In the end he allowed me to speak to a lawyer who told me not to be afraid and not to confess to anything I did not do.

8. Then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I was left in the cell which had a mattress without sheets. I managed to sleep but at around 6:00 p.m. soldiers woke me up and took me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I arrived at around 7:00 p.m. At Ofer I was strip searched again and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Afterwards I was taken to Section 13.
9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not present. A lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. I had about nine military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one-and-a-half months in prison and another 10 months suspended for three years. I also had to serve another one-and-a-half months in prison suspended from a previous sentence. They did not impose a fine on me.
10. I spent my sentence at Ofer prison where I attended classes. My parents only visited me once because it took a long time for the visit permit to be issued.
11. I was released on 8 April 2018, a couple of weeks early because of good conduct and I went home with my father. My mother had prepared a nice meal and family and friends came to our house to greet me.

Name: H.T.A.S.
Age: 17
Date: 21 January 2018
Location: Qalqilya, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, H.T.A.S. of Qalqilya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers during a Friday demonstration near the checkpoint. It was around 1:00 p.m. I was not paying attention to the soldiers who had laid an ambush. About 15 soldiers chased me and I tried to escape but there was no way out for me as the soldiers had surrounded me from all directions.
2. One soldier, who was hiding in the public toilet, suddenly came out and slapped me so hard that I fell to the ground. Another soldier tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie and then handcuffed me with metal hand cuffs on top of the plastic tie. The tie and the handcuffs were very painful and I still have marks on my wrists nearly six months later. I was also blindfolded.
3. A soldier then took off my boots and dragged me towards the Israeli side of the checkpoint. On the other side of the checkpoint the soldiers beat me all over my body, kicked and slapped me. I was in pain. They also swore at me and called me a “fucker son of a whore”.
4. Then I was taken to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat and taken to Zufin military base. I was taken to a room where I remained for about two hours. A guard was with me the whole time. Then I was examined by a doctor who removed the tie and the handcuffs and handcuffed me again when he was done.
5. Then I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. I arrived there at around 5:00 p.m. I was shackled and taken to a room where I waited for another two hours. A person who spoke good Arabic approached me and told me I had to tell him what I was doing in the area. He did not inform me of my rights. I told him I was on agriculture land which my family owns near the checkpoint. He told me if I did not tell him the truth I would be in trouble because he knew everything there was to know about me and threatened to take me to the basement where I would be beaten by soldiers. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken for a formal interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the handcuffs and kept me shackled. He had a voice recorder and he asked me how I was. Then he asked me whether I wanted a lawyer. I told him I did and he allowed me to call a lawyer I knew but he did not answer his phone. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.

7. The interrogator showed me video footage and photographs taken during the protest and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the photos were of me and he accused me of lying and claimed he knew everything about me. He raised his voice at me while he spoke.
8. I was interrogated for about 30 minutes. In the end I confessed because I wanted to get it over with. The interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did without understanding what was written. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph and drove me to Huwwara military base. I arrived there after midnight.
9. At Huwwara I was strip searched and I spent the night there. I was given some food but I did not eat because I found it unappetising. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was strip searched again.
10. Two days later I was taken to Salem military court but my family did not attend because they were not notified. The military judge decided to extend my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had 10 hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a year in prison suspended for 5 years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I would have a harsher sentence if I did not.
11. I spent my entire prison sentence in Megiddo prison. My parents visited me only twice because they were denied permits to visit me for security reasons. In prison I studied Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics.
12. About six months into my sentence I appeared in front of a military judge who decided to release me three months early because of good conduct. I think the prison was overcrowded and they needed the space. I was released on 21 June 2018, at Al Jalama checkpoint. My father and his friend and my cousin were waiting for me and I went home with them. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

I, M.A.I.R. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was awake checking my Facebook page at around 1:00 a.m. when I heard a commotion outside our house. Moments later there was a knock at the door. My father answered the door and seven Israeli soldiers entered our home. Two of the soldiers wore face masks and there were many more soldiers outside.
2. As soon as the soldiers entered our house they started talking to my father in Hebrew. Then the commander saw my name on my father's identity card and told me I was under arrest. My mother asked the commander why I was under arrest but he simply ignored her. Then he showed my father a document with details about my arrest but he did not give him a copy.
3. I put on a jacket, trousers and shoes and said goodbye to my family. At the door the soldiers tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. The soldiers then walked me towards the military watchtower near the entrance to the camp and made me sit. They blindfolded me and left me for about 30 minutes. The weather was cold.
4. During the 30 minutes soldiers slapped me twice and swore at me calling me a "son of a whore".
5. After 30 minutes I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the settlement of Karmi Zur and some soldiers got off. Then the jeep drove on to the police station in Etzion settlement. On the way the soldiers slapped me. We arrived at Etzion at around 3:00 a.m.
6. Inside a compound in Etzion the soldiers walked me while I was still blindfolded. Then I was taken inside where a doctor removed the blindfold and examined me and then blindfolded me again. He made me sign a document. Then he took me somewhere else where I remained until around 10:00 a.m. I was tied and blindfolded. During this time I was allowed to use the toilet. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator phoned my mother and told her I needed a lawyer. He asked her whether she wanted to appoint a lawyer and she told him it was his duty to appoint me a lawyer and pay for him. Then I coughed and the interrogator was upset and told me to put my hand over my mouth. I told him I could not do it because I was tied. When I said this he slapped me on my hand. Then he removed the blindfold and sat me down. He had a tape recorder and he turned it on.

8. Without informing me of my rights he accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he wanted to know more details about throwing Molotov cocktails and throwing stones, like how far away I was standing, where I put on the mask, where I stood...etc. but I continued to deny the accusations.
9. Then the interrogator showed me some photographs of young boys throwing stones and asked me for their names. I told him I did not know them. Then he pulled out more photographs and asked me for names and I told him I did not know any of the boys in the photographs. Then he took me outside and told me he was going to ask soldiers to lock me up in prison. He did not ask me to sign any documents and made me sit in an outdoor area and told me he was monitoring me on camera and that if I moved I would be shot. I sat there for about 30 minutes and did not move. Then he came back and took me back to the interrogation room.
10. The interrogator asked me whether my mother had appointed a lawyer. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to say a word until he arrived. Then the interrogator told me if I confessed he would send me home. He told me all the other boys who confessed were sent home. I told him I had nothing to confess. He did not inform me of my rights and accused me of teaching boys how to make Molotov cocktails and wanted to know why I did it. I denied this accusation.
11. I think the interrogator wanted to scare me with serious accusations so that I would confess to something trivial, but I continued to deny all the accusations. He interrogated me for another 30 minutes. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
12. Then a group of people in civilian clothes searched me with my clothes on, blindfolded me and then took me to a cell. There was an awful stench in the room. Then the interrogator came and told me to confess if I wanted to go home.
13. Shortly afterwards the interrogator took me to the front gate and I was released. As he left he told me he was going to come back for me in a month or two. A Palestinian family from a village near Hebron gave me a lift home. I arrived home at around 3:30 p.m. and my parents were very happy to see me.

Name: A.S.A.D.
Date: 1 February 2018
Location: Qalqiliya, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.S.A.D. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up startled after hearing very loud banging at the front door at around 3:30 a.m. My father answered the door and about 20 Israeli soldiers entered our home. Two of the soldiers were masked.
2. The soldiers immediately pushed my father back and told him to sit down and not move. My mother told the commander he had an obligation to explain himself to us as to what he was doing in our house in the middle of the night. The commander completely ignored her.
3. The soldiers then went into my bedroom and I followed them. They asked me for my name and looked in my wardrobe but did not tell me why. Then they told me I was under arrest but did not say why. They gave my father a document asking him to go to Ariel police station.
4. I barely had time to say goodbye to my family before I was taken outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very painful and left marks on my wrists for three days. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor and the jeep took me to Zufin military base.
5. At the base I was quickly examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and the ties and put them back on when he was finished. He made me sign a document written in Arabic and Hebrew about my medical condition. Then I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I spent many hours in an outdoor area without any food or drink. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties. He was in civilian clothes and looked like a wrestler. He had a voice recorder and a camera in the room. He introduced himself but did not inform me of my rights. He turned the voice recorder on and asked me whether I knew why I was there. Then he told me my father was waiting outside and if I confessed he would allow me to see him. I later found out that soldier showed my father footage of clashes with soldiers and told him I was taking part but my father denied it.
7. Then the interrogator told me to be straightforward with him because he had no time for me. Then he showed me footage of clashes and wanted me to confess against myself and others. He made me watch a long video of clashes and wanted me to confess. Another interrogator joined and he played “good cop”, at least in the beginning. He asked me how I was doing.

8. Then the second interrogator blindfolded me and took me to the basement and asked me questions and wanted me to confess. Then he removed the blindfold and showed me pictures and wanted me to confess but I refused. He shouted at me each time he asked me to name someone in the pictures and I refused.
9. Then the second interrogator put the blindfold on again and tightened it and he also handcuffed me. Still I refused to confess. Then he took me upstairs. The first interrogator took over and repeated the same accusation. In the beginning I denied the accusation but the interrogator kept insisting that I must confess and in the end I did. He raised his voice at me each time I denied the accusation. He swore at god and told me I was giving them a hard time. I was tired, hungry and thirsty and couldn't stand it any longer and I confessed to throwing two stones which missed based on some images. The interrogation lasted for about two-and-a-half hours.
10. After I had confessed the interrogator asked me whether I wanted to see a lawyer and I told him I did not; I did not appreciate the importance of having a lawyer at the time. Then I was photographed and fingerprinted and made me sign a document in Hebrew which I was told said I was informed of my rights.
11. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I arrived late at night and I was strip searched. I spent about two hours there and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived there at around 1:30 a.m. I was searched with my clothes on and I went straight to bed; I was exhausted.
12. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had six hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because the punishment would have been harsher had I rejected it.
13. I spent my entire prison sentence at Megiddo prison where I studied Arabic and mathematics. My parents visited me three times, four months after my arrest. Their permit to visit me took a long time to be issued. I was released early for good conduct on 20 June 2018.

Name: A.M.M.K.
Age: 14
Date: 6 February 2018
Location: Ein as Sultan, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.M.M.K. of Ein as Sultan, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 6:00 p.m. I was on my way home with my uncle when we were surrounded by a number of Israeli military jeeps. At the time there were clashes between young people from the refugee camp where I live and Israeli soldiers on Route 90 near the camp. We tried to run away but a soldier caught me.
2. After I was caught a soldier beat me on the shoulder with the back of his gun and another soldier pushed me to the ground and kicked me. A soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and left a mark on my wrists. The soldiers also swore at me and called me a “son of a whore”.
3. Then I was taken to a troop carrier where I was blindfolded and made to sit on the metal floor. There were six boys on the floor on top of each other. I was very uncomfortable as I was tied and blindfolded. A female soldier swore at me and called me a “son of a whore” and kicked me on the side.
4. The troop carrier drove for about 10 minutes to a nearby military base. At the base I was left on the ground in an outdoor area in the cold weather for about an hour. Then I was taken to a room and the soldiers turned the air conditioner on cold. I was freezing. I was left there with other boys until the morning and I could not sleep at all. I was tied and blindfolded and very cold. I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet once.
5. In the morning a soldier walked into the room with a broom stick and beat me lightly on the shoulder as if he was just playing. I could smell he probably had a drink. At around 6:00 a.m. I was driven to the police station in the settlement of Ma’ale Adummim.
6. At Ma’ale Adummim I was left in a room until around 6:00 p.m. when I was taken for interrogation. During this time they removed the blindfold but I was kept tied. I was still without any food or drink.
7. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and spoke broken Arabic. He removed the tie and turned a tape recorder on. He sat me down on a chair and asked me to tell him what had happened. He did not inform me of any rights.
8. The interrogator wanted me to give him the names of people throwing stones at the soldiers and told me if I gave him the names he would send me home. I told him I did not know any of them because they were all masked. He was very upset with my answer and banged the table very hard and threatened to use force against me. He told me he had no choice but to beat me. I was so scared that I started to cry. Then he called my mother and told her to calm me down. My mother told me not to worry and I would be home soon.

9. Then the interrogator printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. When I asked him what the document was he told me it was necessary for me to sign it because it helped them know "who was who". I signed the document in Hebrew.
10. Then I was taken to another room where I was handcuffed. I remained by myself for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken in a vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer at around 10:00 p.m. I was searched in my underwear and then taken to Section 13 where I ate and tried to sleep but I could not. Everything was strange and I missed home.
11. In the morning I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were in court. I asked my mother when I was going home but the guard told me I was not allowed to speak to my mother. I started to cry and my mother cried too. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to prison.
12. A few days later I was taken back to Ma'ale Adummim for a second interrogation. I was interrogated by the same interrogator. He did not inform me of my rights but he turned a tape recorder on. He told me he knew I did not throw stones but he wanted me to tell him who was throwing stones at settler cars on Route 90. I told him I did not know. Then he wanted to know what I was doing in the area and I told him I was with my uncle who went to get his tools and I wanted to help him.
13. The interrogator was calm throughout the interrogation and in the end he asked me to sign documents in Hebrew and I did. I asked him what the document said and he told me it was identical to what I had told him. The whole thing lasted for about 10 minutes. In the end he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything I did not do and not to say anything I was not sure of.
14. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to a room where I waited for about two hours. Then I was taken back to Ofer prison.
15. In all I had four military court hearings. At the last hearing I was presented with a charge sheet in which I was accused of throwing stones at settler cars. The charge sheet was based on testimonies given by soldiers. My lawyer and the prosecutor agreed on a plea bargain in which I was sentenced to two months in prison and fine NIS 3,500. In addition I was given a further six months in prison suspended for three years.
16. I spent the entire sentence at Ofer where I was bored most of the time. I played some table tennis and studied mathematics and Arabic. I also did some drawing. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not issued a permit in time.

17. I was released on 22 March 2018 and went home with my father and uncle. I arrived home at around 4:00 p.m. My mother was in tears when she saw me and I could not believe I was home. My mother prepared a nice meal but I could not eat; I was too excited. I am in ninth grade and I want to go back to school as soon as possible. Whenever I see soldiers on the street I run home; I don't want any more trouble with them.

Name: M.J.A.S.
Age: 16
Date: 8 February 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.J.A.S. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking home at around noon when two Israeli soldiers stopped me on the main road and accused me of throwing stones. Soon two military jeeps pulled over and the soldiers showed me some photographs of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied that the photographs were of me.
2. The soldiers then they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then put in the back of the one of the jeeps and made to sit on the metal floor.
3. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the ties and the blindfold and I complained to him that the ties and the blindfold caused me pain but he did not respond. He tied and blindfolded me again after the examination.
4. Then I was taken outside where two people slapped me on the head. One of them told the other I should be shot in the head. Then I was taken for interrogation. It was around 2:30 p.m.
5. The interrogator removed my blindfold. He was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on the table. He told me everything I say would be recorded. He told me his name was "Yossi" and asked me for my name and then showed me some photographs. He accused me of throwing stones without informing me of my rights. I denied the accusation. He banged the table and swore at me saying I was the "son of a whore".
6. He repeated the same accusation over and over and wanted me to give names of boys who throw stones. I continued to deny the accusation and did not give any names. I was interrogated for about one-and-a-half hours. In the end he told me four soldiers had testified against me and showed me more photographs. At that point I confessed.
7. About an hour into the interrogation and after I had confessed I asked to see a lawyer. The interrogator called one and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and asked me about my court hearing. He also told me to remain silent and not to say anything and not to confess. The interrogator also called my father and allowed me to speak to him.

8. Then he showed me a blank piece of paper and wanted me to sign my name. When I refused to sign he yelled at me and kept insisting I had to sign. Then he told me if I signed my name he could then send me to Ofer. Then he brought another document in Arabic saying he had completed the interrogation. He asked me to sign it and I did.
9. Then he took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to a cell where I was searched in my underwear. About three hours later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there around 9:00 p.m. At Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. I ate and went to bed.
10. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and a lawyer were present. The hearing was adjourned. I had eight hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a 15-month sentence suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I thought it was a good deal and I wanted to go back to school as soon as possible. I would have been put in prison for longer had I rejected the plea bargain.
11. I spent my entire sentence at Ofer where I attended mathematics and Arabic classes and did some weight lifting. My parents did not visit me in prison because their permit to visit was not issued in time. My mother made sure to attend all my hearing because that was the only time she could see me.
12. I was released on 23 April 2018, and I went home with my parents who had decorated the house with flags to celebrate my homecoming.

I, R.A.M.S. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friend in the fields near the settlement and we set fire to some old tyres. It was around 4:00 p.m. Shortly afterwards we were surprised by a group of Israeli soldiers who had ambushed us. They surrounded us from all directions and I did not know which way to run so I stayed put. A group of soldiers started to slap and beat me on my legs, my arms and shoulders. They also swore at me.
2. The soldiers tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very painful and left a mark on my wrists. They also painfully blindfolded me and pushed me into the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to a place I did not recognize. By the time we arrived it was dark.
3. I was taken into a room where I waited on the floor for a long time, maybe about five hours, without food or drink and I could not sleep. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep took me to the police station at Etzion settlement for interrogation. I waited for some time and then I was taken into the interrogation room.
4. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold. As soon as he saw me he told me my friends had confessed against me. I denied that I had done anything wrong. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and was angry. He banged the table and raised his voice when he spoke to me. He interrogated me for about 30 minutes and did not inform me of any rights. He did not give me any documents to sign and I did not confess.
5. After the interrogation I was re-tied and blindfolded and taken to the back of a jeep where I was left there for a long time. I sat on a seat and the soldiers put their boots on me and laid their weapons next to me. I was exhausted and wanted to sleep but I could not sleep because I was tied and blindfolded. I was in the jeep from around 1:00 a.m. until around 8:00 a.m. when I was taken to the military court. Nothing happened in court and I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I ate for the first time since my arrest.
6. I had two more military court hearings and my mother and uncle attended. The last hearing was on the 15 February 2018, and I was sentenced in a plea bargain, based on confessions from the other boys. I received time already served and four months in prison suspended for one year. In addition, my parents were fined NIS 500. After court I was taken back to Ofer and later that day I was released and I went home with my mother and uncle.

I, S.K.M.W. of Al Fawwar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking home after football training. It was around 7:00 p.m. As I approached the intersection on the main road I saw two Israeli military jeeps parked nearby. There were no clashes or protests at the time.
2. A soldier approached me and asked to see my identity card but I told him I did not have one yet. The soldier did not believe me and thought I was older than I was because I am tall for my age. He led me away from the intersection to a commander who started to ask me some questions. The commander wanted to know my family name and my age. Then a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. He also blindfolded me.
3. I was taken in a private car to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement. At the police station I was taken to a shipping container where they removed the blindfold and I was left there for about three hours. During this time I was given a glass of water. At around 1:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He was in his 40's and introduced himself as "Captain Neir". He phoned my father without asking me for his number and asked him whether he knew where I was and what I was up to. The conversation was short and abrupt and the interrogator hung up aggressively and did not allow me to speak to my father.
5. Then the interrogator started to ask me questions and wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. I told him I was on my way home after football training. He did not believe me and started to shout and bang the table aggressively.
6. He repeated the same question many time and I gave him the same answer. Half-way through the interrogation he asked me whether I wanted a lawyer and I told him I did. He phoned someone and spoke to that person in Hebrew. I did not understand what he said. I did not speak to the lawyer myself.
7. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and was very aggressive and angry throughout the interrogation. The interrogation lasted for about two hours. I did not confess to anything and the interrogator did not show me any documents and did not ask me to sign anything.

8. After about two hours I was taken in the same car to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell. A soldier removed the tie and brought me some food. I ate and fell asleep as soon as I finished eating because I was exhausted and sleepy. By then it was the early hours of the morning.
9. In the afternoon I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched with my clothes on before being taken to Section 13. I arrived at Ofer at around 4:00 p.m.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not present because they were not informed of the hearing. The military judge decided to keep me in detention and the hearing was adjourned.
11. I had another military court hearing a few days later which my father attended. During this hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and a fine of NIS 1,000. I don't remember being told what I was charged with. I was also given a suspended sentence of five months in prison valid for one year.
12. I spent my entire sentence at Ofer prison where I played table tennis and lifted weights. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not issued with a permit in time. I was released early for good conduct.
13. I was released and went home with my father and lots of relatives who were waiting for me outside prison. My mother had prepared a nice meal which I enjoyed very much. I could not sleep that night because I was very excited. I promised myself I would never walk past that intersection ever again.

Name: M.A.S.S.
Date: 10 February 2018
Location: Hebron, West Bank
Accusation: Knife possession

I, M.A.S.S. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I tried to enter the mosque in Hebron at around 12:00 p.m. with a fruit knife in my pocket. As I went through the metal detector the alarm went off. The security guard immediately called for re-enforcements. About 30 soldiers and policemen arrived at the scene within minutes.
2. One of the soldiers handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs and then twisted my arms over my head. The handcuffs were very tight and painful and the position of my arms caused me more pain. The handcuffs left a mark on my wrists for more than a week. The soldiers swore at me. When I swore back at them a soldier swung a metal chair at me and it hit me on the side and caused me pain.
3. Then I was taken to a corner out of sight where three soldiers beat me. I was kicked and slapped. Then I was taken to a room where I waited for about two hours. During this time I asked to use the toilet but the soldiers refused.
4. After about two hours I was put in a police car which drove for about 10 minutes to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. At the police station I was taken to a shipping container where I waited for about two hours. After two hours I was taken for interrogation. It was around 4:30 p.m.
5. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. He spoke good Arabic and turned a voice recorder on. He asked me whether I knew why I was in his office and I said I did not. Then he said I told a soldier at the Mosque that I had intended to stab a soldier. I denied the accusation and told the interrogator I did not tell anybody I had intended to stab anyone. Then he told me if I confessed to attempting to stab a soldier he would send me home. I told him it was true I had a knife in my pocket but I did not intend to hurt anyone with it.
6. Half way through the interrogation he asked me whether I wanted to speak to a lawyer. I told him I did. He asked me for a telephone number for a lawyer but I did not have one so I gave him my father's telephone number. He called my father and my father happened to be visiting a lawyer. I spoke to the lawyer who told me not to confess.
7. The interrogator did not say anything about the right to silence. On the contrary, he told me if I spoke he would send me home. He also threatened if I did not confess he was going to bring soldiers into the interrogation room and ask them to beat me hard. He continued to accuse me of attempting to stab a soldier and I continued to deny it.

8. I was interrogated for about an hour and I continued to deny the accusation. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I refused to sign and told him I was not going to sign anything I did not understand a soldier who was standing in the room grabbed me by the neck and told me I had to sign. I was scared of him and I signed.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to a military ambulance where a doctor asked me some questions about my health. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to the police station in the settlement of Ma'aleh Addumim.
10. At the police station a policeman asked me whether I was offered any food or drink and whether I was beaten. He was recording on a computer and asked me whether I spoke to a lawyer and I told him I did. Then he asked me to sign some documents in Hebrew and I signed.
11. Then I was taken in a police car to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On the way I was blindfolded. I arrived at Ofer prison at around 1:00 a.m. I was tired and hungry. I ate and went to bed.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My brother and brother-in-law were in court and so was my lawyer. The military judge decided to keep me in detention and the hearing was adjourned. My mother did not attend because she was with my father who was seriously ill in hospital.
13. I had seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence valid for three years but I can't remember for how long. I was also banned from entering Israel for three years.
14. I was released from prison on 4 March 2018, at around midnight. and I arrived home with my brother at around 3:00 a.m. I had a difficult time in prison because I was worried about my father who was very sick. My father died a week after I was released. My lawyer worked hard to get me released so I could spend some time with him and I was happy I did.

I, M.I.M.N. of Bili'in, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was fast asleep when I heard very loud banging at our front door. It was around 3:00 a.m. My mother answered the door and six Israeli soldiers entered our home.
2. The soldiers immediately started to search our house and went to my bedroom. The commander told us he was looking for a particular jacket. When they found it the commander pulled me aside, asked me for my name and took a photo of me with the jacket on. Then he told me to get ready because I was under arrest.
3. My mother tried to argue with the commander but he refused to listen to her. The soldiers did not give us any documentation but the commander told my mother they were arresting me for questioning and would return me home when they are done.
4. I got dressed, said goodbye to my family and then I was handcuffed to the front. The metal handcuffs were painful. I could not put my shoes on and my mother helped me. I was then taken outside and blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
5. Inside the jeep soldiers put their boots on me and swore at me. They also kicked me on my side and caused me pain. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was taken to a shipping container where I stayed there until around 9:00 a.m. I could not sleep because I was tied and blindfolded. Soldiers brought me some food and I ate.
6. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I waited in a room for about an hour and then I was taken to an interrogation room. By then it was around 11:00 a.m.
7. The interrogator was dressed in civilian clothes and had a camera and a computer in the room. He asked me for my name and age and then he called my mother and told her I was at Binyamin police station. Then he asked me if I wanted a lawyer and I told him I wanted a lawyer from my village and gave him his name. He called the lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones during protests near the wall. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me some images on his computer screen and wanted me to confess but I did not. I told him I don't take part in protests near the Wall. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers when they enter the village. I denied the accusation.

8. He interrogated me for about an hour and when I told him I wanted to remain silent he raised his voice at me and accused me of lying. He also told me remaining silent would be considered a point against me in court and told me if I confessed he would send me home.
9. At the end of the interrogation he gave me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did without understanding what they said. Then they took my photograph, fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to the juvenile section. I had dinner and I went to bed.
10. At around 6:00 a.m. the following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The lawyer I requested was in court and he managed to get me released. The military judge decided to release me without charge for lack of evidence but he made my parents pay NIS 1,500. After court I was taken back to Ofer and released later. I was released on 12 February 2018, at around 11:00 p.m.
11. My mother was waiting for me outside Ofer prison but the soldiers released me at another checkpoint. I managed to speak to her and then I took a taxi back to Ofer and I went home with her. This was a tough experience although I only spent one night in prison. I was worried about my school. I am in 10th grade and I want to focus on my school work.

Date: 14 February 2018
Location: Kafr Ni'ma, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, F.M.J.S. of Kfr Ni'ma, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 2:30 a.m. I woke up to the sound of an explosion coming from our back door. I was terrified and stayed in bed while my father got up to see what was going on. My father opened the door and about six Israeli soldiers entered our home and more remained outside.
2. The commander asked my father for his children and my father told him his children were very young. The commander told my father to wake his children including my youngest sister, who was four months old at the time.
3. Then we all gathered in the living room and the commander told my father he wanted to arrest me. When my father asked for the reason the commander told him the captain needed to have a word with me. My father refused to let me go with the soldiers and insisted on accompanying me. When the commander refused to allow my father to accompany me my father told him he would bring me to the police station in the morning but the commander refused.
4. The commander did not give my parents any documents. I barely had time to put my clothes before I was taken outside where my hands were tied to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then walked me towards an intersection where military jeeps were waiting. A soldier removed the blindfold as they led me.
5. Then I was re-blindfolded and put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. A soldier asked me whether I spoke Hebrew and I told him I did not. On the way soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". They also beat me on my head and leg while I was tied and blindfolded and I was in pain.
6. We arrived at a location and I was taken to a shipping container. I could not tell where I was. I sat on the floor and I could not tell for how long. Then I was taken to see a doctor. The doctor removed the tie and the blindfold and asked me whether I had any illnesses. After the examination I was tied and blindfolded again. I was allowed to use the toilet and a soldier removed the tie and the blindfold when I went to the toilet.
7. Later that morning I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I waited on a chair in a room for about two hours and then I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold. He was in an Israeli police uniform and spoke good Arabic. He asked me for my name and whether my father knew where I was. Then he asked me whether my father had appointed a lawyer for me and I told him I did not know. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me his name and told me to be patient because there was a chance I would be released. He also told me not to be afraid and that I could ask for my father to attend my interrogation. The lawyer did not say anything about my other rights. The interrogator left the room while I talked to the lawyer.
9. After I spoke with the lawyer on the phone the interrogator entered the room and asked me what I had done. I told him I had not done anything. Then he accused me of throwing stones on the road used by settlers but did not give me a specific date. I denied the accusation. He asked all these questions without informing me of my rights. He became upset and lost his temper when I denied the accusation and raised his voice at me. I think he wanted to put pressure on me to confess. Still I denied the accusation. Then he told me there were confessions against me by other boys from the village.
10. The interrogation lasted for about three hours. During this time the interrogator left the room and came back again multiple times. In the end I confessed to throwing stones because I was tired and wanted the whole thing to end. I felt it would not end unless I confessed. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did without understanding what was written.
11. Then the interrogator called my father and told him to come to the police station with NIS 2,000 because he was going to release me on bail. My father came within a short period of time with the money. I think my father ended up paying NIS 1,000 and the policeman gave him a summons for me to go to court on 14 February 2019. The summons did not specify which court or who to see in court.
12. I was released in the afternoon and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Age: 14
Date: 25 February 2018
Location: Tuqu', West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, H.D.D.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 2:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were surrounding our house. I was in shock; partly because I had just fallen asleep and partly because I could not comprehend what he was telling me. I was shivering. Shortly afterwards I heard loud banging at our front door.
2. My father rushed to open the door when he saw that the soldiers had a device which they could use to force the door open; he did not want them to damage our door. About 25 soldiers entered our home; four soldiers were wearing face masks.
3. The commander took me and my father aside and showed us some photographs on his tablet. Then he searched my wardrobe looking for a particular shirt and he found it. He also took one of my trousers off the wash line on the balcony. Then the commander told my father I was under arrest. When my mother heard this she started to cry. The commander brought in a female soldier to control my mother and calm her down.
4. The commander showed my father a document in Arabic saying they did not cause any damage to the house or harm me during the arrest operation. He asked my father to sign it and he did. Then he allowed me to say goodbye to my family and ordered the soldiers to take me outside.
5. The soldiers walked me a short distance down the street where they painfully tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. They also blindfolded me and took me into the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat.
6. The troop carrier drove to a nearby military base where I was left in a room on a chair until around 10:00 a.m. I could not sleep during this time. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was immediately taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. He removed the blindfold. He did not inform me of any rights. He showed me a photograph of a masked boy with stones in his hands and wanted me to confess it was me. I denied it was me.

8. Half way through the interrogation the interrogator asked me whether I wanted a lawyer. Then he allowed me to speak to a lawyer who told me to remain silent and not to sign any documents.
9. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and the interrogator was calm throughout. In the end the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. In the beginning I refused to sign but then he told me I had to sign it because it only meant he could send me to Ofer prison. I was convinced and I signed.
10. After I signed the document my photograph and fingerprints were taken. Then I was strip searched and taken to a cell at Etzion where I remained until around 9:00 p.m. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched with my clothes on. I was put in Section 13 at around 10:30 p.m.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing. A lawyer was there. I had three hearings and my parents did not attend any of them because they wanted to punish me. My last hearing was on 5 March 2018, and the court decided to release me without charge for lack of evidence.
12. After court I was taken back to Ofer prison where I packed my clothes and then I was released. I took a taxi home and my father paid him when I arrived. My mother was very happy to see me. My father has registered me at a vocational school because I dropped out of regular school when I was in 7th grade.

I, M.A.N.A. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My aunt woke me up at around 2:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our living room after they had blown off our front door with an explosive device. I got up and saw about 10 soldiers in our home; one of them was masked.
2. I heard a soldier ask my father about his children after checking his identity card. Then the commander called my name and told me to put my shoes on and to get ready because I was under arrest. Then the soldiers went to my bedroom and looked in the wardrobe for a particular shirt but they did not find it. The commander gave my father a document saying he had to go to Ariel police station at noon.
3. A soldier held my hand and walked me towards the door where he handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful. Then he blindfolded me. I was then led to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat but when all the soldiers entered the carrier they made me sit on the metal floor. I waited in the troop carrier while they arrested my cousin who lives upstairs. Then the troop carrier drove to Zufin military base.
4. At the base I was examined by a doctor who removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and put them back on when he was done. An hour and a half later I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I waited in a room until around 11:30 a.m. During this time a soldier removed the blindfold but tightened the handcuffs until I was in pain. He also shackled my ankles. I was allowed to use the toilet. At around 11:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a voice recorder and a camera in the room. He removed the handcuffs and asked me what I was doing in his office. I told him I had no idea. Then he told me I could remain silent and I had the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he showed me footage of a demonstration and accused me of throwing stones. In the beginning I denied the accusation but when the interrogator accused me of lying and started to shout and bang the table I was scared and confessed to throwing stones during a demonstration in September of 2017. I felt I had no choice but to confess.
6. After I had confessed the interrogator asked me whether I wanted to see a lawyer. Then he called my father and my father told him he would appoint a lawyer for me. I did not speak to a lawyer myself. Then he made me sign a document written in Hebrew and Arabic about my rights and that I was not beaten. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. My father later told me he went to the police station as requested but he was not allowed to see me or attend the interrogation.

7. Then they took my picture and my fingerprints and then took me to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my underwear. I spent two nights in a cell at Huwwara by myself. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived at night and I was searched with my clothes on.
8. The following day I was taken to Salem military court where I saw my sister and mother. The military judge decided to keep me in detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had four hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years.
9. I spent my entire sentence at Megiddo prison where I studied mathematics and Arabic and my parents visited me four times. Towards the end of my sentence I appeared in front of a judge who reduced my sentence by two months. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 24 June 2018, and I went home with my family.

I, H.M.N.W. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 2:30 a.m. Israeli soldiers broke open our front door and entered our home. They did not wait for us to open the door. When I got up I found about 12 soldiers in our living room.
2. The commander told my father to name all his children. When he named me the commander told me to follow him to my bedroom. He looked in my wardrobe searching for something. Then he looked in the laundry basket and in the other wardrobes and threw all the clothes on the floor. I think he was looking for a particular shirt. Then he received a phone call confirming I was the one they were looking for. This was based on a photograph they had of a boy holding a sling shot.
3. The commander told my parents they wanted to arrest me. He gave my father a document telling him to go to the police station at Qedumim settlement. Then they took me outside where a troop carrier was waiting.
4. Before getting into the troop carrier I was handcuffed to the back with metal handcuffs which were painful. I was also blindfolded. Then I was put in the troop carrier where I sat on a seat but later soldiers made me sit on the floor.
5. The troop carrier drove to Zufin military base where I was examined by a doctor who removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and later put them back on. He made me sign a document in Hebrew which he translated for me. The document said I was not hurt by anyone.
6. After the medical check I was taken outside the room where I waited on a chair. A soldier poked me each time I fell asleep. About an hour later I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement.
7. On arrival at Ariel I was shackled and left in a courtyard, handcuffed and blindfolded until around noon when I was taken for interrogation.
8. The interrogator removed the handcuffs and the blindfold. He wore civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He did not inform me of my rights and started by asking me how I was and what I was doing in his office. I told him I had no idea. Then he turned his computer on and showed me an image of a boy holding a sling shot. Then he told me the boy was me. I denied the accusation. He accused me of lying and insisted the boy was me.

9. Half way through the interrogation he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer asked me what had happened and then told me to answer the questions but not to volunteer additional information. He also told me to try to convince the interrogator the boy in the picture was not of me. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation. I was not given any documents to sign.
10. After the interrogation I was photographed, fingerprinted and a DNA sample was taken from my mouth. Then I was blindfolded and handcuffed and taken outside. A short time later a soldier told me I was going to be released.
11. I was taken to a vehicle which drove me to the entrance of the settlement. The soldier removed the blindfold and wanted to remove the handcuffs and the shackles but he could not find the keys. He had to call another soldier. My cousin and my father were waiting for me and I went home with them. I arrived home at around 2:00 p.m.
12. This was a scary experience, especially when I was arrested from home in the middle of the night.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.M.I. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when an Israeli soldier suddenly woke me up. It was around 4:00 a.m. He removed my blanket and asked me for my name. He told me to get up, then checked my identity card and took me to the living room where I saw about 15 other soldiers all wearing masks. It was a scary and chaotic scene.
2. The soldiers gathered all of my family in the living room, took our mobile phones and kept telling us to shut up. Then a soldier pushed my mother away and took me to a bedroom. My father insisted on accompanying me. My mother asked the commander why I was being taken aside and the commander told her she would soon find out.
3. Inside the bedroom the soldiers told me to put my clothes on because I was under arrest. Then I was dragged outside our house. My family were not given any documentation.
4. Once outside a soldier punched me in the chest and then tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie. The tie was tight and very painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time. I was also blindfolded.
5. I was then led on foot to the military watchtower at the entrance to my village. At the watchtower a soldier slapped me hard while I was still blindfolded. I was then left outside in the cold weather for about 15 minutes. The soldiers made me sit on a thorny bush and then led me towards the nearby settlement of Halamish.
6. At the settlement I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep then drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement.
7. At Binyamin I was taken to a cell where I was left by myself on the floor without food or water for about six hours, still tied and blindfolded. Later I was taken to see a policeman who asked me for my name and took my father's telephone number. He turned a voice recorder on and asked me whether I needed anything. Then he shackled my feet and tied me to the chair and replaced the plastic ties with metal handcuffs.
8. After I was tied the policeman phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to confess. He warned me against informants in prison and cautioned me against talking to anyone. He told me again to remain silent while the interrogator questioned me and advised me not to answer his questions.

9. Then the policeman started to question me about throwing stones without informing me of my right to silence. He told me there were confessions against me and gave me a specific date and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on that date. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me photos of boys and wanted me to give him their names. He raised his voice at me and thumped the table aggressively when I refused to confess or give names. He swore at my mother and called her a whore. I continued to deny the accusation.
10. The interrogation lasted for about one-and-a-half hours. In the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. He told me it was my statement but I did not trust him and refused to sign.
11. Then he took me to another room and took my figure prints. He slapped me on the face and caused me pain. There were no cameras or voice recorders in that room and I was scared. Then I was taken to a room where I waited a short while before being taken to Ofer prison.
12. I arrived at Ofer, near Jerusalem, at around 5:00 p.m. I was strip searched and then taken to Section 13. I ate and then I slept. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. There was no lawyer in court and my hearing was adjourned. I had more than 20 hearings.
13. My last hearing was on 11 July 2018. During that hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison based on a confession by another person from my village. I was also fined NIS 1,500 and was given a suspended sentence of four months in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my prison sentence would have been higher had I not accepted it and because I was offered the plea bargain three weeks before my release date. Not accepting it would mean I would remain in prison longer.
14. I spent my whole sentence in Ofer prison. My parents visited me three times. In prison I slept a lot and played table tennis. I also attended some classes but they were useless and the standard was inadequate.
15. I was released on 3 August 2018, and I went home with my father, my uncle and my grandfather. We arrived home at around 2:30 a.m. My mother nearly passed out when she saw me at home, she was ecstatic.

Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, S.S.M.T. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. to tell me that Israeli soldiers were in our home. I got up and went to the living room where I saw about 10 soldiers, many of whom were masked and looked scary. I saw they had broken the glass on the front door.
2. The soldiers were talking to my father and they wanted him to sign a document in Hebrew saying they did not hurt me during arrest. My father refused to sign the document and told them he was objecting to my arrest.
3. I hardly had time to put my clothes on before the soldiers took me outside and made me stand by a wall while they arrested our neighbour. Then they walked me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our village and made me wait outside for about 10 minutes. They did not tie or blindfold me.
4. After about 10 minutes I was taken to a bus and the soldiers made me sit on the steps while soldiers stood above my head holding their guns. The bus drove me to a nearby military base where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor asked me some questions about my health and wanted me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign. Then I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around 7:00 a.m. At Binyamin I waited in a room until it was my turn to be interrogated.
5. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and had a camera and a voice recorder which he turned on. Then he called my father and told him he wanted to interrogate me. My father objected and the interrogator hung up abruptly and did not allow me to speak to my father.
6. Then the interrogator showed me a document in Arabic and Hebrew saying I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He wanted me to sign this document but I refused. Then he asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I told him I did not have a lawyer's number. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to her. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to say anything.
7. Then the interrogator showed me video footage of clashes in my village when young men and boys threw stones at a military jeep which broke down. The interrogator wanted me to identify the boys and young men shown in the video but I told him I did not know anyone and I wanted to remain silent. I did not give him any names. He became angry and raised his voice at me and accused me of lying. He banged the table and said he was sure I knew the boys because they were from my village.

8. The interrogation lasted for about 15 minutes after which I was taken to a room downstairs where I waited for about 30 minutes.
9. After about 30 minutes I was taken back upstairs to the interrogation room again where I was shown the documents about my rights again. This time two interrogators were in the room and they played “good guy, bad guy”.
10. The first interrogator told me this time he was going to interrogate me seriously and that I had to give him names. He showed me photos of the same incident and I remained silent and did not give any names. He banged the table and raised his voice at me and the other interrogator told him to calm down. This lasted for about 30 minutes and I remained silent and did not give him any names. Then I was given a document in Hebrew and I was asked to sign it but I refused. The interrogator signed it himself.
11. Then I was photographed and fingerprinted before being taken outside where a soldier approached me and told me I was accused of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails. I think he just wanted to scare me. Then I was taken downstairs where I waited a short while before I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
12. At Ofer the vehicle I was in waited outside for about four or five hours before we were allowed in. Then I was searched in my underwear and taken to Section 13.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The military judge decided to keep me in prison and the hearing was adjourned. I had many more hearings, maybe more than 10 or 15. My lawyer tried to get me released on bail for lack of evidence. She finally succeeded and I was released on bail on 29 May 2018. My parents were asked to pay NIS 2,500 bail but they refused. Then my lawyer managed to find someone who was willing to pay the bail on my behalf.
14. My father visited me once in prison but my mother was denied a permit for unspecified “security reasons”. I only saw my mother from a distance during military court hearings.
15. I was released at the Beit Sira checkpoint while my father was told to wait for me at Ofer. By the time I managed to take a taxi to Ofer it was late at night. My father told me he wanted to surprise my mother and did not tell her I was going to be released. When we arrived home at around midnight my mother was very happily surprised to see me home.
16. I attended one more military court hearing since my release and I still don’t know what will happen next.

Location: An Nabi Saleh, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, W.I.A.T. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I heard a commotion outside our home at around 3:00 a.m. I got up and looked out the window and saw lots of Israeli soldiers in the neighbourhood.
2. Shortly afterwards I heard loud banging at our front door. My father was traveling and my mother did not want me to answer but I did. About 10 soldiers entered our house. One of them aimed his gun at me as I opened the door and most of them wore face masks.
3. The commander told us to gather in the living room and he checked our identity cards. When he saw my name he told me to get ready because I was under arrest. He did not give my mother any documents or tell us why I was under arrest.
4. I was taken outside where I was searched and then my hands were tied to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. My hands swelled and turned blue and the tie left marks on my wrists for a long time. I was also blindfolded.
5. The soldiers then led me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to my village. I was made me sit outside the watchtower for a short time and then I was taken to a bus. A soldier pointed his gun at me and slapped me on the head.
6. Then I was taken to a nearby military base where they made me sit on the floor inside a room for about three hours. I asked for some water and they finally brought me a glass of water after I pleaded with them. At one point a doctor removed the blindfold and examined me and then put it back on afterwards. He asked me to fill out a form on his mobile phone about my health condition.
7. Later I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I arrived at around 7:00 a.m. At Benyamin I waited in a room until the afternoon when it was my turn to be interrogated.
8. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie. He was in an Israeli police uniform and spoke broken Arabic and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room.
9. Before questioning me he took me outside, called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to her. The interrogator waited while I spoke to the lawyer who told me to remain silent and not to say anything. She also told me the interrogator is not allowed to beat or physically abuse me. Then the interrogator took me back to the interrogation room. The interrogator did not tell me I had the right to silence.

10. The interrogator told me he had confessions against me and gave me some dates and claimed I had taken part in throwing stones at soldiers on those dates. I simply said no. I felt things would get worse for me and the interrogation would last longer if I remained silent so I decided to give short answers. This lasted for about 30 minutes. He showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
11. Then he took me into the corridor where his behavior, away from the camera, changed. He aggressively pushed me against the wall and re-tied me tightly.
12. Then I was photographed and fingerprinted and then left in a corridor for about 10 minutes. I felt dizzy because I had not had anything to eat and I was hungry. I asked the soldiers for some food and they brought me a sandwich. They also allowed me to use the toilet. Then I was taken to another room where I waited for about an hour. After an hour I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
13. I don't know what time we arrived at Ofer but it was at night. The soldiers made us wait outside for about three hours before they allowed us in. Inside I was strip searched and before being taken to Section 13.
14. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My family was not informed and so they did not attend the hearing. The military judge told me he wanted to keep me in detention because the interrogator forgot to interrogate me about something. After the hearing I was taken to a side room for further interrogation.
15. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and that he was going to ask me some additional questions and it was up to me whether I wanted to remain silent or not. He questioned me about an incident in the village when a military jeep was stoned. He accused me of taking part and told me someone had confessed against me. I denied the accusation. This interrogation lasted for about 10 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation.
16. I had many military court hearings. My lawyer kept trying to get me released on bail because of lack of evidence but the prosecutor did not agree. My mother refused to pay any bail money. She argued I should be released unconditionally because there was no evidence against me. At the last hearing the court decided to release me on bail of NIS 18,000 which my family refused to pay. My lawyer was able to find someone who was willing to pay the bail and I was released on 15 July 2018. I was released around midnight and I went home with my family.
17. My mother visited me twice during my time in prison because it took a long time for her permit to be issued - more than two-and-a-half months. I haven't been informed about any further hearings yet. I want to focus on my school and I am determined to pass my high school exams because I want to go to college.

Location: Al 'Ezariya, West Bank
Accusation: Protesting

I, A.M.H.G. of Al 'Ezariya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 4:00 a.m. and told me to get up because Israeli soldiers were in our home. I got up and found five soldiers inside our house.
2. The soldiers gathered all of us in the middle room and then went to the bedrooms searching our clothes. They threw the clothes in my mother's wardrobe on the floor and did the same to my clothes. They told us they were looking for a particular T-shirt which somebody was wearing during clashes with soldiers about two years earlier. When they did not find what they were looking for they looked inside the washing machine and inside the laundry bin but still, they did not find what they were looking for.
3. Then the commander told my father they wanted to arrest me. They told him they were looking for someone aged between 14 and 16-years-old. After checking the annex to my father's identity card, they told him they wanted to take me to the police station in the settlement of Ma'ale Adummim for questioning. They did not give us any documents and did not say why they wanted to question me but they told my father he would receive a phone call from the police station.
4. After I put my clothes on the soldiers took me outside and walked me a short distance to where a waiting military jeep. On the way they handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful. They also tried to blindfold me but I refused. Then I was put in the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor.
5. The jeep drove to Ma'ale Adummim police station where I sat on a chair in an outdoor area for about three hours. They brought me some food and water and allowed me to use the toilet. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator was wearing an Israeli police uniform and had a tape recorded. As soon as I entered the room he told me if I don't lie to him and cooperate nicely he would send me home. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to confess. I did not understand what he meant by remaining silent. When the lawyer hung up the interrogator swore at him and told me not to listen to what he told me especially if he told me not to confess. He said lawyers are liars and they want to screw me up.
7. Then the interrogator showed me photographs of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. When I denied it he raised his voice and swore at god and banged the table. He also slapped me twice on my face. He thought if he shouted and banged the table I would confess but I did not.

8. He interrogated me for about an hour. He questioned me about people in the photograph. He wanted me to confess and to give him names. I did not give him any names and I did not confess.
9. After about an hour the interrogator showed me a document in both Arabic and Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I told him I could not read or write and refused to sign. Then I was photographed and fingerprinted and taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On arrival at Ofer prison I was strip searched and then I was taken to Section 13.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court because the lawyer told them there was no need. The lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned.
11. Two days later I was taken back to Ma'ale Adummim for another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He had a tape recorder and asked me the same questions as the first interrogator and accused me of the same accusation. He wanted me to give him names of boys shown in the photograph. I refused to give him names and did not confess. He interrogated me for about 30 minutes and did not show me any documents to sign.
12. After the interrogation I was left in a room by myself for about four hours. I slept and ate the food they brought me. Then I was taken back to Ofer prison.
13. I had three military court hearings. At the last one the military court decided to release me on bail for lack of evidence. My father had to pay NIS 1,000 bail. So far I have not been summoned back to court. This makes me live in constant worry and fear because they might arrest me again any time. I run home when I see soldiers in my town.
14. I was released on bail on 9 March 2018, and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around 2:30 pm and had a nice meal with my family and friends. I was very bored in prison. I played table tennis but I did not attend classes.

Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, A.I.A.A. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at 2:30 a.m. after she saw an Israeli soldier looking through her bedroom window. She was terrified. Then we heard loud banging at our front door. It sounded like someone was trying to break the door down. I quickly ran and opened the door before it was broken.
2. As soon as I opened the front door a group of soldiers stormed in. They pointed their guns at me and pushed me to the ground. About 10 soldiers entered our home; one soldier wore a mask.
3. The soldiers gathered my parents and siblings in the living room and did not allow them to leave. They separated me from the rest of the family and sat me down in the hallway and took my telephone. Then they searched the house but did not cause any damage.
4. After the soldiers had searched our home they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. Then the commander told my father they wanted to take me for a chat over a cup of coffee. He gave my father a document written in Hebrew which he did not understand and asked him to sign it and he did. They did not tell my father what was written in the document and did not give him a copy.
5. The soldiers then took me outside and my mother followed me with my shoes because they did not give me enough time to put them on. Outside the house they blindfolded me and walked me towards the main road. They walked me for about 15 minutes pushing me and I fell to the ground.
6. After walking for about 15 minutes I was put in the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers shouted at me and kicked me on the back and legs. They also beat me on my legs with the backs of their guns. They also swore at me and called my mother and sister “whores.”
7. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was taken to a shipping container. Inside the container soldiers slapped me and I could not sleep. I was left on the floor of the container. They brought me some water but I did not drink. Later I was examined by a doctor.

8. At some point the commander told me I was arrested because I was throwing stones and told me if I cooperated with them the whole thing would be quick and they would not have to take me to Ofer prison. I told him I did not throw stones.
9. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station inside Binyamin settlement where I waited in a room for about five hours. During this time I was allowed to use the toilet once and I was not given anything to eat or drink. Then I was taken for interrogation.
10. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold and the hand tie. Then he showed me a picture of clashes and pointed to one of the boys in the picture and told me it was me. I denied it. Then he shouted at me and threatened to bring my father and said he would have him confess that it was me in the picture. I was scared and so I signed my name on one picture as an acknowledgment and a confession.
11. After I had confessed the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silence and that he was going to appoint me a lawyer. Then he called my father and told him to appoint me a lawyer. The interrogation lasted for about 15 minutes. In the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did without understanding what they said.
12. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me back to the waiting room. At around 4:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my underwear before being taken to Section 13.
13. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court where I spoke to a lawyer for the first time. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to prison.
13. I had about seven military court hearings and at the last one I confessed to throwing stones during protests and in return I was offered a plea bargain. I was sentenced to five months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. In addition I was given a suspended sentence of eight months valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant my prison sentence was reduced.
14. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer where I played table tennis and attended Arabic and mathematic classes. I was released on 2 August 2018, and I went home with my father and brother. My parents visited me only twice in prison because it took a long time for their permit to be issued.

I, M.K.A.N. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when I woke up suddenly and saw an Israeli soldier over my head. It was around 2:00 a.m. My brother, who was in the bed next to me, thought it was my father waking me up too early and I heard him ask “why are you waking him up at this hour?” I then realised there were around seven soldiers in our bedroom.
2. The soldier, who was standing over my head, beat me with the back of his gun and asked me for my identity card.
3. Then my parents entered our bedroom and started to shout at the soldiers for terrifying us and entering our home without knocking at the door. My mother later told me she had heard a loud explosion which shook the house and woke her up. It turned out that the soldiers blew off our front door and did not bother to knock or wait for us to open.
4. The commander told my father they wanted to arrest me. My father objected and asked to see an arrest warrant. The commander went outside to a waiting jeep and came back with a piece of paper with scribbles in Hebrew and showed it to my father. The commander did not give my father a copy.
5. My father was so shocked that he passed out. His face became pale and he fell backwards and my mother caught him at the last moment. Then one of the soldiers helped my father lay down on the floor and he held his legs up while my mother wiped his face with a wet towel until he regained consciousness. I was very worried about my father and did not want to leave but the soldiers took me outside.
6. Once outside I was blindfolded and my hands were tied behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time.
7. Then the soldiers walked me towards a jeep and took put me in the back and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers beat me on the head, legs and arms. They also swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”. I was scared.
8. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was put in a shipping container with three other boys. The soldiers made me sit on the floor and a soldier kicked me when he felt I was falling asleep. I could not sleep at all. I asked to use the toilet but the soldiers refused.

I was left there until around 10:00 a.m. During this time I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and then put it back when he was done.

9. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left on a chair in a room for about five hours. I was not given any food or drink and was not allowed to use the toilet. At around 3:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
10. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He removed the blindfold and the ties and replaced them with metal handcuffs. He asked me for my name and told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He wanted to call a lawyer for me but I told him I wanted to speak to my father instead to check on him. He called my father and told me he was all right but I did not speak to my father myself.
11. Then the interrogator showed me a photo of a boy holding a sling shot and accused me of being the boy in the photo. I denied that the boy was me. Then he showed me a pair of trousers which the soldiers had taken from my bedroom and told me they were the same as the ones in the photo. I told him there was nothing special about my trousers and there were dozens of trousers that looked the same.
12. Then he showed me photos of boys during clashes with soldiers and wanted me to give their names but I refused to give any names. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and in the end he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign but I refused. When I asked him what was written in the documents he told me they said he had interrogated me. Still I refused to sign and then he signed the documents himself.
13. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted and then transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched with my clothes on. After the search I was taken to Section 13.
14. On 20 March 2018, I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned. I was taken back to prison after the hearing. My lawyer told me the military court refused to release me on bail.
15. About a month later I was taken for another interrogation by an intelligence officer. The officer did not inform me of my rights and told me five boys from my village had confessed against me and that he did not need my confession anymore. Then he wanted to know where I was on the day when my cousin was shot dead by soldiers in the village. There was a camera and a voice recorder in the room. I was questioned for about an hour and then I was taken back to prison.
16. I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain where I confessed to throwing stones during clashes with soldiers near our village and I was sentenced to six months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my prison sentence was cut down by two months.

17. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer where I played table tennis most of the time. I did not attend classes because I dropped out of school when I was in 10th grade. I was released from Ofer on 27 August 2018 and I went home with my father and uncles and brothers.
18. I found it hard in prison because of the strict rules; we had to sleep at a certain time and eat at a certain time. I also did not like the food at all.

I, J.A.M.A. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up when Israeli soldiers entered my bedroom and asked me for my name. It was around 2:30 a.m. They had entered our home without making any sound.
2. My sister knocked on my parents' room and woke them up. They were shocked to see about 30 soldiers inside our house. My father complained to the commander about this behavior but the commander told him he was doing his job and that security comes before any other consideration.
3. The commander told me to get ready because I was under arrest. He gave my father a document saying they did not cause any damage during the arrest, but nothing about where they were taking me or why.
4. The soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were painful and left a mark on my wrists. Outside the house I was blindfolded and taken to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor.
5. Inside the troop carrier soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". They also slapped me on the face and kicked me on the legs. Then I was taken to a nearby military base where I waited for a while before being taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement.
6. At the police station I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair and a soldier told me to keep my head down. Each time I lifted my head up the soldier pushed it down. I could not sleep at all. At around 2:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold and asked me for my name and wanted to know how I was feeling. He gave me a document informing me of my right to silence. Then he showed me a photograph of a stone throwing incident on the settler road and asked me if I took part. When I told him I did not he became angry and banged the table. Then he pushed me hard against the wall to scare me. He repeated the accusation again and again and in the end I confessed that I was in one of the photos.
8. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess but I told him I had already confessed. Then the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. When I asked him to translate it for me he refused and insisted that I sign it and I did. He told me it was in my interests to sign. The interrogation lasted for about two hours, maybe a bit longer. Then the interrogator left the room and I was taken to see another interrogator.

9. The second interrogator read me a document about my right to silence but did not say anything about my right to consult with a lawyer. He showed me photos of boys throwing stones on the settler road and asked me to give him the boys' names but I refused. When I refused to give any names he banged the table angrily. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken into Section 13. I arrived at Ofer in the evening.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. About a week later I was taken for another interrogation, this time by an intelligence officer from the "Shabak". The officer did not inform me of my rights. He showed me photos of young men from my village and wanted me to confess against them. I refused. The officer became angry and banged the table. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and I was taken back to Ofer.
11. I had about 11 military court hearings. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain of five months in prison and a fine of NIS 3,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my sentence would be higher had I rejected it.
12. I spent the entire prison sentence at Ofer where I studied mathematics and Arabic. My parents visited me only once because it took a long time for the permit to be issued. I was released from prison on 3 August 2018, and I went home with my father.

Name: Q.A.Z.A.
Age: 16
Date: 18 March 2018
Location: Al Mughayyir, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Q.A.Z.A. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Around six Israeli soldiers stormed into my bedroom at around 3:00 a.m. I woke up and the soldiers standing over my bed. They came with some villagers who showed them the way. They told me to put my shoes on because I was under arrest but did not give me time to get dressed.
2. I was blindfolded and tied with my hands behind my back with one plastic tie while I was still in bed. The tie was not painful. Then they dragged me outside the house in my shorts and undershirt.
3. The soldiers showed my father a photo of clashes on the main road used by settlers and then gave him a document saying they did not cause any damage and did not hurt me during the arrest. They made my father sign the document but did not give him a copy. The document did not say anything about my arrest; where they were taking and why, or anything about my rights.
4. The soldiers led me on foot for about 3 k.m. before putting me in a vehicle where I sat on the floor. On the way to the vehicle soldiers swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and a “brother of a whore”. A soldier held my arms while tied and pushed me forward until my head almost touched the ground and pulled me up again. He did this a couple of times. Another soldier kicked me on the legs and back and caused me pain.
5. I was taken to a nearby military base where I was left outside while tied and blindfolded for about two to three hours. During this time soldiers scratched my upper arm with their guns and hit me on the head with the back of a gun. My head swelled. Then I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and put it back on when he was done.
6. Later I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. I asked for some water and a soldier poured his warm soup on me. They transferred me from one jeep to another a couple of times before I arrived at the police station in Binyamin settlement at around 4:00 p.m.
7. At Binyamin I waited in a room with three other boys and I was not given any food or drink. I was allowed to use the toilet and a soldier removed the tie and then put it back on. We asked for water and they finally brought half a cup of water for the three of us to share. I was tied and blindfolded the whole time and I could not sleep. Shortly after I had arrived I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold and gave me a document about my right to silence. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess but if I wanted to speed things up I could confess to one photograph of me during clashes on Route 458, which was the photograph shown to my father.
9. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones on Route 458 and of smashing settler cars. He gave me a date in January of this year. When I denied the accusation he banged the table and became angry. Then he showed me a photograph during the incident he mentioned and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. He interrogated me for about three hours. He repeated the accusation over and over again and wanted me to confess but I did not.
10. Then the interrogator left and another one came in. He questioned me for about an hour. He did not inform me of my rights because the document about the right to silence was still on the table. This one wanted me to give him names of boys and young men seen in the images but I refused to give any names. He told me all the other boys involved in the incident had already confessed but I did not believe him. Then he told me I was never ever going to be allowed into Israel, not to work or even visit.
11. At the end of the interrogation he printed out my statement in Arabic; I saw it come out of the printer. He also printed out a Hebrew version and asked me to sign it but I refused. I asked him to show me the Arabic version but he refused and told me I would see it in court.
12. I was taken back into the waiting room where I waited until the following night while the other boys were interrogated and then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer on 20 March 2018, at around 1:00 a.m. At Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13 where I ate for the first time since I was arrested.
13. Some days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned. I had about five military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was about three months after my arrest, a plea bargain was offered to me. My lawyer convinced my father to accept the plea bargain where I would confess to throwing stones on Route 458 and be sentenced to five months in prison. In return the judge would agree to sentence my cousins to three months in prison instead of six. My father accepted the plea bargain because he wanted to help my cousins. I was also fined NIS 2,000 and was given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for 5 years.
14. I spent the entire prison sentence at Ofer where I attended classes but they were useless. They gave us crayons to draw and taught us multiplication. My family did not visit me in prison because the family visits coincided with my court hearings. I was released from Ofer on 3 August 2018, about two weeks earlier because of good conduct.

I, M.A.A.L. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up when I heard military jeeps outside our house. It was around 1:30 a.m. I woke my parents up and shortly afterwards we heard banging at our front door. My father answered and about 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home. One of the soldiers was wearing a facemask.
2. The soldiers separated the males in the family and asked to see our identity cards. They had photographs with them and when they identified me they asked my father to sign a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic saying they had come to arrest me and that my father was present at the time of arrest. My father signed but he was not given a copy.
3. Then the soldiers searched my wardrobe and found a slingshot. They told me to change and say goodbye to my family before taking me outside where they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with metal handcuffs which were tight and painful. I was then taken to the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep a soldier slapped me and swore at me calling my parents “whores”.
4. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was put in a shipping container where I sat on the floor for about three hours. During this time I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and then put it back on. I was allowed to use the toilet but I could not sleep; the soldiers were very noisy. Later I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I waited in a room until around 3:30 p.m. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and had a camera in the room. As soon as I entered the room he removed the blindfold and the handcuffs, gave me a glass of water and allowed me to use the toilet. He gave me a document written in Hebrew and Arabic about my right to remain silent. He asked me to sign it and I did. He also called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything. Then he called my father and told him I was at Binyamin police station for interrogation.
6. The interrogator then showed me photos of protests during a funeral of a young person from my village who was shot dead by soldiers earlier in the year. They were photos of burning tires and young men with slingshots. He accused me of taking part in the protest but I denied it. Then he thumped the table aggressively and swore by the honour of my mother saying I had to confess. He accused me of lying and told me Muslims don't lie.

7. This continued for about two hours and throughout this time he wanted me to confess. When I told him I had the right to remain silent he told me remaining silent could work against me in court. He told me the judge might sentence me for a long time in prison if I did not confess. He also threatened to arrest my father if I did not confess and called him and told him I was a liar and that lying was not going to take me anywhere. Then he told me it was clear from the images he showed me that I took part in the protest and that I had to confess. I continued to deny the accusation and did not confess.
8. Then he gave me documents in Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. I told the interrogator I had no idea what the Hebrew version said and therefore I was not going to sign. He told me the Hebrew was identical to the Arabic but still I refused to sign. Then the interrogator told me he wanted me to think before I am brought back again to see him the following day. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph.
9. At around 7:30 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my underwear and then taken to Section 13.
10. On 21 March 2018, I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed and the military judge extended my detention. In all I had about seven hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for five years.
11. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer prison where I spent a lot of time playing table tennis. I did not attend classes because I dropped out of school when I was in 11th grade.
12. I was released on 3 August 2018, and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 9:00 a.m. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were denied permits for security reasons. This was particularly hard for me when all the other prisoners had visits from family members and I did not.

Name: M.Z.H.A.
Date: 18 March 2018
Location: Al Mughayyir, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, M.Z.H.A. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. The banging was so hard that the front door broke and about 30 Israeli soldiers stormed into our home.
2. Some of the soldiers rushed into my bedroom and they had photographs with them. One soldier asked me whether the boy in the photograph was me and I said it was not. Then the commander told me they wanted to arrest me because I was accused of throwing stones.
3. The commander gave my father a document and asked him to sign it but my father pushed the document aside without even looking at it and refused to sign it. Then the commander looked in my wardrobe and took out a shirt that looked like the one in the photograph.
4. Then they took me outside where I was searched. Then I was blindfolded and tied with my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the floor. Inside the jeep soldiers swore at me and said terrible things about my mother.
5. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was examined by a doctor in a shipping container. I was left on the floor of the shipping container and soldiers kicked me as they passed. I could not sleep at all.
6. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was put in a room and I sat on a chair. A soldier replaced the tie with metal handcuffs which were less tight. I was not given any food or drink and I was allowed to use the toilet once. A soldier followed me to the toilet and insisted that I leave the door open. I remained in the room until around noon when I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He asked me how old I was and wanted my father's telephone number but I could not recall it. Then he told me I had the right to have one of my parents present during the interrogation. Then he told me because of the large number of boys at the interrogation centre he was not going to grant me this right and was going to go ahead with the interrogation without my parents.
8. Then he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call a lawyer. He did not say anything about my right to remain silent. Then he accused me of throwing stones and of using a sling shot during the funeral of the young person who was shot dead by soldiers in the village earlier this year. I denied the accusation. Then he told me there were confessions from other boys against me. He kept pushing me to confess and was short tempered and sarcastic.

9. Then he showed me more photographs and I decided to confess. He told me if I confessed I would get a reduced sentence. I confessed to taking part in the protest during the funeral and of throwing stones. The interrogation lasted for about 45 minutes and in the end the interrogator showed me documents in both Hebrew and Arabic and asked to sign and I did.
10. Later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court where I saw my lawyer for the first time. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to Ofer.
11. In all I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain and I was sentenced to five months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. In addition I was given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years. Accepting the plea bargain meant that I was sentenced to five months instead of eight months in prison.
12. I spent the five months at Ofer prison where I studied Arabic and mathematics. The classes were not useful and we spent a lot of time drawing and colouring. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were denied a permit to visit.
13. I was released on 2 August 2018, and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Name: K.M.K.K.
Age: 15
Date: 18 March 2018
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.M.K.K. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was up at around 1:30 a.m. when my brother came into my bedroom and told me Israeli soldiers were at our front door. Before I could get out of bed I heard loud banging at our front door.
2. My brother answered the door and about 25 soldiers entered our home. There were so many soldiers we could hardly move. One soldier asked for me by name. He was reading off an iPad. Then he showed a document to my mother and told her he was not going to leave the house without me. He did not say where he wanted to take me or why. My mother told the soldier I was too young but he ignored her.
3. I put my clothes on and the soldiers led me out of the house. On the way a soldier handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful. A jeep was waiting near the Wall and a soldier blindfolded me and took me to the back of the jeep where I sat on the metal floor. I sat between the soldiers' legs and the jeep drove to Zufin military base.
4. On arrival at the base a soldier tied me to a chair and I sat there until later that morning. The soldier did not allow me to fall asleep, he yelled at me and woke me up each time I fell asleep. While waiting, a soldier approached me and asked me whether I threw stones. He did not inform me of my rights. I told him I did not.
5. Later that morning I was taken to Ariel settlement. I did not have a watch so I could not tell the time. They made me sit in a room with soldiers and then took me upstairs for interrogation.
6. There were two interrogators in the room. One of them removed the handcuffs and the blindfold. Without informing me of my rights, the interrogator asked me if I took part in a demonstration. I told him I did not. He continued to ask me the same question over and over again. When I denied it he raised his voice at me and swore at my mother and sister and called them "whores". The other interrogator pushed me across the room. I was scared. The interrogation lasted almost two hours and there was a lot of shouting and pushing.
7. Before I left the room I asked to speak to my parents but they did not allow me. Then I asked to speak to a lawyer but they did not allow that either. One of the interrogators showed me a document written in both Arabic and Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did. Then I was taken to another room where they took my photograph and fingerprints.

8. After the interrogation I was handcuffed and blindfolded again and taken to a room which did not have any windows and I remained there for some time, I could not tell how long.
9. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell where they removed the handcuffs and the blindfold. They brought me chocolate milk and I slept. I stayed there for four nights. I passed the time by sleeping a lot. They brought me very little food, chocolate milk and jam.
10. On the fourth day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was searched with my clothes on before being taken to the juvenile section. The following day I was taken for another interrogation in Ramleh prison, also inside Israel.
11. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He did not inform me of my rights. He asked me the same questions and accused me of the same accusation. He showed me photographs but I continued to deny the accusation. Then he showed me a report which said that they found my fingerprints on a stone. At that point I confessed to throwing one stone. I later found out they added that I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail which I did not. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. During this time the interrogator was calm and did not ask me to sign any documents.
12. I spent three nights at Ramleh and then I was taken back to Megiddo. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed that it was taking place.
13. I had about 10 military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 11 months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor asked for 18 months in prison and I wanted closure; I was tired of all the court hearings.
14. I spent my sentence at Megiddo where I exercised and attended classes. I also played table tennis and lifted weights. My parents visited me two months after I was arrested because it took two months for the authorities to issue their permit. They visited me about 16 times.
15. I was released on 27 January 2019, and I arrived home at around 9:30 p.m. About 30 of my friends and relatives met me at Al Jalama checkpoint where I was released. I was very happy to see all of them.

Name: K.J.S.J.
Age: 11
Date: 27 March 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.J.S.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with a group of seven of my brothers and cousins on the land that belongs to my father near the Israeli military watchtower across from the camp. It was around 5:00 p.m. and we were herding goats and playing.
2. As we were playing and not paying attention the goats went too close to where the soldiers were. We tried to bring them back but the soldiers walked towards us and accused us of throwing stones at them. A group of soldiers carrying guns approached us and we were scared, especially my 4-year-old cousin who started to cry.
3. The soldiers forced me and the other boys to sit on some thorn bushes. They asked me what I was doing in the area and I told them I was herding goats. He asked me whether I threw stones at them and I told him I did not.
4. Then my older cousin, who is 20-years-old, saw that the soldiers had detained us and he went to speak to them. Five soldiers left us in the field and went to talk to my cousin and two remained to guard us.
5. My cousin's attempt to get us released failed and the soldiers took me and the other boys to the back of a jeep where I sat on the floor. The jeep drove us to the police station in Etzion settlement.
6. At the police station the commander asked me what I was doing in the field and I explained to him. The commander did not allow me to use the toilet and I was freezing cold and shivering. He accused me of throwing stones at the soldiers. He did not say anything about my rights.
7. Then at around 11:00 p.m. I was taken in a police car and handed over to the Palestinian police. The Palestinian police took me and the other boys to the police station in Bethlehem and took a statement from me. My father was there and he took me home.
8. My mother was very happy to see me and she told me she went to the military watchtower when she heard the news and tried to get me released but the commander told her he wanted to keep me for a while "to scare the hell out of them" so that we don't go to the fields anymore.

9. My father also told me that the Palestinian police wanted him to sign a document guaranteeing I will never go to the field but my father refused to sign this guarantee and told the police it was our land and that we had the right to be there.

I, M.K.S.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was playing with some friends and relatives while our goats grazed in a field near the military watchtower across the road from the refugee camp where I live. It was around 5:00 p.m.
2. We weren't paying much attention when the goats started to graze near a group of soldiers. Suddenly about five soldiers approached and accused us of throwing stones at them. They did not listen to us when we explained to them what we were doing; I don't think their Arabic was very good.
3. One of my relatives saw that the soldiers had detained us and tried to convince them to release us but they refused. The soldiers separated me from the rest of the boys and made me sit on thorn bushes. A soldier kicked me on the side and I was in pain for two days. He also pushed my head down and my face was scratched on the thorn bush. I was scared and just wanted to go home.
4. A short time later I was taken to a military vehicle and I sat on the floor. A soldier covered my eyes with his hand. The vehicle drove to the police station in Etzion settlement.
5. When we arrived at Etzion a commander asked me who was throwing stones and I told him we were playing and watching the goats and no one was throwing stones. The commander questioned me without informing me of any rights. Then he told me he had photographs of the incident and I asked him to show me the photographs but he refused.
6. At around 11:00 p.m. I was handed over with the other boys to the Palestinian police who asked us to tell them what had happened and told us not to go to that area anymore. Then my uncle took us all home. I was very happy to see my mother who was very worried. I was very tired and I went to bed.

Name: M.N.M.Z.
Date: 27 March 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, MN.M.Z. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 2:00 a.m. About 30 soldiers entered our house looking for me. My parents told the commander I was staying at a friend's house. The commander told my father he had to bring me to the police station immediately.
2. Later that morning my father received a phone call from the Israeli police saying if I did not show up at the police station by 1:00 p.m. I was going to be shot dead. My father and I went to the police station as instructed. The commander was on the phone with my father the whole time and gave him directions where to go. We waited about four hours before I was taken for interrogation. My father was told to go home.
3. As soon as I entered the room the interrogator handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs and shackled my feet. Then he told me although I had the right to remain silent I had to answer him with yes or know. Then he told me he was not going to interrogate me because he had all the evidence he needed to convict me. He claimed there were confessions against me by other boys about weapons possession. He then asked me about other boys in the camp and threatened if I did not cooperate with him he was going to sexually assault my father. Then he asked me to stand up and told me to put everything aside, god, the profits, religion...etc. and to just focus on him and me.
4. The interrogator accused me of plotting to shoot and to trade in weapons. I denied the accusation. He also accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on multiple occasions and I denied this accusation too. He questioned me for about an hour. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer before interrogating me.
5. After about an hour the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign anything in Hebrew. Then he called my father and allowed me to speak to him. I told my father I was being interrogated. Then the interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and that he would see me in court. The conversation lasted for less than a minute. The interrogator was in the room when I spoke to the lawyer. He then wanted to know what the lawyer had told me. I told the interrogator I wanted my parents to be present in the interrogation but he laughed at my request.
6. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.

7. I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on the 26 November 2018, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of 2 years in prison valid for 7 years. I accepted the plea bargain because I would be released on the same day if I accepted the deal.
8. I was released later that night and I arrived home at around 1:00 a.m. I spent the whole time at Ofer where I attended classes but I later stopped. My parents visited me in prison several times.

I, A.K.A.H. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was shepherding goats on a nearby hill about 300 meters from a main road used by settlers. It was around 5:00 p.m. Suddenly three Israeli soldiers ambushed me.
2. One of the soldiers slapped me hard on the face and then tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and restricted the flow of blood. I thought my hands were going to fall off. They left marks on my wrists for many weeks.
3. The soldiers walked me a short distance and then put me in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to a nearby military base.
4. At the military base a soldier asked me if I had any illnesses and then wanted me to sign documents in Hebrew but I refused to sign. Then I was blindfolded and taken to a small room.
5. A soldier asked for my parents' names and then asked me whether I was throwing stones. He asked me this question without informing me of any rights. Then he told me my mother was crying missing me and if I confessed on other boys he would send me home to be with my her. He asked me for the names of the boys who were apparently in the area when a settler bus was stoned. Later he asked me whether I wanted a lawyer but he did not call one.
6. I was left in that room until around 2:00 a.m. All the time there was loud music playing and I could not sleep.
7. At around 2:00 a.m. I was put in a military vehicle which drove a short distance and then stopped. The soldiers took me out of the vehicle and started to slap and kick me hard on my legs and arms. It was dark and I was scared. I had bruises on my arm. I was terrified that they might really hurt me and no one would find out.
8. Then the soldiers put me back in the vehicle and drove a short distance before dropping me off on the main road. They told me to go home. I walked about 1 kilometer in the darkness by myself.

Location: Deir Nidham, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.M.M.T. of Deir Nidham, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were surrounding our house. Then I heard loud banging at the front door. My father answered and about 20 soldiers entered our home. Two of them were wearing masks.
2. The commander told my father to bring the family to the living room. When the commander saw me he told everyone else to step back. Then soldiers entered my bedroom and took some clothes out of my wardrobe.
3. Then they showed my father photographs of clashes with soldiers and pointed to a boy wearing similar clothes to the ones they found in my bedroom. My father denied it was me and told him the clothes are very common. My father told the commander he wanted my mother to have a look at the photographs and she too denied it was me.
4. The commander then told my parents that I was under arrest. He showed my father a document written in Hebrew and asked him to sign it but I don't know whether my father had signed it or whether he was given a copy or not.
5. Then they took me outside and a soldier spoke to me in Hebrew but I did not understand what he was saying. Then the soldiers took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep I was blindfolded and tied to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and I asked the soldier to loosen them but he refused.
6. The jeep drove me to a nearby military base. On the way I was slapped and sworn at and called "a son of a whore". At the base I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold during the examination.
7. Then I was taken to a shipping container where I stayed until 8:00 a.m. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken to Huwwara military base but I was not taken inside. I think the soldiers picked something up. Then I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I waited in a room for about 7 or 8 hours.
8. During this time I was able to use the bathroom but the soldiers shouted at me each time I requested. There was some food in the room, some bread and jam and I ate a little bit. I could not tolerate the blindfold so I removed it. The soldiers shouted at me but I ignored them. I complained about the ties and a policeman tried to cut them off using a lighter and

I was terrified; I thought he was going to burn my wrists. Then he brought a tool and replaced the ties with metal hand cuffs which were not painful.

9. Later on I was told I could speak to a lawyer. A lawyer came to the room and spoke to me and the other boys who were with me. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent during the interrogation. He also advised me not to sign any documents and not to confess to anything. He also told me if the interrogator tells me another boy had confessed against me to say I had nothing to do with that boy. During this whole time I could not sleep. At around 6:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
10. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He removed the handcuffs and called my father and told him he was about to start questioning me. He did not tell me I had any rights. Then he wanted to know what another boy in the waiting room had told me. I told him nothing. Then he told me that boy had confessed against me. I told him I did not know that boy. Then he showed me a T-shirt and asked whether it was mine and I told him it was not. Then he asked me to put it on and it was too small so I could not put it on.
11. Then he asked me why I throw stones at soldiers and I told him I do not throw stones. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. During the interrogation the interrogator thumped the table twice but he was calm the rest of the time. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
12. Then I was taken back to the waiting room where I stayed until around 7:00 or 8:00 p.m.. Then a soldier told me they were going to take me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched in my shorts and then I was taken to Section 13 where I had some milk and biscuits and I went to bed.
13. The following morning I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there but my lawyer was and the hearing was adjourned. I was taken back to prison. On 12 April 2018, I was told I was going to be released on bail. My father had to pay NIS 500 and I was told my next hearing was scheduled on 18 December 2018.
14. I was released on 12 April 2018, at around 11:00 p.m. My father was waiting for me outside Ofer. My father and I spent the night at our relatives' house in Ramallah and we went home in the morning.

Name: M.H.M.H.
Age: 12
Date: 9 April 2018
Location: Azzun, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.H.M.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on the main street in my village when Israeli soldiers set up a flying checkpoint. It was around 4:00 p.m. I think there were clashes with soldiers earlier that day and they wanted to teach the village a lesson.
2. Two soldiers approached me and told me an informant had confessed against me and soldiers had seen me with a Molotov cocktail. They also told me they had photographic evidence against me. I denied being involved in anything. Then the soldiers wanted to arrest me and I tried to run away but they chased me and beat me up. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
3. Once inside the jeep I was blindfolded and my hands were tied to the front with four plastic ties: two on each wrist and the four were connected together like a chain. The ties caused me a lot of pain. I banged my head inside the jeep and I was in shock.
4. The jeep drove to the police station in Qedumim settlement. At the police station I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and asked me some medical questions. Then I was blindfolded again and I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. I arrived there at around 9:00 p.m. At Ariel I waited in a room, tied and blindfolded, until around 2:00 a.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was dressed in civilian clothes and spoke to me via an interpreter. Two other people were in the room with him. There was also a camera. He removed the blindfold and did not inform me of any rights. He asked me what I was doing in his office. I told him I had no idea because the soldiers arrested me and brought me to his office. Then he showed me a photo of me standing on the street by an olive tree doing nothing. Then he told me I was in the area throwing stones. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me a photo of a boy with a Molotov cocktail in his hand. Then he kicked me on my legs and wanted me to confess but I did not confess to anything.
6. At the end of the interrogation he asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I told him I did not. I was afraid he might ask me to speak to someone pretending to be a lawyer; I just did not want to risk it. He did not say anything about my right to silence. Then he showed me a document in Arabic and asked me to sign it and I did after I read it and realised it was my statement. He brought me other documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign the Hebrew documents.

7. After the interrogation I was re-blindfolded and taken to Huwwara military base. I was searched in my underwear and then taken into a cell where I sat on a metal bed. I tried to sleep but I could not because there was a stench in the room. The ties and the blindfold were removed. I was left in the room until around 7:00 a.m. when I was given chocolate milk, a cucumber and two biscuits.
8. After I ate I was handcuffed to the front and my legs shackled and taken in a troop carrier to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived there at around 10:00 a.m. At Megiddo I was searched in my underwear again and I waited in a room until around 4:00 p.m. when I was taken to the juvenile section.
9. The following day I was taken to the military court in Salem. My brother was in court and many lawyers were there but I did not know which one of them was my lawyer. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to Megiddo. I had three military court hearings.
10. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 16 days in prison and fined NIS 1,100. I was also given a suspended sentence but I don't know the details. My father accepted the plea bargain because he was tired of leaving his work to attend court hearings. They took up all his time.
11. I spent my entire sentence in Megiddo prison. In prison there was not much to do but I liked making Knafeh from bread crumbs and goat cheese. I was released on 25 April 2018, at around 4:00 p.m. I went home with my parents who were waiting for me at Al Jalama checkpoint. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m. and all my friends came to our house to welcome me back.

I, N.A.A.H. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on my way home from school at around 1:00 p.m. At the time there were clashes going on between residents of the refugee camp and Israeli soldiers. Suddenly four soldiers jumped out of an abandoned building and ambushed me.
2. The soldiers immediately tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
3. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur where I was left in a shipping container for about an hour. I was without food or drink or access to a toilet. At around 3:00 p.m. I was driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was left in a shipping container until around 5:00 p.m. and then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes. He removed my blindfold and gave me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it, but I refused. He did not inform me of any rights.
5. The interrogator then he showed me a map and showed me a route he claimed I used to run away from soldiers after throwing stones at them. I told him this was not true. I explained to him that I had just left school when soldiers ambushed me. I also told him I was wearing my roller blades and I could not have run away from the soldiers. He did not like what I said and threatened that I would spend seven months in prison if I continued to deny the accusation.
6. Then the interrogator told me he did not really need my confession because the soldiers had already testified against me. He questioned me for about three hours and did not allow me to use the toilet. Then I was taken to see another interrogator.
7. The second interrogator was also dressed in civilian clothes. He told me I had the choice of talking or remaining silence. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to deny all accusations and not to worry because hopefully things would be all right. The interrogator heard my conversation with the lawyer because our conversation was on speaker phone.
8. Then the interrogator told me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator. He typed up my statement and then he read it out to me in Arabic. Then he showed it to me in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did. After the second interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then I was re-blindfolded and taken to a shipping container where I was with three other detainees. I sat on the floor for about an hour.

9. After about an hour I was examined by a doctor. Then there was a lot of waiting around before I was taken to a cell. I was strip searched and left in the cell without any food or drink from around 11:00 p.m. until around 8:00 a.m. In the morning I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer at around noon. I was strip searched and then taken to Section 13.
10. On 11 April 2018, I had a military court hearing. My parents attended and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 10 military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 1 August 2018, I accepted a plea bargain. I pleaded guilty and was sentenced to nearly five months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. In addition I was given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because by the time I was sentenced I only had 11 days left in prison.
11. I spent the whole time at Ofer prison and my parents visited me three times. The first visit came more than two months into my imprisonment because it took a long time for the authorities to issue them a permit. I was released on the 19 August 2018, and I went home with my father, my grandfather and my brother. I was released around 10:00 p.m. and I arrived home around midnight.

Name: H.S.M.H.
Age: 16
Date: 9 April 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, H.S.M.H. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I put my roller blades on after school and went roller blading with some friends on the road near our school. It was around 1:00 p.m. Suddenly a group of Israeli soldiers ambushed us. One soldier grabbed me and made me sit down on the ground. Another soldier asked me why I threw stones at soldiers and I told him I did not throw stones at anyone.
2. A short time later the soldiers took me to the entrance of the refugee camp where some concrete blocks prevent traffic entering or leaving the camp. My father and friends arrived and tried to argue for my release. The security guard from my school also came and tried to explain to the soldiers that I wasn't throwing stones, but to no avail.
3. Soon afterwards the soldiers walked me along the main road towards a deserted building where I was blindfolded. They also tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful.
4. After I was tied I was put in the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep drove to the settlement of Karmi Zur.
5. On arrival at the settlement I was taken to an office where I waited for a short while before being driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I waited in an outdoor area for a short while before being taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator started to question me while I was still tied and blindfolded and without informing me of my rights. He greeted me and asked me for my name and wanted to know what had happened. I told him I was with my friends after school and we were enjoying ourselves on roller blades when the soldiers stopped and arrested us without provocation.
7. The interrogator accused me of lying and told me if I confessed to throwing stones he would send me home. I refused to confess. He repeated the same request five or six times and I continued to deny the accusation and refused to confess. Then he lost his temper and swore at me saying all Palestinian children are "children of whores". This session lasted for about 30 minutes and then I was taken to see another interrogator.
8. The second interrogator was in civilian clothes. He removed the ties and the blindfold and wanted me to sign documents in Hebrew but I refused. He then phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to stick to my story and not to confess. I asked him whether I should sign the documents in Hebrew and the lawyer told me it was ok to sign so I signed. Neither the interrogator nor the lawyer told me anything about the right to silence.

9. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to another room where I was examined by a doctor. I waited a long time, maybe about 5 hours or so and then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I remained in the cell from around 11:00 p.m. until around 8:00 a.m. I was not given anything to eat or drink this whole time.
10. At around 8:00 a.m. I was strip searched again and driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer at around noon. I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13.
11. On 11 April 2018, I was taken to the military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed it was taking place. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 10 hearings in the military court.
12. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for three years. The lawyer told me I would serve more time in prison if I reject the plea bargain. I felt it was unfair but I wanted to go home as quickly as possible and that is why I accepted the plea bargain.
13. I spent my sentence at Ofer prison where I exercised a lot, lifting weights and playing table-tennis. I was released on 19 August 2018. I went home with my friend's family because my grandfather died on the same day and my parents could not pick me up. I went home to a very sad atmosphere and found lots of people paying condolences. I was sad not to have seen my grandfather before he died.
14. The hardest thing about spending time in prison was the feeling of isolation. I felt I was isolated from my family and friends and did not hear the news from the village.

Name: M.M.O.Q.
Age: 14
Date: 10 April 2018
Location: Azzun, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.O.Q. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my cousin on agricultural land belonging to my family at around 4:00 p.m. A short time earlier there had been some stone throwing on a nearby road. Suddenly four Israeli military jeeps approached us from all directions. About 12 soldiers got out of the jeeps and approached me and my cousin. I was scared.
2. Without explanation one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. I asked the soldier to loosen the ties but he did not listen to me. He also blindfolded me and took me to the back of one of the jeeps and made me sit on a seat.
3. Inside the jeep the soldier kept pushing my head down which caused me pain. I felt I could not breathe properly and felt very uncomfortable. When I tried to lift my head up to take a deep breath the soldier pushed my head down and banged my head. When I told one of the soldiers I had not done anything wrong he kicked me on my elbow and caused me a lot of pain which lasted for days.
4. The jeep waited for a short while and I could hear my mother outside the jeep asking the soldiers to release me. The soldiers told my mother to go home. Then I heard my mother tell me not to worry and to be strong and brave.
5. The jeep drove to the nearby military base and I was left inside the jeep with my head bent down for about four hours. Then I was taken to a shipping container and a female military doctor examined me. She examined me while I was tied and blindfolded.
6. After the medical exam I was taken to an office where I sat on a chair, tied and blindfolded. A group of soldiers walked in and made a lot of noise. I bent over a table and tried to sleep but a soldier banged a metal pipe on the table which startled me. I was shocked and did not sleep at all. I was left in the room until around 3:00 a.m. I was not given anything to eat but a soldier brought me a glass with something in it to drink but I refused to take it because I thought it might be alcohol as the soldiers behaved as if they were drunk.
7. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken to a shipping container and two soldiers came. One of them removed the blindfold and asked me to tell him what I had done and claimed he wanted to help me. He did not inform me of any rights. I told him I did not do anything. Then he told me if I told him everything I would be sent home. He told me not to lie and to tell him everything and he was there to help me. Then he accused me of throwing stones and told me my cousin who was arrested with me had confessed against me. When I told him this could not be true he lost his temper and shouted at me.

8. Then one of the soldiers told me our house would be demolished if I did not confess and that my family would be displaced and would be forced to live next to a rubbish tip. He threatened to drag my grandmother into the police station and to close down my uncle's shop if I did not confess. I was so scared that I confessed to throwing six stones on the main road. I did not want any problems between my family and my uncle's family if his shop was closed down and he lost his livelihood. When I confessed the soldier went out. Then he came back and told me I was going to be released and I believed him.
9. A short time later the soldier returned with an overweight policeman. The policeman asked me for my name and where I was from. He asked me whether I was going to throw stones ever again and I said never again. Then I was taken to a jeep and I thought I was going to be released but instead I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I was interrogated by someone called "Marwan".
10. Marwan turned a voice recorder on and asked me whether I had confessed to throwing six stones and I said yes. He was accompanied by the soldier who questioned me earlier. He then accused me of hitting a vehicle and smashing the nose of a passenger. Then he told me he was going to call a lawyer for me. He called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry. He also told me to remain silent but I did not understand what he meant. The interrogator did not say anything about the right to silence.
11. Then he gave me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did. Then I was taken to Salem military court.
12. A lawyer was in the military court but my parents did not attend because they were not informed of the hearing. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched with my clothes on and then I was taken to Section 4.
13. I had about seven military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of seven months in prison suspended for two years.
14. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo where I attended classes and I was the best amongst all the other prisoners. The teacher gave me a certificate acknowledging my achievement. My mother was very pleased when she saw the certificate. My parents visited me four times in prison.
15. I was released on 26 July 2018 at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m. My parents organised a small party for me and my mother cooked a nice meal. We stayed up late and I told everyone about my experience in prison.

Name: Y.I.R.S.
Age: 16
Date: 11 April 2018
Location: Azzun, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, Y.I.R.S. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when three Israeli soldiers came into my bedroom and woke me up. It was around 3:00 a.m. They were shouting “get up, get up...” I got up and went to the living room and my father told me the soldiers wanted to arrest me.
2. The commander took me to the kitchen and told me he wanted to arrest me and said he did not want any trouble from me. They gave my father a document with details about my arrest and asked him to sign it. It was a standard form typed in both Hebrew and Arabic but the information was hand written by the commander in Hebrew.
3. I put my clothes on and I was immediately taken outside where I saw lots of masked soldiers. A soldier searched me, pulled my hands behind my head and threw me into the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
4. Inside the jeep my hands were tied to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and caused me a lot of pain. My wrists swelled and the ties left marks for a long time. I was also blindfolded.
5. There were two soldiers inside the jeep with me and later more soldiers came on. One of them slapped me and beat me with the back of his gun. Another swore at me and cursed my father. They drove around the village and made more arrests and then I was taken to a nearby military base. On the way a soldier told me if I tried to remove the blindfold he would “bury me on the spot”.
6. At the base I was taken to a shipping container where I was examined by a doctor. I sat on a chair and I was not given any food or drink. I was allowed to use the toilet once. I was able to sleep on the chair. I bent over a table and slept but just as I fell asleep a soldier shouted at me and I was startled and woke up. I instinctively tried to remove the blindfold to see what was going on and a soldier raised his hand and threatened to slap me.
7. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I was left on a chair in a room until around 4:00 p.m. when I was taken for interrogation. I later found out that my father went to Ariel but he was told I was not there. After waiting a long time he was told to leave.
8. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman. He spoke Arabic and had a camera and a voice recorder. He removed the blindfold and told me to sit down and asked me for my name and age. He told me if I chose to remain silent and refuse to answer his questions he would take it as proof against me. He did not inform me of my right to consult with a lawyer.

9. Then he told me I was accused of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails. I told him I had nothing to do with such things and denied the accusation. Then he accused me of lying and repeated the accusation but I continued to deny it. This lasted for about five minutes and then I was taken for fingerprinting and a photograph.
10. About 15 minutes later I was taken back to the interrogation room and the interrogator repeated the same accusation. I denied them and told him I had nothing to do with such things. Then he showed me some photographs of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. When I denied it he raised his voice at me and thumped the table and told me he would send me home if I confessed. He told me my father was waiting for me downstairs and all I had to do was to confess. This lasted for about 15 minutes.
11. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then I was blindfolded and I waited in a room for about an hour and then I was taken in a jeep to the police station in Qedumim settlement where I was interrogated a second time.
12. The second interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold and I saw he had a gun on his side. He asked me whether I had any illnesses and told me I needed to answer his questions despite my young age. He told me if I answered all his questions he would send me home. He did not inform me of my rights. Then he showed me images of clashes and accused me of taking part. I denied it and told him I did not take part. He questioned me for about an hour.
13. Then I was blindfolded and taken to Huwwara military base but they refused to admit me and I was taken back to the jeep. Then a lawyer told me they were going to take me to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. He took my name and my father's number and told me I had a military court hearing the following day. When the lawyer left I was taken inside the military base where I was strip searched and taken into a room where I was examined by a doctor. They removed the ties and the blindfold and brought me food about two hours later. The cell had a puddle of water but I managed to sleep because I was very tired.
14. The following day I was taken to Salem military court at around 8:00 a.m. I was handcuffed and shackled and taken in a bus which drove for about four hours to Salem. My parents were not in court but a lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. The hearing lasted for about two minutes. The military judge asked me for my name and he decided to keep me in detention. After court I was taken to Megiddo where I was strip searched and taken to the juvenile section.
15. In all had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison suspended for five years.

16. I was released on 26 May 2018, about two weeks early because of good conduct. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint where I was met by my father and brother. I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.A.Z. of Al Mazrra' ash Sharqiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went with five friends to the fields near Route 60 when suddenly we were ambushed by a group of soldiers. It was around 9:00 p.m. I tried to run away but I could not run fast enough and the soldiers caught me.
2. The soldiers kicked me on the legs, pushed me down to the ground and tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie. The tie was not painful. They also blindfolded me and pushed me into the back of a jeep which was waiting nearby on a dirt road. Inside the jeep I sat on a seat and the jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Eli.
3. At the settlement I was put in a shipping container where I sat on a chair. I slept for about an hour and then a soldier woke me up and asked me why I throw stones at soldiers. He also wanted to know the names of the other boys. I told him I did not know their names. He did not inform me of any rights and questioned me for about 10 minutes. While waiting in the container some soldiers swore at me.
4. At around midnight I was taken back to the jeep and driven to the police station in Binyamin settlement. At Binyamin I waited in a room and then a policeman took me to the interrogation room. The policeman removed my blindfold but kept me tied. He did not inform me of my rights and immediately asked me why I threw stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about 10 minutes. He remained calm. Then I was taken back to Eli where I waited in a room and then I was taken back to Binyamin.
5. I waited in a room at Binyamin until around 2:00 p.m. when a policeman took me back to an interrogation room. He told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but did not say anything about the right to silence. Then he wanted to know why I threw stones at soldiers on Route 60. He wanted to know what good it does me to throw stones at Jews and accused me of hating Jews. He also wanted me to give him the names of boys who throw stones at soldiers.
6. Towards the end of the interrogation the interrogator showed me a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic about my right to consult a lawyer and other things. He asked me to sign it and I did. Then he threatened me that if I ever throw stones again he was going to lock me up in prison for a long time. The interrogation lasted about 30 minutes.
7. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then I was searched with my clothes on and taken to a cell at Binyamin where they removed my hand ties. They brought me some food but I could not eat it because it was unappetising. I remained in the cell for about three hours.

8. After about three hours I was taken to a jeep and driven to the police station in Beit El settlement. At Beit El I was handed over to the Palestinian police and the Palestinian police contacted my father who picked me up from the Palestinian police station in Ramallah.
9. I later found out that the interrogator wanted my father to pay a fine before he released me but my father refused to pay. This was around 6:00 p.m. When my father refused to pay they told him they were going to keep me. But at around 11:00 p.m. my father received a phone call from the Palestinian police who told him I had been released. I was released on 15 May 2018.

Name: A.M.A.I.
Date: 15 April 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, A.M.A.I. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About a month before I was arrested Israeli soldiers came to my relatives' house looking for me. It was around 3:00 a.m. The following day a military commander telephoned my father and told him to bring me to the police station in Etzion settlement at 9:00 a.m. on 21 March 2018. My father took me to the police station as ordered but while we were waiting at the entrance my father received a phone call from the military commander saying I was summoned by mistake and my father and I could go home.
2. A few weeks later the military again raided my relatives' house looking for me. The following day my father received another telephone call from the commander summoning me again to the police station. This time I went with my mother and another relative of mine because my father was busy. My mother and the relative were told to go home and I was taken inside the police station where I waited in a room.
3. Shortly afterwards the commander came to the room and told me he finally got hold of me. He started to question me about throwing stones and Molotov cocktails without informing me of my rights. I denied the accusations and told him I had no idea what he was talking about. He lost his temper and thumped the table aggressively. He told me he had a whole file on me and that he was keeping a close eye on me. Then he talked about my uncle and my brother to prove he knew everything about me and my family. Then he told me I would regret it if I did not cooperate with him and that I would sit in prison for a long time.
4. Then he stood up and put his face very close to mine and told me to tell him everything there was to say and he would spare me a prison sentence. Then he told me there were confessions against me and gave me names of people whom he claimed had confessed against me.
5. Shortly afterwards a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were not painful. He also shackled me and then took me to see another interrogator in another room.
6. The second interrogator introduced himself as "Shimon". He removed the blindfold but kept the ties and the shackles. He told me he knew everything there was to know about me. He also told me there were confessions against me. He accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktail on certain dates but I denied the accusation. Then he put his hand on his gun and told me he knew what I was up to and that I should not lie to him. He thumped the table a few times and was angry.

7. Then he played a voice recording of someone who confessed against me. Still, I denied the accusation. The interrogation lasted for about three hours. During this time he also wanted me to confess about others. He gave me names and urged me to confess against them. He tried to implicate me by claiming I was friends with a person who was shot dead by Israeli soldiers but I denied everything.
8. Half way through the second interrogation he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and gave me a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic about my right to consult with a lawyer. The document did not say anything about my right to silence and the interrogator did not say anything about the right to silence. He called a lawyer half way through the interrogation and allowed me to speak to him. The interrogator put the lawyer on speaker phone and could listen to everything he told me. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything and wished me well. He also told me he would see me in court. The phone call with the lawyer lasted a few seconds.
9. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I asked him to explain the documents he told me they were my testimony. I signed. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph and took me to see another interrogator.
10. The third interrogator gave me a document about my right to remain silent but did not say anything about my right to consult with a lawyer. Then he gave me three dates and accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails on these dates. I denied the accusations. The interrogator typed what I told him on a computer. This lasted for about 15 minutes.
11. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside where I waited in the sun for about two hours. I was not given any food or drink since I turned myself in and I was not allowed to use the toilet. Then soldiers walked me a long distance while I was blindfolded and took me to a cell at the police station. On the way I fell down a couple of times because I could not see and soldiers swore at me calling me “a son of a whore”.
12. By the time I arrived at the cell it was around 6:00 p.m. I could not tell the exact time because I did not have a watch. The blindfold and shackles and ties were removed. There was a toilet in the cell but I was not given any food or drink. I remained in the cell until around 3:00 a.m. when I was handcuffed and blindfolded and driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court where I waited in a room and was never taken into the court room. In the evening I was taken back to prison. The following day I was taken to the military court again. My parents were not informed so they did not attend the hearing but my lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned.

14. I had about seven military court hearings and on the 16 July 2018, I accepted a plea bargain whereby in return for pleading guilty I would be sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a six-month suspended sentence suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I would soon be released and I was fed up with court hearings.
15. I spent the whole time at Ofer prison where my parents visited me three times. I was very bored in prison with not much to do. The routine was boring and the lessons they gave us were not challenging. They taught us the alphabet and told us to draw.
16. I was released early from Ofer on 31 July 2018. I took a taxi to a nearby village and my brother met me there. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m. and had a nice meal with my family.

Name: O.S.A.K.
Age: 15
Date: 16 April 2018
Location: Jayyus, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, O.S.A.K. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother and sister woke me up and told me Israeli soldiers were raiding our home. It was around 4:00 a.m. I got up and went to the living room and the commander asked to see my identity card.
2. The soldiers searched our house looking for a particular shirt but they did not find it. They did not cause any damage while searching. Then the commander told me to put my shoes on because I was under arrest. He did not give us any documents and did not give a reason for my arrest. I said goodbye to my family and the soldiers took me outside.
3. Once outside I was tied with my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was not painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor between the soldiers' boots. The soldiers were singing loudly; songs about Israel in Hebrew.
4. The jeep drove to the nearby base at Zufin where I sat on a chair in a courtyard. A soldier swore at me. I was still tied and blindfolded. Then I was taken to see a doctor who removed the tie and the blindfold and asked me if I had any illnesses. He put the tie and the blindfold on and I was taken in a jeep to the police station in Ariel settlement. At Ariel I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman. He showed me some photographs which included pictures of me standing doing nothing. When I denied I had done anything wrong he threatened to bang my head against the wall. He banged the table aggressively in order to scare me. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during protests but I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation. Half way through the interrogation he asked me whether I wanted a lawyer. I told him I did not need one. I was suspicious of him and worried he might appoint any one and make me believe the person was a lawyer. The interrogator did not say anything about the right to silence and did not give me any documents to sign.
6. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was driven to Huwwara military base. I was tied and blindfolded and left outside by the jeep at the entrance to Huwwara for about five hours. My back ached as I leaned against the tire and I was exhausted. A soldier made fun of me and asked me what I thought of the female soldiers with him. I pretended I did not hear him. Then he said how naively innocent I was. He spoke good Arabic. I was not given any food but a soldier gave me some water with salt in it then water with sugar in it. I did not use the toilet and I was very uncomfortable.

7. Later I was driven to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. The trip took about two hours and the whole time I was sitting in a cage inside the vehicle. I arrived at Megiddo at around 10:30 p.m. At Megiddo I was strip searched and then I was taken to the juvenile section.
8. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My mother and uncle and my lawyer were in court and the judge decided to extend my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had three hearings and at the last one the judge decided the time I had already spent in prison was enough and decided to release me. He also ordered my family to pay a fine of NIS 1,700 and told them they would have to pay NIS 20,000 if I am arrested again in the next two years.
9. I was released on 25 April 2018, from Megiddo prison. I was dropped off at Al Jalama checkpoint where my uncle was waiting for me and I went home with him. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m. My friends and relatives took me in a car convoy around the village. My grandmother was very happy to see me back and she sang a special song which she had written herself especially for me.
10. My family did not visit me in prison and I was very bored and did not find it easy to mix with the other boys. I watched television and spent a lot of time by myself. I am in tenth grade and I would like to study to become a journalist.

Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.T.A.I. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep on the couch in the front room when I heard very loud banging on our front door. It was around 2:30 a.m. My mother answered the door and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home and told my mother they were looking for me. The commander told me to ready because I was under arrest. He did not give my family any documents and did not tell us the reason for my arrest.
2. As soon as I was dressed the soldiers tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful. Then they walked me towards the metal gate at the entrance to the refugee camp and handed me over to another group of soldiers. I was blindfolded by the gate and then I was taken into the military watchtower where I remained for about 20 minutes.
3. After about 20 minutes I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers punched me and kept pushing and knocking my head while I was blindfolded.
4. The jeep drove a short distance to the polices station in Etzion settlement where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor asked me some questions about my health but did not remove the ties or the blindfold. Then I waited for another hour in a room before I was taken for interrogation at around 10:00 a.m.
5. The interrogator took me to a dark back room where they keep tools and started to question me there without informing me of any rights. He accused me of throwing stones and wanted me to confess. I denied the accusation and I asked him to remove the blindfold because my eyes hurt. He removed the blindfold and also allowed me to use the toilet. Then I was taken to an interrogation room.
6. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes. He had a tape recorder on his desk. As soon as I entered the room he accused me of throwing stones and showed me photographs. I denied the accusation. He accused me of lying and put his face very close to mine and stared at me. I was scared. He threatened that if I did not confess he was going to arrest me again and again. I told him I had nothing to confess to. Then he showed me more photographs and repeated the accusation and I denied it again. The interrogation lasted for about one-and-a-half hours and I did not confess.

7. The interrogator did not tell me I had the right to remain silent. On the contrary, he kept urging me to speak. In the end he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him for less than a minute. The lawyer told me not to be scared and before he could say anything else the interrogator took the telephone away and hung up. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
8. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted and then strip searched. Then I was taken to a cell where I stayed from around noon until around 4:00 p.m. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. We arrived at Ofer prison at around 6:00 p.m.
9. At Ofer I waited for a long time and then I was strip searched again and put in Section 13. Three days later I was released from Ofer. I did not appear in the military court. I was released on 24 April 2018, without charge and without a fine.

Location: Azzun, West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.M.W.S. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Two days before I was arrested my father asked me to buy some bread from the bakery to take with us on a picnic we were planning. It was around 2:00 p.m. As I walked to the bakery I noticed three Israeli soldiers walking towards me and I pretended I did not see them. I continued to walk but a soldier called me. When I responded the other two soldiers grabbed me, took my phone away and started to search me.
2. The soldiers asked to see my identity card and I told them I did not have one due to my age. They took a photo of me and led me towards a military jeep. Soon my father arrived and he tried to pull me away from the soldiers who pulled me in the opposite direction. I then managed to free myself and started to run as fast as I could. A soldier chased me for about 50 meters but then gave up. I managed to run home but the soldiers arrested my father and kept him in prison for 10 days.
3. On 21 April 2018, at around 2:30 a.m., I woke up when my bedroom light was suddenly turned on. I looked up and I saw three soldiers inside my bedroom. One of them told me to get up and dress because I was under arrest. They gave my mother and grandfather a document saying they did not cause any damage during the arrest operation and my grandfather signed the document which was in both Arabic and Hebrew.
4. Outside the house a soldier handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful. They walked me about 100 meters and then blindfolded me. Then they took me to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat and we drove to the nearby military base at Zufin.
5. At the base a doctor removed my blindfold and handcuffs and examined me and then handcuffed and blindfolded me again after he was finished. I remained at the base until around 7:30 a.m. when I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. I arrived there at around 11:00 a.m. At Ariel I waited in a room until around 1:00 p.m. and then I was taken to an interrogation room.
6. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He spoke to me via an interpreter. He removed the blindfold and the handcuffs and gave me a document in Arabic about my right to silence and my right to consult with a lawyer. He also told me anything I say could be used against me in court. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything or to confess on others.

7. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and I denied the accusation. Then he asked me whether my father had helped me run away from the soldiers and I told him I was scared of the soldiers and managed to run away myself. He questioned me for about an hour and showed me some photographs. I continued to deny the accusation.
8. Then he showed me some documents in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep which drove to Zufin and then to the military court at Salem. In court I saw a lawyer who was representing me and the hearing was adjourned. After the hearing I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was strip searched before being taken to the juvenile section.
9. I had two more military court hearings. During this time I was also taken for another interrogation at Ariel. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. He allowed me to speak to a lawyer who told me to stick to my story. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and I denied the accusation. I was interrogated for about 15 minutes and I did not confess. The interrogator wanted me to sign documents in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
10. At the last hearing the military court decided to release me and my father after paying NIS 6,000. I was released on 29 April 2018, together with my father and we both went home together. The whole town came to our house to welcome us home. It was tough in prison. I did not have much to do and I was deprived of my freedom.

Name: I.M.I.K.
Age: 17
Date: 21 April 2018
Location: Azzun, West Bank
Accusation: Protesting

I, I.M.I.K. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was chatting with four of my friends at a picnic area near our town when we were approached by a group of Israeli soldiers. It was around 7:00 p.m. There were no clashes taking place at the time.
2. The soldiers had photographs with them and they stopped to see whether they had photos of us. A soldier asked us for our names, then looked at the photographs and then asked me to step aside. They checked my identity card and took a picture of it on an iPad.
3. Then a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were painful. He also blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. When I asked them for the reason of my arrest a soldier simply asked me whether I knew why I was under arrest. I said I did not.
4. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was put in a shipping container. My blindfold was removed but I remained tied. I sat on a chair and stayed there for about four hours. I was not given anything to eat or drink and I did not use the toilet. At one point a soldier approached me, pinched my cheek and told me I was “a son of a whore” because I throw stones at soldiers.
5. Later I was also taken to another room where I was examined by a doctor. She took my blood pressure and asked me whether I suffered from any illnesses. After the examination I was blindfolded and taken back to the shipping container where I slept on the chair until the morning.
6. At around 5:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I was left in a room until around 2:00 p.m., still without any food or drink or a toilet. Then a soldier removed the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform and spoke Arabic. He had a voice recorder which he turned on. Then without informing me of my rights he asked me for my name and where I lived and then showed me some photographs taken during clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation.
8. Then he gave me a specific date for the incident which was about a month earlier, and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He claimed I was amongst the young boys seen in the photographs he showed me. He told me the clashes happened at 4:00 p.m. When I denied the accusation he raised his voice at me and thumped the table aggressively and wanted me to confess.

9. The interrogator repeated the same accusation over and over again for about an hour. In the end I confessed to throwing stones at soldiers which missed. I was fed up and wanted the whole thing to be over. After I confessed the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did after a soldier translated the text and I found it identical to what I had said.
10. Then he asked me for my father's telephone number but I could not remember it. Then he asked me whether I wanted a lawyer. I told him I did not want a lawyer but wanted to speak to my father. By then I had remembered my father's number and I gave it to him. He called my father and told him I was in their custody. My father gave the interrogator a lawyer's number but I never spoke to one.
11. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched and taken to a cell. I could not tell the time but it was evening. A lawyer visited me and asked me whether I had already confessed and I told him I had. I was given some disgusting food which I ate because I was very hungry and then I slept until morning.
12. The following day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was strip searched again before being taken to the juvenile section. About a week later I was taken to Salem military court. My parents were in court and a lawyer and the hearing was adjourned.
13. I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. In addition I was given a suspended sentence of six months valid for three years. I pleaded guilty and accepted the plea bargain because otherwise the prosecutor was demanding a sentence of one-and-a-half years in prison.
14. I spent the whole time at Megiddo prison where I played table tennis and watched television. There were no classes because it was summer. My parents visited me once in prison because it took a long time for their visiting permit to be issued.
15. I was released on 21 August 2018, at Al- Jalama where I was met by my father and some of my friends. I arrived home at around 6:00 p.m. The hardest thing about this whole experience was the time when other prisoners had family visits and I did not; I so badly wanted to connect with my parents and siblings but I only saw them once.

I, N.M.Y.N. of Al Bireh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 11:00 a.m. there were clashes with Israeli soldiers near our school. I was in the area with my friends. I saw military jeeps in the distance and I told one of my friends that the situation did not look good, but before I could finish my sentence a jeep came up behind us and I started to run.
2. Three soldiers got out of the jeep and started to chase down some terraces into the valley, but they could not catch me. Then one of the soldiers shouted at me to stop and threatened to shoot me if I did not. I froze in my place because I was terrified the soldier might shoot me.
3. A soldier then approached me and pushed me to the ground. I was handcuffed to the front with metal cuffs which were painful. He twisted my arm and I told him not to twist it because I had fractured it a few months ago and it still hurt. But the soldier deliberately beat me on my arm.
4. I was then led towards the nearby settlement of Psagot. On the road near the settlement the soldier blindfolded me, which was painful, and took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a metal box on the floor. Inside the jeep a soldier kicked me on my knee and ankle which caused me a lot of pain which lasted for a week. My knee swelled and I could not walk properly.
5. The jeep drove inside the settlement and the soldiers got me out of the jeep and made me kneel beside the road. The commander came, grabbed me by the neck and accused me of throwing stones at the soldiers. He also accused me of swearing at soldiers. He did not inform me of any rights and I denied the accusations. Then he swore at me and I swore back at him. Then he kicked me on my knee and three soldiers started to beat me. They caused me a lot of pain. Then the commander told me he was going to lock me up in prison.
6. I was then led through the settlement and I was deliberately tripped many times and fell to the ground. I was taken to a room and the commander came and screamed in my ears to scare me. I was still tied and blindfolded. When I told him the handcuffs were painful he replaced the metal handcuffs with a plastic tie and tightened them even more. I was in pain. He swore at me and when I swore back he slapped me hard on the face.

7. Later I was taken outside and made to sit on the side of a road with cars driving by. I was terrified because I was not sure the drivers could see me so I sat very still. People in the cars made fun of me as they drove by and said things in Hebrew which I did not understand. Then I was taken back to a room where I sat on a chair.
8. Later I was put in a police car which drove around for about two hours. I think it drove from one settlement to another. Eventually I was taken to the settlement of Beit El. I asked to use the toilet and the soldier allowed me and when I asked him to remove the tie he removed it.
9. At around 6:30 p.m. I was driven to the entrance of the settlement and handed over to the Palestinian police who took me to the police station in Ramallah. The Palestinian police then took a testimony from me. Then my uncle picked me up and took me home. My mother was very happy to see me and told me how worried she was.

I, M.I.A.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at a local store when I saw a patrol of Israeli soldiers on the street and I started to film them on my mobile phone. It was around 5:00 p.m. Then, without any notice, the soldiers came over and accused me of throwing stones at them. I was terrified and before I knew it I was thrown into the back of a jeep.
2. Once inside the jeep the soldiers started to shout at me and ask me why I threw stones at them. They drove towards the gate at the entrance to the village where they blindfolded me. A soldier inspected my hands for traces of petrol and dirt. Then they drove around town and then went back to the entrance where my father was waiting. He had a jacket for me and pleaded with the soldiers to allow me to put it on because it was cold. They finally agreed.
3. Shortly afterwards lots of people gathered, mostly my family. They tried to convince the soldiers to release me. I was inside the jeep at the entrance to the village for about two hours. Inside the jeep a soldier took lots of photos of me. He raised his voice at me and took my mobile phone.
4. After about two hours the jeep drove out of town to a place I did not recognise, it may have been a nearby settlement. There I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and put it back on when he was finished. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. There were two interrogators in the room. One of them spoke good Arabic. He removed the blindfold and asked me whether I wanted to go home. He did not inform me of my rights. When I told him I wanted to go home he told me I had to give him the names of the boys in the photos he showed me before he could send me home. I told him I did not know the boys.
6. One interrogator left the room many times and took his time questioning me. The whole process took about two hours. During this time the interrogator banged the table and accused me of telling lies, but I did not confess. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to write my name. I wrote my name on the document without realising that writing my name is considered a signature.
7. Then I was re-blindfolded and taken back to the jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me back to the entrance to my village. The soldiers dropped me off and told me to go home. It was around 1:30 a.m., on 8 May 2018, and I was scared. It was very dark and nobody was on the streets. I walked home by myself.

8. My mother was awake worrying about me; she told me she could not fall asleep but she was very happy to see me back at home. I slept until 2:00 p.m. as I was very tired. I missed my science exam which I was supposed to take on that day and I have to arrange with my teacher to reschedule it.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.K.I.R. of Bil'in, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. It was the fasting month of Ramadan and I went to the nearby shop to buy some food at around 2:30 a.m. Shortly afterwards an Israeli military jeep approached me and my father stepped out of the jeep and told me soldiers had come to the house looking for me and forced him to accompany them to look for me.
2. The soldiers took me to the back of the jeep with my father and made me sit on the metal floor. They also wanted my father to sit on the floor but he refused and told them he had back ache. The jeep drove a short distance to a nearby military base where they let my father off and told him to walk home. They gave him a document written in Hebrew which he did not understand. He walked home in the dark for about two kilometers.
3. The jeep continued driving to the police station in Binyamin settlement. On the way a soldier blindfolded and handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful. He also shackled my feet. The soldiers then beat me on the back with their guns and swore at me. They called me a "son of a whore" and "brother of a whore".
4. I arrived at Binyamin at around 4:00 a.m. and was taken to a room where I sat on a wooden table until around 9:00 a.m. when I was taken for interrogation. I did not sleep at all.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the handcuffs but kept the leg shackles on. He was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He asked me some general questions: my name and my age. He did not inform me of my rights.
6. The interrogator showed me some photographs during a protest in the village and accused me of taking part and throwing stones. When I denied that I was at the protest he banged the table and smashed two glass cups on the floor. I was shocked because I did not expect it.
7. He repeated the accusation and told me I was seen in the photos with a sling shot. Still I denied the accusation. Then he showed me another photograph which he claimed was very clear. He told me this would incriminate me in court and I would spend a long time in prison but if I confessed the court might decide to release me. I believed him and confessed to throwing stones during the protest on 8 December 2017, after Trump declared Jerusalem the capital of Israel and decided to move the American Embassy to Jerusalem. I was interrogated for about two hours.

8. After I confessed he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent but I told him I had already confessed. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I asked him to tell me what was written in them he refused and told me I had to sign and I did.
9. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. I was then taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem where I was strip searched and then taken to Section 13. By then it was 2:00 p.m. I did not eat because I was fasting.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and uncle were there and the military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had four hearings. At the last hearing the military judge decided to release me on bail. My family provided medical reports and I think this was the basis for granting me release on bail. The hearings were in Hebrew and I did not understand anything.
11. My parents had to pay NIS 5,000 bail and I was released on 19 June 2018. My next hearing is on 2 July 2018, and the judge told me if I don't show up the soldiers would arrest me again.

Name: M.M.M.Z.
Age: 17
Date: 6 June 2018
Location: Beit Ummar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.M.M.Z. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I ran away from home when I heard that Israeli soldiers were in our neighbourhood. It was at around 4:00 a.m. Shortly after I fled they raided our house and when my father told the commander I was not home the commander phoned me.
2. The commander asked me where I was and I told him I was at work. He told me if I did not turn myself in immediately he was going to arrest my father and mother. I was scared and worried that he might indeed arrest my parents so I went back home at around 6:00 a.m. The soldiers were still there. I said goodbye to my family and left. The commander gave my father a document and asked him to sign it and he did.
3. Outside our house the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a spare tyre on a box. Inside the jeep soldiers verbally abused me and called my mother and sisters "whores". They also beat me on my back and head using their boots and the back of their guns.
4. Then the jeep stopped and I was taken out and the commander came and asked me for my name and my father's name. When the commander left the soldiers were more abusive, they beat me harder and swore at me again. The jeep then drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. The soldiers slapped and beat me the whole way.
5. At Etzion I was taken to a room where I stayed until around 4:00 p.m. without any food or water. They removed the tie and the blindfold and allowed me to use the toilet. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched. Then I was taken for questioning.
6. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but if I did it would imply guilt. Then he told me he was going to call my parents and a lawyer. He called my father and allowed me to speak to him. I told my father I was fine and that I was at Ofer. A few seconds into the conversation the interrogator took the telephone away and spoke to my father himself. He told him I had a court hearing the following day. Then he called a lawyer and appointed him to defend me. I did not speak to a lawyer.
7. The interrogator then told me he did not bring me in for an interrogation but rather to ask me some questions. He told me he had all the evidence against me already in my file. Then he asked me whether I threw a Molotov cocktail at soldiers and I told him I did not. Then he said “fine” and left the room. Then he came back and showed me a document in Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign it and I did because it was identical to what I had said.

8. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was taken back to Etzion where I was strip searched and left until around 8:00 p.m. Then I was taken back to Ofer where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend and the hearing was adjourned. I had five more hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one year in prison and fined NIS 5,000. I also received a suspended sentence of three years in prison suspended for five years. In the plea bargain I was charged with throwing a Molotov cocktail at settlers and at a military watchtower and at soldiers during clashes in the village. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor wanted to imprison me for 36 months.
10. I was released on 13 February 2019. The court decided to release me earlier because my brother was very sick. They imposed an additional fine of NIS 1,500 and told me I had to appear in court on the 17 March 2019.
11. In prison my parents only visited me 4 times because it took a long time for their permit to be issued. In prison I cooked for the other prisoners and I exercised a lot to keep fit.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.I.M.A. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I heard a knock at our front door at around 5:00 a.m. I was still in bed. I got up and looked through the peep hole and saw my father with a group of Israeli soldiers. I opened the door and five soldiers entered our home.
2. My father told me that the soldiers had picked him up as he walked home from the bakery where he works. He also told me not to worry and to be brave because the soldiers had come to arrest me. He told me he was going to get me out of prison as soon as possible. The soldiers did not tell us why they wanted to arrest me but they gave my father a document and asked him to sign it after they checked his identity card.
3. Outside our house the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then they walked me towards the cemetery. As soon as the commander left a soldier punched me in the chest five times, while my hands were tied to the back. Then they blindfolded me and took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
4. The jeep drove away and soldiers swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”. The jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I waited for about three hours. After three hours I was taken for interrogation.
5. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator removed the blindfold and threw a sling shot at me. Then he showed me a photograph of me standing not doing anything and accused me of throwing stones at passing vehicles on Route 60 using a sling shot. I denied the accusation. Then he asked me if I knew the names of the other boys seen in the photograph and I told him I did not. Then he wanted to take a picture of me with the sling shot but I did not allow him to do so. He did not inform me of any rights at this stage.
6. Then he offered me some food and cigarettes. When I told him I was fasting he offered me again and I felt humiliated. He was calm most of the time but kept pressuring me to confess. He claimed the photograph he showed me showed me holding a stone in my hand but this was not true. He told me if I confessed he was going to release me immediately. I did not believe him and I did not confess. The interrogation lasted for about two hours.
7. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but at the end of the interrogation he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and that he had already informed my parents where I was. He then told me he was going to call my parents again to see how they could get me released quickly. The interrogation ended and I was not given any documents to sign.

8. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell where the hand ties were removed. I waited in the cell for about 30 minutes and I was given some food. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
9. I arrived at Ofer at around 7:00 p.m. I was strip searched and then taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
10. I had about eight military court hearings and I did not understand anything because the hearings were conducted in Hebrew with inadequate translation. At the last hearing, which was on 15 July 2018, the military judge decided to release me on bail. My uncle paid NIS 3,000 and I was released on bail on the same day.
11. After my release I went back to court four times. On my last court appearance they decided to close my file and I think they were satisfied with the time I had already spent in prison. In addition I was served with a suspended sentence of six months suspended for two years. The court did not give us back the bail money. My parents did not visit me in prison; my mother had to take care of my infant brother and my father could not take time off work.

I, Z.M.H.R. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father opened the door and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. They asked to see our identity cards and when they read my name they gave my father a summons for me to go to the police station in Etzion settlement later that morning.
2. My father and I left the house at 7:30 a.m. At around 8:00 a.m. I was let into the police station but they did not allow my father to accompany me. I was immediately taken for interrogation.
3. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to worry. He also told me to remain silent.
4. Then the interrogator started to question me about throwing stones without informing me of my rights. He showed me some photographs but I denied I was involved. Then he asked me to say where I was and what I was doing between Sunday and Friday. I told him I was with my father most of the time who owns a taxi and that I was in Bethlehem. The interrogation lasted for about three hours but I was left waiting most of the time. They would take me out of the interrogation room and bring me back in. During this time I did not confess.
5. After the interrogation I was strip searched and then I was taken into a cell in Etzion where I waited for about two hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13.
6. The following day I was taken to the military court. My parents did not attend and the military judge decided to keep me in detention. I had three military court hearings. At the last hearing I was fined NIS 1,500 and was also served with a suspended sentence of six months valid for three years.
7. After the court I was taken back to prison and later that day I was released. I did not sign any documents but they took my fingerprints. I was released on 8 July 2018, and I went home with my father.

Age: 16
Date: 15 July 2018
Location: Deir Nidham, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.A.F.T. of Deir Nidham, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A week before I was arrested the military commander of the area phoned me and told me he wanted to have "a chat" and urged me to turn myself in. He threatened that if I did not oblige he would find other ways to get me. I told him I was not going to oblige.
2. On the 15 July 2018, I was asleep on a mattress on the floor when an Israeli soldier woke me up by kicking me in the side. It was around 3:00 a.m. I got up and saw lots of soldiers in our house. I found out later that they went to my uncle's house first and then told him to accompany them to our house.
3. I asked the soldier who kicked me what he wanted and he told me to get up and put some clothes on because I was under arrest. My mother tried to reason with the soldier and told him I was not involved in anything wrong. I felt sorry for my mother who was stressed and I told her not to worry about me. Then the soldiers searched the house but did not cause any damage.
4. The soldiers then took me outside without giving my parents any documents. They walked me towards a nearby field where I was blindfolded and tied with my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and one connecting the two. The ties were not painful.
5. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the nearby military base and on the way a soldier pushed me off the seat on to the floor and swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
6. At the base I was taken to a room and the military commander for the area came in and told me the fact that I was there is proof that they can find me if they want to. He left and two soldiers entered the room and kicked and beat me using their weapons all over my body. They swore at me and called me "a son of a whore" and then they left.
7. Shortly afterwards I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I waited in a room from around 5:00 a.m. until around 3:00 p.m. During this time I was allowed to use the toilet and I was given some food and drink. At around 3:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
8. I was interrogated by a female Israeli policewoman who questioned me through an interpreter. She had a voice recorder on the desk and was typing on a computer. She asked me whether I had a lawyer. I gave her the name of a lawyer and she allowed me to speak to her on the phone. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent during interrogation and not say anything.

9. After I spoke to my lawyer the interrogator began without informing me of my other rights. The interrogator told me there was video evidence showing me throwing stones at a security camera outside the nearby settlement. She claimed my objective was to break the camera so that I could enter the settlement undetected and conduct an attack. I smiled because it was such a ridiculous allegation.
10. A policeman who was also in the room phoned my father and told him I was in their custody. Then the interrogator told me half of those arrested by the authorities end up confessing and the authorities have respect for those who confess. She also told me it was unethical to tell lies.
11. Then she asked me whether I was the person seen in the video throwing stones at the security camera and I told her it was not me. When she heard my answer she accused me of lying. I told her I was not going to confess and she responded by telling me she was going to let dogs attack me. She also threatened to send me for interrogation by an intelligence officer at Al Mascobiye where I would be forced to confess.
12. I was interrogated for about an hour and I did not confess. I also refused to sign documents they handed me that were written in Hebrew. I told the interrogator I was not going to sign any documents until and unless a lawyer or my father are present. At around 5:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being put in Section 13.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. I did not enter the court room but was left waiting from around 7:00 a.m. until around 7:00 p.m. Then I was taken back to prison. The following day one of the senior prisoners called my name and told me I was going to be released. I was very happy.

Name: A.R.N.B.
Date: 16 July 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.R.N.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I had my headphones on in bed and was listening to music when I heard a commotion inside our home. It was around 3:00 a.m. I went downstairs to the living room to see what was going on and found about 15 Israeli soldiers already inside our house.
2. There was a female soldier present and she verbally abused my mother and told her she did not know how to raise children. Then the commander told my father he wanted to arrest me. He did not give a reason for my arrest and I do not know whether he gave my father any documents. The soldiers remained in the house for about 15 minutes and I was taken outside.
3. Once outside the soldiers led me along a dirt road up on the hill near the camp. Half way along a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties which were tight and painful and my hands turned blue. A military jeep was waiting at the top of the hill. When I got to the jeep a soldier blindfolded me and made me sit on the metal floor of the vehicle. I sat between the soldiers legs and the soldiers beat me with the back of their guns on my head and shoulders. They also slapped me and swore at me calling me “a son of a whore”. A soldier called me a “fucking idiot” and wanted to know why I threw stones at soldiers.
4. The jeep drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was examined by a doctor. I told the doctor I was beaten by soldiers but he did not speak any Arabic and did not understand what I was talking about. He gave me a document to sign which said I was not hurt but I refused to sign it. Then I was taken outside where I was left until around 6:00 a.m. and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold but kept the ties on. He turned on a voice recorder on his phone and then phoned a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to be scared and informed me of my right to silence. The interrogator listened to the conversation which lasted for less than a minute and he kept urging me to finish and hang up because he was in a hurry. The interrogator then told me he knew exactly what the lawyer had told me and then he told me he wanted me to confess to one thing only. He said he wanted me to confess to throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers.
6. The interrogator then he told me he had a confession from another boy that I had thrown a Molotov cocktail and told me he did not want to mention the boy’s name. I told him I was not involved in such things and all I cared about was my family and their well-being. He accused me of lying and slapped me on the face. I challenged him and asked him what evidence he had against me and he told me the evidence would be presented in the military court.

7. The interrogation lasted for a long time, maybe three or four hours. During this time the interrogator left the room and asked me whether I wanted any cigarettes or coffee. I think he wanted to make me feel comfortable in order to extract a confession from me. Then he told me he was going to send me home if I confessed but I did not believe him and I did not confess.
8. At the end of the interrogation he gave me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign anything I did not understand. Then he showed me an Arabic translation saying I was not physically assaulted and I refused to sign because he slapped me during the interrogation.
9. Then I was taken to a cell at Etzion where I was strip searched. I was given some food and I spent about two hours there before I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer prison I was strip searched again and asked to crouch up and down before I was taken to section 13.
10. The following day I was taken for another interrogation by an intelligence officer at Ofer. The intelligence officer told me he knew I had not confessed but told me I was a wise person and had to confess to him. When I told him I had nothing to confess to he urged me again to confess and threatened to use a different method with me if I did not. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer.
11. He questioned me for about two hours and the whole time he was urging me to confess. He thumped the table a couple of times and shoved things off his table on the floor. He also grabbed me by the neck and shouted at me saying I had to confess or else he was going to choke me. I was terrified but I did not confess. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
12. Two days later I was taken for another interrogation. This one did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and wanted me to confess. When I refused to confess he told me he knew my father had a work permit to work inside Israel and if I wanted my father to earn a living I had to confess. When I heard this I was scared and told the interrogator I threw a stone at soldiers.
13. In all I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 3,500. I was also given a 10-month suspended sentence suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told the sentence would be higher if I did not.
14. I was released on 1 November 2018, and I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m. In prison I did some art work and I attended some classes. My parents visited me in prison. The prison authorities wanted to transfer me to Megiddo prison, in Israel just a few days before my release but I refused to go.

Location: Azzun, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Protesting

I, A.N.H.R. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 1:30 a.m. I heard loud banging at our front door. Shortly afterwards about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. One of them spoke in Hebrew to my father but I did not understand what he said. Then he called me over but did not say why.
2. The soldiers remained in our house for about 30 minutes then took me outside. I don't know whether they gave my father any documents. They led me for about 10 meters and then tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie. The tie was very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for weeks. They walked me towards the military gate at the entrance to our village where they blindfolded me.
3. Once we arrived at the gate they took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. The jeep then drove to the settlement of Karni Shomron. At the settlement I was taken to a shipping container and a doctor examined me. I was left inside the shipping container until around 6:00 a.m. I was on a chair, tied and blindfolded and I could not sleep.
4. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to Qedumim settlement where I was left at the gate by the entrance. At around noon I was taken inside for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold. He was in civilian clothes. He told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to talk about anything I did not do and advised me not to confess. The interrogator put the telephone on speaker phone and listened to the conversation which lasted for a very short time, maybe a minute or so.
6. Then he started to question me. He showed me video footage of clashes on his computer screen and asked me whether I took part. Then he showed me pictures of the same incident and told me I took part but I denied it. He immediately lost his temper and started to shout at me. He accused me of lying and told me I had to confess. He questioned me for about an hour and 15 minutes. I did not confess.
7. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign about I refused to sign a document in Hebrew. When he translated it for me and I read that I had been informed of my rights and I refused to confess, I signed.

8. Then I was taken to another room and a person who did not introduce himself told me he was not an interrogator but wanted to ask me some questions. He pulled out photographs of boys and young men and wanted me to give their names. This person did not inform me of my rights. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then turned his computer screen towards me and showed me a satellite images of our house and my place of work.
9. Then my father phoned the second interrogator and he told me to leave the room. My father was waiting outside the room. I thought I was going to be sent home with my father but then the interrogator came and told me and my father I had a court hearing the following day. Then he told my father to go home.
10. I was then re-tied and blindfolded and in the afternoon I was taken to Huwwara military base. I was searched in my underwear and then taken to a room where they removed the tie and the blindfold. I was left in this room for about four hours. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was searched again in my underwear before being taken to the juvenile section.
11. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend the hearing and the military judge refused to release me on bail. The hearing was adjourned.
12. I had about six or seven military court hearings where not much happened other than adjournments. On 13 November 2018, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 12 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 18 months valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told the sentence would be 22 months in prison instead of 18 months if I did not.
13. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo but I was granted early release on condition that I visit a rehabilitation centre in Al-Ram once a month. My parents visited me 6 times in prison and I was released on 20 March 2019.
14. In prison I attended classes and exercised a lot. I dropped out of school and I have no intention of going back, I find it hard. I haven't bothered with the rehabilitation centre because it is far away from where I live and I am suspicious of their intentions. Somebody from their office contacted me and told me they were going to inform the prison authorities that I did not visit them and told me they would arrest me again.

I, K.O.L.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was still awake when I heard a commotion around our house. It was around 1:00 a.m. Then I heard loud banging at our front door. When my father opened the door about 30 Israeli soldiers entered our home.
2. The soldiers gathered all of us in the living room and then one soldier asked me to show him where my wardrobe was. He had photographs with him and searched my wardrobe but he did not find what he was looking for. Then he told me I was under arrest. The soldiers then took me outside without giving my parents any documents.
3. Downstairs they tied my hands behind my back with four plastic ties on top of each other. The ties caused me a lot of pain because my arm was broken and in plaster. They also blindfolded me. I was then thrown on the floor of a military jeep.
4. The jeep drove to the settlement of Qedumim and I was taken to a shipping container. I was left there on a chair for about eight hours, maybe more, and I could not sleep. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. I did not understand what he meant by remaining silent.
6. Then he showed me video footage of clashes with soldiers and photographs. He accused me of taking part in the clashes but I denied it. He became angry at me when I denied it and he thumped the table aggressively. He made a scary noise like an animal and then asked me if I wanted a lawyer. I was very suspicious of his offer to call a lawyer and I told him I did not want to speak to a lawyer. He interrogated me for about 2 hours. Then he called my mother and I spoke to her and told her not to worry about me.
7. The interrogator repeated the same accusation and wanted me to confess but I continued to deny it. Then he wanted me to give him names of the boys seen in the footage but I did not give any names.
8. In the end the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I signed without understanding anything. Then I was interrogated for a short time by two other interrogators who did not inform me of my rights. They showed me the same footage and accused me of taking part in clashes.

9. At around 1:00 p.m. I was taken to Salem military court. My parents were not there and the hearing was adjourned. After the court I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and then taken to the juvenile section.
10. About a week later I was taken to the hospital and a doctor examined my arm. I was taken back to prison on the same day.
11. I had about 10 military court hearings and in the end I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 18 months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because it was much better than the 19 months in prison which the prosecutor had originally requested. In the plea bargain I confessed to throwing five stones which missed.
12. In prison I lifted weights and studied Arabic and Mathematics. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 6 February 2019. I arrived home at around 8:30 p.m.

1. I heard there were clashes taking place with Israeli soldiers near the Wall by our camp and so I went to see what was going on. It was around 4:00 p.m.
2. When I arrived near the Wall I saw boys throwing stones at the soldiers. Suddenly two soldiers grabbed me and started to beat me on my legs with their batons. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. Two soldiers then walked me towards the military watchtower at Rachel's Tomb.
3. At around 9:00 p.m. my father came to the watchtower and the two of us were taken to Atarot police station. My father sat on a seat in the back of the jeep and I sat on the metal floor. At Atarot I was immediately taken for interrogation. My father was not allowed to accompany me into the interrogation room.
4. The interrogator removed the tie and blindfold and immediately started to interrogate me without informing me of my rights. He asked me what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. Then he asked me how many pipe bombs I had thrown at the soldiers and I told him I did not throw any pipe bombs. Then he asked me whether I hid any pipe bombs at home and I told him I did not. Then he asked me whether I had any Palestinian flags and I told him I did not. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.

I, M.A.M.M. of Askar refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. On the afternoon of 10 August 2018, I went for a walk with my friends on a hill near the settlement of Elon Moreh. Shortly afterwards a group of Israeli soldiers in military jeeps, and some settlers in civilian cars, drove towards us. When they came close the occupants of the vehicles got out and chased us.
2. We all ran away but the soldiers started to fire live bullets in our direction. I was terrified as I heard the bullets hissing by my head. I thought I was going to be killed. I quickly stopped and immediately lay on the ground with my face down and my hands behind my back. The soldiers were swearing at me, cursing my religion and calling me “a son of a whore”.
3. Then one of the soldiers searched me, took my telephone and a pack of cigarettes and then tied my hands behind my back with one plastic ties which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for weeks. Then I was led towards a military jeep and a soldier got out and slapped me hard in the face. He then tore a piece of cloth and blindfolded me and tightened it very hard. I remained blindfolded for a long time and it was very uncomfortable.
4. Then I was taken inside the settlement where I sat on a chair in a shipping container for about 30 minutes. After 30 minutes I was taken to the back of a jeep where I was thrown on the metal floor on top of the other boys who were arrested with me. We were five boys and we were all taken to a clinic where I was examined.
5. The doctor removed my blindfold but kept my ties on. He took my blood pressure and asked me some questions about my health. Then I was re-blindfolded and taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. I arrived there at around 6:00 p.m.
6. At Ariel I was left in a room until around 2:00 a.m. During this time soldiers separated me from the other boys and they asked each of us to stand in a corner and did not allow us to sit down. I leaned against the wall and almost fell asleep, I was exhausted. At around 1:00 a.m. a soldier asked me for my father’s phone number and he called him and told him where I was. I was given a cheese sandwich and some water. At around 2:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator was female who wore a black uniform and spoke through an interpreter. She asked me if I wanted a lawyer and I told her there was no need for one. Then she told me I had the right to remain silent. Then she wanted to know what I was doing in the area near the settlement. I told her I was going for a walk with my friends. Then she wanted to know who started a fire near the settlement. I told her I did not know. I denied I was involved in the fire.

8. The interrogator never looked me in the eye. She addressed the interpreter the whole time. She wanted me to give her the names of the other boys who were with me but I did not give her any names. She questioned me for about 30 minutes and in the end she showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
9. After the interrogation was over I was re-blindfolded and taken to a room where I waited until the other boys were interrogated. At around 5:00 a.m. I was taken to Huwwara military base. By this time I was exhausted from lack of sleep.
10. At Huwwara I was left outside, mostly in the sun, from around 6:00 a.m. until around 2:00 p.m. I asked a soldier to loosen the tie but instead he tightened it even more. Then I was taken inside where a soldier wanted to strip searched me but I refused. He then searched me in my underwear and then I was taken into a cell.
11. I was in the cell with two of the other boys and we were left there for about 30 minutes. The tie and the blindfold were removed. We were given some food and then a prison guard told me I could wash my face and freshen up before I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. The trip took about two hours. On the way I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs. At Megiddo I was strip searched before being taken to the juvenile section.
12. The following day I had a court hearing at Salem military court where I saw a lawyer for the first time. My parents did not attend the hearing because they did not know it was scheduled. The lawyer asked me whether I had confessed and I told him I had not. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
13. In all I had about 10 military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me that under the charge sheet I was given I could receive a sentence of up to one year in prison, so I was happy when I was given nine months.
14. I was released on the 15 April 2019. My parents were still on their way to Al Jalama when I was released so I waited a short while and then I went home with them. I arrived home at night. My relatives and friends were waiting for me and I was very happy to be back at home.
15. In prison I studied Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics and my parents visited me twice a month. I don't want to go back to school but I want to look for a job instead.

I, H.M.M.M. of Askar refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 3:00 p.m. I was with some friends in fields by a nearby Israeli settlement. A fire started in the area and an Israeli military jeep arrived on the scene. My friends and I ran away and the soldiers chased us and started to shoot live bullets in our direction.
2. I was terrified especially when one of my friends fell to the ground and I thought he was shot. I stopped and lay on the ground as the soldiers ordered. I was soon surrounded by soldiers. One of them beat me in my back with his gun. He also swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”.
3. Then a soldier tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. My wrists swelled and the tie left marks for weeks. They took my telephone out of my pocket and then blindfolded me. I was then led towards the settlement.
4. Inside the settlement they made me sit on the ground. A soldier handed me a phone and the person on the other end of the line told me he was the commander and asked me for my name and where I was from.
5. Shortly afterwards I was put in the back of a military jeep and made to sit on the metal floor. First, I was taken to a military base, I think Huwwara, where I was examined by a doctor. Then I was driven to the police station in Ariel settlement.
6. On arrival at Ariel I was taken to a room. My blindfold was removed and someone turned the air conditioner on very cold. I was not given any food or drink and the soldier made me stand in the corner and did not allow me to speak to anyone. I grew tired from standing but when I sat on the floor the soldier kicked me and told me to stand up. I was so tired that I fainted for a short time and could no longer stand on my feet. I fell to the ground and a soldier brought me some water and a piece of bread and they allowed me to lie down on the floor for about 10 minutes. I felt a little better. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. A female interrogator, in her thirties, interrogated me and she spoke to me via an interpreter. She started by informing me of my right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent. I did not speak to a lawyer. Then she checked my palms and smelled them. Then she accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail near the settlement which she thought caused the fire. She also wanted to know the names of my friends who were with me. I denied the accusation and did not give her any names. She was calm and questioned me for about 30 minutes.

8. Then she showed me a document in Hebrew and the interpreter translated it for me. She asked me to sign it and I did when I found it was identical to what I had said. Then they took my photograph and my fingerprints and took me outside where I waited for a long time. They made me kneel and I was in pain. Soldiers who were around made fun of me, tuned my face this way and that way and swore at me.
9. I was left outside until around 8:00 a.m. By that time my legs were swollen. Then I was taken back to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell where I remained for about eight hours. Later I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched before being taken to the juvenile section.
10. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not know that I was in court so did not attend. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
11. In all I had about 10 military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for three years. I consulted with my parents and they advised me to accept the plea bargain.
12. I spent my prison sentence in Megiddo prison. My mother visited me twice a month. In prison I exercised and attended classes: Arabic, mathematics and Hebrew. I missed a lot of school but I intend to go back; I want to sit for the final high school exam.
13. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 15 April 2019, and I went home with my parents.

Age: 16
Date: 10 August 2018
Location: Al E'in, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, B.A.R.Q. of AL E'in, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends on a hill near an Israeli settlement at around 3:30 p.m. when a group of Israeli soldiers and settlers started to chase us. When we ran away the soldiers started to shoot live bullets in our direction and I was terrified. I immediately threw myself to the ground and a group of soldiers and settlers attacked me.
2. A soldier sat on my back and stuck his gun in my back and searched me. Then he tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. They were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a month. A soldier slapped me and swore at me and called my mother and sisters “whores”. They made me kneel on the ground for about an hour and I was in pain.
3. At one point a soldier put a phone to my ear and the person on the line said he was the commander. He asked me for my name and my father’s name. At the time I was surrounded by settlers who were swearing at me.
4. Later I was blindfolded and taken to a shipping container inside the settlement. Inside the container soldiers made fun of me and the other boys and slapped me every now and then. They shot plastic pellets at me from a toy gun which hurt. They aimed at my face and the pellets stung. This went on for about an hour.
5. Later I was taken in a military jeep to Ariel settlement. Inside the jeep I sat on a seat. A doctor removed the blindfold and tied my hands to the front and examined me. The tie was more painful than the first one. Then I was taken outside where I sat in the burning sun for about an hour.
6. Then I was taken to a room and a soldier asked me whether I wanted a private lawyer or a NGO lawyer. I told him I wanted a NGO lawyer. I remained in that room for about half a day without food. They gave me a hard time when I asked to use the toilet. I slept on the floor for about three hours. A soldier blindfolded me while I was asleep on the floor. Then he made me stand up until the early hours of the morning. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the blindfold. She did not inform me of my rights and spoke via an interpreter. She wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. She spoke to me in an angry tone of voice. I was very sleepy and tired and did not understand the translation. She accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail towards the settlement and told me two other boys who were with me confessed against me. The interrogation lasted for a short time because I confessed early on; I was too tired to let it drag on and I was desperate to sleep.

8. The interrogator left the room and came back five minutes later with some documents written in Hebrew. She asked me to sign and I did without understanding anything. She told me to sign first and the translator would later explain to me what I had signed on.
9. Then I was taken outside where they took a photograph and my fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts and taken to a cell where they removed the tie and the blindfold. I spent half a day there and they brought me some disgusting food: meat, which was not properly cooked and dried bread.
10. Then the commander told me he was going to send me to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, and that he did not want any trouble from me. At Megiddo I was strip searched and taken to the juvenile section.
11. Two days later I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend because they were not informed about the hearing and the case was adjourned. In court I saw a lawyer for the first time since my arrest.
12. I had seven military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 29 October 2018, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because if I had rejected it I was told I would spend 20 months in prison.
13. I spent the whole time at Megiddo and my parents visited me about 13 times. I attended Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematic classes. I was released on 15 April 2019, at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my family. It was a tough experience. Now I want to become a house painter and make some money.

I, M.N.M.S. of Al E'in, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends on the hills near the settlement by our village. It was around 2:30 p.m. A group of Israeli soldiers and settlers started to chase us when a fire started nearby. I ran away but the soldiers started to shoot live bullets in my direction and I was terrified. I felt the bullets zooming right by my ear.
2. One of my friends fell to the ground and I fell too and the soldiers grabbed me. One of them stuck the back of his gun in my back and hurt me. Then he tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties. They caused me a lot of pain and left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then the soldiers led me and on the way they blindfolded me.
3. As we walked the soldiers swore at me and said very bad things about my mother and sisters. Then a commander spoke to me on one of the soldiers' mobile phone and asked me for my name and wanted to know what I was doing near the settlement.
4. The soldiers took me to the nearby settlement and put me in a shipping container. I was left there for about an hour with my friends who were arrested with me. A soldier fired plastic pellets from a toy gun at me and hurt me a lot. I was still blindfolded. Then a soldier kicked me and I was shocked because I was blindfolded and did not expect it.
5. Later I was taken to a military jeep where I sat on a seat in the back. The jeep took me to the settlement of Ariel where I had a medical examination. A soldier then asked me if I wanted a lawyer and I told him I did but I never spoke to a lawyer. Then I managed to sleep for about three hours. After about three hours I was taken for interrogation. I did not know what time it was.
6. The interrogator was female. She removed the blindfold and started to shout at me in Hebrew. A soldier was translating for me but I did not understand a word. Then she told me the boys who were arrested with me confessed against me that I had planned to commit a murderous act. I denied the accusation. Then she wanted to know who threw the Molotov cocktail. She did not inform me of my rights and questioned me for about five minutes. In the end I confessed to taking part in throwing a Molotov cocktail. I confessed because she was shouting and because my friends had already confessed. I also confessed to throwing stones five years ago.
7. Then she showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did without understanding what was written in them. When I asked the interpreter to translate for me he told me to first sign and then he would translate but he never did. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base near Nablus. I was left at the front gate for about one-and-a-half hours and then I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell. I was left there for about half a day and then taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and taken to the juvenile section.
9. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents came to court but they were not allowed in. In court I saw my lawyer for the first time and the hearing was adjourned. I was taken back to prison.
10. I had eight hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one year in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant less time if prison.
11. In prison I exercised and lifted weights and I worked as a barber. My parents visited me a lot, maybe 15 times. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 19 March 2019, about four months early because the prison was overcrowded and because of good conduct. My family and friends were waiting for me at the checkpoint and I was very happy to see them. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

1. I was with some friends in the fields near the settlement when an Israeli military vehicle approached us together with a group of settlers. It was around 2:30 a.m. The soldiers got out of the vehicle and started to chase us. They shot live bullets at us and I could hear bullets buzzing close to my head. I was terrified and tripped and fell to the ground. My friends continued to run but when I fell they thought I had been shot and came back to check on me.
2. As soon as I fell soldiers grabbed me and tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was not painful. Then they blindfolded me and led me towards the settlement. I was taken to a shipping container where the air conditioner was freezing cold.
3. I spent about two hours in the shipping container and I was very cold. Then I was taken to a clinic where I was examined by a doctor. Then I was taken to Ariel settlement. I was thrown on the floor of a vehicle and my head hit the metal floor each time the vehicle hit a bump.
4. At Ariel I was taken to a room where I was forced to stand up all night. Soldiers brought some food but I did not eat. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation. Somebody at the police station asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer but I said no.
5. The interrogator spoke to me via an interpreter. She first told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. She made me sign a document about being informed of my rights. Then she accused me of throwing Molotov cocktail at the settlement. When she told me my friends had confessed against me I felt I had no chance and I confessed to possessing a Molotov cocktail. The interrogation lasted for about 10 minutes.
6. Then she showed me a document in Hebrew and the interpreter translated it for me. She asked me to sign it and I did when I found out it was identical to what I had said.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base near Nablus where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell. I spent about two hours in the cell and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to a cell.

8. Two days later I was taken to Salem military court where I saw my brother and father. I also spoke to my lawyer for the first time. The military court denied me release on bail and I was taken back to prison.
9. I had eight military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 12 months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I felt it was a good deal. It offered me less time in prison than if I had rejected it. I also accepted it because I knew the prosecutor also accepted it and there would be no further appeal.
10. In prison I studied Arabic and mathematics and Hebrew. My parents visited me twice a month but only after three months into my imprisonment. I was granted early release and I was release at Al Jalama checkpoint on 17 January 2019. I arrived home with my family and friends at around 7:00 p.m.

I, M.A.S.N. of Askar refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends in the fields near an Israeli settlement not far from my home. It was around 3:30 p.m. I got too close to the settlement fence and an alarm went off. Shortly afterwards two Israeli military vehicles came towards us. Two of my friends were arrested but I managed to run away.
2. Later I went back to the site and I was ambushed by soldiers who were hiding in some bushes. My hands were tied behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and cut into my wrists and caused swelling. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers swore at me and called me “an asshole”. They also tied my feet with plastic ties and led me towards the settlement. I could not walk properly because of the ties and fell to the ground many times.
3. Inside the settlement I was taken to a shipping container. I was surrounded by soldiers and settlers who waved Israeli flags close to my face. One of them shouted at me and called me “a terrorist” and said he was going to kill all of us. I was left there from around 5:00 p.m. until around midnight.
4. At around midnight I was taken to Huwwara military base. I sat on the metal floor in the back of a military jeep and I was tied and shackled and blindfolded. At Huwwara I was examined by a doctor. Then I was taken outside where I waited in an open area until around 3:00 a.m. Then I was taken to Ariel settlement. I arrived there at around 4:00 a.m.
5. On arrival at Ariel a soldier removed the ties and asked me to stand on one leg and I remained in that position until around 7:00 a.m. He also made me lift my hands above my head. They also put the air conditioner on very cold and I was very uncomfortable. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator handed me a document in Arabic and Hebrew saying I could consult with a lawyer and I had the right to remain silent. It also said remaining silent could be used against me. I told the interrogator I did not need a lawyer because I had not done anything wrong. I told him I wanted to defend myself.
7. Then, in a raised tone of voice, he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and told me I had to confess immediately. Then he wanted to know what I was doing in the area near the settlement and who else was with me. Then he told me he had photographic evidence and fingerprints. I knew he was not telling the truth and I denied the accusation.

8. I was interrogated for about an hour. In the end he told me my friends were caught with Molotov cocktails and because I was with them I was accused of the same thing. He gave me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign but I refused to sign anything in a language I did not understand. But then he told me he knew exactly where I lived and my friends had confessed against me and I was intimidated and decided to sign because I did not want to cause problems.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I waited outside in the sun from around 9:00 a.m. until around 3:00 p.m. Then I was strip searched and taken to a cell. I was given some dry pasta and bread. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was strip searched again before being taken to the juvenile section.
10. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend and the hearing was adjourned. I had about eight military court hearings.
11. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of 18 months in prison valid for three years. My lawyer told me if I rejected the plea bargain I would spend 18 months in prison, so I accepted it.
12. My parents visited me three months after my arrest because the permit took a long time to be issued. They visited me five times only. In prison I studied Arabic and Mathematics and Hebrew. I also cooked for the other prisoners and became a very good cook.
13. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 14 January 2019. No one was waiting for me and then finally my brother showed up. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.

I, O.M.A.T. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. when I heard loud banging at our front door. My father answered the door and about 20 Israeli soldiers entered our home. They gathered all of us, eight people in all, in one room. Then the commander handed me a summons and took a picture of me holding it. The summons was in Arabic and said I had to show up at the police station in Etzion settlement at 8:00 a.m.
2. Later that morning, at around 7:30 a.m., my uncle and I were outside the police station as directed in the summons. We waited outside for about two hours and then I was blindfolded and taken for interrogation without my uncle.
3. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator removed the blindfold and tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were not painful. The interrogator had a voice recorder but he did not inform me of my rights and told me he had a confession against me by another boy that I was involved in throwing stones. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me photographic images of clashes and accused me of taking part but I denied it.
4. Half way through the interrogation I asked to see a lawyer. The interrogator called a lawyer but the lawyer did not pick up the telephone. He called another lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and that my first military court hearing would be the following day. Neither the lawyer nor the interrogator said anything about my right to silence.
5. The interrogator was calm and questioned me for about an hour and I denied the accusation. My answers were short and I told him I did not know. He tried to get the names of the boys in the photographs from me but I refused to give any names. He did not show me any documents and did not ask me to sign anything.
6. After the interrogation he took my fingerprints and my photograph and then I was taken to a prison cell where I was strip searched and a soldier removed the hand ties. I was given some potatoes and bread and I managed to sleep for about five hours. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13.

7. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had about eight military court hearings.
8. At my last military court hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 2.5 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for five years. I accepted a plea bargain because I was sentenced one day before I would be released under the deal. I was told that if I did not accept the plea bargain I would have had to remain in prison much longer.
9. My parents visited me only once because it took a long time for their permit to be issued. I spent my time at Ofer where I played table tennis. I was released on the 26 October 2018, and I went home with my brother. It was a cold and rainy evening and I went to bed early.

I, R.T.I.R. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 2:00 a.m. I received a message on my smart phone that the Israeli military was active in our village. I got out of bed, looked out the window and saw about nine soldiers heading towards my uncle's house. Shortly afterwards I heard my uncle call my name and then I saw the soldiers walking towards our house; my uncle was showing them the way.
2. My father opened the door but the soldiers did not enter. The commander handed me a summons written in Arabic and took a picture of me holding it. The summons said that I had to turn myself in at the police station in Etzion settlement at 8:00 a.m. the same day. The soldiers then left the neighbourhood but I could not sleep.
3. At 8:00 a.m. my father and I were outside the Etzion police station. My uncle also accompanied us. We waited about 30 minutes and then I was taken inside without my father or uncle. Inside the police station they took my fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was taken to a small room and they turned the light off for about 15 minutes. Then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He did not inform me of my rights. He extended his hand to me and told me I had to confess if I wanted to go home. He told me he sympathised with me because he had a boy my age and told me I should be at home not in prison. Then he tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were painful.
5. The interrogator then told me I had not learned my lesson from my previous arrest and he accused me of throwing stones. He told me there were confessions against me by other children from the village. He also told me there was photographic evidence against me and showed me some photographs. I denied the accusation.
6. After I denied the accusation the interrogator lost his temper and started to shout at me saying boys from the village don't ever learn the lesson, not even when one of them is killed. He named a young man from our village who was killed by soldiers and then swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". Each time I denied the accusation he called me "a son of a whore".
7. Half way through the interrogation he blindfolded me and told me I did not deserve to see. He told me I had five minutes to confess and if I did not he was going to bring my father in. Still I did not confess

8. More than half way through the questioning the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and that I would have a military court hearing the following day. He also told me to keep my morale high and not to tell the interrogator anything.
9. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and the whole time the interrogator tried to get a confession from me but I did not confess. Then I was taken to see another interrogator.
10. The second interrogator informed me of my rights at the very beginning. He had a voice recorder which he turned on. He tried to extract confessions from me against other boys but I refused to confess against anyone. The interrogator then showed me documents in Hebrew and wanted me to sign. When I refused he lost his temper, pulled my thumb and forced me to sign with my thumb print.
11. The second session lasted a short time and then I was taken outside where I sat on the ground in the hot sun from around 11:00 a.m. until around 4:00 p.m. I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet once. Then I was examined by a doctor and taken to a cell at Etzion. I was still tied and blindfolded.
12. Inside the cell the ties and blindfold were removed and I was searched in my underwear and told to crouch up and down. I was left in the cell for about five hours. I managed to sleep for two out of the five hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13. I ate and went to bed.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My father was in court and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had around seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was told my father had to pay NIS 1,500 bail although there was no evidence against me. They also wanted my father to bring two guarantors. My father refused to pay the bail and refused to bring guarantors and argued in court there was no evidence against me and I had to be released unconditionally. The court refused to release me and I spent six weeks in prison.
14. I was finally released on the 30 September 2018, and I was told I had another hearing on the 22 October 2018. I went back to the military court on the specified date as requested but they refused to allow me in; they told me my name was not on the list. I have not heard anything from them since then.

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. when I heard Israeli soldiers raiding our neighbour's home. Shortly afterwards soldiers came to our house and gave me a summons to go to the police station in Etzion settlement at 7:30 a.m. to meet the intelligence officer. The commander scribbled the summons on a piece of paper.
2. Later that morning my father and I went to the police station as ordered. We were there at around 8:00 a.m. Someone took the summons, which was written in Arabic, and took me inside. My father was told I would be sent home soon so he should go home.
3. Once my father was gone my hands were tied to the front with two plastic ties which were not painful. Inside the police station I was also blindfolded. At around 11:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept my hands tied. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. As soon as I entered he told me he had photographic evidence of me throwing stones. He also told me there were confessions against me but did not tell me by whom. I denied everything. Then he showed me photographs and I told him they were photo shopped. At that point he lost his temper and told me if I confessed he was going to release me. He also told me if I did not confess he was going to send me to prison.
5. The interrogation lasted for about two hours. The interrogator went in and out and left me by myself part of the time. He opened a can of Coca Cola and asked whether I wanted him to make me a cappuccino. Half way through the interrogation the interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer advised me not to confess and told me I had the right to silence. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.
6. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell. They removed the ties and gave me some food. I remained in the cell for about six hours and I was able to sleep for about four hours. After about six hours I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again and taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court where I was denied bail.
7. In all I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 2.5 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 12 months suspended for five years. My lawyer advised me to plead guilty in a plea bargain and told me I would be released the following day. This was exactly what happened. I accepted the plea bargain on 25 October 2018, and I was released on 26 October 2018.

8. My brother was waiting for me outside Ofer prison and I went home with him. We arrived home around 6:00 p.m. My parents visited me only once because it took a long time for the permit to be issued.

I, O.I.A.R. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at work on a night shift when Israeli soldiers came to our house at 2:00 a.m. looking for me. When they did not find me the commander wrote on a piece of paper that I had to go to the police station at 8:00 a.m. that morning.
2. Later that morning my brother and I went to the police station in Etzion settlement as ordered. We were there at 8:30 a.m. After waiting for about one-and-a-half hours an Israeli policeman told my brother to go home and I was taken inside for interrogation.
3. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. As soon as I entered the room he told me he was going to send me to Ofer prison. Then he started to question me about the previous Friday and wanted to know where I was. I told him I was helping my brother at work in another village. He told me there were clashes in the village that Friday which I took part in. I denied the accusation. Then he told me another boy had confessed against me and wanted me to confess against that boy. I refused to confess. He did not inform me of any rights.
4. Half way through the interrogation the interrogator tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties which were tight and painful. Then he continued to question me about clashes in the village and insisted I had to confess on the boy who confessed on me. I told him I did not know the boy and had nothing to do with him and I never saw him. When I said so he tightened the ties even more and I was in pain. He became angry with me and threatened to take me to the soldiers who would "sort things out" with me. I told him I was going to report him to the judge but he laughed at me.
5. Then he took me to a smaller room, blindfolded me and told me I had 20 minutes to think. I was standing the whole time and I could feel that soldiers were passing in front of me to intimidate me. Then he took me to see another interrogator and the blindfold was removed.
6. The second interrogator had a voice recorder and was quick. He repeated the accusation and told me I had to confess but I refused. He told me another boy had confessed to him that I took part in the clashes with soldiers on Friday. I denied the accusation and told him I was at work with my brother. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer asked me whether I had confessed and I told him I had not. He told me to stick to my position. Then the interrogator gave me a document that said I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to silence. Then he urged me to quickly confess but I did not.

7. At the end of the interrogation he gave me a document in Hebrew and told me it was my statement and wanted me to sign it. I asked him to print it in Arabic and he did. I read it and signed it because it was identical to what I had told him. Then I was taken to a cell where I was searched in my underwear. I was left there for about six hours.
8. At around 6:30 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was again searched in my underwear before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My brother was there and the court denied me bail. I was taken back to prison.
9. I had about 10 hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of eight months in prison suspended for five years. The suspended sentence included 4 months from a previous suspended sentence.
10. I spent my sentence at Ofer where I was the assistant cook for about 70 prisoners. I cooked Maqloubeh, Okra and Qidreh, and that was how I passed the time. I felt I was useful and I became a good cook. My parents visited me twice in prison but I could tell my mother found the trip to prison very hard so I told her not to come anymore.
11. I was released on the 25February 2019, and I went home with my brother and cousin. We arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Date: 26 August 2018
Location: Al Mughayyir, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.K.A.M. of Al Mughayyir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. On 20 August 2018, my sister woke up when she heard noises outside our house at 2:00 a.m. Then she heard loud banging at our front door. My mother opened the door and about 13 Israeli soldiers entered and asked for my father and me. My mother told the commander we were sleeping over at a relative's house. The soldiers then searched the house and caused a big mess. An hour-and-a-half later they left.
2. On 23 August 2018, my mother woke up again at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of banging at our front door. Before she could open the door, soldiers broke the lock and stormed into our house. About 11 soldiers entered this time and told my mother they were looking for me. My mother told them I was not home. The commander then gave my mother a document summoning me to Binyamin police station in the morning at 9:00 a.m. The information in the summons was written in Hebrew.
3. Later that morning my father and I went to the police station as ordered. We waited from around 9:00 a.m. until around 11:00 a.m. when a soldier told us to come back on Sunday, 26 August 2018, because the interrogator was not at the police station.
4. On Sunday, 26 August 2018, my father, my uncle and I went again to the police station inside Binyamin police station. My father waited outside because he wanted to leave to go to work and my uncle and I went in and waited. About an hour later a policeman told my uncle to leave and I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He started to question me without informing me of any rights. He accused me of throwing stones and showed me two photos and accused me of being the person shown in the photos. I denied the accusation and denied that the photo was of me. He also accused me of organising young boys and encouraging them to throw stones. When I denied the accusation he swore at me saying I was a "son of a whore". He banged the table and raised his voice at me. Then he asked me whether I had ever harmed settlers and I told him I had not.
6. The interrogator then threatened to bring my father and mother to the police station if I did not confess. Then he told me somebody had confessed against me. When I asked him to confront me with that person he said he was not going to. Then he told me to say sorry for throwing stones and I told him I did not throw stones and so was not going to say sorry.

7. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused. He told me he would send me home if I signed; still I refused to sign and told him I was not going to sign any documents without a lawyer present.
8. Then the interrogator called my father and asked him to appoint me a lawyer. My father told him I did not need a lawyer because I was innocent and the interrogator hung up immediately. Then the interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything even if the interrogator shows me photos.
9. After the interrogation was over I was shackled and handcuffed. The handcuffs were behind my back and were painful. I was then taken to a small room which was very hot. When I tried to fall asleep a soldier kicked me and woke me up. I complained to the soldier that the handcuffs were causing me pain and he removed them. I was left in that room and I was not given any food or drink and I was not allowed to use a toilet.
10. The next morning I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was left in a room until the evening. My parents tried to find me during this time and called all the police stations but none had any information about me. Then I was searched with my clothes on and taken to Section 13 where I ate and drank for the first time.
11. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My father attended the hearing and the military court decided to keep me in detention and the hearing was adjourned.
12. In all I had five military court hearings. My lawyer told the military judge I was sick and needed medical care. My father presented a medical report to the court. At the last hearing the military judge gave my father the option of paying NIS 3,000 for my immediate release or imprisoning for three months. My father objected and told the court there was no evidence against me and that I had not confessed. The judge told my father three soldiers had testified against me.
13. My lawyer objected to the military court because the charge sheet said I was accused of throwing stones near the village but the prosecutor said I was accused of throwing stones in a village near Jerusalem. In the end my father told the judge he was willing to pay NIS 3,000 in return for my immediate release. He explained to the judge he wanted me back at school as quickly as possible.
14. On the day when I was supposed to be released I was told my file was lost and I had to spend another day in prison. I was finally released on 13 September 2018. I went home with my father and we arrived home after midnight. My mother and sisters were waiting for me and we all had dinner together with some friends and relatives.
15. In prison I passed time playing table tennis but I was bored most of the time and wanted to go home.

Name: I.A.I.Z.
Age: 14
Date: 5 September 2018
Location: Qalandiya refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.A.I.Z. of Qalandiya refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was in the area near Qalandiya checkpoint at around 3:00 p.m. when boys were throwing stones at Israeli soldiers and swearing at them. Then I went to a nearby shop when all of a sudden I was grabbed by the neck by the person who was standing next to me. It turned out he was an Israeli soldier in civilian clothes.
2. The soldier dragged me to a small room at the checkpoint and left me there on a chair. About an hour later my mother came and both of us waited in the room until around 10:00 p.m. when we were taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem.
3. We were taken the short distance from the checkpoint to the police station in a military vehicle. We both sat on seats in the back. On the way the soldier who was driving told me not to lie to the interrogator because he knows everything. When we arrived at the police station we were left in an outdoor area until around midnight when I was taken for interrogation and my mother was allowed to accompany me.
4. The interrogator was dressed in civilian clothes. He told my mother he was going to allow her to attend the interrogation but warned her she was not allowed to say a word or intervene in any way. He threatened to throw her out if she opened her mouth. He told her she could listen but she could not speak.
5. Then the interrogator told me and my mother we had the right to have a lawyer present. My mother told him she did not have a telephone number for a lawyer and that it was a late hour at night to find a lawyer anyway. The interrogator told her in that case he was going to interrogate me without a lawyer present. Then he started to question me without informing me of my right to silence.
6. The interrogator asked me what I was doing at the checkpoint. I told him I was with my friends. He asked whether my friends and I were throwing stones at soldiers and I told him we were. Then he asked whether there were soldiers at the checkpoint and I said yes. Then he wanted to know how many and whether there were female soldiers. Then he accused me of swearing at the female soldier and insulting her. Then he asked whether the stones had hit soldiers and I said no. He accused me of lying and thumped the table aggressively. I was scared and started to cry. Then he shouted at me again and wanted to know why I was crying.

7. Then he repeated the accusation. He told me I called the female soldier a whore. He also told me soldiers saw me throwing stones. Then he asked me what would happen if I am hit on the head by a stone. He wanted to know whether it is possible I would bleed and be hurt. I said yes. Then he also accused me of throwing stones at the CCTV camera and said all the money of my country would not be enough to compensate for the broken camera. I was shivering as he spoke to me because the air conditioner was blowing cold air and I was tired and scared.
8. Then he showed my mother documents in Hebrew and asked her to sign. When she asked him to translate he told her the document said she was allowed to attend the interrogation. My mother signed the documents. The interrogation lasted for about two hours and I was very tired, hungry and sleepy towards the end.
9. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and then took me and my mother to another room where we waited for another two hours. I was shackled and handcuffed to the back. The handcuffs were painful and my mother asked the soldier to remove them but he told her he was not allowed to remove them.
10. I recall a man and woman in military uniform where in the room and they were flirting and kissing and I did not feel comfortable. My mother thought it was disgusting behavior. They were smoking and blowing smoke in our direction.
11. Then a commander came and told the soldiers to take my mother to the checkpoint. He told her she could attend my military court hearing later that morning. Then I was taken in a vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer at around 4:30 a.m. At Ofer I was strip searched and taken to Section 13. I ate and slept maybe for an hour. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer military court.
12. My mother was in court and my lawyer. I was taken to court in shackles but the handcuffs were removed. I did not understand much but I was later told by my lawyer I was going to be released. He told me he was able to negotiate a deal with the prosecutor where my family would pay a NIS 2,000 fine. He told me if I am seen at the checkpoint again I would spend three weeks in prison. My mother accepted the deal.
13. I was released on 6 September 2018, and I went home with my cousin. I arrived home just after midnight. My mother had prepared a nice meal and I ate and went to bed. I was exhausted.

Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, R.N.A.M. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers in my village and I was in the area. It was at around 2:30 p.m. All of a sudden I found myself surrounded by about seven soldiers. They immediately started to beat me all over my body; on my head, neck and back. They caused me a lot of pain.
2. One of the soldiers tied my hands to the back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then they walked me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our village.
3. Inside the watchtower they asked me for my name and the commander called my mother. He told her he wanted my identity card number and explained that he needed it in order to release me.
4. About 30 minutes later I was blindfolded and put in a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor. The soldiers brought in other detainees and we were thrown on top of each other.
5. Later, the troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement but then turned around and came back to the watchtower where I was taken out of the troop carrier. I thought I was going to be released but then I was taken to another vehicle to another police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba.
6. At Kiryat Arba I was left in a courtyard from around 4:00 p.m. until around 4:30 a. m. I was left on the ground, tied and blindfolded in the cold weather. At around 4:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. Then he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent during the interrogation. I did not speak to a lawyer. Then he accused me of setting tires on fire and of throwing stones at soldiers during clashes in the village. He showed me images and video footage. I denied the accusation. The interrogator thumped the table aggressively when I denied the accusation and pointed to a person in the photographs.
8. Then he asked me for the names of the other boys seen in the photographs and I told him I did not know any of them. Then he lost his temper and told me he did not believe me. He accused me of lying to him and raised his voice as he spoke to me.

9. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. In the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
10. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted before being examined by a doctor. After the examination I was tied and blindfolded again and taken outside by the entrance where I was left in the cold for about two hours. I was shivering.
11. After several hours a soldier led me while I was blindfolded and deliberately made me bump into a metal bar. I hit my head near my eye and my eye swelled and I was in pain. Then I was strip searched and taken into a cell where the ties and the blindfold were removed. I was given some food.
12. In the morning I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again and taken to Section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had five military court hearings.
13. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain and I was sentenced to 45 days in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home. Not accepting it would have meant more time in prison.
14. I was released on 14 October 2018, and I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. During my time in prison I was worried about my mother; my father had died a while ago and my mother had to take care of the family on her own.

I, M.I.A.M. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on the main street in my village during clashes with Israeli soldiers. It was around 2:30 p.m. Suddenly I found myself surrounded by soldiers. I tried to run away but a soldier aimed his gun at me and told he was going to shoot me if I did not stop immediately. I continued to run but I tripped and fell to the ground and the soldier grabbed me and prevented me from running anymore.
2. The soldier immediately started to beat and kick me. Then he tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful. Then I was led towards the military watchtower at the entrance to the village. Inside the watchtower I was blindfolded.
3. A short time later I was put in a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor. There were other boys who were arrested with me and we were on the floor on top of each other.
4. I was driven to the police station in the settlement of Etzion where I was transferred to another vehicle which then took me back to the entrance of the village. The soldiers brought in another boy and then we were taken to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. At Kiryat Arba I was left in an open area from around 4:00 p.m. until around 11:00 p.m. and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He was in civilian clothes. He had a camera and a voice recorder. As soon as I entered he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent. Then he told me I had to speak because the prosecutor needed to listen to my testimony on the voice recorder. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The interrogator left the room while I talked to the lawyer. The lawyer assured me the interrogator was not going to beat me during interrogation. He also told me I had the right to remain silent and not to confess.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during clashes in the village. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me photographs and video footage of the clashes and wanted me to give information about the participants in the clashes but I did not give him any information. The interrogation lasted for about 90 minutes. During this time the interrogator shouted at me as he pointed to one of the pictures and pointed to a person who was wearing similar clothes as me. I told him lots of people in the village wear the same clothes, just like the soldiers who wear uniforms.

7. Then he showed me more pictures and pointed to a person and told me it was me. He told me if I confessed he was going to send me home. Then he made me stand up and pointed at my boots saying they were the same boots the boy in the photograph was wearing. I continued to deny the accusation. The interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign something I did not understand.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to a courtyard and separated from the other boys who were arrested with me. I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet.
9. At around 3:00 a.m. I was put in a vehicle and driven to the police station in Gush Etzion where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor saw that I was not blindfolded and shouted at the soldiers objecting that I was not blindfolded. He then brought a sponge and a plastic tie and blindfolded me with the sponge and tie.
10. After seeing the doctor I was strip searched and taken to a cell where they removed the ties and the sponge. I was able to sleep for about an hour in the room. At around 8:00 a.m. I was given some food and then driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again and taken into Section 13.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed about the hearing. I showed the military judge bruises on my shoulder but still he decided to extend my detention. He said something in Hebrew which I did not understand and the hearing was adjourned.
12. In all I had six military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 45 days in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because it was offered to me on 11 October 2018, just three days before I was supposed to be released. Not accepting it would have meant more time in prison.
13. I was released on 14 October 2018, and I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. My parents visited me once in prison.

Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, K.W.H.M. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. An Israeli military jeep entered our village during Friday prayers. At around 3:00 p.m. young people from the village started to throw stones at the jeep and clashes erupted. I suddenly found myself ambushed by a soldier.
2. The soldier immediately kicked me on the side and caused me a lot of pain. He was wearing a mask and had a gun on his side. He pushed me against a wall and then pushed me to the ground. He slapped me on the neck and face and another soldier joined him. He punched me in the stomach and kicked me. I was in such pain that I felt I was going to pass out.
3. The soldiers then led me 500 meters towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our village. I found it hard to walk and lost my balance. I was taken inside the watchtower and a soldier took my parents' phone numbers. Then they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and very painful.
4. About half-an-hour later I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. At the entrance to the police station I was transferred into another car which drove me to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba.
5. On arrival at Kiryat Arba I was left in an open area and the soldiers who passed by swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". I was left outside until around 3:30 p.m. and then I was taken for interrogation. By this time I was exhausted.
6. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He removed the ties and the blindfold. He did not inform me of my rights but called my father and told him to appoint a lawyer for me. Then he turned his computer screen towards me and showed me video footage and photographs of the clashes in the village and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was upset when I denied the accusation. He repeated the accusation and raised his voice this time and frowned at me and accused me of lying. I continued to deny the accusation.
7. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. During this time the interrogator wanted me to confess to throwing stones at soldiers during clashes in the village but I continued to deny the accusation the whole time. Then he showed me documents in Arabic and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign and told him I could not read.

8. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then my hands were tied to the front. Then I was taken in a vehicle to Etzion police station.
9. At Etzion I was examined by a doctor and then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched and the ties were removed. I could not sleep, I was tired and shaken and in pain because of the beatings. I was also hungry. Then a person came to my cell and saw the bruises on my face and neck and told me I had to show this to the judge in court.
10. In the morning I was handcuffed and shackled and taken for another round of interrogation. The interrogator introduced himself as "Captain Omar". He did not inform me of my rights He told me he knew everything there was to know about me. He told me where I was one evening and with whom and I was quite shocked with the accuracy of the information he had about me. Then he told me he was going to make me spend the rest of my life in prison. Then he told me he wanted me to behave myself from now on or else he was going to kill me. He told me it was very easy for him to arrange for a patrol to shoot me and throw my body in a field.
11. Then the interrogator wanted me to tell him where I had hidden the pipe used to make pipe bombs. I told him I was not involved in such things. Then he told me to avoid having him find it himself because that would be a terrible thing for me and my family. Then he told me if I was willing to tell him where the pipe was he would release me today. I swore to him I did not have any pipes hidden anywhere. Then he patted me on the back and told me sarcastically this time it was not going to be a long time in prison, only six or seven months.
12. After the interrogation I was driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13. It was around 2:00 p.m.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My father attended the hearing. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned without saying anything about the bruises I still had on my face.
14. In all I had about five military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 45 days in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for four years. My lawyer encouraged me to accept the plea bargain and told me it was based on photographic evidence.
15. I was released on 14 October 2018, about two weeks earlier than expected because of good conduct. I was released at around 3:00 p.m. at Beit Sira checkpoint although my parents were told I was going to be released at Ofer. I borrowed a telephone to call my father and my father told the driver to bring me to Beitunia. I arrived at home at around 9:00 p.m. I ate and went to bed.

16. In prison I exercised a lot and lifted weights. My parents visited me once.

1. At around 3:00 p.m. there were clashes in our town with Israeli soldiers and I was in the area. Suddenly a group of soldiers chased me and my friends. The soldiers caught me and started to beat me all over my body. Then they tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic tie which was not painful. They also blindfolded me.
2. The soldiers then threw me on the metal floor of a military jeep. Inside the jeep the soldiers swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and continued to beat me. The jeep drove to Kiryat Arba settlement where I was left in a military watchtower for about an hour and then I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform. He had a voice recorder on his desk. He removed the blindfold and asked me for my name. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and wanted to know why I did it. I denied the accusation and told him I did not throw stones. I told the interrogator I was riding my bike when clashes erupted and the soldiers thought I was involved.
4. The interrogator got upset with my answer and raised his voice at me and accused me of lying to him. He told me all my friends had confessed against me but I later found out he was not telling the truth. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and in the end he gave me a document in both Arabic and Hebrew which was identical to what I had said. He asked me to sign it and I did.
5. When he finished interrogating me he told me a lawyer would call me later. Then he gave me a document in Arabic which said I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent. He asked me to sign it and I did.
6. Then I was blindfolded and taken to a jeep which drove around for about two hours before arriving at Etzion police station. At Etzion the soldiers made me wait outside in the cold weather until around 3:00 a.m. I could not sleep, not for a minute, and I was tied and blindfolded the whole time. 8. I had six hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 4,500. I was also given a suspended sentence but I do not know the details. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told that my sentence would have been harsher if I had rejected it.
9. I spent the whole time at Ofer prison. In prison I exercised to keep fit and I attended classes and my parents visited me twice. I was released on 21 February 2019, and I went home with my family. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers on the main road at the time when I was on my way back home from college. It was around 12:30 p.m.
2. All of a sudden six soldiers approached me and immediately started to beat me. They beat me on my head, my back, and my shoulders and verbally abused me and called me “a son of a whore”. They beat me so hard that I passed out.
3. When I woke up I found myself on the floor of a military jeep with my eyes blindfolded and my hands tied to the front with one plastic tie. I did not feel pain in my hands.
4. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken to a room. I was tied to a chair for about two hours. Soldiers slapped and kicked me while I waited and then I was taken to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and allowed me to speak to a lawyer on the phone. The conversation with the lawyer lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator had the telephone on speaker phone and listened to the conversation. The lawyer told me he had contacted my parents and reassured them about me because they were worried when they heard I was beaten and had passed out. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to silence but warned me that remaining silent could be interpreted as a confession in court. He also told me it was prohibited for one of my parents to attend my interrogation.
6. Then he accused me of throwing stones at passing vehicles on Route 60 and wanted to know who else was with me. He told me 5 soldiers had seen me throwing stones at a settlers’ bus and had testified against me. He told me I had no choice but to confess. When I denied the accusation he raised his voice at me and told me I had to confess. Then he told me it did not really matter if I continued to deny the accusation because he had enough evidence from the soldiers. I did not confess.
7. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and in the end the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did. I signed because the interrogator had a voice recording and he turned it on the whole time.
8. Then I was taken back to Etzion police station where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell where I remained by myself for two days. There was a Jewish holiday and I was left in the cell and I did not see or speak to anyone. I was given one meal a day and I was scared because I did not know what was happening.

9. I was arrested on a Tuesday, and on Thursday I was taken to Ofer military court. My father attended the hearing and I was denied bail. After court I was driven back to Etzion police station and the soldiers picked up two more boys and we were all taken back to Ofer. At Ofer I was taken for a second interrogation by an intelligence officer.
10. This interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He did not have a camera or a voice recorder in the room. He was calm and repeated the same accusation. I continued to deny it. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents. After the interrogation I was strip searched and then I was taken to section 13 at Ofer prison.
11. Five days later I was taken to Ofer military court again. My parents were stuck in a traffic jam and did not make it in time for the hearing. They had contacted the lawyer and informed him of the delay but the court went ahead with my hearing and did not wait for my parents to arrive.
12. I had about 11 military court hearings in all and at the last one, which was on 11 February 2019, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined 4,000 NIS. I also received a suspended sentence of one year suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because if I did I would be released two weeks later.
13. My parents visited me only three times in prison because it took a long time for their permit to be issued. In prison I attended classes and studied mathematics and Hebrew. I was released on the 25 February 2019. I went home with my father, my uncle and two of my cousins who were waiting for me outside Ofer. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. Now I want to focus on my college education; I am studying accounting and will graduate in three years.

I, S.B.A.T. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went to the shop near our house to buy some sweets at around 5:30 p.m. I was not aware that at the time there were clashes going on between Israeli soldiers and villagers near the military watchtower at the entrance to our village.
2. When I arrived outside the shop I saw a group of about 12 soldiers running towards me. At the time I was with two other boys. I was startled to see the soldiers and I ran away. Before I could get very far a military jeep pulled over and detained me and my friend.
3. A soldier aggressively grabbed me by the shoulder and pushed me to the ground where I fell on some prickly bushes. The soldier immediately tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The tie on my right wrist was tight and painful.
4. The soldier then threw me into the back of the jeep where I sat on a seat. Inside the jeep I was blindfolded and the jeep drove away. Then the jeep stopped and I heard the voices of my mother and cousin who tried to get me released. The soldiers shouted at them and told them to go away.
5. The jeep then drove a short distance and stopped again. A soldier removed the blindfold and I could see we were in a military base. I saw barbed wire and tents and soldiers. I was blindfolded again and taken to a courtyard where I waited for about an hour before being taken inside.
6. Once inside a soldier removed the blindfold and asked me why I throw stones at soldiers. I told him I was at the shop and did not throw stones at soldiers. Then he told me that my village is dangerous for soldiers and that we endanger their lives.
7. Then the soldier wanted to know who else was throwing stones with me. I told him again I was not throwing stones. He accused me of lying and told me he was sure I knew the names of the boys who were throwing stones because they were all from my village. I told him the soldiers have arrested all the boys in my village and there was no one left to throw stones.. The soldier questioned me for about five minutes but did tell me I had any rights.
8. After the questioning I was blindfolded again and taken outside where I sat on the ground for about 30 minutes. After 30 minutes I was taken to a jeep where the air conditioner was turned on and I felt very cold. Then I was taken to a room which was also freezing cold and I was shivering.

9. About an hour later a soldier removed my ties and the blindfold and told me I was going to be handed over to the Palestinian police. I was taken back to the jeep and handed over to the Palestinian police who took me to the Palestinian police station in Ramallah. My father was waiting for me there and he took me home.
10. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m. and I was so tired that I fell asleep on the couch without dinner. I so badly wanted to be home in time for the release of my older brother from prison. He was released the following day and I was very happy to be home for the celebration.

I, M.A.R.T. of An Nabi Saleh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went to the local shop with my friends, not knowing that at the time, there were clashes between Israeli soldiers and villagers near the military watchtower at the entrance to our village. It was around 5:00 p.m. When I realised there were clashes I stopped to look. Then I heard my cousin yell at us telling us to run because he saw soldiers approaching.
2. I started to run but three soldiers surrounded me. One of the soldiers grabbed me by the shoulder and punched me hard in the face. I fell to the ground and the soldier sprayed pepper spray in my eyes. I felt sever burning pain in my eyes and face. Then the soldier wanted me to stand up and walk but I could not see and I fell to the ground again. Then a soldier grabbed me by the neck and told me to walk. I tried to free myself and run away but I could not.
3. Then a soldier led me towards the watchtower where my hands were tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The tie on my left wrist was very tight and caused me pain because I had fractured it a few months ago.
4. After I was tied I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a chair. Once inside the jeep I was blindfolded. The jeep drove to the nearby military base where I waited in an open area. I sat on a chair and complained to the soldier about the tight tie. The soldier cut it off and replaced it with a looser tie. He asked me whether I wanted any water or chocolate milk. I asked for some water, I felt I was suffocating from the pepper spray and could not breathe easily.
5. I remained outside for about an hour. Then I was taken to a room and a soldier removed the blindfold and showed me some photographs and asked me whether I knew the boys seen in the photographs. I told him I was going to remain silent. The soldier did not inform me of my right to silence but I knew I had the right to remain silent from a training I attended in the village. He did not inform me of my right to have a lawyer either.
6. When I told him I wanted to remain silent he threatened to take me to the police station. He yelled in my face and swore at my religion. He told me he wanted to tell the people of An Nabi Saleh three things: first, that we are all terrorists and criminals; secondly, that we threaten the lives of soldiers; and thirdly, they were going to crush us with their weapons. He was so mad that I was scared he might beat me. He asked why we go to the watchtower and throw stones. I told him I was going to remain silent. This lasted for about 45 minutes and I was not given any documents to sign.

7. After the interrogation I was blindfolded again and taken outside. Then I was taken to a vehicle which drove me to Beit El settlement. I needed a toilet but I did not ask because the soldier told me I could not ask for anything until the car stopped. When we arrived I asked to use a toilet but the soldier wanted to accompany me and I refused.
8. At Beit El I was photographed before being handed over to the Palestinian police. The Palestinian police took me to the family protection unit at the Palestinian police station in Ramallah where they took my testimony. Then I went home with the father of the other boy who was arrested with me. I arrived home very late. I had dinner and took a shower and went to bed.

Accusation: Detonating a gas cannister

I, H.A.A.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My mother opened the door and a large group of Israeli soldiers stormed into our home. They were so many soldiers and they acted as if they had come to arrest a head of a state.
2. The commander asked my mother for her children and told her to bring everyone, including my 4-year-old brother, to the living room. Then he asked for me and told me to get dressed because I was under arrest. They did not say why and did not give my mother any documents.
3. As soon as I was dressed I was taken outside where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties which were tight and painful. Then they blindfolded me and threw me on the floor of a troop carrier.
4. Inside the carrier a soldier beat me on my side with the back of his gun and caused me severe pain. It left a bruise for a long time. Other soldiers swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and a “brother of a whore”.
5. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left on the floor of a room until around 7:00 a.m. I was in severe pain and could not sleep.
6. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken outside where I was left for about one hour. During this time an interrogator approached me without informing me of my rights and told me I had to confess to a gas canister explosion at a nearby settlement. I denied the accusation and told him I had no idea what he was talking about.
7. When I denied the accusation he slapped me while I was still tied and blindfolded. Then he claimed there were confessions by other boys against me. When I challenged him to confront me with the boys he said that “you have to be joking”. Then he took me inside.
8. I was taken to a room where I was then told that I had the right to consult with a lawyer. The interrogator also told me it was up to me whether I spoke or not. He had a voice recorder on his desk and he turned it on. Then he called a lawyer and handed the telephone over to me but by the time I held the telephone the line was disconnected and I did not speak to a lawyer.

9. Then he accused me of taking part in an explosion at a settlement caused by a gas canister. I told him I had no idea what he was talking about. Then he told me there were confessions against me by other boys and he named the other boys but I continued to deny the accusation. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. In the end he gave me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I asked him to give me the documents in Arabic if he wanted me to sign. Then he gave the document to me in Arabic and it said he had informed me of my rights and I signed the document.
10. After the interrogation I was taken outside where he gave me more documents and asked me to sign them and he was in a hurry and tricked me into signing them without understanding what they said because they were written in Hebrew. Then he told me he was going to lock me up in prison for three years.
11. I was left outside on the ground for about an hour. Then I was strip searched and taken to a cell. I was given some food and about two hours later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
12. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. My mother did not attend the hearing because she was not informed of the date.
13. In all I had four military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I was going to be released within 20 days. My lawyer told me that if I challenged the case against me I would spend more time in prison.
14. My sisters visited me in prison four times and I attended classes in Arabic and Mathematics. I was released on the 18 December 2018, and I went home with my uncles. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.

Name: A.K.F.N.
Age: 17
Date: 30 September 2018
Location: Nahhalin, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / setting a fire

I, A.K.F.N. of Nahhalin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of a commotion outside our house. It was around 2:30 a.m. My father looked out the window and saw lots of Israeli soldiers at my uncle's house nearby. Then he saw them heading towards our house and he quickly opened the front door.
2. About 10 soldiers entered our home and about 50 more remained outside. The commander asked my father to name his children and when he mentioned my name the commander told my father he wanted to arrest me. He did not say why but told us he wanted to take me for questioning and would then send me home. Then the commander told my father he knew everything about our family and that we were supporters of Yasser Arafat's party. The commander did not give us any documents.
3. Outside the house a soldier asked me for my telephone and when I told him I did not have one he slapped me. Then he tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was painful. He also blindfolded me. I was then led to the back of a jeep and made to sit on the metal floor.
4. The jeep drove to the DCO checkpoint where I was put in a shipping container and I sat on the floor until around 6:00 a.m. During this time I was examined by a doctor. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement and at around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator took me to a dark container and removed the blindfold. Then he put it back on and told me to be straightforward with him and that there was no room for lying in his presence. Then he removed the blindfold again and without informing me of my rights he accused me of being involved in starting a fire near the fence to a settlement and told me he had arrested all the other boys involved in the incident. When I denied the accusation he accused me of lying and threatened to bring another interrogator known for beating people. Then another interrogator walked in and beat me.
6. After I was beaten I was taken to a room which had flags of all the Palestinian factions on the walls. The interrogator accused me of being a member of Hamas. I told him I was not. Then he told me someone had confessed against me. I asked him to confront me with that person and he told me that person is scared of facing me.

7. Then the interrogator re-blindfolded me and removed the plastic tie and replaced it with metal handcuffs. He slapped me and swore at me and said bad words which I cannot repeat. Then he beat me with what felt like a broom stick.
8. After he finished beating me the interrogator told me he was going to allow me to speak to a lawyer. He then phoned a lawyer and both of them were chatting in Hebrew. It sounded like a friendly conversation and they were laughing. This lasted for about five minutes and I was very suspicious of the person on the other end of the line.
9. Then the interrogator handed the handset over to me and the person told me not to be afraid and to deny everything, even the things I had committed, and not to confess. Neither the interrogator nor the lawyer told me anything about my right to silence.
10. The interrogation lasted from around 7:00 a.m. until around 2:00 p.m. with breaks in the middle. Then I was put in a vehicle together with another boy and we were left there. The boy and I started to chat. Then I was taken back for interrogation and the interrogator told me he had listened in on the conversation with the boy in the car. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during a funeral in town.
11. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and searched me in my underwear before putting me in a cell where I remained for about two hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my underwear before being taken to Section 13.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to Ofer prison. A few days later I was taken for another interrogation at Kiryat Arba police station.
13. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and told me other boys had confessed against me and that there was no point in lying anymore. I asked him to confront me with the boys but he refused. He told me that even if I did not confess and I was released he would arrest me again. Half way through the interrogation he allowed me to speak to a lawyer over the phone. The lawyer told me not to confess. Then I was taken back to Ofer prison where I was strip searched.
14. The following day I was taken back to the military court. The hearing was adjourned.
15. A few days later I was taken for yet another interrogation at Kiryat Arba. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and accused me of starting nine fires near the fence to a settlement in September. He wanted to know the reason for setting fire to the trees. He told me if I confessed he was going to release me. I denied the accusation and told him I was not going to confess to something I did not do. He accused me of lying and told me to confess if I wanted to be released. He threatened to lock me up in prison for six months if I did not confess. Then he told me he was going to arrest me as soon as I was released. I later found out that he had told the other boys I had confessed against them which was not true.

16. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer prison. The following day I was taken back to the military court. The military judge decided to release me without charge. I was released on the same day, 14 October 2018. I went home by myself because my parents did not expect me to be released.

3. The jeep drove to the nearby military base at a checkpoint and I was put in a shipping container. A soldier pushed me and I fell and hurt my leg. Then he lifted me up and threw me on a couch where I remained until around 6:00 a.m. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement.
4. At Etzion the interrogator removed the blindfold and grabbed me by the neck and dragged me to a shipping container while I was still tied. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. I was suspicious of this lawyer and I did not feel he was genuine. Neither the lawyer nor the interrogator told me anything about the right to silence.
5. Then the interrogator accused of setting fire to the fence near a settlement. When I denied the accusation the interrogator swore at my father and cursed him and told me it did not seem to him I was interested in finishing up quickly. I told him I was innocent and did not do anything wrong. He then removed the ties and tied them again but with my hands behind my back.
6. Then the interrogator took me to another container and two people came in and one of them told me I was an “asshole” because I had not confessed yet. I told him I did not do anything wrong and had nothing to confess about. Then he took a broom stick and beat me on my stomach and head. I was in pain. That person left the room and then came back again and beat me with the broom stick all over my body.
7. I did not confess to anything and kept repeating that I had not done anything wrong. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints.

8. Then I was left in an outdoor area in the cold for about four hours. Then I was strip searched and taken to a cell. About four hours later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again and then I was taken into section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. 9. I spent about two weeks in prison. During this time I was interrogated twice at Kiryat Arba. The interrogators repeated the same accusation but I did not confess to anything. During one of the interrogations the interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer before he started to question me. The lawyer told me to stick to my position and not confess. I was not informed of my right to silence during the two additional interrogations.
10. During this time I had three more military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 14 October 2018, the military judge decided to release me without charge. I did not have to pay any fines. I went home with my parents later that day.

I, K.F.F.N. of Nahhalin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was fast asleep when my mother woke me up and told me that Israeli soldiers were surrounding our home. It was around 3:00 a.m. Then I heard very loud banging on the back door.
2. My father tried to tell the soldiers the front door was on the other side and explain to them that we had furniture blocking the path to the back door. They did not respond and continued to bang and then they tried to break the door down. At that point my father moved the furniture and opened the back door because he did not want them to break it.
3. About 20 soldiers entered our home and lots more were outside. Most of the soldiers were wearing face masks.
4. The commander asked my father for the names of all his children. When my father named me the commander told my father he wanted to arrest me. He did not tell us why and did not give us any documents but he told my younger brother who was crying that he would bring me back shortly.
5. The soldiers were tense and in a hurry but my mother managed to help me put my clothes on. They did not give me enough time to say goodbye. My mother tried to follow me outside to say goodbye but a soldier aimed his gun at her and told her to go back into the house and to shut the door behind her.
6. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was painful and left marks on my wrists. When we got to the street a soldier blindfolded me and lifted me up and threw me into the back of a military jeep. I fell on a bag that was inside the jeep and I was in pain.
7. I sat on a metal box on the floor inside the jeep. A soldier hit me on the face and head and caused me pain. He pulled my head towards him and slapped me very hard. The jeep drove away and then stopped. I was taken out of the jeep and a soldier hit me with a rope on my face. Other soldiers made fun of me and I heard them laughing as they played loud Arabic music. Then I was taken to the back of the jeep and it drove me somewhere where I was taken inside and an interrogator took me for interrogation.
8. The interrogator removed the blindfold and told me I was at the police station in Etzion settlement. He did not inform me of my rights and immediately accused me of setting fire near the fence of the nearby settlement of Betar Illit. When I denied the accusation he lost his temper and accused me of wanting to drive him crazy. Then he blindfolded me again and told me he was going to bring in people who would scare the hell out of me but did not say who. He raised his voice at me as he spoke and repeated the accusation and wanted me to confess.

9. About half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The conversation with the lawyer was very short and the interrogator listened in. The lawyer told me not to be scared and not to confess to anything I did not do.
10. Then the interrogator continued to shout at me and accused me again of setting fire near the fence. He banged the table aggressively and threatened to bring my mother to the police station and commit a felony against her. He swore at my mother and sister and called them "whores". He then told me he was going to tie me to a pole and I thought he meant he was going to kill me. I was scared and tired and in the end I confessed to throwing one stone which missed. I was under a lot of pressure to confess and I thought confessing to throwing a stone which missed would be less serious than being implicated in a fire near the fence.
11. After I confessed I was taken to see another interrogator who told me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator. He typed everything I said on his computer and then showed me documents written in Hebrew and told me I had to sign them. He gave me a reason but I did not understand what he said. I signed the documents because I did not want to argue with him.
12. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was taken to a cell at Etzion where they removed the tie and I was searched in my underwear. They brought me some food but I could not eat it. I remained in the cell for about five hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to Section 13.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend because they were not informed about the hearing. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.
14. In all I had about eight military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. In addition I was given a suspended sentence of four months in prison valid for three years. My last hearing was on the day of my release so it did not make any sense to reject the plea bargain. I was also told the prosecutor had asked for eight months in prison.
15. I spent the three months at Ofer prison where I attended classes. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not issued a permit in time. I was released on 31 December 2018 and my parents arranged for a taxi to pick me up and I arrived home at around 3:00 a.m.

I, M.A.O.N. of Nahhalin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 4:30 a.m. when I heard a noise in our home. My father woke up and ran to the front door and opened it just before Israeli soldiers broke it down. My father later told me that around six soldiers entered our home.
2. One of the soldiers pushed my father on the couch and a female soldier pushed the coffee table on his legs. A soldier then came to my bedroom, grabbed me by my T-shirt and told me to get up because I was under arrest. He dragged me to the living room and made me sit on a chair. He asked me for my name and wanted to know whether I had an identity card. I told him I did not.
3. Then he took me back to my bedroom where he saw a telephone on the bed. He asked me whether it was mine and I told him it was my brother's. Then I was taken outside where I was tied with my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then the commander asked me again about the phone, took me back into the house and took the phone.
4. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I was blindfolded and sat on the metal floor. Then the jeep drove to the police station in the settlement of Etzion.
5. At Etzion I was taken to a room where I waited on a chair. While waiting I was examined by doctor who removed the blindfold and put it back on when he was done. At around 6:00 a.m. soldiers took me outside and walked me around the police station and then took me to a shipping container. Shortly afterwards an interrogator walked into the interrogation room.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold and phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer told me not to confess and to deny any accusations. The conversation lasted for about 15 seconds and the interrogator remained in the room and listened in.
7. After I spoke to the lawyer the interrogator told me he was going to cut it short and if I confessed I would not be harmed. Then he told me if I did not confess he was going to bring soldiers with dogs to beat me up. I was scared and asked the interrogator what he wanted me to confess to. He told me he wanted me to tell him who started the fires near the fence to a settlement. Then he told me he just wanted me to keep an eye on the boys who cause trouble.

8. Then the interrogator left the room and I could hear one of the boys screaming and shouting. I think I recognised the voice as that of one of my friends and I was very scared.
9. Then the interrogator came back and asked me whether I had heard the screams and told me he was going to make me scream like that boy if I did not confess. I told him I did not do anything wrong and told him I was not involved in the fire. Half way through the interrogation the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and that anything I say could be used against me in court.
10. Then he threatened to bring my father to the police station and lock him up in prison if I did not confess. Then he swore at my father and told me he was going to put him on a black list of people denied permits for security reasons. Then he swore at my mother and punched me in the stomach. Then he took me to a room with flags of all the Palestinian political factions on the wall.
11. Another interrogator came into that room. He told me to forget about the first interrogator and to forget the past and start a new page. He told me I had five minutes to think it over and that if I did not confess he was going to cause me more pain than the first interrogator. He left the room for five minutes and when he came back he asked me whether I had changed my mind. I told him I had nothing to say.
12. Then a group of soldiers came into the room and one of them banged my head against the metal cabinet in the room. When I started to scream a soldier put his hand on my mouth. I asked to speak to a lawyer and told them I wanted to complain about the beating. They refused to allow me to speak to a lawyer. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did.
13. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints. I was then searched in my underwear and taken to a cell where I waited for about three hours. After three hours I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my underwear before being taken into Section 13.
14. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not told about it. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.
15. I had three military court hearings. At the last hearing the military judge decided to release me without charge for lack of evidence. I was released on 14 October 2018, and I went home with my mother. We arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.

Name: S.M.I.K.
Age: 15
Date: 1 October 2018
Location: Nahhalin, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Setting a fire

I, S.M.I.K. of Nahhalin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at the front door. My brother opened the door and about six or seven Israeli soldiers entered our home. The commander asked for me but he did not say what he wanted. When I identified myself he told me I was under arrest but he did not give us any documents.
2. The soldiers did not allow me to put my jacket on and immediately took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were painful. They also blindfolded me and then took me to the back of a jeep and threw me on the metal floor.
3. Inside the jeep a soldier beat me on my head and the jeep drove away. Then it stopped somewhere I did not recognise and I was taken to a shipping container. The soldiers made me sit on the floor and whenever I fell asleep they woke me up and made me stand up. I was not given any water and I was not allowed to use the toilet.
4. At around 8:30 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. An interrogator greeted me in the courtyard and welcomed me in and called me by my name. He asked me whether I wanted to tell him everything quickly or I was going to take my time. I told him I wanted to be done quickly and that I had not done anything wrong. At that point he punched me in the stomach and beat me on my shoulder. Then I told him I wanted to report him to a lawyer and the judge but he just beat me harder. This lasted for about 15 minutes.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and the whole time wanted me to confess to throwing stones and starting a fire near the fence of a settlement. I denied the accusation.
6. Then he took me inside and another interrogator started to question me. The second interrogator removed the blindfold and was very calm. He asked me whether I was going to confess and threatened to send me back to the first interrogator who was waiting outside if I did not confess. I told him I did not do anything wrong and had nothing to confess. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside where I was beaten again.
7. After I was beaten outside I was taken inside again and the interrogator removed the blindfold and asked me the same questions again. He asked me again whether I was going to confess because if I was not he was going to send me out again to be beaten. I continued to deny the accusation.

8. Then I was taken into another room where a policeman asked me to repeat what I had told the other interrogator and he recorded everything on his computer. He asked me about my cousin and then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did.
9. After I signed the document I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I waited in this cell for about four hours. After about four hours I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed about the hearing. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. After the hearing I was taken back to Ofer prison.
11. While at Ofer I was taken for three more interrogations at kiryat Arba settlement. During one of the interrogations I was allowed to speak to a lawyer at the beginning of the interrogation. The lawyer told me not to confess. I was never informed of my right to silence.
12. On 28 December 2018, I had a hearing and the military judge decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 2,000. I was released on the same day and I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.
13. I had three more military court hearings following my release on bail. At the last hearing the court informed me if I confessed to setting fire to the fence near the settlement they would close the file. This was a plea bargain which also included turning the NIS 2,000 bail into a fine and an additional suspended sentence of one month valid for three years. I decide to accept the plea bargain because I did not want to be back to court any more.

Name: A.M.M.B.
Age: 16
Date: 8 October 2018
Location: Balata refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, A.M.M.B. of Balata refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was not at home when Israeli soldiers raided our house at around 2:30 a.m. They searched the house and slit the couch and caused a lot of damage to the furniture. When the commander asked for me and my brother told him I was not home he lost his temper and was about to beat my brother. Then he told my brother I had to turn myself in at the police station if I did not want to be shot dead.
2. At around 4:00 p.m. the same day I went to Huwwara military base with my uncle and my brother. We waited for about an hour before the commander came and told my uncle and brother to step aside. Then he handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs and shackled my feet. The handcuffs were painful. Then I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement.
3. Inside the military vehicle I sat in a very small confined space which looked like a cage and I was very uncomfortable. About two hours later I arrived at Ariel police station where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He did not inform me of my rights and started by telling me there were confessions against me that I threw stones and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. He wanted me to confess but I denied the accusation. When I told him I had no idea what he was talking about he started to swear at me and called me “a son of a whore”, and “a brother of a whore”. Then he threatened to arrest my brother and put him in prison if I did not confess. He thumped the table frequently and was quite aggressive.
5. The interrogation lasted for a long time, maybe five or six hours. During this time the interrogator left me alone in the room from time-to-time. At one point I was so tired that I fell asleep on the chair and the interrogator woke me up. He told me my friends, who had confessed against me, said they were sorry and that he was going to send them home. He told me to do the same if I wanted to go home. At the end of the interrogation he asked me if I wanted a lawyer and I told him I did but he did not allow me to see or speak to a lawyer. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
6. After the interrogation I was taken back to Huwwara military base. I sat on a seat in the back of a jeep and I was blindfolded on the way. At the military base I was strip searched and then I was taken to a cell where I spent a night. The blindfold and the shackles and handcuffs were removed and I was given some food to eat.

7. The next day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was strip searched again before being taken to the juvenile section. The following day I was taken to Salem military court where I saw a lawyer for the first time. The court denied me bail and the hearing was adjourned.
8. I had about seven military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another eight months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told that the sentence would have been harsher had I rejected it.
9. I spent the entire sentence at Megiddo prison where I exercised a lot and attended classes. I was released on 7 April 2019, and I went home with my family. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Name: Z.M.H.A.
Age: 14
Date: 14 October 2018
Location: Tuqu', occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Z.M.H.A. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was fast asleep when I heard loud banging on our front gate downstairs. It was around 3:00 a.m. I jumped out of bed and looked out the window and saw about five Israeli military jeeps on the street near our house. My father opened the front door and about 20 soldiers entered our home. Three soldiers were wearing masks which was scary.
2. A soldier checked my father's identity card and when they saw my name in the annex the commander handed me a summons to go to the police station in Etzion settlement at 8:30 a.m. The summons was filled out in Hebrew. The soldiers left and I was able to sleep for another hour; I wanted to be rested before going to the police station.
3. My father and I arrived at the police station at around 8:30 a.m. We waited for about three hours before a soldier called my father's name. The soldier took the summons and wrote down my father's telephone number and told him we could both go home and that someone called "Captain Imad" would contact us the following day. My father and I went back home. We arrived back home at around noon.
4. At around 4:00 a.m. the following night I woke up to the sound of very loud banging at our front door. My father opened the door and about 20 soldiers entered our home. The commander checked my father's identity card and when he saw my name he turned to me and told me he wanted me to go with him. The commander told me I was going to be interrogated because I was suspected of throwing stones on the main road. The soldiers did not give my parents any documents.
5. The Captain took my parents to the living room and gave them a lecture about how best to raise children. He told them they were not doing enough to raise us properly. He also told them our village was a dangerous place and that he was seriously considering implementing some harsh decisions to punish the village. He told them he was considering declaring the village a closed military zone and banning anyone from leaving or entering the village. He also told my parents he was considering using live ammunition and said he wanted to give the village one last chance. When my mother told him her children were well-behaved he told her that was not true and that parents should beat their children and punish them and lock them up inside the house to discipline them. Then my mother asked the commander not to beat me and he looked at her and told her Israel was a country governed by law.

6. I put on some clothes and said goodbye to my parents. Then I was taken outside where my hands were tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another one connecting the two. The ties were not painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat and a soldier put a seat belt on me.
7. The jeep drove to the nearby military base where I was taken to a courtyard and I sat on the ground for about two hours. It was a cold night. At around 5:30 a.m. I was taken in a jeep to Etzion police station. At Etzion I waited at the gate for about an hour before I was allowed in and taken for interrogation.
8. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He sat in front of an Israeli flag which was hung on the wall behind him. He also had a pistol in front of him. As soon as I entered the room the interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold and told me he wanted me to confess to throwing stones and to tell him everything. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not confess. The conversation with the lawyer lasted for about a minute.
9. Without informing me of my rights, the interrogator continued to question me about throwing stones and wanted me to tell him the names of boys seen in photographs which he showed me. Then he said he would show me photographs showing me throwing stones and wondered how I would react. When I did not say anything he twisted my ear and thumped the table and raised his voice at me saying I had to confess.
10. The interrogator then asked me what my father did for a living. When I told him my father was a taxi driver he threatened to bring my father to the police station and to confiscate his taxi if I did not confess. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and I did not confess. Then I was taken to see another interrogator.
11. The second interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He turned a voice recorder on and told me he was going to show me photographs of me. He showed me a photograph of a boy standing doing nothing. Then he showed me another photograph which was not very clear. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers but I denied the accusation. Then he lost his temper and raised his voice at me and told me I had to confess. The whole time he was typing on a computer. He questioned me for about two hours but I did not confess. During this time the interrogator took me outside the room a couple of times and then brought me back in. I was not given any documents to sign.
12. After the second interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then I was taken to a cell. On the way to the cell a group of soldiers in a military vehicle passed me and swore at me saying I was "a son of a whore". They reached out of the window as if they wanted to slap me. Then I was left outside the cell for about an hour on the floor. Later I was searched with my clothes on before being taken into the cell. A short while later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched.

13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court because they were not told about the hearing. The military judge decided to extend my detention. I had five more military court hearings.
14. At the last hearing I was told there was a confession against me by another boy from my village. The judge decided to release me and to delay my suspended sentence which I had from a previous imprisonment. I was also told that the judge decided that the photograph presented by the prosecutor was not clear and therefore he did not consider it as valid evidence against me. My family was fined NIS 2,000 which my father paid.
15. I was released on the 24 October 2018, and I went home with my parents who were waiting for me outside prison. I had dinner and went straight to bed.

I, M.A.O.J. of Nahhalin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. On 13 October 2018, at around 4:00 a.m., Israeli soldiers came to our home and gave me a summons to go to the police station in Etzion settlement at 8:00 a.m. The summons was filled out in Hebrew.
2. Later that morning I went with my mother to Etzion as ordered. We waited at the police station until around 12:00 p.m. and then we were told to go home.
3. On 18 October 2018, I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father answered the door and about 10 soldiers entered our home. The commander checked our identity cards and then told my parents he wanted to arrest me. He did not give any reason and did not give us any written documents.
4. I was immediately taken outside where a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. Then I was blindfolded and taken to the back of a troop carrier where the soldiers made me sit on the metal floor.
5. Inside the troop carrier soldiers called me “a son of a bitch” and called my mother “a whore”. I was taken to a shipping container at a nearby settlement where I sat on the floor until around 8:00 a.m. I could not sleep at all. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. Without informing me of my rights, the interrogator pulled my shirt and told me I had 10 minutes to confess to throwing stones. I denied the accusation and told him I did not do anything wrong. He lost his temper and started to shout at me telling me to confess. Then I heard the voice of someone screaming next door and I started to scream myself, I was terrified. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk.
7. Then the interrogator accused me of burning bushes next to a settlement fence. Again I denied the accusation. Half way through the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. I felt the lawyer was a soldier and not a real lawyer. The person told me not to be scared of the interrogator and did not say anything about my rights and did not give me any legal advice. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening.
8. I was interrogated for a long time, maybe five hours or so. During this time the interrogator left the room and I was by myself and nothing happened. The interrogator showed me some photographs and wanted me to give him names. He also asked me for my father's number but I gave him the wrong number because I did not want him to monitor my father's phone calls.

9. I did not confess to anything and in the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did. It did not occur to me I had the choice of not signing.
10. At around noon the interrogator released me and told me he might arrest me again. My father and grandfather were looking for me from one place to another and then they came to the entrance of the police station where I was waiting and they took me home.

I, M.N.M.D. of Nahhalin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 2:00 a.m. an Israeli soldier woke me up in my bedroom. I opened my eyes and saw a gun and a torch pointed at me. The soldier told me to get up. About 20 soldiers were in our home; they had entered through the back door. My father had to move the furniture around to open the door because they refused to use the front door.
2. The commander asked my father for his children, and then he told him he wanted to arrest me. My father told him I had to go to work and that he would bring me to the police station in the morning. The commander told him he wanted to take me for two days for questioning and would then bring me back. He did not give my parents any documents.
3. I was taken outside where I was tied with my hands behind my back with 3 plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. I complained to the soldier who tied me but he ignored me. Then I was blindfolded and taken to a military vehicle where I sat on the metal floor, between the soldiers' feet. The vehicle drove away and the soldiers swore at me and called my sisters and mother "whores." One soldier threatened to "fuck you and your sister".
4. Then I was dropped off at the entrance to a settlement where I was left on the ground all night while I was still tied and blindfolded. It was a cold night and I could not sleep at all. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and tightened the ties. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him but I was suspicious of the lawyer. He told me to take care of myself and not to be scared. Neither the lawyer nor the interrogator told me anything about my right to silence.
6. Then the interrogator asked me about throwing stones and I told him I was not involved in throwing stones. I told him I worked at a vegetable shop and I left the house very early each morning and came back late. He accused me of lying and told me I only understood "the language of donkeys". Then he took me to a small storage room where they kept brooms and buckets. He blindfolded me again and removed the ties and handcuffed me to the back with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were painful.
7. Then he told me he was going to bring the border police to extract a confession from me. I told him I had nothing to do with throwing stones. Then he covered my face with a Hamas flag and tightened it around my nose. I could see the flag from under the blindfold. I felt like I was about to suffocate and I could not breathe. Then he punched me in the face and stomach and on my sensitive parts and I was in severe pain. Then another person entered the room and took part in beating me and threatened to bring my sister to the police station.

8. The interrogator then accused me of starting a fire in the bushes near a settlement fence. He told me he had interrogated other boys over three fires but he only wanted me to confess to one. He told me I was like his younger son and that he was willing to help me. He asked me whether I had disputes with other people in the village and told me he could help me. When he said this I was reminded of the large number of collaborators in our village; the authorities have managed to break us with collaborators.
9. Then he removed the flag and the blindfold and took me back into the interrogation room and asked me whether I wanted a glass of water or a cigarette. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then he told me I could go home. As I left the room he told me he was going to bring my sister along with me next time I am arrested.
10. I went home with the grandfather of another boy. The grandfather called a taxi and I went home with him.

I, I.S.M.Q. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to noise in my bedroom. It was around 2:00 a.m. I looked up and saw around 10 Israeli soldiers above my head. My mother later told me they had entered our home without knocking at the door; they broke the front door downstairs and walked into the building.
2. The commander told me I was under arrest but did not give me a reason. He showed my mother some photographs and asked her to identify me and my brother and she did. The commander did not give us any documents.
3. After I got dressed a soldier tied my hands to the front while I was still inside the house. He tied me with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. Later when the interrogator removed the tie I had lost all sensation in my palms. Once outside I was also blindfolded.
4. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep drove to a nearby village and arrested another boy. People in that village threw stones at the jeep and whenever a stone hit the jeep the soldiers started to swear at me.
5. Next I was taken to the military base at the nearby settlement of Zufin. At the base I was taken to a shipping container where I sat on the floor for about 30 minutes. During this time soldiers swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”.
6. Then I was examined by a doctor. He removed the blindfold and took a blood sample and took my temperature and my blood pressure and my pulse. Then I was blindfolded again and left by the front gate for a few hours. In the early hours of the morning I was taken to the settlement of Qedumim for interrogation.
7. At Qedumim I waited for a short while and then I was taken for interrogation. I did not know what time it was.
8. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold and the plastic tie and replaced it with handcuffs. He had a camera on a tripod in the room and a voice recorder. He introduced himself and told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me not be scared and not to confess. The interrogator put the phone on loud speaker while I spoke to the lawyer and he remained in the room and listened to the conversation.

9. Then the interrogator told me my village caused a lot of trouble for soldiers. He told me in spite of the heavy price the village had paid in terms of people killed and others locked up in prison the village still had not learned the lesson.
10. Then the interrogator told me he was going to show me some photographs and warned me not to deny that it was me in the photos. When he showed me the photographs I told him I did not know anyone. Then he showed me more photographs. In the beginning I denied it was me and my brother. The interrogator did not believe me and asked me to look closely at the face: the nose, the mouth and the eyes. He told me if I did not confess he was going to implicate me in a thousand other more serious accusations. Then he commented on the fact that I was wearing the same shirt seen in the photograph. In the end I felt I could no longer deny it. I told the interrogator my brother and I were standing near the Wall during clashes doing nothing.
11. Then he started to ask me about other boys and wanted me to give him names but I did not give any information. The interrogation lasted for about one-and-a-half hours. In the end he showed me some documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
12. After the interrogation was over they took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to Huwwara military base. At Huwwara I was strip searched and then I was taken to a small cell by myself. The cell was filthy and had a strong stench of urine in it. I slept there one night and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel.
13. The following day I was taken to the military court. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had four military court hearings which my parents attended. In the end I was sentenced to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence but I did not understand the details.
14. I ended up having my sentence reduced and I was released on 6 February 2019. My brother and uncles met me at the checkpoint and drove me home. I arrived home at around 9:30 p.m. In prison I attended classes and studied mathematics, Hebrew and Arabic. My parents visited me twice in prison.

I, A.S.M.Q. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home quietly at around 2:30 a.m. We did not hear them enter. They searched our house, turned the furniture upside down and came into my bedroom where I was sleeping with my mother and older brother. I opened my eyes and saw four soldiers. I was scared and froze in my bed.
2. A soldier started to shout saying "Defense Forces" and then told me to get up. He took me to the living room and sat me down on the couch. Then he asked me for my name and then told me to change because I was under arrest.
3. I was too embarrassed to change my clothes because there were female soldiers in the bedroom so I put on my trousers over my shorts. I asked to say goodbye to my mother and then the soldier told my mother they were going to question me about throwing stones. They did not give my mother any documents.
4. My mother started to cry as the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. I asked them to loosen the tie and they did loosen it a bit. Then they blindfolded me.
5. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I was thrown on top of my brother who was arrested with me. There was nothing to lean my back against. I was taken to Zufin military base where I was given a medical examination. After the medical check I was left on the ground outside the military base until around 5:30 a.m. I remained tied and blindfolded.
6. At around 5:30 a.m. I was taken to Qedumim settlement where I waited in a room for about three hours. I was very tired and I kept asking to use the toilet to move my legs a bit. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie and immediately told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent and the right to talk to my parents. He asked me who I wanted to speak to first and I told him I wanted to speak to my mother. He called my mother and I spoke to her and told her not to worry about me. Then he called a lawyer and I spoke to him on a speaker phone while the interrogator listened. The lawyer told me not to answer any questions no matter what the interrogator asked and told me to remain silent. Then the interrogator interrupted the conversation and told me I had spoken enough. The conversation lasted for less than a minute.

8. The interrogator then asked me if I threw stones at soldiers and settlers and I told him I did not. I told him I swear to god I don't throw stones and he told me to leave god aside. He repeated the question again and I told him I did not throw stones. Then he told me he had photographic evidence against me and said that other boys had confessed against me. I asked him to show me the photographs. In one photo I was seen with my brother. He asked me who the other person was and I told him it was my brother. He asked me whether I was holding a sling shot and I said I was not. The interrogation lasted for about an hour.
9. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I refused to sign because it was in Hebrew. Then he took me outside and gave me something to eat; some rice which was unappetising and I did not eat it.
10. Then I was taken inside again where they took my photograph and fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was taken in a vehicle which drove for about two hours to Salem military court.
11. In the military court my lawyer told me not to worry and asked me whether I had confessed to anything. I told him I had not. The military judge released me on payment of NIS 2,000. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison/ inside Israel. The air conditioner in the vehicle was very cold. When we arrived I was searched in my clothes and then I was taken to the juvenile section. By then it was around 8:00 p.m.
12. In the morning I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with some of my relatives. I arrived home around 11:00 a.m. I was released on 24 October 2018.

I, O.I.H.R. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Our neighbours called my father at around 3:00 a.m. to tell us that Israeli soldiers were in the area looking for our house. Then soldiers came to my uncle's house downstairs but could not find the entrance to our house and left. Then my father's cousin phoned to say the soldiers were at his house and had delivered a summons for me to go to the police station in the morning. I was scared and could not go back to sleep.
2. Later that morning my father's cousin gave us the summons which was written in Hebrew. We could read the date and the time and we concluded I had to go to the police station in Etzion settlement at 8:00 a.m. on the same day. I did not go to school and instead I went to the police station with my father. We arrived at the station at 7:30 a.m.
3. My father and I were allowed into the police station compound where we waited until around 10:00 a.m. Then we were taken to another part of the police station where a soldier searched me in front of my father. He made me lift my shirt up exposing my back and my belly. Then I was taken inside the building with my father where we both waited. At around 10:30 a.m. an interrogator took me to a room but he did not allow my father to accompany me.
4. There were two interrogators in the room and they had a computer and a voice recorder. As soon as I entered one of the interrogators told me I was a member of a gang made up of 10 boys who throw stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers. I denied the accusation and told him I do not throw stones. The interrogator laughed sarcastically. Then the two interrogators started to chat to each other in Hebrew. Then they both looked at a photo album and one of them said to me he had a picture of me and the other one agreed the person in the photo looked like me. They did not show me the photo.
5. Then one of the interrogators wanted to know why I lied to him. He told me telling lies was forbidden in his office. He told me if I told the truth he would send me home. I told him I do not throw stones and that I am focused on my school work. This lasted for about 15 minutes and then I was taken outside where I waited in the sun. The interrogator told me to shut up and not to say a word and that if I did soldiers would take me to the basement and beat me up. They did not inform me of my rights.
6. About 15 minutes later I was taken to another room. The interrogator told me he wanted to send me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, and that I had the right to speak to a lawyer. He called a lawyer for me and the lawyer told me not to worry and not to confess even if they show me photographs. He told me they would try to scare me but that I should not confess.

7. Then the interrogator told me I was telling lies and that he had photographic evidence of me throwing stones. Then he asked me how many stones I had thrown and I told him I did not throw any stones.
8. A short time later the interrogator took me to another room and told me to turn my face to the wall. Then the lights were turned off and I was left by myself in the dark. I could hear the sound of the door lock when the interrogator left the room. Then somebody kept turning the lights on and off. It was a scary atmosphere. Sometime later, not so long, I was taken back to the first room.
9. The interrogator then showed me a photos of a boy and told me it was me. I denied it. Then he showed me more photos. Then he brought my father in and showed him the photos before telling him to leave.
10. After my father left the room the interrogator told me my father had confirmed one of the photos was of me. I agreed that it was me in one of the photos but before I could finish my sentence to say the photo did not show me throwing stones he interrupted and told me I had confessed.
11. Then the interrogator started showing me more photos and wanted me to tell him the names of the boys in the photos. I told him I did not know any of them. Then he focused on two boys and told me he was sure I knew them and wanted me to give him their names. When I told him I did not know them he raised his voice at me and accused me of lying. I was scared of him when he raised his voice at me. He then pulled out his gun and put it in my face and cocked it. I froze and could not utter a word. He screamed at me asking me why I was not saying anything.
12. Then he told me my father was going to pay a fine of NIS 500 and I would then be released. He took me outside and made me sit on a seat for about 30 minutes. During this time I was taken to a room and somebody locked the door. That person stayed in the room and started to type on a computer. Then he took four photos of me and took a DNA sample from my mouth. Then he wanted to take my finger prints but I refused. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
13. About 30 minutes later I was taken outside where I met my father and we both went home. It was around 3:00 p.m. My father told me a policeman gave him a summons for me to go to Ofer military court on 11 June 2019, at 10:00 a.m. for a hearing. The summons was written in Hebrew.

Name: A.D.M.H.
Age: 15
Date: 29 October 2018
Location: Azzun, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.D.M.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on my way to school to work on my writing project when I saw clashes between Israeli soldiers and boys from the town. It was around 4:30 p.m.
2. When I saw the clashes I changed my mind and decided to go back home but then two soldiers approached and grabbed me and started to beat me all over. I was in pain. Then they tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties which were tight and painful. Then they threw me on the ground and blindfolded me.
3. The soldiers continued to beat me until the commander came and told the soldiers to take me to a jeep. The soldiers threw me into the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor and the jeep drove towards the gate at the entrance to the village.
4. At the gate the commander removed the blindfold and asked me why I was taking part in the clashes and I told him I was not. He did not inform me of my rights and when I told him I was not taking part in the clashes he told me to shut up. Then he blindfolded me again and the soldiers took me back to the jeep which drove to the nearby settlement of Qarne Shomron. I was left outside and a dog started to sniff me while I was blindfolded and I was scared of the dog.
5. About 10 minutes later I was taken to a room until around 10:00 or 11:00 p.m. I was left on the floor and I was not given anything to eat or drink and I was not allowed to use the toilet.
6. Then I was taken in a vehicle to the nearby military base at Zufin. At the base I was examined by a doctor who asked me whether I was beaten by soldiers and I told him I was. I think he wrote it down on a piece of paper. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination and put it back on when he was finished. Then he took my blood pressure.
7. After the medical check I was taken outside where soldiers made fun of me and called me "a son of a whore". I remained there until around 3:00 a.m. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken inside where I sat on the floor until later that morning. I managed to sleep for about half an hour because I was very tired. During this time I was allowed to use the toilet but I was not given any food or drink.

8. At around 8:00 or 9:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement for interrogation. I waited until around 3:00 p.m. before it was my turn to be interrogated. I was still without any food or drink and still tied and blindfolded
9. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties. He was in civilian clothes and had a computer and a smart phone on his desk. He also had a camera and a voice recorder which he turned on. As soon as I entered the room he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer either before interrogation or in court. I told him I wanted a lawyer in court. He did not mention anything about my right to silence.
10. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at security forces. I denied the accusation and told him I did not throw anything at security forces. Then he told me there was evidence against me from soldiers.
11. He repeated the accusation again and again and I kept denying it. He then threatened to put my mother and father in prison if I did not confess. He told me soldiers saw me throwing stones and I told him that could not be true. Then he told me I was going to remain in detention and that he was going to transfer me to Huwwara military base.
12. Half way through the interrogation he called my father and told him I had a court hearing the following day. The interrogation lasted for about two hours. In the end I was so tired and worried about my parents that I decided to confess to throwing two stones which missed from a distance of 500 meters
13. After the interrogation the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I told him I did not read or write Hebrew and I was not going to sign anything I did not understand. Then he printed the documents in both Hebrew and Arabic and I read them and saw they were accurate so I signed.
14. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and then took me to Huwwara military base. At the base I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to a cell where I spent a night and I was given some food and drink.
15. I slept until the morning when I was woken up and taken to Salem military court. My parents were not allowed into the court room although they were waiting outside so I did not get to see them. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. After court I was taken to Megiddo prison inside Israel where I was searched in my underwear.
16. In all I had three military court hearings. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain of five months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because the sentence would have been longer. I also wanted to be sentenced as soon as possible and not accepting the plea bargain would have meant more court hearings and more delays.
17. I spent my entire prison sentence at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I attended classes and studied Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. My parents visited me once because it took a long time for the permit to be issued. For a whole month I did not have any contact with my parents.

18. I was released on the 22 January 2019, about two months earlier. They gave me an administrative reduction in my sentence because of overcrowding in the prison.
19. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 7:30 p.m. I found it hard in prison; I did not like how crowded it was. I also found it humiliating, especially when the prison guards woke us up in the middle of the night to count and search us.
20. The other day soldiers were in the village and I could not sleep that night; I am still very scared of them.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.J.A.I., of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. It was around 9:30 p.m. and there were clashes with Israeli soldiers in the neighbourhood where I live. As soon as I went home two soldiers stormed into our house without even knocking at the door. We were all sitting in the living room and I saw through the window about 10 more soldiers in two jeeps outside.
2. My mother started to shout as she was terrified. A soldier approached her and was about to spray pepper spray in her face but then threw a stun grenade instead. There was chaos in the house and we were all terrified and shocked.
3. Then one of the soldiers told me I was under arrest. He grabbed me and took me outside without telling me why and without giving my parents any documents. Outside the house he blindfolded me and tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for weeks and caused me a lot of pain.
4. After being tied and blindfolded I was thrown on the metal floor of a military jeep and driven to the nearby military base at Zufin. At the base I was taken to a room and a doctor examined me. I was left on the floor of that room until the next morning. I could not sleep at all. In the morning I was taken to Qedumim settlement for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. As soon as I entered the room he told me he was going to question me and told me I had the right to call my parents before the interrogation. He rang them and allowed me to speak to them. I barely had time to speak to my father and ask how he was before the line was cut off. The interrogator had me on speaker phone and he cut off the line after less than a minute. He also told me I had the right to call a lawyer but I told him I did not want to speak to a lawyer; I was suspicious of any lawyer that the interrogator would call. Then he gave me a document in Hebrew and Arabic about my rights and asked me to sign it. The document mentioned that I had the right to remain silent.
6. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied it. He showed me some photographs. Still, I continued to deny it. At that point he hit me on my head. He did not remove the tie or the blindfold except when he showed me a photograph. He was aggressive throughout the interrogation and told me four soldiers had testified against me. He banged the table with his pistol and threatened to revoke my father's work permit. He questioned me for about two hours and when he threatened to revoke my father's work permit I confessed to throwing two stones which missed. He did not ask me to sign any documents.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched with my clothes on and then I was taken to a cell. They removed the tie and the blindfold and I slept one night. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents attended the hearing and the military judge extended my detention. After the hearing I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was searched with my clothes on.
8. I had about seven military court hearings and at the last one I accepted a plea bargain. I was sentenced to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for four years. My lawyer told me it was not a good idea to reject the plea bargain so I accepted it.
9. About a month before I was released I was transferred to Damun prison, inside Israel. I also had a special hearing where my sentence was reduced. I was released on 17 April 2019, and I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my father.

Name: Y.I.R.H.
Age: 16
Date: 31 October 2018
Location: Azzun, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.I.R.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was sleeping at the workshop where I work together with my friend when a torch shining in my face woke me up. It was around 2:30 a.m., just 30 minutes after I had fallen asleep. I did not know what was going on. Then an Israeli soldier poked me with the back of his gun and told me to get up. He then pushed me to the floor and dragged me outside where he handcuffed me with my hands behind my back. The handcuffs were painful.
2. Once outside about five soldiers surrounded me and started to beat me all over my body. Then they led me towards some military jeeps where they blindfolded me and continued to beat me. It was a cold night and I was shivering; I was cold and shaken because I had very little sleep.
3. A soldier lifted me up by the handcuffs and threw me on the metal floor of one of the jeeps. He kept lifting the handcuffs until my head nearly touched the floor. Then the jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Zufin. When we arrived I was in a terrible condition.
4. At the settlement the soldiers removed the blindfold and the handcuffs and I was examined by a doctor. I told the doctor I was not feeling well. Then I was tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very painful and left a mark on my wrists. Then I was taken to a room where I sat on the floor. A soldier tied my legs with six plastic ties from the ankles to the knees in three locations and I could not move. I was so tired that I fell asleep on the concrete floor.
5. At around 7:00 a.m. I woke up and asked to use the toilet and to drink some water but a soldier told me to wait. I went back to sleep. At around 10:00 a.m. a soldier woke me up and told me to walk but I could not walk because my legs were tied together so I started to hop. I fell to the ground and the soldier kicked me.
6. The soldier took me to a larger room where I was left with two other soldiers. I fell asleep on the floor for about three hours. At around 1:30 p.m. a soldier cut off the ties around my legs and I was taken in a jeep to the settlement of Qarne Shomron. The jeep picked up some soldiers and then drove to the settlement of Qedumim where I waited in a corridor for about 30 minutes and then I was taken for interrogation.
7. I told the interrogator I was very thirsty and I needed a toilet. He cut off the ties and gave me some water and told me to wait until after the interrogation to go to the toilet. Then he showed me a document informing me of my right to silence. It had a warning that remaining silent could be used against me. Then the interrogator called my father and allowed me to speak to him. I told my father I was fine and did not tell him I was beaten; I did not want him to worry. Then the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and not to confess.

8. Then the interrogator showed me a photograph and claimed it was me throwing stones during clashes with soldiers. I did not think it was a good idea to remain silent because I thought remaining silent would imply I agreed with the interrogator. I told him this was an old photograph and I had already spent time in prison based on that photograph. Then he accused me of throwing stones and showed me a video of boys throwing stones at soldiers.
9. Then he told me he wanted to play a game with me. He told me the rules were that each time I gave him an unsatisfactory answer he would rip off my shirt. He then asked me about the photograph and when I said it was an old photo he slit my shirt with scissors. He repeated the same thing again and again until my shirt was all torn and I was left with my undershirt on. Then he brought in two soldiers and asked them whether the person in the photo was me and they said it was but I denied it was me. The interrogator then told me he was going to take it to a lab to determine whether it was me or not. By that time I was feeling very sick. I asked for some water and he gave me some and allowed me to use the toilet.
10. After the interrogation I was tied and blindfolded and taken in a jeep to Huwwara military base. On the way I had difficulty breathing and I felt I was suffocating. All the windows in the jeep were closed and there wasn't enough fresh air. Then the jeep turned around and went back to Qedumim and then it drove back to Huwwara. This took about one-and-a-half hours and I felt I was really suffocating and could not take it any longer.
11. At the entrance to Huwwara I was taken out of the jeep and I fell to the ground immediately. A soldier asked me for my name and kicked me in the chest. I passed out. The next thing I knew was that I was in a hospital bed with my arms tied to the bed. I asked a nurse to tell me where I was and she told me I was in a hospital in Petah Tikva, in Israel.
12. I slept until 8:00 a.m. and then I wanted to use the toilet but the soldiers who were guarding me told me I was not allowed to leave my bed. Then the nurse brought me a pan but I refused to use it and insisted on going to the toilet. In the end they allowed me.
13. A lawyer visited me and asked me how I was. Then two people in civilian clothes came by and swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". I had an argument with them and told them to shut up. One of them slapped me.
14. I spent one night at the hospital. On Friday I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was searched in my underwear before being taken to the juvenile section.

15. On Sunday I was taken to a military court. My parents were there and the military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had about five military court hearings.
16. At the last hearing the military judge asked me what I wanted to do when I am released and I told him I wanted to study. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor wanted to sentence me to seven months in prison.
17. I was released on 16 January 2019, about two weeks early because of good conduct. My parents were waiting for me at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with them. We arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.
18. I spent my entire sentence at Megiddo prison where I attended classes. My parents visited me only once, just nine days before I was released because it took a long time for their permit to be issued.

Name: M.I.Y.K.
Age: 14
Date: 6 November 2018
Location: Jayyus, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.I.Y.K. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. I answered the door and about 20 Israeli soldiers entered our home. About seven military vehicles were outside.
2. The soldiers pushed my mother and three-year-old sister into one of the bedrooms. Then they looked at some photographs they had and wanted to arrest my brother and then realised they had made a mistake and confused me with my brother. Then the commander told my father they wanted to question me about throwing stones and gave him a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. They asked my father to sign it and he did.
3. Then they took me outside in a rush and I only managed to put on one shoe. Then they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a military vehicle and thrown on the metal floor.
4. The military vehicle drove to Zufin military base where I was examined by a doctor. I was left at the military base until later that morning. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken to Qedumim settlement for interrogation.
5. There were two interrogators in the room. One of them removed the ties and the blindfold and asked me whether I throw stones at soldiers and I told him I don't. The other interrogator leaned on the first one as he addressed me. Then he repeated the accusation and I continued to deny it.
6. Half-way through the interrogation he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call one and I did not speak to a lawyer. I asked to speak to my parents but he did not allow me and told me only if I confessed would he allow me to speak to my parents. Then he showed me a document informing me of my rights including my right to silence.
7. Then the second interrogator took over. He told me he was going to revoke my father's work permit if I did not confess. Then he showed me a copy of my father's work permit and a photograph of my cousin. Then he lit a cigarette and offered it to me and offered me some tea. He told me his name was "Daoud" and told me I had to confess if I did not want my father's work permit revoked.

8. Then “Daoud” showed me photograph of boys from my village and asked me to confess against them but I refused. When I refused to confess he told me to put down the cup of tea, took it away from me and tied my hands and took me outside. Then he told me it seemed I did not want to go home and he told me he was going to let me rot in prison. The interrogations lasted for about one-and-a-half hours.
9. After the interrogation was over I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was met by a soldier who slapped me and forced me to sit down on the floor. Then I was searched in my underwear before being taken into a cell.
10. I spent five nights in the cell by myself. Soldiers brought me rotten food and I could not eat it, I just ate the yogurt. Then I was taken to Salem military court.
11. My mother and brother were there and the hearing was adjourned. My lawyer told me if I confess to throwing stones I would be sentenced to two months in prison but if I did not I could be charged with throwing Molotov cocktails in which case I would be sentenced to one year in prison. After the court I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was searched in my clothes before being taken to the cell with other boys.
12. I had three military court hearings over 35 days. During this time I was interrogated again at Salem and I confessed to throwing one stone which missed. I confessed because the interrogator had some Molotov cocktails on his desk and I was afraid if I denied the accusation again he would accuse me of throwing Molotov cocktails. This interrogator did not inform me of my rights and he questioned me for about an hour and took a break in the middle.
13. Then he showed me a document in Arabic and asked me to sign it and I did. After the interrogation I was taken back to the military court where I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain to avoid a much longer sentence and because my lawyer advised me to accept it.
14. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 23 December 2018. I went home with my uncle and some relatives. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. In prison I exercised and attended classes. I want to go back to school; I am in tenth grade.

I, S.J.Y.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with a friend near the agricultural college close to where I live. It was around 1:00 p.m. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers at the time and some boys were throwing stones.
2. Three soldiers stopped me and my friend. They soon released my friend but told me I was under arrest. A soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then he blindfolded me and took me to the back of a jeep where he made me sit on the metal floor.
3. The jeep drove to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. On the way the soldiers slapped and swore at me and called my mother and sisters "whores". I felt humiliated even though I don't have any sisters.
4. At Kiryat Arba I waited outside for about two hours before being driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. I waited outside for about 30 minutes before being taken inside for interrogation. By then it was around 5:00 p.m.
5. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers. I denied the accusation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He told me to answer all his questions and not to keep denying the accusation. He turned a voice recorder on and then he showed me some photographs of clashes with soldiers. He told me I was among the boys seen in the photographs. When I denied the accusations he thumped the table and raised his voice at me urging me to confess. I denied the accusation again and told him I did not do anything wrong.
6. The interrogation lasted for about 45 minutes and the interrogator kept insisting I had to confess. He told me he was going to send me to another interrogator who beats boys if I did not confess. When I told him I was not going to confess to something I did not do he took me to see the other interrogator in the room next door.
7. The second interrogator was in civilian clothes and looked scary. He had swollen red eyes and a nasty look on his face. He did not inform me of my rights and told me I had to confess to him right away. He told me not to say a word except in response to his questions. He wanted me to confess to throwing stones. When I denied the accusation he thumped the table aggressively and showed me some images on his computer screen. He told me I had to confess. He kept repeating the accusation until I was very tired and decided to confess that I was in one out of the six images he showed me. This was about 30 minutes into the interrogation.

8. After I confessed he allowed me to speak to my brother. Then he asked me whether I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I told him I did. He called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. When I told the lawyer I had already confessed he told me he would see me in court.
9. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. I told him I was not going to sign anything in Hebrew without a lawyer present. Then he showed me a document with two lines in Arabic and the rest was in Hebrew and I refused to sign.
10. Then I was searched in my underwear before being taken to a cell where I spent a night. I was given some food and I could not sleep well.
11. In the morning I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The judge denied me release on bail and I was taken back to Ofer. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed about the hearing.
12. I had five hearings in the military court. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and a fine of NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor was otherwise asking for 10 months in prison if I refused.
13. I spent my sentence at Ofer prison where I washed dishes and studied Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I was released on 4 February 2019, and I went home with my parents.

Date: 18 November 2018
Location: Kafr Ni'ma, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, M.A.M.K. of Kafr Ni'ma, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was watching television at around 2:15 a.m. when I heard very loud banging at our front door. I rushed to my parents' bedroom to wake them up but they were already awake. My father looked out the window to see who it was and he saw two Israeli soldiers.
2. When my father opened the front door six soldiers entered our home. The commander told me and my brother and father to sit in the living room and he asked me for my name. Then he told me to fetch my telephone and my identity card and I did.
3. The commander put my telephone in his pocket and then looked at my ID and compared my details with a list he had. Then he told me to get dressed as I was under arrest. When I asked him for the reason he told me I would soon find out at the police station. He gave my parents a document which he filled out in Hebrew.
4. When I went to my bedroom to get dressed a soldier followed me and searched my clothes. My father told the commander he wanted to accompany me to the police station but the commander refused.
5. I was then taken outside where I was tied with my hands to the front with two plastic ties connected to each other. The ties were not painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I was thrown on the metal floor. I had a cold at the time and when I tried to reach out for a tissue in my pocket a soldier kicked me on the leg.
6. The jeep drove to a military base which I did not recognise and I was taken to a shipping container. I sat on a chair but I could not sleep because there was a loud noise of an engine which kept me awake.
7. I asked to use the toilet and an hour later I was allowed to go to the toilet. A soldier cut off the ties and when I came back he tied me again, this time the ties were painful and left a mark on my wrists. I was left in the shipping container until around 8:00 a.m. and then I was taken in a vehicle to the police station in the settlement of Modiin Illit.
8. On arrival at the settlement I was taken to a room for interrogation. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He spoke good Arabic and wore an Israeli police uniform. He asked me for my name and whether I worked or was still at school. He had a voice recorder on.

9. The interrogator showed me a photograph of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. Then he pointed to a boy in the photograph and told me it was me. I denied it was me. Then he told me he was going to take the photograph to a lab for analysis to determine whether the boy seen throwing stone in the photograph was me or not.
10. Half-way through the interrogation he showed me a document written in Arabic about my right to choose a lawyer and my right to remain silent. Then he asked me whether I needed a lawyer and then phoned one and left the room and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to say I was in a peaceful demonstration if the interrogator showed me photographs. I was suspicious of the lawyer because I felt he had consulted with the interrogator in advance based on what he said.
11. The interrogation lasted for about two hours. In the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign because I did not understand what was written. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph as well as a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer at around 11:30 a.m. I was strip searched and then taken to Section 19.
12. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My uncle was there and the hearing was adjourned. On 26 November 2018, I was taken to the waiting room outside the court but I was never taken into court. At around 5:00 p.m. I was taken back to prison where I was told I was going to be released on bail.
13. I was released from prison later that day and I arrived home after midnight. I found out that my parents had to pay NIS 2,000 bail but no one told me anything about another military court hearing.
14. I also found out that my father tried to call the numbers on the document he was given when I was arrested many times but there was no answer. He wanted to know how I was but nobody picked up the telephone. I also realised that the police station I was taken to for interrogation was not listed on the document given to my father.

Name: M.N.I.B.
Date: 26 November 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.N.I.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My mother answered the door and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. More soldiers waited outside.
2. My older brother asked the soldiers what they wanted and the commander asked to see his identity card. Then the commander spotted me and asked me for my name. Soldiers started to speak to each other in Hebrew and then the commander told me I was under arrest and told me to get dressed.
3. The commander gave my uncle a document and asked him to sign it and he did. The commander did not tell me why he wanted to arrest me but in the document it said they wanted to question me about stone throwing.
4. I was then taken outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with four plastic ties on top of each other. They were tight and painful and I complained to the commander but he told me to shut up. Then they blindfolded me and led me down the hill towards the cemetery. On the way the soldiers swore at me and called my mother and sisters “whores”.
5. When we arrived at the cemetery I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep then drove to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. On the way a soldier kicked and punched me.
6. At Kiryat Arba I was taken to a room where I waited until around 1:00 p.m. I was left without any food or drink. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I waited in a room for about 10 minutes and then I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator had a voice recorder on his desk. He removed the ties and the blindfold and asked me whether I wanted to be “straightforward or crooked” with him. I told him I was going to be straightforward. Without informing me of my rights he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at a settlers’ bus. He said it was me and “the other gangsters”. I denied the accusation. He repeated the accusation again and again and insisted I had to confess. He thumped the table and was very aggressive. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The interrogator remained in the room while I spoke to the lawyer.

8. The lawyer asked me whether it was my first arrest and told me not to worry. He also told me that I had the right to remain silent and then he hung up. The conversation lasted for about 1 minute. Then the interrogator repeated the accusation. At first I denied the accusation again but then I realised if I did not confess I would be sitting in that room in front of the interrogator for a long time. After about 30 minutes I confessed to throwing 2 stones at a settlers' bus. I just wanted to get it over with.
9. Then the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. I told him I did not read or write any Hebrew but still he insisted I had to sign and I did. Then he tied my hands again and I was taken into a cell where the ties were removed and I was strip searched. I was given some food and I stayed in the cell until around 11:00 p.m. I did not sleep. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 19.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there because they were not notified about the hearing and my case was adjourned. I had about six or seven military court hearings. I did not understand what went on during the hearings because everything was in Hebrew without enough translation into Arabic.
11. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of three months in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain without understanding the reason or the implications.
12. I was released on the 12 December 2018, 16 days after I was sentenced. On the day when I was released my family split up and went to all the possible checkpoints where I might be released. I went home with my brothers and uncle. I arrived home at around 1:30 a.m. It was a cold and rainy night.

Name: Q.W.N.B.
Date: 2 December 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Q.W.N.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My brother woke me up at around 2:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our neighbourhood. I looked out the window and saw the soldiers going into my grandparents' house. About 30 minutes later the soldiers came to our house accompanied by my uncle. My uncle knocked at our door and told my father the soldiers wanted to arrest me.
2. My father answered the door and about eight soldiers entered our home. The minute the commander saw me he asked me for my name and then told me to get ready because I was under arrest. My father was shocked and asked me whether I had been involved in throwing stones at soldiers and I told him I had not. One of the soldiers told my father I was a trouble maker. The commander gave my mother a document but I don't know what it said.
3. I put my shoes on and wanted to say goodbye to my family but the soldiers did not allow me. I was immediately taken outside and led towards my grandparents' house where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for weeks.
4. After I was tied the soldiers led me through the neighbourhood and the commander asked me to show him the house of someone he named and I told him I did not know that person. Then they led me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our camp where they blindfolded me and left me for about 20 minutes. During this time soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". They also kicked me on the legs.
5. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the floor between the soldiers' legs. On the way a soldier shone a torch in my eyes and when he saw that my eyes were open under the blindfold he slapped me and called me "a son of a whore".
6. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken to a room and left on the floor until around 9:00 a.m. I wanted to sleep but the soldier told me I was not allowed to sleep. I was very uncomfortable and tired. I asked the soldier to remove the tie but he refused. I was not given any food or drink and the soldier gave me a hard time before he allowed me to use the toilet. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold. Then he greeted me and asked me for my name. I asked to speak to a lawyer and he phoned one for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and not to confess. The interrogator was listening and when I told the lawyer I was not afraid the interrogator laughed sarcastically. The conversation with the lawyer was very short. Neither the lawyer nor the interrogator told me anything about the right to silence.

8. Then the interrogator gave me a specific date and told me I was with two other boys and the three of us had set fire to a settler's car. I told him this was not true and I denied the accusation. The interrogator accused me of lying and named one of the other boys. Then he grabbed my genitals and twisted them hard and caused me a lot of pain. He wanted me to confess against the other two boys he claimed were with me. I was in such pain that I started to cry. He twisted my genitals again and I was in such pain that I confessed to throwing two stones at soldiers which missed. I also gave him the name of a person who was shot dead by soldiers. I was willing to do anything to stop him twisting my genitals.
9. I felt the interrogation lasted for a long time. The interrogator took me outside and brought me in again several times. During this time the interrogator raised his voice at me, told me I was an "idiot" and swore at me saying I was "a son of a whore". In the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I asked him to translate the document he did and I signed because it was identical to what I had told him.
10. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I was able to sleep for about 30 minutes before being taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again and was asked to crouch up and down and then I was taken to Section 19. I arrived there at around 2:00 p.m.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed about it and the proceedings were adjourned.
12. In all I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison in addition to a suspended sentence of one month valid for eight months. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I would be released within a week.
13. The last hearing was on the 18 December 2018, and I was released on the 24 December 2018. I went home with my father who was waiting for me outside Ofer. I arrived home late at night.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.I.M.T. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me to go downstairs and open the front door. I got up and went downstairs and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our building.
2. The commander had a document with him and told me someone had to sign the arrest document which had my name on it. My father signed the document and the commander told me I had one minute to get dressed.
3. I barely had time to tie my shoes before the soldiers dragged me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for weeks. They also blindfolded me.
4. I was then led towards the metal gate installed by the army at the entrance to our refugee camp. A soldier punched me in the stomach while I was blindfolded and caused me a lot of pain. Then I was taken to the back of a military vehicle where I sat on the floor between the soldiers' legs. A soldier held my head down all the way to the police station in Etzion settlement.
5. At Etzion I was taken to a room where I was left on a blanket on the floor until around 6:00 a.m. I could not sleep at all and I was not given any food or drink.
6. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold and allowed me to speak to a lawyer on the phone. He put his phone on speaker while I talked to the lawyer. The lawyer asked me whether it was my first arrest and told me not to worry and not to confess. He told me I had the right to remain silent. The conversation lasted for about 1 minute and the interrogator heard everything.
7. Without informing me of my right to silence the interrogator asked me whether I wanted to be "straightforward or crooked" with him. I told him I was willing to be straightforward if he was straightforward with me and I explained that I was not going to confess to anything I did not do.
8. Then the interrogator told me there were confessions against me by two boys from the camp. I told him my family had recently moved into the camp and I did not know anyone there. He told me the two boys had confessed that I threw stones and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. He named the two boys and I told him I did not know the boys and I denied the accusation.

9. The interrogator told me that my denial was not going to help me. He kept repeating the same accusations and I kept denying them. He thumped the table several times and called me "a son of a whore". He accused me of being "crooked" and played a voice recording of the two boys confessing against me. In the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
10. Then he took me to see another interrogator. The second interrogator did not inform me of my rights and told me to answer in "yes" or "no". He had a voice recorder on his desk and was typing on a computer. He mentioned a specific date and accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and was angry the whole time. He showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. He then took me back to see the first interrogator.
11. The first interrogator accused me of the same accusations and insisted that I had to confess. Then he accused me of possessing a hunting gun and I denied it. In the end I confessed to throwing 1 stone from a distance of 200 meters which missed. I confessed to throwing a stone because I was afraid he would implicate me in more serious offenses. He showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign but I refused to sign.
12. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints and then took me to a cell where I was strip searched. They gave me some food which was unappetising and I could not eat it but I was able to sleep for a couple of hours.
13. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again and I was asked to crouch up and down. Then I was taken into the juvenile section. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed about the hearing and so they did not attend. The hearing was adjourned.
14. In all I had about 13 military court hearings. I asked my lawyer to keep adjourning because I thought by the time I was sentenced I would have little time left to spend in prison. On 20 February 2019, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor wanted to sentence me to six months in prison.
15. I spent most of my prison sentence at Ofer where I studied Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. I also exercised a lot and lifted weights. Eighteen days before I was released I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I found this very hard to cope with. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not issued a permit in time.
16. I was released on the 21 March 2019, and I went home with my family. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

I, J.W.F.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers had come to our house. Soon afterwards I heard loud banging at the front door and my father answered. About 10 soldiers entered our home.
2. The commander asked for me and told my father he wanted to take me to Etzion settlement for questioning and would send me home later the same day. He gave my father a document in Hebrew and asked him to sign it but my father refused to sign because he did not understand what was written in it. They allowed me to put my jacket on but did not allow me to say goodbye to my family.
3. Once outside I was tied to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. The tie became more and more painful as the day went on and it left marks on my wrists. Then they blindfolded me and led me through the camp while the soldiers made more arrests. I was taken towards the military watchtower at the entrance to the camp where the soldiers made me sit outside on the ground for about 30 minutes.
4. After about 30 minutes I was taken to a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor between the soldiers' feet. The soldiers were singing hysterically in Hebrew.
5. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I spent the night in a room. I was tied and blindfolded the whole time. I was not allowed to sleep; each time I tried to sleep a soldier would kick me and wake me up deliberately. I was allowed to use the toilet but I was not given any food or drink. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator removed the blindfold and then phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess to something I did not do. The conversation lasted for a few seconds and the interrogator was listening. I was not informed of my right to silence by anyone. Then the interrogator removed the tie and then retied my hands to the chair I was sitting on.
7. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers two days before I was arrested. He told me there were confessions against me by other boys and he named the boys. Then he played a voice recording of the boys confessing against me. I asked the interrogator to show me their faces but he refused and told me I had to first confess against them and only then would he show me their faces. I refused to confess.

8. Another person was standing behind me and when I refused to confess he slapped me and swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I signed because I was scared of him and I did not want to be beaten anymore. The interrogation lasted for about two hours.
9. Then I was taken outside where I waited for about 6 hours. I was not given any food or drink and I was very tired. Then I was taken into a cell where I was strip searched. I spent about 4 hours in the cell and then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again and a soldier ran a machine on my sensitive parts. Then I was taken into section 19 and that was when I ate for the first time since my arrest. It was around 9:00 or 10:00 at night.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had about 12 military court hearings. During the hearing before last the military judge asked me whether I wanted to confess to throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at a bus. I refused to confess.
11. The following day my lawyer explained to me that if I confess I would be released. So at the next hearing I confessed in a plea bargain and I was sentenced to two months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a six-month suspended sentence valid for six years. This hearing was on the 4 February 2019, and I was released on the same day.
12. My father and some of my friends met me outside prison and I went home with them. I arrived home after midnight. In prison I attended classes and studied Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not issued a permit in time.

Name: M.N.A.M.
Date: 15 December 2018
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.N.A.M. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up and told me that Israeli soldiers were at our front door. It was around 2:00 a.m. and I was terrified. I went downstairs where I saw five soldiers inside our home. More soldiers were on the street outside.
2. The commander said he was looking for me. He gave my father a document and asked him to sign it and he did. The commander told me he was going to take me to the police station in Etzion settlement for questioning but he did not say what it was about. The soldiers appeared to be in a hurry and only remained in our house for about 10 minutes.
3. As soon as I was dressed I was taken outside where a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie. The tie was painful and left marks on my wrists. The soldiers then led me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our refugee camp where I waited for about 15 minutes. During this time soldiers beat me on my back and called me “a son of a whore”.
4. After 15 minutes I was taken to the back of a jeep where they made me sit on the metal floor. The jeep drove to Etzion police station where I was taken to a room. I was left in the room for about three hours and I was not given any food or drink. The soldiers who were guarding me gave me a hard time before they allowed me to use the toilet; I had to beg them. They tried to scare and startle me by shouting in my face while I was blindfolded. I was able to sleep on the floor for about 30 minutes and then I was taken for interrogation. I think it was around 9:30 a.m.
5. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and handed me his telephone to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to be scared of the interrogator because he was a human being like me. He also told me I had the right to remain silent during the interrogation. He told me even if they show me photographic evidence nothing would indict me except my own words. The interrogator left the room while I spoke to the lawyer. The conversation with the lawyer lasted about three minutes.
6. The interrogator came back into the room and without informing me of my other rights he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail on a settler bus traveling on Route 60, ten days before my arrest. I denied the accusation and told him I did not go near Route 60.
7. Then the interrogator threatened to revoke my father’s work permit if I did not confess and did not tell him exactly how I threw the Molotov cocktail. This threat messed with my mind as my father supports a family of 10 people and it would be a disaster if he could no longer work. Still, I continued to deny the accusation. Then he gave me another date and wanted me to tell him what I did on that date. I told him I did not do anything.

8. The interrogator had a voice recorder on his desk and was wearing civilian clothes. During the interrogation he thumped the table several times. He brought in the commander in charge of the camp who slapped me on the head and urged me to confess. He told me it looked like I was taking my time and he then took me into another room.
9. Two people in civilian clothes were in the other room. They did not inform me of my rights and one of them asked me for my name and told me I was accused of throwing a Molotov cocktail at a settlers' bus. They questioned me for about 30 minutes and were calm. In the end I confessed to throwing a stone because I did not want my father's work permit to be revoked.
10. When I confessed they showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign and asked them to translate it into Arabic. Then they showed me a document in Arabic and I read it and when I saw it was identical to what I had said I signed it.
11. After the interrogation I was tied again and taken to another room where they took my fingerprints and photograph. Then I was blindfolded and thrown outside where I remained for about 30 minutes.
12. After about 30 minutes I was taken in a military vehicle to a cell in the same compound where I was searched in my underwear. Inside the cell they removed the tie and the blindfold. I was not given any food or drink but I managed to sleep for about 30 minutes.
13. After about 30 minutes I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 19. I arrived at Ofer at around sunset.
14. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed. A lawyer was in court and I was denied release on bail and the hearing was adjourned. In all I had about four military court hearings. I did not understand what went on during the hearings as everything was in Hebrew.
15. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence but I did not understand the details. The military judge told me to stop being a trouble maker and to focus on my school work. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
16. I was released on 2 January 2019, on the same day as my last court hearing. I was released earlier because of good conduct. I went home by myself. I stopped a taxi and I arrived home after midnight. I had dinner but I could not sleep; I missed my family so much that I stayed up very late. I finally fell asleep at around 4:00 a.m. It was a tough experience for me. I am in 9th grade and I want to go back to school.

1. My mother woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me that Israeli soldiers were at our front door. Then I heard loud banging at the door. Shortly afterwards about 10 soldiers entered our home after making a big dent in the front door.
2. The commander mentioned my brother to my father and then mentioned me. Then he told my father they wanted to take me for questioning at the police station about throwing stones and Molotov cocktail. He gave my father a document which was written in Hebrew and asked him to sign it but my father refused to sign.
3. I put some clothes on and said goodbye to my family and then I was taken outside where a soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time.
4. Then I was led for about 300 meters towards the cemetery. When we got there soldiers swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and “a brother of a whore”. Then they blindfolded me and took me to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor. Later I was transferred to the back of a jeep where I was also made to sit on the metal floor. A soldier also slapped me when I spoke to another detainee who was in the jeep.
5. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken to a shipping container and left on the floor for about four hours, maybe more. I was not able to sleep because a soldier poked me and woke me up each time I fell asleep. I had to beg to use the toilet and the soldier finally allowed me.
6. During this time I was examined by a doctor who asked me to sign a document but I refused to sign. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. He told me to wait until he finished talking and then I could talk. Without informing me of my rights he accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktail with my cousin. I denied the accusation. Then he lifted his feet up on the chair I was sitting on and told me I had to confess. When I refused to confess he thumped the table and raised his voice at me and told me I was “a son of a whore”.

8. Half-way through the interrogation I told the interrogator I wanted to speak to a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The interrogator put the telephone on speaker and remained in the room while I spoke to the lawyer. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to mention any names. He also told me he was going to get me released. The conversation lasted for less than two minutes.
9. Then the interrogator continued to accuse me of the same accusations and I continued to deny them. Then he threatened to revoke my father's work permit if I did not confess. The interrogation lasted for about two hours and during this time the interrogator took me outside the room and brought me in again several times. Then he took me to another room where a different interrogator questioned me.
10. Without informing me of my rights the second interrogator named a person and told me I had to confess against him. When I told him I did not know the person and refused to confess against him he slapped me. Then he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
11. Then I was taken to another room where they took my fingerprints and photograph. Then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I was left in the room with another detainee and I was able to sleep for about an hour. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed and that was why they did not attend the hearing. The hearing lasted for a short time and I did not understand much. After the hearing I was taken back to Ofer prison.
13. At around 10:00 p.m. I was released from prison. My parents were waiting for me outside Ofer and I went home with them. I arrived home at around 1:00 a.m. I was released without charge on 26 December 2018.

Name: A.Y.H.A.
Age: 16
Date: 1 January 2019
Location: Beit Ummar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.Y.H.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up after my uncle phoned to tell us Israeli soldiers were at his house looking for me. It was around 2:00 a.m. Then my phone rang and my father answered. It was the area commander who told my father to bring me over to my older brother's house and if he didn't the soldiers would arrest my brother.
2. I later found out that the soldiers had raided my brother's house and trashed it looking for me. My father told the commander he would bring me over as soon as I got dressed. I got dressed and said goodbye to my family. My father then took me in the car to my brother's house. When we were about 200 meters away soldiers stopped our car told us they had orders to arrest me.
3. A female soldier took me out of the car and was going to tie my hands to the back but another soldier told her she should hand tie me to the front but then a third soldier intervened and agreed with the female soldier. In the end I was hand tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. I was also blindfolded.
4. A soldier asked to see my identity card and my phone. My father told them my identity card was at home. They held my father for about 10 minutes and then took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
5. Inside the jeep soldiers swore and called me "a son of a whore" and "a brother of a whore". When I swore back at them a soldier struck me with the back of his gun. Then the jeep drove to the settlement of Karmi Zur.
6. On arrival at the settlement I was left on the floor of a shipping container until around 6:00 a.m. I was still tied and blindfolded. Then I was taken to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. On arrival at Kiryat Arba I was left outside for about one-and-a-half hours. Then an interrogator took me inside for questioning. It was around 7:30 a.m.
7. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. Without informing me of my rights he showed me a photograph and told me it was of me. When I denied it was me he swore at me and became very angry. This lasted for about 10 minutes and then he told me he was going to send me to the police station in Etzion settlement for “a proper interrogation”. I was then blindfolded and taken to Etzion police station.

8. On arrival at Etzion I was examined by a doctor. Then I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair and I could not sleep. Then an interrogator came and told me his name was “Yousef”. He started by telling me he was like my father. When I told him he did not remotely resemble my father he started to swear.
9. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I told him I did. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him while he remained in the room. The lawyer told me not to be scared of the interrogator. He told me I had the right to remain silent. I felt the lawyer wanted to chat in order not to give the interrogator a lot of time to question me. I think we spoke for about three minutes.
10. Then the interrogator told me my brother had confessed against me. I told him my brother and I have long standing disputes and that he had kicked me out of the house and his confession does not mean anything because he is a liar. The interrogator accused me of not having respect for my brother. Then I told him I had nothing to confess even if he was to hold me until the following morning.
11. Then he wanted me to give him the name of the other person seen in the photograph he showed me and I told him I did not know the person. When he raised his voice at me I told him I was going to exercise my right to silence if he continued to shout. He agreed that he was angry and apologized. Then he told me he was going to send me to Ofer prison because I would not give him the name of the other person. I told him I had nothing to say and wondered why he was going to send me to prison. He told me he was going to have them sentence me for a year if I did not confess and if I did confess he was going to send me home.
12. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. The interrogator did not give me any documents to sign. Then he sent me to another room where I was interrogated by someone else. The other person showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I told him to translate it for me. He then printed it in Arabic and it said I had consulted with a lawyer and he asked me to sign it and I did. He did not ask me any question and the whole thing lasted for about five minutes. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph before taking me to a cell where I was searched in my underwear. They brought me some food and left me in the cell for about five hours.
13. After about five hours I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
14. On Thursday, 3 January 2019, I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were in court. I was denied release on bail and was taken back to Ofer prison. I had about 11 or 12 military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison fined NIS 500. I was also given a suspended sentence of five months valid for three years.

15. Because my parents did not pay the fine I was not granted the 14-day early release. I was released from Ofer on 1 May 2019. My parents were waiting for me and they took me home. We arrived home at around 6:00 p.m. My parents visited me only once in prison because it took a long time for their visit permit to be issued.

Name: F.M.N.S.
Age: 17
Date: 1 January 2019
Location: Kafr Qaddum, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, F.M.N.S. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers came to our neighbourhood during the weekly protest against a road closure. It was around 5:00 p.m. When I saw them I went home but they followed me.
2. Three soldiers kicked open our front door, breaking it, and then stormed into our home. They told my father they wanted to take me away for five minutes for questioning and then they would bring me back. They did not say why and did not give us any documents.
3. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and when I complained the soldier tightened them even more. Then they blindfolded me and walked me towards the settlement of Qedumim. They kicked me on the way to hurry me up.
4. At the settlement they made me wait by the military base for about two hours and then took me to the police station in Ariel settlement. At Ariel I was left in a room until around midnight and I could not sleep. The soldiers were very noisy and I was tied and blindfolded the whole time. I was not given any food or drink. At around midnight I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. At first he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and warned me that remaining silent could harm me in court. He told me it would not be enough to convict me if the interrogator showed me photographic images or video footage. He also told me I had a court hearing on Thursday. The interrogator was not in the room when I spoke to the lawyer.
6. Then the interrogator asked me whether I was throwing stones during the protest. I told him I was not. Then he told me two soldiers had testified against me and said they had seen me throwing stones. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was in Israeli police uniform and was calm. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then showed me a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign it. The document included paragraphs about my right to silence and the right to consult with a lawyer. It also included my statement. I signed it because it was identical to what I had said. Then I waited a short while in another room before being taken to Huwwara military base near Nablus where I was searched in my underwear. I was then taken to a cell where they removed the ties. I spent a night there and I was not given any food or drink.

7. Later than morning a lawyer visited me and told me I had a military court hearing and that he had informed my parents. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched and taken to a section with other prisoners.
8. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were not there and I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned until Tuesday. The lawyer told me he was going to try to get me released on Tuesday.
9. I had four military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months in prison valid for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because I would have been served with a longer term had I rejected it.
10. I was released early on 14 February 2019, and I went home with my father. We arrived home in the evening. I spent my time in Megiddo prison and my parents did not visit me because the permit to visit was not issued in time. In prison I exercised and lifted weights and chatted to a relative of mine who was in prison with me. I missed a whole semester of school.

Name: Y.A.A.Z.
Date: 8 January 2019
Location: Beit Ummar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.A.A.Z. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 2:30 a.m. Israeli soldiers started banging at our front gate and then broke it down. My father opened the inside door and about 15 soldiers entered our home.
2. The soldiers spoke to my father and asked him about weapons and about me. They searched our house and caused damage to our furniture. They took kafias and mobile phones and never brought them back. Then they said they wanted to arrest me and gave my father a document with information about my arrest and asked him to sign it.
3. I was then taken outside and the commander started to ask me some questions without informing me of my rights. He wanted to know where I had hidden a specific jacket and wanted me to bring it. He threatened to make my family stand in the rain and then threatened to kill them if I did not turn in the jacket. He told me the soldiers were crazy and out of control and could do anything. He made me stand in the rain for about 10 minutes.
4. After about 10 minutes of standing in the rain a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. They were tight and painful. He also blindfolded me.
5. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. The soldiers were singing loudly inside the jeep and making fun of me. They swore at my mother and sisters and called them “whores”. The jeep drove to the settlement of Karmi Zur but I was left in the jeep until around 6:00 or 7:00 a.m. Then the jeep drove around for about an hour and then took me to the police station in Etzion settlement.
6. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a corridor leading to the toilets and I was left there on the floor for about two or three hours. When I pulled the blindfold down because I could not stand it anymore a soldier slapped me and put it back on. At around 11:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. As soon as the interrogator walked into the room he handed me a knife and told me “go ahead, stab me”. I did not touch the knife. Then he told me this was not the first time he had seen me and that he knew my family and my brothers and told me he wanted to save me the hardships I had suffered during my first arrest. He told me he wanted to come to an agreement with me and said he was going to be nice and remove the blindfold.

8. He removed the blindfold and told me to take a short rest and offered me some food and drink. Then he phoned a lawyer and put the phone on speaker and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and not to confess. The interrogator was listening. The lawyer and the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. About 10 minutes later he asked me whether I had enough rest and was ready for him.
9. He asked me whether I throw stones at soldiers. When I told him I did not he accused me of being evasive. He told me he was nice to me and expected the same from me. Then he became angry. He punched me on the head and slapped me in the face and asked me about other boys from the village. He threatened to arrest my father and asked me about the jacket and my telephone. Then he calmed down again, told me he was going to give me a break. He put his pistol and some bullets on the table in front of me and left the room.
10. Then he came back and took me to another room where another interrogator showed me a satellite image of my village on his computer screen. He did not inform me of my rights. He zoomed in and showed me the neighbourhood where I live and asked me to point to the house where another boy lives and he named the boy. I told him the image was not clear enough and I did not show the boy's house. Then he offered me some sweets and told me the other interrogator was mean and could have killed me if he wanted. He told me to be straightforward with him and to identify the house because, unlike the other interrogator, he was on my side.
11. Then he took me to see a third interrogator and warned me that he was a crazy person and if I lied to him he would kill me. The third interrogator did not inform me of my rights and accused me of not cooperating with them and handed me a document accusing me of membership of the PFLP and Hamas and that I was accused of throwing stones at Karmi Zur and of disturbing the security of the area and throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement. He asked me if I had anything to say and I told him denied all the accusations.
12. The third interrogator had a voice recorder and he turned it on and off to record the words he was looking for taking them out of context. When I denied I was a member of Hamas and the PFLP he turned the voice recorder on when I said the words Hamas and the PFLP. Then he told me the judge in the military court was not going to show any sympathy towards me. He told me if I did not confess the mad soldiers waiting outside the room would beat me up.
13. Later I was taken back to the first interrogator who urged me again to confess against the other boys and promised never to tell them I had confessed against them. He told me if I confessed he was going to send me home to my family. I did not confess. Then he printed out documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I did not sign. The interrogations lasted for about six hours.
14. After the interrogations I was tied and blindfolded and taken to a prison cell at Etzion where I was searched in my underwear while about 10 soldiers were watching. I felt embarrassed. The ties and the blindfold were removed and I was given some food. I was left in the cell which was freezing cold and I did not have any blankets. I was left there a whole day and was given two meals.

15. The following day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 9:00 p.m. I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were not there because they were not notified. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
16. I had five military court hearings and in the end my lawyer told me that the military judge decided to release me on bail. My father paid NIS 1,000 and I was released on 31 January 2019.
17. I have not been summoned to court since my release. The prison authorities refused to give us back our telephones because my file is not yet closed, so I am waiting and I don't know what will happen next.

Name: S.M.S.M.
Age: 15
Date: 9 January 2019
Location: Tuqu', occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, S.M.S.M. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up after hearing some noise around the house. It was around 1:30 a.m. It was a cold rainy night and my parents and siblings were all asleep. Then I heard loud banging at our front door and I immediately woke up my mother and father.
2. My father went to open the door and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. Four of the soldiers were wearing face masks. The soldiers ordered all of us into my parents' bedroom and asked my father for our names. Then they identified me and asked to see my identity card. They then said I was under arrest.
3. My mother asked why I was being arrested and the commander told her they wanted to take me for two days for questioning and would then bring me back. When I told the commander I had not done anything wrong he told me they would not have come to our home in the middle of the night if there wasn't a good reason.
4. The commander then tried to re-assure my parents and told my father not to worry and that he was going to take me in the same vehicle he was in. Then he gave my parents a document written in Hebrew and asked my mother to sign it and she did. He circled Etzion police station on the document indicating they were going to take me there.
5. Then the commander turned his mobile phone on and showed me an image of a boy standing on the side of the street. He told me to bring the clothes the boy was wearing in the photo. Then the soldiers searched my bedroom and looked under my bed and a female soldier found the trousers they were looking for. Then the commander showed my mother the image and my mother told him it was not me. They remained inside the house for about 20 minutes.
6. After 20 minutes the soldiers took me outside where I was blindfolded and handcuffed to the back with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful. They walked me towards a nearby military watchtower and then put me in a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor.
7. The jeep took me to a nearby military base where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination. I was left at the military base overnight and I was able to sleep. At around 8:30 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I waited outside in the cold while handcuffed and blindfolded for about an hour. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator sat me down on a chair and removed the blindfold. He kept me handcuffed during the interrogation. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room but I do not know whether he had them on or not. He asked me for my name and whether I wanted to speak to a lawyer. When I told him I did he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and if I am given documents to sign I should call him first. The conversation lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator was listening.
9. Then the interrogator told me he was not going to force me to speak and it was up to me whether I spoke or not. Then he showed me a photograph and claimed it was a photograph of me but I denied it. Then he lost his temper and started to speak in a loud voice and accused me of lying. Then he showed me video footage of me which was about two years old. When he did I felt I had no choice but to confess and I confessed to throwing two stones which missed.
10. Then he showed me documents written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused to sign and told him I wanted to speak to my lawyer. He called the lawyer and the lawyer told me it was ok to sign so I signed. Then the interrogator blindfolded me again and I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I was left there overnight and I was able to sleep.
11. The following morning, at around 7:00 a.m., I was brought some food. After I ate I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there and the hearing was adjourned.
12. I had about eight military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months suspended for three years. Nobody asked me whether I accepted the plea bargain. All I knew was that the lawyer told me I had been sentenced. My mother objected to the high sentence but nobody took what she said into account.
13. After court I was taken to Ofer but four days later I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. While at Ofer my parents visited me four times. I was granted early release and was released on 3 June 2019. My parents were waiting at another checkpoint when I was released at Al Jalama. I took a taxi to where they were waiting and my father paid the taxi driver. We arrived home around midnight and by the time I had dinner and chatted with everyone it was around 4:00 a.m. I was very tired and went to sleep.

Name: A.A.A.Q.
Date: 9 January 2019
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.A.Q. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was still awake at around 1:00 a.m. because I knew Israeli soldiers were in our village. Then I heard banging at our front door. My father opened the door and three soldiers, accompanied by a person wearing a mask, entered our home.
2. A soldier told my father to gather all of us in the living room. Then they asked for me by name and told me to get ready because I was under arrest. My mother wanted to know why they wanted to arrest me and one of them told her they wanted to take me for a short while and would bring me back. Then they told my father to come along with me in order to sign a document.
3. The soldiers led me and my father towards the centre of town where some military jeeps were parked. They gave my father a document and then sent him home.
4. A soldier then tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful but later, when I arrived at Etzion, a soldier tightened them. I was also blindfolded before being taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
5. The jeep drove around for about an hour and then took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair until 9:00 a.m. I was allowed to use the toilet once and I was able to sleep for about 10 minutes only. There were lots of soldiers in the room and they were making a lot of noise and I could not sleep longer. I was taken for interrogation at around 9:00 a.m.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold. He was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. Without informing me of my rights he accused me of going in a car with other boys to throw a Molotov cocktail at the settlement of Migdal Oz. I denied the accusation.
7. Later he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and informed me of my right to silence. I talked to the lawyer on speaker phone and the interrogator was listening. The conversation lasted maybe a minute or two.
8. Then the interrogator repeated the accusation and told me he was going to make me stand in the rain if I did not confess. When I denied the accusation he took me outside and made me stand in the rain for about 30 minutes. Then he brought me back in and told me he just wanted me to confess to throwing a stone at soldiers in the village. He pressed on me to confess and in the end I did; I was tired and wanted the whole thing to be over. I told him I threw one stone which missed.

9. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and I was given documents written in Hebrew and the interrogator asked me to sign them and I did without understanding anything.
10. After the interrogation I was blindfolded and soldiers led me, for what seemed like an hour, inside the police compound. It was raining. They took me for a medical examination. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination, took my blood pressure and asked me if I had diabetes. Then I was blindfolded again and taken in a jeep to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
11. I arrived at Ofer at around 5:00 or 6:00 p.m. I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I had dinner with the other detainees and went to bed. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not there and the hearing was adjourned.
12. In all I had five military court hearings. At the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months valid for two years. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain to avoid a longer sentence.
13. I spent two months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was released at Al Jalama on 24 April 2019 and I went home with my father, my uncle and my grandmother. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Name: Y.Y.Z.D.
Date: 9 January 2019
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Possessing a pipe bomb

I, Y.Y.Z.D. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at my friend's house when Israeli soldiers went to my uncle's house looking for me. It was around 1:00 p.m. Then they went to our house and banged at the front gate and dented it. My parents were not home.
2. The commander phoned my father asking for me. My father asked for one hour and he would bring me to the police station himself. The soldiers did not wait and broke our front door and came into our house. My older brother phoned my father and told him what had happened. My father asked to speak to the commander and begged him not to break anything. He told him he would bring me to the police station in half-an-hour.
3. My father then phoned me and told me to go home. As soon as I entered our house the soldiers took me to my bedroom and started to question me about a pipe bomb. They did not inform me of my rights. When I told them I did not have a pipe bomb one of the soldiers slapped me hard on the face. Then they changed tactics and another soldier calmly told me I was like his son and to fetch the pipe. They were looking for a piece of pipe which I had put together in the shape of a gun.
4. Without giving my parents any documents, they took me downstairs and made me sit on the ground in front of our neighbour's house. Then they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. The jeep then drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and started to ask me questions without informing me of any rights. He wanted to know where I had got that pipe from. I told him I made it myself and that it was just a toy that looked like a gun. He was calm as he questioned me.
6. Half-way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess but he did not say anything about my right to silence. The interrogator listened to the conversation which lasted a few minutes as he had put me on speaker phone.
7. Then he showed me video footage of boys from my village throwing stones at the soldiers who had come to arrest me and wanted me to give him their names. I told him I did not know the boys. He interrogated me for about three hours. Sometimes he would ask me some questions and then would leave the room and come back again.

8. Towards the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did although I did not understand a word. Then I was blindfolded and taken to a cell.
9. Before entering the cell I was searched with my clothes on and the ties and blindfold were then removed. I spent one night at Etzion. I was given some food but the cell was freezing cold. The following day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to section 13.
10. The next morning I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend because they were not told and the hearing was adjourned. I had three military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence but I cannot remember the details.
11. I spent two months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I found this transition very hard because I had made friends at Ofer. My parents did not visit me in prison at all because they were denied permits for security reasons. This was the hardest aspect of being in prison; not being in touch with my family and not hearing their news.
12. I have now dropped out of school because I could not keep up. I would like to learn how to ride horses. My parents are worried about me; my mother keeps my bedroom shutters down so that I stay in bed and don't go out and get into trouble.

Location: Kafr Ni'ma, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.I.M.N. of Kafr Ni'ma, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Shortly after I went to bed I heard loud banging at our front door. It was around 12:30 a.m. I was startled but I stayed in bed. My mother thought it was my older brother coming home from my grandparents' house. Then we heard a voice telling us to open up for the Israeli army.
2. My mother turned the light on, woke up my father up and then opened the door. About 10 soldiers entered our home. More soldiers surrounded our house outside. One soldier was masked. The door was dented because the soldiers tried to open it using a device.
3. The soldiers told my sisters to go to their bedroom. Then two soldiers told me to sit down on the living room floor and asked to see my father's identity card. When they read my name they told me to prepare myself for arrest. My father asked for the reason and the soldiers told him to check with the district coordination office. Then they gave my father a document written in Hebrew with a telephone number to call. My father later told me he called several times during the day but no one answered the phone.
4. I put my clothes on and said goodbye to my mother. My sister started to cry because I did not have enough time to say goodbye to her. The soldiers then took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. They walked me towards my uncle's house and on the way they blindfolded me. I was then put in the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. The soldier who was driving made weird sounds like a chicken.
5. The jeep drove inside the village for about an hour and clashes erupted with young men throwing stones at the jeep I was in. It was scary. Then I was taken to a shipping container at a nearby settlement where I stayed until later that morning. During this time I was examined by a doctor who asked me questions about my health. He spoke to me via a voice google translate on his mobile phone because he did not speak Arabic. He did not remove the tie or the blindfold during the examination.
6. Then I was taken to a room and I sat on the floor. When I got tired from my position and moved a bit to sit properly a soldier swore at me and called me "a son of a whore." I swore back at him and he kicked me. I asked for water and they brought me some. I was left there until around 10:00 a.m. and I managed to sleep for about 30 minutes. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken to a police station in a settlement; I think it was Modi'in but I was not sure.

7. At the police station I waited for about two hours on a chair in an open area. A lawyer came and asked me what time I was arrested and whether I was beaten and I told him I was. He asked me whether I had eaten and he ordered some food for me. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent and to tell the interrogator I cannot answer questions. At around 12:30 p.m. a soldier removed the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
8. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman who spoke good Arabic. He showed me some photographs and accused me of throwing stones. Then he asked me whether I had hit soldiers and I told him I had not.
9. Half-way through the interrogation he showed me a document in Arabic about my right to remain silent and my right to consult with a lawyer. I was scared and could not remain silent and I thought to myself if I confessed I would spend a week in prison and would then go home like another boy from my village.
10. Then the interrogator showed me a photograph of a boy from the village and asked me for his name. I told him I did not know him. Then he showed me documents in Arabic and Hebrew and I am not sure whether I signed or not, I do not remember.
11. After the interrogation someone photographed me and took my fingerprints and then I waited in a room before being taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. They made me wait for about six hours by the gate and then I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. By then it was around 11:30 p.m.
12. Two days later I had a military court hearing. My parents were there and the military judge extended my detention. The hearing was adjourned for another two days. On the second hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to a week in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of two weeks valid for one year.
13. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 15 January 2019. My parents and cousins and the lawyer and some friends were waiting for me at the checkpoint and I went home in a convoy. I had dinner which my aunt because my mother was waiting for me at the checkpoint most of the day. After dinner I went to bed. I was very happy to be home. I was very bored in prison and did not know what to do with my time.

Accusation: None

I, Y.D.M.S. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was still up having something to eat when I heard the sound of a vehicle outside our house. It was around 12:30 a.m. At first I thought it was a rubbish truck but when I looked out the window and saw a military vehicle. I went to tell my parents and then I heard loud banging at our front door; someone was kicking the door with their boots. My father answered the door and about 30 Israeli soldiers entered our home.
2. The commander asked for me and my brother. My father told him my brother was at my older brother's house next door. The commander and some soldiers went to my brother's house and arrested my brother and then came back to our house. The commander asked my father for me once again and my father pointed to me. The commander told me I was under arrest. I was terrified and ran to my mother and sat on her lap and refused to move. I started to cry but the commander was insistent.
3. The commander grabbed me by my arm and tried to pull me away from my mother but my mother held on to me tightly. The commander wanted to tie my hands but my mother did not allow him. She pulled my hands away and told the commander he could tie her hands but not mine. I was so scared that I threw up and I could not stop shivering. I was shivering uncontrollably. My father told the commander I was sick and could not possibly leave the house. The commander did not believe my father and brought in a soldier who had a medical device and he took my heart rate. The soldier told the commander I was not in good shape.
4. Then the commander handed my father a document written in Hebrew and told him to bring me to the police station by 10:00 a.m. He threatened that if my father did not bring me he would come back and arrest me himself. My father promised he would bring me to the police station. The soldiers then arrested my brother and left.
5. I could not sleep that night. My parents tried to calm me down and to tell me what to expect at the police station. My father told me not to say a word no matter what I am asked. He tried to encourage me and told me not to answer any questions.
6. At around 9:00 a.m. my father phoned a lawyer and told him to meet us at the police station. My father and I went to the police station and we were there by 10:00 a.m. The lawyer told me not to be scared and not to answer any questions. He told me to remain silent the whole time. Then an interrogator came and took me inside. My lawyer and my father wanted to accompany inside but the interrogator did not allow them.

7. I was taken into a waiting room where I saw my brother who was tied and blindfolded. He spoke to me and told me not to say a word about myself or anyone else. I waited for about 30 minutes and then I was taken for interrogation.
8. The interrogator asked me for my name but I told him I was sick and tired and could not speak. I told him I had a bad headache and could not say a word. A soldier who was in the room told me not to be scared and brought me a glass of water but I did not drink it because it looked dirty.
9. Without informing me of my rights the two of them started to look at a bunch of photographs trying to identify me but they did not find anything. They looked and looked for about an hour and did not speak to me. They did not show me any documents and did not ask me to sign anything. Then they took me outside where I met my father and he took me home. I arrived home at around 2:30 p.m.
10. For a whole month I could not sleep in my own bedroom; I slept in my mother's bed and with my clothes on because I am worried they might come back for me. Whenever I find out that soldiers are in the village I run home and tell my mother to protect me because I fear they have come to get me.

I, O.M.A.R. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I could not sleep because I knew Israeli soldiers were in our village. It was around 4:00 a.m. Then there was a knock at our front door and my father answered. A group of about 20 soldiers entered our home and told my father they wanted to take me for “a chat for a couple of hours” and would then bring me home. They did not give my father any documents. They remained inside our home for about 30 minutes but did not conduct a search.
2. After about 30 minutes I was taken outside where they tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties which were not painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then led towards the village municipality building where a military jeep was waiting. I was put in the back of the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep the soldiers aimed their guns at me but did not do anything. I could see a bit from under the blindfold.
3. The jeep drove to a nearby military base and I was taken to a shipping container where I was examined by a doctor. Then I was taken back to the jeep and put on the metal floor again. The jeep then drove around until around 2:00 p.m. I was tired and hungry. Eventually I was taken for interrogation at the police station in Etzion settlement.
4. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He removed the blindfold but kept my ties on. Without informing me of my rights he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on Friday. When I denied the accusation he became very angry and repeated the accusation again and told me I had to confess. Then he showed me photographs but I continued to deny the accusation.
5. Half-way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and said maybe he could get me released. The lawyer did not inform me of my right to silence. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and I was not shown any documents or asked to sign anything.
6. Then I was taken to a cell in Etzion police station where I was strip searched. About 10 minutes later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were not told about the hearing and they did not attend. I was denied release on bail and was taken back to prison.

7. In all I had four military court hearings. At the last hearing I accepted a plea bargain and was sentenced to 28 days in prison, which was time already served. My family also had to pay a fine of NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence but I don't know the details. I accepted the plea bargain because I would be released on the same day.
8. I was released on 11 February 2019, and I arrived home with my parents at around 9:00 p.m. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were issued a permit to visit on the same day as I was released.
9. I dropped out of school about a year ago because of my first imprisonment. Being in prison interrupted my school and I could not catch up. Our house is very close to a fence soldiers use to enter our village at night. I keep my eyes on the fence at night and I find it hard to sleep because soldiers could come at any time.

I, K.I.B.Z. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 1:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My parents went to open the door and a group of around 10 soldiers entered our home. More soldiers were waiting outside. We later found out that the soldiers had first raided my grandparent's house looking for me.
2. The soldiers sat us all down in the living room and asked to see my older brother who was at the bakery where he works. My father phoned him and asked him to come home and he did. Then the soldiers told us they wanted to arrest me but not my brother. They did not say why but they gave my mother a document written in Hebrew and asked her to sign it and she did. Then a soldier took a picture of my mother holding the document. Then they asked me if I wanted to use the toilet or take any medicine.
3. Then I was taken outside where the soldiers tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then they walked me towards the settlement of Karmi Zur where they put me in a shipping container. They blindfolded me and made me sit on the floor until later that morning.
4. Later that morning I was put in a vehicle which drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and then put it back on. Then I was taken to a corridor where I sat on a chair until around 12:30 p.m. I was given some water but no food and I was allowed to use the toilet. At around 12:30 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties and told I was like his son and that I needed to cooperate with him and not lie. He was wearing civilian clothes. He phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not say anything. He also told me not to confess against anyone. The interrogator was in the room while I spoke to the lawyer and the conversation lasted a few minutes.
6. Without informing me of my right to silence the interrogator told me he was going to show me some photographs. He showed me six photographs of boys and wanted me to tell him who they were. I told him they were older than me and I did not know them. He showed me another photograph and told me if I did not confess against these boys he was going to lock me up in a small room and never let me out.

7. When I refused to give him names or to confess he took me to a small room where they store paint and some tools, turned the light off and left me alone. I think I was left there for about 10 minutes and then the interrogator took me back to the interrogation room. He punched me in the head and told me I had no brains. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and told me if I confessed against myself and the other boys he would send me home and if I did not he was going to send me to prison. I told him I was not going to confess against people I did not even know.
8. Then the interrogator took me to see another interrogator who did not inform me of my rights and told me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator as he typed on his computer. He then printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign a document I did not understand. The interrogations lasted for about four hours, from around 12:30 p.m. until around 4:30pm. The whole time I was without any food.
9. After the interrogations my photograph and fingerprints were taken. I was then taken back to the interrogation room; I think this was one last attempt to extract a confession from me. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and asked me to confess against the boys seen in the photographs. I did not confess.
10. After the third interrogation I was taken to a room where I waited for about an hour and then I was taken to a prison cell at Etzion. I was searched with my clothes on. About an hour later they took me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and taken to section 13.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed of the hearing and so did not attend. The hearing was adjourned.
12. I had three military court hearings. At the last hearing the military judge decided to release me on bail. He told me he wanted to release me so that I could go back to school. My parents had to pay NIS 1,000 and I was released on 22 January 2019. Until today, about six months later, I have not been asked to go back to the military court.

I, K.N.M.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers came to our home quietly on foot while we were sleeping. It was around 2:00 a.m. My father came into my room and woke me up and told me the soldiers were asking for me. About 10 soldiers followed my father into my bedroom and more were spread around our house. I got up and my father gave me some clothes to put on and I went downstairs.
2. The soldiers told my mother to be quiet and not make any noise and that everything would be all right. Then they pushed her into the kitchen and did not allow her to leave. They took our identity cards and our phones. A soldier then told my father the wanted to arrest me. When my father asked for the reason the soldier told him his job was only to make the arrest and giving reasons was not his job.
3. I barely had time to put my boots on before the soldiers took me outside. They did not tell us why they wanted to arrest me but they gave my parents a document written in Hebrew and my father signed it.
4. I was then taken outside where a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers walked me down the street and made me wait on the ground for a short while. Then they took me to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat.
5. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. On the way soldiers swore at my religion and my mother and called her a “whore”. At Etzion I was taken to a room where I was left on the floor for about an hour. A soldier banged the table when I nodded off so I was unable to sleep.
6. After about an hour I was taken away on foot. On the way a soldier made donkey sounds wanted me to hurry up. Another soldier told him to slap me but he did not. I was taken to be examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and put it back on again. Then I was taken back to the room where I was left until around 7:00 p.m.
7. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to a shipping container and made to stand up and then sit down. At this point a soldier banged my head against the wall. About two hours later I was taken for interrogation.

8. As soon as I entered the interrogation room a soldier approached me to remove the blindfold but the interrogator told him not to. Then, without informing me of my rights, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He asked me about one of my friends but I denied I knew him. He accused me of lying and claimed everybody in the village knew that boy. Then he threatened to arrest my father if I did not confess. This lasted for about five minutes.
9. After about five minutes the interrogator left the room and I removed the blindfold and tried to sleep. A soldier walked in and woke me up and took me to another room with another interrogator.
10. The second interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and showed me a photograph. He spoke via an interpreter and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and gave me a specific date. I denied it. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. The conversation with the lawyer lasted less than a minute and the interrogator was listening. After the conversation the interrogator told me not to listen to the lawyer.
11. Then he told me he was like my brother and urged me to confess if I wanted him to go easy on me. He also told me my father was waiting at the gate and if I confessed he would send me home with him. He spoke in a soft tone of voice but then he flipped when I refused to confess. He banged the table and hit me hard on my back. The second interrogation lasted for a little more than an hour. I was not informed of my right to silence by anyone.
12. Then I was taken back to the first interrogator who told me to think of my father who was waiting by the gate and urged me to confess in order to go home with him. He told me I needed to apologise to the other interrogator for not confessing to him. I continued to deny the accusation and did not confess. Then they took me to another room and took my photo and fingerprints. Then I was shown a document in Hebrew and asked to sign it. When I refused to sign the person who showed me the document pulled my hand and forced me to scribble on the document.
13. Then I was taken to a shipping container for an hour before being strip searched. Then I was taken to a cell where I stayed for about 15 minutes. Then a soldier handcuffed and shackled me and I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On the way to Ofer soldiers were singing loudly and making fun of me. The trip to Ofer took a long time, maybe five or six hours. By the time I arrived at Ofer it was maybe 6:00 or 7:00 p.m.
14. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My father attended the hearing. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
15. I had four military court hearings and at the last one the military judge said because I was a minor he was going to accept the plea bargain which my lawyer and the prosecutor drafted. He sentenced me to four months in prison and imposed a fine of NIS 1,500. He also gave me a suspended sentence of eight months in prison valid for four years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me the alternative would be eight months in prison.

16. I spent the whole time at Ofer where I exercised and lifted weights. I told my parents not to visit me because I wanted to save them the hassle. I was released on 28 April 2019.

Name: S.M.H.G.
Age: 16
Date: 14 January 2019
Location: Qalandiya refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Incitement

I, S.M.H.G. of Qalandiya refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I had a feeling Israeli soldiers might raid our neighbourhood that night, so I called my friends and we went to check things out. Then my father phoned me at around 2:30 a.m. and told me soldiers had blown off our front door with explosives and were in our house. He told me they were looking for me to question. When the soldiers left I went home. The military commander called my father and told him if I did not hand myself over he was going to come and arrest my father.
2. When I got home my father told me to prepare myself and he took me to Qalandiya checkpoint. The soldiers there took us into a small room and told my father to say goodbye and leave. He told my father they wanted to keep me and when my father asked for the reason the soldier told him it was none of his business to know the reason and that he would find out in court.
3. My father left and I was kept in the room for about four hours. Later a soldier came and took me to an interrogation room at the checkpoint. Two Israeli policemen examined my identity card and then an interrogator came and told me there was no need for me to stay there and told me to go home. I went back home and sat to have breakfast with my family when the military commander rang my father and told him to hand me over at Ofer and that it was a mistake to send me home. It was around noon when he called.
4. I finished my breakfast and then my father took me to Ofer interrogation centre, near Jerusalem, as ordered. My father and I waited at the gate and a soldier came and checked our identity cards. Then he told my father to go home and took me to a room where I waited for about 30 minutes. My hands were tied behind my back with three plastic ties; one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not so tight in the beginning but then a soldier came in, swore at me, and tightened them hard and they caused me pain. I was also blindfolded.
5. Then a person came in and told me what his name was but did not tell me his position. He asked me some personal questions and asked me about my family. He asked me about my telephone and I told him it broke. He then told me he wanted my phone and that he knew exactly how to discipline stubborn young boys like me. Then he told me he wanted to keep me there. He shut the door, turned the air conditioner on very cold and left.

6. About an hour later I was given a quick medical examination and then they searched me in my underwear and took me in the back of a jeep and made me sit on a seat. The jeep took me to another part of Ofer for an interrogation by an intelligence officer.
7. There were two interrogators in the room; a man and a woman. Then the man told the woman to leave and told her he was going to interrogate me. Then he allowed me to speak to my father. Then he asked me whether I wanted him to assign me a lawyer and I told him my father would take care of that. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent and that remaining silent might harm me in court. Then he asked me whether I had a Facebook page and I told him I did not. Then he turned his telephone on and showed me my Facebook page. Then he accused me of incitement on Facebook. Then he told me they had decided to put me in administrative detention and that he was also going to question me about another issue.
8. Then he wanted to know why I posted on Facebook. I told him my brother was killed by an Israeli soldier. He told me he knew that and that he was killed two years ago. Then he asked me whether I thought it was ok if a settler stabbed my father. I told him it was not ok at all. Then he asked me why then did my brother stab a settler. Then he shifted to asking me questions about my brother and I told him not to ask me about my brother and what he did.
9. The interrogation lasted for about an hour. The interrogator was calm the whole time and I denied the accusation. At the end he gave me two sets of documents; one in Hebrew and the other in Arabic and he wanted me to sign both. I only signed the Arabic documents after reading them. Then I was strip searched and taken into section 19 at Ofer prison.
10. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed and the hearing was adjourned.
11. The following day I was taken for another interrogation, this time it had to do with the administrative detention order. I was questioned by the same interrogator. He allowed me to speak to a lawyer before he questioned me. The lawyer told me not to worry and that he was sorting out my hearing. He told me he was in touch with my father and that all was good. The interrogator listened in to the conversation which lasted about a minute. Then the interrogator showed me a document about my rights. It said I had the right to consult with a lawyer and that I had the right to remain silent.
12. Then he told me I was suspected of having contacts with a banned organisation and of illegal weapons possession. I denied the accusations. I asked him where he got his information from and he told me it was a secret and I was not entitled to know his sources. He questioned me for less than 30 minutes and at the end he wanted me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison.
13. I had more than 20 hearings in the military court. The last hearing was on the day I was released. I was sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of three years in prison valid for five years. It was a plea bargain and my file was closed. This was on 13 May 2019, four months after my arrest. I accepted the plea bargain because I just wanted to go home.

14. I went home with my friends and family who came in 15 cars to meet me outside prison. My family visited me three times in prison. The hardest thing about prison is the way the guards treat us with humiliation and contempt.

I, M.S.B.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers broke into our home without making a sound. It was around 2:00 a.m. We were all asleep and did not immediately hear anything. Then I heard a sound which made me think someone was in our house. My father then came into my room and told me soldiers were inside our home.
2. Five soldiers spread out inside our house. My younger sister was so terrified that she fell and hurt herself. The soldiers asked to see our identity cards. Then a soldier called my name and called me to the TV room. He made me stand against the window and forced me to lift my hands up and spread my legs.
3. Then the soldier started to question me and asked me if I had any weapons. He then told me to get dressed because I was under arrest. He gave my mother a document about my arrest and asked her to sign it. The document was filled out in Hebrew.
4. I was then taken outside the house where one of my friends was waiting. The commander told me my friend had confessed against me. Then they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. I was also blindfolded.
5. After I was blindfolded I was taken to the back of a military jeep and made to sit on the metal floor. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement.
6. On arrival at the settlement I was left in an outdoor area for a short while and then taken to a room where I was left on the floor. A soldier told me to stand up and I remained standing until around 5:00 a.m. Then I was taken to a shipping container where I sat on a chair until around 9:00 a.m. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the tie and blindfold. He was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. Before saying anything he asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer. I told him I did not want to speak to a lawyer through him but he called a lawyer and put him on speaker phone and made me speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to say anything. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted less than a minute. The interrogator himself did not inform me of my right to silence.
8. Then the interrogator brought me a cup of tea and told me he wanted me to confess to weapons possession and told me my cousin had confessed against me. He showed me a pipe bomb and told me I had to confess. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me a photograph which had a circle around my face. My photo showed me standing in the village doing nothing.

9. Then another interrogator came in and started to shout at me when I denied the accusation. The first interrogator repeated the accusation and when I denied it the second interrogator pushed my head and told me to confess. Then he swore at my religion and god and then took me outside behind the room where he blindfolded me. There he told me he was my friend, gave me a hug and promised to send me home if I confessed. He told me he was going to give me 10 minutes to think.
10. About 10 minutes later I was taken back to the interrogation room where the blindfold was removed. The interrogator showed me some bullets and tried to make me touch them but I did not. I think he wanted my fingerprints on the bullets. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. In the end I confessed to firing a cork gun which made a loud sound. Then the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did.
11. Then I was taken to a shipping container where I was blindfolded again. I was left standing with two soldiers who did not let me sit down. I begged them to let me sit down because I was very tired but they made fun of me. When I sat on the floor, because I could no longer stand, one of the soldiers slapped me and made me stand up. I was left in the shipping container for about an hour and they did not allow me to use the toilet. Then I was taken outside and I was left in the sun for about 10 minutes. Then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched and I was left there until 8:00 a.m. I could not sleep.
12. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again and sent to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court and the hearing was adjourned. My parents were not informed about the hearing and they did not attend.
13. Two days before I was released I was taken to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement for another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and had a voice recorder on his desk. He wanted me to repeat my confession and had a document ready for me to sign. I denied I had confessed. Then the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. This lasted for about 10 minutes and then I was taken to a small cell measuring not more than 1 x 1 meters. I started to bang at the door asking to use a toilet. About 10 minutes later I was taken out and then I was taken back to Ofer prison.
14. I had four military court hearings which my parents did not attend. At the last hearing I was not taken into the court room and a guard told me I was going to be released. I did not believe him and asked him again. Then I was taken back to prison but later that day I was released. It was around 11:00 p.m.
15. My parents were waiting for me at Al Jib checkpoint and I arrived home at around 1:00 a.m. I was released on 22 January 2019, without charge. My parents were ecstatic. I had dinner and I went to bed. My father does not allow me to speak to my friend who confessed against me anymore; he told me never to speak to him again.

Name: M.N.Y.T.
Age: 15
Date: 15 January 2019
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, M.Y.N.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. when I heard a commotion outside our house. I looked out the window and saw a large group of Israeli soldiers. I was scared and went back to bed and pretended to be asleep.
2. Shortly afterwards a soldier shone a torch into my bedroom and then started to bang aggressively at the front door. One soldier was shouting at us telling us to open the door up. My father ran to the front door and opened it just before the soldiers blew it open.
3. About 20 soldiers entered our home. The commander asked my father for his children's names. First he wanted to arrest my brother but then realised he had made a mistake and told my father he wanted to arrest me.
4. The commander took me to my bedroom and told me if I handed over the "weapon" he would not arrest me. He told me my friend had confessed against me and because he had confessed they had already released him. I told him I did not have any weapons.
5. Then he called my father over and told him I had weapons and urged him to make me bring out the weapons otherwise they were going to hurt me. When I repeated I did not have any weapons he told me he was going to take me for an hour for questioning at my friend's house and would bring me back. I told him I wanted to say goodbye to my family but he did not allow this. He told me there was no need to say goodbye because he was going to bring me back soon. Then he gave my father a document about my arrest which was filled out in Hebrew and then they took me away.
6. Outside our house a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. They were very tight and caused me a lot of pain and left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then they walked me towards my friend's house.
7. When we arrived at my friend's house the soldiers made me turn my face to the wall, lift my hands up and open my legs apart. Then they brought my friend and said he had confessed against me. My friend denied he had ever confessed against me. The commander raised his voice against me and my friend and accused us both of lying.
8. Then I was blindfolded and taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. On the way soldiers made fun of me.

9. When we arrived at Etzion I was taken out of the jeep and a soldier held me by my neck and walked me inside the police station. He pushed me to hurry up but I could not because I was blindfolded. They took me to a room and the soldiers who were there punched me in the head to entertain themselves. I could not sleep because a soldier woke me up by pushing my head each time I tried to fall asleep.
10. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken to an interrogation room. A settler who passed by spat in my face and punched me in the stomach. I could see him from under the blindfold.
11. I was taken to a room and the commander came in and told me to behave myself and cooperate with the interrogator if I did not want to be hurt. He told me they would send me home if I confessed. He also told me if I agreed to work with them he would also send me home.
12. I was left in the room for about two hours. Each time I leaned against the wall to rest my head a soldier would wake me up and threaten to pour water on my head. Then I was taken for interrogation.
13. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. He had a voice recorder on his desk and he turned it on. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me the most important thing was for me to remain silent and not say a word. He also told me he had told my parents I was at Etzion police station. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator was listening because I was on speaker phone. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but later when I remained silent he shouted at me and told me to answer his questions.
14. The interrogator then told me my lawyer knew exactly what I had done and told me I should give the interrogator all the details. I told him I had not done anything wrong. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and of stealing spent bullets from the training field near our village. Then he brought a piece of paper and wrote on it the numbers 1 – 10 and told me I had to confess against 10 boys. I told him I never threw stones and did not know anyone who did. Then he told me to try to remember names and when I told him I could not remember any names he punched me in the head and raised his voice and told me I had to confess against 10 boys.
15. The interrogator then threatened to send me to “the room next door where you will be tortured”. I could hear the sound of a drill coming from the room next door and the interrogator told me it was the sound of torture, and if I did not confess I would be sent there to be tortured. I denied everything and did not confess.
16. The interrogation lasted for about 15 minutes. Then I was taken to a dark room where I could clearly hear the sound of the drill. About 10 minutes later I was taken back to the interrogation room.
17. The interrogator asked me whether I could hear the sound of the drill. Then he told me I should be grateful he was nice to me and did not allow them to torture me, and I should confess. I told him I had nothing to confess to. Then he told me to try to remember names and that I had to confess. In the end I confessed to throwing stones about six months earlier. I was tired and scared.

18. The interrogator then wanted to know who was throwing stones with me. I told him I was by myself. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did.
19. After I signed the documents they took my photograph and fingerprints and then strip searched me. I was then taken to a cell where I spent the night. The following day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again.
20. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The hearing was adjourned. My parents were not there because they were not informed. Two days before I was released I was taken to the police station at Kiryat Arba for another interrogation. The interrogator told me to confess to throwing stones if I wanted to go home. I denied the accusation and denied I had confessed earlier.
21. Halfway through the interrogation he asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and he phone one and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me to try not to confess to anything so that I could go home soon. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me again of throwing stones and I denied it. Then I was taken to a room where I waited for about two hours and then I was taken back to Ofer.
22. I had four military court hearings. At the last hearing I did not even go into the court room and instead I was told I was going to be released. I was released without charge on 22 January 2019, and I went home with my father. I was so relieved.

Name: A.M.M.N.
Age: 14
Date: 21 January 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Bail violation

I, A.M.M.N. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I knew there were Israeli soldiers in our refugee camp so I could not sleep. At around 2:30 a.m. I heard loud banging at our front door. My father answered and about seven soldiers entered our home.
2. The commander told my father they wanted to arrest me because I did not show up at the military court after I was released on bail as ordered. He told my father I had missed eight military court hearings. Then the commander gave my father a document about my arrest with a circle around Etzion police station. My uncle signed the document because it was in Hebrew and my uncle speaks Hebrew.
3. Then I was taken outside and led towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our camp where my hands were tied behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then they blindfolded me and took me to the back of a military vehicle where I sat on the floor.
4. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was immediately taken for a medical examination and then I was strip searched before being taken to a shipping container where I sat on a chair. I could not sleep.
5. I was left there for two days. No one spoke to me. I was given some food and drink. On the third day I was taken to the military court.
6. The military judge wanted to know why I did not show up at court as requested. I told the judge my family did not have money and we could not afford the cost of the trip to court. Then he told me that if I had come to court he would have given me back the NIS 1,100 my parents had paid when I was released on bail. After the hearing I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my underwear.
7. I had three military court hearings and at the last one the judge sentenced me to four months in prison but my lawyer objected and he got it reduced to one month in prison. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where I spent a month. I was released on 21 February 2019.

Name: O.M.A.D.
Age: 16
Date: 24 January 2019
Location: Aida refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, O.M.A.D. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was fast asleep when I suddenly heard loud banging at our front door. It was around 2:30 a.m. Then I heard an explosion and about 30 Israeli soldiers stormed into our home.
2. I jumped out of bed and stood by the door as a soldier pushed me back into the bedroom and sat me down on the bed and started to question me. He wanted to know if I had banned materials in my position but did not explain and I had no idea what he was talking about. Then he threatened to bring in the police dogs that were waiting outside the house. I told him I had no banned materials.
3. Then the commander told me to get ready because I was under arrest. He gave my father a document but my father tore it up without even looking at it. Then soldier handcuffed me with metal handcuffs behind my back which were painful and left marks on my wrists. Then they blindfolded me and my mother started to shout at them but they did not give any attention to her.
4. I was then taken outside and led about 100 meters away before being made to kneel for about an hour. I was in pain. Then they took me towards a nearby checkpoint where they made me wait for about 30 minutes until a military vehicle picked me up and took me to the settlement of Har Homa.
5. On arrival at the settlement I was left there in a room from around 4:00 a.m. until around 8:00 a.m., handcuffed and blindfolded, before being taken for interrogation. I was not given any food or water and I could not sleep.
6. The interrogator had a camera and a voice recorder. He removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he warned me that remaining silent might harm me in court. Then he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me not to say anything and to remain silent. Then the interrogator started to question me. He wanted to know whether I worked and what type of mobile phone I had. Then he told me there were suspicions that I threw bombs and Molotov cocktails at a road tunnel used by settlers. I denied the accusation.
7. The interrogation lasted for about four hours. The interrogator kept repeating the same accusations and I denied them. Then he accused me of lying and when I objected and told him I was not lying he told me to shut up and slapped me. Then he turned the camera and the voice recorder off and punched me in the face. He swore at me and called my mother “a whore” and said rude things about her.

8. At the end of the interrogation I was shown documents written in Hebrew and asked to sign them but I refused to sign. Then he took my fingerprints and photograph. I was then taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched.
9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed and did not attend the hearing and I was taken back to prison. I spent four nights at Ofer and then I was taken for another interrogation at Har Homa police station.
10. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and accused me of trading in stolen motor bikes. I denied the accusation. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and in the end I was shown documents in Hebrew and asked to sign them but I refused to sign. Then I was taken back to prison.
11. I had three more military court hearings and at the last one I was released without charge. My parents did not pay any fines. I was released on 3 February 2019, and I arrived home with my family at around 1:30 a.m. I had dinner and chatted with my family and then I went to bed.

Name: S.R.S.S.
Date: 27 January 2019
Location: Al Khader, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, S.R.S.S. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went to visit my grandparents who live near the separation barrier. It was around 5:00 p.m. There were no clashes with soldiers at the time but some boys were fighting with each other nearby. I stood aside and watched.
2. As I started to leave an Israeli military jeep suddenly pulled over and the soldiers told me to stop and raise my hands. A soldier then told me to face the wall while he searched me. Another soldier kicked me to open my legs and slapped me on the back of my head. An old man who happened to be nearby and who spoke some Hebrew explained to me that the soldiers wanted to detain me for 30 minutes to ask me some questions and then they would release me.
3. A soldier then grabbed me by my pony tail and pulled me to the ground and tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie. The tie was not painful. Then he blindfolded me and made me sit by the wall.
4. A short while later I heard voices around me. I managed to pull down the blindfold with my arm and I saw some relatives. I told them to call my father and inform him I had been detained. Then my father came with my mother and grandmother and they all tried to reason with the soldiers to get me released but they did not succeed.
5. Then a soldier untied me and allowed me to go and speak to my family. I said goodbye to them and then a soldier took me to a military jeep. Outside the jeep he painfully tied my legs and hands with plastic ties. When I complained about the hand tie a soldier cut my wrist when he tried to loosen it using a screwdriver. Then he slapped me on the back of my head, swore at my mother and called her "a whore".
6. I then lost my balance and the other soldiers thought I was having a fight with the soldier and started to beat me all over my body. Then they pushed me into the back of the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. The jeep drove me to the settlement of Bitar Ellit and I was left on the floor of a corridor until around 5:00 a.m. I could not sleep at all. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie on my hands and kept the tie on my legs. He did not inform me of my right to silence and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and told me my friends had confessed against me. I denied the accusation. He was calm and questioned me for about 20 minutes.

8. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told not to worry and not to confess even if the interrogator shouts at me. The interrogator remained in the room and listened to the conversation which lasted about a minute.
9. At the end of the interrogation I was tied and blindfolded again. I was left in the room while tied and blindfolded. Then another interrogator came in. He lifted the blindfold and told me I had five minutes to confess. He threatened if I did not confess his men were going to come in and “do what they normally do”. He told me I must know what he meant. He was angry and banged the table as he spoke to me. Then he took a pair of scissors and started to cut my hair. Then he asked me again whether I wanted to confess but I did not.
10. The interrogation lasted for about two hours and I was not informed of my rights. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign and asked for a translation which he never provided.
11. Then I was blindfolded again and taken to the military base at the District Coordination Officer near Beit Jala where I was given a medical examination. After the medical check I was taken to a shipping container with soldiers. I could not sleep because the soldiers were very noisy.
12. At around 7:30 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was strip searched and I was taken to a cell where I remained until around 4:00 p.m. They brought me some food but I could not eat it because it was unappetising. At around 4:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
13. The following day I was taken for another interrogation by an intelligence officer at Ofer. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and repeated the same accusation. I denied the accusation. I was questioned for about 10 minutes and then I was taken back to prison.
14. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. I was denied bail and was taken back to prison.
15. I had about 17 military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence valid for three years. The plea bargain was based on the testimonies of seven soldiers who claimed they had seen me throw 12 stones at Israeli vehicles from a distance of 100 meters.
16. I was released on 27 May 2019, at Al Jib checkpoint and I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m. In prison I attended classes and exercised to keep fit. My parents visited me six times in prison. While in prison I missed the horse which my father bought me about three years earlier. I had a strong bond with the horse and I missed it badly.

Name: S.Y.M.J.
Age: 16
Date: 2 February 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, S.Y.M.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was up late chatting with my uncles when we heard commotion outside on the road. It was around 1:00 a.m. We knew Israeli soldiers were in our refugee camp and we suspected they had come to our neighbourhood. Then one of our neighbours phoned us to say that soldiers had jumped over the wall onto our property. He barely finished his sentence when the soldiers entered our home.
2. The commander introduced himself as “Captain Shadi”, the intelligence officer for the area. Then he asked for me and said I was wanted for questioning about stone throwing. I was taken by surprise and felt a bit scared and asked him if I could turn myself in later that morning. He refused and told me he wanted me now.
3. The commander then showed me a photograph of a masked young person with a stone in his hand. He then told me to show him my bedroom. I tried not to let him into the bedroom where my younger brothers were asleep but he insisted. Then I asked to use the toilet and a soldier followed me and kept the door open. I found this embarrassing.
4. Soon afterwards the soldiers took me outside and my uncle told the commander he would have brought me to the police station in the morning had they bothered to deliver a summons. The commander ignored him.
5. The soldiers tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for several days. A soldier also wanted to blindfold me but the commander told him to wait.
6. I was then led a short distance and the commander asked me if I knew the house of a person he named. When I told him I did not know the house he stuck his gun to my head as if he wanted to shoot me. I was terrified.
7. The soldiers then arrested another person from the camp and I saw how they raided the house and banged at the door terrifying everyone. A soldier punched me in the chest when he saw I was watching. He also spat in my face. Then they led me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to the camp where they blindfolded me. They left me by the watchtower for about 15 minutes.

8. Later I was taken to the back of a military vehicle and made to sit on the metal floor. I hit my head on something metal because I could not see from under the blindfold. I sat between the soldiers' legs and one of them stuck his boot in my face. I think he wanted me to smell the horrible smell that came from his feet.
9. I was driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. On arrival at the settlement I was left in an outdoor area for about 30 minutes and then taken inside for a medical examination. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination.
10. After the medical check I was taken to a shipping container and a soldier made me sit on the floor and bent my head down. I was uncomfortable but I managed to sleep for a short time. I woke up when a soldier lifted me up by my shirt. I asked where I was and he told me to shut up and called me "a son of a whore". He just wanted to wake me up. Then I was taken into a courtyard where I was left until later that morning. I was then taken for interrogation.
11. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold and started to lift weights in the room in front of me. He shouted as he lifted heavy weights in order to scare me. He turned his speaker phone on and called someone and then handed the phone to me. The person told me that it was up to me whether I answered the interrogator's questions. When I asked who he was he told me he was my lawyer and gave me his name. This conversation lasted for less than two minutes and the interrogator was listening.
12. Without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator showed me the photo with the masked man holding a stone in his hand and told me it was me. I denied it. Then he swore at me and called me "a son of a fucking whore". Then he called my sisters "whores" and slapped me hard on the face. This was when I swore back at him and told him he was "a son of a whore". Then he put his pistol on the table in front of me. I was terrified as it was the first time I had seen a pistol so close. Then he banged the table with the pistol.
13. He questioned me for about 30-45 minutes and brought in somebody in a military uniform and asked me to apologise to that person for throwing a Molotov cocktail. He told me he would send me home if I apologized. I told him I did not do it and was not going to apologise. Then I was taken to a shipping container for a short while. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and then took me to see another interrogator.
14. The second interrogator was more respectful. He told me I was at an interrogation centre and that he was going to question me and told me I had to tell him everything I knew. He turned a camera and a voice recorder on and accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation. When I denied it he shouted at me and called me a liar. He questioned me for about 30 minutes. Then he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. I signed them because I was scared of him. When I asked him to translate them for me he told me he could not provide a translation.
15. Then I was tied and blindfolded again and taken to a cell in Etzion police station. I was searched in my boxer shorts and they removed the tie and the blindfold and I was left in the cell for about 30 minutes. I could not sleep. Then I was shackled and handcuffed before being taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem..

16. At Ofer I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down and then I was taken to section 13. I spent two nights there before I was taken to the military court. I was left in the waiting area and did not go into the court room. Then I was told I was going to be released. I was taken back to prison and at around 10:30 p.m. I was released.
17. I was released without charge on 5 February 2019, at the Beit Sira checkpoint. I walked for about one kilometer in a deserted area and I was scared. Then I saw a man on the street and I asked him to call my father. By then it was around 1:30 a.m. The man called my father and told him he was going to take me to his home for the night. The man was very nice. He took me to Ramallah and bought me a Shawarma sandwich. Then some young men told him they were willing to drive me home. I arrived home at around 3:00 a.m.

1. I walked home at around midnight after visiting a friend. When I got home I went to my bedroom and was about to check my smart phone when I heard loud banging at the front door. I then heard military jeeps around our house.
2. My father asked me to answer the door so I went downstairs and my father followed me. I opened the door and the Israeli commander walked in with a group of soldiers. He asked me how I was and wanted to shake hands with me but I refused.
3. Then the commander and the soldiers went upstairs and went straight to my bedroom and took some of my clothes; my trousers, a T-shirt, a pair of boots and a baseball cap. I later realised the commander had a photograph of me wearing similar clothes.
4. The commander wanted to give me a summons to turn myself in but I told him I was not going to comply. He then told me he was going to arrest me.
5. I was then taken outside and the soldiers walked me a short distance. Along the way they kicked me and beat me with the back of their guns. Then I was blindfolded and tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were unbearably painful.
6. Then I was taken to the back of a troop carrier where I was dumped on the metal floor. Inside the troop carrier soldiers slapped me on the back of my head and kicked me.
7. The troop carrier drove to a place I think somewhere around Jerusalem, possibly a settlement or a military base, where a doctor was going to examine me, but then he refused to examine me because the soldiers did not allow him to remove the ties and the blindfold.
8. I was then taken outside and left in the troop carrier for a couple of hours after which I was driven to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation. At Etzion I waited in a room until around 10:00 a.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
9. The interrogator called me by my name and asked me how I was. He removed the ties and blindfold and told me I was causing him a lot of trouble, so much so that his hair was turning white. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during clashes in the village. I told him I had already spent time in prison for that charge.

10. Then I told the interrogator I wanted to speak to my lawyer and he allowed me to via phone. After I spoke to my lawyer she spoke to the interrogator and told him I had already been in prison for that charge. I could hear that she was agitated and her voice was assertive.
11. After speaking to the lawyer the interrogator asked me whether I had a suspended sentence from the time I had spent in prison and I told him I did. I felt he wanted to lock me up in prison no matter what. Throughout the interrogation the interrogator did not say anything about my right to silence but my lawyer told me to remain silent when I spoke to her.
12. The interrogation lasted for about 10-15 minutes. In the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then I was taken to another room where I remained until around 1:30 p.m.
13. At around 1:30 p.m. the interrogator came to the room, patted me on the back and told me to be sensible and not cause any more trouble, otherwise I was going to waste my life. He claimed I threw stones and Molotov cocktails in the area and told me to stop such acts. Then he told me I could go home.
14. I went home with people from my village who were at the police station who agreed to give me a lift home.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.K.E.C. of Beit Rima, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my friend on the hill opposite the settlement of Halamish when we were ambushed by a group of Israeli soldiers. It was around 9:00 p.m. I tried to run away but the soldiers started to shoot and yell at us asking us to stop. I was terrified and I stopped immediately
2. A soldier pushed me to the ground face down, tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful and then blindfolded me. He then kicked me on my legs and slapped me and left me on the ground in the rain for about 30 minutes.
3. Then a vehicle arrived and I was taken to the nearby military base. I sat on a seat. At the base I was given a medical examination. The doctor removed the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health and then blindfolded me again.
4. About 30 minutes later I was taken to a police station near the settlement of Ni'ilin. At the police station I waited for about three hours before being taken for interrogation. During this time I was given some water and was allowed to use the toilet.
5. Before asking me any questions, the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. She spoke to me via an interpreter. Then she accused me of throwing stones at a settler car and of causing damage to the car. She told me soldiers saw me and a settler woman also reported the incident to the police. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was calm but the interpreter was aggressive and shouted at me and told me to shut up when I denied the accusation.
6. About halfway through the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent. He also told me he had informed my parents and told them where I was. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was in the room.
7. I was interrogated for about three hours. Most of the time the interrogator was typing on her computer. In the end she showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did although I did not understand what was written.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched in my underwear before being taken to section 13. I entered the section at around 10:00 a.m. I was arrested on a Thursday and on Sunday I was taken to the military court. My father attended the hearing and I was denied bail.

9. I had about eight military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on the 24 June 2019, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison, fined NIS 4,000 fine and given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I would be facing three years in prison if I did not plead guilty.
10. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer where I studied for my final high school exams. My parents visited me four times. I was released on 22 September 2019, and went home with my father. I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m. When I arrived home my father told me how worried he was when I was first arrested because he could not locate me anywhere. He thought I had been shot dead because the villagers could hear shooting at the time of my arrest. It wasn't until 3:30 a.m. that my father finally knew where I was.

3. After about 30 minutes I was taken in a vehicle to a nearby military base. At the base a military doctor removed the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health. Then he re-blindfolded and I was left in a shipping container for about two hours.
4. After about two hours I was taken to the police station near the settlement of Ni'ilin. At the police station I was left on a chair for about two hours before being taken for interrogation. By then it was after midnight.
5. The interrogator, who spoke to me via an interpreter, removed the blindfold and told me I had the right to remain silent. Then she asked me whether I knew why I was in her office and then accused me of throwing stones at settler cars. She told me soldiers saw me throwing stones and a settler and his wife also testified against me. I denied the accusation. I felt if I remained silent the interrogator would have interpreted it as an acknowledgement of guilt.
6. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had a military court hearing on Sunday. He asked me for my parents' phone number and told me he was going to call them. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening.

Name: Y.I.M.Z.
Date: 14 February 2019
Location: Al Jalazun refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / weapon possession

I, Y.I.M.Z. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About two weeks before I was arrested an Israeli intelligence officer phoned my father at around 8:30 p.m. and told him he wanted me to come to his office at Ofer for “a chat”. I went as requested.
2. The intelligence officer warned me if I did anything wrong he was going to put me in prison. He told me this time he was going to send me home. About a week after this conversation a Palestinian “security officer” called me and warned me that if I am seen on the main road at the entrance to the refugee camp where I live Israeli soldiers would shoot and kill me.
3. A week later, on 14 February 2019, there was loud banging at our front door. It was around 3.30 a.m. My mother opened the door and about 30 soldiers entered our home. The Area Commander was with them. He started yelling at me saying he was going to “chop my head off”. The soldiers pushed my mother into one of the rooms and did not allow her to leave. Then the commander told me I was under arrest but he did not say why and did not give my parents any documents.
4. The soldiers searched our house turning everything upside down causing damage to our furniture. My younger siblings were terrified, especially my younger brother who is 12. Half-an-hour later young men and boys from the camp started to throw stones at the soldiers and there were clashes between the two sides.
5. Shortly afterwards a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were painful. Then they walked me to the main road at the entrance to the camp where I was blindfolded. On the way the soldiers treated me badly: they kicked me on my leg until I bled and slapped me on the head. They also swore at me calling me “a son of a whore”. Then they pushed me into the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. The soldiers in the back of the jeep made fun of me and asked me to sing and dance.
6. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Beit El where I was taken to a shipping container. I was left there for about five hours. During this time a doctor examined me and gave me a glass of water. In the morning I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement for interrogation. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken to an interrogation room.

7. The interrogator removed the blindfold and showed me a document written in Hebrew and Arabic about my right to consult with a lawyer and my right to silence. Then he accused me of weapon possession and throwing stones. Then he told me they found a gun at my uncle's house and claimed they found my fingerprints on it. I denied the accusation. He thumped the table and yelled at me and accused me of lying to him. He threatened to lock me up in a small cell if I did not confess.
8. He questioned me for about four hours and kept repeating the same accusations. He wanted me to confess but I did not. At the end of the interrogation he allowed me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to worry and that he was going to speak to my parents and let them know where I was. The conversation was very short and the interrogator was listening.
9. Then the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign something I did not understand.
10. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. The military judge decided to extend my detention for more interrogation. Then I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched and I was asked to crouch up and down while naked which was very embarrassing.
11. Two days later I was taken for another interrogation at the police station in Binyamin settlement. The interrogator showed me the document about my rights. Then he started to question me about the same accusations. When I told him I was going to remain silent he said it was not right and that I would be violating the laws. He also told me remaining silent was disrespectful to him. This interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. The interrogation lasted for about two hours and I denied all the accusations and refused to sign documents written in Hebrew. The interrogator also named another boy and told me he had confessed against me. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison.
12. I had two more interrogations. I was given the document about my rights at the beginning of each interrogation but I did not speak to any lawyers. I continued to deny all the accusations and refused to sign any documents.
13. Between interrogations I had hearings in the military courts. All in all I had about 15 hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one year in prison, fined NIS 2,000 and given a suspended sentence of one year valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told that rejecting it would mean spending more time in prison.
14. I spent eight months in Ofer prison and then I was transferred to the Negev prison, inside Israel. My family visited me twice a month. In prison I exercised and helped cook meals for the other prisoners. My time there was difficult and humiliating.
15. I was released on 23 January 2020, at Al-Dahiriya checkpoint and I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

I, Q.H.M.H. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Two days before I was arrested the Palestinian Preventative Security Forces summoned me to their offices in Ramallah. I went and the officer made me sign a document saying I promise not to harm the state of Israel and that I regret having done so in the past and that it was wrong to be engaged in such acts.
2. Two days later, on 14 February 2019, Israeli soldiers raided our home at 3:30 a.m. I got up and went to the living room. My father opened the door and about 15-20 soldiers entered our house.
3. A soldier asked my father for me by name and then told him I was under arrest. They gave my father a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic and made him sign it but did not give him a copy. When my father asked why I was being arrested the commander refused to tell him.
4. The soldiers immediately took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie. The tie was very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for two days. Then they led me to the main entrance of the refugee camp where they blindfolded me.
5. After I was blindfolded I was led to the nearby settlement of Beit El where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor pulled down the blindfold and removed the tie and then put them on again as before. Then I was taken to a shipping container where I was left with another detainee for about two hours.
6. After about two hours I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep then drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was interrogated. I was without food or drink the whole time and when I asked to use the toilet a soldier told me he would accompany me so I refused. I entered the interrogation room at around 8:00 a.m.
7. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie and shackled me. Before he started to question me he gave me a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic informing me of my right to consult with a lawyer and my right to silence. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to talk about anything I knew nothing about or anything I was not involved in. Then he told me to take care of myself.

8. Then the interrogator told me his name was "Yossi" and then asked me whether I threw stones at soldiers. He gave me a date back in 2017 and accused me of throwing stones on that date. I denied the accusation. I decided not to remain silent because I thought the interrogator would go mad if I did.
9. The interrogator named some boys from Al Jalazun camp and showed me their interrogation files and told me the boys had confessed against me. When I denied the accusation again he started to shout at me telling me I had to confess. He questioned me for about three hours and kept urging me to confess. Most of the time he was aggressive in order for me to confess but I did not. I was not given any documents to sign at the end of the interrogation.
10. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My father was not there because he had not been informed about the hearing. The interrogator was there and my lawyer. The interrogator told the military court he needed more time in order to interrogate me more. The military judge decided to extend my detention by eight days to allow for more interrogation.
11. After the hearing I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched and told to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to section 13 where I had a meal for the first time since my arrest.
12. Three days later I was taken for another interrogation at Binyamin police station. The interrogator showed me a document about my rights but did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He questioned me for about 30 minutes about the same incident and accused me of throwing stones. I denied the accusation. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison.
13. I was interrogated about 15 times over many days. I was given the document about my rights at the beginning of each interrogation but I did not speak to a lawyer. I was not given any documents to sign at the end of the interrogations.
14. After one of the interrogations I was taken to a very small room, about 1 x 1 meter, where I was left for hours together with another detainee. There were no windows in the room and the light was on 24 hours. There was not enough room for me to stretch my legs and there was nothing in the room not even a mattress. The other boy went crazy and both of us kept banging at the door asking that they move us somewhere else. After repeated begging the other detainee was taken to another cell and I was left alone. This was the hardest thing during my entire arrest and imprisonment. I was scared and almost went crazy. They brought me frozen food which I did not eat. When I asked to go to the toilet a soldier insisted on going in with me. This time I accepted because I was desperate. I thought they would hurt me and no one would ever find out. I was left in that room for 24 hours; from 5:00 a.m. until 5:00 a.m. the next day. Had I been left there one more hour I would have gone mad.

15. During these repeated interrogations my detention was extended for four days, then another four days and six days. I also had many military court hearings. The last hearing was on the same day that I was released. During that hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 13 months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for five years.
16. The evidence against me was based on the confessions of the other boys who claimed I was with them. My relationship with these boys has been affected; we no longer hang out together and our families hardly speak to each other. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I would go home that day.
17. I spent the whole time at Ofer prison and my father visited me regularly. I was released on 19 February 2020, and I went home with my father. We arrived home early evening. I dropped out of school before I was arrested and I would like to find a job but it is very hard; all the businesses are closed because of the Corona Virus restrictions.

Age: 16
Date: 19 February 2019
Location: Al Khader, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, W.A.M.S. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up to tell me that Israeli soldiers were at my uncle's house who lives nearby. It was around 4:30 a.m. I got up and looked out the window and saw about 20 soldiers walking towards our house.
2. My father opened the door for the soldiers who seemed tense. A soldier asked my father for the names of his children. When my father mentioned my name a soldier said they wanted to arrest me. When my father pointed to me and the soldiers realized I was a minor they calmed down a bit. They asked to see my identity card and then asked us to fetch our mobile phones.
3. The soldiers gathered my parents and siblings in the living room and took me to my bedroom. Three soldiers accompanied. One of the soldiers was wearing a mask to conceal his identity. They sat me down on a chair in the middle of the room, shut the door and phoned the commander and handed me the phone.
4. The person on the line accused me of threatening "Captain Nasim" on Facebook. I denied it. Then one of the soldiers asked to check my Facebook page. He not find what he was looking for. The commander then asked me if I had another account where I threatened "Captain Nasim" and I told him I did not. Then he told me to get dressed because I was under arrest. We were not given any documentation.
5. The soldiers searched my bedroom and found some flags and a mask which they confiscated. Then I said goodbye to my family before the soldiers pushed me against a wall and tied my hands to the back with a single plastic tie which was tight and painful. They left marks on my wrists for days. They also blindfolded me before I was taken downstairs and put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a metal box.
6. On the way soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was taken to an ambulance where a soldier removed the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health. Then he blindfolded me again and I was taken to the military base where I waited until around 8:30 a.m.
7. At around 8:30 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left on a metal bench out in the cold for about 30 minutes before being taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator removed the blindfold and tie. He wore civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. As soon as I entered the room he asked me how I was and then told me I had to tell him everything there was to tell if I wanted him to help me prove my innocence. I told him I had nothing to say. Then he showed me a document which informed me of my right to silence. The document also warned me that remaining silent might be used against me in court. I understood this to mean it was better for me to speak.
9. Then the interrogator left the room for about five minutes and then came back with a bunch of screen shots and told me they were from my Facebook page. I told him they were not. Then he showed me photographs of the flags and mask and asked me where I had brought them from and I told him I did not remember.
10. Then he accused me of threatening “Captain Nasim” and I told him I had no idea who “Captain Nasim” was and that I only knew he conducted arrests. Then he showed me some photographs of young boys throwing stones and pointed to one of them and then showed me his house on a satellite image on his screen. Then he showed me my house and then accused me of throwing Molotov cocktails and stones at soldiers.
11. Half way through the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and to stick to my statement. Then he told me “inshallah” he would see me in court. The conversation lasted for about 30 seconds and the interrogator was listening throughout. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did. Then he handed me over to another interrogator.
12. The second interrogator took off his jacket, rolled up his sleeves and put his pistol on the table in front of me. Then he started to question me about throwing stones and Molotov cocktails and about my Facebook page. He also asked me about my cousin. He did not inform me of my rights and threatened to revoke my father’s and brother’s work permits. At the end of the interrogation gave me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did. Then I was taken to see a third interrogator.
13. The third interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He turned his computer screen towards me and showed me a map of my village and wanted me to point to the houses of boys he named. I could not figure out the map and he tried to help me understand it. He pointed to the main entrance and to the main street.
14. Part way through the interrogation the first interrogator came in, tied my hands and blindfolded me and handed me over to three soldiers who walked me a long distance inside the police station. The soldiers verbally abused me and called me “a son of a whore”. They took me to a cell where I was strip searched and asked me to crouch up and down. I was left in the cell for about six hours and I could not sleep at all. They brought me food.
15. Then the first interrogator came and took me to see a fourth interrogator. This one did not inform me of my rights and showed me photographs of young people and wanted me to give their names. I told him I did not know them. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13.

16. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My brother attended the hearing. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 15 hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and a fine of NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for three years. My lawyer told me it was a good bargain and that is why I accepted it. Also, the plea bargain was offered about two months before I would be released and I just wanted to go home as quickly as possible.
17. I spent my sentence at Ofer where I studied Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. My family visited me about seven times in prison. I was released on 27 September 2019, and I went home with my relatives. I arrived home at around 2:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, S.M.M.S. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at 2:00 a.m. to the sound of Israeli soldiers smashing windows and breaking our front door. About 15 soldiers entered our home. They asked to see our identity cards then left the house and went to my relatives' apartments in the same building. Then they came back to our apartment and asked for the identity cards again.
2. The soldiers then gathered all the males in the building in one room and took my uncle aside to the living room and started to chat with him. They told him they wanted to arrest me. They did not say why and did not give my uncle any documents.
3. I was taken outside and the soldiers led me towards the main road. Then they sat me on the bonnet of a military jeep where they searched me. Then they tied my hands to the back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. Then they blindfolded me. I was then thrown on the metal floor of a jeep but a female soldier helped me stand up and sat me on a seat.
4. Later I was taken out of the jeep and led to an open field where I was left in the cold weather for about an hour. Then the soldiers made me sit on the bonnet of the jeep and they swore at my mother and called her "a whore". Then I was taken back to the jeep where soldiers beat me on the back with their guns. I was left in the jeep by myself for about an hour and then the jeep drove someplace where I was given a medical examination.
5. After the medical examination I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left on a chair in a room with lots of soldiers around me for about two hours. I was given some water and I was allowed to use the toilet. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator took me behind a shipping container where he slapped me and called me "a son of a whore" and accused me of throwing pipe bombs and Molotov cocktails at soldiers. Then he took me inside a room where he untied me and removed the blindfold. He wore civilian clothes and two other interrogators were in the room with him. He told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he started to question me.
7. He raised his voice at me and told me other boys had confessed against me. He spoke in a loud voice and brought his face very close to mine. He pulled out his pistol and placed it on the table in front of me. Then he aimed it at me and threatened to shoot me if I did not confess. He also told me he was going to let me rot in prison if I did not confess.

8. Half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and not to confess to anything I did not do. Then he told me to take care of myself and hung up. The interrogator remained in the room during the conversation which lasted for less than a minute.
9. The interrogation lasted for about three hours. At the end the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I signed one but refused to sign the others.
10. Then I was taken to another room to be interrogated by another interrogator. This one was calm. He told me it was in my best interest to confess and that if I did he was going to give me a reduced sentence. He spoke to me without informing me of my rights.
11. He questioned me for about an hour and showed me photographs and wanted me to give names of people in the photographs. I did not confess and did not give any names.
12. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I waited for about five hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My lawyer was there. I was denied bail. I went back to prison. The following day I was taken for another interrogation at Etzion police station but I was never interrogated and was taken back to Ofer. I arrived there at around 6:00 p.m.
14. I had about 12 military court hearings. On the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I received a reduced sentence and my lawyer advised me to accept it. I was sentenced on the basis of testimonies by collaborators and some photographs.
15. I spent my sentence at Ofer prison. My family visited me four times and I spent my time sleeping and exercising. I also attended Arabic and Hebrew classes. I was released on 4 August 2019.

Name: M.A.M.I.
Age: 16
Date: 24 February 2019
Location: Al Khader, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.M.I. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A friend phoned my father at around 1:00 a.m. and told him soldiers were in our neighbourhood. My father woke me up and told me the news. At around 3:00 a.m. a large number of soldiers surrounded our home. The soldiers banged on our front door and my father opened it for them.
2. About 20 soldiers entered our home. The commander asked my father for me. The commander then took my father into another room and spoke to him. Then the soldiers went to my bedroom and searched it. They took out clothes from the wardrobe and searched under the mattress. Then they told me to get dressed and immediately took me outside. On leaving the soldiers gave my father a document with my name written in Arabic. The document said I was accused of throwing stones but did not say where I was going to be taken.
3. Outside the house my hands were tied behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for days. Then they blindfolded me and walked me towards the mosque where military jeeps were waiting. I was taken to the back of one of the jeeps where I sat on the metal floor between soldiers' legs. They pushed my head down in an uncomfortable position and each time I lifted my head up soldiers slapped me and swore at me calling me "a son of a whore".
4. The jeep drove to a place I did not recognise and I was given a medical examination. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination and put back on later. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties and told me I was a terrorist. Then he told me he was going to revoke my father's work permit if I did not confess. He also threatened to lock me up in cells in solitary confinement if I did not confess. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on Route 60 and wanted me to confess. When I denied the accusation he thumped the table aggressively and raised his voice as he repeated the accusation. He held me by the shoulder and pressed hard.
6. Then he brought in a friend of mine whom they had arrested and the two of us confessed against ourselves and each other. The interrogation lasted for about three hours but half way through the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and handed the telephone over to me. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and not to worry and that he was my lawyer. Nobody informed me of my right to silence.

7. At the end of the interrogation I was shown a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused. Then he told me he had written exactly what I had told him and urged me to sign and I did. Then he took my photograph and fingerprints and took me to a cell where I was strip searched.
8. In the evening I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
9. The following day I had a military court hearing which my mother and aunt attended. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 12 military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me it was a good bargain and he urged me to accept it.
10. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer where I attended Arabic and Hebrew classes. I was in charge of the canteen which kept me busy. My parents visited me four times. I was released on 4 August 2019, from Ofer and I went home with my relatives. I arrived home after sunset.

Name: M.J.Y.D.
Age: 16
Date: 26 February 2019
Location: Al Khader, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.J.Y.D. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My brother woke me up at around 1:00 a.m. and told me he had heard soldiers banging at my uncle's front door. He told me to stay in bedroom. I got up and heard people shouting. I looked out the window and saw lots of soldiers. Shortly afterwards I heard banging at our front door. My mother opened the front door and about seven soldiers entered our home. More soldiers spread out around the house and on the staircase of our building.
2. The soldiers came straight to my bedroom and took me to the living room. One of them asked me for my name and my birth date and then told me they wanted to take me for a short time for a procedural reason and would bring me back afterwards. I think they said this because they wanted to calm my mother down who was crying and was very stressed and anxious.
3. My mother was desperate to know the reason for my arrest. One of the soldiers, who was masked, told my mother to let them take me and he would guarantee my return. They gave my mother a document with details about my arrest filled out in Hebrew and told her she had to sign the document.
4. I put on some shoes and the soldiers took me downstairs where they made me stand against the wall and tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were slightly painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a troop carrier where they made me sit on the metal floor. Another detainee was also in the troop carrier.
5. We drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was given a medical examination. Then I was left in a room for about five hours. I was very bored and tired. A soldier gave me some water and allowed me to use the toilet. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold and ties and handed me a phone to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me the interrogator was going to ask me some questions and told me I could answer with a yes or no or I could remain silent. He also told me I would be taken to Ofer after the interrogation and there we could speak. The conversation lasted a short time and the interrogator was in the room.
7. Then the interrogator asked me who my friends were. He named a few names and asked me if I knew any of them and I told him I did not. Then he told me he had a confession against me that I threw stones at soldiers back in 2017 and 2018 and that I stood and watched as boys threw stones at soldiers during clashes. I denied everything but the interrogator insisted and wanted me to confess. He repeated the accusations over and over again. He asked me all the questions without informing me of my right to remain silent.

8. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and all the time the interrogator wanted me to confess but I did not. He told me a friend of mine had confessed against me but still I did not confess and denied the accusations. I told him I had nothing to do with that boy. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and wanted me to sign it and I did.
9. After the interrogation my photograph and fingerprints were taken. I was then taken to a cell where I was searched in my boxer shorts. I spent the night in the cell.
10. The following morning I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and cousin attended. An interpreter was translating but I did not understand anything. The hearing was adjourned.
11. I had four military court hearings. At the last hearing the military judge decided to release me. He gave me a suspended sentence of six months valid for four years and made my family pay a NIS 2,000 fine. This was a plea bargain based on confessions by other boys. After the court I was taken back to Ofer and I had the chance to say good bye to the other prisoners in my section.
12. I was released on 7 March 2019, and I went home with my mother and aunt. We arrived home at around 2:00 a.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktail

I, M.G.M.S. of Askar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends in an area near the settlement of Elon Moreh. It was around noon. Suddenly a group of about 20 Israeli soldiers ambushed us.
2. One soldier grabbed me and immediately tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. Then he blindfolded me and led me for about 15 minutes on foot. After 15 minutes I was put in the back of a jeep which was waiting and I sat on a seat.
3. The jeep drove to the police station in Ariel settlement where I waited for a couple of hours on a chair in a room. They removed the tie and gave me some food and around sunset I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold and told me I had to consult with a lawyer but I told him there was no need for a lawyer. He also told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he asked me who threw the Molotov cocktail at the settlement and I told him I did not know. Then he asked me for the names of the other boys who were with me and I told him I did not know. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and I denied the accusation.
5. He interrogated me for about an hour and he was calm and did not shout. He repeated the accusation several times and I continued to deny it. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my underwear before being taken to a cell. They removed the tie and gave me some food. I was left in the cell until around 3:00 p.m. the following day when I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel.
7. At Megiddo I was searched with my clothes on and I was taken to section 3. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not know there was a hearing so they did not attend court. I was denied bail and I was taken back to prison.
8. On the third day I was taken for another interrogation at Salem. The interrogator allowed me to speak to my family and told me I had the right to remain silent. He repeated the same accusation and I continued to deny it. I did not consult with a lawyer. After the interrogation I was taken back to the military court and the hearing was adjourned.

9. In all I had four military court hearings and at the last one the court was satisfied with the time I had already spent in prison and the judge decided to release me. My family was fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for three years. I was released on the 27 March 2019, and I went home with my father.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Z.S.M.A. of Askar refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. An Israeli military jeep got stuck in the mud and clashes erupted close to the nearby settlement. It was around noon. I was in the area and was surprised by a group of soldiers who ambushed me in an olive grove. About 10 soldiers started to shout at me ordering me to go flat on the ground which I did.
2. A soldier then tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. He tightened them really hard and caused me a lot of pain which left marks on my wrists for a long time. He also blindfolded me and then led me towards the settlement.
3. On arrival at the settlement a commander asked me what I was doing in the area and claimed my friends had confessed against me and told him I was throwing stones. He did not inform me of my rights.
4. A short time later I was taken to a military jeep and I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to a place I did not recognise where I waited from around 3:00 p.m. until around 10:00 p.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
5. Before he said anything, the interrogator asked me whether I wanted to phone a lawyer myself or wanted him to call a lawyer for me. I told him I did not want a lawyer and that I was capable of defending myself. Without informing me of my right to silence he wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. Then he told me my friend had confessed against me and wanted me to confess against my friend. I denied the accusation and did not confess against my friend. He was calm and spoke to me via an interpreter. He had a voice recorder and he turned it on.
6. Then he wanted to know who threw the fire bomb at the settlement. I told him I did not know and then he told me one of my friends told him I threw it. I denied the accusation. This lasted for about an hour and in the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then the interpreter urged me to sign and told me the signature had no significance, it was just a formality. I believed him and I signed.
7. Then I was taken in a jeep to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my clothes before being taken to a cell where I stayed until around 3:00 p.m. the following day. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was searched in my clothes before being taken to the juvenile section.

8. Two days later I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend the first hearing because they were not informed about it. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
9. In all I had about eight military court hearings. At the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 27 days in prison and fined NIS 2,000 shekels. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for four years. I accepted the bargain because it meant I would go home in five days.
10. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 31 March 2019. No one from my family was expecting my release so I called them and my father picked me up. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.A.A.I. of Askar refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Clashes erupted near the settlement of Elon Moreh at around noon when an Israeli military jeep got stuck in the mud and some boys started to throw stones at it. Then I was caught by surprise when a group of soldiers ambushed me and my friends in an olive grove.
2. I ran as fast as I could but soldiers aimed their guns at me and ordered me to stop. About 16 soldiers surrounded me and pushed me to the ground. One soldier tied my hands with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. One of the ties was very tight and caused me a lot of pain and left marks on my wrist for a long time. Then he took a picture of me on his mobile phone before blindfolding me.
3. After I was blindfolded I was led towards the nearby settlement. By the settlement fence a soldier approached me and asked me who had sent me and when I told him I was not sent by anyone he slapped me and threatened to “break my bones”.
4. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to Huwwara military base near Nablus. At Huwwara I was examined by a doctor who removed the ties and the blindfold during the examination. Then I was taken back jeep which took me to the police station in Ariel settlement.
5. On arrival at Ariel I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair for about six hours, tied and blindfolded. I was given some food and I was allowed to use the toilet but I could not sleep. Then I was taken for interrogation. It was around 7:00 p.m.
6. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman. He had a camera and a voice recorder and spoke to me via an interpreter. He removed the ties and the blindfold and asked me whether I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I told him I did not. He then told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he wanted to know who threw a Molotov cocktail towards the settlement and I denied that I did. He was calm the whole time and questioned me for about five minutes. Then he sent me back to the room where I was waiting earlier. I was left there until he finished interrogating all the other boys.
7. Later I was interrogated again by the same policeman. He told me I was the only one left so it must have been me who threw the Molotov cocktail. He asked me if I threw stones regularly and if I had any weapons. I denied everything. This lasted for about 15 minutes and he was calm.

8. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did. I thought I had to sign.
9. After the interrogation my photograph and fingerprints were taken and I was then left in a waiting room for about an hour or so. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched and taken to a cell. I was left there from around 9:00 p.m. until around 3:00 p.m. the following day. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my clothes on before being taken to the juvenile section.
10. On Monday, 4 March 2019, I was taken to Salem military court. The hearing was quick and my parents did not attend because they were not informed about the hearing. I was taken back to prison after the hearing.
11. About a week later I was taken for another interrogation at Salem. The interrogator asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and also informed me of my right to remain silent. I did not speak to a lawyer. The interrogator told me I had to confess and I told him I had nothing to confess to. Then he promised to issue a work permit for me if I confessed and I told him I had not done anything wrong.
12. I had five military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 45 days in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for four years. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and I took his advice.
13. I was released on 31 March, 2019, about two weeks earlier than expected because of good conduct.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.I.M. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My mother opened the door and seven soldiers entered our home. There were many more soldiers outside.
2. The soldiers told my mother to wake up her children and then told her that they wanted to arrest me. The soldiers then sat me down in the living room and told me I was suspected of throwing stones. The soldiers then searched the house but did not cause any damage.
3. The soldiers then they gave my father a document with details about my arrest scribbled in Hebrew and asked him to sign it and he did. Then they told me to get dressed and immediately took me outside.
4. Once outside the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They also blindfolded me and took me to the back of a troop carrier. I first sat on a seat but then they made me sit on the metal floor.
5. Inside the troop carried a soldier beat me on my back and leg. Another swore at my mother and called her “a whore”. Then I was taken to the military base at the District Coordination Office where I was left in a room until around 7:00 a.m. I could not sleep. During this time someone came by and started to question me. He did not tell me who he was.
6. The person removed the blindfold and accused me of throwing stones and I denied the accusation. He questioned me without allowing me to speak to a lawyer. He told me I could speak only if he allows me and when he tells me not to speak I should stop. He wanted to know where my father worked and I told him he had a permit to work in Israel. He questioned me for about an hour and kept repeating the accusation. He did not show me any documents to sign. Then I was taken to the police station in the settlement of Bitar Illit.
7. At the police station I was questioned again and the interrogator did not inform me of my rights. The second interrogation was about the same accusation and lasted for about an hour. The interrogator wanted to know if I threw stones with my friends on Route 60 and I told him I did not. He gave me a specific date in December 2018. He was aggressive and spoke in a loud voice. He did not give me anything to sign.

8. After the interrogation I was taken outside where I waited for about 15 minutes and then I was taken for another interrogation. By then it was around 8:00 a.m.
9. As soon as I entered the room the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on a speaker phone. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and to take care of myself. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator was listening.
10. Without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones with my friends. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for a very long time, maybe five or six hours and he kept repeating the same accusation. He showed me some photographs of me sitting on the side of a hill. He left the room and came back many times. In the end I was tired and I confessed to throwing one stone which missed.
11. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign and asked him for a translation. When he translated it and I found it was identical to what I had said I signed it.
12. After the interrogation I was taken to see another interrogator who told me to repeat what I had told the previous interrogator while he recorded everything on his computer. This interrogator did not inform me of my rights but he did have a camera and a voice recorder.
13. Later I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I remained until around 6:00 p.m. Then I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
14. The following day I had a military court hearing which my parents attended. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 12 hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison, fined NIS 2,000 and given a suspended sentence of one year valid for two years. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and told me it was good so accepted it.
15. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer where I attended Arabic and mathematics classes. I also played table tennis and my parents visited me four times. I was released on 13 August 2019, and I went home with my family. We arrived home in the evening.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.K.R. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A friend phoned me at around 4:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our town. Shortly afterwards there was a knock at our front door. My father opened the door and three soldiers entered our home. More soldiers waited outside.
2. The soldiers asked whether I lived in the house and then gathered us all in the living room. One of the soldiers asked me for my name and then took my identity card. He then took a photograph of me and told me I was under arrest. Then he gave my father a document filled out on Hebrew with information about my arrest but my father did not understand the Hebrew. Meanwhile, another soldier was taking photos of all the rooms in our house but did not tell us why.
3. About 30 minutes later they took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor.
4. I was taken to a nearby military base where I was left in a room until around 4:00 p.m. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept me tied. He wore civilian clothes and told me my file was complete implying he did not even need me to confess. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers on 11 August 2018, and told me he had photographic evidence of the incident. He questioned me for about 15 minutes without informing me of any rights.
6. Half-way through the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone. The person on the line told me not to confess or speak and to be strong. I told him I did not believe he was a lawyer and I immediately hung up on him.
7. The interrogator did not show me any documents to sign but he took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken into a cell. About 30 minutes later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was searched in my clothes before being taken to section 13.
8. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.

9. I had about six military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison: two months for this offence and eight months of a suspended sentence I had from a previous arrest. I was also fined NIS 3,000 shekels and served with an additional suspended sentence of 15 months valid for a year. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and told me I would get a longer sentence if I did not accept it.
10. I spent part of my sentence at Ofer and part at Remon prison, inside Israel. I was released on 12 December 2019, at Al-Thahriyeh checkpoint and I went home with my father.
11. In prison I attended classes and played table tennis and cards. My mother visited me five times. I don't want to go back to prison ever again; I want to become a plumber and I want to focus on that.

Accusation: Knife possession

I, M.Y.M.D. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at an Israeli military checkpoint when the metal detector went off and soldiers started to shout at me. It was around 2:00 p.m. The soldiers told me to step aside and turn around. A soldier searched me and found a fruit knife in my pocket which I had forgotten was there. I use the knife when I help my father in the vegetable shop where he works.
2. The soldiers immediately took me to a room where they blindfolded me, handcuffed my hands to the front and shackled my legs. They also connected my hands to my legs with a chain. The soldiers swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”.
3. At around 9:00 p.m. I was taken to Ariel settlement for interrogation. They took me in a jeep where I sat on a seat in the back. At Ariel I was taken to a room where I waited for about 15 minutes and then I was taken into the interrogation room. It was around 10:30 p.m.
4. The interrogator was wearing an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold and the handcuffs and shackles and asked me what I was doing at the checkpoint. Then he asked me about the knife and I told him I used it at work and I had forgotten it in my pocket. He did not inform me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer.
5. He repeated the question about the knife and I gave him the same answer. He shouted at me when he did not like my answer and repeated the question in an aggressive tone of voice. He accused me of planning to stab a soldier but I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I did not confess.
6. Then he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign and asked for an Arabic translation. Then he gave it to me in Arabic and I signed it because it was identical to what I had said. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph and took me to Huwwara military base.
7. At Huwwara I was searched in my underwear shorts before being taken to a cell. I spent one night at Huwwara. I was not given any food or drink. The next day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was again searched in my underwear. I arrived at around noon and the other prisoners gave me some food.
8. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents attended and the hearing was adjourned because there was no lawyer to represent me. I had three military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months valid for three years. My lawyer accepted the plea bargain on my behalf.

9. During the prison sentence I was transferred to another prison because I had an argument with a prison guard. As punishment they made me sign a document giving up my right to a family visit. I left school about a year ago when I was arrested the first time because I did not want to repeat my class.
10. I was released on 28 May 2019, and I went home with my father. Since my release I don't have much to do; I go to bed at 4:00 a.m. and I sleep most of the day.

I, R.M.A.T. of Deir Nidham, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 1:00 p.m. I was picking almonds in my village when a group of Israeli soldiers in civilian clothes started to chase me. I was terrified because I was not paying attention to them and I thought they were people from the village.
2. I ran away as fast as I could but one of them grabbed me by the shoulder and started to beat and kick me all over my body and the others joined him. They pushed me to the ground and forced me to sit. They swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". Then one of them tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were painful, and my left wrist hurt for a long time. He also blindfolded me. I was then led towards the valley where a military jeep was waiting.
3. The soldiers sat me down by the jeep and removed the blindfold and one of them asked me how I was doing. Then he asked me about my brother and wanted to know where he was. I told him I did not know. He accused me of lying and pushed me into the back of the jeep and made me sit on a metal box in the middle. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Halamish.
4. When we arrived at the settlement I was made to sit on a road. A security guard at the settlement asked me how many security cameras I had broken and accused me of threatening the security of the settlement. He brought his laptop and showed me a satellite image of my village and asked me to point to our house. When I refused, he pointed to one house and asked me whether it was our house and I said no. Then he accused me of throwing stones and I denied it. He then showed me a photograph of my brother sitting by the road in our village doing nothing and told me he wanted to arrest him. I acknowledged it was my brother but I told him he was not doing anything wrong and there was no reason to arrest him. At no time did anyone inform me that I had any rights.
5. Then I was taken to the jeep which took me to a nearby military base. They sat me down in a room for about an hour and nobody talked to me. Then the area commander, whose name is "Amer", came and accused me of throwing stones. He did not inform me of my rights. When I denied it he accused me and my brother of throwing stones. About an hour later I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement.

6. At the police station they removed the ties and I was left on a chair in a room for about 4-5 hours. My back hurt from sitting so long and I could not sleep. In the evening I was taken for interrogation.
7. A female interrogator questioned me. She was wearing an Israeli police uniform. Without informing me of my rights she accused me of throwing stones and of taking part in protests. I denied the accusation. A soldier who was standing beside her was translating. She raised her voice at me when I denied the accusation and wanted me to give her names of the other boys who were with me. Then she called a lawyer and put him on speaker phone and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent. I asked him whether the interrogator would beat me if I remained silent and he said no. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator was listening.
8. Then the interrogator repeated the accusation. I remained silent and did not answer. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and in the end I was given document in Hebrew to sign and I signed without understanding what was written.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my clothes before being taken to section 13. I could not sleep that night. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. The court did not inform my parents about the hearing and so they did not attend. The hearing was adjourned.
10. In all I had about eight military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 29 April 2019, the military judge decided to release me on the same day. He sentenced me in a plea bargain to one month in prison and a fine of NIS 500. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I could go home the same day.

I, M.B.S.J. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our house at around 1:00 a.m. looking for me but I was not home. They gave my father a summons telling me to go to the police station Etzion settlement by 7:30 a.m.
2. I went to the police station with my father and uncle as ordered later that morning. My father and uncle were told to leave and I was taken to a shipping container where I waited until around 5:30 p.m. During this time a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties which were tight and painful. He also blindfolded me using a smelly rag and told me if I confessed against someone I would be sent home quickly. He did not inform me of my rights and I did not believe him. At around 5:30 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator removed the blindfold and told me young boys from the village confessed against me and told him I was throwing stones at soldiers. When I denied the accusation he slapped me on my neck and accused me of lying. Then he told me he was going to arrest my parents and brothers if I did not confess but if I did confess he was going to send me home the following day. I continued to deny the accusation.
4. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and kept pressuring me to confess but I did not. He questioned me for about two hours and was very aggressive. He spat in my face and told me I was "a son of a whore". He thumped the table and put his pistol on the table and threatened to shoot me if I did not confess. Then he told me if I throw stones again he was going to revoke my father's work permit for two years. Then he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
5. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I spent two nights. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my clothes before being taken to section 13.
6. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend because they were not informed about the hearing. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had seven military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month and five days in prison; fined NIS 2,500 and given a suspended sentence valid for one-and-a-half years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer convinced my parents to accept it.

7. I was released on 13 May 2019, at Beit Sira checkpoint and I went home with a friend who was released with me. I arrived home at 1:30 a.m. My parents did not visit me because they were not issued a visiting permit in time. I spent my sentence at Ofer prison.

I, M.M.M.B. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I came home late at night and then chatted to my sister who was visiting. I knew Israeli soldiers were in our village at the time and I told my brother to wake me up if they came to our neighbourhood before I went to bed.
2. At around 2:30 a.m. my brother woke me up and told me soldiers were at our neighbour's house. I looked out the window and saw about 10-15 military vehicles. Then I saw soldiers walking towards our house with their torch lights. At that point I realized they were coming to our house.
3. The soldiers banged at our front door and my father answered quickly. Four soldiers entered our home and asked to see my identity card and my father's. Then the commander told me I had 10 minutes to get dressed because I was under arrest. He did not say why but he gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. They did not allow me to say good bye to my family and immediately took me downstairs.
4. Once outside many soldiers surrounded me and I was scared. One soldier tied my hands to the front with a single plastic tie which was tight. It caused my hands to swell and caused me a lot of pain. Then they blindfolded me and took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. But then a soldier grabbed me by my shirt and pushed me down and made me sit on the metal floor.
5. Inside the jeep a soldier hit me with his helmet and another kicked me on my legs. The jeep then drove towards a nearby military base where I was transferred to another jeep. There, a soldier tightened the tie even more and my hands turned blue and were very painful. The tie left marks on my wrists for a week.
6. After a short time I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I had to walk for a long distance led by soldiers. I was taken to a room where I was tied to a chair. I was very uncomfortable and kept asking to go to the toilet so that they untie me from the chair. Each time I went to the toilet a soldier accompanied me to the toilet which was embarrassing for me. He also aimed his gun at me.
7. At some point I was taken for a medical examination. Then I was left outside and I managed to remove the blindfold because it was bothering me. An interrogator passed by and swore at me and at the doctor because I was not blindfolded. He called me "a son of a whore" and blindfolded me. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator told me he was from a Palestinian political faction and told me he was there to help me and in order for him to help me I had to tell him everything. He removed the tie and the blindfold and told me to be cooperative. Without informing me of my rights he wanted to know who I go to throw stones with and who I hang out with at night. Then he showed me pictures of my friends and asked me about them. He wanted me to confess against them. I told him I knew nothing about the boys in the photos.
9. The interrogator accused me of lying to him and blindfolded me again. He also tied my hands to the back and made me stand up. He told me he was not going to allow me to sit down until I confessed and until I gave him the names of the boys in the pictures he showed me. He also threatened to arrest my sister and mother if I did not confess. He then accused me of throwing stones on Route 60 and of pulling down a drone which was taking pictures of the boys who were throwing stones. I denied the accusations.
10. Half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to listen to what the interrogator said. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator was in the room the whole time.
11. Towards the end of the interrogation the interrogator punched me in the head as if he was practicing boxing. The interrogation lasted for about four hours. Then I was taken to see another interrogator.
12. The second interrogator was calm. He removed the tie and the blindfold and asked me the same questions but his technique was different. He did not inform me of my rights and I denied all the accusations.
13. After the second interrogation I was taken to see a policeman who gave me details about the few hours before I was arrested. He told me I went home at midnight and that I went to the bathroom at 12:30 a.m. He also told me I stopped to speak to a friend outside the supermarket before going home. All the details he gave me scared me because I realised an informant was keeping an eye on me.
14. Then he showed me lots of documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. He was upset and signed the documents himself. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I was left there by myself for about five hours and then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
15. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court where I saw my father I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing the court decided to release me in a plea bargain. My father had to pay a NIS 2,000 fine and I received a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant being released on the same day.

16. I spent 23 days in prison although it felt a lot longer. I was released on 1 May 2019, and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around midnight.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Z.N.H.J. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers had come to our home. Then three soldiers entered my bedroom and one of them asked to see my identity card. My father told him I did not yet have an identity card because of my age. Then the commander told me to put on some warm clothes because it was cold and told my father they were arresting me.
2. When my father asked why I was being arrested the commander told him his job was only to make the arrest. Then he gave my father a document with details about my arrest. The information was written in Hebrew. The commander took a photo of my father holding the document.
3. Then they gathered my parents, my siblings and my older brother and his family in one room and took me outside and made me walk quickly towards the centre of the village. Some young men from the village started to throw stones at the soldiers who were surrounding the house.
4. Then I was taken to a troop carrier where I was tied with my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. My wrists swelled and the tie left a mark for a long time. When I complained a soldier told me he would loosen it later but he never did. I was also blindfolded and made to sit on the metal floor of the troop carrier. Then they drove to my friend's house and arrested him.
5. After my friend's arrest we were driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. At the gate they took me out of the troop carrier and made me walk by myself while tied and blindfolded. I fell down when a soldier pushed me to hurry me up.
6. Once inside the settlement I was taken for a medical examination. The doctor removed the tie and the blindfold and put them back again when he was done. After the medical exam I was led on a long walk to a shipping container where I sat on a chair until around 6:00 a.m. I could not sleep at all.
7. During this time the interrogator came by and handed me a phone and told me it was a lawyer. The person on the other end of the line had a heavy accent and I was suspicious of him. He told me to see what the interrogator had to say and then he would fix things up for me. He told me he would see me in court. Then I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and offered me a cigarette. When I told him I did not smoke he offered me tea and cake. Then he told me my friend, whom they had arrested with me, had confessed to “everything”. He told me because he cooperated he was done quickly. Then without informing me of my rights he accused me of throwing stones on Route 60. When I denied the accusation he told me a boy from my village had confessed against me. He also showed me some photographs of boys throwing stones and accused me of taking part. Still, I denied the accusation.
9. I was interrogated for about two hours. During this time the interrogator put a lot of pressure on me and kept telling me my friends had confessed against me. He urged me to confess against them because they betrayed me and I should not let them get away with it. The psychological pressure was immense and I ended up confessing. He wanted me to confess against my friends and to confess to throwing stones at settlers and to being involved in pulling down a drone. I only confessed to throwing a stone which missed at a passing military jeep from a distance of 500 meters.
10. Then he took me to see another interrogator who was aggressive and spoke to me while shouting urging me to confess against two boys from my village. He did not inform me of my rights and questioned me for about 30 minutes. Then he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. He swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and told me signing the documents would make things easier for me but I refused unless a lawyer was present. He then signed the documents himself.
11. Then he tied my hands tightly and blindfolded me and took me to a cell where I was strip searched. They brought me some food but I could not eat it and I could not sleep.
12. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. The trip to Ofer took many hours. At Ofer I was again strip searched before being taken to section 13.
13. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were not informed and did not attend. I was denied release on bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had about five military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and given a suspended sentence valid for three years. This was reduced to one month in prison after parents decided to pay NIS 2,000.
14. I was released at Beit Sira checkpoint on 13 May 201,9 and went home with my mother and brother. I arrived home at around 2:00 a.m. One day before I was released the area commander phoned my father and told him to bring me over to his office the following day. My father and I went to the commander’s office at 4:00 p.m. as requested. The commander warned my father that if I ever throw stones again he was going to ban my father from traveling. He made him sign a commitment written in Hebrew.

I, H.H.S.J. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A friend phoned my father at around 1:30 a.m. and told him that Israeli soldiers were in our village. I was awake and remained in bed. Soon I heard commotion outside our house and then banging at our front door. My father opened the door and around seven soldiers entered our home.
2. The commander asked my father how many children he had and then said he wanted to arrest me. He told my father they wanted to question me about throwing stones and gave him a document with details about my arrest. The soldiers then took a picture of my father holding the document. The soldiers were in the house for about 10 minutes and then took me outside.
3. Once outside I was taken to the back of a troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the troop carrier they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. Then they drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement.
4. On arrival at Etzion I was given a medical examination. The doctor removed the blindfold and then put it back on once he was finished. Then they led me to a room where I sat on a chair. I could not sleep at all. I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet. At around 6:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a gun on his side. He removed the tie and blindfold and asked me for my name. Then he asked me what I was doing in his office. I told him soldiers brought me there. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation.
6. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be scared and to say what I had to say and then they would send me to Ofer prison. The interrogator remained in the room and listened to the conversation which lasted for about a minute.
7. After speaking to the lawyer the interrogator wanted to know what my father did for work. He did not inform me of my right to silence. When I told him my father was a merchant he told me he was going to revoke my father's work permit for seven years. Then the interrogator told me other boys from the village had confessed against me. He did not give names but I later found out from my father that the boys were from a rival family.

8. Then the interrogator brought his chair closer to mine and put his face close to my face and threatened to lock me up in solitary confinement and to put me in prison for a long time if I did not confess. I told him I had not done anything wrong and he could do whatever he wanted. He got upset when I showed him I did not care about his threats and he slapped me on the face and called me “a son of a whore.” He questioned me for about two hours and then he re-tied and blindfolded me and sent me to another interrogator.
9. The second interrogator was calm. He removed the tie and the blindfold and sat me down and showed me respect. Then he showed me video footage from 2017 and told me I was seen in the footage during clashes with soldiers on Route 60. Then he accused me of taking part in the clashes and told me three boys had confessed against me. I denied the accusation. Then he asked me for the names of the other boys and I told him I did not know them. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
10. After the second interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. They brought me unappetizing food which I did not eat. At around 8:30 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed about the hearing and they did not attend. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had three military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for four years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer convinced my father it was in my interest to do so because the prosecutor wanted a sentence of one year in prison.
12. I spent the first 17 days at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison and then to Al Damoun, both inside Israel. I was released on 29 May 2019, at Al-Jalameh checkpoint where I was met by my family.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, S.S.H.S. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on agricultural land which my family owns when a group of Israeli soldiers started to chase boys who were throwing stones at them. It was around at around 3:00 p.m. All the boys ran away and the soldiers grabbed me. About six soldiers surrounded me and started to beat me with their hands and the back of their guns. The soldiers also swore at me. Then I received a big blow to my face with the back of a gun and I passed out.
2. When I recovered I found myself tied and blindfolded. I was on the ground on the other side of the Wall. I was tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight but not too painful. I was left there until around 6:30 p.m.
3. At around 6:30 p.m. I was taken into the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. I was taken to a military base where I was left on a chair in an open area until the morning. I could not sleep at all as I was cold and in pain.
4. The next morning I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I was interrogated. I waited a short while and at around noon I was taken to an interrogation room.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties and named a person and asked me whether I knew him and I told him I did not. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and of beating a soldier. I denied the accusation. I told him I was on agricultural land owned by my family and had no idea what was going on with the soldiers. He accused me of not wanting to tell him the truth. I told him I did not throw stones at all.
6. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I asked him what was written and he told me it was my statement. I signed the document in Hebrew without reading or understanding it.
7. After signing the document the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to sign any documents but it was too late and I told him I had already signed documents. The conversation was short and the interrogator was listening. The interrogation lasted for about 10-15 minutes.

8. Then I was taken out of the interrogation room and a policeman who spoke good Arabic asked me why I did not confess. He told me that they did not beat suspects as the Palestinian police do and that I should have confessed.
9. Then I was taken to a cell for about 30 minutes and then to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken to the minors' section.
10. About a week later I was taken to Salem military court. My family did not attend the first hearing because they were not informed about it and the hearing was adjourned.
11. I attended four military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain based on a soldier's testimony. I was given three choices: 16 months imprisonment and no fine; 14 months imprisonment and a NIS 2,000 fine; or 12 months imprisonment and a fine of NIS 4,000. I chose the last option and found it acceptable after I was initially told the prosecutor was asking for 22 months imprisonment for me.
12. I spent the first three months at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Damoun prison where I spent about five months in the minors' section and when I turned 18 I was transferred to the adults' section. In prison I chatted with the other prisoners and attended classes in Arabic and mathematics. I was supposed to be granted early release but the prison authorities cancelled the courts where early release is granted. It was a big disappointment because I was expecting to be released on 16 March 2020. Instead I was released on 13 April 2020.
13. My family did not visit me in prison: my mother is sick and cannot travel and it took a long time for my younger brother to be issued a visiting permit. During the Corona Virus months the prison authorities installed pay phones and I was allowed to speak with my family three times a week.
14. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint but nobody from my family was there to meet me because of the Corona virus ban on travel. Instead, I was met by a person from Qalqiliya municipality who took me home and told me I had to self-quarantine myself at home. I spent 14 days in quarantine which was quite hard; I was released from one prison only to enter another.

I, M.F.A.E. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 2:30 a.m. I was already awake because I knew they were conducting military activities in our village. When I noticed soldiers in the neighbourhood I ran away. Shortly afterwards my father phoned me and I told him I was in Ramallah and could not come home. The commander told my father to bring me to Etzion police station later that morning and gave my father a summons.
2. Later that morning I went with my father to the police station in Etzion settlement as requested. We arrived by 10:00 a.m. A soldier took the summons, took me inside and told my father to go home. I was immediately taken for interrogation.
3. As soon as I entered the interrogation room I asked to speak to a lawyer. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and put him on loud speaker and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess to anything I did not do. The interrogator listened to the conversation which lasted less than two minutes.
4. After speaking to the lawyer the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail on Route 60. I denied the accusation. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.
5. The interrogator claimed that my friends had confessed against me. I told him I did not have any friends. Then he handed me a charge sheet which he took about two hours to type while I waited in his room. The charge sheet included throwing stones at settler cars and injuring a settler child. It also included throwing a Molotov cocktail. When I denied the accusations the interrogator lost his temper and started to shout at me. He picked up the voice recorder which was on his desk and hit me with it on the chest.
6. He told me again my friends had confessed against me and told me if I confessed he was going to send me home. I did not believe him and I continued to deny the accusations. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. The interrogation lasted about six hours. During this time the interrogator left the room and came back and took a long time to type the charge sheet.
7. Also during this time two other interrogators questioned me about the same accusations without informing me of my rights. The second interrogator questioned me about a person from my village and he named him for me. I told him I did not know that person. Then I was taken to see a third interrogator.

8. The third interrogator was aggressive and agitated. He did not inform me of my rights but I thought the best way to handle his anger was to remain silent. He questioned me for about an hour about the same accusations and I did not say much. He spoke to me in a loud voice intended to intimidate and frighten me. I did not confess. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but again I refused to sign.
9. After the third interrogator was finished he took my fingerprints and photograph. Then he tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. I could not stand it and managed to snap the tie. I was also blindfolded and taken to a cell where they removed the blindfold. I was strip searched and I remained there until around 8:00 p.m.
10. During this time I felt a strong need to smoke a cigarette because I am a smoker. I banged the door begging the soldiers for a cigarette but they did not respond. In the end they got fed up with me and moved me to a cell by myself where I remained for about two hours. The cell was small, about 2x2 meters with a very small window high up. Then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. I was not taken into the court room and I was told I was going to be released. I was taken back to Ofer and the guard woke me up late at night and told me I was going to be released. I was released just before midnight on 15 April 2019. I was released without charge and I went home with my father.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, G.M.A.T. of Deir Nidham, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 3:00 a.m. I heard loud banging at our front door and a voice telling us to open up. My father opened the door and five Israeli soldiers entered our home. One of them asked for my name and then told me I was under arrest. They did not give my parents any documents and did not tell us the reason for my arrest.
2. I was then blindfolded and handcuffed with my hands to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful. At the door a soldier told my father they were going to have a few words with me and would bring me back soon.
3. Once outside I was taken to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. On the way I was transferred to another jeep and this time I sat on a seat. The second jeep drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement.
4. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a cell and a soldier wanted to strip search me but I refused. Later that day I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but did not inform me of my right to consult with a lawyer. Then he accused me of throwing stones at a security camera at the nearby settlement. When I denied it he accused me of lying. Then he showed me video footage and claimed I was seen throwing stones. I denied it was me. Then he told me he would send me home if I confessed and if I did not he would send me to Ofer prison. He banged the table and raised his voice when he repeated the accusation.
6. Then he took me to see another interrogator who allowed me to speak to a lawyer on the phone. The lawyer advised me to remain silent during the interrogation. The phone call lasted a short time, maybe a minute. The second interrogator left the room during the conversation.
7. When the second interrogator returned he asked me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator while he was typing on his computer. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
8. After the second interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched.

9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The military judge denied me bail. I had two hearings and at the last one the court decided to release me without charge. My parents did not have to pay any fines. I was released on 29 April 2019, and I went home with my brother who was released on the same day. We arrived home at around 3:00 a.m.

Age: 15
Date: 16 April 2019
Location: Aida refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.M.A. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was playing soccer with my friends at the park when all of a sudden an Israeli soldier jumped out of a military jeep and arrested me and another boy. It was around 5:30 p.m. I was shocked as there were no clashes in the area at the time.
2. The soldier swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”. Then he took me to the back of the jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep then drove to a nearby military base at Rachel’s Tomb. I was taken into a military watchtower where I was left for about 30 minutes. My parents came to the watchtower and tried to get me released but they did not succeed.
3. After 30 minutes I was put in a troop carrier and taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. My parents were allowed to accompany me. At Atarot we were left in an outdoor shed until around 1:30 a.m. I was cold and tired. Then an interrogator took me to the interrogation room and allowed my father to accompany me.
4. As soon as we entered the room the interrogator told my father he was not allowed to speak or intervene. He told him to sit down and listen and not say a word; otherwise he was going to kick him out of the room. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He spoke via an interpreter.
5. Without informing me of my rights he turned his laptop screen towards me and showed me images of people I did not know and asked me to tell him who they were. I told him I had no idea who these people were. He asked me again whether I knew them and when I told him I did not he lost his temper and shouted at me. My father objected and the interrogator threatened to kick my father out.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and I denied it. I told him I was playing soccer and the soldier arrested me from the soccer field. Then he told me I had two choices: I either confessed to throwing stones or give him names of three boys who throw stones. He showed me the photographic images again and raised his voice at me urging me to give him names. My father intervened and told the interrogator I was playing soccer and the interrogator threatened to kick him out of the room if he did not shut up. I was interrogated for about 30 minutes and I did not confess.
7. At the end of the questioning the interrogator brought documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did although I did not understand what they said. My father told me not to sign but I was too scared of the interrogator and did not want him to shout at me anymore so I signed. Then he told my father to leave.

8. After my father left I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs, which were not painful, and I was taken in a jeep to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 2:30 a.m. I was strip searched and then taken to Section 13.
9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court and I saw my lawyer for the first time. My father attended the hearing and the military judge refused to release me on bail. After court I was taken back to prison.
10. I had two more court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a six-month suspended sentence valid for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me they would sentence me to six months in prison if I rejected the plea bargain. My lawyer told me the evidence against me was from two soldiers.
11. I was released on 26 May 2019, after the court granted me an early release. My parents were waiting for me outside Ofer and I went home with them. My father does not allow me to play soccer at the park anymore and I am too scared to go. I want to focus on my school and I cannot afford to be arrested again especially since I have a suspended sentence.

Name: A.M.I.A.
Age: 15
Date: 19 April 2019
Location: Kafr Ni'meh, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.I.M.A. of Kafr Ni'meh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my friends in the fields near route 463 which is used by settlers. It was around 2:30 p.m. Suddenly I was ambushed by a group Israeli soldiers. They swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and shot in my direction. I tried to run as fast as I could but I tripped and fell to the ground and the soldiers got hold of me.
2. One of the soldiers beat me on my back and painfully twisted my arms behind my back. Then he blindfolded me and asked me if I was scared. I did not answer. Then he hit me hard on my leg with the back of his gun and caused me a lot of pain. Then he tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties. The ties were tight and painful.
3. The soldiers then led me towards a military jeep. One of the soldiers pushed me into the back of the jeep and I sat on a seat. Other soldiers came into the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Then the jeep drove to a nearby military base.
4. On arrival at the base I was taken to a shipping container and I sat on a chair. I spent two nights in the container. The first night I was by myself and the second night a soldier was with me. They brought me food but I did not eat and they brought me water. I was tied and blindfolded but whenever the soldier left the container I managed to pull down the blindfold because I could not tolerate it. Later I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the ties and re-tied my hands to the front. He also removed the blindfold. He phoned a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not be scared. I spoke to the lawyer on speaker phone for about a minute and the interrogator was listening. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.
6. Then he asked me for my name and told me I was arrested on the road and wanted to know who was with me. I gave him the names of my friends. The interrogation lasted for about an hour.
7. At the end of the interrogation he gave me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign and asked for an Arabic translation. He gave me a translation and it was a document about my legal rights. I signed it.
8. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched. Afterwards I was taken to see a doctor because my leg was swollen and caused me a lot of pain. I was limping. I was taken to a hospital where they took an X-Ray of my leg. My leg was bound and I was taken back to Ofer prison.

9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were there and the hearing was adjourned. I had four military court hearings and at the last one, which was four days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 45 days in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of three months valid for three years. I was not even asked whether I accepted the plea bargain; my lawyer did everything on my behalf.
10. I was released on 19 May 2019. I arrived home with my father at around 6:00 p.m. I was bored in prison and there was not much to do except chat with the other prisoners. My parents did not visit me in prison because they were not issued a permit in time.

Name: M.Y.M.S.
Age: 15
Date: 23 April 2019
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, M.Y.M.S. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up when Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 3:00 a.m. They banged at the door and my father answered. About 20 soldiers entered our house accompanied by two service dogs. More soldiers were waiting outside making the area look like a war zone.
2. A soldier asked to see our identity cards and then they separated me from my family and took me outside. A soldier accused me of possessing a weapon and pointed to a location in the garden and told me to dig it up. I dug where they indicated and gave them a few pieces of water pipe.
3. Then the soldiers pushed me to the ground, tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie which caused me a lot of pain. They swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and slapped and kicked me. Then they blindfolded me and took me into the back of a jeep. There was an empty seat so I sat on it but a soldier pushed me down to the floor and slapped me while I was blindfolded.
4. The jeep drove to a nearby roundabout at the entrance to the settlement. They took me out of the jeep, sat me under a tree in the middle of the roundabout and made me take off my clothes. I was in my boxer shorts and the soldiers surrounded me. It was a cold night and I felt humiliated.
5. Later I was allowed to put my clothes back on and they took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was left in a room with an air conditioner turned on very cold. They made me sit on a chair without a back and I was uncomfortable and could not sleep.
6. Later I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and put it on again after the examination. I was taken back to the cold room and I sat on the chair without a back until around 6:00 a.m. Then they walked me a short distance and searched me in my boxer shorts and then took me to a cell where they removed the tie and the blindfold. At around noon I was tied and blindfolded again and taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and immediately phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess even if the interrogator accuses me of throwing stones. He also told me if I am shown photographs to say I am not in the photographs. He did not say anything about the right to silence. The interrogator listened to my conversation with the lawyer which lasted for less than a minute.

8. Without informing me of my right to silence the interrogator wanted to know how I made the weapon. He also told me I had to give him the names of 10 of my friends. I told him I did not have friends and I was not involved in stuff. When I said this he repeated his demand but in a loud voice to scare me. He kept insisting that I give the names of my friends. He showed me satellite images of houses in my village and wanted me to tell him who lived where. The interrogation lasted for about an hour but I did not confess to anything.
9. At the end of the interrogation I was shown documents in Hebrew and told to sign them. I asked that the documents to be translated and then I signed because they were identical to what I had said.
10. Then I was taken to another interrogator who did not inform me of my rights. He asked me to repeat what I said and he typed everything into a computer. He continued to type when I stopped talking and when I asked him what he was typing he said he was typing what I was telling him. I was very suspicious of him. This interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. He had a voice recorder and made me sign documents in Arabic.
11. After the second interrogation I was taken to a cell at the police station where I was searched in my boxer shorts. Shortly afterwards I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On arrival at Ofer I was searched in my boxer shorts again before being taken to section 13. I ate and went to bed. It was around 9:00 p.m.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. The military judge extended my detention and I was taken back to prison. I had six military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 31 days in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I don't think I was given a suspended sentence.
13. I spent my sentence at Ofer. I was released on 10 May 2019 a few days early for good conduct. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint but my parents were told to wait at Ofer. My father sent me a taxi which took me to the other checkpoint and I went home with my parents. We arrived home at around 10:30 p.m.

Accusation: Weapon possession

I, K.S.M.S. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of boots kicking our front door. Then I heard voices telling us to open up. My father rushed to the door and opened it and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. More soldiers were outside.
2. The commander told my father they were looking for me and wanted to arrest me. When my father asked why the commander told him he did not know. Then he checked our identity cards and my mother thought they had made a mistake but the commander repeated that he was looking for me. At that point I felt very scared.
3. My mother asked the commander why they were arresting me but he told her not to ask any questions. Then he gathered all the family in one room and told me to leave the room. They did not give my parents any documents. Meanwhile the soldiers searched the house and caused damage to the furniture. They remained in the house for about two hours.
4. I went back to my bedroom and barely had time to get dressed. The soldiers took me outside and one of them swore at me and called my mother and sisters “whores”. Another one struck me with his helmet on my head. My hands were then tied to the front with two plastic ties. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for days. They also blindfolded me.
5. I was then led to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers’ legs. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. On the way soldiers kicked and swore at me. At Etzion the soldiers made me walk along way. Later they left me in the sun for about two hours. I was not given any food or drink and I had to beg to go to the toilet. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties. He was in civilian clothes and had a gun on his side. As soon as I entered he put the telephone on speaker and handed it to me and told me it was a lawyer but I doubted it. The person on the line told me each question the interrogator asks me would have a meaning and a purpose and advised me not to speak and to take care. The interrogator was in the room and heard the conversation which lasted less than a minute
7. The interrogator started by telling me he wanted me to hand over my weapon. He did not inform me of my right to silence but I decided to remain silent. This upset him very much and he started to thump the table when I did not answer his question. Then he yelled at me and said I had to bring him the weapon. He told me if I told him where I had hidden the weapon he would stop questioning me. He told me the sooner I gave him the information the better it would be for me.

8. He questioned me for about two hours and he was typing on his computer the whole time. In the end he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign and told him I did not understand what was written in it. He then signed the document himself. Then he re-blindfolded me and tied my hands.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair. I was left there until late at night when I was taken to a cell. They wanted to strip search me but I refused to take off my underwear. They searched me in my boxer shorts and I was left in the cell until around 7:00 a.m.
10. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem, t where I waited for a couple of hours and then I was told I was going to be released. I was given some food but I did not go into the court room. I was released at around 4:00 p.m. and I took a taxi home. I was released on 29 April 2019, without charge. My parents were not informed about my release and they were surprised to see me at home.
11. This was a terrifying and difficult experience. When I hear military vehicles in the village I run home; I don't want any more encounters with soldiers.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, R.M.J.A. of Kafr Ni'meh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My cousin phoned me at around 2:30 a.m. to tell me Israeli military jeeps were in our neighbourhood. Soon afterwards I could hear soldiers upstairs trying to enter my brother's apartment. The soldiers were trying to force the door but my brother opened up before they could break the door.
2. Soon the soldiers were banging aggressively at our front door and my father went to see what they wanted. About 10 soldiers entered our home. One soldier asked me for my name and then checked my identity card. Then he told me to prepare myself because I was under arrest.
3. The same soldier gave my father a document written in Hebrew. When my father asked him to explain what it was the soldier told him he did not know. Then the commander came and my father asked him what the document was about and he told my father it had details about my arrest.
4. I said goodbye to my family and the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties which were tight and painful. They left marks on my wrists for days. They also blindfolded me and led me a short distance to a waiting military jeep. They pushed me into the back of the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. A soldier swore at god and slammed the door shut behind him.
5. I was left inside the jeep for about two hours before the commander came, removed my blindfold and told me his name was captain "Majdi", the intelligence officer for the area. Then he told me he knew everything I had done including throwing stones on the road used by settlers. Then he told me to cooperate with the interrogator if I wanted to be released quickly. Then he said he was going to make me spend some time in prison "to discipline" me. He blindfolded me again and the jeep drove away.
6. We I arrived at a military base and I was taken to a shipping container where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold but kept me tied and after the examination he made me sign a document with my hands tied behind my back. Then I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement for interrogation.
7. At the police station they removed the blindfold and replaced the hand ties with metal handcuffs. They also shackled my legs and tied my handcuffs to the shackles with chains.

Then an interrogator took me to a room. By then it was around noon and I was still without food or drink.

8. The interrogator introduced himself to me and asked me whether I wanted to speak to a lawyer. I told him I did. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me if I was asked a question I did not know the answer to I should tell the interrogator I wanted to remain silent. The interrogator left the room when I spoke to the lawyer. The conversation lasted for less than a minute.
9. After about a minute the interrogator came back and told me I had the right to remain silent. But he warned me that the court would take that into account if I chose to remain silent. I understood that to mean it was not in my interests to remain silent. Then he gave me a document about my rights and asked me to sign it and I did.
10. Then he turned a voice recorder on and started to question me. He wanted to know everything I knew about two of my friends. I told him they were from my village but they were not my friends. Then he wanted to know who my friends were and I told him I did not have specific friends. Then he asked me whether I usually hang out with a group of boys at night and I told him I did not. Then he wanted to know the last time I was with two of my friends at the park. I told him about two months ago.
11. During the interrogation when I did not want to answer a question I told the interrogator I wanted to remain silent. He accepted this and wrote it down on his computer. At one point he showed me photos of clashes with soldiers and wanted me to name the boys in the photos. He questioned me for about two hours and was calm the whole time.
12. After about two hours he took me to another room and asked me the same questions again. Eventually I felt I had to confess. He asked me how many stones I had thrown and I told him I threw one stone. Then he showed me a document written in Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign it and I did after I read it saw it was identical to what I had said. Then I was taken outside and a soldier brought me a sandwich.
13. Soon afterwards I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was left in the jeep outside Ofer until the evening. Then I was taken inside where I was searched in my underwear before being taken to Section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My father attended and the hearing was adjourned.
14. I had four military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 45 days in prison, fined NIS 2,000 and received a suspended sentence of three months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home before Eid and the plea bargain meant I would be released in another 10 days.
15. I spent the whole time at Ofer prison. My parents did not visit me because the visiting permit was not issued in time. I was released on 30 May 2019, and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around noon.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.R.M.S. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About 10 days before I was arrested an Israeli soldier called "Captain Nassim" phoned my father at around 11:00 a.m. He told my father I was a trouble maker and warned him if he did not discipline me he was going to come and arrest me in the middle of the night. He also told my father I was going to receive a death sentence if I did not behave myself.
2. About 10 days later I was playing outside our house when a group of Israeli soldiers came by on foot. It was around 10:00 p.m. They told my family someone had been throwing stones at them. Then one of the soldiers told my parents they wanted to take me for questioning and would bring me back soon. My mother insisted on accompanying me but the soldiers refused. One soldier promised my mother they would just ask me some questions and send me home.
3. Soon more soldiers joined the group and surrounded me. They aimed their guns at my parents. I felt they would shoot my mother if she made any move. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers did not give my parents any documents.
4. I was then led away towards the Wall. When we arrived at the Wall a soldier pulled down the blindfold and accused me of throwing a stone and he kicked me. Then he replaced the blindfold and the other soldiers started to shout at me saying I had been throwing stones. I was scared.
5. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove towards the nearby military watchtower. A Palestinian policeman came to the watchtower and took two other boys who were arrested with me but told me he could not take me because the Israeli soldiers still wanted to question me.
6. Later I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I waited outside for about 10 minutes and then I was taken to a shack with tin roof. Someone shackled my feet and made me sit on the floor.
7. Then the commander came, and without informing me of my rights, accused me of throwing stones. He also accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail sometime in the past. He kicked and slapped me and called me "a son of a whore". Three soldiers then joined in kicking and swearing at me. Later the commander asked me whether I was going to confess and struck me hard in my back with his gun.

8. A short time later I was taken outside. I asked for some water and I was given some. I was left there until around 3:00 p.m. I tried to sleep but each time I fell asleep a soldier kicked me to wake me up. Then I was taken for more interrogation.
9. The interrogator was a scary-looking man. He was bald and had a big head. He removed the blindfold and the shackles. Then, without informing me of my rights, he told me I had to give him the names of my friends. He named some boys and told me they had confessed against me. When I told him I did not know any of the boys he named he poked me with a screw driver on my shoulder and arm and told me he was going to make me “regret it”.
10. The interrogation lasted for about 10 minutes and I did not speak to a lawyer at all. At the end a female soldier showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. I was then photographed and fingerprinted and left outside in a courtyard for about an hour. Then my cousin came and took me home.
11. When I arrived home my parents took me to a hospital for examinations because I had bruises on my back. The doctor gave me some cream and sent me home. My father told me that the authorities imposed a fine of NIS 5,000 before agreeing to release me. The following day my parents went to have a word with the parents of the boy who had confessed against me.

I, M.M.M.D. of Kafr Ni'meh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. On 9 May 2019, my father received a phone call during the day from an Israeli interrogator who introduced himself as "Adi". Adi told my father to bring me and my twin brother to the police station the following Thursday for questioning. My father thought it through and decided not to take us to the police station because he thought we were too young and was worried about us.
2. On 15 May 2019, my mother woke me up at around 5:00 a.m. and told me soldiers were outside our house. Shortly afterwards we heard loud banging at our front door and we could hear them trying to attach a device to the door to force it open. My father quickly opened the door and about 15 soldiers entered our home. They were accompanied by a commander and an intelligence officer.
3. The soldiers took my parents' identity cards and checked them and then told my father they wanted to arrest me and my brother. My father told the commander he wanted to accompany us but the commander refused. Then he gave my father two documents scribbled in Hebrew, with details about my arrest and my brother's arrest. He asked my father to sign it but my father refused to sign.
4. The soldiers then took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. The soldiers also blindfolded me before leading me a short distance to a military jeep. I was taken to the back of the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". They also swore at my religion.
5. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the tie and the blindfold during the examination. I was left at the military base until around noon when I was taken for interrogation. I have no idea where the interrogation centre was but there they removed the blindfold and I was allowed to speak to a lawyer on speaker phone. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to confess or be afraid. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening.
6. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman. The first thing he said to me was that I had the right to remain silent. Then he told me he had images of me throwing stones on Route 463 which is used by settlers. I denied the accusation and challenged him to show me the image. He never showed me anything. When he repeated the accusation I told him I was going to exercise me right to remain silent but he got upset with me and raised his voice and accused me of monitoring the area where boys were throwing stones at settler cars on Route 463. Again I denied the accusation.

7. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and then he showed me a document and asked me to sign it. I signed the document without reading it; I don't even know what language it was in.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to a courtyard where I waited until my brother was interrogated. Then someone took my photograph and fingerprints. Shortly afterwards my father came and took both me and my brother home. We arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

6. The interrogator first told me I had the right to remain silent and then accused me of throwing stones at settler cars during protests when Trump gave away East Jerusalem to Israel. He told me he had photographs of me and my brother and another boy throwing stones. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was aggressive and banged the table as he spoke to me and raised his voice. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation.

7. Then he named some boys and told me they were my friends and claimed they had confessed against me. I told him the boys were not my friends. I told him I was not involved in trouble making and that I spend most of my time at school and studying.
8. At the end of the interrogation I was shown documents written in Hebrew and asked to sign them but I did not sign. Then he took my photograph and fingerprints and told me to wait outside. Then my father came and I went home with my father and brother. We arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Name: M.I.M.S.
Age: 15
Date: 15 May 2019
Location: Al Khader, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.I.M.S. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Me and my brother were helping our grandmother plough her land near the Wall. We were messing around and throwing stones at each other. It was around 9:00 a.m.
2. Three military jeeps suddenly appeared and a group of Israeli soldiers stepped out and immediately threw me to the ground and then made me sit in the sun. One of the soldiers asked me for my name and age and took my phone. He asked me what I was doing and I told him I was playing with my brother and that we were throwing stones at each other. The soldier told me he saw us throwing stones on a CCTV camera which prompted them to come.
3. The soldiers then tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. They also blindfolded me. They told my grandmother I was under arrest. My grandmother started to cry and to plead with the soldiers to release me. Then she told the soldiers she wanted to accompany me and my brother whom they also wanted to arrest but the soldiers did not allow this. A soldier told her they just wanted to ask us some questions at the police station and then they would release us.
4. The soldiers took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on a metal box in the middle. Inside the jeep a soldier swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”. The jeep drove to the military base near Beit Jala where I was taken to a shipping container. A soldier brought me some water and loosened the tie. About 30 minutes later I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation.
5. At Etzion I was given a medical examination. Then I was left in a courtyard in the sun for about an hour. The soldiers passing by spat at me and called me “a son of a whore”. Then I was taken to a shipping container and an interrogator started to question me.
6. The interrogator removed my blindfold and accused me of throwing stones. Then he asked me whether I also threw a Molotov cocktail and I told him I did not. I told the interrogator I was not involved in anything and that he could check the camera to see that my brother and I were throwing stones at each other while we were helping my grandmother.
7. Then the interrogator told me other boys had confessed against me. I told him I was one hundred percent sure of myself that I did not throw stones at soldiers. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and left the room twice during this time. He told me he wanted to lock me up for two days so I would confess. Then he told me he was going to send me home on foot. He questioned me with informing me of any legal rights. I did not speak to a lawyer at all. The interrogator did not show me any documents.

8. After the interrogation he took my fingerprints, photograph and a DNA sample from my mouth. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside. Then he took me to a waiting room. At around 4:00 p.m. my cousin and brother came and took me home. I was released without charge.

Accusation: None

I, M.I.M.H. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my brother helping my grandmother plough her land when we were approached by a group of Israeli soldiers in military jeeps. It was around 9:00 a.m.
2. The soldiers stepped out of the jeeps, approached me and pushed me to the ground. A soldier handed me a phone and told me to speak to the area commander, "Captain Nassim".
3. The commander asked me for my name and my brother's name and wanted to know what I was doing on the area. I told him I was helping my grandmother weed and plough her land. The commander told me that the land was not ours and I told him it was and that we spend many hours taking care of it.
4. A soldier then took the phone away and he spoke to the commander in Hebrew. Then the soldier took my phone and tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. The tie left marks on my wrists and my hands turned blue. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
5. The jeep drove to the military base at the District Coordination Office. When we arrived a soldier removed the tie and asked me whether I wanted to drink some water. He gave me a glass of water. I was searched in my clothes and I was left there for about 30 minutes. Soldiers who surrounded me were chatting and making fun of me. They swore at me and called my mother and sisters "whores".
6. After 30 minutes I was driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was left outside in the sun for many hours. During this time I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold and then put it back on after he was finished.
7. Later I was taken inside and I was so tired I fell asleep on the floor between a couch and a wall. At around 4:30 p.m. I was released and I went home with my cousin who came to pick me and my brother up. I was not interrogated and I was released without charge.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.A.N.S. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 4:30 a.m. and heard my father telling my mother that Israeli soldiers had surrounded our home. Shortly afterwards there was loud banging at our front door. My father opened the door and about eight soldiers entered.
2. One soldier sat me down on the couch in the living room and asked me for my name. Then he asked me for my identity card and then told me I was under arrest. He did not say why but gave my parents a document with some details about my arrest.
3. Then the soldiers searched the house and took clothes and other items out of the closets and threw them on the floor. They caused damage to the furniture but did not tell us what they were looking for.
4. After search the soldiers told me to get dressed and then they took me outside. Once outside they tied my hands to the back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. They also blindfolded me and took me to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on a seat.
5. I was taken to a nearby military watchtower where a soldier asked me if I had any illnesses. He removed the blindfold while asking me questions and then put it back on. He asked me whether I took drugs or smoked.
6. About an hour later I was taken to the military base at the District Coordination Office where I sat on a bench in a room. I was not given any food or drink and I could not sleep. I was left there for a long time but I cannot tell how long. Later I was taken to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement where I was put a room and left until it was light. Then I was taken to the police station at Etzion settlement. At Etzion I waited until around noon before being taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the blindfold. He was a big man wearing civilian clothes. Without informing me of my rights he accused me of throwing 10 Molotov cocktails at soldiers on Route 60 and told me if I confessed he was going to send me home. I denied the accusation.
8. Halfway through the interrogation he pulled out his pistol and put it on the table in front of me. I think he wanted to intimidate me in order to confess. Then he threatened to lock me up in prison for years and years if I did not confess and said he was going to deny me family visits.

9. Then he wanted to know the names of my friends and named some of them and asked me whether I knew them. I did not give any names and told him I did not know the boys he named. He questioned me for about an hour. I was not given anything to sign.
10. At the end of the interrogation he blindfolded me and took me outside and made me sit in the sun for a long time. Then he brought me in and asked me the same questions again. He told me to confess on myself and my friends if I wanted to go home. I continued to deny the accusation and did not give any names. This lasted until about 5:00 p.m.
11. Then I was questioned by another interrogator. Before he started to question me he gave me a document saying I had the right to remain silent. Then he took me outside and phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid because the interrogator was not scary and told me not to confess and to remain silent.
12. The interrogator took me inside and repeated the same accusation. He told me I was the age of his son and urged me to confess and to give names of my friends and confess against them too. He told me it was a pity for someone my age to be locked up in prison because of "a bunch of bastards" and told me all I had to do was to confess and I would go home. I did not believe him and I did not confess.
13. Then he changed his mood and started to shout at me and accused me of wearing a face mask during clashes with soldiers. I denied it. He alternated between being calm and reasonable and losing his temper. Then he told me my friends had confessed that I was with them during the clashes. At that point I confessed to throwing five stones at the separation barrier which missed. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign and asked him to give me a translation. He gave me the document in Arabic and I read it and signed it.
14. Then I was taken to see another interrogator. Without informing me of my rights he took me outside for a walk. He told me he knew my father's first wife was shot dead by soldiers and wanted to know the reason why my older half-brother does not commit acts of violence. He named my other brothers to prove he knew everything about my family. Then he told me it was unfortunate he had to cancel my father's work permit. Then he brought me inside and showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did because by that time I just wanted to get done with it.
15. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints. I was searched in my boxer shorts and taken to a cell where the ties were removed. I was hungry and asked for some food but they did not bring anything. I spent a night at Etzion.
16. In the morning I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were there. I was denied release on bail. After court I was taken back to prison.

17. In all I had seven military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer urged me to accept it. He told me to accept it because if I did not I would have to serve more time in prison.
18. I spent five weeks at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I spent five days at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, also in Israel. In prison I attended classes and played table tennis. I was released on 12 August 2019 at Al Jalama and I took a taxi home. My father paid the driver when I arrived. I arrived home at around 3:00 p.m. My mother was very happy to see me.

Name: M.A.M.T.
Age: 17
Date: 1 June 2019
Location: Kafr Qaddum, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.M.T. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 4:30 p.m. there were clashes with Israeli soldiers during the weekly protest at the nearby settlement. I ran home to avoid the soldiers but three soldiers chased me inside and started beating me. They beat me on my head, my right shoulder and on my leg.
2. One of the soldiers then tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other and tightened them very hard. They were painful and left marks on my wrists for days. I was also blindfolded. I was then led towards the settlement of Qedumim and taken to the military base there. On the way the soldiers swore at me.
3. At the base they made me sit on a chair in an open area and left me there, tied and blindfolded, until around 10:00 p.m. I was not given any food but I was given some water which tasted strange. During this time I was given a medical examination. The person who examined me removed the ties and the blindfold during the examination and then replaced them.
4. At around 10:00 p.m. I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep took me to Ariel settlement. At Ariel I was left in a room for about 30 minutes and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept my ties on because he did not have anything to cut them with. I then pulled my hands apart until the ties snapped. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. He started by telling me everyone in my village was disgusting and asked me why we all cause problems. I told him I was not involved in anything and did not cause any problems to anyone. I told him soldiers arrested me from my home and I was not involved in the protest.
6. Then he called my father and told him I was arrested during the protest in the village. My father was very upset with the interrogator and hung up on him. Then I gave the interrogator the name of a lawyer and he called him for me. He put him on speaker phone and listened to the conversation which lasted for about a minute. The lawyer asked me what the story was and I told him I was arrested from home and that the soldiers beat me. The lawyer told me he was going to follow up on my case. At that point the interrogator told me to leave the room and he spoke to the lawyer. Then I was brought back in.
7. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. I decided not to remain silent because I thought that could be interpreted as if I did not have a good answer to the interrogator's questions. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers from a distance of 10 meters during a protest in the village. I denied the accusation. Then he told me denying the accusation was not in my interest. He told me it was in my interest to confess. He said if I confessed he was going to send me home.

8. The interrogation lasted for about 40 minutes. The interrogator brought in two soldiers whom he claimed had testified against me. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator wanted me to sign documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. He got upset and yelled at me urging me to sign but I told him I was not going to sign a document I did not understand. Then he told me if I confessed he would send me home immediately to be home for Eid. I told him I did not throw stones at soldiers and was not going to confess to something I did not do.
9. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my underwear. At Huwwara I was taken to a cell by myself and I think they forgot about me. They did not bring me anything to eat. I drank from the sink that was in the room. I started to bang the door and to shout until they finally brought me something to eat 24 hours later. I spent two nights in the cell and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my underwear.
10. From Megiddo prison I was taken to Salem military court. My parents were not informed of the hearing. My lawyer was there but I did not understand anything because the court did not provide any translation. After the hearing I was taken back to prison.
11. I had eight military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison suspended for three years. I found the plea bargain attractive because it meant I was going to go home a week later. That was why I accepted it but it meant I confessed to something I did not do.
12. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo prison. In the beginning I found it very hard because I did not know anyone and we were not allowed to make phone calls to our families. My family visited me only two days before I was released because it took a long time for the visiting permits to be issued.
13. I was released on 16 September 2019, at Qalqiliya checkpoint although my family was told to wait at Al Jalama. I arrived home at around 11:30 p.m. and I had a delicious dinner which my mother had prepared.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.M.M.R. of Tuqu', after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was outside my uncle's house at around 7:30 p.m. At the time there were clashes between Israeli soldiers and boys from the village. One of the boys was wearing a red T-shirt like the one I was wearing. I estimate that there were around 50 soldiers were in the area.
2. One of the soldiers called out to me and told me to stand aside. He left me there for about 10 minutes. During this time he was sending photographs back and forth on his phone. Then he painfully handcuffed my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs and blindfolded me.
3. Once tied and blindfolded I was led to the back of a troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. Boys and young men started to throw stones at the troop carrier and the soldiers took it out on me. They struck me with the back of their guns on my stomach and back and caused me a lot of pain. One of the soldiers poured water on me and swore at me calling me "a son of a whore".
4. Then they took me to a nearby military base where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and then put them back on afterwards. Then I was taken to a police station somewhere I did not recognise.
5. At the station a policeman approached and wanted to know where I was picked up from. Then he asked me whether I was throwing stones and I told him I was not. He asked me the questions without informing me of my rights. Then he told me if I did not confess to throwing stones he was going to bring my father to the police station.
6. After these questions the policeman showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did. He then took my photograph and then I was taken to a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep then drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement.
7. At Etzion I was searched in my boxer shorts and then taken to a cell where they removed the handcuffs and blindfold. I could not sleep because there was a flickering light in the cell and I was not given any food.

8. The next morning I was taken to the military court at Ofer, near Jerusalem. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not told about it. My case was adjourned for a week. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched.
9. A week later I had another military court hearing which my father attended. The hearing was adjourned for another three days and I was taken back to prison. Three days later I was taken back to the military court but I did not enter a court room. While waiting the guard told me I was going to be released.
10. I waited until around 5:00 p.m. and then I was taken to Al-Jib checkpoint where I was released. My parents were not there because they were not informed about my release. Another person from a nearby village that was released on the same day gave me a lift to his village. I then took a taxi to my village and my father paid the driver when I arrived home.
11. I was released on 17 June 2019, without charge and my parents did not have to pay any fines.

Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, R.Y.A.J. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. On 6 May 2019, Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 3:00 a.m. They asked my father for me and when he told them I was not home they gave him a summons and asked him to bring me to the police station by 8:00 a.m. the same day.
2. Later that morning I went with my father to the police station in Etzion settlement as ordered. My father and I waited from morning till evening and then we were told to go home.
3. A week later I was staying at my friend's house when a group of soldiers raided our home again. It was 2:00 a.m. and they were looking for me. When they did not find me they told my father to bring me to the police station in the morning. My father tried to explain to them that we did go to the police station as requested the week before and we were sent home but the soldiers did not speak Arabic and they did not understand what my father told them.
4. Later that morning I went with my father to the police station as ordered but again we were told to go away and come back in two day. Two days later I went with my father to the police station but we were told to come back in three days. This time my father and I decided not to go because it was taking too much of my father's time for nothing.
5. On 9 June 2019, the Area Commander rang my father at 8:00 a.m. and told him to bring me to the police station. My father took me to the police station the next day, 10 June 2019, at 8:00 a.m. as ordered. I was taken inside but my father was not allowed to accompany me and he was told to go home.
6. The interrogator asked me whether I knew why I was at his office. I told him I did not. He did not inform me of my rights and accused me of lying and claimed I knew exactly why I was in his office. Then he accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktail on Route 60. He wanted me to confess and threatened to arrest my father and brother if I did not. He also threatened to bring in soldiers to beat me up.
7. Then he told me there were confessions against me by people from my village. When I refused to confess he tied my hands to the back very painfully and blindfolded me. Then he took me to another room and told me to kneel down facing the wall. Then he beat me on my back and legs and arms and pushed me down to sit on my legs. Then he left the room for a short time.

8. When the interrogator returned to the room he told me to stand up and he then punched me in the chest. Then he took me back to the first room, removed the tie and the blindfold and told me he had could wait until the following evening but he was not going to leave me alone until I confessed.
9. About half-way through the interrogation I told the interrogator I wanted to speak to a lawyer. He then phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be scared of the interrogator and told me not to volunteer information and not to speak about things he does not ask me about. He told me to remain silent and not to confess and said it is better to be in pain for an hour rather than confess. The interrogator remained in the room and overheard the conversation with the lawyer which lasted about a minute.
10. Then another interrogator came in and asked me to follow him. He took me to another room and started to address me calmly. He did not inform me of my rights and asked me if I wanted to drink anything. Then he started to read off his computer screen and wanted me to answer him with a “yes or no”. He named someone from my village and told me he had told him I threw stones. He named two more people and told me they said the same thing about me. When I denied the accusation he lost his temper and accused me of lying. He raised his voice and swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and “a brother of a whore”.
11. After the verbal abuse the second interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. The he tied my hands painfully behind my back and blindfolded me again and told me I had a military court hearing on Thursday. The two interrogations lasted for about two hours.
12. After the interrogation I was taken out of the room where I sat on a chair while tied and blindfolded for about three hours. I fell asleep for some of the time. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. The trip to Ofer took many hours. At Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
13. Two days later I had a military court hearing. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had four hearings and at the last one I was initially sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison. My family decided to pay NIS 2,000 to reduce my sentence by two months. I was also given a suspended sentence but I do not know the details. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go back to school as soon as possible.
14. I was released on 11 July 2019 and I went home with my father. I arrived home late in the evening.

Age: 16
Date: 10 June 2019
Location: Jenin refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, M.M.R.M. of Jenin refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of a very loud explosion at our front door. It was around 4:30 a.m. I jumped out of bed and went to see what had happened. About 30 Israeli soldiers had blown off our front door and entered our home.
2. The commander asked to see our identity cards. Then the soldiers searched our house. They told us they were looking for weapons. They turned our home upside down and damaged our furniture. Then the commander asked me whether I suffered from any illnesses and then told me I was under arrest. He did not give any reasons.
3. Then I was taken outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. They were very tight and painful. They also blindfolded me. The soldiers then led me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep the soldiers slapped and beat me with their guns.
4. The jeep drove to Al Jalama checkpoint where I was left outdoors. Soldiers beat me there and called me “a son of a whore”. About three hours later I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and gave me a document saying I was at Al Jalama interrogation centre. It also said I had the right to ask for a lawyer and the right to either talk or remain silent. The interrogator did not call a lawyer for me and I did not speak to one.
6. The interrogator accused me of communicating with a person from Gaza and making and throwing pipe bombs. I denied the accusations. Then he named one of my friends and told me he had confessed against me. The interrogator was short tempered and agitated. He yelled at me from time to time and at one point accused me of murder. He gave me dates and accused me of throwing pipe bombs on those dates. I denied all the accusations. Then he showed me a photograph of someone holding a gun and asked me to sign it which I did. I did not realize the implications at the time.
7. He questioned me for about two hours and when I told him I wanted to remain silent he yelled at me and told me I was accused of killing people and therefore I had to speak to make it easier for myself. He told me if I remained silent I would be sentenced to five years in prison but if I spoke I would be sentenced to one year in prison. He threatened to arrest my father and brother if I did not speak. Then he told me my father and brother were waiting outside but that turned out not to be true.

8. At the end of the interrogation he gave me documents in Arabic and asked me to sign it. I refused to sign because I was worried he might add things to it behind my back.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Salem military court. My parents were not there because they did not know there was a hearing and the hearing was conducted behind closed doors. The judge extended my detention for more interrogations and the hearing was adjourned.
10. I was taken to Ramleh prison, inside Israel and one day later to Megiddo prison, also inside Israel. At Megiddo I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to the minors' section.
11. Two days later I was taken for more interrogation at Salem. The interrogator informed me of my rights in writing but did not call a lawyer for me and I did not speak to one. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and accused me of the same accusations. I denied them all. He gave me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to Megiddo.
12. I had about 15 military court hearings which my parents attended. In the end I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one year in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I also received a suspended sentence valid for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I would be released the same day. The hearing was conducted via video link because of the Corina virus regulations.
13. I was released on 11 May 2020, after court and went home with my family.
14. My father did not visit me in prison because he was denied a permit for security reasons but my mother and brother visited me regularly. In prison I exercised to keep fit and I was in charge of cleaning the section I was in. I dropped out of school before I was arrested and I don't intend to go back. I want to look for a job to help my family financially.

Accusation: Weapon possession

I, I.M.I.J. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was in a taxi on my way to Bethlehem when we were stopped by a flying checkpoint set up by the Israeli military. It was around noon.
2. An Israeli policeman checked the identity cards of all the passengers. He went away and then came back and told me I was under arrest. He did not tell me why. He made me get out of the taxi and then painfully handcuffed my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs. I was taken to the back of a police vehicle and made me sit on the metal floor. I was then taken to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement for interrogation.
3. At the police station I was searched with my clothes on and then I sat outside in a shipping container for about five hours before being taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator asked me whether I was beaten and I told him I was not. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator told me he had information that I possessed a gun and that I used it to threaten someone with. I denied the accusation.
5. Then he showed me a satellite image of my neighbourhood and pointed to my house. Then he pointed to a cave in an open area in the village and told me I had hidden the gun in that area. He wanted me to tell him where the gun was hidden. I told him I had no guns.
6. Then he started to chat in Hebrew to someone else and I did not understand what they were talking about. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and handed me over to the Palestinian police at 6:00 p.m. I was released without charge and I did not pay any fines. The Palestinian police then held me for two days, releasing me in the evening on 17 June 2019.

Name: B.I.S.S.
Age: 14
Date: 25 June 2019
Location: Azzun, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, B.I.S.S. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on a piece of land which my family owns located near the settlement of Ma'aleh Shomron. It was late afternoon when an Israeli military jeep approached and five soldiers got out and started running towards me. I did not make much of it and did not run away as I thought they were chasing someone else.
2. When the soldiers came to where I was one soldier started to beat me without warning on my back and legs with his gun. The other soldiers joined in kicking and beating me. Then they dragged me on the ground and I was in severe pain.
3. Then the soldiers blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for weeks. Then I was taken to the back of the military jeep and thrown on the metal floor. They continued to beat and kick me in the back of the jeep. Then I passed out and when I woke up I found myself in a room someplace I did not know, maybe Huwwara or Ariel settlement.
4. I was searched in my underwear. It was dark but I could not tell what time it was. Then, maybe around midnight, I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold. He greeted me and told me to sit down. He wore an Israeli police uniform. I told him I did not do anything wrong. He yelled at me and was about to slap me. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be scared and that I would go home in the morning. The interrogator was not listening to the conversation which lasted less than a minute.
6. Then the interrogator told me something about remaining silent but I did not understand what he meant and he gave me a document with the same information. Then he accused me of throwing stones at the soldiers and told me I had to confess. When I told the interrogator I did not throw stones at anyone he slapped me and raised his voice at me. He showed me some photographs of boys throwing stones and I told him it was not me. He questioned me for about two hours and the whole time he just wanted me to confess. Then he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. I signed without understanding what was written.

7. Then I was taken to a small room with a little window. I was searched in my underwear. There was a toilet in the room. I could not sleep at all; I was worried about my family who I thought would be wondering what had happened to me.
8. Later that morning I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was examined by a doctor who saw I was limping and in severe pain but he did not say or do anything. Then I was searched with my clothes on. Then I was taken to the minor's section at Megiddo.
9. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed of the hearing. The interpreter asked me what I had done and how. I denied having done anything wrong. The hearing was adjourned.
10. I had four more military court hearings which my parents attended. My father told the military judge I was beaten badly on my hip and the judge asked me whether I was limping before I was arrested. I told him the limp and pain was because the soldiers beat and dragged me when they arrested me.
11. At the last hearing I was told I was going to be sent home. This was on 25 August 2019. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison; fined NIS 2,000; and given a suspended sentence valid for two years. My father told the judge he could not pay the fine. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant being released the same day. I arrived home with my father at around 11:00 p.m.
12. In prison I missed my family very much, especially my mother. Since my release my father has not allowed me to go to our land. Before my arrest I was in seventh grade and I was a good student but I dropped out after my release because I could not walk to school, because of the severe pain I have in my left hip. I have had two surgeries so far and an American doctor was supposed to arrive in the country and operate on me but his trip was cancelled because of the Corona Virus.

Location: Zeita, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession.

I, M.A.M.L. of Zeita, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A week before I was arrested my mother received a phone call from the Area Commander telling her I should go to his office for a “chat”. He called again three days later with the same message. I consulted with my older brother and asked him whether I should go and he told me not to. He said if the commander really needed me he would deliver a written summons so I did not go.
2. On the day of my arrest soldiers blew off the front door using explosives. It was at around 1:00 a.m. They entered our home while we were still in bed. I opened my eyes and found soldiers over my head. I got up and the soldiers pushed me into the corner. The commander told me he had sent after me and wanted to know why I did not show up. Then he told my mother he wanted to arrest me but did not give her any reasons or documents.
3. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic tie and tightened it hard. It caused me pain and left marks on my wrists for a week. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside. Once outside I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
4. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched. The following day I was taken for interrogation at Salem military base.
5. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman but in civilian clothes. As soon as I entered his room he told me I had the right to call my mother and tell her I was ok. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. Then, without informing me of my right to silence he told me someone had confessed against me and that my file was ready and complete. He told me he needed a confession from me. He named the person who confessed against me.
6. He accused me of taking a gas canister to an area near the Wall with the intension of blowing it up. I denied the accusation. He threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time and subject me to a harsher interrogation if I did not confess. He questioned me for about an hour and in the end he wanted me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. After the interrogation, which lasted for about 45 minutes, I was taken back to prison.
7. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. The following day I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He questioned me about the same accusation and wanted me to confess but I did not. He asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew and I refused to sign.

8. Two days later the same thing happened. I was questioned again without being informed of my rights. I was asked to sign a document in Hebrew and I refused to sign.
9. I had about eight military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison, fined NIS 2,000 and given a suspended sentence valid for 5 years. This was based on the confession obtained from the other boy. I was also told there was video footage of a fire by the wall. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer advised me to. He told me I would be sentenced to one year in prison if I rejected the plea bargain on offer.
10. I spent the whole time at Megiddo prison. My family visited me twice a month. I was released on 5 December 2019, and I went home with my brother and some friends who had come to meet me. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.

I, M.M.M.H. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of a loud explosion at our front door. I got up and went to the living room to see what was going on. My mother, who was nursing my twin brothers, opened the door and about 20 Israeli soldiers entered our home with more outside.
2. The commander told my father he wanted to search the house for pipe bombs. The soldiers searched the house and made a huge mess, turning furniture upside down and throwing clothes on the floor. They did not find anything. Then the commander gave my father a document written in Hebrew telling him to bring me to the police station by 9:00 a.m. The soldiers then left but I could not sleep.
3. Later that morning my father took me to the police station in Etzion settlement as ordered. We were there at 9:00 a.m. I was immediately taken inside and my father was told to wait outside.
4. Once inside the police station my hands were tied to the front with three plastic ties which were tight and painful. The ties left marks on my wrists. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He turned them on and welcomed me in. Before asking me any questions he rang a lawyer and then put the telephone on speaker. He then told me to speak to the lawyer. The lawyer told me to take care of myself and not to be afraid and that he was going to represent me. Then he told me not to say much. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator heard every word the lawyer said. Neither the lawyer nor the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent.
6. Then the interrogator asked me what had happened and where I had hidden the pipe bombs. He told me to be a real man and tell him where the pipe bombs were hidden because the soldiers did not find them when they searched our house. I denied I had any pipe bombs.
7. Then he accused me of verbally abusing the area commander on Facebook. I denied the accusation and told him my Facebook had been hacked and I had nothing to do with it. Then the interrogator threatened that if I did not confess he was going to bring in people who would make me confess by beating me.

8. I was questioned for about three hours and the interrogator kept repeating the same accusations over and over again. The interrogator told me not to waste his time and confess so that he could send my father home quickly. I continued to deny the accusations and did not confess.
9. Then the interrogator wanted me to sign a document written in Hebrew without explaining to me what it was. I refused to sign.
10. Then I was taken outside where a soldier punched me in the face as I went down the stairs and caused me a lot of pain in my nose. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and told to crouch up and down several times while naked before being taken to section 13.
11. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother attended and the hearing lasted a few minutes before being adjourned. I had two hearings and at the last one I was told I was going to be released if I paid a fine of NIS 2,000. My lawyer told the military court my family could not afford to pay NIS 2,000 and the military judge reduced it to NIS 500. I did not understand much of what went on in court and I did not know the exact conditions of my release.
12. I was released on 16 July 2019, and I arrived home at around 10:30 p.m. My father told me his work permit had been revoked while I was in prison and that he was not allowed to enter Israel anymore. He is a skilled painter but he is now unemployed and the financial situation of the family is very difficult.

I, K.Z.G.H. of Jayyus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My friend woke me up with a text message to say Israeli soldiers were in our neighbourhood. It was around 2:30 a.m. I looked out the window and saw a group of soldiers on the street. The commander saw me and asked me for my name and then told me to come down because I was under arrest.
2. I went inside, took a shower and put some clothes on while the soldiers waited for me in the stairwell; they did not enter our home. I was then taken outside by the soldiers who did not tell me the reason for my arrest and without giving me or my family any documents.
3. Once outside a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. Then he blindfolded me and took me to the back of a military jeep and allowed me to sit on a seat.
4. The jeep drove to the nearby military base at Zufin where I was taken to a room and examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination. Then I was re-blindfolded and shackled and taken to the jeep which took me to the settlement of Qedumim for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept the tie and the shackles on. He spoke politely and showed me some photographs and video footage of clashes and accused me of taking part. He told me the footage and photographs were of clashes on 16 January 2018, during the funeral of a young person from the village who was killed by Israeli soldiers. I denied the accusation.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights but I knew from a training we had at school that I had the right to remain silent. When the interrogator repeated the accusation I told him I wanted to exercise my right to remain silent. I did not say anything and he repeated the accusation again.
7. Then he lost his temper when I refused to answer his question and shouted at me and told me to speak. He banged the table aggressively and shouted again telling me to speak. I just nodded and did not say a word.
8. The interrogation lasted for about two-and-a-half hours. During this time the interrogator took me outside and questioned the other person who was arrested with me. Then he questioned me again. I think he was comparing our testimonies. I continued to deny the accusation and did not confess. He showed me many photographs and two videos and pointed to a person and claimed it was me but I denied it.

9. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I told him I was not going to sign anything written in a language I did not understand. He then printed out the document in Arabic. The Arabic document said I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. This was at the end of the interrogation. He asked me to sign the document and I did.
10. Then I was blindfolded again and taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my underwear and taken into a cell. They removed the blindfold and the tie and the shackles and gave me some unappetising food; old rice and a hard-boiled egg which had turned blue. I spent one night at Huwwara.
11. In the morning I was taken to Salem military court. At court I saw a lawyer for the first time. Nobody from my family was in court because they were not informed of the hearing. The lawyer spoke and the military judge spoke and a soldier was translating but I did not understand much. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my underwear before being taken to the juvenile section. I arrived there at around 2:30 p.m.
12. The following day I had another hearing and another one the day after. My lawyer told me to accept a plea bargain and to confess to throwing stones during the clashes. He also told me to say I was young at the time and was not fully aware of what I was doing. I accepted the plea bargain and I was sentenced to one month and one day in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for two years.
13. I qualified for an early release and I was released on 19 July 2019. My family did not visit me in prison because the permit to visit takes at least two months. I was released at Al Jalama and I went home with my uncle.

I, M.M.A.N. of Al Fawwar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was in Al Ram, which is located near the Wall and Qalandiya checkpoint, at around 3:00 p.m. on a Thursday. At the time things were quiet. An Israeli military patrol stopped me and took my identity card and then told me I was under arrest because I did not give my true name. They put me in the back of the jeep on the metal floor.
2. The jeep drove to Ma'aleh Adumim settlement where I was left kneeling on the ground until around 10:00 p.m. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. At the police station I was blindfolded and tied to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful. I was also shackled and then taken to an interrogation room.
3. The interrogator removed the blindfold and phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to be afraid and that this was all normal. He told me not to speak and that I was going to be sent to Ofer and from there I would be sent home. He told me I should consider him as my friend. The interrogator was in the room and tried to listen in. The conversation lasted for about a minute.
4. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator asked me about a boy. He then accused me of throwing stones at settlers from a distance of 10 meters. He also accused me of smashing windows. He told me he had video footage as evidence. I denied the accusation.
5. I decided not to remain silent because I thought it was better to speak in case the interrogator thought I had something to hide. He questioned me for about 45 minutes and was calm all the time. He told me my file was ready and complete. At the end of the interrogation he wanted me to sign documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Afterwards I was taken to section 13. The next day I was taken to Ofer military court. The court was almost empty and nobody was there, not even my parents. The hearing was adjourned.
7. Two days later I was taken for another interrogation at Kiryat Arba. This interrogator was aggressive. He did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He wanted me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. He questioned me on and off for about three hours and kept asking me to confess and sign the documents but I did not.

8. I attended about 15 military court hearings. The last one was on 27 November 2019. During this hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 11 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of 12 months valid for three years. I accepted the sentence because the other boy accused of the same accusation got one year in prison.
9. I spent most of my prison sentence at Ofer but later I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel, where the conditions were bad. I was granted early release and I was released on 5 February 2020. They released me at Al Jalama checkpoint and the commander called my brother who met me and took me home. I arrived home at around midnight.
10. My family visited me only once and we were not granted phone calls with our families. The worst thing of this whole experience was missing my family.

1. I was staying at my grandparents' house when Israeli soldiers raided our family home around 1:00 a.m. My father opened the door and asked for me. When my father told them I was not home the commander gave him a written summons telling me to go to the police station at 7:00 a.m.
2. Later that morning my father and I went to the police station in Etzion settlement as ordered. We were there at 8:30 a.m. We waited for about 30 minutes and then I was taken inside for interrogation. They did not allow my father to accompany me.
3. As soon as I entered the interrogator phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and to remain silent. I spoke with the lawyer for less than a minute and the interrogator left the room during the conversation.
4. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator showed me a photograph of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. The interrogator lost his temper and raised his voice at me and repeated the accusation. Then he wanted me to tell him the name of the person in the photo and I told him I did not know him. The interrogator thumped the table and was very angry when I told him I did not know the person.
5. The interrogator then allowed my father into the room and showed him the photograph and asked him whether it was me and my father said it was not. He immediately told my father to get out. The interrogation lasted for about 10 minutes. My father later told me that the interrogator spoke to him while he was waiting for me and gave him the impression he was going to release me if I confessed and wanted my father to put pressure on me to confess.
6. The interrogator then tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful, blindfolded me and took me outside. I was left there tied and blindfolded until around 4:00 p.m.
7. At around 4:00 p.m. I was strip searched and taken to a cell. I spent two nights at Etzion and on the third day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At around 8:00 p.m. I was taken back to Etzion and I was released from there on 7 August 2019. I went home with my father. The lawyer told my father I have a scheduled hearing on 14 November 2019.

Name: A.R.N.D.
Age: 16
Date: 5 August 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, A.R.N.D. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 3:30 a.m. I heard the sound of banging and smashing at our front door. My father opened the front door and a group of Israeli soldiers entered our home. They went straight to my bedroom, took out a pair of trousers they had a photo of from my wardrobe and told me I was under arrest. The commander gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest and told him I was suspected of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers on Route 60. He made him sign the document.
2. As soon as I was dressed the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very painful and cut through my wrists. They also blindfolded me and then led me on foot for about 15 minutes. Then I was put in a vehicle where I sat on a seat.
3. I was taken to a nearby building which was taken over by settlers where I was given a medical examination. On the way I was slapped on the head and kicked on the legs. The soldiers deliberately tried to trip me and they swore at me. I complained to the doctor who examined me and told him I was beaten by the soldiers but he told me to shut up because I was not beaten. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement.
4. I was questioned by an interrogator in civilian clothes. He had a pistol on his side. He offered to phone a lawyer for me but I told him there was no need. Then, without informing me of the right to silence, he started by telling I was like his son to him and then offered me a cigarette. Then he told me I was a good person with the exception of only one issue: throwing stones and Molotov cocktails on Route 60.
5. He questioned me for about three hours and kept leaving the room and coming back. At times he became angry and shouted at me telling me I had to confess. He threatened to transfer me to Ashkelon prison where the conditions are harsher and to send me to Petah Tikva for a harsher interrogation. I denied the accusations. Half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer for me and handed me the telephone to speak to him but he stayed in the room and listened. The lawyer told me to remain silent. The interrogator then told me he had heard what the lawyer said and urged me to confess because I was a good boy. I continued to deny the accusations. In the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
6. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints before taking me to a cell in Etzion where I was strip searched. I was left there for two nights. After two days I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother attended and the hearing was adjourned.

7. I had six more military court hearings over the period of about two weeks. I was also interrogated multiple times over the same period of time. I spoke to a lawyer at the beginning of each interrogation but I was not informed of my right to silence. I continued to deny the accusations.
8. At the last military court hearing, which was on 15 August 2019, I was released without charge for lack of evidence. I went home after court with my father. We arrived home at around midnight.

Name: O.M.H.J.
Age: 14
Date: 6 August 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Protesting

I, O.M.H.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers came to our home at around 3:00 a.m. They banged very hard on the door and I woke up but remained in bed. My father opened the door and eight soldiers entered our house and many more remained outside.
2. The soldiers asked my father for his children and then named me. Then they told my father they had come to deliver a summons for me. The summons was filled out in Hebrew and did not give the reason for summoning me. They told my father he had to bring me to the police station in Etzion settlement at 8:00 a.m. the same morning. Then they left but I could not go back to sleep.
3. My father and I went to the police station as ordered and we arrived at 8:00 a.m. They kept us waiting outside until around 11:00 a.m. and then they took my father inside and showed him some video footage of clashes with soldiers and claimed I was taking part. My father denied I was involved. At around 11:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation but they did not allow my father to accompany me.
4. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator phoned a lawyer and wanted me to speak to him but I refused to speak because I was very suspicious. Then the interrogator put the phone on speaker and held it close to me because I refused to hold it. I told the person on the line I did not want to speak to him.
5. Then the interrogator asked me whether I was going to be straightforward with him. I told him I was willing to be straightforward if he was. Then he turned his computer screen towards me and showed me a text saying I had the right to remain silent during interrogation. I read the statement and understood it but I decided not to remain silent because I thought that would mean I had something to hide.
6. Then the interrogator showed me a photo of a boy throwing a stone and told me it was me. I denied it. The interrogator accused me of lying to him. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I did not confess to anything. Then he wanted me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. Then I was taken to see another interrogator.
7. The second interrogator showed me the text about the right to silence but did not tell me I had the right to speak to a lawyer. He showed me a photograph of a person and wanted me to identify the person. I told him I did not know the person. He accused me of lying but I told him I was not lying. He questioned me for about 15 minutes and did not ask me sign anything.

8. Afterwards they took my photograph and fingerprints and then took me outside where I waited for about 30 minutes. Then I was told I was going to be released and that I had to pay a fine of NIS 500. They also gave me a document and told me I had a military court hearing on 11 February 2020. My father paid the fine and I went home with him at around 3:00 p.m.

Name: Q.A.A.T.
Age: 16
Date: 21 August 2019
Location: Bidia, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Attempted stabbing

I, Q.A.A.T. of Bidia, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested at 10:30 a.m. near the settlement of Ariel. Six Israeli soldiers shot in the air and then beat me. They beat me on my stomach and legs. They also swore at me calling me “a son of a whore”. One of the soldiers then handcuffed me with my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep to the police station at Ariel. I sat on a seat inside the jeep.
2. At Ariel I was put in a room and two police officers came in and started to question me without informing me of any rights. They wanted to know whether I was planning a stabbing attack.
3. Then the Area Commander spoke to me on one of the policemen’s phone. He started by swearing at me. Then he accused me of intending to stab a female soldier. He threatened to put my parents in prison and to cancel my family’s work permits. He did not inform me of my rights and I denied the accusation. Then I was taken to another room. An interrogator and female interpreter were there.
4. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He wanted to know what I was doing near the settlement. He showed me video footage and accused me of attempting a stabbing attack. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for a long time, maybe four or five hours and I got tired and felt there was no choice but for me but to confess. I confessed to attempting a stabbing attack but the attempt failed and no one was hurt. After the interrogation I was taken to another room where I was left until around 1:30 a.m.
5. At around 1:30 a.m. I was taken to Huwwara military base near Nablus. At Huwwara I was examined by a doctor. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked.
6. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were not informed about the hearing and so they did not attend. After court I was taken back to Megiddo prison.
7. I had many military court hearings. At one of the hearings my lawyer asked for the interrogation to be repeated because the first one was conducted without consultation with a lawyer and without a lawyer present. The military judge agreed and I was taken for interrogation at Ofer, near Jerusalem.

8. The interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to take it easy. The conversation lasted less than a minute and the interrogator was listening. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he asked me why I threw a knife at a female soldier near the settlement. I told him it was not a knife but a stone. He yelled and shouted at me when I denied I had thrown a knife. Then he accused me of slapping a soldier in the face. He questioned me for about three hours. In the end I confessed to obstructing the work of a soldier on duty. He showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
9. At my last hearing in the military court I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,200. I was also given a suspended sentence valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I felt it was a good deal and it spared me longer time in prison.
10. I spent my entire prison sentence at Megiddo. My parents visited me seven or eight times. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 10 February 2020, and I went home with my relatives. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Name: H.I.R.Z.
Age: 16
Date: 26 August 2019
Location: Qabatiya, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Administrative Detention

I, H.I.R.Z. of Qabatiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. when an Israeli soldier shone a torch light into my bedroom. There were about 15 soldiers in our home and they asked to see our identity cards and birth certificates. Then they searched the house without causing any damage but they did not tell us what they were looking for.
2. After searching our house the soldiers pushed my mother and sisters into one of the rooms and took me and my father and brother into another. The commander told my father he wanted to arrest me and gave my father a document with details about my arrest filled out in Hebrew.
3. Then the soldiers took me outside and tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic ties which was tight and painful. Then a soldier blindfolded me and told me I was accused of planning a terrorist attack. I was then led along the street and the soldiers beat me on my head, shoulder and legs with their guns. They also slapped me. Then they pushed me into the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' boots.
4. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Dotan. At the settlement I was taken to a shipping container where I was given a medical examination. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination. He asked me if I had any illnesses. I was too scared to tell the doctor I was beaten by the soldiers because they were standing behind me while the doctor examined me.
5. At around 9:00 a.m. I was searched over my clothes and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. Two days later I was taken to Salem base for interrogation.
6. The interrogator gave me a document about my rights; my right to silence and my right to consult with a lawyer. He made me sign the document after reading it. He allowed me to speak to my father and to tell him I was ok. He did not call a lawyer for me and I did not speak to one.
7. Then the interrogator asked me why I was planning a terrorist attack. He told me my file was all ready and complete but he told me there was also a secret file.
8. The interrogator questioned me for about 30 minutes and was calm the whole time. He wanted me to confess and told me even if I did not, my file had everything he needed. He told me I was accused of planning to throw pipe bombs at a settlement. I denied the accusation.

9. At the end of the interrogation he took my photograph and fingerprints without asking me to sign any documents. Then I was taken to Salem military court where I saw a lawyer for the first time. My parents were not informed and so they did not attend the hearing. The lawyer told me I was given an administrative detention order for three months. The hearing took about two minutes and I was immediately taken outside. After the hearing I was taken back to prison.
10. On 25 November 2019, my administrative detention order was extended for another three months. This was a big blow to me just when I was looking forward to going home. During my time in prison I became very ill. I had epileptic fits and I was taken to a hospital for treatment.
11. In prison I attended Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics classes and I studied for my final school exams. My parents visited me five times in prison. I was released on 24 February 2020 and I went home with my uncles; I arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.

Name: M.A.I.I.
Age: 15
Date: 28 August 2019
Location: Aida refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails / pipe bombs

I, M.A.I.I. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 4:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our home. When I looked around my bedroom I saw around seven soldiers accompanied by two dogs.
2. The commander asked me for my name and then told me to get dressed. He took my phone and identity card. A soldier searched my wardrobe and picked a red top and made me put it on. They gave my parents a document filled out in Hebrew with information about my arrest. My mother was very upset and was shaking. The commander gave her a glass of water and told her not to worry.
3. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands to the back with two sets of plastic ties: two around my wrists and two higher up close to my elbows. The ties were tight and caused me a lot of pain and discomfort. Then they blindfolded me and a soldier slapped me on the back. The soldiers then led me towards the military base at Rachel's Tomb where they made me kneel for about 15 minutes.
4. After about 15 minutes I was approached by someone who introduced himself as "Captain Abu Daoud". He told me I was "a bad boy" and accused me of throwing Molotov cocktails at soldiers. He did not inform me of my rights. When I denied the accusation he repeated it and then started to talk in Hebrew to the other soldiers. Then they removed the blindfold and took me inside to talk to "Captain Nidal", the commander who conducted the arrest.
5. Captain Nidal asked me whether I had done something wrong and I told him I had not. Then he accused me of throwing stones from the roof top of our house. Then he told me he had detained my friends who told him everything. I asked him to tell me their names but he refused and told me I would see them later. Then he asked me again whether I had done anything wrong and I told him I had not. Then he warned against pleading with him after the interrogation wanting to confess. He concluded by saying "prison is made for men". He spoke to me without informing me of my rights.
6. After Captain Nidal was finished he re-blindfolded me and I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to a police station called Oz somewhere in Jerusalem, overlooking the Old City.

7. At the police station they removed the ties and replaced them with metal handcuffs. They also shackled me and removed the blindfold. Then they took me to a cell where I was left from around 5:00 a.m. until around noon. I was given some water and they allowed me to use the toilet twice but only after pleading with them. The cell did not have any windows but some light came in from under the door. At around noon I was taken for interrogation.
8. The interrogator removed the handcuffs, the shackles and the blindfold and immediately told me I was a bad boy and that I had harmed Israeli soldiers. I told him this was not true and I did not do anything wrong. Then he asked me whether I wanted to speak to a lawyer before he proceeded with the interrogation and I told him I did.
9. The interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me his name and then told me not to worry and to calm down. Then he told me to deny being in any photographs I might be shown. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent. I understood this to mean I should remain silent as long as the interrogator spoke and not to interrupt. When the interrogator stops talking I could speak and say anything I wanted. The conversation lasted a few minutes and the interrogator left the room during the conversation. I doubted this person was a lawyer and I was very cautious about what I told him.
10. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. He told me it was better for me and him if I remained silent. He was calm when he asked the question but the minute I denied the accusation he flipped and became angry and swore at me and my religion.
11. The interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and pipe bombs together with other boys. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and most of the time he asked me personal questions. He wanted to know which school I went to and whether my parents pressured me into doing things I did not want to do. He wanted to know whether my parents had problems in their relationship and asked me about my siblings. He asked me what time I got up in the morning and what time I went to bed and whether I worked or not. He asked me whether I knew where Rachel's Tomb was.
12. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign unless a lawyer was present. He phoned a lawyer and told him I refused to sign. Then I was strip searched and taken back to the cell where I remained until around 6:00 p.m. Two other boys were in the same cell and there was hardly any space for the three of us. The cell was the size of a table and we were very uncomfortable.
13. At around 6:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I waited inside the jeep for about five hours before being admitted. Then I was strip searched again and taken to section 13.
14. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother attended and the hearing was adjourned.

15. Two days later I was taken for another interrogation at the same police station. It was a different interrogator who was aggressive. As soon as I entered the room he told me to sit down and not move and not to say a word. He spoke to me in a rude demeaning manner which I found disturbing. He called me a donkey and did not inform me of my rights.
16. The interrogator showed me video footage of clashes with soldiers and accused me of being among the boys taking part. He said the clashes occurred on 4 August 2019. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation. He showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign but I refused to sign. He then gave me a document in Arabic and I read it and then I signed it because it was identical to what I had said. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
17. Two days later I was taken to the military court. My mother came to attend but I was never taken into the court room. At the end of the day I was told I was going to be released. I was released without charge on 3 September 2019, and I went home with my mother. We arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Name: M.M.M.R.
Age: 16
Date: 29 August 2019
Location: Nahhalin, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.M.R. of Nahhalin, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on my way home after school when an Israeli military jeep drove by and a group of young boys threw stones at it. It was at around 12:30 p.m. The soldiers responded with tear gas and my eyes started to burn so I ran away from the area.
2. A soldier stopped me and wanted to know why I was running away. Two soldiers stepped out of the jeep and accused me and my friend of throwing stones at them. I denied the accusation and told the soldiers I was running away from the tear gas.
3. A group of women tried to intervene, including my friend's mother. A friend of my father who was in the area phoned my father and told him to leave everything and come quickly. Both my father and my uncle came and tried to get me released. When the soldiers were talking to my father and the other women my uncle told me to run home and I did.
4. The soldiers then arrested my father and took him to the police station and told him they were not going to release him unless I turned myself in. The area commander threatened to cancel my father's and brother's work permit if I did not show up. He also told him he was going to raid our house in the middle of the night and arrest me. My uncle came to our house and told me the story and took me to the police station because none of us wanted my father detained or his work permit revoked.
5. At the entrance to the police station in the settlement of Bitar Illit the soldiers wanted to take a photo of me but I refused and told them I wanted to see my father to make sure they had released him. The soldiers then took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on a seat. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement.
6. At Etzion I was taken out of the jeep and a soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They also blindfolded me and took me to a room. It was around 2:00 p.m. The person in the room started to question me while I was still blindfolded. I objected but he did not care. He accused me of plotting to stab a soldier. I denied it and told him I was going home after school and had no intention of doing anything of that sort. I told him I wanted to go home because I had not done anything wrong.
7. Then he accused me of attempting to set fire to the fence surrounding the nearby settlement. I denied the accusation and told him I wanted to go home. Then he asked me whether I knew the names of the boys who threw stones at the soldiers. I told him I did not know the names and asked him to send me home. He did not inform of my rights and threatened to electrocute me with a taser at night and to beat me if I did not give him names. This lasted for about 10 minutes. Throughout this time I was tied and blindfolded.

8. After about 10 minutes I was taken to a corridor where a soldier removed the ties and the blindfold. About five minutes later I was taken to another room where they took my fingerprints and photograph, as well as a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was taken to another room where I was questioned again.
9. The person who questioned me the second time was in civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. He told me to sit down and not to be scared of him. He asked me whether I had ever done anything wrong and I told him I had not. Then he phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be scared and to say I did not know anything about anyone. The interrogator was in the room as I spoke to the lawyer for less than 30 seconds.
10. Then I was taken to a cell where I was searched in my underwear. I was left in the cell for three nights and I could not sleep. I cried a lot because I was worried about my father as I did not know whether they had released him and whether they had cancelled his work permit or not.
11. On Sunday morning I was handcuffed and taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My mother and aunt were in court and the hearing was adjourned. After the court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was searched in my clothes and then I was taken to Section 13 with other boys.
12. Two days later I had another military court hearing. My parents attended and I was told that two soldiers had testified they had seen me throwing stones. My lawyer asked the court to release me on bail in order to go back to school as I am a top student. The military judge agreed to release me but the prosecutor wanted to appeal. The judge gave the prosecutor 24 hours to appeal. The following day I had another hearing and the judge decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 3,000 and an additional NIS 14,000 bond if I violate the conditions of my bail. I was told I have another hearing on 23 September 2019, which I have to attend.
13. After court I was taken back to prison. At around 9:00 p.m. I was told I was going to be released. At first I did not believe it. I took a shower and put my clothes on and at around 9:30 p.m. I was released. I was released on 4 September 2019, and I arrived home with my parents at around 1:00 a.m. I was very happy to be home and to go back to school.

Name: A.H.A.I.
Age: 16
Date: 1 September 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, A.H.A.I. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My friend called me at around 3:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in the neighbourhood. As soon as I got up to see what was going on I heard banging at our front door. I woke my parents up and my father went downstairs to open up.
2. Four soldiers entered our home and many more were outside. The commander asked my father for our identity cards. He then asked for me. He carefully checked my identity card and told me I was under arrest me. He did not say why.
3. I was handcuffed with my hands to the front with metal handcuffs. He tightened them hard and I was in pain. He then showed my father a document written in Hebrew and asked him to sign it. The document had information about my arrest and was written in both Arabic and Hebrew. Then he took a picture of me with my parents and took me downstairs where I was blindfolded in front of my parents.
4. Once outside the soldiers led me for about one kilometer to a nearby military watchtower. On the way a soldier swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”. When the commander left they beat me on my back.
5. Then the area commander came and introduced himself and told me his name was "Karam". He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail on the main road 10 days earlier and sarcastically called me a “hero”. I denied the accusation. Then he told me to hop on the jeep and said my file was ready. He pushed me into the back of the jeep where I sat on the metal floor. He did not inform me of any rights.
6. We drove to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba. The soldiers took me into an office followed by an interrogator.
7. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and removed my blindfold but kept me handcuffed. He told I had the right to remain silent but warned if I did I would be the looser. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He told me he was not going to say much because my file was ready. I asked him to tell me what was in my file. He told me I knew exactly what was in my file and asked me whether I was going to confess or not. Then he told me there were confessions against me and that he had DNA evidence to incriminate me. I told him I was innocent and had nothing to say. He told me he was going to see me in court where the judge would decide.

8. The interrogation lasted for about 15 minutes and then I was blindfolded and taken to a cell in the police station in Etzion settlement. I was searched in my clothes and I was left there for 15 minutes.
9. After about 15 minutes I was taken outside and I could see a little bit from under my blindfold. The interrogator came and kicked me and then told me to go to his office. He took me inside and kept the handcuffs and the blindfold on. He then handed me a telephone and told me to speak to a lawyer. The person on the other end told me I knew exactly who the person in front of me was. He warned me against him and told me to be careful and to take care of myself. This lasted for seconds and the person hung up.
10. Then the interrogator removed the blindfold and showed me lots of files on his desk. Then he told me he was going to start interrogating me. He then slapped me when I asked for a cigarette and coffee. Then he showed me a document which he claimed was the DNA evidence against me. He told me the incident happened on 23 August 2019, and told me other boys had confessed against me. Then he told me I knew exactly what I had done. I told him I had no idea what he was talking about and I denied having done anything wrong.
11. Then a large man entered the room. He sat at the desk and lit a cigarette. He gave me a nasty look and I was scared. Then the interrogator told me to stand up. When I did the other man slapped me hard on my face and told me to sit down. This was repeated about 10 times. The interrogator wanted me to confess to throwing stones, a Molotov cocktail and pipe bombs on the main road. I denied the accusation and did not confess. This interrogation lasted for about three hours.
12. Then the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken for another interrogation by an intelligence officer.
13. The intelligence officer did not inform me of my right to silence and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He named some boys and told me they had confessed against me. Then he told me they found my fingerprints on a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and then I was taken back to the Etzion cell where I spent a night.
13. The following day I was taken back to Ofer prison in the evening. At Ofer I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned.
14. The following day I was taken for another interrogation at Bitar Illit settlement. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer before he started to question me. The lawyer told me they wanted to question me again and told me to be careful. He did not inform me of my right to silence.

15. Then the interrogator started to question me without informing me of any rights. He asked me whether I threw Molotov cocktails. I told him I did not. Then he named a boy and asked me whether I knew him and I told him I did not. Then he told me I was a poor boy because the accusations against me were false. I did not know whether he was being sarcastic or not. Then I was taken back to Ofer.
16. In all I had about seven military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 13 January 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four-and-a-half months in prison and the military judge told me I could go home on the same day. I was served with a suspended sentence of three years in prison valid for seven years and my parents had to pay a fine of NIS 6,000. I was released after the hearing and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around midnight.

Accusation: Weapon possession

I, U.M.A.D. of Jenin refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At 4:00 a.m. I was riding my bike on the way to work at the bakery when I was surprised by a group of Israeli soldiers. I jumped off my bike and tried to run away but a soldier grabbed me and hit me with the back of his gun on my face. My eye bled. The soldier treated my eye with a piece of cloth he had and then he blindfolded me with the same piece which had blood on it.
2. Then another soldier tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic tie and he tightened it very much. It was painful. The soldiers made me sit on the ground on the side of the street while they arrested another person. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. Inside the jeep the soldiers swore at me and kicked me.
3. The jeep took me to a location I did not recognise and the soldiers made me sit on the ground in the sun by a shipping container for about three hours. After about three hours I was taken inside the shipping container. I remained there for a short time during which time a soldier swore at me.
4. Later I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where they made me pull my trousers down as they searched me. Then I was taken to the minors' section of the prison.
5. The following morning I was taken for interrogation at Salem checkpoint. I waited for about four hours before being interrogated. The interrogator untied me and asked me how I was. He started the interrogation being calm but then he escalated and became angry and aggressive. I asked to speak to my father and he allowed me but he stayed in the room and listened to the conversation. Then the interrogator called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me he was going to represent me and told me not to worry. He did not inform me of my right to silence nor did the interrogator. The conversation was short and the interrogator listened in.
6. Then the interrogator asked me questions about people in the camp. He accused me of weapons possession and of passing weapons to others. He told me other boys and young men had confessed against me. I denied the accusations. He questioned me for about two hours and occasionally yelled at me and accused me of lying when I denied the accusations. In the end he asked me to sign a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic. I signed after reading it.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to a waiting room. At around 2:00 a.m. I was taken back to prison.
8. Three days later I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because no one informed them. The hearing was adjourned. I had about seven other military court hearings which my parents attended.
9. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,200. I was also given a suspended sentence valid for three-and-a-half years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prison sentence because it meant I would be released on two-and-half-weeks from the date of the last hearing.
10. I spent the whole time in Megiddo prison and my family visited me only once because the permit took a long time to be issued. I was not allowed to call home from prison. I was released from Al Jalama checkpoint on 2 January 2020, and I went home with my brother and some friends who had come to meet me. I arrived home in the evening, which my mother had prepared.
11. The most difficult thing in prison was missing my family, especially my mother and my brothers and sisters.

Name: Q.M.K.Y.
Age: 16
Date: 3 September 2019
Location: Beit Ummar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, Q.M.K.Y. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My sister came to my bedroom and told me to stay in bed. Then I heard loud voices in the house. I opened my bedroom door and saw about nine Israeli soldiers in our home.
2. The commander asked me for my name and then asked to see my phone. Then the commander told me I was under arrest but did not give a reason and did not give my parents any documents.
3. The soldiers searched our house and then they told me to get dressed. I barely had time to dress before they took me outside and painfully tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. They also blindfolded me.
4. I was then led on foot for about a kilometer to an area where some military jeeps were waiting. They pushed me inside one of the jeeps and made me sit on the metal floor. The jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left on the ground in an open area for about six hours. At around noon I was taken for interrogation.
5. There were four interrogators in the room. One of them removed the blindfold and the ties and warmly welcomed me and called me by name. He told me I had the right to remain silent but if I did he was going to humiliate me. He also told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and allowed me to speak to a lawyer via phone. The lawyer told me I knew everything there was to know. I did not say much because I was afraid the phone conversation was recorded. I also decided not to remain silent during the interrogation because the interrogator might conclude I was guilty and I did not know how to defend myself.
6. Then the interrogator told me he knew me very well and urged me to be straightforward with him and not to play games. I told him I was innocent and that there was no reason for me to be in his office. He accused me of lying and called me a “bastard” and accused me of throwing pipe bombs at soldiers on Route 60. He named a person from my village and accused me of collaborating with him.
7. Then he asked me about my friend’s car and I told him I used it to distribute chickens to shops in the village. Then he told me he promised to send me home if I confessed. He also told me he would issue my father a permit to work in Israel if I confessed. Then he told me to stand up and he blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back. Then he told me he had all the time in the world and was going to wait for me to confess. I told him I had nothing to confess to. About 20 minutes later I told him I was tired and had pain in my leg.

8. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign something I did not understand. Then he showed me another document written in Hebrew and Arabic which said I was informed of my rights and I signed that document.
9. Then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched and I was asked to crouch up and down while naked. I spent two nights at Etzion and I found it very hard. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to Section 13.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. I was denied release on bail and the hearing was adjourned. After court I was taken back to prison.
11. The following day I was taken for another interrogation at the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement. The interrogator informed me of my rights and allowed me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me if I remained silent and did not confess there was a chance I might be sent home.
12. Then the interrogator started to question me and he asked me the same questions as the first interrogator. I denied the accusation and repeated my answers. He questioned me for about an hour and then showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then I was taken back to Ofer prison.
13. I had three military court hearings. My lawyer threatened to resign because the prosecutor did not have any evidence to back the accusations. During this time I was taken for another interrogation at Bitar police station. The interrogator informed me of my rights and then asked me the same questions again. I continued to deny the accusation.
14. Then I had another hearing and the military judge decide to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 2,500 and I was released on 16 September 2019. I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 1:00 a.m. I had another hearing on 28 October 2019, and I have another one on 27 November 2019.

Name: M.S.M.H.
Age: 13
Date: 11 September 2019
Location: Bethlehem, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.S.M.H. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of a loud explosion which sounded close by. It was around 3:30 a.m. My mother opened the front door and about 20 Israeli soldiers entered our home and with more spread out around the house.
2. The commander asked me for my name while the other soldiers searched our house. They even looked inside our washing machine looking for particular items of clothing. The commander then tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful.
3. The commander told my parents I was under arrest but did not say why and did not give us any documents. My younger sister started to cry and one of the soldiers approached her as if he was going to spray pepper spray in her face. She was terrified and I was very worried for her. All this took about 10 minutes; the soldiers seemed to be in a hurry.
4. Then they took me outside where I was blindfolded and pushed into the back of a jeep and made me sit on a seat. They drove me to a nearby military base and along the way the soldiers swore at me.
5. At the base I was examined by a doctor. He examined me without removing the tie or the blindfold. I waited many hours before I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation. During this time I could hear soldiers cock their guns and say “shoot, shoot”. I was scared because I was blindfolded and could not see what was going on. Sometime later I was interrogated
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold and turned a voice recorder on and told me I had to say yes to anything I knew and that I had to tell him what I knew. He then phoned a lawyer but the lawyer did not answer his telephone. The interrogator did not inform me of any other rights.
7. The interrogator asked me about a person he said was my age but I told him I did not know that person. Then he asked me whether I knew where Rachel’s Tomb was. He also asked me about the separation fence. I told him I did not know anything. He then turned off the voice recorder and talked to me firmly and said this was the last time he was going to speak nicely to me. Then he turned the voice recorder on again.

8. Then he told me he wanted me to tell him who made the Molotov cocktail and who threw it. Then he named one of my friends and told me he had confessed against me. Then he showed me pipe bombs and Molotov cocktails and told me he had collected them from the house of the boy who confessed against me. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about four hours and kept repeating the same thing. I continued to deny the accusation. He did not show me any documents.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I spent four days in the cell at Etzion. The cell did not have any windows and a bright light which flickered all the time was on 24 hours. I could not sleep and did not know whether it was day or night.
10. About four days later I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My mother was in court and my hearing was adjourned. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched again and before being taken to section 13.
11. I had four military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months suspended for five years. This last hearing took place 10 days before I was released and that was why I accepted it. Also my lawyer told me I would have received six months in prison had I rejected the plea bargain.
12. I was released on 30 October 2019. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m. My mother visited me once in prison.

Name: A.A.M.R.
Age: 13
Date: 19 October 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.M.R. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My sister came to my room and told me Israeli soldiers were in our home. It was at around 4:00 a.m. She told me they had entered the apartment building from the roof and smashed the glass to the front door before my father was able to open it for them. About 25 soldiers were in our house.
2. The soldiers gathered us in the living room and made us sit down. They checked my father's identity card and then told him I was under arrest.
3. The commander then asked me to show him my bedroom. He followed me there and asked where my wardrobe was. Then he asked me to take out all the shirts, one by one. My sister came into the room but the commander shouted at her and pushed her out. Then he took one of the shirts and told me to get dressed. Then he took a picture of me and took me outside. On the way a soldier painfully pinched me in the back.
3. Then they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very painful. It left marks on my wrists for a long time. I was also blindfolded before being taken to a military vehicle and made to sit on the metal floor. I could not find my way easily because I was blindfolded and a soldier got impatient with me and hit me on my head. It was an unexpected shock.
4. I waited a long time inside the vehicle and the soldiers left and then came back. A female soldier told me to sit on the seat but another soldier grabbed and pushed me back to the floor.
5. Then I was taken to the military watchtower at the entrance to the refugee camp where I waited for a while. Then I was taken to the checkpoint near Beit Jala. There I was examined by a doctor who took my blood pressure and asked me if I had any illnesses. He removed the tie and the blindfold during the examination only and then replaced them.
6. Then I was taken to a place I did not recognise. I pulled down the blindfold to try to figure out where I was but a soldier put it back on and tightened it. Then someone asked whether I was given any food but before they brought the food I was taken in the military vehicle to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was left out in the cold weather for about two hours and then I was taken inside for interrogation.

7. The interrogator introduced himself and told me his name was "Moshe". He removed the tie and the blindfold and told me to sit down. Another person came into the room and told me if I apologized and told him the names of the boys seen in a photograph he would send me home. Then the interrogator phoned a lawyer. The lawyer asked me for my name and told me not to confess. He also told me I was going to be sent home shortly. The conversation lasted for less than a minute before the interrogator turned off the speaker phone.
8. Then, without informing me of my right to remain silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and showed me a photograph of clashes and told me I was taking part. He thumped the table and raised his voice at me when I denied I was there. Then he offered me a cigarette and I told him I did not smoke.
9. Then he told me I had to confess to save my father the trouble of coming to the police station. Then he snapped his fingers on my nose and caused me pain. He repeated this many times. Then he slapped me on my head and told me I had to confess but I did not.
10. Then he asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign and told him I needed a translation. He yelled at me and insisted I had to sign the Hebrew documents but I refused. Then another person came into the room and kicked and slapped me and told me I had to sign but I did not. Then the interrogator blindfolded me and took me into another room to see another interrogator.
11. The second interrogator removed the blindfold and asked me if I had spoken to a lawyer. I told him I had. Then he asked me whether I was beaten and I told him I was beaten badly. Then he showed me some photographs of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. He started to question me without informing me of my right to silence.
12. Then he pointed to a boy in the photograph and told me it was me. He told me to confess to him before someone else comes in to beat me up. I told him I was not going to confess to something I did not do. This interrogator did not ask me to sign any documents. Then he asked me for my father's number and told me he was going to call him to come and take me home. He also told me my father had to pay NIS 1,000 and that I was not allowed to go anywhere.
13. Shortly afterwards my father came with my aunt and I went home with them. We arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.
14. The following day my father called me and told me the Area Commander was on his phone and wanted to speak to me. I took the phone and the Commander, who told me his name was "Karam", asked me where I was and told me I was not allowed to leave the house. He started to swear and then said if I throw stones ever again he was going to send me a vicious group of soldiers to arrest me. Then he asked to speak to my father and I could hear him swearing.

15. A day later the police called my father and told I had a military court hearing on 9 June 2020. My father told the police he had paid a fine and that the file was closed but the policeman told him I had to show up in court.

I, O.H.H.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when I woke up to the sound of Israeli soldiers banging on our back door at around 3:00 a.m. My father opened the door while I remained in bed. Shortly afterwards my father came to my bedroom and told me that the soldiers were looking for me.
2. I quickly got dressed and said goodbye to my family. The soldiers then took me outside and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for days. The soldiers did not tell my parents why they wanted to arrest me and did not give them any documents.
3. Once outside the soldiers led me a short distance to where some military jeeps were waiting. At the jeeps I was blindfolded and then put on the floor of one of the jeeps. Inside the jeep soldiers swore at me calling me “a son of a whore”.
4. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken for a medical examination. The doctor checked my pulse and chest and asked me if I had any allergies or Asthma. She removed the tie and the blindfold during the examination and then put them on again.
5. After the medical examination I was taken to a court yard where I was left tied and blindfolded until around 1:30 p.m. During this time a soldier passed by and tightened the tie even more. Then he punched me in the back and kicked me on my leg which hurt a lot. At around 1:30 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator removed the blindfold and phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me to deny any accusations even if the interrogator shows me photos. The conversation lasted for about a minute. Then the interrogator turned his computer screen towards me and showed me a text in Arabic saying I had the right to remain silent.
7. Then the interrogator asked me whether I was going to be straightforward with him. Then he showed me photographs and wanted me to give him the names of the boys in the photographs. Then he pointed to one boy and told me that boy was my friend. I told him I had no idea who that boy was and that he was not my friend. The interrogation lasted for about 10 minutes. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused to sign. I asked him to translate the documents but he never did. Then he took me outside.

8. At around 4:30 p.m. I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell. I was denied release on bail and the hearing was adjourned. My father attended the hearing and afterwards I was taken back to prison.
9. Two days later I was taken to the settlement of Betar for another interrogation but I was never interrogated and I was taken back to prison. Two days later I was taken to Betar again and this time I was interrogated.
10. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer on the phone before he started to question me. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me not to be afraid. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and accused me of throwing stones on Route 60. He showed me the same photographs that the first interrogator at Etzion showed me. I denied the accusation and did not give any names. The interrogation lasted for about 15 minutes and I was not given any documents to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
11. I attended three military court hearings and at the last one I was released. My father had to pay NIS 1,000 and the lawyer told me I had a suspended sentence for six months. My father was very upset because I did not confess, yet I was fined and served with a suspended sentence. I was released on 5 November 2019, and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 11:30 p.m.

1. At around 4:00 a.m. I heard loud banging at our front door. The front door was open and four Israeli soldiers entered our home. More soldiers surrounded the house. One of the soldiers told my father to gather the family in the living room and asked him to name us.
2. Then the soldiers searched the house but they did not find anything. The soldiers had photographs with them. My father was also told to present our ID cards and one of the soldiers asked for me. Then he took a photo of me on his mobile phone. He then gave my father a document and told him they wanted to arrest me but did not say why.
3. I prepared myself and said goodbye to my family. The soldiers then took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was painful. It left marks on my wrists for days. They also blindfolded me.
4. The soldiers then led me towards a nearby village where military jeeps were waiting. When we arrived they put me in the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep a soldier hit me on the arm with the back of his gun and another swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”.
5. Then they took me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left on the ground in an open area with other detainees until around 4:00 p.m. During this time I was given a medical examination. I also asked to use the toilet and they allowed me but I was not given any food. My wrists were painful and I asked a soldier to loosen the tie but he tightened it even more. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator told me his name was "Shimon". He was in civilian clothes. As soon as I entered the room he removed the tie and the blindfold. He had a voice recorder on his desk. He did not inform me of my right to silence but he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to answer questions or confess to anything. The conversation lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator left the room during the conversation. Then the interrogator came back and told me he was not going to say anything and I had to tell him everything there was to say.
7. The interrogator then said I had to tell him what happened on 6 October 2018. I did not say anything and remained silent. He yelled at me and wanted me to speak. He thumped the table and yelled at me urging me to confess. He told me I had to confess to throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail. I told him I did not know what a Molotov was. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then took me outside. He did not show me any documents.

8. Then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. About half an hour later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13. The other detainees gave me some food; I had tuna and tomatoes and I went to bed.
9. The following day I had a military court hearing at Ofer. My parents did not attend the hearing because they did not know it was taking place. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to Ofer prison. Two days later I had another hearing and the prosecutor asked for more time to interrogate me.
10. Two days later I was taken to the police station in Bitar settlement but I was not interrogated and I was taken back to prison.
11. The following day I had another military court hearing which was adjourned. Two days later I was taken to back to the police station in Bitar settlement and this time I was interrogated.
12. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer on the phone who told me to remain silent. Then the interrogator showed me a photo and claimed it was of me throwing stones. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about five minutes. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer prison.
13. A few days later I had another military court hearing where I accepted a plea bargain because the lawyer told me if I accepted it I could go home. My family had to pay a NIS 1,000 fine and the military judge gave me a suspended sentence of four months in prison valid for five years. I was released on 7 November 2019, and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.A.N.K. of Izariya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of banging at our front door. It was around 3:00 a.m. My father opened the door while I remained in my bedroom. About seven Israeli soldiers entered our home and started to talk to my father. I could not understand what they were saying. Then my father came into my bedroom and told me to get up and not to be scared.
2. Some soldiers followed my father into my bedroom and took a T-shirt from my wardrobe. Then they told my father they had photographic evidence of me throwing stones and told him they wanted to take me for questioning. They told my father he could accompany me to the police station. They checked my identity card and took me outside.
3. They took me and my father to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep took us to the military watchtower at Rachel's Tomb. They kept us there for about two hours and then took us to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. At Atarot we waited in a small area for about four hours and then we were both taken to the interrogation room.
4. The interrogator, who was in civilian clothes, turned on a camera and a voice recorder and then told my father he was not allowed to speak during the interrogation. Then he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not give me the opportunity to speak to one. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator showed me photographs of clashes with soldiers during the funeral of a person from my village who was shot dead by an Israeli soldier. He accused me of taking part in the clashes and of throwing stones at soldiers during the funeral. I denied the accusation.
5. Then he showed me video footage of clashes and again accused me of taking part. He also pointed to other boys in the videos and wanted me to tell him their names. The interrogation lasted for about one-and-a-half hours and my father remained silent the whole time. Then in the end the interrogator told me to say good bye to my father and told me they were going to take me to Ofer prison. Then he told my father to leave.
6. Outside the interrogation room I was handcuffed with metal handcuffs and I was also shackled. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
7. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were there and the hearing was adjourned. I had four military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 21 November 2019, the military judge decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 6,000 and I was released on the same day. I went home with my family and I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.

8. Since my release I have attended one military court hearing on 6 January 2020. The hearing was adjourned and the next hearing is scheduled on 30 May 2020. I am not sure this hearing will take place because of the Coronavirus.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.H.M.K. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of a soldier's voice in my bedroom. The soldier told me to get up and I did. I soon discovered that about 15 soldiers were in our home.
2. The soldiers gathered my family in my parents' bedroom and the commander told my father they wanted to take me for questioning because they suspected me of throwing stones at soldiers in our refugee camp. The soldiers then took me outside. They did not give my parents any documents.
3. Outside the house my hands were tied to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then walked me towards the military base at Rachel's Tomb where a soldier beat me on my back. I was made me kneel on the ground for about three hours before I was taken in a military jeep to a police station in Jerusalem. I sat on a seat in the back of the jeep and I arrived at the police station at around 6:00 a.m. I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold and told me to sit down and be respectful. He asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and then phoned one and allowed me to talk to him. The lawyer told me if the interrogator beats me I should tell him I wanted to request my right to remain silent. He also told me anything I did not do I should not talk about. The interrogator was in the room during the conversation which lasted about two minutes.
5. After I spoke to the lawyer the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but I thought to myself I did not want to remain silent for fear that it might be interpreted as if I was guilty. I thought I would remain silent only if the interrogator beats me. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room.
6. Then the interrogator told me if I confessed he would send me home on the same day. I told him I had nothing to confess to and I was not going to confess to something I did not do. His response was that he was going to send me to the cells if I did not confess.
7. Then he told me I was suspected of throwing stones at soldiers in the Camp and claimed he had video footage to prove it. I asked him to show me the footage but he refused. When I denied the accusation he lost his temper and shouted at me saying I was a liar and then he slapped me on the face and punched me in the chest. Then he asked me about my father and told me he had revoked his work permit. He questioned me for about three hours and did not give me anything to eat or drink.

8. After about three hours the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my clothes before being taken to section 13.
9. Three days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My father attended and the hearing was adjourned. Two days later I had another hearing. My father attended and I was released without charge but my father had to pay NIS 500.
10. I was released on 12 November 2019 at Beit Sira checkpoint and I went home with my brother who was waiting for me. I was released at around 11:30 p.m. and we arrived home around 2:30 a.m.

Name: M.H.M.M.
Age: 14
Date: 6 November 2019
Location: Aida refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing pipe bomb

I, M.H.M.M. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of banging at our front door. I remained in bed. My father opened the door and three Israeli soldiers entered our home and came straight into my bedroom.
2. One of the soldiers told me to get up and go to the living room. They sat me down in the living room by myself. Then I heard a soldier tell my father they wanted to take me for questioning and would bring me back soon. He did not say what they wanted to question me about and did not give us any documents. When my father asked him for the reason he told my father to ask me because I knew exactly what I had done.
3. The soldiers remained in the house for about 10 minutes and then took me outside. Once outside they painfully handcuffed me with my hands to the back. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then led me to the military watchtower by Rachel's Tomb. On the way a soldier punched me in the head while I was blindfolded which was a shock because I was not expecting it.
4. At the watchtower they made me kneel for about 30 minutes in the cold weather and then they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove me to a police station somewhere in the Jerusalem area; I think it was in the settlement of Abu Ghneim. There I waited for about five minutes and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and moved the handcuffs to the front. Then he handed me a telephone and told me to speak to the lawyer. The lawyer told me not to confess and anything I did not do. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator left the room during that time.
6. When the interrogator returned he told me I had the right to remain silent but warned me it might be taken against me in court. He had a voice recorder and he switched it on. He told me his name was "Luai" and he spoke good Arabic.
7. The interrogator told me I had caused a problem but did not specify exactly what. I denied I had done anything wrong. Then he told me I must have done something because it is inconceivable that I would be brought to his office for nothing and insisted I had to tell him what it was. I told him I had nothing to say. Then he told me other boys had confessed against me but did not tell me what exactly they had confessed. He questioned me for about an hour and banged the table each time I refused to confess.

8. At the end of the interrogation he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did because it did not occur to me I should not have signed it. Then he took me outside and told me he was going to send me to Ofer prison but this turned out not to be true.
9. Another interrogator came and took me to a back room and told me if I confessed he was going to send me home. Then he threatened if I did not confess he was going to lock me up in a cell by myself. There was no camera or voice recorder in the room and I was scared of his threats which I believed. I decided to confess to throwing a pipe bomb at Rachel's Tomb.
10. After I confessed I was taken back to the interrogation room and allowed me to speak to a lawyer again who said the same things and then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. He had a voice recorder in the room and he turned it on. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did.
11. After the second interrogation I was left in an open-air area until around 10:00 p.m. and then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and a soldier told me to crouch up and down while naked and then I was taken to section 13.
12. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were not informed and did not attend. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
13. In all I had about 11 military court hearings. At the last hearing the military judge decided to release me on bail because my lawyer could prove I had confessed after being threatened. The judge made my father pay bail of NIS 10,000 and told me I was under house arrest and not allowed to leave home except to go to school accompanied by my father. He also told me my next hearing was scheduled on the 13 January 2020.
14. On the same day an Israeli social worker spoke to me and then spoke to my parents who were waiting outside court. My mother did not like the social worker or the interpreter who was with her and thought the high bail amount and the house arrest punishment were because of them.
15. My father and brother visited me in prison once and I was released on 19 December 2019. I arrived home with my father at around midnight. It was a tough experience; prison is a horrible place and I am not sure what will happen to me next.

Name: M.N.I.J.
Age: 16
Date: 6 November 2019
Location: Aida refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / pipe bombs

I, M.N.I.J. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 3:15 a.m. Israeli soldiers started to bang aggressively at the front door of my brother's apartment downstairs. I looked over the balcony and told the soldiers no one was living in that apartment. Then they came up to our apartment.
2. About 12 soldiers entered our apartment with more outside. They spoke to my mother and brother and then asked to see my identity card. Then the commander told me and my mother that I was under arrest and wanted for questioning. He did not say why and did not give us any documents. The soldiers were in the house for about 10 minutes no more.
3. I put on my shoes and said goodbye to my family and then I was immediately taken outside where my hands were tied behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were not painful. The soldiers then walked me a short distance to where a troop carrier was waiting. At the troop carrier I was blindfolded and put inside where I sat on a seat.
4. The troop carrier drove to a military base which I did not recognise. I was left there for about three hours and then I was taken in a military jeep to another base for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed my blindfold and replaced the ties with metal handcuffs and handcuffed me to the front. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me I was a suspect and that I was going to be interrogated. He told me I had the right to remain silent and told me to take care of myself. Then the interrogator told me I had the option of remaining silent.
6. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones and pipe bombs at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He was calm most of the time but occasionally raised his voice at me especially when I denied the accusation. He wanted me to confess. The questioning lasted for about four hours and the interrogator focused on general information. He wanted to know the names of my family members. He did not show me any evidence to support his accusations.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My family were not present in court because they did not know I had a hearing. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned to allow for more interrogations.

8. I had multiple interrogations over a number of days, I cannot remember exactly how many. Each time the interrogator offered to call a lawyer for me before the interrogation but it was me who refused to talk to the lawyers they provided as I was not happy with the first lawyer I spoke to. I was also informed of my right to silence before each interrogation.
9. The interrogators told me other boys had confessed against me but I still denied the accusations. They questioned me sometimes for short periods of time, sometimes for longer. I continued to deny the accusations and I did not sign any documents.
10. During the same period of time I attended a number of military court hearings. My family attended and the hearings were adjourned. At the last hearing, which was a week before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six and a half months in prison and given a suspended sentence of 15 months in prison valid for five years. At the time I did not understand what a plea bargain was but when my lawyer told me if I accepted it because I would be released within a week and so I saw no reason to reject it.
11. My mother and brother visited me in prison but the family visits were suspended in March 2020, due to the Corina Virus restrictions. During this time the prison authorities allowed me to make one phone call to my family from an installed pay phone. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer and I was released on 20 May 2020. My mother met me outside prison and I went home with her. We arrived home at around 6:30 p.m.

Name: M.K.A.D.
Age: 17
Date: 16 November 2019
Location: Silwad, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, M.K.A.D. of Silwad, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of banging and smashing as Israeli soldiers broke down our front door. It was around 1:30 a.m. About 10 soldiers entered our home and checked our identity cards.
2. After checking our identity cards the soldiers took me aside and separated me from the rest of my family. Then they searched the house and turned it upside down and told us they were looking for weapons. They found a military vest and took it and confiscated all our car keys. The keys have still not been returned to our family. A soldier then said I was under arrest but did not say why or give us any documents.
3. Then they took me to the bathroom where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie. They painfully tightened it around my wrists and it left marks on my wrists for days. Then they took me outside where I was blindfolded. I was the pushed me into the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. They remained in our house for around three hours.
4. The jeep took me to Ofra settlement where I spent the remainder of the night. In the morning I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement for interrogation. At Binyamin I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent. The conversation was short and lasted for less than a minute. The interrogator was not listening.
6. Then, without informing me of any other rights, the interrogator accused me of weapons possession. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me a photograph on his phone of someone holding a weapon. I denied the photo was of me. He told me he found the photo on my friend's telephone.
7. He questioned me for about an hour and he kept repeating the same accusation. He wanted me to confess but I continued to deny the accusation. In the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did.

8. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched. The trip to Ofer took a long time and I was driven by the settlement of Ofra. By the time I arrived at Ofer prison it was around 3:00 a.m.
9. The following day I had a hearing in Ofer military court. My brother attended and the hearing was adjourned after the military judge extended my detention. I attended four more military court hearings.
10. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was granted early release and I was released on 29 November 2019, four days after my last hearing. That was why I accepted the plea bargain. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months valid for one year.
11. I went home with my brother; we arrived home at around 11:00 a.m.

Name: Y.A.Y.J.
Age: 15
Date: 19 November 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.A.Y.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father ran to open the door but the soldiers told him to stand clear as they were going to blow it open with explosives. When they could not blow it off they allowed my father to open it.
2. About 20 Israeli soldiers entered our home with more outside. The commander asked my father for his identity card and asked him about his children. When my father mentioned my name two soldiers grabbed me and took me outside without allowing me to put my clothes on. They finally allowed me to re-enter the house so I could get dressed after my father insisted.
3. The commander gave my father a document about my arrest and the soldiers searched the house including my bedroom. They were looking for certain clothes which a boy was wearing in a photo they had with them. They did not find what they were looking for.
4. Outside the house a soldier tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists. Then they walked me towards the military watchtower at the entrance to the refugee camp where they blindfolded me and took me into the watchtower. Inside the watchtower a soldier banged my head against the wall and I was in pain. I asked the soldier to remove the blindfold but he refused.
5. I was left inside the watchtower for about 30 minutes. During this time I was examined by a doctor. Then I was taken to a military jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was taken to a shipping container where I was left until around 8:00 a.m. when I was interrogated.
6. At first the interrogator took me into a side room. He told me I was not a terrorist and that he considered me like his younger son. He told me to consider myself at home. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and advised me to remain silent no matter what the interrogator said. He warned me against confessing. The interrogator was not listening and the conversation lasted for about 30 seconds.
7. Then the interrogator took me to another room. He was in civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. He was accompanied by another person who was typing on a computer. At first the interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he wanted to know where I was on 27 October 2019, between 2:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. I told him I did not remember and that I did not even remember what I had for lunch the day before. He did not react to my answer and remained calm.

8. Then the interrogator said I should be at home with my parents and siblings and not in his office. He told me if I did not confess to throwing stones he was going to bring my parents and siblings to the police station. I told him I was not going to confess to something I did not do. I did not remain silent as the lawyer advised because I thought this would be seen as an implied confession.
9. Then the interrogator showed me six photos and wanted me to name the boys seen in the photos. I did not give any names. Then he pointed to one boy and told me it was me. I denied it was me. He kept repeating it was me and I kept denying it.
10. The interrogation lasted for about five hours. In the end the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign and I asked him to translate them for me. When he verbally translated them and I found out they were identical to what I had said so I signed.
11. After the interrogation I was photographed and fingerprinted before being taken to a cell where I was searched in my boxer shorts. I spent one night in the cell.
12. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem, where the military judge decided to release me. I was released without charge but my parents had to pay NIS 500. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed about it. After the court I was taken back to Etzion police station and my father picked me up from there. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m. I was released on 21 November 2019.

Accusation: Throwing stones / Pipe bombs

I, H.A.S.R. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers near the military watchtower in our camp. It was around 9:00 p.m. and I happened to be in the area. Soldiers were chasing boys who were throwing stones and I was watching.
2. Suddenly, about 15 soldiers ran towards me and started to beat me. I was hit on the head by one of the soldiers and I was in severe pain. He swore at me and called me “a son of a whore”
3. One of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. He also blindfolded me before leading me towards the military watchtower at Rachel’s Tomb. I was left outside the watchtower for about an hour before being taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
4. The jeep took me to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, for interrogation. At Atarot I was left outside in the cold for about an hour and then I was taken into the interrogation room. By then it was around 11:30 p.m.
5. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and shackled my feet. He told me my file was ready. Then he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent. He also told me I had the right for one of my parents to attend my interrogation. Then he asked me if I wanted a lawyer and I told him it was up to him. He then told me in that case there was no need for a lawyer. He also did not call my parents to attend the interrogation.
6. Then he accused me of throwing stones and pipe bombs at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He then showed me video footage of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation again. Then he placed his pistol on the table in front of him in a threatening gesture and told me if I did not confess he was going to place a knife next to me and accuse me of attempting to stab. When I told him I was not going to confess to something I did not do he told me there was no need for me to confess because he had all the evidence he needed to convict me. He questioned me for about 10 minutes and then he showed me documents in Hebrew and then he translated them for me and asked me to sign them and I did.
7. After the interrogation the interrogator called my father and told him I was detained. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and then taken to section 13. The following day I had a military court hearing which my parents did not know about. My lawyer was there and the military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned.

8. I had about 10 military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months valid for two years. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and I did. He told me if I rejected it I would be sentenced to a longer time in prison.
9. I spent two months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison inside Israel where the conditions were worse. There were protests against the prison authorities and I was moved to a cell by myself as punishment for taking part in the protests. I was left in the cell for two days. The cell had one small window near the ceiling and was hardly long enough for me to stretch my legs while sleeping. I then joined the other detainees and we all went on hunger strike for three days. I refused to eat anything but I drank water.
10. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 12 February 2020. My parents did not know I was going to be released on that day. I called my father and told him to come and pick me up. I waited for him at Al Jalama and we both went home together. We arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. In prison I exercised and I helped with the cleaning. My family visited me twice.

I, M.A.S.B. of Al 'Azza, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I had just come home from night shift working at a hotel when Israeli soldiers blew off our front door. It was around 2:00 a.m. About 30 soldiers entered our home. The soldiers sat me and my brother down in the living room while they searched our house. Then they asked me for my name and then told me I was under arrest.
2. A soldier tied my hands to the front in front of my family. The commander told my father he wanted to take me for two days for questioning and would then bring me back. He did not give my family any documents. Then the soldiers took me outside and re-tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic tie which was tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for days. Then a soldier blindfolded me and made me kneel on the ground outside the house for about 15 minutes while the soldiers continued to search the house. They also brought service dogs into the house.
3. Then the soldiers led me away on foot for about 10 minutes to Rachel's Tomb. At Rachel's Tomb I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. There was also another detainee in the jeep.
4. On the way the soldiers slapped and kicked me. I was taken for interrogation at a place called Oz. I was first put in a caged area where I was left for about two hours. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator did not tell me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and did not say anything about my right to remain silent. He told me if I did not speak he was going to arrest all my family. Then he asked me whether I threw stones at soldiers. I told him I did not. He swore at me and called me "a son of a whore" and he cursed god. Then he pulled out a voice recorder and placed it on the table in front of him.
6. The interrogator named a boy and asked me if I was friends with him. I denied knowing that person. He questioned me for about an hour and then he took me to a cell without windows. There was a metal bench in the cell and I was left there for three days. I was interrogated multiple times during the three days. I could not sleep or eat the disgusting food they brought me. I thought of my family the whole time and wondered whether they knew where I was. I could not tell day from night.

7. I was interrogated many times over the period of three days. The questioning was about that one boy. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
8. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and sister were in court. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned.
9. I had four military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months valid for three years.
10. I spent one month at Ofer prison and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. The conditions there were terrible, crawling insects and lousy food. We were punished for protesting and I was beaten on my head with a baton. I was denied phone calls with my family as punishment and I went on hunger strike with the other prisoners. A whole month was terrible and I barely slept.
11. I was released on 19 February 2020, and I went home with my family and some friends. I arrived home in the evening.

Accusation: Protesting

I, R.I.Y.F. of Deir Abu Misha'al, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when Israeli soldiers started banging at our front door and woke me up. It was around 2:00 a.m. My father opened the door and six soldiers entered our home. They wanted to check our identity cards and the commander asked me for my name.
2. The commander then showed me photos on his mobile phone of clashes with soldiers in our village. He asked me whether I was in any of the photos and I told him I was not. The soldiers then checked my wardrobe for particular clothes and then I was told I was under arrest. The soldiers did not give us any documents.
3. Once outside the soldiers tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They also blindfolded me before taking me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat.
4. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was taken to a shipping container. A female military doctor examined me and asked me whether I took any medication. She removed the blindfold during the examination. I was left in the container until around noon and then I was taken to a police station near the village of Ni'lin.
5. At the police station I was left in an open area and a soldier was beside me the whole time. In the afternoon I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold and told me I was not supposed to give a confession under duress and that I had the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told not to worry and to stick to my position. The interrogator left the room during the phone call which lasted for about two minutes.
7. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and asked me whether I threw stones at soldiers. I told him I did not. Then he pulled out the T-Shirt and the boots they took from my bedroom and told me he had the evidence. Still, I denied the accusation. Then he told me I took part in clashes with soldiers in the village on 15 September 2019. The interrogator was clam and told me he was going to send me to Ofer prison. He also told me he was going to bring me back for another interrogation if I did not confess then and told me it was better for me to confess rather than be brought back to the police station.

8. I was interrogated for about an hour. In the end he asked me to sign on my statement which was written in Arabic and I signed it after I read it. Then I was taken back to the military base where the soldiers picked up another detainee and then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
9. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. A lawyer was there and the court extended my detention.
10. I had about 15 military court hearings. During this time I was interrogated three times. I was not informed of my rights and did not speak to any lawyers. I was questioned about the same thing for about 30 minutes each time and I continued to deny the accusation.
11. At my last hearing, which was on 25 March 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of six months valid for three years. This was based on photographic identification. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and told me the prison sentence would be longer if I rejected it. I also accepted it because it meant I would be released soon.
12. I spent my whole prison sentence at Ofer prison. My parents did not visit me because they were not issued a visiting permit in time. Then all family visits were banned because of the Corina Virus.
13. I was supposed to be granted early release but the court that decides on early releases was not functioning. Instead, I was released on 8 April 2020. I were dropped off near a Palestinian checkpoint and a Palestinian ambulance took me to a hotel in Ramallah where I had to self-quarantine. I spent a few days at the hotel and then I was allowed to self-quarantine in a separate room at home.

Name: U.A.A.S.
Age: 17
Date: 11 December 2019
Location: Aida refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, U.A.A.S. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. to the voices of soldiers in my bedroom. I looked up and saw four Israeli soldiers in the room. One of them told me to get up and the others started to search my room without telling me what they were looking for. Then the commander told me I was under arrest suspected of throwing stones at soldiers. They did not give my family any documents and did not tell us where they were taking me.
2. About half-an-hour later a soldier tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic tie which was painful. Then they took me outside where I was blindfolded. I was then led on foot to the nearby military base at Rachel's Tomb. We walked through the cemetery and made strange sounds to scare me and swore at me in Hebrew.
3. I was left at Rachel's Tomb for about an hour and then I was taken in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. I was taken to an interrogation centre in the outskirts of Jerusalem.
4. I waited a short while and while I was waiting the Area Commander came and spoke to me. He told me to confess; otherwise he was going to taser me. He said the electricity from the taser would make me confess effortlessly. He did not inform me of any rights. Then I was taken to the interrogation room.
5. The interrogator told me if I behaved myself and told him everything there was to say he would remove the tie and the blindfold. Then he told me I had the right to speak to a lawyer and I had the choice of either remaining silent or defending myself. I told him I wanted to see a lawyer, not only speak to one. Then he phoned a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me to say everything I thought I had to say. The conversation lasted for a few seconds during which time the interrogator left the room.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and told me he had photographic evidence against me but he never showed me any photographs. Then he told me someone had confessed against me but did not tell me who. He questioned me for about an hour and removed the tie and the blindfold about half way through the interrogation. Then when I denied the accusation he put them back on for a while.
7. At the end of the interrogation he showed me a document written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign it but I refused to sign something I did not understand. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to section 13.

8. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court and the prosecutor asked for my detention to be extended for more interrogation. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to prison.
9. Two days later I was taken for another interrogation. The same interrogator questioned me and accused me of the same thing. At the beginning he informed me of my rights and phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me if there is no evidence against me I should not worry and I should stick to my line and not confess.
10. The interrogator repeated the accusation and told me all my friends had confessed against me. He got upset and raised his voice at me when I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and showed me documents in Hebrew to sign but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison.
11. I had multiple interrogations. During the last two interrogations I was not informed of my rights. They interrogators repeated the same accusation and I continued to deny them. During the same period of time I had many military court hearings.
12. At the last military court hearing, which was a week before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to a fine of NIS 8,000 and the two months I had already spent in prison. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I would go home in a week.
13. I spent the whole time in Ofer prison. I was released on 3 February 2020 and I went home with my brother and father. We arrived home after midnight. I did not have any family visits while I was in prison because the permit was not issued in time.

Age: 14
Date: 15 December 2019
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Protesting

I, K.M.A.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up and told me Israeli soldiers were trying to break open our front door. It was around 2:30 a.m. My father rushed and opened the door and about 40 soldiers entered our home. I stood and watched in shock.
2. The commander showed my father some photographs and then checked our identity cards. Then they searched the house and broke some cupboards. My mother started to shout at the soldiers. They broke the washing machine and the refrigerator and told us they were looking for a yellow T-shirt. They started to smash and break things when they did not find the T-shirt they were looking for.
3. The soldiers remained in our house for about one-and-a-half hours. We were all terrified especially my younger brother who was 2-years-old.
4. After searching our house the commander told my parents I was under arrest because they wanted to question me about stone throwing. He gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with information about my arrest and he made my father sign it.
5. My mother helped me put on some warm clothes but the commander did not give me enough time to say goodbye to everyone. He was in a hurry. He swore at my mother and yelled at her when she tried to record the raid on her mobile phone. Then the commander grabbed me and took me outside and pushed my mother back into the house.
6. Outside the house a soldier handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were painful. I was also blindfolded before being taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. I was taken to a military base near Beit Jala where I was left in a shipping container.
7. While waiting in the shipping container a doctor came and removed the handcuffs and the blindfold and took my blood pressure and asked me some questions about my health. He handcuffed and blindfolded again as before.
8. At around 9:30 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation. At Etzion I waited outside in the cold weather until around around 10:00 a.m. when I was taken to an interrogation room.
9. The interrogator kept me blindfolded and replaced the handcuffs behind my back. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. He put him on speaker phone and remained in the room and listened to the conversation which lasted for about a minute or so. The lawyer told me to deny the accusations and not to recognise any photographs if they are presented to me. He did not inform me of my right to silence. Then the interrogator took away the telephone and turned it off.

10. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator asked me to apologise and promise not to do anything wrong again. I told him I had no idea what he was talking about and asked him what exactly he wanted me to apologise for. Then he pulled down the blindfold and showed me a photograph of boys clashing with soldiers and told me it was a photograph of me. When I denied it was me he slapped me on the head. He then blindfolded me again and kept slapping me. The interrogator had a voice recorder on his table and he wore civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side.
11. Then the interrogator asked me for my father's phone number. He called my father and asked him to come to the police station. Within a short period of time my father arrived and the interrogator allowed him into the interrogation room. Then another interrogator came in and started to interrogate me in front of my father.
12. The second interrogator asked my father whether he preferred to have his work permit or his children and my father said he needed his work permit. Then the first interrogator came into the room and told the second interrogator I had spoken to a lawyer. The second interrogator did not inform me of my right to remain silent. Then he showed my father some photographs and asked him whether he recognised me in the photographs. My father said he did not. This lasted for a few minutes. Then the interrogator removed the blindfold and told my father to leave the room.
13. Then the interrogator told me my father had denied it was me in the photographs and asked me whether I was going to deny it too. I denied it was me. A few minutes later I was taken to another room where they took my photograph and my fingerprints. Then I was taken to a cell where I was searched in my boxer shorts.
14. Later that night I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and then I was taken to section 13.
15. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed about the hearing and so they did not attend. In court I was told my father had to pay NIS 1,000 in order for me to be released that day. I was also told that if I am found at the military checkpoint near my home I would spend one month in prison without question.
16. I was released on 18 December 2019, after the military court hearing. I went home with a young man my father had sent to meet me. I arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.M.Q. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There was very loud banging at our front door at around 3:00 a.m. which woke me up. My father answered the door and about 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home. They asked to check our ID cards.
2. After checking our ID cards the commander gave my father a document telling him to bring my 12-year-old brother to the police station later that morning. He told my father he had photographic evidence of my brother throwing stones. Then he told my father he wanted to arrest me for questioning about throwing stones. Then he took a photograph of me and my brother.
3. My sister brought me some clothes and I got dressed. Then a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. Then they took me outside and walked me towards a troop carrier where they made me sit on the metal floor. Then they blindfolded me.
4. Inside the troop carrier a soldier hit me with his gun on my leg. He swore at me and called me a “brother of a whore”. Then I was taken somewhere where I was given a medical examination.
5. The person who examined me removed the blindfold but kept me tied. After he was finished he put the blindfold back on. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left outside in the cold for about four hours.
6. After about four hours I was taken to a room for interrogation. The room did not have any windows and was dark. After a few more hours of waiting I asked to use the toilet and was allowed to. Then I was interrogated.
7. The interrogator handed me a phone and told me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me to take care of myself but did not inform me of my rights. The conversation lasted for 15 seconds. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. When I denied it he slapped me hard on the face and punched me in the forehead. Then he showed me some pictures and told me to confess to throwing stones. He did not inform me of my right to silence. Then he showed me more pictures and wanted me to give him names. I told him I did not know any of the boys in the pictures.

8. Later the interrogator accused me of throwing stones during clashes on the 27 October 2019, and showed me a photograph. He told me he got the photograph from an informant. At first I denied the accusation but when he punched me again I confessed to throwing two stones from a distance of 50 meters which missed. He questioned me for about two hours. He did not show me any documents to sign.
9. Then I was questioned by another interrogator who was in Israeli police uniform. He told me to repeat what I had told the first interrogator and I did. He did not inform me of my right to consult with a lawyer and in the end he told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he showed me a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign. I signed it after I read and found out it was identical to what I had said. Then I was taken to a cell where I was searched in my boxer shorts.
10. The following day, at around noon, I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My parents were not there because they were not informed. The hearing was adjourned. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
11. I had three military court hearings and at the last one I accepted a plea bargain because the military judge told me I could go home if I did. I was sentenced to one month in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence of four months valid for three years.
12. I was released 14 days early on 8 January 2020. Soldiers dropped me off at Al-Jib checkpoint. A young man gave me his phone and I called my father who picked me up an hour later. I arrived home in the evening.

I, R.A.M.Q. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 3:00 a.m. and gave my father a summons to take me to the police station later that day for questioning. They also arrested my older brother and took him away. After the soldiers left I could not go back to sleep because I was scared.
2. Later that morning I went to school because I had an English language exam. I did not do well in my exam because I was stressed and did not have enough sleep the night before.
3. After the exam my father and I went to the police station in Etzion settlement as ordered. We waited outside the police station for about two hours before a soldier took my father inside. About three hours later they released my father and we both went home.
4. My father told me the interrogator told him how powerful the State of Israel was. He told him they are capable of assassinating people in Syria, Iraq and Yemen. Then he told him he knew everything there was to know about Al 'Arrub as if it was his own home. Then he showed my father photographs of me standing on the side of the road during clashes with soldiers. Then he told him I was throwing stones at soldiers. My father denied it.
5. Then the interrogator told my father he had come to arrest me but then he realised I was too young. He warned my father any wrong behavior by me would make him come and arrest me.
6. This incident scared me and I worry that they might come and arrest me at any time.

I, B.Y.M.H. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My cousin, who lives downstairs, woke us up at around 2:30 a.m. and told us Israeli soldiers were in the neighbourhood asking for me. Shortly afterwards I heard loud banging at our front door.
2. About 10 soldiers entered our apartment with more outside. The commander told my father they wanted to take me for questioning. They did not give my parents any documents.
3. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. They were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to a troop carrier which drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I sat on a seat on the way.
4. On arrival at the police station I was left in a shipping container from around 4:00 a.m. until around 9:00 a.m. During this time I was given a medical examination. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator asked me how I was and then accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation and told him I had no time for such things as I worked at a bakery. The interrogator did not inform me of any rights in the beginning.
6. About half-way through the interrogation the interrogator handed me a telephone and told me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me to take care of myself and not to be scared. He also told me not to speak and whatever the interrogator says I should remain silent. The conversation lasted for about two minutes.
7. Then the interrogator continued to question me, but this time he was very aggressive. He pulled his gun out and placed it on the table in front of him. Then he showed me some photographs of clashes. He moved his gun on the table and asked me whether I was going to confess or not. He raised his voice and asked me the same question again. I told him I had nothing to confess to. He swore at me and cursed my father and mother.
8. Eventually I confessed to throwing one stone at a military jeep from a distance of 50 meters which missed. After I confessed the interrogator showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign something I did not understand.

9. Then I was questioned by another interrogator who asked me to say either yes or no. He did not inform me of my rights. He too showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. He questioned me for about an hour and was calm and gave me water to drink.
10. After the second interrogation I was taken to a cell where I was searched in my boxer shorts. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem.
11. My parents did not attend the first hearing in the military court because they were not informed that it was taking place. The military judge refused to release me on bail and the hearing was adjourned.
12. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked.
13. In all I had three military court hearings. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence. I accepted the plea bargain because my sentence was reduced from three to one month and the fine was reduced from NIS 5,000.
14. I was given early release and was released on 14 January 2020. I did not have any family visits in prison because the permit to visit takes at least two months to be issued. When I got home my father told me his work permit had been revoked on the day I was arrested. This caused additional stress in the family.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.I.M.I. from Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers stopped my uncle who was driving on the main road and checked his identity card. It was around 6:00 p.m. Then they told him they were looking for me. My uncle phoned me and I went to see what they wanted.
2. The soldiers kept me and my uncle on the side of the road for about two hours. Then a soldier told me they had photographic evidence of me throwing stones. I denied the accusation.
3. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with a single plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then he blindfolded me and took me to the back of a military vehicle and made me sit on the metal floor.
4. The soldiers inside the vehicle kicked and slapped me the whole way. They stepped on my fingers and slapped me on the face and swore at me calling me “a son of a whore”. I was taken to the police station in the settlement of Bitar Illit. At the settlement I waited in an open area for about 30 minutes before being taken inside for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He warned me any wrong move by me and he would “send me to the hospital.” I understood this to mean that he would beat me severely. Then he gave me a document about my right to silence which also said he was not allowed to beat me. It also said I had the right to consult with a lawyer. The interrogator made me sign it although I did not consult with a lawyer.
6. Then he showed me a photo of clashes with soldiers and pointed to a boy who was throwing stones and told me it was me. When I denied the allegation he started to shout and told me if I gave him troubles he was going to beat me. He interrogated me for about an hour and I continued to deny the accusation. Then he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was searched in my boxer shorts and taken to a cell where I spent the night.
8. The following day, at around noon, I was shackled and taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was left in a small room by myself. The room did not have any windows or lights and was about 1.5 meters x 1.5 meters. The room was cold and empty apart from a stone bench. I was left there for about nine hours. During this time I was allowed to go to the toilet once while tied and shackled. Then I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to Section 13.

9. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not in court because they were not informed of the hearing. The hearing was adjourned.
10. In all I had about five military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 22 January 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 31 days in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 14 days suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I would be released the following day.
11. I was released on 23 January 2020 and I went home with my family. We arrived home in the evening.

Name: I.A.M.K.
Age: 17
Date: 2 January 2020
Location: Hizma, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, I.A.M.K. of Hizma, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I finished the night shift at the restaurant where I worked at around 3:30 a.m. and went home. Shortly after I got home a large group of Israeli soldiers surrounded the neighbourhood and then I heard loud banging at our front door. My mother ran to open the door before the soldiers could break it and about 30 soldiers entered our home. They were all wearing masks on their faces and they looked scary. More soldiers were outside.
2. The commander pointed at me but did not say anything. Then another soldier started to drag me out of our house. My father shouted at him and told him to allow me to dress and then the commander started to count to 10, giving me just enough time to put a jacket on. They barely spent a few minutes in our house before taking me away. They did not give us any reasons or provide any documentation.
3. Once outside a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties tied together in a chain. They were very tight and cut into my wrists and caused me a lot of pain. The mark where they cut into my wrists lasted for a month. He also blindfolded me and pushed me to walk very fast although it was very difficult. They kicked me on my legs and swore at me. On the way I tripped and fell to the ground and the soldiers jumped on top of me thinking I was going to do something wrong.
4. We then arrived at a troop carrier that was waiting. I was put in the troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. The carrier drove a short distance and then stopped and I was told I could sit on a seat and a soldier fastened a seat belt around me. On the way the soldiers were making fun of me and someone slapped me on the head.
5. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left, tied and blindfolded, from around 4:00 a.m. until around 9:00 a.m. I was left in a room and I was surrounded by soldiers. I tried to rest my head on the table to sleep but soldiers woke me up to prevent me from sleeping. Then at around 9:00 a.m. the plastic ties were replaced with metal handcuffs. My ankles were also shackled and a soldier connected the shackles to the handcuffs. I was very uncomfortable. Then I was taken to the interrogation room.
6. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator removed the blindfold but kept the handcuffs and the shackles on. Then he accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. He told me six boys from my village had testified against me. I denied the accusation. About 10 minutes into the interrogation the interrogator told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer and put him on speaker phone and allowed me to talk to him. The lawyer told me the interrogation was a normal procedure and that I had the right to remain silent. I barely spoke for 45 seconds before the interrogator turned the phone off.

7. Then the interrogator told me I could shut up and not speak or I could speak and the two of us could have a conversation and reach an agreement. He told me the choice was mine. I thought about remaining silent but then I was curious to know what evidence the interrogator had against me so I decided not to remain silent.
8. The interrogator was sometimes calm and other time he was aggressive. When he yelled at me I raised my voice back at him and I threatened to file a law suit against the soldiers who beat me. He shouted back at me and accused me of endangering the lives of children and innocent people and the soldiers were just doing their job.
9. He questioned me nonstop from around 9:00 a.m. until around 1:30 p.m. He threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time where I would learn harsh lessons and waste the best years of my life. At the end of the interrogation he wanted me to sign documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. Then he signed instead. Then they took my photograph, fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth. I asked for some water and food but a soldier told me to wait until later.
10. I was then re-blindfolded and taken to a military jeep which took me to Al Ram military base. I was put in a shipping container and I asked again for some food and water but I was not given any.
11. At around 3:30 p.m. I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed. I did not understand much of what went on but the military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned.
12. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken to section 19. A few days later I was taken for another court hearing but I was never taken into the court room. I waited from around 8:30 a.m. until around 4:00 p.m. and then I was taken back to prison. I had fever and felt sick.
13. The following day I was taken back to the military court. My mother was there and she noticed I was not feeling well and she was worried. My detention was extended once again for more interrogation. The following day I was taken back to Binyamin police station for another interrogation.
14. There were two interrogators in the room. One of them told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to speak to a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer tried to reassure me and told me not to worry because they won't beat me. I spoke to him for a few seconds and the interrogators were listening. I again decided not to remain silent.

15. The two interrogators played two different roles: one was calm and polite and the other was aggressive and threatening. He swore at me and raised his voice many times. Half way through the interrogation the calm interrogator told me he did not think I liked him and therefore he was leaving. He told me the other interrogator would take care of me. They questioned me for about three hours and accused me of the same accusations which I denied. Then one of them showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
16. I had six military court hearings which my parents attended. At the last one, which was on 11 March 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 11 months in prison and a fine of NIS 3,000. I was also given another one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because the military judge encouraged me to. He told me if he saw me again in his court room he was going to give me 24 months in prison at least.
17. I spent about two months in Ofer prison but when I turned 18 I was transferred to a prison inside Israel. I had three family visits and I called my parents once a month. I was released at Al Thahriyeh checkpoint on 10 November 2020 and I went home with my parents. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Name: A.K.I.Q.
Age: 17
Date: 6 January 2020
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, A.K.I.Q. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. One week before I was arrested the area commander phoned me at around noon and told me he wanted to see me. I was in Bethlehem and I told him if he wanted to see me should come and see me at home.
2. One week later I was asleep at home when I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. It was 1:30 a.m. My father answered and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. More soldiers remained outside. The soldiers immediately started to search our house and told us they were looking for weapons. They broke our furniture and doors. When they left my mother realised that NIS 800 was also missing.
3. Inside the house the commander patted me on the shoulder and told me he wanted to arrest me. Then the soldiers pushed my parents and siblings into one room and took me into my bedroom where the commander questioned me. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers, weapon possession and membership of a banned organization. He questioned me without informing me of my rights.
4. The soldiers remained in our house for about an hour. Then, without giving my parents any documents, they took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with four plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and when I asked to loosen them they did not respond. They also shackled my feet and blindfolded me.
5. Outside the house four soldiers started to beat and kick all over my body telling me to hand over the weapons. They beat me so hard that I felt I had to cooperate. Then they walked me towards a nearby hill where they claimed I had hidden some weapons. I handed over a piece and told them it was not mine.
6. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Soldiers kicked me on my legs and called me "a son of a whore". Then I was taken to Etzion police station where I sat in a shipping container until 6:00 a.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold and asked me why I had thrown a Molotov cocktail at soldiers in the village. Then he looked at my file from a previous imprisonment and accused me of manufacturing weapons and of firing guns. He also accused me of membership in a banned organization. When I denied the accusations, he changed his tone and started to be more aggressive. He threatened to bring my family to the police station and cancel all their work permits. Then he threatened to put me in administrative detention if I did not confess.

8. He questioned me for about four hours and showed me photos and told me other boys had confessed against me. About half way through the interrogation he allowed me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me I had the choice not to answer questions. I barely spoke for a few seconds before the interrogator took the telephone away. The interrogator questioned me without informing me of my right to remain silent.
9. I continued to deny the accusations but I confessed to handing over a piece of a weapon that did not belong to me. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign something written in a language I did not understand.
10. After the interrogation I was strip searched and then taken to a cell where I spent six days. During this time I had a military court hearing. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 19.
11. I spent 31 days at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. When I turned 18 I was transferred to Megiddo prison, also in Israel. During my time at Ofer I was taken to Petah Tikva for another interrogation by an intelligence officer.
12. The interrogator was aggressive. He did not inform me of my right to silence and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He repeated the same accusations and when I denied them he beat me on my legs. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and wanted me to sign documents in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
13. I had about 17 military court hearings. My parents attended most of them. At the last one, which was on 19 July 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 13 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 18 months suspended for five years. I was told if I did not accept the plea bargain I would be sentenced to four years in prison, so I accepted it.
14. I had two family visits during my time in prison. I also spoke to them on the telephone provided by the prison authorities three times a week for about 15 minutes each time. In prison I learned how to cut hair and I liked it. I also attended some classes in Arabic and mathematics.
15. I was released unexpectedly on 10 January 2021. I took a taxi to my Aunt's house in Tulkarem and my father picked me up from her place the following day.

Name: M.Y.M.L.
Age: 16
Date: 6 January 2020
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.Y.M.L. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when Israeli soldiers banged at our front door. It was at around 3:30 a.m. My father opened the door and about 15 masked soldiers entered our home. The commander approached me and told me to hand over the weapons in my possession. I told him I did not have any weapons.
2. Then the commander gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. Then I was taken outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were so tight that my wrists bled. He also blindfolded me. I was then taken to a troop carrier and made to sit on the metal floor.
3. Inside the troop carrier the soldiers kicked and slapped me, spat at me and called me "a son of a whore". I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a room by myself until around 11:30 a.m. During this time soldiers slapped me and a doctor gave me a quick medical examination. Then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. He handed me a phone and told me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to confess and that I had the right to remain silent. The conversation was short, probably less than a minute, and the interrogator was listening.
5. Then the interrogator accused me of shooting and throwing a Molotov cocktail. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me the incident happened either in November or December 2019. When I denied the accusation, the interrogator yelled at me and told me to confess. He pushed the chair I was sitting on and I fell to the ground.
6. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me. Then I asked him if I could go to the toilet and he allowed me. On the way I saw my friends and they told me they had not been interrogated yet and I realised the interrogator was lying to me.
7. When I returned from the toilet the interrogator threatened to arrest my brothers and told me he had photographic evidence against me. Still, I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and at the end I confessed to throwing Molotov cocktail at soldiers. Then he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did.
8. After the interrogation I was fingerprinted and then I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell where I spent three days with other boys. The following day I was taken for another interrogation. Before questioning me, the interrogator told me to remain silent while he spoke. He accused me of the same accusations. After the interrogation was over two lawyers came and took a testimony from me. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and taken to section 19.

9. The following day I had a military court hearing which my grandfather and mother attended. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. The following day I was told I had another hearing but it turned out I had another interrogation.
10. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of the same accusations and told me he just wanted to confirm them. Again, I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail. He was calm and questioned me for about 30 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in both Arabic and Hebrew and I signed. Then I was taken back to prison.
11. I had about 15 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 21 July 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I would receive a harsher sentence if I rejected it.
12. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer and I had four family visits. I was also able to call my family from a pay phone provided by the prison authority on average twice a month. In prison I exercised and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics.
13. I was released at Ofer checkpoint on 7 February 2021, and I went home with another family. I arrived home at around 6:30 p.m.

Name: M.M.A.B.
Age: 16
Date: 7 January 2020
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.A.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was getting ready to go to bed at around 2:00 a.m. when my brother came to my room and told me Israeli soldiers were in our house asking for me. There were around 15 soldiers in our home with more outside. I went to the living room where the soldiers were talking to my father and asking him about me.
2. The commander then approached me with a shirt he had picked out of our laundry basket and claimed I was spotted throwing stones at Route 60 wearing the shirt. The soldiers then searched the house. They broke doors and wardrobes and turned our furniture upside down. They also brought in three service dogs and allowed them to sniff around the house. The commander told me the dogs had detected traces of gunpowder on me. The soldiers also went up to the roof and slit our water tanks and destroyed them. They did not find anything.
3. Then, without giving my parents any documents, they took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties which were very tight and painful. They also blindfolded me and pushed me into the back of a jeep and threw me on the metal floor banging my head against the back door. Inside the jeep soldiers slapped me on the face and kicked me in my stomach. They swore at me and called my parents "whores". They also beat me with the back of their guns. The jeep drove to the gate at the entrance to the camp and then drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He asked me how I was and told me I had to confess. Without informing me of my rights he accused me of weapon possession and throwing stones at Route 60. I denied the accusations. Then he showed me some photographs of clashes with soldiers and named some boys from the camp and told me I had to confess that they were taking part in the clashes with me. When I told him I did not know the boys he swore at me and slapped me on my face.
5. He repeated the accusations many times and each time I denied the accusation or refused to confess against the other boys he slapped me and swore at me. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and at the end I confessed to throwing one stone. I confessed because I could no longer take the slapping and I wanted the whole thing to end. After I confessed the interrogator showed me a document written in Hebrew and claimed it was my testimony and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign a document I did not understand.

6. Then I was taken to another room where they took my photograph and fingerprints. Then I was taken to a cell at Etzion where I was strip searched and left in the cell overnight. In the morning I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.
7. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend because they were not informed about the hearing. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. I had nine military court hearings; some of which were conducted by video link due to the Corina virus regulations. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison, fined NIS 2,000 and given a suspended sentence valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor wanted a longer prison sentence and the plea bargain brought it down to six months.
8. I spent three months in Ofer prison and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. In prison I exercised to keep fit and to pass the time. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 7 July 2020, and I went home with my father and brother. I arrived home in the afternoon.

Age: 16
Date: 12 January 2020
Location: Hizma, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, L.A.S.S. of Hizma, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. to the sound of soldiers banging at our front door. My father answered and nine soldiers entered our home. We were all terrified especially my younger sister, who is six-years-old. More soldiers were outside surrounding the house.
2. The commander told my father he wanted to arrest me. He told my father to hand me over respectfully otherwise he was going to “smash up the house”. When my father told the commander I was upstairs in my bedroom, the commander and three soldiers came upstairs into my bedroom. A soldier handcuffed me with metal handcuffs behind my back while my parents and siblings watched. The handcuffs were very tight and caused me pain.
3. The commander told my father he wanted to take me for four days for questioning and then would bring me back. He did not give my parents any documents. Then I was taken outside and a soldier pulled down my hat and covered my eyes before pushing me into the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor between the soldiers’ legs.
4. The jeep drove a short distance to the entrance of the village and then the commander asked me for my identity card and mobile phone. He yelled at me when I told him they were at home and a soldier slapped me hard. The jeep turned around and went back to the house and the commander took my identity card and telephone. Then I was taken to a nearby military base.
5. At the base I was taken to a room and someone brought me a glass of water. I sat on a chair and I was left there until the morning. I could not sleep at all because the soldiers made noises to prevent me from sleeping. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement for interrogation. At the police station I waited for about 15 minutes and then I was taken to the interrogation room.
6. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to speak and not to confess even if they showed me evidence. The interrogator left the room during the conversation which lasted less than two minutes before the line was cut off.
7. Then, without informing me of my right to remain silent, the interrogator told me there were confessions against me by other boys and that I had to confess. I told him I had not done anything wrong and challenged him to show me the evidence. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers in the village and of manufacturing a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation.

8. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. During this time he left the room and came back multiple times. Then he asked to take my photograph and fingerprints but I refused and he became furious. Then he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
9. After the interrogation was over I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched. I was told to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to section 19. By then it was around 5:00 p.m. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My father and my lawyer attended. The lawyer asked to adjourn the hearing to allow him time to study my file.
10. I had about seven military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. They also made my family deposit an extra NIS 5,000 which they said would keep if I am arrested again for whatever reason during the next five years.
11. I accepted the plea bargain because the conditions in Ofer prison were terrible. Because of the Corona Virus we were not allowed to leave our cells except once a day instead of as many times as we wanted every half-an-hour. We were not allowed to buy from the canteen except once a day and we could not exercise. I spent most of my time reading and praying. I had no family visits and no phone calls.
12. I was released on 8 April 2020, and I went home with my cousin and father. I arrived home at around noon.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.M.T.D. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 2:00 a.m. I was asleep and woke up to the sound of soldiers banging at our front door. Then I heard a loud explosion and we all gathered in the middle room. About 10 soldiers stormed into our home after blowing up the front door. The soldiers wore masks and looked scary.
2. The soldiers took my father aside into another room and questioned him there. Then two soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then the commander gave my father an arrest document with some details scribbled in Hebrew. Then, without telling me or my parents why they were arresting me the soldiers took me outside where they blindfolded me.
3. Once outside I was taken to a troop carrier that was waiting outside and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the vehicle a soldier slapped me on the face without any reason. I was in shock as I was blindfolded and not expecting it. Then they took me to the police station in Etzion settlement.
4. On arrival at Etzion I was strip searched and taken to a cell where the ties and the blindfold were removed. My hands were blue and swollen. At around 7:00 a.m. I was handcuffed and shackled and taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and that everything was going to be all right. The conversation lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator was listening. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. Instead, he told me I had to answer all his questions.
6. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at a group of soldiers sometime in December 2019. I denied the accusation. Then he told me he had video footage of the incident and then showed me some photographs but they were not clear and did not incriminate me. When I denied the accusation, the interrogator shouted at me and told me I had to confess. He repeated the accusation many times but I continued to deny it. He questioned me for about 40 minutes.

7. I spent six days at Etzion. During this time, I had one military court hearing. My parents were not informed and so they did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I also had two more interrogations.
8. Each time I was interrogated I was allowed to speak to a lawyer prior to the interrogation. The lawyer told me if I did not confess I would have a reduced sentence. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and urged me to answer his questions. When I nodded in response to a question he yelled at me and told me to answer his question in a clear loud voice. During the last interrogation the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and he translated it for me and asked me to sign it and I did.
9. After interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. While at Ofer I had four more interrogations, this time by an intelligence office. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He wanted me to give confessions against my friends. He questioned me for about 20 minutes each time and did not ask me to sign any documents.
10. During my time in prison I had about 15 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 20 May 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because a friend of mine rejected a plea bargain he was offered and got two years in prison.
11. I spent one month at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. The conditions there were very harsh and I got beaten up when I protested and went on hunger strike because I wanted to go back to Ofer. In prison I had two family visits only. The family visits were suspended because of the Corona virus. But I was allowed to call my parents on average three times a week from a monitored phone provided by the prison authorities. In prison I read a lot and I worked in the kitchen; I cooked meals for the prisoners.
12. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 13 February 2021, and I went home with my father and uncle and two of my friends. I arrived home in the evening.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.I.M.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of a loud explosion at our front door. I then heard the sound of banging and smashing of windows. My father went to see who it was and he found lots of Israeli soldiers inside our house. They had blown open our front door. We were all terrified especially my younger brothers. About 10 soldiers, some wearing masks, were inside our home with many more outside.
2. Three soldiers came to my bedroom and dragged me to the living room where they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties. They tightened them hard and I was in severe pain. I lost sensation in my hands and I was scared that it would be irreversible. I remained tied for one whole day. Then the soldiers blindfolded me and took me outside without any explanation. They did not allow me to say good bye to my parents and did not give us any documents.
3. Outside the house some soldiers beat me all over my body and swore at me. When I swore back at them they beat me harder. Then I was taken to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor before being taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. On arrival at Etzion I was taken to a shipping container and given a medical examination. At around 11:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He wore civilian clothes and was overweight. As soon as I entered the room he accused me of causing trouble and throwing a Molotov cocktail at the gate of Migdal Oz settlement near my village. I denied the accusation. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and showed me video footage. I continued to deny the accusation.
5. The interrogator then threatened to revoke my father's permit and to summon my brothers to the police station if I did not confess. He thumped the table aggressively to pressure me to confess but I did not. About half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to speak. The interrogator was not listening to the conversation which lasted about 30 seconds. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He did show me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
6. I was interrogated five more times before I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. Each interrogation lasted for about an hour and I was not informed of my rights nor was I allowed to speak to a lawyer again. I also refused to sign documents written in Hebrew. I arrived at Ofer at around midnight. I was searched with my clothes on before being taken to section 13.

7. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. My lawyer told me the prosecutor presented a secret file against me but this was later dismissed. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. After the court hearing I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched and left there for about four hours. Then I was taken back to Ofer where I was searched again with my clothes on.
8. Two days later I was taken to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement for another interrogation. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer before he started to interrogate me. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to confess and to remain silent. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was not listening. Then the interrogator started to question me without informing me of my right to silence.
9. The interrogator made the same accusation. When I denied the accusation, he raised his voice at me and told me I had to confess but I did not. He questioned me for about an hour and did not ask me to sign any documents. Then I was taken back to Ofer.
10. A few days later I was taken for another interrogation at Kiryat Arba. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not arrange for me to speak to a lawyer. He was aggressive and questioned me for about 30 minutes. At the end I was tired and I confessed to throwing two stones which missed. I thought it was in my interest to confess to a minor offence like throwing stones without hitting the target rather than be convicted of a more serious offence. At the end the interrogator showed me a document written in Arabic and asked me to sign it and I did because it was identical to what I had told him. Then I was taken back to Ofer.
11. The following day I was taken for another interrogation, this time by an intelligence officer. He did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He questioned me for about 15 minutes and showed me video footage of clashes with soldiers. He wanted to know who my friends were. He did not ask me to sign any documents and after the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
12. I had about 20 military court hearings, mostly via video link because of COVID-19. At the last one, which was in May 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 12 months suspended for three years. In the plea bargain I had to confess to throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement gate. I accepted the plea bargain because otherwise I was facing three years in prison.
13. I spent two months at Ofer prison and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. In prison I had two family visits only because of COVID-19 but I was allowed to make phone calls three times a week. I called from a pay phone provided by the prison authorities and I had to pay for it myself. In prison I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics.

14. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 14 February 2021, and I went home with my parents, my two uncles and my cousins. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. I was very happy to be home. Now I want to focus on my school work because I want to study to be a mechanic.

1. I was arrested from home at around 1:30 a.m. I woke up when Israeli soldiers banged aggressively at our front door. My father answered and about 20 soldiers entered our home. They told my father they were looking for me. Then the commander turned to me and told me to hand over the weapons in my possession. I told him I had no weapons. Then he told my father they wanted to question me about throwing Molotov cocktails, stones and weapons possession. They did not give my family any documents.
2. Within a short time the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and they left marks on my wrists for a long time. I was left outside in the cold and rain for some time while the soldiers searched the house and caused damage to the furniture.
3. Later I was put in the back of a troop carrier where I was blindfolded me and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the troop carrier soldiers pushed me around and called me "a dirty fucker". I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a shipping container for about four hours. In the early hours of the morning I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold and told me I was a trouble maker. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to remain silent. Then he questioned me about my work and about my friends. Then he accused me of weapons possession and of causing trouble. He was aggressive and yelled at me to give him information about my friends. I did not give any information.
5. Then he threatened to arrest my brother and the rest of my family and to destroy our house if I did not confess. He questioned me on and off over three hours. He would leave the room for five minutes and come back and repeat the accusations. I continued to deny the accusations and he did not show me any documents to sign.
6. After the interrogation they took my photograph and fingerprints and gave me a quick medical examination. Then I was taken to a cell where I spent four days with other boys. Two lawyers came to the cell and took an affidavit from me.
7. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I had a court hearing. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. The judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned.

8. During my time at Ofer I had about seven more interrogations at the settlement of Bitar Illit. I was accused of firing live bullets and possessing weapons. In each of the sessions I was allowed to speak to a lawyer before the interrogation. Each time the lawyer told me not to worry and advised me to remain silent. The interrogator listened to the conversation with the lawyer which lasted no more than a few minutes each time. The interrogator then questioned me without informing me of my right to silence. He told me that my friends had confessed against me. Each interrogation session lasted for about 30 minutes.
9. I was tired of being transferred to Bitar Illit and of the frequent interrogations and in the end, I confessed to possessing weapons and throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I felt I had no way out since my friends provided detailed confessions against me. After I confessed the interrogator made me sign two documents; one in Hebrew and another in Arabic.
10. I had eight military court hearings and at the last one, which was in May 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. I accepted the bargain because I was told by my lawyer that I would be facing at least two-and-a-half years in prison if I rejected it.
11. I spent the first four months at Ofer prison and then I was transferred to a prison in the Negev, inside Israel. In prison I exercised and played cards with the other prisoners and chatted to them.
12. I was released on 22 February 2021, at Al-Thayiriya checkpoint and I went home with my father, my brother and two uncles. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Name: A.A.M.Q.
Age: 14
Date: 19 January 2020
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, A.A.M.Q. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking with two friends along the road at the entrance to our village. It was around 7:00 p.m. Suddenly an Israeli military jeep approached us. The jeep stopped and the soldiers stepped out, yelled at us and ordered us to sit on the ground. One of the soldiers aimed his gun at me and told me to raise my hands up. Two more military jeeps arrived at the scene and the commander took a video of me. Then he asked me whether I had any weapons.
2. A short time later a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and I lost sensation in my palms. I asked the soldier to loosen the ties but he refused. Then they brought police dogs near me and I could hear their breath. They brought them very close but they did not touch me. I could not see the dogs but I could hear them barking and I think there may have been two or three of them.
3. Then I was taken to a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Once inside the jeep the soldiers made fun of me. When my telephone rang one of the soldiers swore at me. Then he kicked me on the leg. I was taken to an area I did not recognise where I was left in the rain for about two hours. I was cold and scared and could not sleep at all. I was searched in my underwear and then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold but kept my ties on. I told him I was in pain and only later did he remove the ties. He asked me whether I wanted to speak to a lawyer and then he rang my father but my father did not answer. I did not speak to a lawyer and the interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.
5. Then he asked me about weapons. I told him I did not have any weapons. Then he wanted to know who was with me when I was arrested. Then he told me about an incident where a Molotov cocktail was thrown. It turned out the person who was involved in that incident had the same name to mine. I explained to the interrogator it was not me but someone else with the same name. The interrogator was calm but then another interrogator walked in and he was very tense and angry. The two of them questioned me about weapons possession and I denied the accusation.
6. Then the first interrogator accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail. He told me he had evidence against me but did not explain. The two interrogators kept repeating the same accusation and in the end I confessed. I felt it was the only way out for me. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes and at the end I was shown documents in Hebrew and I was asked to sign them. The interrogator verbally translated the documents into Arabic and I signed them.

7. Then I was taken to another room where another interrogator had me repeat what I had said and recorded it. This interrogator did not inform me of my rights but he recorded the session on a voice recorder. This lasted for another 30 minutes. I was not asked to sign anymore documents. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13.
8. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. A lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. I was taken back to Ofer prison. A few days later, and after a second hearing I was taken for another interrogation. My lawyer told me to say I confessed under duress.
9. This interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not call a lawyer for me. He questioned me through an interpreter about throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation and told the interrogator I had confessed under duress. The interrogation lasted for about 20 minutes and I was taken back to Ofer without having to sign any documents.
10. At the last hearing in the military courts, which was on the 31 January 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 12 days in prison, a fine of NIS 3,000 and a suspended sentence of three months valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I would go home the same day.
11. My father went to get the money to pay the fine. I was released in the evening and I arrived home with my father at around 1:00 a.m. It was a tough experience and I hope I will never go through it again. I want to focus on my school work.

Age: 16
Date: 19 January 2020
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, A.A.A.W. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 3:30 a.m. and told me to get up because Israeli soldiers were outside. Then I heard a loud bang at our front door. My father opened the door and about 10 soldiers entered our home. The commander asked my father for me. Then the commander asked to check my identity card. Then he told my father I was under arrest. He did not say why and did not give my father any documents.
2. Then the commander took me to my bedroom and started to question me about weapons without informing me of my rights. I told the commander I was sick and had fever. He was calm and asked me to tell him where I had hidden the weapons. I told him I did not have any weapons. He questioned me without my parents present and threatened that if I did not tell him the location of the weapons he was going to hold me for a long time. He was with two other soldiers and told me he was going to search the house and turn it upside down if I did not cooperate.
3. Then two other soldiers came into the bedroom and told the commander they had found a metal pipe in the garden. The commander asked me whether it was mine and I told him it was and pleaded with him not to beat me because I was sick.
4. The then soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie. The tie was very tight and painful. I was kept waiting while the soldiers made more arrests in the neighbourhood. Then I was taken to a military jeep which was waiting. A soldier deliberately banged my head against the jeep. I told the soldier I was sick and complained about the tight plastic tie. The commander heard me and told the soldier to change the tie and then he left. The soldier removed the tie and tied me again to the front. The tie was still very painful.
5. Then the soldier blindfolded me and put me in the back of the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. The soldiers who were in the back of the jeep swore at me and called me “a son of a whore” and swore at god. They slapped and kicked me while I was tied and blindfolded. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a room with seven other detainees until the following day. The next morning I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold. He did not inform me of my rights and told me I knew everything from my previous arrest. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He accused me of throwing pipe bombs at soldiers. He also named some boys and accused me of planning to throw pipe bombs with them. I denied having thrown any pipe bombs or planning anything with other boys. I just told him that the pipe they found in the garden was mine.

7. The interrogator questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. Half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. He asked me whether I wanted him to leave the room while I spoke to the lawyer but I told him he could stay. The lawyer told me not to confess. I told him O.K., knowing from my previous experience that the lawyer's advice is worth nothing. The conversation was short and abrupt; I was not interested in listening to what he had to say.
8. Then the interrogator told me he was going to test me. He gave me a sheet of paper with some names of boys from the village and some blank spaces. He told me he wanted me to fill the blanks with more names. I did not give him any names. Then he showed me a document in Arabic and asked me to sign it and I did after reading it. He also showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign it.
9. Then I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I spent four nights in the cell together with four other boys. On the fourth day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13. I arrived at Ofer at around 2:00 a.m.
10. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed but a lawyer was there and he represented me. The hearing was adjourned and my detention was extended.
11. I had another military court hearing on 17 February 2020, but then court hearings were suspended due to the Corona virus. My third hearing was via video link. During the third hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because the date of my release would be certain. Also, the military judge postponed the six-month suspended sentence from my previous imprisonment which I was very happy about.
12. I spent the whole time at Ofer prison. We were about 35 children in the minors' section. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus regulations and the prison administration did not provide pay phones for me to call my family. This was the hardest thing about the whole experience.
13. I was released on 18 June 2020, and I went home with my father; we arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

I, A.D.A.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Me and a friend were entering our village when we were approached by three Israeli soldiers. It was around 5:00 p.m. A soldier asked us how old we were and wanted to see our ID cards. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. He also blindfolded me and took me to the back of vehicle where I sat on a seat. I was then driven to the nearby settlement of Bitar Illit.
2. At the settlement I was taken to a military compound where I was left in a room. Soldiers took turns entering the room and beating the floor loudly with batons to scare me and keep me awake. I sat on a bench and could not sleep at all. I was allowed to use the toilet but I was not given any food or drink. I was left there for three nights. On the third day, at around 8:00 a.m., I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. Then he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call a lawyer for me. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he asked me what I was doing at the entrance to the village in an area where I was not supposed to be. I told him I did not know I was not allowed to be there. He was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice. He questioned me for about 30 minutes.
4. After the interrogation I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was searched in my underwear before being taken to a cell where I was left with five other detainees. I arrived there at around 2:00 p.m. Then, at around 2:00 a.m., I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On arrival at Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
5. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents did not attend because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned.
6. A few days later I was taken back to Bitar Illit for another interrogation. I was handcuffed to the front and shackled. The interrogator told me I had the right to speak to a lawyer. He then phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to deny the accusations and not to confess to anything I did not do. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted for less than a minute. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.

7. The interrogator asked me the same questions as I was asked during the first interrogation. He wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested and accused me of plotting to harm soldiers. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and was calm. He wanted me to give him names of other boys but I did not. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents written in Hebrew but I do not remember if I signed them or not. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer prison.
8. I had about 10 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 29 June 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for five years.
9. I spent six weeks in Ofer prison and then I was transferred to Damon prison, inside Israel. My family visited me once and then family visits were suspended because of the Corona Virus. The prison authorities allowed me to make phone calls to my family. I called them three times a week from a monitored pay phone. In prison I learned how to read and write and lifted weights to keep fit.
10. I was released on 16 August 2020, at Al Jalama checkpoint. I went home with my parents and my brother. We arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

I, M.F.M.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 1:00 a.m. I was woken up by loud banging at our front door. My father answered and about 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home and told my father they were looking for weapons. Then a soldier told my father they wanted to arrest me. We were not given us any documents. One soldier took me outside while the others searched the house and caused damage to the furniture.
2. Once outside the house a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time. They also blindfolded me and walked me towards a troop carrier. I was put in the back of the troop carrier and made to sit on the metal floor. During the journey the soldiers kicked and poked me with their guns the whole way.
3. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left on the floor of a shipping container until later that morning. Soldiers slapped me twice on my neck and one of them put his hands around my neck as if he wanted to suffocate me. I begged the soldiers to allow me to use the toilet and they finally did. Later that morning I was strip searched before being taken to a cell. At around noon I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He removed the ties and the blindfold then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and to remain silent. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but if I did he was going to resort to “his special way” of interrogating me.
5. Then he asked me about a pipe bomb and a Molotov cocktail. I denied any knowledge. He accused me of throwing a pipe bomb and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He repeated the same accusations over and over again and told me my friends had testified against me. He threatened to arrest my mother and brother if I did not confess. He spoke calmly but in a manner that made me believe if I did not confess he was going to do something.
6. Then he started to add more serious accusations like shooting and attempting to kill soldiers. I felt if I did not confess to the lesser offenses I was going to be in deep trouble. In the end I confessed. He questioned me for about 90 minutes and at the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding anything.

7. Then I was taken to a cell where I stayed for three days with other detainees. On the second day I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.
8. I had about 10 military court hearings and at the last one, which was sometime in June 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was facing a longer prison sentence if I did not.
9. I spent my sentence at Ofer and my family visited me twice. I exercised to pass the time. I found the most difficult thing in prison were my own thoughts; I constantly thought about going home and missed my family and friends a lot.
10. I was released at Ofer on 22 February 2021, and I went home with my two brothers. We arrived home in the evening.

I, Q.S.M.S. of Tubas, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About 25 Israeli soldiers entered our home at around 4:30 a.m. The front door was not locked and they came in without making a sound. I woke up when soldiers came into my bedroom. I opened my eyes and saw three soldiers over my head. One of them told me I had a minute to get dressed because I was under arrest. They did not give a reason for the arrest and did not give my parents any documents.
2. I barely had time to put some clothes on before the soldiers dragged me into the living room where my hands were tied behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. I was then led on foot for about a kilometer to waiting military jeeps. When we arrived at the jeeps I was blindfolded and put on the metal floor of one of the jeeps.
3. We drove to a settlement where the soldiers left me on the ground for about four hours. Then I was taken to a room where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination and asked me if I took any medications and if I had any chronic illnesses.
4. After the medical check I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts and before being taken to a cell. A few hours later I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was searched with my clothes on before being taken to the juvenile section.
5. The following day, at around 1:00 p.m. I was taken for an interrogation. The interrogator introduced himself to me and told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he told me if I remained silent the judge would not be happy. Then he told me I could consult with a lawyer. I told him I wanted to call my parents and ask them to appoint a lawyer for me. He did not call a lawyer for me and I did not speak to one.
6. Then he accused me of throwing stones and of weapon possession. I denied the accusations. He told me he had confessions against me from other boys. Still, I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about 90 minutes and was calm and polite most of the time. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign something written in a language I did not understand.
7. Then another interrogator came into the room. This one did not introduce himself and did not inform me of my rights. He was aggressive and spoke loudly and accused me of the same accusations. When I denied the accusation he yelled at me and told me I had to tell them about the weapon in my possession. I told him I did not have any weapons. He swore at me and called me "a son of a whore" and banged the table many times. He threatened to arrest my mother and father if I did not confess. Still, I did not confess. He typed everything into his computer and did not show me any documents to sign. He questioned me for about 25 minutes.

8. After the second interrogation I was taken back to Megiddo. The following day I was taken for another interrogation. This time I was not informed of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer. The interrogator repeated the same accusations and wanted me to confess but I did not confess. I was questioned for 30 minutes and at the end the interrogator wanted me to sign documents written in Hebrew but again I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken to a military court. My parents were not there because they did not know about the hearing. The hearing was adjourned.
9. I had about 14 military court hearings which my mother attended. At the last hearing, which was on 10 March 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted closure and I was tired of going back and forth to the court.
10. I spent my sentence at Megiddo. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 28 April 2020, and I went home with my brother and cousin. I arrived home at around 2:00 p.m.

1. I was asleep when my brother woke me up and told me that Israeli soldiers were in our building in the stairwell. It was around 3:30 a.m. Then we heard loud banging at our front door. We went to the living room and my brother opened the door. Two soldiers wearing facemasks entered the house and immediately approached me. They told my parents I was under arrest. My father asked why and one of the soldiers said "he knows exactly why".
2. The soldiers then grabbed me and started to drag me outside but my father told the soldiers to allow me to put some clothes on and they did. Then one of the soldiers asked me how old I was and told me to say goodbye to my parents. Then he gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest.
3. Once inside the stairwell a soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and I complained but he told me to shut up. He also blindfolded me. I was then led outside to a waiting troop carrier. I was taken into the back of the troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor. I was then taken to the police station in Etzion settlement.
4. On arrival at Etzion I was examined by a doctor who removed the blindfold during the examination. Then I was taken to a room where I was left until around 10:00 a.m. before being taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He did not inform me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer. He started by asking me how I was and told me he was going to ask me some questions which he expected me to answer. Then he asked me about some boys from the village and I told him I did not know them. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and told me the boys he named had confessed against me. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me photos of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation.
6. The first interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform but then another interrogator in civilian clothes entered the room. The second interrogator was aggressive and threatened that if I did not confess he was going to lock me up in a cell by myself for a long time. I was questioned by the two interrogators for about one-and-a-half hours. At the end of the interrogation I was shown documents in Hebrew and asked to sign them but I refused to sign something I did not understand. I asked for an Arabic translation but they never showed me a translated version.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell in Etzion. I was strip searched and left there for nine days. The first four days I was by myself but then they brought in two other detainees. During this time I had a military court hearing at Ofer which my father attended. A lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned after the military judge extended my detention. Then I was taken to Ofer prison where I was again strip searched before being taken to section 13.
8. I had about eight military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for five years. My lawyer told me it was a good deal so I accepted it.
9. I spent 15 days in Ofer prison before being transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I spent eight days at Megiddo and then I was transferred again to Damoun prison, also in Israel. After the Corona virus took over, the prison authorities installed phones in April 2020, and I was able to speak to my family on average three times a week. My parents visited me once in August.
10. In prison I attended Arabic classes and I helped keep our prison cell clean. I was released on 13 October 2020 at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my brother. We arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.

1. I was present during clashes with soldiers near Rachel's Tomb at the entrance to Bethlehem. It was around 5:00 p.m. Suddenly an Israeli military jeep drove very fast behind me as if it was going to run me over. I ran as fast as I could but fell to the ground.
2. Two soldiers got out of the jeep and grabbed me. They immediately started to beat and slap me. Then one of them handcuffed my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs and tightened them hard causing me pain. Then he blindfolded me and took me into the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove towards the military watchtower at Rachel's Tomb.
3. At the watchtower I was searched and left on the ground for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken to the roof of a nearby building where I was left for about two hours. Then I was taken in a military jeep to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. I waited for about two hours before being taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the handcuffs. He had a camera in the room and a computer on his desk. He accused me of taking part in clashes with soldiers at Rachel's Tomb. I denied the accusation. He questioned me without informing me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer. Then he showed me some photographs of the clashes and claimed I was there. I denied the accusation.
5. At the beginning of the interrogation the interrogator was calm but when I denied the accusation he became rude and angry. He yelled at me and threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time if I did not confess. He questioned me for about an hour and at the end he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. I signed without understanding what I signed on; I thought I had no choice.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The next day I was taken to Ofer military court. My two brothers were in court and the hearing was adjourned. I had four more hearings, two of which were via video link because they were conducted during the strict Corona Virus regulations.
7. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison, fined NIS 2,000 and given a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me if I rejected it I would serve a longer sentence. Also, all the other prisoners with me told me it was best to plead guilty as everyone did.

8. I spent about two months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. The conditions there were terrible and I went on hunger strike for a week. My parents visited me only once, about 10 days before I was released. There were no family visits during this time because of the Corona Virus regulations. The prison management provided pay phones and I called my family three times a week for about 15 minutes. In prison I spent my time exercising to keep fit and I also attended classes organised by the senior prisoners.
9. I was released on 26 August 2020, at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my brothers. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

2. After two hours I was taken to the back of a military jeep and I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to a police station - I am not sure where. The handcuffs and the blindfold were removed and I was left outside at the police station until around 3:00 a.m. I was not given anything to eat or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet. Then I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer. As soon as I entered the room he wanted to know what I was doing in his office and why I threw stones at soldiers. I did not say anything. Then he told me that the soldiers had given testimonies against me. I denied the accusation and told him I did not throw stones at soldiers. Name: M.S.H.Z.
Date: 2 February 2020
Location: Qalandiya refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.S.H.Z. of Qalandiya refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About two weeks before I was arrested I received a phone call from the area commander at around noon. He told me his name was "Captain Miro" and told me he wanted me to go to his office for a chat. I told him I was not going to show up at his office and if he wanted me he should come and get me. Then I hung up on him.
2. On the day of my arrest there were clashes with Israeli soldiers at Qalandiya checkpoint. It was around 3:00 p.m. Young men and boys were throwing stones. Suddenly I was ambushed by a group of about 10 soldiers. They swore at me and kicked and slapped me.
3. A soldier asked me for my name and immediately tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie. The tie was tight and very painful and left marks on my wrists for days. Then he took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on a seat. The jeep drove to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where I was left in a caged area for about four hours after which I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the tie and asked me for my name. Then he told me I could have one of my parents attend the interrogation if I wanted. He called my parents but they did not answer. Then he told me I could speak to a lawyer. He called one and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I did not have to confess if I did not want to and advised me not to sign any documents. The conversation lasted a few minutes and the interrogator was not listening.
5. Then the interrogator told me it was fine with him if I did not want to speak but then he told me "the rope of lies is short". Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers at Qalandiya checkpoint. I denied the accusation. Then he told me my friends who were arrested with me confessed against me. Still, I denied the accusation. Then he wanted to know why I refused to hand myself over when the Commander summoned me to his office two weeks earlier.
6. He questioned me for about an hour and was aggressive at times. He thumped the table wanting me to confess and threatened to keep interrogating me for a long time if I did not confess. Then he showed me video footage of clashes with soldiers but I continued to deny the accusation. In the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed and so they did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.
8. I had more than 20 military court appearances. At the last one, which was on 19 October 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of three years suspended for five years. I had to plead guilty to throwing stones at a military watchtower and smashing CCTV cameras in return for the bargain. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I was facing at least two years in prison if I did not.
9. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer. I spent my time exercising and my parents visited me three times. I was a good student before I was arrested but now I quit school because I could not keep up. I want to go to a vocational school and try to earn some money to support my family.

Age: 17
Date: 12 February 2020
Location: Kafr Ein, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Incitement

I, A.A.M.F. of Kafr Ein, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About four days before I was arrested, Israeli soldiers raided my uncle's house at around 3:00 a.m. They broke open his front door with a device that opens locked doors quietly. When they realised they had made a mistake they went to another family's home whose son has a similar name to mine. They took the boy into the back of a jeep and when they realised they had the wrong boy they released him. In the mean time I received calls from family and friends telling me soldiers were looking for me. The soldiers retreated from the village and did not come to our house that night.
2. On the day I was arrested soldiers put up a flying checkpoint at the entrance to the nearby village of An Nabi Saleh. I was in a taxi that was stopped by soldiers at the checkpoint at around 1:00 p.m. The soldiers checked our identity cards and when they saw mine they told me to step out because I was under arrest.
3. I got out of the taxi as requested and then five soldiers approached me and asked me for my mobile phone which they away. Then they started to push and yell at me. Then one of the soldiers handcuffed my hands to the front with metal handcuffs and tightened them so hard that my wrists bled. Soon a police car arrived at the scene and I was put in the car where I sat on a seat. Inside the car a soldier blindfolded me. I was then taken to the police station in Modiin, inside Israel.
4. At Modiin I was taken to a small cell, around 2 x 2 meters. There were no windows in the cell. They removed the blindfold, took my jacket and my boots and left me in the cell for about seven hours. They did not bring me any food or drink. At around 10:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator did not remove the handcuffs and told me if I lied to him he was going to "beat me up". Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to take it easy and not confess. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator was listening because the conversation was on speaker phone. The interrogator then cut the line off. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he told me if I remained silent he was going to interrogate me until the morning until I spoke. Then he called my mother and told her where I was but did not allow me to speak to her when I asked.
6. Then he accused me of incitement and of supporting a terrorist organisation. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me a screen shot of photographs on my Facebook page. He was aggressive and threatened to lock me up in prison for years if I did not confess. I told him my Facebook was hacked and I had nothing to do with what was posted on it.

7. He questioned me for about two hours and a soldier walked into the interrogation room a couple of times and yelled at me telling me to confess. I did not confess. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. He translated them for me and I signed.
8. Then I was taken back to the cell for about an hour and then driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
9. The following day I had a military court hearing which my parents did not attend because they were not informed. The hearing was adjourned.
10. The following day I was taken back to Modiin police station for another interrogation. I was left in the small cell without windows from the morning until around 7:00 p.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
11. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call a lawyer for me. Then he showed me a photograph of a person and wanted me to identify him. I told him I had no idea who that person was. Then he told me it was me and I told him it was not. He questioned me for about two hours and I denied all the accusations and did not give him any names. He was calm most of the time and did not show me any documents to sign. Then I was taken back to Ofer.
12. A few days later I was taken for another interrogation. This time the interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He asked me if I wanted to confess to incitement and when I told him I did not want to confess he threatened to lock me up in prison for two years. When I told him I did not care he lost his temper and yelled at me telling me to confess. He questioned me for about an hour and showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I signed without understanding what it said because I was sick and tired of the whole process and wanted to get done with it.
13. I had about 10 military court hearings which were conducted over a video link because of the Corona Virus. At the last hearing, which was on 18 August 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison, fined NIS 1,000 and given a suspended sentence of three years in prison valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because 10 months in prison is much better than 18 months which the prosecutor had requested.
14. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer and I had only one family visit because of the Virus. My mother visited me two days before I was released. During the entire time the prison authorities allowed me to phone home twice. I spent my time in prison cleaning the ward and distributing meals.

15. I was given early release on 16 September 2020 and I went home with my father and brother and uncle who were waiting for me outside Ofer. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.S.M.H. of Qalandiya refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was near Qalandiya checkpoint at around noon when a group of soldiers grabbed me. They pushed me to the ground and one of them handcuffed me with my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs which were tight and painful. Then they took me into a pre-fabricated building and one of them beat me hard on the chest. They left me there until around 11:00 p.m. They did not tell me why they were detaining me or for how long.
2. At around 11:00 p.m. I was taken in a police car to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, for interrogation. At Atarot I waited for about two hours and then I was taken to the interrogation room.
3. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. As soon as I entered the room the interrogator told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and the right to remain silent. However, he did not call a lawyer for me. Then he questioned me about throwing stones and accused me of taking part. He did not provide dates of the incidents and I denied the accusation. He then claimed he had video footage of me throwing stones at the checkpoint and then he showed me some footage on his screen. Still I denied the accusation.
4. Then he lost his temper and pulled out his pistol and slammed it on the desk in front of him. I felt that this was a threatening gesture in an attempt to make me confess but I did not. Then he threatened to revoke work permits belonging to my family and told me it was better for me to confess. I did not confess. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours and in the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and told me it was what I had told him. He asked me to sign it and I did; I thought I had to sign.
5. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to section 19. I arrived there at around 2:00 a.m. I ate and went to bed.
6. On Sunday I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and lawyer attended the hearing which was adjourned. I had seven more military court hearings. During this time I was questioned again by an intelligence officer at Ofer. He questioned me about stone throwing without informing me of my rights or allowing me to speak to a lawyer. I continued to deny the accusation. At the conclusion of the interrogation I signed my statement in Hebrew without understanding it. The intelligence officer told me I had to sign.

7. At my last hearing in the military court, which was on the day I was released, I was offered a plea bargain of one month in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence valid for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home. My family did not visit me in prison because I was released before the visiting permit was issued.
8. I was released on 9 March 2020, and I took a taxi home because the prison authorities told my mother to wait at the wrong checkpoint. I arrived home in the evening.

I, M.R.A.S. of Qalandiya checkpoint, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

- 1, There were clashes between Israeli soldiers and Palestinians at Qalandiya checkpoint. It was around 4:00 p.m. About six soldiers chased me and then beat me. Then they took me to a shipping container and tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were not painful. I was also blindfolded and left sitting on a chair until around 10:00 p.m.
2. At around 10:00 p.m. I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. At Atarot I was left in an outdoor area for about an hour and then I was taken for interrogation. A soldier removed the ties and the blindfold before I was taken into the interrogation room.
3. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. As soon as I entered the room the interrogator told me I could speak to a lawyer but he did not call one for me. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He showed me video footage of the clashes with soldiers. He also told me my friend had testified that I was taking part in the clashes. I denied the accusation and refused to confess. Then he became angry and raised his voice at me telling me to confess but I did not confess. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and then he read out my statement in Arabic and showed me the statement in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did.
4. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. Two days later I had a military court hearing. My uncle attended and my detention was extended.
5. In all I attended about 10 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 1 July 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. This was based on the soldiers' testimonies and the testimony of my friend. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me it was good.
6. I spent the whole time at Ofer prison. I had one family visit but then family visits were suspended because of the Corona Virus. No phones provided by the prison authorities. In prison I attended classes in Mathematics and Arabic and I exercised.
7. I was released at Beit Sira checkpoint on 4 October 2020, and I went home with my brother, my uncle and my friend. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, Y.O.A.W. of Ein Esultan, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested on Route 90 at around 11:00 a.m. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers at that time and I was arrested. They swore at me and called my mother and sister "whores". A soldier punched me in the stomach and kicked me on my legs and knees and forced me to the ground. Then he tied my hands to the back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. He also covered my eyes with a blindfold and then took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat.
2. I was taken to a nearby military base where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination but kept me tied. Then I was taken to the police station in Ma'aleh Adumim settlement where I was left in a room for about six hours. At around 6:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept me tied. Then he asked me for my name and told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. I did not speak to a lawyer and I decided not to remain silent because the interrogator explained the right to silence in a manner that scared me. He told me if I remained silent it was as if I confessed to the accusations and then the law would take its course.
4. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers during clashes. He wanted to know the names of the other boys who took part in the clashes. He pressured me to give names. Then he told me a soldier had testified against me and told him I was caught with a Molotov cocktail in my hand. Then he brought in a female soldier and she identified me and confirmed the interrogator's accusation. At first I denied the accusation but then I confessed. I confessed because the interrogator applied a lot of pressure. He was angry and thumped the table at times. He threatened to arrest my uncles and to revoke their work permits. He questioned me for about two hours and showed me photographs of the clashes.
5. When I confessed he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. He told me they were my statement and verbally translated them for me. I signed after I heard the translation.
6. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to section 13. Two days later I had a military court hearing. My detention was extended for more interrogation and the hearing was adjourned. After the court hearing I was taken to Ma'aleh Adumim police station for more interrogation.

7. It was the same interrogator. He did not inform me of my rights and asked me the same questions. He told me he wanted to confirm the information he took from me during the first round of interrogation. He questioned me for about two hours and was typing on his computer. He then printed out a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
8. I had about five military court hearings. During the second court hearing I had a confrontation with one of the guards who was disrespectful to me and I slapped him. The guard slapped me back and injured me and the judge saw blood on my face.
9. At the last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence. My lawyer agreed with my parents on the plea bargain and they did not include me in the discussion. I felt I had to accept the plea bargain because both my parents and my lawyer thought it was good.
10. I spent 12 days at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. I was later denied family visits as punishment for slapping the guard. I had no official telephone communication with my family in prison.
11. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 5 July 2020, and I went home with my father. We arrived home at noon.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, A.M.M.Y. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when I heard very loud banging at our front door. It was around 3:00 a.m. My father opened the door and about 30 Israeli soldiers entered our home; some were wearing masks. They told my father they wanted me. I was still in bed. A soldier pulled the blanket off me while my father objected and demanded an explanation. The soldier told my father they wanted to arrest me. When my father asked why the soldier refused to answer.
2. The soldiers searched around the house and then took me without giving my parents any documents. I barely had time to dress and no time to put my shoes on, so I grabbed them and put them on outside.
3. The soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands to the back with two plastic ties on top of each other. They were very tight and caused me a lot of pain and left marks on my wrists for days. They also blindfolded me before leading me the short distance towards my uncle's house. Then I was put into the back of a military jeep and made to sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep a soldier kicked me on my legs and punched me in the face. I felt sever pain in my nose and I was bleeding. I was scared. Another soldier struck me with the back of his gun and slapped me on my head. He also swore at me.
4. The jeep drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in an outdoor area in the rain for about an hour. After an hour a soldier took me to a shipping container and made me kneel on the floor. I was left in that position from around 5:00 a.m. until around 7:00 a.m. and I was in pain. I asked for some water but they did not bring me any. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. A soldier removed the blindfold before I was taken into the interrogation room. When I was taken into the interrogation room and my nose was still bleeding. The interrogator removed the ties and asked me if I wanted to say anything. Then, without informing me of my rights, he told me he knew everything there was to know about me. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement of Migdal Oz. I denied the accusation. Then he told me there were confessions by my friends against me. Still I denied the accusation.
6. Half-way through the interrogation the interrogator told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer and put the telephone on speaker and told me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be scared and not to confess. I told him my friends had already confessed against me. The conversation lasted a few minutes and the interrogator was listening.

7. The interrogator, who had a voice recorder on his table, was sometimes calm and at other times he was aggressive and thumped the table. He raised his voice at me and kept telling me to confess. In the end I confessed because I could not take it any longer.
8. He questioned me for about an hour-and-a-half. At the end he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When he told me it was my statement I signed. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints before I was strip searched and taken to a cell. The following day I was taken for another interrogation.
9. The interrogator had a voice recorder on his table. This time I asked to speak to a lawyer and the interrogator said ok. He rang a lawyer but the lawyer did not pick up his phone. It was around noon. The interrogator then questioned me for about 30 minutes. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement. He threatened to destroy our house if I did not confess and then he told me soldiers were at our house a few days earlier and destroyed its contents. At the beginning I denied the accusation but then I confessed. The interrogator questioned me without informing me of my right to silence. At the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did.
10. My first military court hearing was on 18 February 2020. It was at Ofer military court and my parents were not informed and did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 10 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 26 July 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I would spend more time in prison if I rejected it.
11. I spent nine days in the cell at Etzion and then I was transferred to Ofer prison. At Ofer I was strip searched and then taken to section 13 where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. I had one family visit and then the family visits were suspended because of the Corona Virus outbreak. I missed my family a lot and the prison did not provide any phones.
12. I was given an early release from prison on 29 September 2020, and I went home with my father and grandfather who were waiting for me by the gate. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Accusation: Weapon possession

I, M.H.I.D. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was woken up by a group of about 10 Israeli soldiers who were in my bedroom.. It was around 4:00 a.m. I don't know how they got into our house. The commander immediately asked me if I had any weapons. When I said I did not have any weapons he threatened to search our home and destroy its contents if I did not hand over a weapon. He told me he would beat up my father if I did not cooperate with him. At that point I showed him the home-made toy gun I had made.
2. The commander took the gun and told me I was under arrest. The soldiers took me outside the house without giving my parents any documents. Outside the house a soldier handcuffed my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs which were not painful. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep where I was blindfolded with a hood. They made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' feet.
3. Inside the jeep a soldier punched me hard on the nose which started to bleed. I was in severe pain. Then the jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left out in the cold until around 8:00 a.m. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the handcuffs and the hood and told me my file was ready. He accused me of manufacturing weapons and told me two of my friends had confessed against me. I denied the accusation. Half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer for me. I could not understand a word of what the lawyer said because of the noise the soldiers were making in the room. The interrogator cut off the line after less than a minute and I did not hear anything.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but told me even if I did not say a word he had all the evidence against me he needed. He questioned me on and off over a period of about eight hours. He wanted me to confess against my friends and threatened to lock me up in prison for life. He told me I was never ever going to go home. He thumped the table many times and raised his voice. He swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". He took me outside in the cold in between each interrogation. He put so much pressure on me.
6. In the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I signed without understanding anything. I later found out in court when I was given the charge sheet that the interrogator falsely wrote down I had confessed to weapons possession.

7. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I remained for nine days. During this time, I had another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights but I told him I was not going to say a word before I spoke to a lawyer. He then called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to answer the interrogator and not to be afraid. I barely spoke for a minute before the line was cut off by the interrogator.
8. The interrogator asked me the same questions and accused me of making weapons. He told me the names of the two boys who confessed against me and wanted me to confess against them. I denied the accusation and did not confess against my friends. In the end he showed me a document in Hebrew and translated it for me and asked me to sign it. I signed when I realized it was identical to what I had said. After the interrogation I was taken back to the cell.
9. During these nine days I also had three military court hearings which my father attended. After the nine days at Etzion I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and then I was taken to section 13.
10. I had about 20 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 15 September 2020, I was sentenced to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison, suspended for five years. I also had to serve an additional month suspended from a previous imprisonment. I spent the first 10 months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel.
12. I had two family visits but I did not have access to a telephone to call my family. I exercised a lot and played table tennis and chatted to the other prisoners. I also attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics.
13. I was released at Al-Thahiriyeh checkpoint on 27 December 2020, and I went home with my father, my uncle, my brother and grandfather. I arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, T.I.H.D. from Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at 2:00 a.m. My mother woke me up and told me the soldiers were in our building and had already broken into my uncle's apartment upstairs. I got up and I could hear the soldiers go into my other uncle's apartment. My father rushed to the door and opened it; he did not want the soldiers to break it down.
2. About 20 masked soldiers entered our home. They walked in and started to search the house. One soldier went to the bed of my younger brother, who is 4-years-old, and pulled the blankets off him. My father was very upset and told him to leave my brother alone. They threw our clothes out of the wardrobes and made a huge mess.
3. Then the commander asked for our names and when I said mine a soldier approached me and told me I was under arrest. He did not say why but he showed my father a document in Hebrew. They took a photo of my father and the commander holding the document. They did not leave us with a copy.
4. Then they took me outside the house in a hurry and did not give me time to put my clothes on. Outside the house they blindfolded me and tied my hands to the back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then I was led to my friends' houses and they were arrested too. On the way a soldier beat me on my back and shoulder and I was in pain for a long time.
5. Then they took me to the back of a troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' feet. The troop carrier took me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a room, tied and blindfolded. There were soldiers in the room making noise and I could not sleep. It was a cold and rainy night. I was not given any food or drink and I was not allowed to use the toilet. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. He had a voice recorder on his desk. He told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and then he phoned a lawyer and put him on speaker phone and I was allowed to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and to be calm and things would be fine. I spoke to the lawyer for less than two minutes and the interrogator was listening.

7. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator wanted me to tell him what offences I had committed. He was calm and polite. Then he told me he had photographic evidence of me throwing a Molotov cocktail on the main road. He showed me some photographs and told me my friends had confessed against me. He questioned me on and off over two hours. He also threatened to revoke my family's work permits. In the end I confessed because I thought and there was no way out for me.
8. Then the interrogator showed me documents in Hebrew and told me it was my statement and he asked me to sign them. At first I refused to sign but then I did after he insisted.
9. After the interrogation I was searched in my boxer shorts and taken to a cell where I spent a night. In the morning I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
10. The following day I had a military court hearing which my parents attended. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. About a week later I was taken to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement for another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer. The interrogator wanted to know whether I had confessed under duress. I told him I had nothing to add to what I had already told the first interrogator. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not show me any documents to sign.
11. In all I had about six military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 29 June 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I was facing two years in prison if I did not.
12. I spent about three weeks at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. In prison I exercised and I was in charge of cleaning. I also attended classes in Arabic, Mathematics and Hebrew. My mother visited me twice and I was able to call home on average three times a week. The prison authorities allowed us to make phone calls when family visits were suspended due to the Corona Virus.
13. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 14 November 2020, and I went home with my family. The trip home was very difficult and long. I got nauseous and threw up, but I felt much better when I got home.

I, A.A.T.Z. of Bet El checkpoint, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There was a protest near Beit El military checkpoint at around 11:00 p.m. I was there filming. There was also a group of Israeli soldiers nearby filming. After a while the soldiers approached me. Suddenly one soldier grabbed me and started to kick and beat me. He also punched me in the nose and I bled. At the same time he was swearing at me.
2. The soldiers then tied my hands behind my back with four plastic ties on top of each other and tightened them very hard. I was in pain and my hands swelled. I was also blindfolded. Then I was taken to a military jeep and made to sit on a tire on the floor before a soldier kicked me onto the metal floor. Other soldiers inside the jeep continued to kick and slap me.
3. Then I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was taken to a room and I was left there for about an hour. They gave me tissues to wipe the blood off my face and a doctor examined me and told me I had to be taken to hospital.
4. Later that night I was taken to Ramleh hospital, inside Israel. I arrived there at around 2:00 a.m. Later in the morning an interrogator came and questioned me while I was on the hospital bed. He told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call a lawyer for me. Then, without informing me of my right to silence he accused me of throwing stones and of weapons possession and told me he had photographic evidence against me. I denied everything.
5. At first, he was calm but when I denied the accusations he became aggressive and threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and showed me some photographs. I continued to deny the accusations and I told him the boy in the photographs was not me. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
6. After questioning I was taken to the operating room and I had stitches put in my head and left hand. Then they brought me a piece of bread with some sour cream and I spent a night there.
7. The next day I was blindfolded and taken back to Binyamin police station. They removed the blindfold and then took me to a room where I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs before being interrogated again.

8. The interrogator asked me whether I wanted to call a lawyer but did not call one for me. Then, without informing me of my right to silence he accused me of the same accusations. He showed me photographic evidence and video footage but I denied all the accusations. He wanted me to confess and I told him I was hungry and I first needed to eat. He brought me some food and asked me whether I was ready to confess. When I told him I was not he lost his temper and thumped the table aggressively.
9. He interrogated me for more than an hour and I continued to deny the accusations. In the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed the first one and then I told him I was not going to sign anything I did not understand. Then he signed the remaining documents.
10. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell where I spent 10 days. On the second day I had a military court hearing. My family did not attend because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned. During this time I was interrogated multiple times, on average once a day. I was allowed to speak to a lawyer by phone on the fifth day. The lawyer told me to continue to deny the accusations. The conversation lasted for two minutes and the interrogator was listening.
11. I was never informed of my right to silence and at the end of each interrogation I was shown documents written in Hebrew and asked to sign them and I did. All the interrogations focused on the same accusations. Towards the end of the 10 days I was getting tired and I felt I was choking. I thought about confessing because I wanted to get done with it. At the same time, I knew if I confessed I would spend a long time in prison.
12. Ten days later I was taken to Ashkelon prison, inside Israel. At the time I did not realise I was sharing a cell with informants. For five days I was subjected to very harsh interrogations. I cannot remember whether I was informed of my rights. Each interrogation lasted for about two hours. I was exhausted.
13. After each interrogation I was taken to a small cell with a mattress on the floor and a toilet and a sink. There were no windows and the walls were dark and rough. There was no light at all and I was left in darkness the entire time. Whenever soldiers came into the cell I would ask about the time but they did not give me an answer. Instead they would ask whether I was too sleepy. I found it very hard to fall asleep. I was physically and mentally in bad shape.
14. During my time at Ashkelon I spoke twice to lawyers. The conversations were totally useless because the line was bad and I was exhausted and did not understand what they were saying and I hung up.
15. On the eighth day one of the prisoners in the cell with me told me he wanted to pray with me to help me calm down. He befriended me and I told him everything not knowing he was an informant. Then on the last interrogation I confessed to throwing two stones which missed. I later found out that I was charged with weapons possession and smashing CCTV cameras at the checkpoint.

16. I had lots of court hearings over a period of six months. My grandmother attended the hearings. At the last one, which was on 1 July 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 13 months in prison and fined NIS 5,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for two years.
17. After the 10 Days in Ashkelon I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Ofer where I worked as a barber. I also exercised. My grandmother visited me twice.
18. I was released at Ofer on 21 February 2021, and I went home with my uncle and cousins.

Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, M.Y.M.N. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes on the main road between Palestinians and Israeli soldiers at around 5:00 p.m. I was there watching when military jeeps suddenly approached. Some soldiers stepped out of one of the jeeps and grabbed me.
2. One of the soldiers asked me for my name and wanted to know how old I was. Then he asked me if I had an identity card and I told him I did not. Then he told me I should never ever throw stones at soldiers. He blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and they were painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time.
3. I was then put in the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep then drove to a nearby military base. At the military base I was left in a room for about three hours before being taken to the police station in Ariel settlement. At Ariel I was taken to a room where I was examined by a doctor who asked me questions about my health condition and removed the blindfold during the examination. About 30 minutes later I was taken for interrogation. It was around 10:00 p.m.
4. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He did not inform me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer. He asked me whether I threw stones at the soldiers with a sling shot which I denied. He also accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and I denied that. Then he wanted to know who was with me and I told him I was by myself. He questioned me for about an hour and in the end he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I asked him to translate the document for me and when I realised it was identical to what I had told him I signed it.
5. After the interrogation I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was strip searched before being taken to the juvenile section. The following day I was taken to Salem military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to prison.
6. A few days later I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He wanted to know why I threw stones at soldiers. Then he accused me of using a sling shot but I told him I did not. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the soldiers. I denied the accusation.

7. This time I was questioned for about two hours. He wanted me to give him names of boys who throw stones at soldiers but I did not give any names. At the end of the interrogation he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I asked him to translate it for me and when he did I signed. After the interrogation I waited in a small room and a short time later I was taken back to Megiddo prison.
8. I had three more military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for three years.
9. I spent my imprisonment at Megiddo prison where I passed the time by helping keep the place tidy and clean and by helping in the kitchen. My parents did not visit me because of the Corona Virus regulations but the prison management provided telephones for us and I called my family once every two weeks for 10 minutes.
10. I was released on 18 August 2020, and I went home in a taxi because my parents were not informed of my release. The taxi took me to Al Jalama where I called my father and he met me there. I arrived home at around sunset.

Age: 15
Date: 24 February 2020
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, I.I.M.D. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. One day before my arrest “Captain Karam”, the Israeli military commander in charge of our refugee camp, phoned my father in the afternoon and gave him a warning about me. He told my father I was involved “in stuff” and if my father did not control me he was going to shoot me.
2. The following morning, at around 4:00 a.m., I woke up to the sound of banging and explosions. My father opened our front door and about 10 soldiers entered our home. I was still in bed when soldiers entered my bedroom.
3. The soldiers searched our home and broke some furniture. Then a soldier took me aside and tied my hands to the back with a single plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then he took me outside where he blindfolded me and told me I was under arrest. They did not tell me why or give me any documents. I was dragged outside my home in my underwear without time to put my clothes on.
4. Once outside I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The soldiers inside the jeep slapped and kicked me as well as swearing at me. The jeep drove to the police station in the settlement of Ma’aleh Adumim where I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He told me any wrong move by me and he would send me immediately to the hospital. He accused me of throwing stones, Molotov cocktails and explosives at soldiers on Route 60 in 2019 and 2020. I denied the accusation. He questioned me without informing me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer.
6. The interrogation lasted for a long time; it went on and off over a period of about 12 hours. The interrogator slapped me once and swore at me each time I denied the accusation. He told me soldiers had testified against me but I continued to deny all the accusations. At the end of the interrogation he did not give me any documents to sign.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was strip searched and then taken to a cell where I spent two nights with two other detainees. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken to section 13.

8. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents were not informed about the hearing and so did not attend. The hearing was adjourned and I was taken back to prison. I had six military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison, fined NIS 1,500 shekels and given a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because I had already spent one month in prison and so could go home after the final court hearing.
9. I went home later that day after my uncle paid the fine. I arrived home at around 2:00 a.m.

I, T.A.F.H. of Balata refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was collecting spent bullet cases in the fields near Huwwara military base when an Israeli military jeep approached me. It was around 4:00 p.m. Some soldiers got out of the jeep and immediately tied my hands to the front with a single plastic tie which was not tight. He also shackled my legs and took me to the back of the jeep and made me sit on a seat. The jeep drove to the settlement of Ariel where I was taken to a room for a short before being taken for interrogation.
2. The interrogator removed the tie and the shackles and told me I could speak to a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and to take care of myself. The conversation was quick and the interrogator was not listening. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent.
3. The interrogator wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. He also told me the soldiers told him they found spent bullets in my pockets. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and at the end he made me sign documents written in Hebrew which I did not understand.
4. After the interrogation I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my clothes before being taken to the juvenile section. Two days later I was taken for another interrogation at Salem.
5. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but he did not tell me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and I did not speak to one. He accused me of collecting spent bullets near a military base. This interrogator did not show me any documents and I did not sign anything. After the interrogation, which lasted for about 20 minutes, I was taken back to prison.
6. A few days later I had a military court hearing which my father attended. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. I had three more military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for five years. My lawyer encouraged me to accept the plea bargain and I did.
7. I spent my prison time at Megiddo. I did not have any family visits because my parents were not issued a permit to visit me in time. I did manage to speak to them on a phone twice. I passed the time in prison exercising and attending classes.

8. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 27 May 2020, and I went home with my two brothers. We arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

Name: S.M.I.A.
Age: 14
Date: 28 February 2020
Location: Qalandiya checkpoint, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, S.M.I.A. of Qalandiya refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends when I was arrested at Qalandiya checkpoint at around 8:00 p.m. There were no clashes at the time. Suddenly threes soldiers and a group of men in plain clothes grabbed me. I was shocked as I was not expecting them. They grabbed me and started swearing at me, calling me “a son of a whore”. A soldier forcefully twisted my arms behind my back and walked me towards a shipping container at the checkpoint.
2. When we arrived at the shipping container a soldier slapped me hard on my face and my eye swelled up. They took away my jacket and my boots and socks and then a man in Israeli police uniform came and started to question me.
3. As soon as he came in he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers and claimed he had video footage of the incident. He started to question me without informing me of my rights and I denied the accusation. Then he showed me some video footage. Then he smelled my hands and told me he could smell petrol. Towards the end of the session he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. He then asked me to sign a document written in Arabic and I refused to sign.
4. I was questioned from around 8:30 p.m. until around 1:00 a.m. He wanted me to give him names of other boys who were involved but I did not give any names. Then I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs which were painful. They also shackled my ankles and took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem.
5. We arrived at Atarot at around 1:30 a.m. I waited in a room for about an hour and then I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He had a camera in the room. He did not remove the handcuffs and did not inform me of my rights. I did not speak to a lawyer. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the military watchtower at the checkpoint. He wanted me to give him names of other boys and to confess against one particular boy whom he named. When I refused to answer his questions he yelled at me and told me to speak. Then he read the statement he took from me in Arabic and asked me to sign the document and I did.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. Two days later I had a military court hearing which my father attended. I did not understand anything and the hearing was adjourned.

7. I had more than 15 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 23 September 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a 12-month sentence suspended for 5 years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer accepted it and told me it was a good deal.
8. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer prison. My parents visited me once on 16 August 2020. I was released on 12 October 2020 at Al Jib checkpoint but my father and brother and uncle were told to wait for me at Ofer checkpoint. I managed to call them using a borrowed phone and they came and picked me up from Al Jib and we all went home. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

Testimony 796

Name: M.K.A.H.
Age: 17
Date: 3 March 2020
Location: Silwad, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.K.A.H. of Silwad, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. I opened the door and six Israeli soldiers entered our home. I could see many more soldiers were outside. A soldier asked to check our identity cards and then the commander told me I was under arrest. He did not give me any documents or tell me why I was being arrested. He told me to get dressed and then I was taken away.
2. Once outside the house I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful. I was also blindfolded and taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove me to the nearby settlement of Ofra. When we arrived at the settlement I was taken to a shipping container where I was able to sleep. Later I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. At Binyamin I was left in a room for about an hour before being taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. Before he started to question me I asked to speak to a lawyer. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator left the room during the conversation.
4. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail on the main road near the settlement a week before I was arrested. I denied the accusation. He repeated the accusation and when I denied it again he raised his voice at me and wanted me to confess. I did not. Then he told me other boys had confessed against me but I did not believe him and continued to deny the accusation. He named the boys and showed me a picture of a car and claimed the car was used in the incident when the Molotov cocktail was thrown. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation and tried not to answer his questions.
5. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I signed without understanding what they said. I thought I was obliged to sign.
6. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I arrived there at around noon. The other prisoners gave me some food and I ate because I was very hungry.

7. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My family did not attend the hearing because they were not notified. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. I attended five military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months valid for one year. I accepted the bargain on the advice of my lawyer.
8. I spent the whole month in Ofer prison. I was released on 9 April 2020, and taken by Palestinian police to a hotel where I was tested for the Corona virus. I spent a night at the hotel and when the test was negative I was taken home. The doctors told me I had to self-quarantine for 14 days.

Testimony 797

Name: A.K.A.B.
Age: 16
Date: 9 March 2020
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, A.K.A.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at 2:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at the front door of my uncle's apartment. My uncle lives in the same building as my family. My uncle later told me that six Israeli soldiers entered his home looking for me. They told my uncle that they would destroy his house if he did not turn me in. My uncle then came to our apartment and told me that soldiers had come to arrest me. I quickly got dressed and went downstairs.
2. As soon as I went downstairs a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and they caused me a lot of pain. Then he blindfolded me and put a mask over my mouth and nose and told me to stand by the door. He asked me for my identity card and I was rude to him and he punched me in the chest. I fell to the ground. The commander then told me he was going to beat me hard once we arrived at the police station in Etzion settlement if I did not confess and give him names of other boys.
3. My uncle was given a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. The commander asked my uncle to sign it and then the commander took it away. Then they led me a short distance to make another arrest before taking me to the military watchtower at the entrance to the camp. On the way soldiers slapped and beat me. They made me wait by the watchtower for about an hour. During this time the commander threatened again to beat me at the police station. The soldiers also swore at me.
4. After about an hour I was taken in a vehicle to Etzion police station where I was searched with my clothes on. I was left outside by a shipping container for about 30 minutes and then I was taken to a room. I was left in the room for about an hour and I could not sleep because I was worried about what they might do to me. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold. He wore an Israeli police uniform and spoke broken Arabic. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. I was very suspicious of the alleged lawyer. He did not speak good Arabic. The lawyer told me I was going to go home soon and there was nothing for me to worry about. The interrogator was listening to the conversation on the speaker phone. When I tried to turn the speaker phone off the interrogator punched me in the chest. The conversation lasted for about 30 seconds.
6. Then the interrogator told me I had to behave in accordance with the interrogation rules and that I had to speak but speak softly and politely. He told me I had to answer all his questions no matter what and that I had to speak the truth. He also told I should speak only in response to his questions and nothing else. He did not inform me of my right to silence.

7. Then he told me he was going to revoke my father's work permit. He told me the family will no longer have a work permit and there will be no food to eat. Then he accused me of throwing stones and of being a gang leader. He accused me of forming groups of young boys who throw stones at soldiers and settler buses on the Route 60. I denied the accusations. Then he gave me a specific date and time and accused me of throwing stones on that date together with the other person they arrested with me. I denied the accusation.
8. The interrogator did not have any concrete evidence against me but I suspect he had information from an informant. There are lots of informants in our refugee camp. Out of 10 people in the camp perhaps six or seven are informants. I suspect they tempt them with cash, no matter how small the amount is but unemployment is very high and any amount of money is badly needed.
9. I was questioned for about an hour. The interrogator did not show me any documents and did not ask me to sign anything. I was re-blindfolded and taken outside where I waited for about five minutes before being taken for another interrogation which was harsher.
10. This interrogator did not inform me of my rights. He pulled down the shutters and turned the light off and then removed the blindfold and asked me about two other boys. I told him I knew nothing about them and that he had made a mistake. Then he told me if I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail he would send me home. I told him I was not going to confess to something I did not do. He then blindfolded me again and pulled my head backwards and slapped me on my eyes and shouted at me saying "confess...confess..." This interrogation went on from around 7:30 a.m. until around noon. I was sleep deprived and tired. I asked to use the toilet but the interrogator refused. Despite all this I did not confess to anything.
11. Then the interrogator threatened to send me to Ofer prison. I told him that was fine because I was going to complain to the judge about how he treated me and that I was going to raise a case against him. He told me I was crazy to think along these lines. He did not ask me to sign any documents. Then he called the first interrogator and asked him to take me out. I waited outside for about 30 minutes.
12. After about 30 minutes the second interrogator gave me back my identity card and told me I would not be free for long and threatened to bring me back and lock me up in prison until I rot. Then he told me I could go home.
13. I was dropped off at the entrance gate to Etzion settlement at around 1:30 p.m. on 10 March 2020. I phoned my father who came and picked me up. I was released without charge and I went home with my father.

Testimony 798

Name: I.A.M.A.
Age: 13
Date: 28 March 2020
Location: Kafr Qaddum, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.A.M.A. of Kafr Qaddum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 4:00 p.m. there were clashes in my village with Israeli soldiers. My brother and I were at home when all of a sudden a group of soldiers banged at our front door. They kept banging and my mother finally opened the door.
2. Five soldiers entered our home while others remained outside. They were tense and on high alert. The soldiers immediately approached me and wanted to take me away. My mother and grandmother intervened and tried to release me but they did not succeed. The soldiers pushed my 70-year-old grandmother to the ground but luckily she was not hurt.
3. The soldiers told my mother me and my brother were under arrest because we were throwing stones at the soldiers during the clashes. We told them we did not throw stones but they did not listen. They immediately took me outside without giving my family any documents.
4. Once outside my hands were tied behind my back with a single plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then they walked me towards the gate of the nearby settlement. They made me sit on the ground by the gate and blindfolded me.
5. A soldier started to ask me questions. He yelled at me and accused me of throwing stones at the soldiers. He pulled my T-shirt off my shoulder and threatened to bite me. He asked me questions without informing me of my rights. This lasted for about two hours and then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and the jeep took me to a military base inside the settlement.
6. I was left outside the base in the cold weather for about three hours. Then a soldier brought some cardboard and told me to sleep on the cardboard outside. When I objected he took me to a room but the soldiers there were very noisy and I could not sleep at all. They deliberately laughed and banged to make sure I did not fall asleep. In the morning I was taken to Ariel settlement for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept me tied. He wore an Israeli police uniform. He asked me if I wanted to speak to my father and I told him I did. I hardly spoke to my father for less than a minute before the line was cut off. Then the interrogator asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I told him there was no need because my father was going to speak to one. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent.

8. Then the interrogator asked me whether I worked and threatened to never allow me to obtain a work permit to work inside Israel. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and monitoring the movement of soldiers in our village. I denied the accusations. The interrogator typed everything on a computer. He questioned me for about 15 minutes and in the end he showed me some documents in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused. When I asked for a glass of water he told me he would give me some water later but he never did.
9. After the interrogation I was re-blindfolded and taken to Huwwara military base near Nablus where I was searched in my underwear. The metal detector beeped and the soldier threatened to take me to the hospital to see what was in my stomach and to make me pay the expenses. Then another soldier searched me and did not find anything wrong. I was then taken to a room with two other detainees where I remained for about three hours.
10. After about three hours I was taken to the checkpoint near Megiddo. I was left in a room at the checkpoint by myself. I was given some cold and unappetising food. There was one blanket on the floor and I slept there one night. I could not fall asleep easily because I was worried and I thought of my family especially my mother.
11. In the morning I was told I had a military court hearing. I was taken to another room where I was linked to the military court via video because of the Corona Virus restrictions. I was linked to a female judge and to a lawyer who told me I had to confess to throwing stones at soldiers. I refused to confess and told the lawyer I did not throw stones. He insisted once again and told me I had to plead guilty if I wanted to go home that day. The interpreter then told me I was accused of throwing stones and that I was going to be released the same day.
12. My father later told me I was sentenced in a plea bargain and that he had to pay a NIS 1,000 fine. The military court imposed a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for three years.
13. After the video conference I was driven to Salem checkpoint where I was released but my father was waiting for me at another checkpoint. I spoke to a taxi driver and asked him to call my father and the two agreed on a point where the taxi driver would drop me off. My father picked me up and paid the driver. I was released on 30 March 2020, and I arrived home around sunset.

Name: Y.A.Y.B.
Age: 14
Date: 14 May 2020
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.A.Y.B. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested on the main road near the settlement of Migdal Oz at around 10:00 p.m. At the time there were clashes with Israeli soldiers and lots of boys were throwing stones at them. I was in the area.
2. A large number of soldiers chased me and then beat me. Afterwards they searched me and then tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were so tight that they cut into my wrists until I bled. I was in severe pain and the ties left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then they blindfolded me and the Captain questioned me about stone throwing. He did not inform me of my rights and wanted to know why I threw stones at soldiers.
3. Then they took me to a troop carrier and deliberately banged my head as they pushed me in. I sat on a seat and a soldier pushed my head right down to the level of the seat. It was an uncomfortable position and I was in pain. The soldiers also swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
4. I was taken to a nearby military base where I was left outdoors for about four hours. I begged the soldiers to allow me to use the toilet but they refused. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was searched in my boxer shorts. The soldier who searched me slapped me on the face. Then I was taken for interrogation. It was around 4:00 a.m.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and cut off the middle tie but kept the tight ones around my wrists. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. About half way through the interrogation the interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer. He put the phone on speaker and was listening to the conversation which lasted for less than a minute. The lawyer told me to take care of myself.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and questioned me for about 30 minutes. He threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time if I did not confess. He thought I would be scared and confess but I did not. He repeated the accusation many times and shouted at me when I denied the accusation. He became very aggressive and threatened never to issue my father a work permit. In the end I confessed to throwing stones at soldiers. Then the interrogator showed me a document written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign it but I refused to sign. He yelled at me when I refused to sign and told me I had to sign it and I did.

7. After interrogation I was put in a shipping container until around 9:00 a.m. Soldiers in the shipping container made fun of me and swore at me. At around 9:00 a.m. I was transferred to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was searched in my boxer shorts and I remained there for 14 days. When the 14 days were over I was transferred to the juvenile section at Megiddo where I spent one month. Then I was transferred to Damoun prison, also in Israel.
8. After three days in quarantine I had a military court hearing by video link. My parents did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 20 hearings. At the last one, which was on 14 September 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,500. I also received another three years in prison suspended for three years. I was told I was going to be released after the hearing and that was why I accepted the plea bargain; I was desperate to go home. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 14 September 2020. they hooted the whole way. I was very happy.
9. In prison I was bored. One day I jumped off the bunk bed and badly hurt my knee. I attended classes in Arabic and mathematics but the lessons were not very useful and started only about two weeks before I was released. I did not have any family visits and I missed my family a lot. I called them from a pay phone provided by the prison authorities on average three times a week for about 15 minutes each. I dropped out of school before I went to prison. I want to look for a job but my knee still hurts and I need to have surgery.

Accusation: Weapon possession

I, A.M.Y.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when I heard loud banging at our front door. It was around 6:00 a.m. I got up and saw about 30 Israeli soldiers and two service dogs inside our home. The soldiers pushed the front door open before my father could open it. They aggressively pushed my father aside and my mother was terrified and I saw her shivering. A soldier noticed she was not ok and brought her a glass of water from the kitchen.
2. Then some soldiers approached me and asked me for my name. One soldier brought a dog very close to me and I was terrified. He then slapped me and told me he wanted me to bring him the weapons I had. I told him I had no weapons. He threatened if I did not tell him where the weapons were hidden he was going to arrest all my family. Then a soldier forced my arms behind my back and tied them with one plastic tie. The tie was very tight and painful and it left marks on my wrists for days.
3. The soldiers searched our house and caused damage to the furniture. They broke glass and the dogs urinated on our clothes. When my mother told the soldier to take the dogs out of the house he yelled at her and told her to shut up. Then they took me outside. My mother followed me but the soldiers fired stun grenades in her direction. It was terrifying.
4. After leaving the house the soldiers led me through an olive grove for a long distance. On the way they swore at me and called me "a bastard". At one point they made me lie down on my stomach and then someone beat me. After a while we arrived at a waiting troop carrier. I was blindfolded and put in the back where I sat on a seat. I was then taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. On the way the soldiers inside the troop carrier were having fun, singing songs and shouting.
5. The troop carrier drove to Etzion police station where I was left outdoors in the sun for about four hours. I was tied and blindfolded and a soldier kept telling me if I moved he was going to shoot me. Then I was taken for a medical examination and then for interrogation.
6. The interrogator did not say a word for about an hour. Then he removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He was calm and told me there were confessions by my friends against me claiming I possessed weapons. He wanted me to confess but I denied the accusation and told him I did not have any weapons. I was in his office for about six hours.

7. After the interrogation I was driven back to the olive grove where a soldier hit me in the chest and told me to fetch the weapons. I told him I did not have any weapons. Then I was taken back to the police station where I was put in a room with dim lighting and two intelligence officers. The intelligence officers yelled at me and told me to tell them where I had hidden the weapons.
8. Then I was taken back to the interrogation room. The same interrogator accused me of lying and kicked me on my legs. He swore at me and slapped me on my face. The interrogation process went on for many hours. At the end I was shown documents in written in Hebrew. I was told to sign and I did because I thought I had to.
9. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I was left for three days. The food was disgusting. After three days I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days with other detainees.
10. The following day I had a military court hearing over a video link. My parents were not informed of the hearing and they did not attend. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned.
11. I had many hearings. One week before the last hearing I was summoned for an interrogation with an intelligence officer together with my lawyer. My lawyer told the intelligence officer I wanted to go back to school and to find a job to support my family. Then the intelligence officer asked me who I hang out with and wanted to know the names of my friends. Then he named some boys and asked me if they were my friends and I told him they were not. Then he wanted to know why we throw stones at soldiers when they enter our village. Then he asked me whether it was my desire to become a “martyr”. He questioned me for about two hours without informing me of any rights.
12. At my last hearing, which was about a month before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a further six months in prison suspended for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I could be facing two years in prison if I rejected it.
13. I spent my prison time in Megiddo prison. I exercised quite a bit to pass the time. I did not have any family visits because of the Corina Virus regulations but I was allowed to speak to my family on the phone. I spoke to them three times.
14. I was released on 30 July 2020, at Salem checkpoint and I went home with my family. We arrived home at around 11:30 p.m. The following day the intelligence officer phoned me and told me if I did not hand over the weapons he was going to lock me and my entire family up in prison and that we would never ever see the sun again.

Accusation: None

I, A.M.F.B. of Yabad, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There was an incident in the village where an Israeli soldier was killed. A few days later about 50 soldiers surrounded our house at around 3:00 p.m. About 10 soldiers entered our home and asked my father for me. When my father asked the commander what he wanted from me the commander said he wanted to take me for questioning but did not say why. My father was shocked and told the commander I was just 13-years-old and how could someone my age be arrested. The commander ignored my father.
2. A soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. Then a soldier tied the hands of my father and blindfolded him and the two of us were taken outside. We were both taken to the back of a jeep and they made us sit on the metal floor. The jeep drove to a nearby military checkpoint where we were taken to a courtyard and the soldiers made us sit on the ground.
3. Someone approached me and asked me whether I had any illnesses. After that my father and I were left on the ground for about two hours. Then a soldier removed our ties and blindfolds and took me and my father into a room. The soldiers were shouting in Hebrew but they did not speak to us. Then they took me outside and kept my father. A short time later they took me inside again and told my father to leave the room.
4. I was left in the room with an interrogator in civilian clothes who asked me some questions about the day when the soldier was killed. The interrogator wanted to know if I saw anything. I told him I was asleep at the time and did not see anything. The interrogator started to raise his voice at me and told me he did not believe that I was asleep the whole time. He repeated his question again and asked me what I saw and who else was in our house. I told him I did not see anything.
5. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and did not inform me of any rights. I did not speak to a lawyer and was not given any documents to sign. Then I was taken outside. I was scared and worried that they would tell my father to leave without me. I was tired and hungry. At around 2:00 a.m. my father and I were told we could go home. It was a difficult 12 hours and I still worry that the soldiers might come back for me.

I, I.N.K.H. of Yabad, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was not at home when Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 10:00 a.m. They searched the house and said they were looking for me. The commander phoned me and told me to hand myself in because he wanted to question me about throwing stones. He threatened if I did not show up within an hour he was going to arrest my mother and brother. He called me many times and I went home as requested.
2. As soon as I arrived home the soldiers took me to the living room and brought my father in. The commander told my father he was going to take me to the police station in Ariel settlement for questioning because I was a trouble maker. Then he gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest.
3. A soldier then tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were extremely tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for weeks. He also blindfolded me. I was then led outside where I was put in the back of a military jeep where I was made to sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs.
4. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Mevo Dotan. At the settlement I was taken to a shipping container where I was left for about six hours. Then I was taken to Ariel settlement for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and spoke to me via an interpreter. She told me if I did not speak it would imply I was guilty. Then she asked me if I wanted to consult with a lawyer and she phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer advised me to remain silent and told me not to speak about anything I did not know much about.
6. Then the interrogator told me she had confessions against me and showed me photographs of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was calm but the interpreter was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice and wanted me to confess. He tried to confuse me and put words in my mouth. I was questioned for about two hours. During this time the interrogator wanted me to give her names of boys who throw stones at soldiers and take part in clashes. I did not give her any names. At the end of the interrogation she gave me documents written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused to sign until they were translated for me.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell. I remained in the cell, which I shared with another detainee, for 16 days. The cell was very small and had one small window up by the ceiling. I went crazy in the cell after a few days and to let out my frustrations I smeared the walls with the cream cheese they gave me.
8. After 16 days I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo the metal detector machine went off and the prison authorities thought I was smuggling a telephone into prison. They took me to an Israeli hospital for an X-Ray to determine what triggered the machine. At the hospital they did not find anything wrong. Then I was taken back to Megiddo where I was strip searched before being taken to a nearby checkpoint where I was held in the quarantine section for 14 days.
9. Three days after my arrest, while I was still at Huwwara, I had a military court hearing via a video link. My parents did not take part and the hearing was adjourned. I had six military court hearings and on the seventh one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and a fine of NIS 3,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year in prison valid for one-and-a-half years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor dropped four out of the five items on the charge sheet and kept only one which was stone throwing.
10. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo. There were no family visits because of the Corona Virus but the prison management provided pay phones for minors. I phoned my family once every two weeks.
11. I was released on 16 July 2020, and I went home with a whole group of my family who had come to the checkpoint to pick me up.

Accusation: Throwing stones / pipe bombs

I, A.R.A.H. of Nablus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my friend near the settlement of Itamar at around 3:30 p.m. All of a sudden Israeli soldiers arrived and started to chase me and my friend. I ran as fast as I could but when I turned to see what had happened to my friend a soldier grabbed me and threw me to the ground. He fired two bullets in the air which terrified me. I thought I was going to die.
2. The soldier stepped on my back holding me in position until the other soldiers arrived. While waiting he showed me some photos of boys on his mobile phone and asked me whether I was with those boys when they were throwing stones a couple of days ago. I told him I had nothing to do with the boys and that I had come to the hill for a walk with my friend. The soldier did not believe me and slapped and swore at me. He also cocked his gun and aimed it at me. I was terrified. I told him I was thirsty and wanted some water but he just pushed me onto some thorny bushes.
3. When the other soldiers arrived they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. Then I was blindfolded and taken to the back of a jeep where sat on a seat. On the way the soldiers made fun of me. The jeep drove to Huwwara military base where I was left in an outdoor area for about eight hours. During this time a doctor examined me and asked me whether I had the Corona Virus. Then he searched me with my clothes on.
4. At around midnight I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I was shackled before being taken for interrogation. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold and told me I was a terrorist and accused me of throwing pipe bombs at soldiers. I denied the accusation and told him I had no idea where he got his information from. Then he told me if I wanted to understand how the interrogation would be conducted I could call a lawyer. I told him I did not know any lawyers. He did not help me call a lawyer. Then he continued to question me without informing me of my right to silence.
5. He repeated the accusation again and when I denied it he became angry and accused me of lying. He repeated the same accusation again and this time I decided to remain silent. I knew about the right to silence from a training I had attended. The interrogator was very upset when I did not answer him and he swore at me and called my sister and mother “whores”. I was very upset when he swore at me and I was burning inside but I held up and did not respond to him. Then he threatened to cancel my family's work permit if I did not confess. He also threatened to arrest my father from his workplace inside Israel.

6. Then he accused me of throwing stones near Joseph's tomb in Nablus and showed me a photograph of me holding a plastic toy gun. I denied the accusation and told him I lived very far away from Joseph's Tomb. Then he named some boys and asked me whether I knew them and I told him I did not.
7. He questioned me for about an hour and I continued to deny all the accusations. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them after translating them for me. I signed when I realised the document was identical to what I had said.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell where I remained until the early hours of the evening. I was given some stale bread to eat. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my underwear. I remained at Huwwara for 10 days. During this time I had a military court hearing via video link. The hearing was adjourned. At the second hearing, also via video link, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to time served and a fine of NIS 1,200. My uncle attended the hearing and he accepted the plea bargain and paid the money.
9. I was released on 1 June 2020, after the hearing. I took a car which dropped me off on the main road where my parents, and brothers and cousins and some friends were waiting for me. I arrived home at around 4:00 p.m.

1. I was on the hill near an Israeli settlement. It was around midnight. Suddenly a large group of Israeli soldiers ambushed me. First they beat me and then they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. I snapped the tie twice because it was too tight and the soldiers slapped and swore at me calling me “a bastard”. They also shackled my ankles and blindfolded me.
2. I was left on the ground for a short while and then they walked me to the nearby settlement. On the way the soldiers kept swearing at me. They also slapped me and made fun of me. Inside the settlement I was taken to a shipping container.
3. At around 2:00 a.m. I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a room. The following day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to the quarantine section used for the Corona Virus. I remained tied but my blindfold was removed. The following day I was taken for interrogation.
4. Just before I was taken to the interrogation room a soldier replaced the plastic tie with metal handcuffs. He handcuffed me to the front. The interrogator asked me how I was and wanted to know who incited me to go near the settlement. He was aggressive and told me he was sick and tired of Palestinian “silly tactics and behavior”. Before answering any questions I insisted on speaking to my father on the phone and he allowed me to. I told my father where I was but I did not tell him I was beaten because I did not want him to worry about me.
5. The interrogator spoke to me through an intercom behind glass because of the Corona Virus regulations. He did not inform me of my rights and accused me of attempting to set a fire near the settlement. I denied the accusation. He wanted me to give him names of other boys but I did not give any names. He had a voice recorder and questioned me for about an hour. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign.
6. Then I was taken to another room and a lawyer came in and talked to me. The lawyer asked me whether I had confessed and I told him I had not. Neither the lawyer nor the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. After the interrogation I was taken back to the quarantine section.

7. The following day I was told I had a military court hearing but it turned out I had another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He accused me again of attempting to set fire near the settlement. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and at the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and when I refused to sign he yelled at me. Still, I did not sign.
8. I had six military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another eight months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the bargain because my lawyer told me to.
9. I spent my prison time at Megiddo prison, in Israel. My parents finally received a permit to visit me but it was on the day I was released, so I did not have any family visits. The prison authorities allowed us to speak on the phone and I called my parents once every two weeks for about 10 minutes.

1. I was arrested from my home at around 4:00 a.m. I was up studying and I heard loud banging at our front door. My father opened the door and about 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. My younger sister, who was 13-years-old, was terrified and started to cry. They asked for our identity cards and then searched the house and took all the clothes out of the wardrobes. They did not tell us what they were looking for.
2. After about 30 minutes a soldier gave my father a document with details about my arrest filled out in Hebrew and said I was under arrest. They did not give us a reason for the arrest. A soldier wanted to tie my hands while still inside the house but I refused; I did not want my parents to see me tied. They took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and left marks on my wrists. I was also blindfolded.
3. I was then taken to the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers poked me with their guns and kicked me.
4. I was taken to the settlement of Karmi Zur where I was left out in the cold for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken into a shipping container where I stayed for about four hours. 5. At first the interrogator removed the blindfold but kept the ties and then phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to sign any documents. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted less than a minute.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He gave me a specific date and told me I was among a group of boys who took part in clashes with soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me a photograph of the clashes he was talking about and told me I was there. I denied I was there. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and that one of them claimed I had thrown a pipe bomb at soldiers. I denied all the accusations.
7. About half way through the interrogation the interrogator told me I could remain silent if he asked me a question I did not know the answer to. He was calm most of the time and at the end he asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding anything.

8. After the interrogation I was searched in my boxer shorts and taken into a cell at Etzion. I spent 16 days in the cell. During this time, I had a military court hearing by video link which my parents did not attend because they were not informed. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.
9. After 16 days I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my boxer shorts and then I was taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days. Then I was transferred to section 3 at Megiddo.
10. I had six military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 24 August 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because it seemed good compared to the serious allegations in the charge sheet.
11. In prison I exercised. I had one family visit during this time. I was released at Beitunia checkpoint on 10 December 2020, and went home with my father, my friend and my brother-in-law. We arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

I, K.I.M.Z. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of Israeli soldiers and military vehicles in our neighbourhood. It was around 2:00 a.m. My father managed to open our front door just before the soldiers arrived because he did not want them to break it. About 15 soldiers entered our home and asked to see my identity cards. When I told the Commander I did not have one yet, he checked my name on my mother's identity card and then told me I was under arrest.
2. The commander gave my mother a form filled out in Hebrew and then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then they walked me towards the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur.
3. On the way to the settlement the soldiers beat me with the back of their guns. I was beaten so hard that I found it hard to breathe. They also swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". When we arrived at the settlement they put me in a room and left me there for about an hour, still beating me from time to time. When the Commander came in they stopped beating me.
4. Later I was blindfolded and put in the back of a troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. I was then driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. We arrived at Etzion at around 6:00 a.m. I was moved from one room to another before being taken to a room where three soldiers made me stand in the corner facing the wall for about an hour. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator looked at me and asked whether he had seen me before. Then he asked me what my political affiliations were and then he took me to a room full of Fateh flags. He left me there for about 30 minutes and then came back to interrogate me.
6. The first thing the interrogator did was to phone a lawyer for me to speak to. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me to cut my answers short and to be vigilant. The conversation lasted for a couple of minutes. Then the interrogator asked me whether I had fully understood what the lawyer had told me and I told him I had. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent but warned me that remaining silent would work against me in court.
7. The interrogator then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and pipe bombs at soldiers back in May 2020. He also accused me of setting fire to tyres during clashes with soldiers. I denied the accusations. He told me he had confessions against me from other boys and said if I confessed he would have mercy on me but if I did not confess he was going to arrest my relatives. Then he yelled at me urging me to confess and then punched me in the face.

8. After the first interrogation I was questioned by four more interrogators, each questioned me for 3-4 hours. They did not inform me of my rights. I was not given any food or drink and I was exhausted towards the end after about 12 hours of questioning nonstop. The fourth interrogator wanted to take me back to the village to hand over the pipe bombs he claimed were in my possession. I refused and told him I wanted to speak to a lawyer. He was very aggressive and thumped the table many times wanting me to confess.
9. They accused me of lying and showed me video footage of clashes with soldiers and told me they had evidence against me. Still, I did not confess. The last interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and refused to translate it for me and I refused to sign it.
10. After the interrogations were over I was strip searched before being taken to a room. About 30 minutes later the first interrogator came into the room and told me he was not going to let me sleep until I confessed. He questioned me again for about four hours without informing me of my rights. He had a voice recorder which he turned on. At the end I was so tired and sleepy that I confessed to throwing one Molotov cocktail.
11. After I confessed he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I refused to sign it and asked him to translate it for me he gave me a document in Arabic. I read it and then I signed it. Then I was taken back to the room where I was left with the boy who had confessed against me.
12. I spent 16 days in that room and I had severe tooth ache and asked to see a dentist but they did not arrange for me to see one. During this time, I had three military court hearings via video link. My parents attend the second and third hearings but were not told about the first hearing.
13. Later I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and I spent 14 days there before being taken to the juvenile section. Three days later I had another court hearing and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
14. I had between 10 to 15 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 27 October 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 13 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 12 months suspended for three years. My father then paid another NIS 3,000 and my sentence was reduced from 13 to 12 months. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me the prosecutor was asking for 18 months in prison.
15. I spent the remaining part of my sentence at Ofer where I exercised regularly and I was in charge of keeping the ward clean and tidy. My parents visited me only once. I was released on 4 May 2021 at Al Jib checkpoint but my parents were told to wait by Ofer. I called and they came and picked me up. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

Name: M.A.A.Z.
Age: 16
Date: 3 June 2020
Location: Deir Abu Misha'al, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.A.Z. of Deir Abu Misha'al, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 4:00 a.m. Eight Israeli soldiers came into my bedroom and woke me up. One of them asked me for my name and then told me to get dressed because I was under arrest. They did not tell me the reason for my arrest but they gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew.
2. I was taken outside where my hands were tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. Then they walked me towards the road intersection at the entrance to the village where I was blindfolded. Then they took me to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat.
3. I was driven to a nearby settlement where I was given a quick medical examination. Then they took me to a room together with three other detainees. I was left there until 6:00 a.m. and then I was taken to another nearby settlement for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. Then he handcuffed me to the front and shackled my feet and connected the handcuffs to the shackles with a chain. Then I told the interrogator I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I gave him the name of a lawyer I knew. He phoned another lawyer and handed me the phone and put it on speaker and told me to speak him. The lawyer told me not to be scared. The conversation lasted a few seconds and the interrogator was listening.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he accused me of throwing stones and of holding stun grenades. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me some photographs and pointed to a boy in one of the photos who was holding something in his hand and told me it was me. I told him it was not me. Then he threatened to lock me up in prison for seven years if I did not confess. He raised his voice at me and said the boy in the photo was me.
6. He questioned me for about an hour and in the end I confessed to holding a stone and a spent stun grenade in my hands. I told the interrogator I was shot at before I threw anything at the soldiers. Then he showed me a document written in Hebrew and Arabic about my right to silence. He asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
7. Then I was taken to Huwarra military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts. Then I was taken to a cell where I spent 36 hours. During this time, I had a military court hearing via video link and I did not see any of my family. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was again searched in my boxer shorts.

8. Two days later I had another interrogation. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer and he left the room. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he accused me of the same accusation but added that I possessed explosives. He was aggressive and questioned me for about 30 minutes. At the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison.
9. Later I had a third interrogation. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer before the interrogation. He also told me I had the right to remain silent. He questioned me about the same accusations.
10. In all I had about 20 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence but I did not understand the details; the sound on the video link was poor and I was too excited about going home to bother asking. The guard told me to say "I agree, I agree" and I did without understanding anything.
11. I spent 28 days at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was released from Ofer on 9 December 2020, and I went home with my brother. We arrived home in the evening. In prison I exercised and I attended classes. My father died three weeks later and I am finding it hard to cope.

Name: H.M.M.T.
Age: 15
Date: 6 June 2020
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, H.M.M.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers came to our home at around 3:00 a.m. but I was at the bakery where I work. My father opened the door and the commander asked for me. When my father told him I was at work he told him to go and get me. My father came to the bakery and took me home.
2. The commander asked me to hand over a piece of a weapon he claimed was in my possession. I told him I had no weapons. Then he ordered the soldiers to search the house. They broke the kitchen cupboards and threw all our clothes on the floor. They turned couches and chairs upside down but they did not find anything. Then they told me I was wanted for questioning. They did not give my parents any documents.
3. Then, while still inside the house a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and they caused me pain and my hands swelled. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside where a troop carrier was waiting. I was pushed into the troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor. Inside the troop carrier soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
4. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a courtyard for about seven hours. I was given a medical examination during this time. I asked to use a toilet but the soldiers refused and I was not given any food or drink. Then I was taken for interrogation by an intelligence officer.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He then allowed me to speak to a lawyer on speaker phone. The lawyer told me not to worry and that he was going to speak to my parents to inform them where I was. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to give the interrogator any information. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted about a minute. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence, on the contrary, he told I had to answer all his questions.
6. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and of firing a gun. I denied the accusations. At first, he was calm but then when he pressured me to confess and I refused he became aggressive. He raised his voice at me and threatened to beat me and to lock me up in solitary confinement. He questioned me on an off for about three hours.

7. At the end of the interrogation he gave me a document written in Arabic and asked me to sign it. I quickly read through it and then I signed it. Then I was strip searched before being taken to a cell.
8. The following day I had a military court hearing via video link. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned. After the hearing I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I spent 14 days in a cell with 12 other boys.
9. In all I had about 14 military court hearings. At the last one, which was 25 October 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 13 months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I also received a suspended sentence of one year suspended for three years. I was told that the prosecution had testimonies from informants. I was very upset; my village is full of informants who give false information to the authorities. My brother believes 92 percent of men in my village are informants and the rest are waiting to be recruited. I felt I had no choice but to accept the plea bargain because I was facing a longer prison sentence if I rejected it.
10. After 14 days in quarantine I was taken to the juvenile section at Megiddo prison. After spending a month at Megiddo, I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. My parents visited me four months into my sentence because it took a long time for them to obtain a visiting permit. Later the family visits were suspended because of COVID-19. I only had two family visits during my time in prison.
11. In prison I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I also lifted weights to keep fit. I was released from Ofer prison on 11 May 2021, and I went home with my parents.

Name: M.M.D.A.
Age: 15
Date: 9 June 2020
Location: Abu Dis, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.M.D.A. of Abu Dis, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Three weeks before I was arrested I was shot and wounded in my thighs by Israeli soldiers during clashes. I received one bullet in my right thigh and four in my left. I was very badly injured.
2. Three weeks after this incident I was arrested from home at around 3:00 a.m. I was asleep when I woke to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father answered and about six soldiers entered our home and came straight to my bedroom. One of the soldiers told me to get up because I was under arrest. Then he told me to show him my wounded legs and I did.
3. When my father asked why they were taking me the soldier told him they wanted to treat my injuries. Then he told me to bring my crutches and my medicine and to follow him. He covered my eyes with a mask and did not tie my hands. My parents were not given parents were not given any documents.
4. The soldiers remained in our house for about 15 minutes and then they took me away. Once outside they made my jump over the fence with the mask over my eyes. I fell to the ground because I could not manage the crutches with my eyes covered and the soldiers did not help me. Then they took me into the back of a jeep and made me sit on a seat. Young men from my village came out and started to throw stones at the jeep. Each time a stone hit the jeep the soldier inside the jeep beat me on my back and shoulders and legs.
5. Then they took me to the nearby military base where they continued to beat me all over my body. I was left in an outdoor area for about 30 minutes and then I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, for interrogation. I was left outdoors opposite the interrogation room until around 8:00 a.m. and then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator told me I could either speak to my parents or to a lawyer. I told him I did not know any lawyers and asked to speak to my father. I told my father where I was and asked him to appoint me a lawyer. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but warned me if I did he would interpret my silence as an admission of guilt. Then he asked me about my injuries. He wanted to know why I was shot at and where. He also told me my friends had confessed against me and told him I threw a Molotov cocktail at soldiers in the base near my village. I denied the accusation.

7. The interrogator was calm and told me he had enough evidence against me even if I did not confess. He questioned me twice over a period of about six hours. He repeated the same questions and wanted me to confess against my friends. At the end he wanted me to sign documents written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding what the documents said.
8. After the interrogation I was put in a vehicle with two of my friends who were arrested at the same time. We were left in the vehicle by ourselves for about an hour. Then I was taken to a clinic where a doctor examined me and it was decided to send me to a hospital because I had a severe infection and high fever. I was taken to Afula hospital, in Israel, where I spent nine days and I was operated on twice. In hospital my hands were handcuffed to the bed and I was very uncomfortable.
9. During my time at the hospital I was questioned in bed by the same interrogator. He played a voice recording of me and my friends chatting in the vehicle and wanted to know why I had told my friends to stop talking because the conversation may be recorded. He accused me of interfering with the investigation. I denied the accusation and told him the voice heard in the recording was not mine. He questioned me nonstop for about two hours without informing me of my rights. The interrogator was calm but the person who was with him was aggressive and thumped the table a couple of times. I was not given any documents to sign.
10. The following day the same thing happened; I was questioned in bed by the same interrogator and I was accused of interfering with the investigation and of obstructing justice. I denied the accusation. I was not informed of my rights and I was not given any documents to sign.
11. During my time at the hospital the interrogator told me I had a military court hearing which was held without me. He told me my detention was extended. After nine days at the hospital I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days.
12. I had four military court hearings which I attended via video link. At the last hearing, which was on 14 October 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I also received a one-year sentence suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I would spend more time in prison had I rejected it.
13. After 14 days at the Megiddo quarantine section I was transferred to Ofer prison where I spent a few days and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. During my time in prison I had one family visit on the day when I was released. I called my family every other day from a pay phone provided by the prison authorities but they charged me a lot of money for just a few minutes.
14. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 4 November 2020, and I went home with my father. I arrived home in the evening.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails / pipe bombs

I, A.A.S.M. of Abu Dis, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:00 a.m. I woke up when I heard the sound of Israeli military vehicles around our house. Then I heard loud banging at our front door. My father opened the door and about 10 soldiers entered our home.
2. The commander called my name and told me I was under arrest. He told me to bring the medicine I was taking for the bullet wound in my leg I had sustained three weeks earlier. The soldiers searched the house for telephones. Then the commander told my parents he wanted to take me for questioning but did not give them any documents.
3. Then, while still inside the house, a soldier handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs and tightened them hard. They were painful and when I asked for them to be loosened no one responded. Then they took me outside where I was blindfolded. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers swore at me.
4. The jeep took me to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where I waited in an open-air area from around 4:00 a.m. until around noon before being taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator allowed me to phone my father and then he told me I had the right to remain silent. He also warned me that remaining silent would not be in my interests and it would imply I was guilty. He repeated this throughout the interrogation and kept telling me to speak and to tell him everything I knew.
6. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and pipe bombs at soldiers and told me my friends had confessed against me and. I denied the accusation. He told me if I confessed he would give me a shorter sentence but if I did not he was going to lock me up in prison for a long time. He thumped the table when I kept silent and yelled at me telling me to speak and to confess. He questioned me for about an hour then took a break and then questioned me for another hour. He repeated the same accusations and wanted me to confess but I did not. At the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and Arabic and asked me to sign them and I did.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to a room and a lawyer came and told me not to worry. He asked me what I was accused of and wanted to know whether I had confessed or not.

8. Then I was taken to a vehicle together with two other boys from my village and we were chatting. A soldier came entered the vehicle and slapped me and swore at me. Then I was taken to an Israeli hospital and a doctor examined the bullet wound in my leg. I was then placed in quarantine in a place near Akko where I spent 14 days because they suspected I was sick with Covid19.
9. During this time I was questioned by the same interrogator who wanted an explanation for the conversation I had with the other boys while waiting in the vehicle. I then realized they had recorded the conversation without us knowing. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not give me any documents to sign. He also told me a military court held a hearing in my absence during the time I was at the hospital and the judge extended my detention. After spending 14 days in quarantine I was taken to Megiddo prison where I was strip searched before being taken to the juvenile section.
10. I had about 10 military court hearings over video link which my parents attended. At the last one, which was on 1 September 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given another one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told it was a good deal given the serious charges in the charge sheet.
11. I spent two weeks at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer prison. In prison I exercised and I chatted to the other detainees and attended classes in Arabic and mathematics. I was released on 18 November 2020, and I went home with my brother, my cousin and my friend. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

1. I was arrested at around 8:00 p.m. at the entrance to the village. Israeli military jeeps drove into town and I went with a friend of mine to see what was going on. The soldiers approached me and started to talk to me in Hebrew. One of them suddenly struck me with the back of his gun. I was left on the ground for about 10 minutes and then a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and I was in pain.
2. Then the soldiers walked me a short distance towards the military jeeps and pushed me into the back of a jeep and made me sit on a metal box on the floor. The soldiers inside the jeep were talking in Hebrew and making fun of me and laughing hysterically. They drove around for about two hours and then took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I arrived there at around midnight.
3. I was left outside and I was told to crouch for about 30 minutes then I was taken into a room where the air conditioner was turned on. The room was freezing cold. I was not given anything to eat but they gave me some water. They did not allow me to use the toilet when I asked. I was left there until around 4:00 a.m.
4. At around 4:00 a.m. I was strip searched before being taken to a cell where they removed the ties and the blindfold. At around 4:00 p.m. I was handcuffed and taken for interrogation. I was sleepy, hungry and tired.
5. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me that the interrogator will do his job and interrogate me and then I will be transferred to prison. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator wanted to know what I was doing at the entrance to the village at that hour. Then he told me that soldiers saw me throwing stones at military jeeps. At first, I denied the accusation.
7. The interrogator was calm but then he was joined by the area intelligence officer who was aggressive. He accused me of weapons possession and wanted me to hand over the weapons. I denied the accusation. Then he wanted to know if I had shot at anyone and if so where and when. I continued to deny the accusation.

8. I was questioned on and off for about an hour. They took me outside and brought me back in multiple times. Towards the end I confessed to throwing stones at soldiers who had entered the village. After I confessed the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I asked him to translate it for me he told me it was my confession. I signed the document.
9. After the interrogation I was taken outside and a group of soldiers walked me for about 30 minutes inside the police station compound. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts and then I was taken back to the cell.
10. The following day I had a military court hearing via video link. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I spent 17 days in the cell and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days. Then I was transferred to the juvenile section at Megiddo.
11. I had about 15 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 25 October 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 13 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was given a 10-month suspended sentence. I accepted the bargain because I was told by my lawyer otherwise I was facing two years in prison.
12. On 1 September 2020, I was transferred to Ofer prison where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. In prison I exercised and played table tennis and I attended classes in Arabic. I had two family visits.
13. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 13 June 2021, but my parents were told to wait at Ofer checkpoint. My father arranged for a taxi to bring me to where my parents were waiting and paid him a lot of money. I went home with my parents, my brother and my friends. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.

I, A.R.A.J. of Nablus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking to my friend's house when an Israeli military jeep drove towards me and stopped. It was around 3:00 p.m. A soldier stepped out and asked me what I was doing. Then he handcuffed me with my hands behind my back with metal handcuffs and tightened them. They were very tight and painful. Then he blindfolded me and took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat.
2. Inside the jeep a soldier hit me with the back of his gun and swore at me. The jeep drove to Huwwara military base where I was taken to a shipping container. The soldiers then tuned the air conditioner on very cold and I was freezing. A soldier asked me some questions without informing me of my rights.
3. The soldier wanted to know what I was doing in the area and how old I was. Then he told me he was Muslim and was surprised when I did not believe him. He told me he could read the Quran for me and then he asked me if I wanted to collaborate with them. He told me I was a courageous boy. I told him I would never collaborate even if he stuck his gun to my head. Then he asked me if I wanted a cigarette and I told him I did not smoke. Then he asked to see my Facebook page. Then the commander came and told the soldier to leave me alone.
4. About two hours later I was taken outside where I was left in the sun. I asked for some water but the soldiers did not respond. One of them spat at me and I started to shout. Soldiers heard my shouts and came to see what was going on. One of them slapped me and then made fun of me.
5. About six hours later I was examined by a doctor and then I was taken back to the same place. At around 1:30 a.m. I was taken to a room and then at around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement for more interrogation. On the way a soldier struck me with his elbow on my chest and caused me a lot of pain.
6. At Ariel soldiers stopped to buy some food but did not give me any. When the commander left a soldier accused me of planning to throw Molotov cocktails at soldiers. When I told him I did not understand what he was talking about he grabbed me by the neck and pressed hard and pointed his gun at my head. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken into the interrogation room.

7. The interrogator was female and she spoke to me through an interpreter. She removed the blindfold but kept me handcuffed. She told me I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. I did not speak to a lawyer. She wanted to know why I had a pen knife in my pocket and I told her for self-defense. Then she asked me about the spent bullets in my pockets and I told her the soldiers put them in my pockets. The interrogation lasted for about an hour and I denied all accusations. At the end of the interrogation I was shown documents in Hebrew and asked to sign them. I asked for them to be translated and only then did I sign.
8. Then I was taken to a cell where I slept on a chair until around noon. Then I was taken back to Huwwara where I was left at the gate in the hot sun for about four hours. Then I was taken to a cell where I was searched in my underwear. I remained in the cell for three days. During this time I had a military court hearing on video.
9. My lawyer showed the military court medical reports proving I have psychological issues. The judge decided to release me and imposed a fine of NIS 2,000. I was released on 14 June 2020, at around noon. I was dropped off at Huwwara gate and I stopped a taxi which drove me to where my father was waiting for me and then I went home with my father.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.Y.N. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at my father's nursery when an Israeli military jeep came through the gate and stopped right in front of me. It was around 2:00 p.m. There were no clashes at the time but that did not stop the soldiers from firing rubber bullets and stun grenades. Two soldiers got out of the jeep, grabbed me and threw me on into the back of the jeep where I lay on the metal floor. I was in total shock as I was not doing anything wrong.
2. Inside the jeep a soldier asked me about some other boy and I told him I had no idea which boys he was talking about. The jeep drove for about 15 minutes to a gate in the Wall where I was blindfolded and my hands tied to the front with one plastic tie. The tie was not tight.
3. Then I was taken out of the jeep and made to sit by a military watchtower. An angry soldier started to ask me questions without informing me of my rights. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and accused me of throwing stones. He also wanted me to give him the names of other boys. I denied the accusation.
4. Then another jeep arrived which I was taken to – this time I sat on a seat. I was then taken to a nearby military base where I was left in an outdoor area for about 30 minutes surrounded by soldiers.
5. After about 30 minutes I was taken to a shipping container where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor removed the blindfold during the examination. Then I was taken to Ariel settlement. I arrived there at around 3:00 a.m. I was taken to a room where I waited for about three hours and then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. Before asking me any questions he told me I had the right to speak to a lawyer. He read this out from a document. I cannot remember if he said anything about the right to silence as he read fast. He gave me the document to sign and I did. It was written in Arabic and Hebrew. Then he gave me a list of lawyers with their phone numbers. I told him I wanted my father to select a lawyer from me and he allowed me to phone my father. The interrogator started to question me after I spoke to my father before I had spoken to a lawyer.
7. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and claimed I had confessed to the soldiers who arrested me. I denied the accusation and told the interrogator I was at my father's nursery and I was arrested from there for no reason other than I was the first boy the soldiers had seen. The interrogator was calm and spoke to me through an interpreter who spoke very good Arabic. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. I denied the accusation and insisted I was innocent. I was not given any documents to sign after the interrogation.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to another room where I was fingerprinted and photographed. Then I was put in a shipping container where I slept for about three or four hours. I was woken up by soldiers nearby who were laughing, chatting and slamming doors.
9. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was strip searched but the metal detecting machine went off. The soldiers asked me whether I had surgery and I told them I had when I was young. Then the soldiers decided to take me to the hospital for an X-Ray to see what it was that triggered the metal detector.
9. I was taken to a hospital inside Israel where they took an X-Ray and the Israeli doctor told the soldiers he could only see a scar from the hernia surgery I had had when I was young. At the hospital I was tied and shackled the whole time.
10. Then I was taken back to Megiddo prison where I was kept in a separate quarantine section where all the recent detainees were kept because of the Corona virus regulations.
11. The following day I had a military court hearing via video link. I could see the military judge on the screen but I could not see a lawyer. My parents did not attend and the hearing was adjourned.
12. A few days later I had another hearing which my father attended via video link and I could see him and I spoke to him. I had four hearings and at the last one the judge told me he was willing to accept a plea bargain where I would plead guilty to throwing stones, setting fire to tyres and cutting barbed wire and in return I would go home. Otherwise I would have to spend two months in prison. I told the judge I did not do anything wrong and explained I did not see any reason for me to plead guilty. Then my father intervened and told me my mother missed me badly and wanted me home and that I should accept the plea bargain for my mother's sake. I accepted to plead guilty to throwing stones but not to burning tyres or cutting barbed wire.
13. There was a lot of talking in the court room but in the end I was told I was going to go home with my father after the hearing. I was also told my father had to pay a fine of NIS 2,000 and that I had a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for a year.
14. I was released on 29 June 2020, in the afternoon at Al-Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my father. We arrived home in the evening.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, A.A.A.S. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested on the main road at around 11:00 p.m. I was with my friends when a group of about 15 Israeli soldiers on foot started to run towards us. They surrounded us and then fired live bullets at us. One of my friends was badly injured, another managed to run away and I was arrested.
2. A soldier grabbed me and hit me hard. Then he pushed me to the ground and swore at me. Then another soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie and tightened it very hard. I was in severe pain and my hands swelled. Then I was blindfolded and dragged on foot to the nearby settlement of Bet El. I fell to the ground many times because I could not see and the road was rough.
3. They left me by the gate to the settlement and three settlers started to beat me on my head and legs. The soldiers saw them and tried to keep them away from me but without much effort. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
4. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around 3:00 a.m. I was left in a room for about an hour and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept the tie. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer but told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me video footage and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. He raised his voice when I denied the accusation and shouted at me telling me to confess.
6. Then he told me they had arrested one of my friends who was with me and claimed he had confessed against me. He questioned me for about 90 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. He verbally translated it for me and I signed it when I realized it was identical to what I had told him.
7. Then I was taken to a military jeep which drove around for a long time and I could not sleep. I was exhausted. Finally, they took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. By then I think it was around 8:00 a.m. Soldiers at Etzion slapped me on the neck and beat me on my legs. Then I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I spent the next four days.
8. The following day I had a military court hearing by video link. My mother attended and the hearing was adjourned.

9. Two days later I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer before he started to question me. The lawyer told me he was going to represent me and that I was about to be interrogated. The interrogator sat next to me and heard the conversation on the speaker phone which lasted less than a minute.
10. Then he informed me of my right to silence and accused me of the same accusation. He also added incitement on Facebook. I denied the accusations. The interrogator yelled at me telling me to confess and told me my friend had confessed against me. He thumped the table aggressively. He told me he had all the evidence he needed against me and there was no need for me to confess. He questioned me for about two hours while I was handcuffed. At the end he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I signed after he translated it for me.
11. During the four days in the cell I was very worried about what they might do to me. I was so stressed that I felt palpitations in my heart and I panicked. I called the guard and told him I was not feeling well. I was examined by a medical professional and then I was taken to a hospital. I spent a whole day at the hospital while they did all the tests. I was shackled and handcuffed while at the hospital and I was not given any food because I slept most of the time.
12. After four days I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched and then I was taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days. I was quarantined with three other boys in the same room. Then I was taken into section 3.
13. I had about 10 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 27 October 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received another 10 months in prison suspended for one year. My lawyer told me it was a good deal instead of the 17 months in prison the prosecutor wanted and encouraged me to accept it and I did.
14. In prison I worked in the canteen and kept track of the prisoners' accounts with the canteen. I did not have any family visits but I had access to a telephone and I phoned my family twice a month for 10 minutes each time. The telephone was monitored by a guard who spoke Arabic and sat next to me.
15. I was released at Al Jalama on 3 January 2021, and I went home with my brother and my cousin. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.M.A.G. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my friends on the main road near the settlement of Beit El when we were ambushed by a group of five Israeli soldiers. It around 10:00 p.m. The soldiers ordered us to stop and fired live bullets in our direction. I was shot two times just above the knee and I fell to the ground. Even though I was shot the soldiers made me hop on one leg. I was terrified when I saw the amount of blood. I pulled down my trousers then I took off my shirt and tied my leg above the wound to stop the bleeding. I thought I was going to die.
2. A soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie and tightened it hard. I was in pain. I was put in a vehicle and driven inside the settlement. Once inside the settlement the soldiers swore at me. I was transferred to an ambulance and taken to an Israeli hospital. I arrived at the hospital at around midnight.
3. I was operated on twice and when I woke up I was confused and did not know where I was. Lots of soldiers surrounded my hospital bed and I was tied to the bed. After the surgery I was interrogated in bed.
4. I was still under the effect of anesthetics when I was interrogated. I did not speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence. The interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the soldiers and wanted me to confess against the other two boys who were with me. He questioned me for about two hours and I don't remember much of what happened as I was not all there. I don't think I signed any documents.
5. I spent six days at the hospital and then I was transferred to another hospital at Ramleh prison, inside Israel. I spent four days in a cell at Ramleh. The cell was very small and had a small window. I could barely see daylight. The toilet was in the cell and I could barely move. I was in distress and had severe headaches and could not sleep because I was next door to criminal prisoners who shouted day and night. I was in a bad psychological state.
6. During this time, I had a military court hearing via video link which my mother attended. My detention was extended for more interrogation. On the fourth day I decided to go on hunger strike because I wanted to be taken out of the cell.
7. Then I was transferred to another section with lots of injured prisoners. Some had lost limbs, others had tubes coming out of their stomachs, others had lost an eye or had severe burns. They were horrible scenes of badly injured people and I could not take it. The first few days were very hard but then I got used to the people around me. I spent 45 days in this section until my wound healed.

8. During this time, I was interrogated again. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain focused during the interrogation. I spoke to him for a very short time and the interrogator was listening. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and then accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. When I denied the accusation, he told me I had already confessed during the first interrogation at the hospital. I denied having confessed and told him I did not even remember being interrogated.
9. Then he accused me of plotting to kill soldiers. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and I refused to sign the documents he showed me which were written in Hebrew.
10. A few days later I was interrogator once again. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to stick to my position. I spoke to him for a minute and the interrogator was listening. Then, without informing me of my right to silence the interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He was mostly calm and questioned me for about 30 minutes.
11. After spending 45 days at Ramleh I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and then I was taken into section 13. During my time at Ofer I was suspicious of some of the prisoners who asked me questions and wanted me to tell them what I had done. I was afraid they were informants and did not say anything to them. One of them told me I had destroyed my life by not confessing and said if I confessed I would get out of prison sooner. I kept quiet.
12. I had five military court hearings and at the last one, which was in sometime in September 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I could spend five years in prison.
13. I spent the rest of my sentence at Ofer where I exercised a lot. I also cleaned the ward and was in charge of distributing the food. I only had two family visits. I was given early release and left prison on 18 November 2020, at Ofer checkpoint and I went home with my brother. I arrived home around sunset.

Location: Hebron, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.M.M.B. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was in the old city of Hebron in an area called Bab Elzawyeh at around 4:00 p.m. At the time there were clashes with Israeli soldiers. Five soldiers approached me and one of them hit me on my head. Then another soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands to the back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. He tightened them hard and they caused me a lot of pain and left marks on my wrists for days. He also shackled my feet with metal shackles and took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat.
2. The jeep drove me to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba where I was taken for interrogation. I arrived there in the early hours of the evening.
3. The interrogator removed the hand ties and the blindfold and asked me for my name. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers in the old city and told me soldiers had testified against me. I denied the accusation and told him I was not involved in any stone throwing. He questioned me for about an hour and kept repeating the same accusation. He sometimes was calm and polite and other times he was angry and raised his voice as he asked me questions.
4. About half way through the interrogation he told me I could speak to a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer and handed the telephone over to me. I hardly managed to speak two sentences with the lawyer before the line was cut off. The interrogator did not say anything about my right to silence.
5. Later the interrogator showed me photographs and I confessed to throwing stones at soldiers. The interrogator then showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and did not translate them for me. I signed some but not others.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken into a cell where I was left by myself for 16 days. On my third day at Etzion I had a military court hearing on video link. My parents were not included in the link and the hearing was adjourned.
7. I had six military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and given a suspended sentence of 12 months in prison valid for one year. I don't think my parents paid any fines because of our bad financial situation. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me the prison sentence would be longer if I rejected it.

8. Then, after spending 16 days in a cell at Etzion police station I was taken to Megiddo prison inside Israel. On arrival at Megiddo I was searched in my underwear. At Megiddo I spent 14 days in a quarantine cell with other prisoners and then after 14 days I was transferred into the juvenile section.
9. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus regulations but I was allowed to make phone calls once every two weeks. The telephone was provided by the prison authorities and was monitored.
10. In prison I lifted weights to keep fit. I was released on 30 August 2020, at Al Jalama checkpoint. I went home in a taxi by myself because my parents were not informed of my release. I arrived home at around midnight.

I, M.H.F.N. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I keep pigeons on the roof of our building as a hobby. On the day I was arrested I was on the roof exercising my pigeons at around 10:30 a.m. As usual I was preventing them returning to their cage too soon using a sling shot. An Israeli soldier guarding the nearby checkpoint thought I was aiming at him and he started shooting in my direction. I was terrified as I heard bullets passing very close to me but luckily I was not hit. I went downstairs and ran away.
2. Soon a large group of soldiers raided our home looking for me. They had a stretcher because I think they thought I had been shot dead and they wanted to take my body away. They phoned my father and told him I was shot dead. My father was terrified and came running home but then he calmed down when he saw me on the street. He told me I had to turn myself in to the soldiers because they threatened to kill my mother if I did not show up. When I heard this I turned myself in.
3. As soon as I turned myself in a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. Then they walked me to a nearby military base and took me to the basement where I was examined by a doctor. I complained to the doctor about the hand tie and she replaced it with a looser one. She also removed the blindfold and asked me some questions about my health. I told the doctor I was shot at and that I was in shock.
4. After the medical check I was blindfolded again and the soldiers took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on a seat. The jeep drove to another military base not too far away. I was left in a shipping container at the military base until around 10:00 p.m. Then a soldier removed the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was an older man and had a voice recorder on his desk. He removed the tie and asked me how I was in a polite manner. Then he changed his tone and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers with a sling shot. I denied the accusation and told him I was keeping the pigeons away from their cage while they flew around. He questioned me without informing me of my rights. Then he wanted me to confess against my cousin and I refused and told him I did not do anything wrong nor did my cousin. Then he pulled his pistol from his pocket and placed it on the table in front of him and threatened to shoot me if I did not confess.

6. The interrogator then started to make fun of me and to impersonate me and I did the same back at him. He got mad and started to shout at me telling me to confess. Then he pulled out a pen knife and threatened to cut my throat. At that moment I lost control and stood up and started to bang my head against the wall until I bled. The interrogator looked worried and he ended the interrogation and told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer.
7. The interrogator phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone. He told me to go to the toilet and speak to the lawyer there. The lawyer asked me for my name and age and but did not say anything about my legal rights. The conversation lasted for less than a minute.
8. The interrogator questioned me for about 90 minutes and at the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I signed without understanding anything.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell with two other detainees. I spent a night at Etzion and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched in my clothes and then I was taken to the quarantine section.
10. Two days later I had a military court hearing by video. I asked my lawyer to allow me to speak to my mother and I did. I told her I was fine. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had seven military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the bargain because my lawyer told me the prosecutor was asking for six months in prison for me.
11. I spent my prison sentence in Megiddo prison where I helped with cleaning and I exercised. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus but I was allowed to make phone calls once every two weeks for 10 minutes. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 2 September 2020. My parents were not informed and so were not waiting for me. I called them and waited at the checkpoint until they arrived and they took me home. We arrived home at 2:00 a.m.

1. I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. It was around 3:30 a.m. My father opened the door lots of Israeli soldiers entered our home. The commander singled me out and took me aside. Then the soldiers conducted a quick search and within 15 minutes I was taken outside. The commander did not give a reason for my arrest and did not give my parents any documents.
2. Outside the house a soldier kicked me in the stomach and swore at me. Then he tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and they caused me pain and left marks on my wrists for days. Then he blindfolded me and took me to a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor.
3. They took me somewhere I did not recognize where I was given a quick medical examination. About 15 minutes later I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I was taken to a small cell where I was left for about four hours and then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me two boys had confessed against me and said he did not want to demoralize me. He told me to try not to confess to a serious allegation. He also told me not to sign any documents. We spoke for a few minutes and the interrogator was listening.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator told me two boys gave confessions against me and accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail. At first, I denied the accusation but then later I confessed. The interrogator was calm and questioned me for about three hours. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I spent 14 days. On the third day I had a military court hearing via video link. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. The military judge extended my detention and the hearing was adjourned.
7. About a week later I had another interrogation. I asked the interrogator if I could call my parents. He told me it was not allowed to call the parents but then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to deny the accusation and advised me to say I confessed the first time because I was under duress. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted a few minutes.

8. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones, shooting and throwing a Molotov cocktail. I denied all the accusations except the Molotov cocktail. He questioned me for about 45 minutes. At the end he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I asked him to explain what the document said and he told me it was what I had told him. Then I signed.
9. About two months later I had another interrogation. This time I was not informed of my right to silence and I did not speak to a lawyer. The interrogator showed me my friend's confession against me and made me read it out in a loud voice. My friend accused me of shooting. Then the interrogator told me if I did not confess to shooting he was going to send me to Al Mascobiyeah for a much harsher interrogation. He questioned me on and off for about 10 hours and did not ask me to sign any documents.
10. After spending 14 days at the quarantine section I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
11. I had more than 20 military court hearings. At the last one, which was about three months before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a 10-month suspended sentence suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I was facing 18 months in prison if I rejected it.
12. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer. I exercised to pass the time and I attended classes in Arabic and Mathematics. My parents visited me twice.
13. I was released at Ofer checkpoint on 19 January 2021, and I went home with my brother and father. I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m. In prison I missed my family a lot and that was very hard.

The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. He also shackled my legs with plastic ties.
3. After about 30 minutes I was taken to the back of a jeep and made to sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. The jeep drove to a nearby military base in a settlement where I was left in an outdoor area until 6:00 a.m. the following morning. The soldiers around me were very noisy and made fun of me and I could not sleep at all. They asked me about other boys and when I refused to give names one of the soldiers slapped me on the face. They asked me questions without informing me of my rights. I had to beg to be able to use the toilet. They brought me some food and I ate.
4. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken in a jeep to a police station. At the police station I was left in a shipping container for about five hours before being taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. He was wearing civilian clothes. As soon as I entered the room he asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on the speaker phone. The interrogator listened to the conversation. The lawyer told me not to worry and that I had the right to remain silent. I barely spoke for a minute or two when the interrogator took the phone and started to speak to the lawyer himself. He spoke to the lawyer in Hebrew and I did not understand what they were talking about.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of taking part in clashes with soldiers and of throwing stones at them. I denied the accusation. Then he told me soldiers saw me throwing stones at them. Still, I denied the accusation and the interrogator became aggressive and started to shout at me telling to confess. He questioned me for about an hour and asked me for the names of boys who throw stones at soldiers. I did not give any names.

7. Later the interrogator threatened to lock me up in prison “until you rot” if I did not confess and give him names. I did not confess. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them. I told him I was not going to sign unless he translated the document for me. He started to translate but then I got bored and told him to stop because the document was very long and I signed the document.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell. I spent 11 nights at Huwwara. During this time I was interrogated once again. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights but he allowed me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me to deny all the accusations.
9. The same interrogator questioned me the second time. This time he was more aggressive. He accused me of the same accusations and wanted me to confess. I denied the accusations and did not confess. He questioned me for about 40 minutes and gave me documents in Hebrew to sign. I signed them after he translated them for me and they were identical to what I had said
10. I also had three military court hearings during these 11 days which were conducted via video link because of the Corona Virus regulations. My father attended the hearing and they were all adjourned. On the 12th day I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched before being taken to a holding area at the checkpoint near the prison where all new detainees are quarantined for 14 days.
11. I had two more military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 14 September 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison, fined NIS 1,000 fine and given a suspended sentence of eight months valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer and my father wanted me to accept it. They told me if I did not I would be sentenced to five months in prison instead of two months.
12. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo prison. I attended Hebrew, Arabic and math classes but the lessons were not useful for me and did not help me prepare for my final high school exams. My parents did not visit me because of the Corona Virus regulation but the prison management provided telephones for us and I called my parents once every two weeks for 10 minutes.
13. I was released on 23 September 2020, at Al Jalama checkpoint. My parents were not informed of my release and they were not waiting for me at the checkpoint. I managed to phone them and I started to walk home and I met my father along the way. He took me home and I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.Y.M.B. of Ya'bad, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes between Israeli soldiers and villagers on the main road by my village. It was around 5:00 p.m. A military jeep drove by and stopped. Suddenly three soldiers stepped out and started to shoot in the air. I was terrified. One soldier grabbed me and struck me with the back of his gun in my back. He also swore at me. Then he tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie. He tightened it very hard and it caused me a lot of pain and left marks on my wrists for days. He also blindfolded me and made me sit on the ground for about 30 minutes.
2. After about 30 minutes I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Soldiers inside the jeep swore at me. Then I was taken to the nearby settlement of Dotan. I was taken to a room where I was left from the evening until 6:00 a.m. the following day. I was allowed to use the toilet and I was given some food.
3. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to a police station. I was left in a room for about 15 minutes and then I was taken outside. At around 10:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie. He called my father and allowed me to speak to him. My father gave me a telephone number for a lawyer and I called the lawyer and spoke to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to confess. The conversation lasted a couple of minutes.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers in the village. He told me the soldiers testified against me and that my friends also confessed against me. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was calm and did not threaten me. He questioned me for about 30 minutes. At the end of the interrogation he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I signed it after he verbally translated it for me.
6. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell. I was left in the cell for 11 days. During this time I had three military court hearings on video link. My father attended the second and third hearings. Then, 11 days later, I was taken to Megiddo prison where I was strip searched before being taken to a special section where I was quarantined together with other detainees. I spent 13 days in the quarantine section and then I was transferred to the juvenile section.

7. I had four more military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a suspended sentence of eight months valid for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me that the prosecutor was asking for four months in prison.
8. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo where I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus regulations but I was able to phone my parents twice.
9. I was released on 23 September 2020 and I went home by myself because my parents were not informed. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint and I walked a short distance and then I called my father and he met me on the way. I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m.

I, N.N.N.B. of Ya'bad, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes in my village between Israeli soldiers and locals at around 5:00 p.m. I was in the area and soldiers shot live bullets in my direction. Then a group of soldiers chased and grabbed me. They beat and kicked me and struck me with the back of their guns. They also swore at me.
2. A soldier then tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie and tightened it very hard. It was very painful. He also blindfolded me. I was left on the ground for about 30 minutes and then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I was made to sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers made fun of me.
3. The jeep drove to the nearby settlement of Dotan. At the settlement I was left in a courtyard until 6:00 a.m. the following day. I could not sleep as I was tied and blindfolded and in pain from the beating. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to a police station I am not sure where. At around 10:00 a.m. I was interrogated.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie. He told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and advised me to remain silent. The conversation lasted for two minutes. The interrogator remained in the room but appeared not to be paying attention.
5. After my conversation with the lawyer the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers without informing me of any other rights. He was aggressive and wanted me to confess. He threatened to lock me up in prison for life if I did not confess. He claimed my friends had confessed against me but I did not believe him. Then he told me soldiers saw me throwing stones and gave a testimony against me. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I denied the accusation.
6. At the end of the interrogation I was shown documents in Hebrew which the interrogator verbally translated for me. I signed the documents after the interrogator insisted that I should sign.
7. Then I was taken to a room where I waited a short while before being taken to Huwwara military base near Nablus. On arrival at Huwwara I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell where I remained for 11 days. During this time I had a military court hearing by video. My father attended the video hearing and my detention was extended.

8. After 11 days I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched before being taken to a special section to be quarantined with other detainees because of the Corona Virus.
9. I had four military court hearings in total and on 14 September 2020, I was sentenced, in a plea bargain, to two months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received an eight-month sentence suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me it was good.
10. I spent my prison time in Megiddo. I passed my time exercising and lifting weights. I also attended classes in mathematics, Arabic and Hebrew. Although I had dropped out of school a year earlier I found the classes interesting.
11. I was released on 23 September 2020 at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with another prisoner who was released with me. I arrived home at around 6:00 p.m. I was very happy to be home.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, S.M.S.S. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 1:30 a.m. I was in bed and I woke up when six Israeli soldiers entered my bedroom. They searched the house and then asked me for my name and age. They searched my wardrobe looking for a certain shirt and trousers to match the ones in a photo they had. They did not show me the photo. They told me I was under arrest but they did not tell us why or produce any documents. When my father asked why I was being arrested the commander said I was a "trouble maker".
2. They remained inside our home for about 30 minutes and then they took me outside where I was handcuffed - my right hand to the left hand of a soldier. The soldiers then led me to the nearby military checkpoint. At the checkpoint they handcuffed my hands to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful. They also covered my eyes with a mask. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where my legs were shackled and I was made to sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' feet. The soldiers were making fun of me.
3. On the way we stopped and a doctor examined me. He removed the handcuffs and the shackles during the examination. Then they took me into a nearby settlement where I was left in a room until around noon. Then I was taken for interrogation.
4. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me photographs of clashes and accused me of taking part. At first I denied the accusation but then I confessed because he pressured me and told me the evidence against me was very strong. He wanted to know who incited me into acts of violence and who paid me. I told him no one incited me. He did not inform me of my right to silence and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer.
5. At the end of the interrogation he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then the interrogator phoned a lawyer and told him I had a court hearing the following day. I did not speak to the lawyer. He questioned me for about two hours.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts. I spent 16 days at Huwwara. During this time I had three military court hearings by video link which my mother attended. After 16 days I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched. I spent 14 days in the quarantine section and then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.

7. I had eight military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 19 October 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. My family could not pay the fine. I was also given a further one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because it looked good to me except for the long suspended sentence.
8. In prison I exercised and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics and I watched television. I had one family visit which was cancelled at the last minute because I had to appear in court for an early release consideration.
9. I was released at Ofer checkpoint on 24 November 2020, and I went home with my mother and brothers and one of my friends. I arrived home in the evening.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.S.M.F. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was crossing the Israeli military checkpoint by the big mosque in the old city at around 5:30 p.m. A group of about 10 soldiers approached me and showed me a photograph of someone throwing stones at soldiers and told me the person was me. I denied the accusation. They did not believe me and one of them tied my hands to the front with metal handcuffs and tightened them very hard. They caused me pain and my wrists were red where they rubbed against the metal.
2. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. A soldier gave me a face mask and when I put it on he covered my eyes with it. He also swore at me.
3. The jeep took me to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba where I was taken to a fenced outdoor area which looked like a cage. I was left there until around 8:30 a.m. the next morning. I could not sleep because soldiers woke me up each time I tried to. They did not allow me to use the toilet and did not bring me anything to eat or drink. At around 8:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. There were two people in the room; the interrogator and the interpreter. The first thing the interrogator did was he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to defend myself and told me not to confess. I spoke for about a minute and the interrogator was in the room listening. He then told me to hurry up and finish the conversation.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to remain silent, the interrogator showed me the same photograph I was shown when I was arrested. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and I denied the accusation. He gave me a specific date about a month and a half earlier and told me that was when I was throwing stones. He yelled at me and told me to confess but I refused to confess.
6. The interrogator kept repeating the accusation and telling me the person in the photo was me. He was aggressive and spoke to me through the interpreter with a loud voice. Then the interpreter told me to hurry up and confess because they wanted to close the file. He slapped me hard on my back and shouted at me telling me to confess. At first I denied the accusation but then I confessed. I thought confessing would make it easy on me and I would not spend a long time in prison.

7. I was questioned for about an hour and at the end I was shown documents in Hebrew and I was asked to sign them. I signed the documents without understanding what they said. By then I thought my game was over. I signed about 10 pages.
8. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base. I was searched in my boxer shorts and then I was taken to a cell where I spent 16 days. During this time I had one military court hearing over a video link. My brother and mother attended the hearing. My detention was extended. 16 days later I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and then I was taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days. After that I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was also strip searched before being taken to section 13.
9. I had four military court hearings and at the last one, which was a week before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,500. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and I did because it meant I only had one more week left in prison. My parents were able to reduce my sentence to four months by paying more money.
10. I was released at Ofer on 24 November 2020, and I went home with my two brothers. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m. I did not have any family visits or official phone calls. In prison I exercised and chatted to the other detainees to pass the time.

Name: S.T.F.S.
Age: 17
Date: 6 August 2020
Location: Nablus, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, S.T.F.S. of Nablus, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Earlier on the day of my arrest boys were throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at Israeli soldiers on a hill nearby. Me and my friend went there to see what was going on. At around 4:30 p.m. a military jeep chased us and we ran away. The jeep followed us and five soldiers stepped out and captured me. They swore at me and kicked me in the back.
2. A soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie. The tie was so tight that it cut through my wrists and I bled. I still have marks on my wrists. Then he forced me to the ground. To begin with I sat cross-legged but the soldier said something in Hebrew, which I did not understand, and forced me to straighten my legs and struck me with the back of his gun. I was left on the side of the road in the hot sun for about two hours and I was slapped and kicked a couple of times.
3. About two hours later two more jeeps arrived at the scene and I was put in the back of one where I sat on a seat. Soldiers inside the jeep seemed to be making fun of me. The jeep drove to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my underwear before being taken into a room where I was blindfolded.
4. Later I was taken outside and a soldier made me sit on the ground and I leaned my back against a shipping container. The soldiers outside made fun of me and kicked me on my legs as they went by. I was left there for about two hours and I begged the soldiers for some food but they did not bring me any. They swore at me and slapped me many times.
5. At around 8:00 p.m. I was taken to the police station in Ariel settlement where I was put in a big room together with five other detainees. At around midnight a soldier brought us one tin of hummus and a loaf of bread which was hardly enough for all of us. At around 1:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. A female interrogator questioned me through an interpreter. She removed the blindfold and asked me for my name and where I came from. Then she told me I had the right to remain silent before she started to question me. She gave me a document written in Arabic and Hebrew informing me of my rights. She then made me sign it. I did not speak to a lawyer.

7. Then she asked me why I was in her office. I told her I did not know. The interpreter yelled at me when I refused to give an answer. Then he repeated the interrogator's question and shouted at me telling me to answer. At first I told him I did not know but later I confessed to taking part in the clashes. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes.
8. At the end of the interrogation I was shown documents in Hebrew and asked me to sign them but I refused to sign something I did not understand. The interpreter got angry at me and pushed me aggressively and yelled at me telling me to sign and so I signed.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to a room and I slept on a chair while tied and blindfolded, I was exhausted. I was left there until around 4:00 p.m. I was thirsty and asked for water but the soldiers yelled at me and did not bring me any water.
10. At around 4:00 p.m. I was taken back to Huwwara where "Captain Odai" spoke to me. He did not inform me of my rights and asked me whether I wanted to spend five years in prison. I told him I wanted to go home. Then I was searched in my underwear and taken to a cell.
11. I spent 16 days in the cell at Huwwara together with another boy. The cell was very small and dirty. The toilet was in the room and there were lots of mosquitos. The food was disgusting. During this time I had two military court hearings via video link. My parents did not attend and the hearings were adjourned.
12. Sixteen days after my arrest I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and then taken to a quarantine part in the prison. A few days later I had another military court hearing via video and I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison. My father told the military judge he wanted to pay money to get me released and the judge agreed. My father had to pay NIS 1,200. I did not get a suspended sentence and I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
13. I was given early release on 27 August 2020 but my parents were not informed of my release. I went home with the family of another detainee who was released with me. I called my parents on the way and I arrived home at around 1:00 a.m. My mother cried when she saw me as she was very happy to see me home.

Accusation: Throwing stones / pipe bombs

I, T.A.F.S. of Balata refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested at the Beit Furik military checkpoint at around 5:00 p.m. At the time there were minor clashes taking place between Israeli soldiers and Palestinians. I was grabbed by a group of soldiers who then beat me. They kicked me and struck me with the back of their guns. They also swore at me. A soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was so tight that my hands turned blue and the tie left marks on my wrists for weeks. I was then left on the ground until around 2:30 a.m.
2. At around 2:30 a.m. I was taken to Ariel settlement where I was left in a small room for about an hour before being taken for interrogation. It was around 3:30 or 4:00 a.m.
3. The interrogator removed the blindfold and tie and immediately asked me why I threw stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he accused me of possessing pipe bombs. I denied that accusation too. He questioned me without informing me of my rights and I did not have access to a lawyer before the interrogation.
4. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and at times he was calm and other times he was aggressive. He threatened if I did not confess he was going to throw me in prison for a long time. He also threatened to revoke my father's work permit. At the end of the interrogation he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer but he did not call a lawyer for me. Then he showed me documents in Hebrew and asked me to write my name on the document and I did.
5. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a room by myself. I spent one night in the room and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was again searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to the quarantine section used for the Corona Virus.
6. The following day I had a military court hearing by video link. I did not understand what was going on in the court but my lawyer told me the hearing was adjourned until another date. I had three military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison. I think they wanted my father to pay a fine but my father told the court he did not have any money and I think they pardoned him. I was also given another 19 months in prison suspended for three years. This included a suspended sentence from a previous imprisonment.

7. In prison I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus. I was allowed to make phone calls once every two weeks. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 11 October 2020, and I went home with my brothers. We arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

Name: R.U.K.K.
Age: 15
Date: 20 August 2020
Location: Doha, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, R.U.K.K. of Doha, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 3:30 a.m. I was woken up by torch light shining in my face. I opened my eyes and saw about 10 Israeli soldiers in my bedroom. The commander asked me for my name then told me to get up and put some clothes on because I was to be arrested. He did not give a reason for the arrest and did not give my parents any documents. When my father asked him for the reason he told my father he was going to bring me back by the end of the day.
2. Then the soldiers searched my room and damaged the wardrobe. They did not tell me what they were looking for. The soldiers seemed to be in a hurry. They remained in our house for about 15 minutes.
3. As soon as I was dressed the soldiers took me outside. I did not even have time to tie my shoe laces. A soldier gave me a mask and gloves to put on due to the Corona virus and then I was handcuffed to the front with metal cuffs. The handcuffs were very tight and left marks on my wrists. At the entrance to the building I was blindfolded and the soldiers took me away on foot. The soldiers made me walk quickly and I could not keep up with the blindfold on and I fell to the ground. When I fell the soldiers started to kick and slap me all over my body. They pulled me up in a hurry and continued to run with me towards the military jeeps.
4. When we arrived at the jeeps I was thrown on the metal floor of one of the jeeps but later a soldier allowed me to sit on a seat. Young men from the village started to throw stones at the jeep and the soldiers responded with tear gas, rubber bullets and stun grenades. I was terrified. Then the jeep drove towards the District Co-ordination Office (DCO) military base where a soldier forcefully bent my knees and made me kneel on the ground. Then he slapped me on the head and told me to keep my head down.
5. About 15 minutes later I was taken to the back of another jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep then drove to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. On the way the soldiers swore at me and called my sister and mother “whores”. One soldier struck me with the back of his gun on my elbow and caused me a lot of pain. I arrived at the police station at around 5:30 a.m. I asked a soldier to loosen the handcuffs but he just left. I managed to pull down the blindfold by myself.

6. A short time later an interrogator passed by and loosened my handcuffs. He introduced himself as “interrogator Ala”. I was left in a room until around 7:00 a.m. Then the interrogator came back.
7. The interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but warned me that remaining silent would upset the judge and would make him sentence me for a long time in prison. He also told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to deny everything and advised me to remain silent. I spoke to the lawyer for about two minutes on a land line in another room and the interrogator was not listening.
8. Then the interrogator told me he was going to give me some advice. He told me he was going to tell me what to say so that the judge would go easy on me. He told me he was going to give me the advice before the official interrogation started and before he turned on the camera and the voice recorder. Then he said once he was done with the advice he was going to leave the room, then come back in as if he had never spoken to me before. He would then turn the camera and voice recorder on and start the official interrogation. Then he pulled out his pistol and placed it on the table in front of him and kept fiddling with it.
9. Then he told me I was accused of a number of accusations and that there were lots of confessions against me from people who knew me. Then he brought a thick bunch of papers and started to mark the text with a yellow marker. When I asked him what he was doing he told me he was marking the places where my name was mentioned as having taken part in stone throwing incidents. He was marking a lot of text and that scared me. Then he told me if I confessed the judge would give me a short time in prison; otherwise I was going to spend a long time in prison.
10. About half an hour later he told me he was going to leave the room and start interrogating me properly. He left and came back. He turned the camera and voice recorder on and introduced himself again. Then he asked me to say my name.
11. Then he accused me of throwing stones and pipe bombs and told me lots of other boys had testified against me. I denied the accusations. Then he named the boys and told me he had voice recordings of their testimonies and asked me whether I wanted to listen to them. I denied the accusations and told the interrogator I was not interested in listening to the confessions. Then he accused me of lying and wanted me to confess to all the accusations if I wanted the judge to be lenient. Then he threatened me and told me the intelligence officers were waiting outside. He told me if they got hold of me they would not release me without extracting a confession from me even if I was “99 percent innocent”. Still I denied the accusations.
12. He questioned me over a period of about 12 hours. He would question me for an hour or so and then leave and come back again. Sometimes he was calm, other times he was aggressive. He slammed the door a couple of times when I denied the accusations. Then at the end he showed me documents in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them. I told him I was not going to sign anything without a lawyer present. Then he told me this was not going to please the judge and he signed the document himself.

13. Then I was taken outside where I was left for about an hour. Some soldiers approached me and told me it was in my interest to confess, otherwise they were going to send me to be interrogated by an intelligence officer who would be “harsh”. They made it sound like they were my friends and that that they cared for me. When I did not engage with them they started to swear at me.
14. I was left in that outdoor area for three nights. I was not given any food and I could not sleep. I was allowed to use the toilet once and I was given a glass of water once a day. I was shackled and handcuffed the whole time. The whole time I was thinking and wondering what was going to happen to me. By the end of the third day I was tired and hungry and scared.
15. On the third day I was taken in a military jeep to another place where I was taken to a cell. I slept on a metal bench for about 30 minutes. The air conditioner was turned on very cold and I was freezing. About three hours later two soldiers came in and strip searched me. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched again. I was put into the quarantine area near the prison. I arrived there at around 9:00 p.m. I ate and fell asleep immediately; I was exhausted.
16. The following day I had a military court hearing via video camera. I could see my father, a lawyer and the military judge. When I tried to speak to my father a soldier turned the camera away and muted the sound. The hearing was adjourned.
17. The following day I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator informed me of my rights before he started to question me. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to deny everything. The interrogator had a voice recorder and accused me of the same accusations. I denied everything. I was questioned for about two hours. After the interrogation I was taken back to Megiddo.
18. I had four military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on the same day that I was released, my lawyer told me I was going to be released provided I apologise to the judge and promise never to be involved in illegal activities. Luckily the line was cut off before I could apologise to the judge.
19. My lawyer told me I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 days in prison, fined NIS 3,500 and given a suspended sentence of two years in prison suspended for a period of five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home after court.
20. I was released on 31 August 2020, and I went home with my father and uncle who were waiting for me at Al Jalama checkpoint. I arrived home at around 1:00 a.m. This was a tough experience but thankfully I was released quickly. I want to focus on my school work because I want to study to become a chef.

Name: R.Y.M.S.
Age: 15
Date: 31 August 2020
Location: Hebron, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, R.Y.M.S. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 2:00 a.m. I woke up to the sound of loud banging at the front door. My father rushed and opened the door before the soldiers broke it. About 20 soldiers entered our home and the commander immediately wanted to know where my wardrobe was.
2. The soldiers searched my wardrobe and took a pair of trousers, a shirt and boots. The commander made me put them on and then took a picture of me wearing them. Then he told my father I was under arrest and would be questioned.
3. A soldier then gave me a face mask before blindfolding me and taking me outside. They walked me a short distance and then the commander asked to see my identity card. When I told him I did not have one yet he told me he could not arrest me and took me back home. He scribbled something in Hebrew on a piece of paper and gave it to me and told me to come to the police station at 6:00 a.m. The commander told my father if I did not show up at 6:00 a.m. he would come back and destroy our house.
4. Later that morning I went with my father to the police station as requested. We waited a short while and then a soldier told us to go home and come back in a week.
5. A week later I went again to the police station with my father. My father and I waited about three hours and then a soldier told my father to go home and I was taken inside. A soldier shackled my legs and handcuffed me with my hands behind my back. The handcuffs were tight and painful. and my hands swelled up. When the interrogator came a soldier blindfolded me and took me into the interrogation room.
6. The interrogator wanted to know if I knew why I was in his office. I told him I had no idea. Then he told me he was going to let me know why shortly. He told me he was going to tell me stories and ask me questions and warned me not to lie to him if I wanted him to send me home.
7. Then he phoned a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me the interrogator was not allowed to physically abuse me because I was a minor. I spoke to him for about a minute and the interrogator was listening.
8. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he accused me of taking part in protests and of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he accused me of assaulting a soldier with a stone which hit his head and caused him injury. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me photographs of clashes and accused me of taking part. When I did not say anything, he yelled at me and told me to answer his question. I thought I had to speak in order to defend myself. He also told me other detainees had confessed against me.

9. The questioning continued on and off over a period of about four hours. Then the interrogator told me to get up and follow him. When I asked him where to he yelled at me and told me not to ask unnecessary questions.
10. Outside the interrogation room my fingerprints and photograph was taken. Then the interrogator told me they suspected I was sick with Covid-19 and gave me a complete set of Corona Virus protective gear and asked me to put them on. Then I was taken to a cell at Etzion police station. At Etzion I was strip searched and I was left in the cell for one day.
11. The following day I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section.
12. The next day I had a military court hearing by video link. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had five military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 16 September 2020, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a three-year sentence suspended for five years. My lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and I did.
13. I spent 14 says at the quarantine section at Megiddo and then I was transferred to section 3 where I spent the rest of my sentence with other children. I did not have any family visits because my parents were not given permits to visit for security reasons. I was allowed to make a phone call every 14 days for about 10 minutes. The phone calls were closely monitored by two security guards who sat next to me as I spoke. Once when I asked my mother who else was arrested from my town the security guard took the phone away and ended the conversation.
14. In prison I was in charge of keeping the ward clean and tidy. I also attended classes in Arabic and Hebrew but the standard was very low. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 30 November 2020, and I went home with my father. We arrived home in the evening.
15. I dropped out of school after my release in order to work and earn money to help pay back the money my parents borrowed to pay the fine.

Name: S.N.I.I.
Age: 14
Date: 2 October 2020
Location: Bethlehem, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Conspiring to throw Molotov cocktails

I, S.N.I.I. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my friends near the military base at the DCO checkpoint when we were surrounded by Israeli soldiers. It was around 8:30 p.m. The soldiers ordered me to sit on the ground and face the Wall.
2. One of the soldiers blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful. The soldiers were rough with me and pushed me around. About 30 minutes later I was taken to another military base where I was left in an outdoor area until around noon and then I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. Then, without informing me of my rights he wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. Then he accused me of plotting a terrorist act to harm Israelis. I denied the accusation.
4. Then he told me the boys whom they arrested with me confessed against me. He questioned me for about three hours and asked me lots of questions about my friends. He told me the soldiers found a Molotov cocktail with one of the boys and accused me of conspiring with him. He accused me of plotting to throw a Molotov cocktail at settler vehicles.
5. The interrogation was aggressive and yelled at me all the time. He threatened to lock me up in a small cell if I did not confess. I was not given any food or drink and I was not allowed to use the toilet. He asked me the questions in a loud voice. At the end I was tired and I confessed because I wanted the interrogation to end.
6. After I confessed he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. When I asked him to explain to me what was written he yelled at me and forced me to sign it without understanding what was written.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken into a small cell. The cell was dark and did not have any windows. I could not tell day from night except when they opened the small opening in the door to slip my food.
8. The following day I had a military court hearing via video link. My parents did not attend because they did not know there was a hearing. The military judge asked me how I was treated and wanted to know how the food was. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.

9. After the hearing I was taken back to the cell. I was about to fall asleep when they woke me up and told me they wanted to transfer me to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was strip searched before being taken into the quarantine section where I remained for 31 days. I was transferred into the juvenile section 31 days later.
10. I had about 18 military court hearings and at the last one, which was three days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 8,000. I also received a suspended sentence but I don't know the details. I accepted the plea bargain because it meant I would go home in three days and I wanted to catch up with my school work as quickly as possible.
11. In prison I had one family visits and I was allowed to call home once every two weeks. I exercised and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. A week before I was released I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was released at Ofer checkpoint on 31 December 2020, and I went home with my parents, my grandmother and my brothers.

Name: I.Y.M.J.
Age: 15
Date: 8 October 2020
Location: Al 'Arrub camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.Y.M.J. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:30 a.m. to the sound of our front door being forcibly opened. My father went to see what was going on and before he made it to our front door Israeli soldiers were already inside our home. About 10 soldiers entered with many more outside.
2. The officer in charge entered our house and told my father he had an arrest order for me. He showed my father a document with details about my arrest filled out in Hebrew and asked him to sign it and then the commander took it. When my father asked for the reason for my arrest they did not respond to his question.
3. The soldiers searched our house. They looked inside kitchen cupboards and wardrobes but did not tell us what they were looking for. They remained inside our home for about 30 minutes and then took me outside without the chance to goodbye to my family.
4. Outside our house they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then led towards the military watchtower at the entrance to our refugee camp. On the way the soldiers beat me with the back of their guns and slapped and punched me. They swore at me and called me "a son of a whore" and cursed all the residents of our camp.
5. When we reached the military watchtower I was questioned by the area intelligence officer, "Captain Karam". He accused me of leading a terrorist group called the "Camp Lions". I denied the accusation. He was aggressive and shouted at me all the time and swore at me and called my mother and sisters "whores". I swore back at him. Then he signaled to the soldiers to beat me and they did. They pushed me to the ground and stepped on me. The intelligence officer did not inform me that I had any legal rights.
6. They left me on the ground for about 30 minutes and then they took me to a troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. The soldiers kicked and slapped me and swore at me. One of the female soldiers rested her legs on my neck. When I complained to the commander he said something in Hebrew and all the soldiers started to laugh.
7. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I arrived there at around 5:30 a.m. I was left on the ground in an open area until around 11:00 a.m. At around 11:00 a.m. I was strip searched and taken to a cell. The soldier who searched me asked me to walk and crouch up and down while I was naked and I was embarrassed.

8. They removed my ties and blindfold and I was left in the cell with three other boys for three nights. During this time, I was only given chocolate milk. The cell was small, about 3 x 4 meters and only had blankets on the floor.
9. At around 10:00 a.m. on the third day I was blindfolded, handcuffed, shackled and taken to Ofer, near Jerusalem, for interrogation
10. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me shackled and handcuffed. He phoned someone and put the telephone on speaker and told me to speak to "the lawyer". That person told me to say yes to everything that the interrogator asks me. He did not introduce himself to me told me to take care and that he was going to hang up and that the interrogator would update him on my situation. I was suspicious of that person.
11. The interrogator told me he was going to call a second lawyer for me. He dialed a number and put the telephone on speaker phone. The lawyer told me not to confess because a confession was treason. He told me to deny everything that the interrogator accused me of and told me not to worry because he was there for me. The conversation lasted for about a minute.
12. Then the interrogator asked me if I wanted to speak with my parents. He called my father and I told him where I was. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. He told me he wanted to interrogate me and said he wanted me to answer him with yes or no.
13. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail, paint and fire crackers at a military jeep. When I denied the accusation and I told him I did not do such things he became angry, thumped the table aggressively and accused me of lying. Then he told me my friends and a soldier had confessed against me. Then he told me if I did not cooperate I would not go home but if I did he would send me home immediately.
14. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. At the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I told him I was not going to sign any documents written in a language I did not understand he gave me the document in Arabic. I read the document twice and then I signed it.
15. Then he sent me to see another interrogator. The second interrogator did not call a lawyer for me but he told me if I wanted I could remain silent. He told me the most important thing was not to lie to him. He also told me I had the right to call my parents. Then he turned the voice recorder on and accused me of the same accusations. I denied them all.
16. The second interrogator questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents. Then I waited in a room until around 7:00 p.m. before being taken back to the cell at Etzion. About half an hour after arriving at Etzion I was taken back to Ofer. I was strip searched again and told I was going to be transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. On arrival at Megiddo I was again strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 21 days.

17. My first military court hearing was on the second day after my arrest. It was conducted by video. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. The military judge extended my detention. I had about eight military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 22 February 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because they dropped the Molotov accusation which I was told would involve 18 months in prison.
18. After spending three weeks at Megiddo I was transferred to Ofer prison where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. My parents visited me once. In prison I exercised and I attended classes in Arabic and Mathematics.
19. I was released from Ofer on 17 March 2021 and I went home with my father, my uncle and his friends. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

I, W.M.W.R. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father came to my grandparents' house where I was staying and told me that Israeli soldiers were looking for me. It was around 3:00 a.m. He was accompanied by about a dozen soldiers. They did not give us any documents.
2. I quickly put my clothes on and the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were painful. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then led me to the military watchtower at the entrance to our refugee camp where I was left on the ground for about two hours.
3. Two hours later I taken to a troop carrier and made to sit on the metal floor. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was left outside for some time and at around 10:00 a.m. I was taken into a room.
4. The person in the room, whom I thought was there to help me, phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and not to speak. He also told me to answer with "I have no clue" if I am asked any questions. The person in the room was listening to the conversation which lasted for about 20 seconds.
5. Then the person told me I had to answer all his questions. He also swore at me. I was very upset because I did not say anything to deserve being sworn at. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. When he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail I realised he was not there to help me and that he was the interrogator.
6. When I denied the accusation, he threatened to hang me if I did not confess. Then he left the room and told me when he comes back I should be ready to confess or else. He gave me an ultimatum and that scared me. When he came back about 30 minutes later he took me to see another interrogator.
7. The second interrogator told me I had to behave myself otherwise he was going to beat me up. He told me my behavior with the first interrogator was unacceptable. He did not inform me of my rights. I was terrified and confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail. I did so because I did not want to be beaten up.
8. Then the interrogator showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. When I asked him what it was he told me not to worry and urged me to sign it and I did. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts and I was taken to a cell where I was left by myself for about two hours. Then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo where I was searched again in my boxer shorts.

Accusation: Planning to throw Molotov cocktails

I, Y.F.Y.M. of Beit Jala, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my cousin and a friend walking past the Israeli military base at the entrance to Beit Jala village. It was around 10:30 p.m. Suddenly a group of about 15 soldiers approached us and took us into the military base. A soldier slapped me on the face and forced me to the ground face down. He also swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". My hands were then handcuffed behind my back and the cuffs were tightened hard causing me pain. My legs were also shackled and I was blindfolded with a piece of cloth.
2. I was left in this position for about two hours before being given a quick medical examination. Then I was taken to a vehicle where I sat on a seat and driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. At around 4:00 a.m. I was interrogated.
3. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the shackles but kept me handcuffed. Then he asked me what I was doing near the military base at that late hour. Then he told me the boys who were arrested with me had confessed that we were planning to throw a Molotov cocktail at the base. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was aggressive and raised his voice at me. He threatened to arrest my mother if I did not confess and told me he had voice recordings of the two boys confessing against me.
4. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not inform me of my right to silence. After 30 minutes of questioning he phoned a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer asked me what had happened. I told him I was arrested on the street near the military base. The conversation was short and took place without the interrogator being in the room.
5. After speaking to the lawyer, I had another interrogation. The second interrogator did not inform me of any rights. He repeated the same accusation. At the end he made me sign a document written in Hebrew. I did not understand what I was signing.
6. After interrogation I was taken to a cell where I was searched in my boxer shorts. I was left in the cell until the evening and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was searched in my boxer shorts and then I was taken to the quarantine section. I spent 26 days there before being transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and then I was taken to section 13.
7. During my time at Megiddo I had a military court hearing by video which my mother attended. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had five more military court hearings and at the last one, which was four days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence but I don't know the details. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.

8. I did not have any family visits because the permit takes months to be issued. In prison I chatted to the other detainees and exercised. I was released on 29 October 2020, and I went home with my mother. We arrived home in the afternoon.

I, I.S.I.M. of Beit Jala, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my cousin and a friend on the street near the military base in Beit Jala at around 10:30 p.m. All of a sudden, a group of Israeli soldiers approached us and wanted to know what we were doing in the area. Then a soldier slapped me on the face and dragged me into the base where he forced me to the ground face down. He also beat me in the back with his gun and swore at me. I was then handcuffed with my hands behind my back. The cuffs were very tight which was painful and my hands became swollen. I was also blindfolded and left on the ground until around 3:30 a.m.
2. At around 3:30 a.m. I was put on a seat in a vehicle and taken to a nearby police station for interrogation. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept me handcuffed. He asked me what I was doing near the military base at 10:30 p.m. He accused me of wanting to throw a Molotov cocktail at the base. I denied the accusation and told him I was just going for a walk with my cousin and friend. He called me a liar and raised his voice at me saying my cousin and friend had already confessed and told him I was plotting with them.
3. About half way through the interrogation the interrogator phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me to give short answers like "yes" and to only talk about things that actually happened. I spoke to the lawyer for about a minute and then the interrogator took the telephone away. He was listening to our conversation.
4. The interrogator questioned me for about 45 minutes but did not inform me of my right to silence. He kept repeating the accusation and I kept denying it. At the end he made me sign documents written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding what the documents said.
5. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was searched in my boxer shorts and then I was taken for a second interrogation. This time it was two policemen who told me to answer "yes or no." They repeated the same questions without informing me of my rights. I was not given any documents to sign. They questioned me for about 20 minutes.
6. After the second interrogation I was taken to a cell where I was strip searched. I was left in the cell for 16 days. There were two boys with me during the first four days but then I was left by myself and I went crazy because I did not have anyone to speak to. I did not know what to do with myself and spent the time staring at the four walls and trying to measure the size of the cell. I spent most of my time sleeping and thinking about what might happen to me. On the second day I had a military court hearing via video link and the military judge extended my detention.

7. Sixteen days later I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched before being placed in the quarantine section for 14 days. Then I was transferred to section 3 at Megiddo prison where I spent the rest of my prison time.
8. I had five military court hearings and at the last one, which was two days before I was released, I was sentenced to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a suspended sentence of another one-and-a-half years in prison suspended for a few years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was desperate to go home in two days.
9. I was released on 21 December 2020 at Al Jalama checkpoint and I took a taxi home. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m. I did not have any family visits because the permit was not issued in time. In prison I watched television and chatted to the other detainees. I also attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics.

Name: A.H.I.O.
Age: 16
Date: 11 November 2020
Location: Beit El checkpoint, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktail

I, A.H.I.O. of Qarawat Bani Zeid, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends at the Beit El checkpoint near Ramallah at around 2:30 p.m. At the time there were during clashes with Israeli soldiers. Suddenly were surrounded by military vehicles and soldiers who fired stun grenades and rubber bullets at us. They ordered us to stop.
2. A soldier grabbed me and immediately pushed me to the ground. He hit me on the neck with the back of his gun and caused me a lot of pain. Other soldiers swore at me. Then a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and my hands swelled and were very painful. Then a soldier blindfolded me and made me lie down on the ground face down.
3. I was left on the ground, tied and blindfolded, for about an hour. Then I was taken in a troop carrier to the military watchtower by the settlement of Beit El. Inside the troop carrier I sat on a seat. The soldiers beat me very hard and swore at me and called my sisters and mother "whores".
4. I was left on the ground outside the watchtower from around 3:30 p.m. until around 3:00 a.m. The soldiers forced me to keep my head down for hours and I was in pain. They made me sit on a rock and I was very uncomfortable in that position. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement for interrogation.
5. At Binyamin I waited in a room and a lawyer came and spoke to me. He told me to take care of myself and to be vigilant. He told me not to confess and advised me to remain silent. I was taken into the interrogation room at around 6:30 a.m.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He was in civilian clothes and spoke broken Arabic. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He asked me for my name and wanted to know what I was doing near the checkpoint. I told him I was watching the clashes when the soldiers came running towards me. I did not run away because I was not doing anything wrong and did not expect the soldiers to arrest me. He yelled at me and accused me of lying. He then asked me whether I was going to confess or not. I told him I had nothing to confess to.
7. Then I was taken out of the room and soldiers took me to a troop carrier and dumped me outside. About an hour later I was taken back into the interrogation room. The interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and then showed me some photographs. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and was aggressive and swore at my religion when I refused to confess.

8. At the end of the interrogation he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. At first, I refused to sign but the interrogator kept urging me to sign for about 15 minutes, raising his voice and telling me I had to sign even if I did not understand what was written in the document. In the end I signed.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was left in a small cell from around 8:30 a.m. until around 7:00 p.m. The soldiers who were around at Ofer swore and spat at me. I was still tied and without any food or drink. I was also sleep-deprived and exhausted. I was in a tiny cell together with three other boys. The cell was very cold but I was so tired that I fell asleep crouching.
10. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and then taken to the quarantine section where I stayed for 21 days. There they removed the ties for the first time since I was arrested and my wrists were swollen and painful.
11. The following day I had a military court hearing by video link. My parents were not informed and so they did not attend. I had a total of about 15 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 5 April 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told I was facing a year in prison if I rejected it.
12. On 20 December 2020 I was transferred to Ofer prison where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus and there were no official phone calls. In prison I exercised and played table tennis and I studied for my final high school exams. I missed a lot of school and think it will be hard for me to get the grades I was aiming for.
13. I was released at Ofer on 20 April 2021 and I went home with my brother. We arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.

Name: M.M.A.H.
Age: 15
Date: 11 November 2020
Location: Beit El checkpoint, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.M.A.H. of Abwein, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers at the checkpoint near the settlement of Beit El. It was around 2:30 p.m. My friends and I were watching when all of a sudden we were ambushed by a group of soldiers. They shot stun grenades and rubber bullets in our direction and ordered us to stay put.
2. Two soldiers grabbed me and pushed me down to the ground and beat me with the back of their guns. They also swore at me and kicked me very hard. Then one of them tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties and tightened them very hard. I was in severe pain and felt my left wrist was badly damaged. Then another soldier searched me and blindfolded me and made me lie down on the ground face down. I was left there for about an hour.
3. After an hour I was put in a military jeep where the soldiers beat me very hard. They made me sit on the metal floor and kicked and beat me all over my body. Then they took me to an area near the military watchtower by the settlement. I was left in an open area, sitting on a rock, from around 4:00 p.m. until around 1:00 a.m. Soldiers forced me to keep my head down in a painful position. They spat at me and kicked me as they passed.
4. At around 1:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement for interrogation. At Binyamin I was left in a small cell for about four hours. At around 5:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He introduced himself and told me he was the interrogator. When I asked him what he wanted from me he told me he was going to question me about throwing stones at Israeli soldiers. Then he told me I was not allowed to speak unless I am asked to and that I had to answer all his questions. About half way through the interrogation he told me I could speak to a lawyer but he did not call one for me; the first time I spoke to a lawyer was the following day in the afternoon.
6. Then he accused me of throwing stones and I told him people threw stones because we have been living under occupation for 53 years. He was so angry at me that he slapped me hard on the face. Then he shackled my feet, blindfolded me and took me into another room and left me in the corner for about an hour. During this time, I asked a soldier if I could use the toilet and I asked for some water. The soldier swore at me and told me to shut up. After an hour I was taken back to the interrogation room.

7. The interrogator asked me whether I had come to my senses. I told him I had not. Then he wanted to know why I spoke to him in that manner and that I should consider him as my big brother or friend. Then he told me he wanted to speak to me sensibly. Then he asked me why I threw stones at soldiers. He also wanted to know whether I was a supporter of Fateh or Hamas. When I told him I was neither he took a taser out of his drawer, turned it on and started to bang the table with it.
8. The interrogator then he told me he wanted me to confess to throwing a Molotov cocktail. I told him I was not going to confess to anything I did not do. Then he threatened to lock me up in prison for three years if I did not confess. He also threatened to arrest my mother and father if I did not confess. Then he told me my friends, who they had arrested with me, had confessed against me. I asked him to bring my friends in order for me to confront them but he never did.
9. At the end of the interrogation he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. When I told him I was not going to sign a document I did not understand he called me a "bastard". Then I was taken back to the cell which did not have any windows or lights. I was left in the cell for about three hours.
10. After about three hours I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell. I spent about an hour there and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I met a lawyer for the first time on the phone. He told me not to worry and to relax and God willing he was going to release me soon. The conversation was very short and the prison director was listening. Then my ties were removed and I was strip searched and taken to the quarantine section.
11. I spent 26 days at the quarantine section. On my fifth day at Megiddo I was taken to a military clinic near Ramleh because I felt severe pain in my left wrist. A doctor examined it and told the wrist joint had dislocated because of the tight ties.
12. On 17 December 2020, I had my first military court hearing via video link. My parents attended and the hearing was adjourned after the military judge extended my detention. I had three more military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 6 January 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of nine months suspended for one year. I did not like the plea bargain and was about to reject it but my lawyer told me the alternative was to spend one year in prison. At that point I felt I had no choice but to accept it.
13. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo. I did not have any family visits but I was allowed to call home once every 14 days. The conversations were monitored and lasted about 10 minutes each. In prison I played basketball and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics.
14. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 29 March 2021 and I went home with my father and brother-in-law. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.J.A. of Qarawat Bani Zeid, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were protests and clashes between Palestinians and Israeli soldiers at the military checkpoint near the settlement of Beit El. It was around 2:30 p.m. I was with some friends in the area when all of a sudden, a group of soldiers surrounded us. Then about five military jeeps approached and started firing tear gas in our direction. One of the tear gas canisters hit my leg and hurt me.
2. Then three soldiers grabbed me and started to beat me. One of them blindfolded me and then tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and my hands swelled. Then he took my belt and wrapped it around my wrists. The soldiers also beat me with the back of their guns, slapped me and threw me to the ground. I fell on my knees and I was bleeding. I felt severe pain in my left leg.
3. The soldiers made me lie on the ground, face down, for about an hour. They swore at me and called my mother and sisters "whores". Then they walked me about 150 meters where military jeeps were waiting.
4. I was put in the back of a military jeep made me sit on the metal floor. They took me to a deserted area and made me sit on a rock and forced my head down and caused me pain. They left me there in that painful position until around 11:30 p.m. Passing soldiers spat at me.
5. At around 11:30 p.m. I was taken to a troop carrier and I was thrown on the metal floor on top of other boys who had also been arrested. The soldiers forced my head down and did not allow me to speak with the other boys. Then I was taken to Ofer for interrogation.
6. At Ofer I was taken to a room where I was forced to sit on the floor with my head down. I was left in that room. At around 2:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and that I would be home soon. He told me he was going to inform my parents where I was and then he told me to be careful what I say. The conversation was very short and the interrogator was listening.
8. Then the interrogator showed me photos of clashes and accused me of taking part. He wanted me to confess but I did not. He was yelling and swearing at me to frighten me and make me confess but I did not. Later he told me I could remain silent if I wanted. Then he told me if I did not cooperate with him he was going to give me a high prison sentence of up to two years. He questioned me for about 30 minutes.

9. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I asked him what I was signing on he told me he wrote I was present at clashes with soldiers. I signed without realizing he also wrote I had confessed to throwing stones.
10. Then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched. I shared a room with six other boys in the quarantine section. I spent 20 days there before being transferred to the juvenile section.
11. My first military court hearing was on 15 November 2020 over a video link. My mother attended and my detention was extended.
12. I had five military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 10 January 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of nine months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because otherwise I was facing 10 months in prison.
13. I spent my entire prison sentence at Megiddo and I did not have any family visits. I was able to call my family once. In prison I sang to the other prisoners because I have a good voice. It was fun and a good way to pass the time. I also attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics.
14. I was released on 28 January 2021 and I went home with my family. I arrived home in the evening.

Date: 11 November 2020
Location: Beit El checkpoint, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.T.A. of Kafr Ein, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends at the Beit El military checkpoint when we were ambushed by a group of Israeli soldiers in military jeeps and on foot. It was around 2:30 p.m. They fired shots in our direction and rubber-coated bullets. I was terrified. I was about to jump over a terraced field when I was grabbed by four soldiers. They pushed me down and immediately tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for weeks. They also blindfolded me.
2. I was left on the ground for about an hour. During this time I was struck in the back with a rifle butt. They took a photo of me and searched me and took my identity card. There were lots of journalists filming. Then they took me to the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor next to soldiers' feet on the floor. Inside the jeep the soldiers beat me very hard. They kicked and slapped me all over my body. This was out of sight of the journalists.
3. Then they drove me for about an hour and took me somewhere I did not recognize and put me in a room. They made me lie down on the floor face down. They woke me up each time I fell asleep. I could not tell what time it was but I was left there for a long period. During this time, I was allowed to speak to a lawyer on the phone. The lawyer told me not to confess and I should not tell the interrogator anything more than what I had done. He also told me I had the right to remain silent. The conversation lasted a few minutes. Then a soldier shackled my feet and took me for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold and shackles but kept my hands tied. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he showed me photographs and wanted me to tell him the names of the boys in the photographs. Then he asked me what I was doing at the checkpoint. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and explosives at soldiers. I denied the accusations.
5. He questioned me for about an hour and did not ask me to sign any documents. He told me my friends had already confessed and they had sent them home. He told me if I confessed he would send me home too. When I denied the accusation, he became aggressive and yelled at me urging me to confess.
6. I was interrogated multiple times. On the third occasion the interrogator showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. When I told him, I did not read Hebrew he gave it to me in Arabic. I read it and it said I had the right to remain silent and the right to consult with a lawyer. I signed it after I read it. I spoke to a lawyer only once, before the first interrogation.

7. After being interrogated I was taken to a military jeep where I sat on a seat. A soldier pushed my head down in a painful position. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was given a quick medical check and I was strip searched before being put in the quarantine section for 20 days.
8. One day after I had arrived at Megiddo I had a military court hearing via video link. My parents did not attend because they were not informed and the hearing was adjourned.
9. I had 10 military court hearings and at the last one, which was two months before my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor agreed to drop the throwing Molotov and explosives charge for which I would have been sentenced to more than one year in prison. I only had to confess to throwing stones.
10. After spending 20 days at Megiddo I was transferred to the juvenile section where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. In prison I attend classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. I did not have any family visits but I was allowed to call home twice a month for 10 minutes each time.
11. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 20 April 2021, and I went home with my parents, my grandmother and my brother.

Name: A.M.Y.W.
Age: 15
Date: 14 November 2020
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, A.M.Y.W. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About 10 Israeli military vehicles came to the bakery where I was working the night shift. It was around 2:30 a.m. The soldiers told the owner of the bakery that they were looking for someone who had a similar name to me. The soldiers then asked me for my name and then they left. I was terrified and so was the bakery owner and he drove me home.
2. After the soldiers left the bakery they went to my house and searched it causing a lot of damage to the furniture. They told my parents they were looking for the same person they told the bakery owner. When they did not find anyone with that name they arrested my older brother. When I arrived home the soldiers had already left with my brother. My mother was in a very bad shape, shaking and crying and the house was a total mess.
3. Later that day the area commander phoned my father at around noon and told him to bring me to the police station. He said if I was brought to the police station they would release my brother. I went with my father to the police station as requested; we arrived there at around 3:30 p.m.
4. We waited a short while at the gate and then a soldier took me inside and told my father to go home. Inside the police station my hands were tied behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. Then I was left on a chair in an outdoor area for about two hours.
5. After about two hours I was taken in a vehicle to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement. I arrived there in the evening. At around 8:00 p.m. a soldier cut my wrist when he tried to cut off the tie with a blade. The tie was so tight that he could not cut it off without injuring my wrist. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator started to question me without removing the blindfold. As soon as I entered the interrogation room he yelled at me and asked me to tell him where I had hidden the weapons. When I told him I had no weapons he hit me on my shoulder. When I asked him to give me evidence for his allegations he told me to shut up because “the evidence is none of your business”. He also threatened to arrest all my family and revoke their work permits. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me without informing me of my rights and I did not speak to a lawyer. At the end he showed me documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them and I did without understanding what they said.

7. I was interrogated until around 10:00 p.m. and then I was left outdoors in the rain for about three hours.
8. At around 1:00 a.m. I was tied again and taken to Al Mascobiyeh police station, in West Jerusalem, where I was interrogated again. This time the blindfold was removed but not the tie. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but half way through the interrogation he told me I could consult with a lawyer. He then phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening.
9. The interrogator was aggressive and yelled at me all the time. He accused me of possessing weapons and wanted me to confess and to tell him where I had hidden the pieces. I denied the accusation and told him I did not have any weapons. He thumped the table and raised his voice wanting me to confess but I did not.
10. He questioned me for about two hours, from 1:00 a.m. until around 3:00 a.m. At the end he made me sign documents written in Hebrew which I did not understand. Then I was left in a corridor for about two hours before being taken to a cell where I was strip searched.
11. Later that morning I had a military court hearing on video. My lawyer was there and the hearing was adjourned. After the hearing I was taken back to the cell which was small and did not have any windows. I could not tell day from night and I barely had space to sleep. There were no blankets for me and the three other detainees who were with me. The air conditioner was turned on cold all the time making it freezing cold. The food was not good; they brought us jam and yogurt.
12. On 19 November 2020, I was told I was going to be interrogated again before the next court hearing the following day but instead I was released without charge that day. I was very happy. A military jeep dropped me off at a checkpoint near Hebron. I took a taxi home and my father paid the driver when I arrived. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Testimony 839

Name: K.M.I.K.
Age: 17
Date: 24 November 2020
Location: Al Khader, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.M.I.K. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of military jeeps in our neighbourhood and loud banging at the front door. It was around 4:00 a.m. I rushed to open our front door and I managed to open it just before the soldiers broke it down. About 15 Israeli soldiers entered our home. They were accompanied by the area commander.
2. The commander ordered everybody to gather in the living room. I told him it was only me and my mother at home. Then he asked to see my identity card and then he told me I was under arrest. He did not give us any documents.
3. The soldiers searched our house and trashed it. They broke wardrobes and threw our clothes on the floor. They did not tell us what they were looking for. They remained in our house for about 20 minutes and then I was taken outside where I was blindfolded and my hands were tied behind my back with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful.
4. I was then taken to a waiting troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. The soldiers in the back of the vehicle slapped and kicked me all over my body. I felt severe pain in my left leg below the knee. I was taken to the military base at the entrance to Beit Jala and left in a shipping container until around 9:00 a.m. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed my blindfold and the handcuffs. I told him I wanted to speak to a lawyer and he phoned one for me. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me not to worry. The interrogator was listening on speaker phone and the conversation lasted for less than a minute.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator showed me messages on WhatsApp and accused me of weapon possession and threatening a military commander. I denied the accusation. Then he told me if I did not confess I was going to be served with a long prison sentence. He was calm and questioned me for about 45 minutes. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
7. Then I was questioned by another interrogator who had a voice recorder which he turned on and off during the interrogation. This one did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents. Then I was taken to see a third interrogator.

8. The third interrogator did not inform me of my rights either and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew. I signed the documents.
9. After the third interrogation I was taken to Al Mascobiyeh police station in Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 2:00 p.m. I was immediately taken into a cell where I was strip searched and spent two days by myself.
10. On the third day I was taken for interrogation. I did not speak to a lawyer and was not informed of my right to silence. I was accused of the same accusations and I denied them all. The interrogator was very calm and questioned me for about 15 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew and I did.
11. I spent 29 days at Al Mascobiyeh. My first military court hearing was a week after my arrest. It was conducted via video link. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. After Al Mascobiyeh I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I spent the rest of my sentence at Ofer.
12. I had around nine military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 15 March 2021, I was released following a plea bargain. I was sentenced to four months in prison and given a suspended sentence of one-and-a-half years in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was released on the same day. I did not have to pay any fines.
13. I went home with my parents on the same day and we arrived home at around 1:00 a.m. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus restrictions. In prison I helped keep the cell clean and tidy and helped in preparing food for the other prisoners.

Name: M.A.A.A.
Age: 17
Date: 29 November 2020
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.A.A. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on my way home from school at around 10:30 a.m. There were lots of other children queuing to buy sandwiches. Suddenly three Israeli military jeeps pulled up near the sandwich shop and we scattered in all directions.
2. The soldiers stepped out of the jeep and one of them fired a stun grenade in my direction. It hit me on my side and caused me pain; it was very hot. I also lost my hearing for a few minutes and fell to the ground. Two soldiers then approached me and started to swear at me and beat me with the back of their guns.
3. The soldiers then took me to the back of one of the jeeps and made me sit on the metal floor. I was very uncomfortable and my legs became numb. Inside the jeep a soldier covered my eyes and my mouth and nose with two masks. Then they dropped me off by the gate at the entrance to the refugee camp.
4. The commander in charge of the camp took a picture of me on his mobile phone. About 10 minutes later I was put in a troop carrier which took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. Inside the troop carrier a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties. The ties were tight and painful.
5. At Etzion I was left outdoors with three other boys until around 4:00 p.m. when I was taken for interrogation. Before I was interrogated some soldiers abused me and threatened to beat me up and smash my head. The interrogator handed me a telephone and told me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to give any names. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the masks but kept me tied. He did not inform me of my right to silence and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he told me two soldiers had testified against me and I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about 10 minutes and at the end of the interrogation he showed me a document in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. I told him I was not going to sign anything I did not understand unless he translated it for me. Then I was taken back to the courtyard where I was left until around 3:00 a.m. It was a very cold night and I could not sleep.
7. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken in a military vehicle with another boy to a number of detention centres but none of them agreed to admit us. Then we were taken back to Etzion for a short while and then I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba where I was left on the floor of a shipping container. I could not sleep because the soldiers were noisy.

8. Then they took me outside and made me sit in the sun. I managed to remove the ties but then a soldier tied me again. The ties were even tighter and caused me a lot of pain and left marks on my wrists for a week. He also blindfolded me.
9. I complained to one of the soldiers and asked him to take me inside because the sun was hot. He yelled back at me because he did not understand what I was saying. Then another soldier passed by and I spoke to him in English and asked him to take me indoors. He did not agree.
10. Then, about an hour later, I was taken in a military vehicle to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I was searched in my boxer shorts. I spent 14 days there. The following day I had a military court hearing via a video link. My father attended and my detention was extended because my file was not ready.
11. I had three more military court hearings and at the last one, which was on the day I was released, my father and my lawyer agreed on a plea bargain without consulting me. The military judge was satisfied with the time I had already spent in prison. In addition, he imposed a fine of NIS 3,000 and told me I had a suspended sentence valid for two years but I did not understand for how long. After spending 14 days at the quarantine section at Megiddo I was taken to the juvenile section where I spent a few days before my release.
12. I was released on 16 December 2020, at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with other detainees from Al Arrub who were released with me. I arrived home at around 11:30 p.m.
13. Now I want to study hard for my final high school exams; I am aiming for a high average which will hopefully qualify me to travel to Russia to study.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.K.M.K. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I left school early because of an event and went to buy a falafel sandwich on my way home. It was around 10:00 a.m. Suddenly three Israeli military jeeps drove towards the falafel shop where I was waiting in line and the soldiers started to chase everyone.
2. A soldier grabbed me and slapped me hard on my face. He also verbally abused me. Then he tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie and tightened it hard. I was in pain and the tie left marks on my wrists for days. Then he blindfolded me and walked me to the gate by the entrance to the camp. I was left there for about 30 minutes and the military commander took a photo of me on his mobile phone.
3. About 30 minutes later I was put in a troop carrier and made to sit on the metal floor. The troop carrier drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in an outdoor area in the cold weather for about 30 minutes before being taken for interrogation. By that time it was around 11:00 a.m.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold and the tie and turned a voice recorder on. Then he phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and, god willing, I was going to be released soon. He told me not to worry. The conversation was very brief. Then the interrogator told me it was fine with him if I did not answer his questions because I had the right to remain silent.
5. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He was calm in the beginning but when I denied the accusation he became angry and raised his voice at me. The louder he spoke the louder I told him I denied the accusation and this upset him. Then he claimed I denied the accusation because I was too scared to confess. I told him I was not scared. He questioned me for about five minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents.
6. Then he took me to see another interrogator who was in an Israeli police uniform. This one did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He repeated the same accusation and typed my answers on his computer. Then he printed out my statement in Hebrew and asked me to provide my fingerprint on a devise attached to the computer. I gave my fingerprint without understanding what I signed on.

7. Then they took me to another room where I was photographed and fingerprinted. Then I was taken back to the courtyard where I was left until around 3:00 a.m. Then I was taken to a settlement where I was left on the floor of a shipping container and then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched in my boxer shorts. I spent 14 days in the quarantine section together with five other boys before being taken to the juvenile section.
8. Three days after my arrest I had a military court hearing on video link. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. The military judge extended my detention to give the lawyer and the prosecutor more time to study my file.
9. I had two more military court hearings and at the last one my lawyer struck a deal with the prosecutor without consulting me. He told the court I accepted a plea bargain where I confessed to throwing stones. My father had to pay NIS 3,000 and the lawyer told me I had a suspended sentence but he did not give me the details.
10. I was released immediately after the hearing on 16 December 2020 at Al Jalama checkpoint and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Name: M.M.M.Q.
Age: 16
Date: 29 November 2020
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, M.M.M.Q. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 8:00 a.m. I walked my younger sister to school and then stopped by a falafel shop to buy a sandwich. There were lots of boys queuing in line and things were quiet. Suddenly two Israeli military jeeps drove towards us and the soldiers started to fire tear gas and stun grenades. Everyone scattered in all directions and I ran as fast as I could.
2. A military jeep followed me and hit me causing me to fall to the ground. Luckily, I was not hurt. I got up quickly and ran into a nearby house. The woman inside the house showed me the way to the back door but I could not open it and I climbed the stairs up to the roof.
3. A minute later two soldiers and a commander came up to the roof and started to beat me. The commander struck me hard with the back of his gun on my jaw which caused me a lot of pain. When I asked him to stop he beat me twice more on the same place. I was bleeding from my face.
4. Then the soldiers dragged me down the stairs and took me outside. A soldier made me take off my T-shirt and he wiped the blood off my face. He made me stand on the side of the street and lots of people who were there saw the blood and tried to intervene to get me released. Many were taking photos and videos with their mobile phones. The commander threatened to spray them with tear gas and told them to move back.
5. About 10 minutes later the commander took me to the back of a jeep and told me he could not beat me in front of all the people who were taking photos. He told me he was going to "finish me off" inside the jeep. He tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie and tightened it very hard. The tie was very painful and left marks on my wrists for days. He blindfolded me and covered my mouth and nose with a mask and made me sit on the metal floor.
6. The jeep then drove away and boys and young men pelted it with stones. Each time a stone hit the jeep the soldiers kicked and slapped me. They also swore at me and spat on me. I was bleeding heavily and asked for tissues but they said they did not have any.
7. The jeep drove to the gate at the entrance to the refugee camp. The commander removed the blindfold and the mask and took a photo of me. My father came and asked the soldiers to release me because I was bleeding. The commander made fun of him and told him to take off his trousers.

8. I was then transferred to another vehicle and taken to the settlement of Karmi Tzur. I was left in an outdoor area for a short time and then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was left in a courtyard for about eight hours and soldiers slapped and kicked me as they passed by. I was tied and blindfolded and I was not given any food or drink. I had to beg the soldiers to allow me to use the toilet. At around 4:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
9. The interrogator removed the tie and the blindfold and handed me a phone and told me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to worry and said I had the right to remain silent. I spoke to him for less than a minute and the interrogator was standing next to me listening. The interrogator saw that I was bleeding but did not say or do anything.
10. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator told me I was suspected of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. He told me my friends had already confessed against me. He named two friends and told me the incident happened in May and that two soldiers also testified against me. He was calm but told me if I continued to be stubborn and deny the accusation he was going to lock me up in prison for a long time. He questioned me for about an hour. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
11. After the interrogation I was left outside for about an hour and then I was taken for another interrogation. The second interrogator did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He was aggressive and thumped the table. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he said by denying the accusation I am telling him that his soldiers were liars.
12. The interrogator then named two boys and told me they had testified against me. I told him I did not know the persons he named. He questioned me for about 10 minutes and at the end he took my fingerprints electronically. I asked him why did he take my fingerprints and he told me it was to sign on the statement I gave him. I asked him whether it was accurate and he told me it was.
13. Then I was taken outside where I was examined by a doctor. The doctor asked me whether I was in contact with anyone who had Covid-19. The doctor saw that I was bleeding and gave me a questionnaire in Arabic with a question about whether I had been beaten by soldiers. I circled that question.
14. Then I was left outside until around midnight. I was cold and asked a soldier to allow me to go inside. He refused. Then another soldier came by and he took me into a kitchen. I sat on the floor and then I tried to sleep but I could not. I was tied and blindfolded and I was left in the kitchen for about three hours. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken to Hadassah hospital.
15. I arrived in the emergency room at the hospital at around 4:00 a.m. I was given a pain killer and they took an X-Ray of my jaw but no one told me anything. Then a nurse, who spoke Arabic, asked me for my father's number. She told me they needed to call him and ask him to come to the hospital to sign a document authorizing them to operate on me. I was shocked when I heard I was going to have surgery.

16. I was then taken to a room with another patient who spoke Arabic. He told me he heard the doctors say I had five fractures in my jaw. By this time my jaw was swollen and I was in severe pain. I was tied to the bed and one of the soldiers who beat me when I was arrested was in the hospital room guarding me.
17. When my father came to the hospital the guard did not allow him to come into my room. My father saw me in bed and was very upset. I was given a drip in my arm and only then did they remove the tie to the bed and tied my two hands to the front. Then they told me I had to fast before they could operate on me. I did not have the surgery for another four days. During this time a lawyer visited me. He told me I had had a military court hearing which he attended.
18. On the fourth day they operated on me. I was told the doctors had to hold my jaw in place with platinum implants. Twelve hours after the surgery I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was left in a room by myself for three days. There were cameras in the room and in the bathroom. I could not go to the toilet without being filmed. During this time they gave me special liquid food because I could not chew.
19. Then I was transferred to another room with other detainees I was left there for 18 days. During this time, I was taken twice to the hospital for a checkup. The trip to the hospital was exhausting and took four hours each way. I also had three military court hearings via video link. The hearings took five minutes and I did not understand what went on. My father attended the hearings.
20. Later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On arrival at Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I had five more military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 24 December 2020, the military judge asked me if I was going to throw stones ever again. I told him I was a good student and I wanted to study and get a high average.
21. I had a second hearing on the same day which I did not attend. My lawyer told me the judge decided to release me on bail. He told me my father had to pay NIS 3,000 in bail. He also told me I had another court hearing on 6 January 2021 which I had to attend.
22. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 25 December 2020, but my parents were told to wait for me at Ofer. I saw a taxi driver and I asked him to use his telephone to call my father. My parents arrived and we got home at around 1:00 p.m. I can now eat and talk but my jaw still hurts and I sometimes feel numbness. My doctor in Hebron tells me we have to wait and see what kind of treatment I will need.

Name: I.R.B.Z.
Age: 16
Date: 8 December 2020
Location: Beit Ummar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.R.B.Z. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. I knew it was bad news so I stayed in bed. My father rushed to the door and managed to open it before it was broken down. About 15 Israeli soldiers came into our home. They searched my parents' bedroom and then the area military commander came to my room to wake me up. He told me to get up then took a couple of pictures of me and then left me in the room with two soldiers.
2. Then, without giving my parents any documents, they took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then taken to a troop carrier where the soldiers made me sit on the metal floor between their feet. Inside the troop carrier a soldier kicked me.
3. Then they drove to my cousin's house and arrested him too. Then we were both taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. First, they made me sit on the ground by the gate to the settlement, then, at around 7:30 a.m., I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to be strong and not to confess. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted less than a minute.
5. Then the interrogator told me if I wanted I could remain silent but if I did, it would work against me. I understood that to mean it was in my interest to speak. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and gave me a specific date. He told me the incident took place on 11 November 2020. I denied the accusation.
6. Then he told me it did not matter whether I confessed or not because he was going to lock me up in prison either way. He told me I was going to waste the best years of my life in prison but he told me that he would help me if I confessed. Then he told me he had strong evidence against me and that my cousin had confessed against me. Then he showed me video footage and some photographs of clashes with soldiers. I continued to deny the accusation.
7. He questioned me for about 45 minutes. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a room together with my cousin. The room was very small, about 1 x 2 meters, too small for the two of us. It had one window but they shut it and turned a dim light on. My cousin and I were left in the room for 16 days. It was very difficult and we got very bored and sick of each other with nothing to do. During this time, I had three military court hearings via video link which my parents attended except for the first one.
9. Sixteen days later I was transferred to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and left there for eight days. Then the prison authorities suspected I was sick with COVID-19 because another prisoner in the same room tested positive. They transferred me to another detention centre in the North, I am not sure exactly where, possibly on the border with Lebanon. I was tested three times for the Corona Virus and luckily all three tests were negative. I was then transferred back to the quarantine section at Megiddo.
10. My last military court hearing was on 11 January 2021, which was the same day that I was released. I was sentenced in a plea bargain and the military judge told me they were satisfied with the time I had already spent in custody. My parents did not have to pay any fines but my father had to sign a bond of NIS 2,000 which he would have to pay if I was arrested again. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months in prison valid for three years. I accepted the deal because I wanted to go home.
11. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 11 January 2021 and I went home with my father. I arrived home at 9:30 p.m.

Name: J.M.M.A.
Age: 16
Date: 8 December 2020
Location: Beit Ummar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, J.M.M.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our neighbourhood. A moment later I heard loud banging at our neighbour's house. The soldiers went to the neighbour's house and made him show them the way to our house. Our neighbour knocked at our door and called us. I went downstairs and opened the door. The soldiers asked me for my name and then told me I was under arrest.
2. Then, without entering our house, the commander asked my father to sign a document with details about my arrest. Then a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties: one on each wrist and the two ties were connected together. The ties were tight and painful. Then they walked me for a short distance before blindfolding me. I was then put in the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. A soldier pushed me aggressively into the jeep and another struck me on the back with his gun.
3. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where we arrived at around 4:00 a.m. I was thrown on the ground outside for about one-and-a-half hours before being taken for a quick medical examination. The doctor removed the blindfold and I snapped the ties open because they were very tight and I was in pain. After the examination the doctor tied me again but this time the ties were not as tight. Then the soldiers walked me inside the police compound for about two hours. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold. When I asked him to remove the ties he told me he would remove them later. Then he wanted to know what I did in my life. I told him I worked at a butcher shop which my father owns. I also told him I sometimes go with my friends to the club. He asked me whether I lifted weights at the club and I told him I did.
5. Then he phoned a lawyer for me. He held the phone close to my ear and put it on speaker phone. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and advised me not to speak. He also told me the interrogator had no right to beat me. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator heard everything.
6. Then the interrogator told me he was going to treat me with respect if I treated him with respect. Then, without saying anything about my right to silence, he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during the protest to commemorate the death of Yasser Arafat. I denied the accusation and told him I only ever threw stones once in my life years ago. Then he started to shout at me and showed me some photographs of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me. I continued to deny the accusation.

7. He kept repeating the same accusation over and over again until I was very bored. He talked to me in a loud aggressive voice. At the end I was so bored that I confessed to throwing stones; I just wanted to get done with it. He questioned me for about two hours and did not ask me to sign any documents.
8. Then I was taken to see another interrogator. This one did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me my friend had confessed against me and told me to confess. He told me my friend told him everything there was to say about me. I told him I had nothing to confess to. He was aggressive and raised his voice at me and kept telling to confess. He swore at me and called my mother and sister "whores". He wanted me to confess to more serious accusations but I did not.
9. Then I was taken to see a third interrogator. This one was calm, I think because he had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. This one did not inform me of my rights and questioned me for about 15 minutes. He was reading from a document which was given to him by the first interrogator. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. Then he showed me an Arabic version but I did not manage to read it because he took it away before I finished reading it. I did not sign.
10. Then I was left outside by the gate for about one-and-a-half hours before being driven to Huwwara military base. I was strip searched before being taken to a cell together with a friend of mine from the village. The cell was very small and had one window but it was shut the whole time. I could see daylight but there was no breeze.
11. I was left there for 16 days. At the end of the 16 days my friend and I were sick and tired of each other and had nothing more to say. The time went by very slowly. I found it hard to sleep because the bed was made out of metal and there was no mattress on it, just a blanket. During this time, I had three military court hearings via video link and my mother attended all three of them.
12. Later I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and left there for eight days. Then the prison authorities suspected I was sick with Covid-19 because one of the detainees in the same section tested positive. I was transferred to a detention centre up north by the Lebanese border. I had three Corona tests over the course of eight days and all three were negative. Then I was transferred back to the quarantine section at Megiddo where I spent another five days.
13. I had six military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 13 January 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received an eight-month suspended sentence suspended for three years. My parents refused to pay the fine and so the military judge made them sign an undated check for NIS 2,000 as a bond. My father accepted the plea bargain and told me to accept it too. I spent the last two weeks of my sentence at the juvenile section at Megiddo.

14. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 25 January 2021, and I went home with my family. We arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. I did not have any family visits in prison and I found it very boring.

I, D.E.J.S. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:30 a.m. with six Israeli soldiers looking down at me. The soldiers took my father aside, spoke to him and then came back to my bedroom and told me I was under arrest. Then they showed my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. They made him sign it and took away.
2. Then the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were painful. Then they blindfolded me and walked me for about 15 minutes towards the settlement of Karmi Zur. On the way soldiers kicked and slapped me.
3. At the settlement the soldiers made me sit on the ground for about five minutes and then took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. 4. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold and told me he wanted to have a chat with me. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me the interrogator was going to interrogate me and told me not to worry and to be strong. The conversation lasted for less than two minutes and the interrogator was in the room and he could hear me but he could not hear the lawyer.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of manufacturing pipe bombs and Molotov cocktails. I denied the accusations. Then he told me soldiers had testified against me. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for a about one-and-a-half hours. During this time, he left the room multiple times and came back and continued to question me. He was typing on a computer and was calm most of the time. He repeated the accusations multiple times and urged me to confess but I did not confess.
6. Then, without asking me to sign any documents, he took me to see another interrogator. The first interrogator gave the second one some documents. The second interrogator read them and then turned a voice recorder on and asked me the same questions as he read from the documents. This interrogator was more assertive and at the end I confessed to throwing two stones from a distance of 100 meters which missed. After I confessed the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and when I refused to sign he told me the voice recorder would be the reference and that what is written in the document would be identical to the recording. At that point I signed the Hebrew documents.

7. After the interrogation I was tied and blindfolded and taken back to the room where I was left until around 3:00 a.m. Then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. At Megiddo I was searched in my boxer shorts.
8. The following day I had my first military court hearing which was conducted via video link. My parents were not informed and so they did not attend the hearing.
9. I had four military court hearings and at the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I also received a suspended sentence of three months suspended for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me the alternative was to spend eight months in prison.
10. I spent 11 days at the quarantine section and then I was transferred to the juvenile section at Megiddo where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. I did not have any family visits but I was allowed to call home from a monitored pay phone once every two weeks. In prison I helped in the kitchen.
11. I was released on 28 February 2021, at Al Jalama checkpoint and I took a taxi home because my parents were not informed about my release. I arrived home at around midnight.

Name: H.H.J.T.
Age: 15
Date: 2 January 2021
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, H.H.J.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested at the entrance to my village at around 8:30 p.m. I was suddenly surrounded by a group of Israeli soldiers and ordered me to raise my hands up. A soldier swore at me as he searched me calling me "a son of a whore".
2. After I was searched my hands were tied behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then I was blindfolded and led towards a military jeep and made me sit on a metal box in the middle. Inside the jeep a soldier put his gun very close to me.
3. Then they took me to the nearby settlement of Etzion where they left me sitting on the ground for about three hours. About half way through a soldier removed the blindfold. Then "Captain Basheer", who is in charge of the area, came and started to question me.
4. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me it was better for me to confess because he did not want me to waste the best years of my life in prison. He wanted me to confess to throwing a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation. At first, he was calm but then he suddenly flipped and spoke to me in a loud voice and threatened to beat me up if I did not confess. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and I tried not to answer his questions. Then they took me to a tent and left me there for about three hours. Then, at around 2:30 a.m., I was taken for another interrogation.
5. As soon as I entered the interrogation room the interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and to ask for water and food. He then told me, "God willing", he would see me in court. The interrogator was not listening and the conversation lasted for about three minutes.
6. Then the interrogator started to question me through an interpreter. He wanted to know who threw the Molotov cocktail. I told him it was not me. He did not inform me of my right to silence and insisted that I had to confess to throwing the Molotov cocktail. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and at the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign it. I asked him to translate it for me and when he refused I refused to sign.

7. Then I was taken back to the tent where I spent another four hours. They took me outside in the cold weather every 15 minutes or so to keep me awake. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell. I shared the cell with other boys and I spent 36 days there.
8. The following day I had a military court hearing via Zoom. My family was not informed and no one attended. My detention was extended. On the 15th day I had another interrogation.
9. The interrogator had a camera in the room. He phoned the same lawyer who told me the same things. The interrogator heard the conversation on speaker phone and took the phone away about a minute into the call. He told me that was enough.
10. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he told me the most important thing to him was for me to confess to whatever it was I did. I told him I did not do anything. Then he accused me of firing shots. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about one hour and started to yell and shout at me towards the end. He told me someone had confessed against me. He swore to God if I did not confess he was going to make me forget who my mother was. In the end he gave me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I did. After the interrogation I was taken back to the cell.
11. During the 36 days I had five military court hearings. After 36 days at I was taken to Ofer prison where I was searched in my boxer shorts. Then I was taken to section 13. I had nine more military court hearings. At the last one, which was about two months before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months suspended for two years. This was based on my friends' confessions. I accepted the plea bargain because it was a much better deal than the 16 months in prison I was told I was facing.
12. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Ofer. I did not have any family visits; the permit for my parents to visit was issued two days after I had been released. I was allowed to call home from a pay phone twice a month. I passed the time playing table tennis and keeping the cell clean and tidy.
13. I was released from Ofer on 22 July 2021 and I went home with my parents and my uncles. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m. The first month in prison was very hard; I missed my family and friends very badly. It took me about a month to get used to life in prison.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, A.A.M.S. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking with my friends along the main road in my village when four Israeli military jeeps pulled over right next to us. It was around 5:30 p.m. About 15 soldiers stepped out of the jeeps and pushed me to the ground and stepped on me. They verbally abused me and said things I cannot repeat. Then one of them tied my hand behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful. When I asked the soldiers to loosen them up they did the exact opposite. The ties left marks on my wrists for 10 days. I was also blindfolded.
2. Then they took me to the back of one of the jeeps and made me sit on a seat. Inside the jeep they continued to verbally abuse me and to make fun of me. They took me to the police station in the settlement of Kiryat Arba and left me in a tent in the cold and rainy weather. I was left there from around 9:00 p.m. until around 7:00 a.m. During this time, they did not allow me to use the toilet and did not bring any food but gave me some water. I could not sleep at all and I was exhausted and cold.
3. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to a small cell with a toilet. I was there with two other boys. The cell did not have any windows and I could not tell day from night. A light was left on for 24 hours a day and we kept begging the soldiers to turn it off at night but they refused. I managed to sleep sometimes but mostly not because the cell was freezing cold. I had my first interrogation the same day I arrived.
4. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform and had a camera in the room. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me he would see me in court the following day where he would talk to me. The conversation lasted for about half a minute and the interrogator was listening.
5. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me that soldiers and some of my friends had confessed against me. I later found out this was not true.
6. The interrogator was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice. He thumped the table and threatened to beat me. He told me I was never ever going to be issued a work permit. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. I denied the accusation. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and told me it was in my interest to sign so I signed.

7. Then I was taken to Al Mascobiyeh interrogation centre, in West Jerusalem, where I was searched in my clothes. I was left in a cell with another boy for 16 days. The cell was not big enough for the two of us and one day I had a fight with the other boy and the guards punished me. They took me to a bathroom and four guards beat me up hard; I was in pain. They beat me all over my body then they took me to a cell by myself and left me there for one day as punishment.
8. Then I was taken to Ramleh prison, inside Israel, where I was quarantined because they suspected I had COVID-19. I was quarantined by myself for five days and then they brought in another detainee and I was left there for another 18 days.
9. I had about 20 military court hearings; possibly more. The first one was while I was at Al Mascobiyeh. It was conducted on zoom and my family were not informed and they did not attend. The last hearing was on 18 May 2021, about six weeks before I was released. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I also received an additional 15 months in prison and a fine of NIS 5,000 suspended for three years. They wanted me to plead guilty to throwing a Molotov cocktail. When I objected and told the military judge I did not throw a Molotov cocktail, the judge told me not speak while he was talking. Then my lawyer advised me to accept the plea bargain and I did.
10. After Ramleh, I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and I spent the rest of my prison sentence there. In prison I was in charge of keeping the ward in order and I distributed food to the other prisoners. I did not have any family visits and the prison authorities did not provide a telephone.
11. I was released at Ofer on 15 August 2021, and I was met by my mother, my brother and my cousin. We arrived home at around 8:00 p.m. I did not have any appetite and did not eat anything. Three days later I went out for a walk at around 11:00 p.m. because I wanted to get some fresh air but then I was ambushed by a group of 5 soldiers who stopped me and then took me to Etzion police station. I was detained for three hours and then soldiers dropped me off on the main road and told me to go home.

Age: 16
Date: 13 January 2021
Location: Al Mughayyer, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.A.N. of Al Mughayyer, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 4:00 a.m. I was asleep and woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. I looked out the window and saw lots of Israeli soldiers on the street. I woke my father up and he opened the door and about 20 soldiers entered our home. They told my father they had come for me and the commander told me to get ready after checking my identity card. The soldiers did not give my parents any documents and only told us I was wanted for questioning.
2. Inside our house a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists.
3. The soldiers hardly spent 10 minutes in our house before taking me outside and walking me towards the military watchtower about one kilometer away. On the way a soldier kicked me on my leg because I laughed at him when he tripped. As we approached the watchtower a soldier blindfolded me and then I was left in an open area in the rain for about 30 minutes.
4. Then I was taken in a vehicle to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I was left in the vehicle outside the police station for about 30 minutes and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He removed the blindfold. He did not arrange for me to speak to a lawyer. Then he gave me a document written in Arabic and Hebrew saying I could choose to remain silent but that could turn against me.
6. The interrogator began by telling me there were confessions against me. He accused me of throwing stones at settler cars on the main road in the valley near my village. When I denied the accusation, he became angry and shouted at me and told me I had to confess. He threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time if I did not confess.
7. The interrogator questioned me for about an hour and at the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. When I asked him to translate the document for me he told me he could not translate the document.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell. I spent about 14 days in the cell with two other boys.
9. My first military court hearing was conducted via video link without my parents. My detention was extended and the hearing adjourned.
10. I had three military court hearings. The last one was on 29 January 2021, on the day of my release. My parents were fined NIS 2,000 shekels and I was released after the court session.
11. My father drove me home and on the way we were stopped at a checkpoint. The soldiers told me I was detained. They told my father to go home and took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. A soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not too tight.
12. I was taken back to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was questioned for about two hours. The interrogator showed me a document written in Arabic and Hebrew about my rights. He called my father and told him I was held in detention. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and told me another boy had testified against me. The interrogator was aggressive and when I denied the accusation he threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time because he had "a thousand points" in my charge sheet. I continued to deny the accusations.
13. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign it. Then I was taken in a police car to Al Mascobiyyeh interrogation centre, in Jerusalem. I was put in a cell with other boys. I spent two days there and then my lawyer managed to get me released. I was dropped off at Hizma checkpoint and I called my parents who came and picked me up. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.

Age: 16
Date: 13 January 2021
Location: Al Mughayyer, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, O.N.M.N. of Al Mughayyer, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. I stayed in bed and did not move. My father answered and about 10 masked Israeli soldiers entered our home. My 13-year-old sister was terrified and could not stop crying.
2. The soldiers came straight to my bedroom as if someone had told them exactly where it was. They spoke to me whilst I was still in bed. They checked my identity card and then told my father they wanted to ask me some questions and would bring me back. They did not give my father any documents.
3. Inside the house a soldier blindfolded me and covered my face with two masks and a plastic shield. He also put a plastic protective apron on me. Then he tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. They did not search the house and within about 10 minutes they took me outside.
4. The soldiers made me walk for about two kilometers on a dirt road in the rain. I could not see my way and when I drifted off the path a soldier kicked me and I fell to the ground. They took me to the nearby military base and left me in a courtyard in the rain until around 6:30 a.m.
5. At around 6:30 a.m. I was taken to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. When I removed the blindfold, a soldier struck me with the back of his gun on my shoulder and back and caused me pain. The troop carrier dropped soldiers off along the way and finally arrived at the police station in Binyamin settlement at around noon. I was left in a room with soldiers who kicked me each time I moved. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him while he left the room. The lawyer told me to remain silent and not to confess. The conversation lasted for about two minutes. Then the interrogator came back and told me I had the right to remain silent.
7. Then he accused me of causing troubles and of throwing stones at soldiers. He also told me my friends had confessed against me. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was calm and questioned me for about an hour. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.

8. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was strip searched before being taken to a cell where I spent 16 days with other boys. Sometimes I was with one other boy sometimes with two. Four days later I was told I had a military court hearing but instead I was taken for another interrogation.
9. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He repeated the same accusations and claimed I had confessed to the first interrogator. I told him I had not and I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about two hours. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
10. After spending 16 days at Etzion I was transferred to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was searched in my boxer shorts and I spent six days in quarantine. Then I was transferred to the minors' section. I spent two months there and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
11. I had five more military court hearings on Zoom which my father attended. At the last one, which was on 12 May 2021, I was sentenced based on my friends' confessions in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was facing two years in prison had I rejected it.
12. I was given early release and I was released at Ofer on 30 June 2021. My family were waiting for me and I went home with them. We arrived home at around 7:00 p.m. In prison I lifted weights and I worked to keep the ward clean and tidy and I distributed food to the other prisoners.

I, M.R.K.R. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when Israeli soldiers raided our house at around 5:00 a.m. About 20 soldiers were in our living room when I woke up to the sound of them talking to my father. I got up and went to the living room. When the commander saw me he asked me for my name and then told my father he wanted to have "a chat" with me.
2. Outside the house a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were painful and left marks on my wrists. Then he blindfolded me and made me walk to the nearby settlement of Beit El. On the way the soldiers kicked and slapped me and swore at me.
3. Then I was taken to the commander's room where I was questioned by him. He did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me I was a trouble maker and that he had information that I threw stones and Molotov cocktails at a house inside the settlement. Then he gave me a written warning saying if I continued to make troubles they were going to arrest me. Then the commander told me this time he was not going to arrest me because it was not my turn yet and warned me about my behavior. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
4. I was left in a room until around 4:30 p.m. when the commander came back and told me I could go home. I walked home from the settlement.

Name: M.I.R.S.
Age: 16
Date: 28 January 2021
Location: Azzun, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, M.I.R.S. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father opened the door and a group of about 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home. They told us to gather in one room. Then the commander asked my father about me and then took me to another room by myself. The commander asked me whether I knew why he was in our house and when I told him I did not he told me I would soon find out. Then they took me to my bedroom and took my telephone from me.
2. Then the commander told my father I was to be arrested. He gave my father a document with information filled out in Hebrew and asked him to sign it and he did. Then the commander told me he had orders to arrest me. He gave me time to get dressed and to say goodbye to my family.
3. After I got dressed they took me outside and walked me for about two kilometers towards the nearby settlement of Karni Shomron. Outside the settlement a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists. I remained painfully tied until around 6:00 a.m. when I asked a female soldier to loosen the tie and she did.
4. I was also blindfolded and left outside the settlement. Then the area commander came by and started to question me without informing me of any rights. He pulled down the blindfold, asked me for my name and then accused me of being a terrorist. He told me I had no mercy for settlers driving along Route 55. He questioned me for about 15 minutes and then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat.
5. I was then taken to another nearby settlement where I was left in a room by myself until around 8:00 a.m. At around 8:00 a.m. I was given a quick medical examination. The doctor wanted to know if I had any medical conditions. Then, after the examination, I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched and then I was taken to a cell where I spent 16 days together with another detainee. On the fifth day I was taken for interrogation at Salem.
6. I was shackled before being taken to an interrogation room. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. The interrogator did not phone a lawyer for me but informed me of my right to silence. I was reluctant to remain silent because I thought remaining silent would imply I was guilty. The interrogator told me he did not care if I confessed or not because my file was ready and complete. He told me that my friends had confessed against me.

7. The interrogator was sometimes calm and at other times he lost his temper and yelled at me. He did not like it when I laughed at his questions and swore when I did. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at Route 55. I denied the accusations. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
8. After the interrogation I was taken back to Huwwara. About five days later I was taken for a second interrogation also at Salem. The interrogator told me I had the right to call a lawyer but did not call one for me and I did not have a telephone number for a lawyer. He did not inform me of my right to silence and accused me of the same accusations. He was calm and named all the other boys who had confessed against me and wanted me to say whether this was true or not. I gave a "no" answer to all his questions. He questioned me for about 10 minutes and then asked me to sign a document written in Arabic. I read most of it and then I signed.
9. Afterwards I was taken back to Huwwara. The cell I was put in was depressing and cold and the food was disgusting. They mostly gave us uncooked rice to eat. I did not eat during the first three days because I could not but then I had no choice.
10. After spending 16 days at Huwwara I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I spent 14 days in quarantine and then I was put in the juveniles' section. At Megiddo I was searched in my clothes.
11. My first military court hearing was on the second day after my arrest. It was conducted over a video link and my parents did not attend because they were not informed. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had about 15 hearings.
12. At the last hearing, which was about three months before my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 12 months in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because otherwise I was facing two-and-a-half years in prison and my lawyer encouraged me to accept it.
13. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Megiddo where I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. My parents visited me seven times and I was allowed to make phone calls from a monitored phone provided by the prison authorities once every ten days for about ten minutes.
14. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 27 February 2022, but my family was told to wait for me at Al Jalama checkpoint. I took a taxi to Al Jalama where I met my brother and my friends and we all went home. I arrived home in the evening.
15. I did not go back to school after prison; I am worried I might not pass my high school exams so I decided to leave school all together and to look for a job to support my family.

Location: Beitunia, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, N.Y.M.O. of Beitunia, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 11:30 p.m. I heard loud banging at the front door. My parents opened the door and about a dozen Israeli soldiers entered our home. The soldiers searched our house and then asked me for my identity card. Then I was told I was under arrest for "security reasons". They did not give us any documents.
2. The soldiers told me to put my shoes on and then my legs were shackled and I was handcuffed with my hands behind my back. The handcuffs were tight and painful. I asked the soldier to loosen them but he did not respond. Then I was blindfolded and led a short distance outside. Along the way I was slapped and kicked.
3. I was taken to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor next to some tear gas canisters. Inside the jeep the soldiers continued to kick me and one of the soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
4. The jeep drove to a deserted area where the soldiers told me to get out and made me take off my clothes except my underwear. They told me to spread my legs apart and searched me in a humiliating manner. They held me there for about 30 minutes and then told me to put my clothes on then drove me to the entrance of Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
5. While waiting outside Ofer the area commander came by and threatened to "waste my entire life in prison" if I did not tell him everything. He did not inform me of my rights and told me I would be prosecuted. I told him I wanted to speak to a lawyer and to practice my right to remain silent. He made a sarcastic comment about me claiming to know my rights. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the wall near Ofer. I denied the accusation. This lasted for about 15 minutes and then I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, for further interrogation.
6. I arrived at Atarot at around 1:00 a.m. and I was left in an outdoor cage until around 4:00 a.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
7. Inside the interrogation room the interrogator had a camera pointing at him and a voice recorder on his desk. He removed my handcuffs and the blindfold. He did not inform me of my rights and started to ask me questions. When I told him I wanted to speak to a lawyer he thumped the table aggressively and told me he would allow me to speak to a lawyer the following day. Then he told me I was at an interrogation centre and it wasn't up to me to make demands.

8. He accused me of manufacturing Molotov cocktails and of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the Wall. I denied the accusation. He was aggressive and thumped the table many times. He showed me video footage of the incident and wanted me to confess but I continued to deny the accusations. He then changed his tone and became calm and tried to get a confession out of me. When I denied the accusation, he became angry again. Half way through the interrogation he handcuffed me again. He questioned me for about two hours and at the end of the interrogation he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
9. Then I was taken to a room where I spent about one-and-a-half hours before being taken for a further round of interrogation. This time the air conditioner was turned on to cold even though it was winter and I was freezing. This interrogator removed my handcuffs. I told him I wanted to speak to my parents and he allowed me to call my mother. I told my mother to appoint me a lawyer and then I told the interrogator I was not going to cooperate with him until I spoke to my lawyer.
10. About 45 minutes later a lawyer visited me. The lawyer took me aside and told me not to confess and not to mention other boys. He talked to me for about two minutes and then left. By then I was starving and asked for some food. The interrogator yelled at me and then told a soldier to bring me some food and he did. Then he started to question me.
11. The interrogator accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the Wall and showed me some video footage. I told him the footage was not clear and I denied the accusation. He became angry and swore at me and god. He questioned me for about four hours and I continued to deny the accusation. At the end he asked me to sign some documents in Hebrew. When I asked to see the documents in Arabic he brought me an Arabic version. I read the documents and then I signed them.
12. After the interrogation I was searched in my boxer shorts and taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. Shortly afterwards I was told they were going to transfer me to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I spent 14 days in a quarantine section by myself at Megiddo and then I was taken to the juvenile section.
13. Before I was taken to the juvenile section I had a third interrogation by an intelligence officer. The intelligence officer did not inform me of my right to silence and did not call a lawyer for me. When I asked to speak to my lawyer he told me it was not possible because I was in a "questioning session".
14. The intelligence officer told me there were confessions against me by my friends and showed me the confessions. I denied the accusation and told him I did not know the boys who gave the confessions. He questioned me for about 30 minutes behind a glass barrier and was aggressive. At the end he wanted me to sign documents written in Hebrew but I asked for a translation and he gave me an Arabic version of the document. I read it and then I signed it.

15. In all I had five military court hearings. The first one was on 9 February 2021. It was conducted via zoom. My parents were not informed and did not attend.
16. At my last hearing, which was on 22 March 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison. I also received a suspended sentence of six months suspended for five years. My father then paid NIS 4,000 shekels and my custodial sentence was reduced from eight months to four.
17. I spent the rest of my sentence at Megiddo prison. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus regulations but I was allowed to phone home from a monitored phone once every two weeks. In prison I played table tennis and I was in charge of the canteen keeping track of the prisoners' accounts.
18. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 14 April 2021, about 14 days earlier than expected. My parents were not informed of my early release. I borrowed a phone and called home and my father told me to take a taxi. I arrived home at around 4:00 p.m.
19. I missed my final school exams while in prison but I want to study alone and sit for the exams next year.

2. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep where a soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then he blindfolded me and told me to sit on the metal floor. They drove me to a nearby checkpoint where I was left sitting on some stairs. At around 3:30 a.m. I was given a medical examination. Then I was taken inside where I sat in a cold corridor. I was left there until around 6:30 a.m.
3. At around 6:30 a.m. I was put in a troop carrier which took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I arrived there at around noon. I was left outside until around 3:30 p.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the ties and hand cuffed me with metal handcuffs and shackled my feet. He was in civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. Then he phoned a lawyer and wanted me to speak to him. I told the interrogator I wanted to call my father first to see if he thought I should speak to a lawyer. I called my father and my father told me to speak to the lawyer. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and that he was on my side. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator wanted to know why I go to the area near the Wall. Then he accused me of damaging the fence by the Wall and of throwing stones. At first, I denied the accusation but later I confessed. I confessed to throwing 20 stones which all missed. Then the interrogator wanted to know why I threw stones and what benefit did that bring me. I did not answer his question. He then told me stones endanger the lives of soldiers and could cause physical harm. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I asked him to explain to me what I was signing on but he did not respond and I signed anyway.
6. Then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched and I spent seven days there. Then I was taken into the minors' section.

7. Two days later I had a military court hearing via zoom which my mother attended. The court extended my detention. I had two more hearings and at the last one, which was on the same day when I was released, I was fined NIS 1,500 instead of time in prison and I was also given three months in prison suspended for a year. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
8. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 7 February 2021, and I went home with my brother. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

I, N.A.M.S. of Sabastiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About two weeks before I was arrested, my father received a phone call from an Israeli military officer asking him to bring me and my brother to the police station for questioning. My father refused to comply and told the officer last time they summoned us we ended up in prison and told him if he wanted to arrest us he should arrest us from home.
2. About two weeks later, soldiers blew off our front door at around 3:00 a.m. I woke up to the sound of the explosion. Shortly afterwards three soldiers came into my bedroom. One of them mentioned my name and then told me to get ready because I was under arrest. He gave my father a document with some details scribbled in Hebrew and asked him to sign it and he did. The soldier ticked the box indicating they were taking me to Ariel police station when in fact they took me to Huwwara military base and then to Salem interrogation centre. They remained inside our home for less than 10 minutes.
3. One of the soldiers then tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie and tightened it hard. I was in pain and the tie left marks on my wrists for a long time. Another soldier blindfolded me and made me wait outside the house while they arrested my twin brother.
4. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep that was waiting outside and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. Then they drove to the nearby settlement of Shave Shomron where I was given a quick medical test. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base; I arrived there at around 4:30 a.m.
5. On arrival at Huwwara I was strip searched and then I was taken to a cell where I spent 16 days together with my brother. On the second day I had a military court hearing by video. My mother and brother attended and my detention was extended. On the fifth day I was taken to Salem for interrogation; I arrived there at around noon.
6. Before the interrogator started to question me, he told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him and left the room. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me not to worry. The conversation was about two minutes long.
7. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and pipe bombs and paint and fire crackers at soldiers in the village. He gave me specific dates for the incidents. I denied the accusations. Then he told me three young men from the village had confessed against me. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for a little more than an hour and was calm and did not threaten me with anything. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Arabic. I read it and when I found it was identical to what I had said I signed it.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell with my brother. We remained in the cell for 16 days. During this time, I had four more court hearings. After 16 days I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was quarantined with other boys for 12 days. Then I was taken into the minors' section.
9. My last court hearing was on 25 May 2021. During this session I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 12 months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I also received a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me it was the best deal I was going to get.
10. When I turned 18 I was transferred to the adults' section at Megiddo and then I was transferred to two other prisons inside Israel; Remon and The Negev. While in prison my family visited me four times. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics and I cooked and helped in the kitchen.
11. I was released at Al Thahiriya checkpoint on 6 January 2022 and I went home with my parents and my brother. We arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.

Name: N.A.M.E.
Age: 17
Date: 3 February 2021
Location: Sabastiya, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / pipe bombs

I, N.A.M.E. of Sabastiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About two weeks before I was arrested, a military officer called my father and asked him to hand me and my brother over to the police station for questioning. My father refused and told the officer to come to our house if he wanted to arrest us.
2. About two weeks later, soldiers blew open our front door at around 3:00 a.m. I woke up to the sound of a loud explosion. Shortly afterwards soldiers came to my bedroom. They asked me for my name and then told me they were going to take me for questioning. One of the soldiers gave my father a document with some details handwritten in Hebrew and asked him to sign it and he did. The soldier circled the option where it said they were taking me to Ariel police station when in fact they took me to Huwwara military base.
3. They took my twin brother outside first and remained inside our house for about 10 minutes. Then they took me outside too.
4. In the courtyard one of the soldiers tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight but not too painful. I was also blindfolded before being taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Then they drove to the nearby settlement of Shave Shomron where I was given a quick medical examination. Afterwards I was taken to Huwwara military base.
5. On arrival at Huwwara I was strip searched before being taken into a cell where I spent 16 days together with my brother. On the second day I had a military court hearing via video. My mother and brother attended and my detention was extended. On the fifth day I was taken to Salem for interrogation; I arrived there at around noon.
6. At the beginning, the interrogator told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him and left the room. The lawyer told me my fate is determined by what I say to the interrogator. The conversation lasted about a minute.
7. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but then told me if I remained silent then everything the interrogator says would stand as true. Then he accused me of throwing stones and pipe bombs at soldiers in the village and at the settlement. He gave me specific dates for the incidents. I denied the accusations. Then he told me he had confessions against me. I continued to deny the accusation and told him the confessions were not true. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Arabic. I read it and when I found it was identical to what I had said I signed it.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was strip searched before being put in a cell with my brother. We remained in the cell for 16 days. During this time I had four military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 25 May 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 12 months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a further eight months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me to accept it because the prosecutor had asked for two years in prison. I also wanted to be sentenced as a minor because once I turned 18 I would be sentenced as an adult.
9. After spending 16 days at Huwwara I was quarantined for 12 days at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, and then I was taken into the minors' section. When I turned 18 I was transferred to the adults' section at Megiddo. Then I was transferred to two other prisons inside Israel. While in prison my family visited me four times. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics and I cooked and helped in the kitchen.
10. I was released at Al Thahiriya checkpoint on 6 January 2022, and I went home with my parents and my brother. We arrived home at around 11:00 p.m. I sat for my high school exams in prison and I passed, now I want to register to go to college.

Name: M.M.H.M.
Age: 15
Date: 8 February 2021
Location: Al Jalazun refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing pipe bombs

I, M.M.H.M. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:00 a.m. Israeli soldiers came into my bedroom and one of them woke me up. The soldiers separated my mother and younger siblings and locked them up in one of the rooms and started to question me in my bedroom. They asked me about my siblings and they were very nervous because young men and boys started to throw stones at the soldiers who remained outside our house. The situation was very tense. Then they gave my father a document filled out on Hebrew and asked him to sign it.
2. One of the soldiers kicked me on my leg and I fell on the floor. Then, about an hour later, I was told I was under arrest. They took me outside and did not allow me to say goodbye to my family. Outside the house a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties and tightened them hard. The ties were painful.
3. Then the soldiers walked me towards the nearby settlement of Beit El. On the way soldiers called me "a son of a whore" and made fun of me. Then a soldier blindfolded me and took me inside the settlement and left me on the ground for a short while. Then they took me to a bus and made me sit on a seat. The bus drove me to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around 5:30 a.m.
4. At Binyamin I was taken to a small cell. There was a metal chair attached to the wall. The cell was very small, without enough room for me to lie down. There was no mattress and there were no windows. I felt claustrophobic and I kept calling the guard to get me out of there but he never responded. I was left there until noon the following day when I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me after calling my parents. The lawyer told me not to be afraid. He also told me to talk about things I knew and to avoid talking about things I did not know. The conversation lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator was listening.
6. Then the interrogator gave me a sheet of paper with my rights written on it. It said something about the right to remain silent but I did not understand what this meant. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing pipe bombs at soldiers and told me my friends had testified against me. Then he showed me video footage and repeated the accusation but I denied it. Then he told me it did not matter whether I confessed or not because the evidence against me was strong. Then he threatened if I gave him a hard time and did not confess he was going to lock me up in solitary confinement in a small cell at Al Mascobiyeh interrogation centre.

7. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours and kept repeating the accusations. In the end I confessed to throwing pipe bombs. Then the interrogator asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew. He translated them for me and I signed because they were identical to what I had said.
8. Then I was taken back to the cell for about one hour and then I was questioned again. This time the interrogator wanted to get information about my friends. He questioned me without informing me of my rights and I was not allowed to speak to a lawyer.
9. Then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched on arrival and I spent 14 days in quarantine. During this time, I had my first military court hearing on zoom. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. My detention was extended.
10. During this time I had another interrogation by an intelligence officer. The intelligence officer did not inform me of my rights and did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He told me he found my fingerprint on some pipe bombs and claimed this was new evidence against me. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and did not ask me to sign any documents.
11. I had about 15 military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 23 August 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. My lawyer told me if I rejected the plea bargains I would be sentenced to 18 – 20 months in prison, so I accepted it.
12. After spending 14 days in the quarantine section I spent two months in the juvenile section at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I spent about six months. Then I was transferred back to Megiddo where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. In prison I exercised a lot. I did not get any family visits because my parents received a permit to visit a week after I had been released.
13. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 12 October 2021, and I went home with my father and the parents of a friend of mine. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. I now want to focus on my school work.

Age: 15
Date: 14 February 2021
Location: Al Araqa occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, S.H.S.Y. of Al Araqa, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 2:00 a.m. I was asleep when my mother woke me up to tell me my grandfather had died. Then we heard loud banging at our front door. My mother opened the door and three Israeli soldiers and a commander entered our home.
2. The commander told my mother there was a charge sheet against me and that I was accused of cutting the fence and throwing stones. My father was not at home at the time as he was with my grandfather. The soldiers gave us a document filled out in Hebrew about my arrest and they asked my uncle to sign it which he did.
3. Then I was taken outside where my hands were tied to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. They were tight and painful. They also blindfolded me and then led me about 200 meters to where the military jeeps were waiting. They took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. Inside the jeep a soldier shone a laser light into my eyes. When I told him to stop he slapped me on the neck.
4. I was taken to Salem checkpoint where I was left outdoors in the cold weather for a few minutes. Then I was taken inside where the air conditioner was turned on cold. This was meant as a punishment because I raised my feet on the table. Then other soldiers came in and one of them puffed cigarette smoke in my face and another swung his pocket knife over my head to scare me. Then he pulled out another pocket knife and started to sharpen the two against each other. A female soldier cocked her gun right over my head and I was terrified. They did not allow me to fall asleep.
5. I was left in that room until around 7:00 a.m. when I was taken to a troop carrier which took me to Ofer, near Jerusalem, for interrogation. I was taken to the interrogation room at around 4:00 p.m.
6. There was an interrogator and an interpreter in the room. The interpreter removed the ties and the blindfold. He told me they knew everything about me. I told him if they knew everything why was I there. He got angry and pushed me on the chair aggressively and told me I had to confess to all the accusations.
7. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to confess. The interrogator was listening to the conversation that lasted about a minute. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and started to question me.

8. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at a checkpoint. When I denied the accusation, he banged the table aggressively and showed me photographs and video footage of clashes at the checkpoint. I was questioned for about three hours and in the end I confessed.
9. After I confessed the interrogator told me to sign a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic. I signed it after reading it. Then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison where I spent seven days. During this time, I had my first military court hearing. My detention was extended. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed.
10. After my first court hearing I had another interrogation. This time I did not speak to a lawyer and was not informed of my right to silence. The interrogator showed me more video footage of boys throwing stones at settlers. He accused me of taking part but I denied it. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents.
11. On 22 February 2021, I had another military court hearing in which I accepted a plea bargain. I was convicted of throwing stones and sentenced to time already served and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of three months valid for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
12. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 22 February 2021. My father was at his parent's house following the death of my grandfather. I called him and he came and picked me up. I arrived home at around 5:30 p.m.

I, O.T.N.Y. of Al Araqa, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 2:30 a.m. I woke up to the sound of my father talking to Israeli soldiers inside our home. About six soldiers entered our home and I heard them tell my father they wanted to arrest me. I don't think they gave my father any documents and when my father asked for the reason for my arrest one of the soldiers told him he would find out in court.
2. Three soldiers remained in our house for about 30 minutes and then took me outside where they tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. They then led me towards a military jeep where they blindfolded me and put me in the back where I sat on a seat.
3. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where they left me outside for a short while and then took me to a room. A female soldier who was in the room had her phone on very loud music and was singing and dancing around me. Then she kicked me in the stomach. I was left in the room for about four hours, sitting on the floor, tied and blindfolded.
4. After about four hours I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was put in a cell with two other boys. The cell was very small, measuring about 1 x 2 meters and had a metal bench. It did not have any windows and the light was on all the time. I spent about two hours there and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and replaced the tie with metal handcuffs. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me my situation was ordinary and that I should not be afraid. He told me it was unlikely they would beat me and told me not to lie. He told me I was accused of throwing stones. The conversation lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator was listening.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He asked me whether I knew why I was in his office. When I told him I did not he told me it was because I was accused of throwing stones. I denied the accusation.
7. The interrogator then wanted to know who I was with and showed me photographs of boys throwing stones at soldiers and wanted me to give him their names. When I told him I did not know their names he told me I was a liar and threatened to shoot me if I continued to lie to him. He questioned me for about an hour and a half. At first I denied the accusation but later I confessed. The interrogator did not ask me to sign any documents.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched before being taken to the juvenile section. The following day I had my first military court hearing in which my detention was extended. My parents were not informed and so they did not attend the hearing which was on Zoom.
9. I had three more military court hearings. At the last one, which was one day before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and another three months suspended for three years. My father told the court he was willing to pay a fine instead of the prison sentence and the court agreed. My father had to pay NIS 1,200 to get me released.
10. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 18 February 2021. I went home with my father, we arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.

1. I was sleeping over at my grandparents' house when Israeli soldiers raided our home. It was at around 2:00 a.m. My father answered the door and the soldiers told him they wanted to arrest me. My father phoned me and then two soldiers came to my grandparents' house and took me back to our house. There a soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not tight.
2. The soldiers then led me a short distance to where a military jeep was waiting. They took me to the back of the jeep and made me sit on a seat. Inside the jeep a soldier blindfolded me.
3. Then they took me to a nearby military camp where I was taken to a room and left on the floor until around 7:00 a.m. During this time a soldier blew cigarette smoke in my face and swore at me. Then I was put in a troop carrier and taken somewhere and left in a small cell with other detainees until around 6:00 p.m. At around 6:00 p.m. a soldier removed the plastic ties and replaced them with metal handcuffs. I was also shackled and then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid or stressed even if the interrogator raises his voice at me. The interrogator was not listening but he cut off the line about a minute into the call.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to remain silent, the interrogator asked me whether I threw stones near the Wall. He then showed me video footage of boys cutting the fence and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. Then the interrogator told me one of my friends had confessed against me. When I denied the accusation, the interrogator thumped the table aggressively and threatened to lock me up in prison for a whole year. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and was yelling at me the whole time. In the end I confessed to throwing a few stones. Then he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed.
6. Then I was taken back to the cell and then to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was taken to a cell with other detainees where I spent seven days. During this time, I had another interrogation.
7. This time I was not allowed to speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence. The interrogator asked me the same questions and wanted to see whether I had been lying. He was in civilian clothes and recorded the session on his mobile phone. He questioned me for about 10 minutes and then asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew which I did.

8. After the interrogation I had a military court hearing on zoom. My father attended and my detention was extended. I had two more hearings and at the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was fined NIS 1,200 and given a suspended sentence of one month valid for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.

I, U.Y.A.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:30 a.m. I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. Israeli soldiers broke our front door open and about 15 soldiers entered our home. Five soldiers came straight to my bedroom; they knew exactly where it was. I was still in bed.
2. A soldier shone a light on me. Then they brought my father to my bedroom. They told my whole family to show their identity cards and to gather in the living room. One of the soldiers asked me for my name and then told me I was under arrest. They did not give my parents any documents.
3. The soldiers seemed to be in a hurry and barely allowed me to put on my clothes. Once outside a soldier wanted to tie my hands behind my back but I asked to be tied to the front and the commander agreed. I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs which were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for two weeks. Another soldier blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
4. Inside the jeep soldiers swore at me and pushed me around while I was tied and blindfolded. They took me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken to a cell. I was left there for a couple of hours. Then I was taken to a shipping container. Then an interrogator came along and removed the handcuffs and blindfold and took me to another room.
5. He asked me how I was and wanted to know how my arrest went and whether I was hurt. He told me he hoped they did not annoy me too much. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer advised me to remain silent and told me I had the right to ask for food. We spoke for a couple of minutes and then the line was cut off. The interrogator was not listening.
6. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He did not inform me of my right to silence but he told me the lawyer had already informed me of all my rights. Then he asked me where I worked. Then he told me I was brought to him because I was accused of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails. He did not give me a specific date but showed me some photographs. I denied the accusation.

7. Then he told me I was in the photographs that he showed me and accused me of planning to set a fire near the settlement. He told me to confess and promised me I wouldn't regret it. He threatened to keep me in prison for a long time if I did not confess. At first, I denied the accusations but then, after about three hours of harsh interrogation, I confessed to throwing a stone from a distance of 800 meters which missed. He asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph and sent me to a cell.
8. Then, on the same day, I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched and asked to crouch and stand up while naked. I was then put in the quarantine section where I spent 14 days.
9. My first military court hearing was three days after my arrest. It was on zoom and my mother attended. My detention was extended. I had about nine military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another five months in prison suspended for two years.
10. I spent two months at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer where I was strip searched. I did not have any family visits for security reasons. I called home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks. In prison I exercised and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics.
11. I was given an early release on 11 October 2021, and I went home with my father, my uncle and my friends. I arrived home at around 11:30 p.m. I want to focus on my final high school exams.

I, T.Z.A.A. of Dheisheh refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 4:00 a.m. They did not knock at the door or wait for us to open, they just broke in. A soldier asked to see our identity cards and when I showed him mine he told me I was under arrest. He also told me to hand over my mobile phone. He did not tell me why I was under arrest. He gave my mother a document filled out in Hebrew.
2. A soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were not tight. The soldiers remained in our home for about five minutes and then took me outside where a soldier blindfolded me and then walked me to a nearby refugee camp.
3. When we arrived at the camp I was put in a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement. We arrived at Etzion at around 6:30 a.m. I was left on some steps outside for about 40 minutes. During this time the area commander came and asked me some general questions without informing me of any rights.
4. About 40 minutes later I was taken to Al Mascobiyeh police station, in West Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being put in a room. I spent 48 days in the room with two other detainees. During this time I was questioned once.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence but he phoned a lawyer before he questioned me and allowed me to speak to him. I spoke to the lawyer for a few minutes and the interrogator left the room during the conversation. The lawyer advised me to remain silent and told me not to worry.
6. The interrogator told me there were confessions against me by my friends and that my file was ready. He accused me of throwing stones and of some more serious allegations. He showed me some photographic evidence which he claimed was enough to convict me. I denied the accusations. I was questioned on and off throughout the day and I continued to deny the accusations. The interrogator was calm and did not threaten or physically abuse me. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign some documents written in Hebrew and told me the documents contained the confessions by my friends. He then asked me to sign the documents and I did.
7. Two days after my arrest I had a military court hearing which was conducted via video link. My mother attended. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.

8. I attended about eight military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 8 May 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and I also received a suspended sentence of eight months in prison suspended for three years. As part of the deal my family will have to pay NIS 10,000 if I am arrested again in the next three years. I accepted the plea bargain because originally the prosecutor wanted to lock me up in prison for 24 months so six months was very appealing.
9. After spending 48 days at Al Mascobiyeh I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Ofer where I exercised and chatted to the other detainees. I also spent a lot of time sleeping and watching television. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus regulations but I was allowed to phone my family once every two weeks for about 10 minutes. The telephone was monitored.
10. I was released early at Ofer checkpoint on 8 June 2021. I waited a short while for my uncle and older brother to arrive and then we all went home. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, H.S.M.M. of Al Fawwar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested on a hill near my village at around 10:30 a.m. I was with my friends and there were clashes taking place with Israeli soldiers. A military jeep followed me and three soldiers got out and chased me. The soldiers shot rubber bullets at me and hit me in the right arm near my elbow. I fell to the ground and a soldier lifted me up and dragged me away. He kicked and slapped me as well as punching me in the stomach.
2. I was taken to the military jeep where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and my hands swelled. They also blindfolded me. I was taken to the back of the jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers continued to beat me.
3. I was taken to a military base and then to a shipping container where I was given a medical examination. The doctor treated my arm and wrapped it with a bandage. Then I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba for interrogation. I arrived there in the early afternoon.
4. An interrogator in an Israeli police uniform removed my ties and the blindfold. There was a camera and a voice recorder in the room and another person. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to befriend the interrogator and not to treat him as if he were a family member. The interrogator left the room and did not listen in to the conversation which lasted about two minutes.
5. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but warned me if I remained silent I would be questioned in court in front of a military judge, implying, I thought, that I would have to confess in front of a judge. I understood from what he said that remaining silent would not be in my interests. Then he told me it was up to me whether I wanted to answer his questions or not and told me the decision to arrest me came from high up and that my friends had already confessed against me.
6. Then the interrogator named my friends and showed me video footage taken by a settler on a bus of people throwing stones. At first, I denied the accusation but then I heard the voice of my friend in the adjacent room confessing against me and I had no choice but to confess. I confessed to throwing stones at a settler bus. The interrogation lasted for about an hour.

7. At the end of the interrogation I was asked to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign and asked for a translation. The interrogator printed out a translation for me and I read it and found it was identical to what I had said and I signed it.
8. After the interrogation I was taken outdoors where I sat in the sun for about three hours. I was not given any food or drink and I was not allowed to use the toilet. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. The jeep drove around for a long time and I arrived at Ofer at around 10:00 a.m.
9. When I was taken to Ofer military court a female military judge on duty ordered that my detention be extended. Afterwards I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel; I arrived there at around 1:30 p.m. I was strip searched and asked to stand up and down while naked. Then I was taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days in quarantine with other boys. Afterwards I was transferred to the minors' section.
10. I had another military court hearing the following day. It was on zoom and my father attended. My detention was extended again. I had about 20 hearings and at the last one, which was on 14 July 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 500. I also received a suspended sentence of another year suspended for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was facing more than two years in prison if I refused.
11. I was transferred back to Ofer and then back to Megiddo which I preferred because the conditions were slightly better. I was released from Al Jalama checkpoint on 19 December 2021, and I went home with my friend's uncle. I arrived home at around midnight.
12. In prison I helped keep the cell clean and tidy and I exercised. I also attended classes in Hebrew, Arabic and Mathematics and had two family visits. I called home from a phone provided by the prison authorities twice a month. I am in my final high school year and I want to study hard to get a good average.
13. My relationship with my friends who confessed against me is not good anymore, I want to keep away from them.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.Y.F. of Saffa, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was throwing stones at the Wall with some friends when we were ambushed by Israeli soldiers. It was around 1:00 p.m. They shot live bullets in my direction and hit me between my legs. I ran for a short distance and then I fell to the ground soaked in blood. I was terrified and thought I was going to die. One of my friends tried to help me but he could not do anything and ran away himself.
2. About 15 soldiers and armed settlers came to where I was. One of the soldiers tied my leg above the wound to stop the bleeding. The soldiers searched me and swore at me. They cut off my trousers and shirt and tied my legs. I was still conscious.
3. About 15 minutes later I was taken on a stretcher to the nearby checkpoint where I was put in an Israeli ambulance. Inside the ambulance a soldier handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs and painfully tightened them. About 30 minutes later the ambulance took me to Hadassah hospital in Jerusalem. At the hospital I passed out before being taken to the operating room.
4. Two days later I found myself in the recovery room, handcuffed to a hospital bed and surrounded by soldiers. An interrogator questioned me while I was still under the influence of anesthetics and pain killers and I don't remember all the details. He gave me the impression he was a lawyer. I remember he asked me for the name of the other boy who was throwing stones with me. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. I am not sure he asked me to sign any documents. He questioned me for about 40 minutes and left.
5. I spent four days in the hospital and the doctors removed one of my testicles. Then I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, in Israel. I spent 14 days there. On the second day I was taken for more interrogation.
6. I was in pain and not very focused. The interrogator did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing stones at settlers near the wall. He showed me video footage and spoke to me in a loud voice. He questioned me for about two hours and all the time he wanted me to confess. He accused me of lying and of causing him trouble. In the end I confessed. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
7. Ten days later I was taken for a questioning by an Israeli policeman. The policeman called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and to be steadfast and not to let the interrogator put words in my mouth. He told me to confess to throwing stones from a distance of 500 meters and to tell the interrogator no one was hurt. The conversation lasted for about three minutes. The interrogator was not listening.

8. After talking to the lawyer the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. I understood what he meant and I tried to remain silent but the interrogator told me the evidence against me was very strong and that there were confessions against me by soldiers who saw me throwing stones. He questioned me for about 15 minutes and at the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed after he translated it for me and found that it was identical to what I had said.
9. I had about 10 military court hearings. The first one was when I was still at the hospital. A soldier handed me a telephone and said the call was from the court. My parents did not attend and my detention was extended. The last hearing was on 23 August 2021. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a further one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me it was good.
10. After spending 14 days at the quarantine section I was transferred to the juvenile section at Megiddo where I spent the rest on my prison time. In prison I could not walk and I had a bad infection because of the surgery and I was taken to the hospital twice.
11. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 4 October 2021 and I went home with my family. We arrived home in the evening. I want to study for my final high school exams.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, L.M.H.Z. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Clashes broke out after Israeli soldiers entered the town where I work at a restaurant. It was around 11:00 p.m. I went outside to have a look when I was suddenly grabbed by a group of soldiers. One of the soldiers punched me in the chest which cause me a lot of pain. The soldiers were also swearing at me.
2. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful and left a mark on my wrists for days. He also blindfolded me before taking me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. They drove me to a nearby military base where I was left in a room on a chair overnight. I could not sleep.
3. The next morning, I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. We arrived there at around noon. I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a room with other detainees. On the third day I was given a COVID test and I tested positive. I was immediately transferred to Ofek prison, in the north of Israel, where I was in isolation for 23 days. During this time I was interrogated.
4. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He wanted to know what I had done and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Half way through the interrogation he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and that he was going to assign a date for the court hearing. He told me, god willing, I was going to be released soon. The conversation lasted less than two minutes.
5. The interrogation lasted for about 10 minutes during which time the interrogator was calm. I continued to deny the accusation. At the end the interrogator wanted me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
6. I had five military court hearings via video link. At the first hearing, which my mother attended, my detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. On my last hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a suspended sentence for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told they wanted to lock me up for eight months. My parents paid more money for an early release because I was very stressed in prison.

7. After spending 23 days in isolation I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. I did not have any family visits because of the Corona Virus regulation but I was allowed to call home from a monitored pay phone once every two weeks.
8. I was released at Ofer checkpoint on 5 May 2021, and I went home with my family. We arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.

I, A.N.T.D. of Kafr Ni'meh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on a motorbike with my friend when a group of Israeli soldiers stopped us. It was around midnight. A military jeep stopped and four soldiers approached me and forced me to the ground. They took the motorbike key, swore at me and then searched me. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. The soldiers then made me sit on the ground for about 30 minutes.
2. After about 30 minutes I was taken to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor although there were no soldiers in the back and empty seats. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was left outside for a short while and a soldier blindfolded me. Then I was taken to a shipping container where soldiers kicked and beat me on my head and legs. I was left then left in the shipping container for about 30 minutes. I was not given any food or drink and I was not allowed to use the toilet. Then, at around 4:00 a.m., I was taken to a police station for interrogation.
3. I was still tied and blindfolded and the interrogator started to question me without removing them. About 10 minutes into the interrogation he removed the blindfold but kept the ties. He asked me if I encourage kids my age to throw stones at soldiers and settlers. I told him I did not. Then he accused me of throwing stones. I denied the accusation.
4. Then he told me he wanted to help me if I promised to help him. He then removed the blindfold in a gesture of good will. I then told him I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I gave him a number. He phoned the lawyer but the lawyer did not pick up. He did not call another lawyer for me.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he accused me of throwing stones at settlers near Dolev settlement. I denied the accusation. Then he told me he had photographic evidence against but did not show me any photos. When I denied the accusation the two soldiers standing behind me came closer to me as if they were going to do something. Then the interrogator took me to another room and told me not to speak or make any noise and started to interrogate my friend who was arrested with me. My friend had his back to me and did not see that I was in the room. Then my friend told the interrogator that the two of us threw stones at settlers.

6. The interrogator questioned me on an off during four hours. At the end I confessed to throwing stones at a settler car. Then the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Arabic. I read it and found it was identical to what I had told him and I signed it.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel where I spent three days with other boys. Then I was taken to another prison inside Israel where I was put with criminals. I was searched in my underwear and I spent 15 days in a room with another boy. Then I was taken to the juvenile section back at Megiddo.
8. My first military court hearing was two days following my arrest. It was conducted via a video link. My friend attended and the military judge extended my detention. I had about 15 court hearings in all. At the last one, which was about two months before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 12 months in prison, including two months from a previous suspended sentence, and a fine of NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months in prison, suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I would spend more time in prison if I rejected it.
9. I spent five months at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. On arrival at Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to Section 13. In prison I attended classes in Hebrew and I helped keep the cell clean and tidy. I played table tennis and exercised a lot. I had four family visits but the prison authority did not provide phone calls.
10. I was released on 10 April 2022, at Ofer and I went home with my brother and brother-in-law. I arrived home at around 6:00 p.m. Three days after my release the area commander phoned my father and summoned him for a meeting. My father went and the commander threatened to never give my father a work permit if I did not behave myself.

Then I was taken to another base where I was left in a shipping container. I waited for a short while before being taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He wore an Israeli police uniform and had a camera in the room. He phoned my father and told him I was in their custody and told him to appoint me a lawyer. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer before interrogating me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He asked me for my name and then wanted to know why I throw stones and Molotov cocktails at settlers. He accused me of threatening the lives of Israelis. I told him I did not throw any stones or Molotov cocktails.
4. The interrogator was calm and told me my friend had confessed against me and claimed he had photos and video footage against me. He questioned me over a period of about three hours and at times left me alone in the room. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I asked him for a translation but he refused and I refused to sign.
5. After the interrogation they took my finger prints and photograph and then took me to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I spent four days. At Megiddo I was strip searched. During this time, I tested positive for COVID 19 and I was transferred into another prison inside Israel. I spent 15 days in a small cell by myself isolating. I found it very hard because I was sick and I had nothing to do and nobody to talk to. Then I was taken back to the juvenile section at Megiddo.
6. My first military court hearing was two days after I was arrested. It was via video link and my mother attended. My detention was extended. In all I had about 15 military court hearings and at the last one, which was about a month before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a further 15 months in prison, suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer advised me and told me I was facing two years in prison if I rejected it.

7. I spent two months at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, in the West Bank. During this time my uncle died of COVID and I did not find out until about a month after his death. I was very sad because I did not see him before he died and I did not attend his funeral. I did not have any family visits for security reasons but I phoned home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities every two weeks.
8. In prison I lifted weights and I attended classes in Hebrew, Arabic and Mathematics. I did not find the classes useful at all. I left school following my arrest because I don't want to be in a class with younger boys. I now work at a car wash.
9. I was released on 19 December 2021, at Al Jib checkpoint but my parents were told to wait by Ofer checkpoint. I called them and they came and picked me up. We arrived home at around 6:00 p.m.

I, J.M.M.Z. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was playing on my mobile phone when my friend phoned me and told me Israeli soldiers were in our neighbourhood. It was around 2:30 a.m. I looked out the window and saw a large number of soldiers surrounding our neighbourhood. One group of soldiers was with our neighbour who was leading them to our house.
2. When we opened our front door one of the soldiers asked for me by name. When I identified myself, he told me I was under arrest. When I double checked with him to make sure they had not made a mistake, another soldier confirmed they had come for me. I was surprised because I had not done anything wrong.
3. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie and did not tighten it too hard; it was not painful. He also blindfolded me. The soldiers then led me to the military watchtower at the entrance to our village. They made me sit on the side of the road for about 30 minutes and then took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor.
4. On the way soldiers swore at me and called me son of a "whore". They dropped me off by the clinic at the police station in Etzion settlement. At around 3:30 a.m. I was given a quick medical examination. Then at around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. Before asking me any questions the interrogator phoned a lawyer. I spoke to the lawyer for a few seconds and he barely had time to say anything before the line was cut off. The interrogator was listening in. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence.
6. Then the interrogator questioned me about throwing a Molotov cocktail and wanted to know where I was on 9 March 2021. I told him I was at my brother's friend's wedding. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and threatened me with the suspended sentence I had from a previous arrest. He told me if I confessed he was going to help me. He wanted to scare me in order to confess. I denied the accusation and told him I had nothing to confess to.
7. Then he took me outside where I waited for about 30 minutes. Then he came over and asked me whether it was true that I was at my brother's friend's wedding. I told him I was. Then he took me to see another interrogator who also wanted to know whether indeed I was at the wedding. I confirmed to the second interrogator I was at the wedding.

8. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign a document written in a language I did not understand. Then the interrogator told me I could go home. At around 11:00 p.m. I took a taxi home.
9. This is what usually happens in the village; whenever an incident happens, the soldiers round up all the boys who have recently been in prison.

I, A.A.A.B. of Aqabat Jaber, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. The day before I was arrested the Israeli intelligence officer for our area phoned my father and told him to tell me I had better calm down because I was causing them lots of trouble. The following night I woke up to the sound of soldiers inside my bedroom. It was around 3:00 a.m.
2. The soldiers had tried to break open our front door but my father opened it quickly. About 30 soldiers entered our home and came straight to my bedroom. One of the soldiers asked me for my name and then took me to another room. He asked me if I took any medication. Then he tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie and tightened it very hard. I was in pain. Then he blindfolded me.
3. The soldiers remained inside our house for about an hour. Then they took me outside without giving my parents any documents. They took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers kicked and slapped me all over my body and swore at me. They left me in the jeep while they arrested two more boys.
4. After further arrests the jeep drove towards the Israeli District Coordination Office in Jericho where I was left outdoors until around 11:00 a.m. Then I was taken to Huwwara military base where I was searched in my boxer shorts and left in a small room until the next morning. Then I was taken to Ofer prison where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie. He phoned my father and allowed me to speak to him. I told my father where I was and told him not to worry. Then the interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I was going to be given a six-month administrative detention order. I was terrified. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening on speaker phone.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of planning a suicide terrorist act. He did not tell me where he got the information from. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and was calm most of the time. Then he started to ask me some personal questions. He wanted to know where I worked and who I hung out with and where. Then has asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew without translating it and I signed without understanding.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell for about five hours before being taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my boxer shorts. I spent 11 days in quarantine.
8. During this time, I had two military court hearings. At the second one my lawyer told me I was going to be released the following day. Instead of releasing me they gave me a four-month administrative detention order.
9. After spending 11 days in quarantine, I was put in the juvenile section at Megiddo. About a month later I had another military court hearing. The court reduced my administrative detention to three months. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Megiddo. To pass the time I cleaned the ward and played table tennis. I had two family visits.
10. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 11 August 2021. My parents were not informed of my release and were not there to take me home. I called my father and he met me in Nablus and took me home. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m. I had no appetite to eat, I just wanted to rest.

1. I was in a car when Israeli soldiers at a flying checkpoint stopped the car and told me to step out. It was around 10:00 p.m. A soldier immediately tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. I asked a soldier to loosen the ties but he refused. I remained tied for about 24 hours. I was also blindfolded and left on the side of the road for about half an hour.
2. After 20 minutes a military jeep came by and picked me up. I was allowed to sit on a seat in the back of the jeep which took me to a place I did not recognize. On the way the commander told me I was in safe hands and that I should not worry. I was left there until around 7:00 a.m. During this time, they refused to give me some water when I asked. They also refused to allow me to use the toilet.
3. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken in a troop carrier to the police station in the nearby settlement of Modiin Illit. At the police station I was forced to crouch on the ground for some time and then they made me sit on a metal chair while a soldier stood on my right side and another one on my left. At around 8:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to remain silent. He accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail on Route 443. I denied the accusation. He was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice. He threatened to beat me up if I did not confess and to arrest my mother and father. He also threatened to lock me up in administrative detention without charge or trial for a long time.
5. He questioned me for about an hour and when he threatened to arrest my mother and father I confessed to throwing three stones which missed and a Molotov cocktail which also missed. When I confessed he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
6. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched and then I was taken to the quarantine section where I spend 14 days. I was there with two other boys.
7. My first military court hearing was on the second day after my arrest. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the video link. I had about 13 military court hearings. At the last one, which was about a month before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and given a suspended sentence valid for three years. I did not pay any fines. I accepted the plea bargain because I was eager to go home in a month, and I was told that rejecting the plea bargain would mean more time in prison.

8. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 17 November 2021, and I took a taxi to my sister's wedding. I did not tell anyone I was going to be released and everyone was very happy to see me show up at the wedding; I wanted it to be a surprise and it worked.
9. During my time in prison I was transferred to Damoun prison where conditions were harsh as a punishment. In prison I cooked for the other prisoners and I exercised and attended classes in Hebrew and Mathematics. I got full marks in Mathematics and 98/100 in Arabic. My parents received one permit to visit me but the visit was cancelled because it was supposed to be one day before I was released. I left school when I was in eighth grade and I now work as a painter.
10. I believe I was arrested because someone from my village told the authorities I threw stones and a Molotov cocktail and also told them I was in the car I was in when I was arrested. There are lots on informants in my village, no one is trust worthy.

1. I was watching clashes between Palestinians and Israeli soldiers when I was ambushed by a soldier. It was around 9:00 p.m. He pushed me to the ground and then another soldier came. He tied my hands to the back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for days. Then he blindfolded me and left me on the ground. The soldiers did not beat me and did not swear at me.
2. After a while they led me to a place I did not know and made me crouch for about two hours. I was tired and uncomfortable. Then I was taken to a military watchtower where I was given a quick medical examination after which I was taken to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat.
3. I think they took me to a place inside Israel. I was taken to a small room together with another boy who was arrested with me. They brought me some baked beans and I ate but I could not sleep. I was cold and there were lots of mosquitos. At around 11:00 a.m. the following day I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He phoned a lawyer for me and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and that I was going to be sent home soon. The interrogator was in another room while I spoke to the lawyer.
5. Then the interrogator started to question me without informing me of my right to silence. He had a voice recorder on his desk. The interrogator asked me who was with me in the area where I was arrested and wanted to know why I threw stones. I told him I did not throw stones. Then he became angry and thumped the table aggressively. Then he told me he was going to keep me in prison if I did not confess.
6. He questioned me for about an hour and I did not confess. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign a document written in both Hebrew and Arabic. I don't think I read it but I signed it.
7. Then, at around 7:00 p.m., my father came and paid NIS 1,500. Then they took my photograph and my fingerprints and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, O.A.K.S. of Tulkarem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was hiding behind a rubbish tip watching clashes between Palestinians and Israeli soldiers. At around 8:30 p.m. soldiers fired a stun grenade and all the boys scattered in every direction. I ran as fast as I could towards the school when I was chased by a group of soldiers. I tripped on stones and wires left from the burning tires and I fell to the ground.
2. One of the soldiers grabbed me and struck me with the back of his M16 rifle near my eye. My eye swelled and I was in pain and I was bleeding. He swore at me and then tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and very painful. Then he aggressively twisted my arms, held me by my head and forced me to walk a short distance.
3. Shortly afterwards I was blindfolded and made me kneel on the ground for about two hours. During this time a soldier removed the ties and tied me to the front after he had an argument with the soldier who tied me to the back.
4. Then the commander phoned my mother and told her I was throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers and that he was going to take me to the police station. A soldier also took a photo of the cut in my head. Then they took me to the military watchtower where a soldier put a cotton cloth on the cut. He also asked me if I had any illnesses.
5. Later I was taken to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. A soldier, who spoke fluent Arabic, sat next to me and started to chat to me. He said taking part in such activities against the soldiers was not a good thing. He told me I had better stay home and fall in love with a girl. He told me in Israel boys and girls go out together, unlike the West Bank where dating is not possible. Then he gave me some chewing gum and fell asleep next to me.
6. The troop carrier drove for about three hours. During the drive I removed the blindfold but a soldier put it back on. Then they took me to a military base inside Israel. I was taken to a room and the soldiers brought in some mattresses and turned the air conditioner on. I slept until around 10:30 a.m. I was not given any food but I was given some water.
7. Then the commander came and told me not to worry because they were going to take me to hospital and then send me home. I did not believe him. I spent the whole day waiting, but nothing happened. In the middle of the night I was feeling cold and I asked for a blanket and a soldier brought me one.

8. At around 1:30 a.m. a soldier woke me up, took me into the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove along a dirt road then stopped, and the soldier took a photo of the wound, cut off the ties, which took a long time because they were very tight, and then told me to walk home. It was around 2:30 a.m. I was scared the soldier might do something to me because he started to laugh as soon as I started to walk; I thought he was going to shoot me when no one was watching.
9. I started to run and the jeep drove away. I then stopped a passing car and asked the driver to take me to my town. I then called my brother who picked me up and took me home. I arrived home at around 3:30 a.m.

Location: Hebron, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, H.H.I.Z. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested during clashes with Israeli soldiers. It was around 4:00 p.m. I ran as fast as I could when other boys shouted "soldiers...soldiers" but I was not fast enough and a soldier grabbed me and pushed me to the ground. He tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other and tightened them very hard. I had to bend backwards to ease the pain. He also covered my eyes with the Kufiyah I was wearing and shackled my feet.
2. Then the soldiers walked me for about 200 meters towards the military checkpoint where they made me kneel on the ground for about two hours. The soldiers beat me all over my body while I was tied and blindfolded. A military commander came and told me he was going to drag my father to prison by the nose because of me. After about two hours they took me to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. A soldier shouted at me and called me "a son of a whore". The jeep drove me to the police station at a nearby settlement.
3. At the settlement I was given a medical examination. I told the person who examined me that I was beaten up when he asked me whether I had been beaten but I saw that he circled the wrong answer. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement for interrogation; I arrived there at around midnight.
4. At Etzion I waited outside for about an hour and then a soldier replaced the plastic ties with metal handcuffs and handcuffed me to the front and then tied the handcuffs to the shackles with a chain. Then I was taken into the interrogation room.
5. The interrogator asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer. I told him there was no need for a lawyer because I had not done anything wrong. Then he phoned my father and told him where I was. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during clashes. When I denied the accusation, he accused me of weapons possession. I denied that accusation too.
6. Then he started to ask me questions about my family. I told I did not know anything. Then he showed me photos of the clashes and asked me about a sling shot. He wanted to know the names of the boys who were throwing stones at soldiers. I told him I did not know any of them. He was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud and threatening voice. Then he accused me of being a member of Hamas. He pushed all the papers off his desk in an angry gesture and threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time if I did not confess.

He also threatened to revoke my family's work permit if I did not confess. I was so scared that I confessed to throwing one stone which missed from a distance of 400 meters.

7. The interrogation lasted about two hours. After I confessed the interrogator showed me some documents written in Hebrew and asked me to sign them. When I asked him to show me the documents in Arabic he told me he did not have them in Arabic. He asked me again to sign and I did.
8. Then I was strip searched before being taken to a cell with other detainees. I spent six days in that cell. The cell did not have any windows. The mattress was very thin and the food was terrible. During this time, I had a military court hearing over Zoom. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned.
9. After six days I was taken to the quarantine section in Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I spent 14 days in quarantine. Then I was taken to the juvenile section at Megiddo. I was transferred to a small cell by myself because they suspected I came in contact with a guard who had COVID. I spent 10 days in the cell by myself and I found that very hard. The cell was 2 x 3 meters, and did not have any windows. There were cockroaches everywhere and the light was on 24 hours a day and I found it very hard to fall asleep.
9. I attended 11 military court hearings on Zoom. At the last one, which was one day before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,500. I was also given an additional six-month prison sentence suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home the following day.
10. I spent one month at Megiddo prison and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, also inside Israel, where I spent the rest of my prison sentence. In prison I exercised and I worked in the canteen to pass the time. I had two family visits, but I missed one because I was in quarantine. I was very upset because my father was looking forward to seeing me and instead he was sent home.
11. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 21 September 2021, and I took a taxi to Ramallah where I met my family. I arrived in the evening.

Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, I.A.B.Z. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. An Israeli policeman phoned my father in the morning while he was at work and told him to bring me to the police station inside the settlement of Etzion immediately. My father phoned my sister, who woke me up, and told me to get ready because my father was going to take me to the police station.
2. When my father came home he took me to the petrol station near the police station where we were met by an Israeli police car. We arrived at the petrol station at around 12:30 p.m. I was taken to the police car and a policeman told my father to drive behind us to the police station. The police car first drove to the police station in Bitar Illit settlement and then turned around and went to Etzion police station. When we arrived I was immediately taken for interrogation.
3. Before questioning me, the interrogator phoned a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to worry and not to confess because there was no evidence against me. Then, without informing me of my right to silence the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. I denied the accusation. Then he told me he had fingerprint evidence against me. Still, I denied the accusation.
4. The interrogator was calm and his questions were short. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents. After the interrogation I was given a quick medical examination and then I was taken to a cell at Etzion. I was searched in my boxer shorts and I spent one day in the cell by myself. Then they brought in another detainee and I was left in the cell with the other boy for a week.
5. I was detained on a Sunday. On Wednesday I had a military court hearing. My parents were not informed and so they did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. The following day I had another court hearing but I was not taken to court. My lawyer appeared on my behalf and he was able to close my file with a fine of NIS 1,000. My father paid the amount on Sunday and I was released on the same day, 6 June 2021. A police car dropped me off by Al 'Arrub refugee camp and I took a taxi to my village. I arrived home at around 1:00 p.m. My parents were not expecting me and they were very happy to see me home.
6. I am not sure about the exact conditions of my release and I don't think I need to go to court anymore.

I, Q.K.M.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. "Captain Khaled", the Israeli intelligence officer in charge of my village, phoned my father a day before my arrest and told him to bring me to his office in Etzion settlement. It was around 4:00 p.m. He told my father he would "regret it" if he did not bring me to his office and that our home would be raided and damaged if he did not bring me.
2. The next morning I went with my father to the police station in Etzion settlement at 9:00 a.m. "Captain Khaled" and "Captain Hamza" came to the gate where we were waiting and started to question me. I was not informed of any legal rights. "Captain Khaled" accused me of throwing stones on Route 60. I denied the accusation. He threatened to revoke my father's and my cousins' work permits if I did not stop throwing stones. He talked to me for about 30 minutes without allowing me to speak to a lawyer and without informing me of my right to silence. Then he told my father to wait by the gate and I was taken inside.
3. "Captain Khaled" took me to a room where another interrogator joined him. Then he started to yell at me. He raised his hand up as if he was going to slap me and told me not to look him in the eye. Then he accused me of throwing stones every day at the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur and on Route 60. I denied the accusation. He told me he had photographic evidence against me and video footage. I continued to deny the accusation. I still was not informed of any legal rights.
4. Then he took me to another small room and left me there for about two hours with another detainee from my village. Then he came back and threatened again to raid our home and destroy it if I did not stop throwing stones. He also threatened to beat me to death if I did not change my behavior. I denied the accusation and told him he did not have any evidence against me otherwise he was welcome to arrest me at home.
5. After about two hours he took a photo of my face and another one of my shirt and then took me back to the gate without asking me to sign any documents. He told my father he could take me home. My father and I took a taxi home, we arrived at around 2:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, Y.J.Y.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. It was at around 4:30 a.m. I opened the door and about 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home. They asked for our telephones and identity cards. Then they searched around the house.
2. After the soldiers searched our home they said they wanted to take me for a short while and would bring me back soon. A soldier gave my mother a document written in Hebrew which she did not understand. The soldiers remained in the house for about 15 minutes and then took me outside where a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful.
3. Once outside the soldiers slapped and kicked me without reason. Then they led me on foot for about 30 minutes to the entrance to the village before putting me in a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor. Then they took me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left outside until around 9:30 a.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to move away from the interrogator because he did not want him to listen in. Then he told me not to confess and that, hopefully, he was going to get me released after the court hearings. The conversation was less than two minutes and the interrogator could not hear because I moved away from him.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator asked me to turn on my mobile phone. He skimmed through it but did not find anything. Then he accused me of throwing stones and showed me photographs of clashes with soldiers where I was standing aside watching. I denied the accusation. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and gave me the names of my friends. I still denied the accusation.
6. He then accused me of weapons possession and wanted to know where I had hidden the weapons. When I denied the accusation, he thumped the table aggressively and told me he was not going to release me until I provided him with a confession. He then told me I had better confess to him because if I did not he was going to send me for a harsher interrogation by an intelligence officer at Kiryat Arba.

7. I was questioned for about two hours and I did not confess. I was not given any documents to sign. After the interrogation I was taken to a nearby checkpoint where I waited for about 30 minutes and then I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba. I arrived there at night and I was left in a room for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken for another interrogation.
8. This interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers. When I denied the accusation, he made me take off my trousers and my shirt and took me outside and tied me to a pole at a roundabout in my boxer shorts. He left me there for about 30 minutes and then took me inside again and made the same accusations. When I denied the accusation, he tied me to the pole again. He repeated this multiple times and told me he was going to continue doing so until I confessed.
9. I became exhausted and wanted this to end. I called the interrogator and he took me inside and I confessed to throwing stones. Within five minutes of providing the confession the interrogation was ended. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
10. After the interrogation I was taken into a room and the following day I was taken to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was searched in my boxer shorts and I spent 14 days at the quarantine. During this time, I had my first military court hearing on zoom which my mother attended. My detention was extended. After the 14 days I was taken to the juvenile section.
11. I had eight military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 13 October 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain instead of spending more time in prison.
12. I spent 61 days at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I spent about three months at Ofer and then I was taken back to Megiddo where I spent the rest of my prison sentence.
13. I had one family visit. At Megiddo I called home once every 14 days from a monitored phone provided by the prison authority. In prison I exercised and I helped in the kitchen and cooked food for the prisoners.
14. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 19 October 2021, and I went home with my family. I arrived home at around 11:30 p.m. I don't go to school anymore and I work at a stone quarry.

I, K.M.K.G. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 4:30 a.m. My father was not home at the time. My mother woke me up and told me Israeli soldiers were at the front door; she wanted to wake me up before letting them into our home. Then I heard loud banging at the front door. My mother opened the door and around 20 soldiers entered our house and rushed into my bedroom.
2. My mother was worried and told the soldiers to leave me alone because I needed to undergo surgery soon because of a gunshot in my leg. She pleaded with the commander not to beat me and she gave him the medicine I was taking. The commander told her not to worry and said they would treat my wound.
3. Then they told me I was under arrest and to get dressed. They took me outside on crutches. They did not tie my hands or blindfold me. I waited a short while outside the house until a military jeep arrived. I was then put in the back of the jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove along a dirt road. Then they asked me to sign on a document written in Arabic saying I was not physically hurt. I read it and signed it.
4. Then I was put in the back of another military jeep which took me to a hospital in Jerusalem. On the way I felt severe pain in my injured leg when the Jeep turned a sharp curve and I screamed. When I screamed a soldier struck me with the back of his gun on my back. At the hospital a doctor asked me to move my toes and then told me everything was ok. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I arrived at Etzion at around noon and I was left outside in the cold weather for about until around 4:00 p.m. and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator asked me whether I had a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and that the interrogator does not have the right to beat me. The interrogator was listening on speaker phone and the call lasted for about a minute.
6. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He did not inform me of my right to silence but told me I had to tell the truth during the interrogation. Then he accused me of threatening the security in the area. I denied the accusation. He had a calm style and tried to make me feel safe. He wanted me to tell him the circumstances in which I was shot in my leg. I told him I was with my friend near the wall during Ramadan when I was shot with one bullet just under the knee and another dum dum bullet which shattered my leg.

7. He asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and when I refused to sign he became angry. I asked him to translate it for me but he refused and I told him I was not going to sign a document I did not understand. He responded by swearing at me. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes.
8. After the interrogation I was searched in my boxer shorts and then taken to a cell. I slept one night there and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. On the way a soldier passed on a telephone and told me it was my court hearing on zoom. My parents were not informed about this hearing and they were not present. My detention was extended. At Megiddo I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 16 days.
9. Seven days later I was taken for interrogation by an intelligence officer. I tried to call a lawyer prior to the interrogation but the lawyer did not answer his phone. Then, without informing me of my right to silence the interrogator repeated the same accusation. He wore civilian clothes and I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
10. After spending 16 days at the quarantine section I was transferred to the minors' section at Megiddo. I had about 10 military court hearings and at the last one, which was three days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and a fine. I don't recall the amount of the fine. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months suspended for five years. The court decided to release me in time for my scheduled surgery.
11. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Megiddo prison. I found it very boring because I could not walk or exercise. I did not attend any classes because it was the summer holiday and I did not have any family visits because my parents did not get a permit in time.
12. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 25 August 2021, and I went home with my father, my brother and my uncle. I arrived home at around 10:00pm.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, A.A.N.Z. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was shot in my leg about three months before I was arrested. I was in pain and did not do much. Finally, I found a job in a barber's shop but then I was arrested after my first day at work.
2. Israeli soldiers raided our house at around 4:30 a.m. I was asleep when I heard the sound of a loud explosion nearby. My father told me soldiers were at my uncle's house and that they had blown off his front door. I went to the toilet and then I heard our front door being blown off with explosives. About 50 soldiers entered our home.
3. The commander told my father they wanted to arrest me and handed him a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. The commander asked my father to sign it but he refused. Then the commander took me aside and asked me whether I knew why he had come to arrest me. When I told him I did not, he told me I was a "lying pig". Then he told me to put my boots on and asked me whether I took any medication. I told him I wanted a glass of water and to say goodbye to my family. The commander looked at his watch and told me there was no time.
4. After I had put my boots on I was taken outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were so tight that my hands swelled and the blood flow was restricted. They led me a short distance and then a soldier blindfolded me. Then they walked me to the nearby settlement of Bet El. On the way soldiers hit me on the waist and slapped me hard. They swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
5. At the settlement I was taken to a clinic and a doctor asked me whether I was hurt during the arrest. When I told him I was badly treated, the soldiers became upset. Then I was left outside by a shipping container until around 8:00 a.m. Then I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My parents were not there because they were not informed. After court I was taken for interrogation at the police station in Binyamin settlement.
6. At Binyamin I waited in a cell from around 9:30 a.m. until around 5:00 p.m. During this time the interrogator came by and brought in another boy who was arrested with me. Then, without informing me of my rights, the interrogator told me my friend had confessed against me. He then told me I better cooperate with him and confess. When I told him I had not done anything wrong, he offered me a cigarette and told me he had boys who confessed in return for a cigarette.

7. Then he took me to the interrogation room and asked me whether I knew why I was there. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied and shackled my feet. He was in civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in his room. When I told him I had no idea why I was in his office, he accused me of throwing stones and Molotov cocktails and shooting. I denied the accusations.
8. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. He phoned my father and asked him to appoint me a lawyer. I heard my father ask whether he should appoint the lawyer before or after the interrogation but the interrogator hung up on him.
9. At this stage he told me I had the right to remain silent. Then two more interrogators joined him. One of them brought his face close to mine and spat at me. The other told me they were going to arrest my mother and father. Then he showed me footage of someone throwing a Molotov cocktail. Later I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail at a military watchtower which missed. I was questioned for about four hours. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
10. After the interrogation I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a cell with two other boys. The conditions in the cell were bad and we decided to go on hunger strike. I went on hunger strike for five days and then I started to eat tomatoes and bread. During this time, I was interrogated on a daily basis although I had already confessed during the first interrogation. I never spoke to a lawyer and I was informed of my right to silence only once.
11. During one of the interrogations the interrogator tried to recruit me. He told me when I am released he wanted me to get his phone number from a Facebook page and call him to tell him my whereabouts. He kept insisting that was all he wanted from me. And that it was not a big deal. He threatened if I did not call him he was going to put me under administrative detention for six months. He told me he had already revoked my father's work permit but promised to give it back to him if I agreed to call him once I'm released. Then he put his hand on my shoulder and told me not to be a fool and that everyone else is happy while I was rotting in prison, all I had to do was to call him.
12. Then the interrogator started asking me about my family. He wanted to know how many siblings I had. Then he shook my hand and told me "that's it, six months". When I asked him what he meant he said he was going to put me in administrative detention for six months because I refused to cooperate with him.
13. After spending five days at Etzion, I was transferred to the quarantine section at Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my underwear. I spent 21 days there and then I was transferred to the minors' section.
14. My first military court hearing was two days following my arrest. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. I had many hearings. At the last one, which was on 27 December 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year valid for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told by my lawyer I would spend more time in prison if I rejected it.

15. I spent about two months at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Ofer prison. I did not have any family visits because my parents were denied a visiting permit for security reasons. In prison I cut the hair of other prisoners and I exercised. I was able to phone home once every two weeks. The telephone was at my father's expense; they would call him and ask him to call back.
16. I was released from Ofer on 23 February 2022, and I went home with my family. I arrived home in the evening.

1. I was arrested at Tayaseer military checkpoint at around 4:00 p.m. There was a protest and clashes erupted between young boys and Israeli soldiers. Two military jeeps surrounded me from the back and front and I could not escape. A soldier wanted to tie my hands. When I resisted the soldiers started to beat and kick me all over my body. I was in pain.
2. Then they managed to tie my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It cut into my wrists and I felt my wrists were going to be torn apart. The tie left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then they blindfolded me and walked me towards the checkpoint. Along the way the soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
3. I was left by the checkpoint until around 8:00 p.m. The soldiers who were at the checkpoint told me they were going to rape me once I was in prison and I was terrified. They also took a picture of me.
4. Then, at around 8:00 p.m., I was taken in a bus to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I was taken to a room and I slept on the floor. The soldiers removed the blindfold but kept me tied. I was left there without food or drink until around noon the following day. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the tie. He was in civilian clothes. The interrogator did not phone a lawyer for me and started to question me immediately. He told me I had the right to remain silent but then he said if I gave him what he wanted he would release me quickly. He then said it was my choice whether I remained silent or not but he made it clear it was not in my interest to remain silent because answering his questions would get me out of prison.
6. He asked me where I was when I was arrested and who was with me. He also asked me whether someone had sent me to throw stones at the checkpoint. Then he asked me about the stone he claimed I had thrown at the soldiers. He wanted to know the distance. At first, I denied having thrown stones but later felt I could no longer deny it.
7. The interrogator was calm but the whole time he kept telling me if I gave him what he wanted he would send me home, otherwise he was going to keep me in prison. He questioned me for about 30 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I asked him to translate it for me he said there was no need for a translation. I signed without understanding.

8. Then I was given a quick medical examination. Then, in the evening I was taken in a troop carrier to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was left outside on the ground for about an hour. Then I was strip searched before being taken to a cell together with another boy. I was left there for eight days.
9. My first military court hearing was on the fourth day following my arrest. It was conducted on zoom. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. Eight days later I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched and then I was taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days. I was quarantined with 10 other boys.
10. During this time, I had three more military court hearings. Then I was transferred to section 13. I had four more court hearings. At the last one, which was on 20 August 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me the prosecutor was asking for 15 months in prison.
11. In September 2021 I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I did not have any family visits. In prison I played table tennis and chatted to the other prisoners to pass the time. I was released on 20 September 2021, at Salem checkpoint. My parents were told to wait by Al Jalama. I called my father from a lawyer's telephone and told him where I was. I went home with my parents, my uncle and my cousins, we arrived home at around 4:00 p.m.

Name: K.H.J.D.
Date: 31 July 2021
Location: Tubas, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.H.J.D. of Tubas, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. One of the political leaders in my village called for a peaceful demonstration at a nearby Israeli military checkpoint and a group of us responded. Some young men set fire to tyres, others threw stones at soldiers and I raised a Palestinian flag. About 40 soldiers tried to disperse us. I could see the soldiers surrounding us and I heard the leader tell us not to leave while he walked away.
2. Shortly afterwards I was hit by two rubber bullets fired by soldiers; one in the stomach and the other in my knee. A soldier then grabbed me and beat me with the back of his gun on my head, back and leg. The soldiers swore at me in Hebrew and Arabic calling me "a son of a whore".
3. Soon afterwards a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other and tightened them hard. I was in pain and the ties left marks on my wrists for two months. Then he blindfolded me and took me to a troop carrier and made me kneel down on the metal floor. Then a soldier tied me to a seat and slapped me while I was tied and blindfolded.
4. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was put in a small room and my ties were removed. I was examined by a doctor and when I told him I was badly beaten up by the soldiers he did not say or do anything. He could see I was bleeding from my nose and gums but did not do anything.
5. I was left in a room at Binyamin until the following day. The room was very small, measuring about 2 x 2 meters without any windows. There was a mattress on the floor and a light which was left on 24 hours. There was an air filter which made a lot of noise and I could not sleep.
6. The following day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and asked to stand up and crouch down while naked. I spent three days in the quarantine section at Ofer and I was interrogated on the first day.
7. The interrogator removed my blindfold but kept me handcuffed. These were put on me before being taken to the interrogation room He had a camera and a voice recorder in addition to a body camera attached to his shirt. He spoke fluent Arabic. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer. The first time I saw a lawyer was in the military court. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he told me I was a terrorist and therefore I was not entitled to any rights. Then he told me any question I refuse to answer would imply that I was guilty of the offence. He accused me of throwing stones at the checkpoint and wanted to know who had sent me.

8. Then he wanted to know my political affiliation and told me I was too young for political activity and wondered why I had gone to the checkpoint to throw stones. I denied the accusation and told him I did not throw stones and that I took part in a legitimate peaceful demonstration. The interrogator replied that nothing we Palestinians did was legitimate.
9. Then he wanted to know who else threw stones with me. I told him I did not throw stones I just carried a flag. Then he accused me of shooting at soldiers when they drive through my village at night. I denied the accusation. He threatened to never issue me with a work permit and to prevent me from traveling to Jordan. He spoke in a loud voice and shouted at me and threatened to beat me up. Then he said if I did not cooperate with him he was going to taser me until I confessed. He also said he was going to lock me up in a small cell for a long time or put me under administrative detention. He said I would then be begging him to accept my confession but he would reject it.
10. I repeated my claim that I took part in a peaceful demonstration. He questioned me for about four hours and refused to give me any water. He alternated with three other interrogators who took turns questioning me one at a time. I was handcuffed the whole time and was not given anything to eat or drink and I was not allowed to go to the toilet. I continued to deny the accusation.
11. At the end the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I asked him for a translation he said my duty was to sign it and it was not my business to ask for a translation. I signed the document without understanding it. Then they took my photo and fingerprints and a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was taken to the quarantine section for two more days before being put in the minors' section.
12. My first military court hearing was four days following my arrest. It was on zoom and my parents did not attend because they were not informed. My detention was extended. I had three military court hearings and at the last one, which was about three weeks before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 5,000. I was also given another year in prison suspended for two years. I accepted the bargain because I wanted to guarantee my release in three weeks' time.
13. I spent the rest of my sentence at Ofer prison. I was tense and nervous the whole time and I did not know anyone there. I was released on 23 September 2021, at Ofer and I went home with my parents. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.
14. I did not have any family visits in prison because I did not want to trouble my parents, especially my mother. I did not have access to a phone so I did not call home. I attended some classes to pass the time.

Accusation: Setting a fire

I, M.I.A.D. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went for a walk with a friend at around 10:00 p.m. to check the area where young boys from my village had earlier clashed with Israeli soldiers. On the way we were ambushed by a group of soldiers. One of the soldiers punched me on the head and then kicked me in my side. The other soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
2. Then the commander came and asked me for my name. He wanted to know what I was up to at that late hour. He then tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight. I was also blindfolded. At around 11:00 p.m. I was taken in a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor and driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was left in a shipping container until dawn and then I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess until he figured out what the situation was. Then the interrogator asked me what I was planning to do. He did not inform me of my right to silence.
4. He was calm most of the time but occasionally raised his voice at me. He urged me to confess and said if I did they would go easy on the sentencing. He questioned me for about an hour and accused me of starting a fire near the settlement. I denied the allegation. At the end he asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew. I signed without understanding what I had signed on.
5. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken into a cell where I was left until around 10:00 a.m. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 18 where I was quarantined with six other boys. Nine days later I was taken for another interrogation.
6. This time I did not speak to a lawyer and the interrogator did not form me of my right to silence. The interrogator was in police uniform and repeated the same questions and wanted to know who sent me to start a fire. The interrogator was calm.
7. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew. I signed without understanding what they said. Three days later I had my first military court hearing on zoom. The hearing was adjourned because there was no lawyer to represent me. A week later I had another hearing which my uncle attended on zoom.

8. I had about 10 military court hearings. The last hearing, which was on 7 November 2021, was one day before I was released. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a suspended sentence of 18 months suspended for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home the following day.
9. I spent 11 days in quarantine and then I was transferred to section 13 at Ofer. I did not have any family visits because I was released before the visiting permit was issued. In prison I watched television, chatted to the other prisoners and lifted weights to keep fit. I loved watching documentaries on wild animals.
10. I was released at Ofer on 8 November 2021, and I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.M.H.R. of Douha, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking home from my friend's house when I noticed a group of Israeli soldiers walking behind me. It was around 4:00 a.m. I quickly went into my house. A few minutes later a large group of Israeli soldiers came into our home and asked me for my name and age. Then one of the soldiers told me to hand over my mobile phone. He asked for my parents and I went to their bedroom and woke them up.
2. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and my hands swelled. Then they blindfolded me in front of my parents and took me outside without giving my parents any documents. They then questioned my parents about "the terrorist". About half an hour later they took me to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. The soldiers in the carrier slapped me and swore at me. Then they took me to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. They removed the blindfold and left me in a barracks until around 9:00 a.m. when I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator replaced the plastic ties with metal handcuffs and handcuffed me to the front. He wore civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He told me to shut up and sit down. Then he told me if I lied to him he was going to summon my mother and father and imprison my brother. He asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer. I told him there was no need as I had done nothing wrong. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent.
4. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones. I denied the accusation. Then he told me I was a liar and showed me video footage. Then he repeated the accusation and told me the incident took place on 14 July 2021, at Rachels Tomb, near Bethlehem. He questioned me on and off over four hours. At the end he asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding what was written.
5. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and asked to stand up and crouch down while naked. Then I was taken into the quarantine section where I was held with other boys for 11 days before being transferred to the minors' section.
6. My first military court hearing was three days after my arrest. It was conducted via Zoom and I did not see my parents because they were not informed about the hearing. I had another five hearings and at the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was fined NIS 4,000 and released.

7. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 27 August 2021. I called my parents using a phone of a person who happened to be at the checkpoint. I met my parents in Ramallah and we all went home. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.J.A.A. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was ambushed by a group of Israeli soldiers during clashes near the checkpoint. It was around 3:30 p.m. One of the soldiers grabbed me and forced me to walk towards the gate in the Wall. He slapped me and called me "fucker son of a whore". Then other soldiers joined in and took turns kicking and slapping me.
2. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. My hands turned blue and the tie left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then he blindfolded me with a mouth mask but later replaced it with a cloth. I was then left on the ground until around 2:00 a.m. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and I was driven to an Israeli police station. I did not know where. At the police station they removed the blindfold and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman. He replaced the plastic tie with metal handcuffs. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer asked me for my name and then told me to hand the telephone over to the interrogator. The lawyer and the interrogator started to chat in Hebrew. The lawyer did not speak to me or tell me anything. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and attempting to hit a soldier with a stone on the head. I denied the accusation and told him I was far away from the soldiers.
4. The interrogator questioned me for about 30 minutes and eventually I confessed. After I had confessed he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I asked what was written in the document he told me it said he had interrogated me. I signed.
5. Then I was taken to a settlement but I do not know which one. I was taken to a room and they brought me some food. A soldier was in the room with me. I was left there until the morning of the following day. I could not sleep, not for a second. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section. I was left in quarantine by myself for 12 days. I found it hard because I am not used to being alone; I think they forgot about me. The room was big and had four bunk beds, windows and light which I controlled. After quarantine I was transferred to the minors' section.
6. My first military court hearing was on the third day after my arrest. It was conducted on zoom and I did not see my family, I don't think they were there. My detention was extended. I had seven military court hearings and at the last one, which was on the same day that I was released, the court decided to release me on bail. My father had to pay NIS 1,200 and I was told I had to come to court in 10 days, and if I did not show up in court I would be arrested from home. The lawyer called my family later and told them the court hearing was cancelled.

7. I was released after court on 19 September 2021 and I went home with my mother and my sister; we arrived home at around 8:30 p.m.

Name: M.S.N.A.
Age: 16
Date: 31 August 2021
Location: Beit Jala, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.S.N.A. of Beit Jala, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from our backyard at around 7:00 p.m. There were no clashes at the time; I was just hanging out with my friends when Israeli soldiers surrounded the area. A group of soldiers took me and one of my friends aside and pushed me to the ground. Five soldiers stood over me and swore at me. They beat me all over my body; on my head and legs, everywhere. My face was swollen and I had pain in my stomach and back.
2. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other and tightened them hard. I was in pain and felt my veins were about to bust. My hands swelled and turned blue. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then took me to the top of a hill where a military jeep was waiting. They dragged me on the ground and caused me further injury and tore my clothes and boots. They constantly swore at me calling me "a son of a whore."
3. I was put in the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers struck me with the back of their guns on my back and broke a rib. I found it hard to breathe and could not take a deep breath. They took me to the nearby military base near the entrance to my village. Then I was left on the floor of a shipping container for three days.
4. On the first night I asked to use the toilet but the soldiers swore at me and refused my request. Then a female soldier took me to the toilet while I was still blindfolded and tied behind my back. I asked her to remove the blindfold but she refused. She pulled down my trousers and I peed while she was there. It was humiliating.
5. Then I was taken back to the shipping container where the soldiers were watching a porn film on a mobile phone and turned the volume up so I could hear. I could not sleep. The soldiers woke me up by kicking me when I fell asleep. I spent two nights there and half a day. They brought me some salty pretzels to eat.
6. After three days I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where I was put in a small cell with other boys. I was left there for about five hours and then soldiers removed the ties and the blindfold and took me to an interrogation room.
7. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to speak and not to confess and not to allow the interrogator to trick me. The conversation lasted for about three minutes and the interrogator was listening on speaker phone.

8. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and accused me of setting fire to an area in a settlement and throwing a Molotov cocktail. He also accused me of throwing a pipe bomb at a CCTV camera causing it to break. I told the interrogator I wouldn't confess because I was innocent. Then I decided to remain silent. The interrogator thumped the table and threw all the papers on the floor but I remained silent. Then he used very bad language and threatened to rape me. Then he said even if he was to release me this time he was going to arrest me again. He also threatened to arrest my mother and father. Despite all of this pressure, I did not confess. I do not remember whether he asked me to sign any documents.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba. I arrived there in the early hours of the morning. I was left outdoors and a soldier who sat next to me showed me footage of him driving a tank in Gaza. Then he brought me a bottle of Coke but did not bring me any food and I was very hungry. At around noon I was taken for interrogation.
10. I was not tied or blindfolded. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He looked mean to me.
11. The interrogator started by telling me he wanted to help me and that I was like a son to him. He advised me to cooperate with him. He told me I was a good person and did not want me to spend time in prison. I told him I had done nothing wrong. Then he repeated the same accusations and I continued to deny them. He was calm and brought me food and cigarettes. He showed me photographs and video footage and told me my friends had confessed against me. He accused me of being a member of a terrorist cell and of belonging to a network of terrorists. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. I asked him to translate it and when I found it was identical to what I had told him I signed it.
12. After the interrogation I was taken to a hospital because my head had a bump and my face swelled. A female doctor examined me and gave me first aid treatment. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was put in a cell with other boys. I spent 16 days there. The conditions in the cell were bad; not enough blankets and the ones they gave us were dirty. The food was unappetizing and the cell did not have any windows. When I caused trouble demanding better food and more blankets, I was taken to another cell by myself as punishment. I was taken there four times, each time for a few hours.
13. My first military court hearing was about two weeks after my arrest. It was on zoom and my parents did not attend because they were not informed. I had about 11 court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given another two years in prison suspended for five years. My lawyer encouraged me to accept the plea bargain and I did.
14. After spending 16 days at Etzion I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and then I was put in the quarantine section where I spent 17 days. Then I was taken to the minors' section where I spent the rest of my sentence.

15. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 18 November 2021. I called my family and they came and picked me up. I went home with my father and brothers, we arrived home at around 1:00 a.m.
16. In prison I lifted weights to keep fit and I attended classes with other boys. I was denied family visits for security reasons.

Name: A.A.M.M.
Age: 14
Date: 1 September 2021
Location: Bethlehem, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails / pipe bombs

I, A.A.M.M. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers broke open our front door with a metal tool at around 3:30 a.m. I was still awake because I had just got home from a party. Lots of soldiers entered our home and almost immediately dragged me aside. I hardly had time to put my clothes on. They pushed me against a wall and pushed my father because he stood in their way. One of the soldiers asked me for my name and aimed his gun at my mother and younger brother.
2. Once they identified me they tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and constricted blood flow in my wrists. They remained inside our house for about 15 minutes. They gave my father a document with details about my arrest filled out in Hebrew and made him sign it. Then they swore at me, my mother and sister.
3. After 15 minutes they took me outside where they pushed me into the back of a military jeep and made me sit on a metal seat. Inside the jeep I was blindfolded, pushed and struck with the back of a gun.
4. Then the jeep drove to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where I was left in an outdoor cage, in the sun, until around noon before being taken for interrogation. During this time, I was given some food and drink and I was allowed to use a toilet. Then a soldier removed the blindfold and shackled me and took me to an interrogation room.
5. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to give the interrogator a hard time and advised me to confess in order to be sent home. We spoke for about two minutes and the interrogator was listening to the conversation on speaker phone. Then the interrogator told me all I was allowed to do was answer his questions. He did not inform me of my right to silence.
6. The interrogator he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and pipe bombs at a road tunnel used by settlers. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me some photographs and video footage and told me soldiers had testified against me. He was rough and spoke with a loud aggressive voice. He threatened to arrest my father if I did not confess and told me my friends had confessed against me. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me in three sessions over about four hours in all.

7. At the end of the interrogation I was told to sign a large number of documents written in Hebrew. At first, I refused to sign and asked for a translation. When he refused to provide a translation, I signed because I wanted the process to end.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 10:00 p.m. I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days.
9. About 10 days later I was handcuffed to the front and taken for a second interrogation. I did not speak with a lawyer prior to the interrogation and the interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He warned me against lying and told me he had photographic evidence against me. He accused me of the same accusations and told me if I confessed he would send me home. He was calm and questioned me for about 30 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed.
10. After the interrogation I was taken back to the quarantine section. On the way back, a soldier offered me an alcoholic drink but I refused to take it. Then he showed me video footage of a stone throwing incident and told me I was going to prison while he was going to the shopping Mall.
11. My first military court hearing was two days after my arrest. It was conducted on zoom. My parents did not attend because they were not informed about the hearing. I had about 10 hearings in all. About two months before I was released I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 14 months in prison suspended for five years. My parents also had to pay a NIS 10,000 bond payable if I am arrested again within five years. I accepted the offer because I thought it was better than the 18 months in prison the prosecutor was asking for.
12. I spent 14 days at the quarantine section before being taken to section 13 at Ofer where I served the remaining time. In prison I passed the time cooking in the kitchen. I made ice cream from sour cream and juice. I had a family visit on average once a month and I called home from a phone provided by the prison authorities once every 14 days. I also attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics and I played table tennis.
13. I was released at Ofer on 8 February 2022, and I went home with my brother and his friends. I arrived home at round 10:00 p.m.

1. I heard loud banging at our front door at around 3:30 a.m. I looked out the window and saw Israeli soldiers surrounding our home. My mother opened the door and about 10 soldiers came into our house. One of the soldiers asked for me and then made me stand facing the wall. Whenever I turned my face the soldier yelled at me. Then a soldier told my mother I was under arrest. Then he gave her a document filled out on Hebrew and asked her to sign it which my mother did.
2. Then they took me outside where a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. I asked the soldier to loosen it but he refused. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. Inside the jeep soldiers swore at me. They also slapped and kicked me.
3. The jeep drove a short distance and then I was transferred into a police car where I sat on a seat. A policeman inside a jeep asked me what I had done and I told him nothing. He accused me of lying. He questioned me without informing me of any rights. Then I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where I was left in an outdoor cage. At around noon I was shackled before being taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He asked me for my age and then wanted to know who else was with me. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer asked me whether it was my first arrest. Then he asked me how many jeeps had come to arrest me. Then he told me not to say anything. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator was listening on speaker phone. Then the interrogator told me to go out and brought in my friend. About two hours later he brought me in again.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, He showed me video footage of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. Then the interrogator told me if I continued to deny the accusation he was going to interrogate me again and again a thousand times. He also threatened to lock me up in solitary confinement. Then he told me if I confessed he would send me home, if I did not he was going to keep me there.
6. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and wanted to know when and where I was throwing stones. I continued to deny the accusation. Then he named some boys and asked me about them. He questioned me over a period of about two hours. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I refused to sign and he signed instead.

7. Then I was taken outside where I was left for about two hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down. After being searched I was taken into the quarantine section where I spent 13 days with two other boys. A week later I was taken to Atarot police station for another interrogation.
8. It was a different interrogator this time. He did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He wanted me to sign a document confessing to throwing stones but I refused to sign. He claimed he had a voice recording proving I had thrown a Molotov cocktail and stones at soldiers. I denied the accusation.
9. This interrogator was calm and questioned me for about an hour. At the end he asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
10. My first military court hearing was two days after my arrest. It was on zoom and my parents were not informed and they did not attend. I had about nine court hearings. About two months before I was released I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 18 months in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because otherwise I was told I would spend more time in prison.
11. After spending 13 days at the quarantine section I was transferred to the minors' section at Ofer where I spent the rest of my term. In prison I walked and chatted to the other detainees and I played with them. I also attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics which was useful. My parents visited me three times and I was able to call them from a phone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks.
12. I was released at Ofer on 8 February 2022, and I went home with my brother and my friends. We arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.M.I.H. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at the supermarket at around 6:00 p.m. when Israeli soldiers fired a stun grenade into the shop. Then about 20 soldiers entered the supermarket and told everybody to stand against the wall. Then one of the soldiers played some video footage on his iPad showing a group of boys throwing a Molotov cocktail near the settlement of Bet El. One of the soldiers then pushed me to the ground, and another one dragged me out. They kicked and punched me in my head, my back and my arm which was twisted badly. I still suffer pain in my arm more than six months later.
2. Once outside the soldiers led me towards the settlement of Bet El while soldiers continued to beat me along the way. They also swore at me calling me the "son of a whore". At the settlement a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a long time. I was then left at the front gate of the settlement for about five hours. During this time another boy managed to escape. The commander then phoned my parents and told them they would release me if the other boy turned himself in.
3. After about five hours I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around 10:00 p.m. and I was immediately taken for interrogation. A soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and then took me into an interrogation room.
4. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes and there was also an Israeli policeman in the room who was translating. There was a camera and voice recorder. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement and wanted to know my motive. He yelled and shouted and swore at me. I denied the accusation.
5. Then the interrogator asked me whether I had been paid by somebody to throw a Molotov cocktail at the settlement and accused me of lying. He questioned me for about an hour. After about an hour I confessed to throwing Molotov cocktail. Then the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I refused to sign and the interrogator signed the document himself.
6. After I had confessed the interrogator phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer asked me for my name and age and told me not to confess. I told him I had already confessed. The interrogator left the room during the conversation which lasted a few minutes.

7. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section. I was left there for 14 days.
8. After 14 days I was taken back to Binyamin for more interrogation. It was a different interrogator who did not inform me of my rights. He wanted to know why I threw a Molotov cocktail at the settlement and told me the soldiers wanted to shoot me dead on the spot. He showed me photographs of the incident but I denied the accusation. He questioned me from around 6:00 a.m. until around 3:00 p.m. He sometimes left the room and took a break.
9. At one point the interrogator threatened to send me to prison for life if I did not confess. He would also yell at me. I continued to deny the accusation. Then I was taken back to Ofer.
10. My first military court hearing was about a week after my arrest. It was on zoom and both my parents attended. My detention was extended. I had about eight military court hearings. On 19 January 2022 I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the deal because my lawyer told me to.
11. I spent two months at Ofer and then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I served the rest of my sentence. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 21 February 2022 and I went home with my grandfather and uncle. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.
12. In prison I was bored and spent most of my time chatting to the other boys. I lifted weights and I attended classes in Hebrew, Arabic and mathematics. I had about six family visits and I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, A.Y.I.H. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A Molotov cocktail was thrown at the wall surrounding the settlement of Bet El at around 5:00 p.m. I was in the area at the time and I ran away together with other boys who were nearby. Israeli soldiers chased and surrounded us. The soldiers started kicking and slapping me. I was hit hard in my eye and nose which started to bleed. The soldiers were also swearing at me.
2. The soldiers then they took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. They threw me on top of the other boys they arrested with me. A soldier forced me to lift my hands up behind my head and slapped me.
3. I was taken to the settlement gate where a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. Then he made me kneel for about five hours. The soldiers wanted to arrest one of the boys who managed to escape and made the rest of us wait. A soldier aimed his gun at me and threatened to kill me.
4. Later I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around midnight. I was taken to a room together with other boys and the soldiers turned the air conditioner on cold. I was freezing. I was left there until around 5:00 a.m. when a soldier removed the tie and blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and an Israeli policeman was in the room translating for him. There was a camera and voice recorder in the room. He did not phone a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He asked me what I had done and when I said I had done nothing he yelled at me. He questioned me for about an hour and accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement. I denied the accusation.
6. The interrogator thumped the table aggressively and repeated the accusation and accused me of lying. Then he showed me photographs and video footage and threatened to lock me up in prison with my father. I was scared and then I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail. Then he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed. Then I was taken to another room where I was left for three days. They did not do anything to me for three days. I was given some bread and water but I was hungry and the soldiers were eating pizza in front of me.
7. After three days I was put in a military vehicle which drove around from morning till night. I finally was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days. About a week after my arrest I had a military court hearing. It was on zoom and my mother and uncle attended. My detention was extended. The following day I was interrogated again.

8. This time it was a different interrogator. He was also in civilian clothes. Before questioning me he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to be careful of what I say and advised me not to confess and not to sign any documents. The conversation lasted for a few minutes and the interrogator left the room and was not listening.
9. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator wanted to know why I had done what I had done. Then he told me I had to confess before they could send me home. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement but I denied the accusation. When I denied the accusation, he yelled at me and told me he was going to torture me if I did not confess. Then he played the recorder where I confessed to the first interrogator. I told him I confessed because I was threatened.
10. The second interrogator questioned me for about two hours and shouted and swore at me. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I refused to sign and told him I was not going to sign except in the presence of a lawyer. Then I was taken back to the quarantine section.
11. I had two military court hearings. At the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and a suspended sentence for five years. I was not fined. I accepted the plea bargain because it guaranteed my release on a fixed date.
12. After spending time at the quarantine section, I was transferred to section 13 where I spent the rest of my time. In prison I lifted weights and my parents visited me about 10 times. I did not have access to a telephone from the prison authority.
13. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 24 January 2022, and I went home with my brother.

Date: 5 September 2021
Location: Sa'ir, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, R.I.M.J. of Sa'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers came to my uncle's house at around 2:00 a.m. and asked him to show them the way to our house. My uncle knocked at our door and my father answered. About 12 soldiers entered our home. The commander asked to see our identity cards and then told my father to bring all his children to the middle room. Then the commander told my father he wanted to arrest me but did not say why. He gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew.
2. The soldiers remained in our home for about 15 minutes. They gave me time to get dressed and collect my hearing aid and then took me outside. They walked me a short distance and then blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful.
3. After I was tied they pushed me into the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep soldiers kicked me all over my body. The jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was left in a courtyard where lots of military jeeps were parked until around 8:00 a.m. Then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing stones at a settler car in which a settler woman was hurt. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was aggressive and scary. He wanted me to confess and insisted that someone had sent me to throw stones. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then the batteries in my hearing aid ran out. At the end the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and did not translate it for me. I signed without understanding what was written.
5. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell. Five days later I had my first military court hearing. My father attended the Zoom session and the military judge extended my detention. Ten days later I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.
6. I had four military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 22 September 2021, I was released on bail because of my medical condition and because my father proved through a CCTV camera that I was at a factory when the incident occurred. My father had to pay NIS 4,000 bail and I was placed under house arrest.
7. I went home with my father the following day. We arrived home at around midnight.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.A.I.H. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was near an incident in which a Molotov cocktail was thrown at the settlement of Bet El at around 5:00 p.m. I ran away when Israeli soldiers started to chase all the boys in the area. I ran into a building next to a supermarket. When I looked out the window I saw about 10 soldiers entering the building. I quickly ran outside and the soldiers started firing stun grenades and rubber bullets in my direction. I managed to get away and made it safely home.
2. Soon after I arrived home the local Israeli military commander phoned my father and told him he had to hand me over. My father told the commander if he wanted to arrest me he should come and get me himself and then hung up. The commander phoned back but my father turned his phone off.
3. Then the commander phoned my uncle and told him he was going to shoot me dead if I did not turn myself in. Then he phoned the mother of one of the boys they had arrested and told her if she handed me over he would release her son. Then, he phoned my grandfather. The commander told my grandfather he was going to come to our house, shoot me dead and leave. My grandfather was terrified. At first, he told the commander he was not going to turn me in but then he changed his mind because he felt the threats were real.
4. My grandfather told me to go and have a shower and change. Then my parents gave me some advice and told me what to say and then my grandfather and uncle took me to the settlement gate. We were there at 2:00 a.m. A soldier at the gate aimed his gun at us and when my uncle tried to enter with me the soldier pushed him and my grandfather back.
5. Then the soldier wanted to tie my hands behind my back but I refused. He then tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. I was tied for three days and the ties left marks on my wrists. Blood flow was severely restricted and my hands swelled and turned blue.
6. The minute my uncle and grandfather were out of sight the soldiers kicked and slapped me. They also swore at me. When I swore back at them a soldier slapped me hard and hit me on the head. Then a soldier shackled me and wanted to blindfold me but he did not know how. He then pulled a bag over my head. The bag smelled of tear gas.
7. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around 4:00 a.m. I was taken to a room where I found the other boys on the floor; tied and blindfolded. The soldiers wanted the boys to see me so they woke them up and then took me outside where they kicked and slapped me. I then waited in a corridor until around 5:00 a.m.

8. At around 5:00 a.m. I was taken to see "Captain Shafer". He did not inform me of my rights. He threatened me and accused me of being a terrorist. He wanted to know why I threw a Molotov cocktail at the settlement. Then he told me he had taken a decision to kill me and swore at god had I not turned myself in he would have. Then he offered me some coke and then took me outside. Then I was taken for interrogation.
9. The interpreter who was in the interrogation room removed the ties. I did not speak to a lawyer. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He asked me how I was and I told him I was not good at all. Then he told me I was a terrorist and accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement. I denied the accusation and challenged him to present evidence.
10. The interrogator showed me some video footage of the incident and I denied I took part. Then he yelled at me and the soldier in the corner of the room cocked his gun and aimed it at me. Then the interrogator told me to confess otherwise he was going to give orders to shoot me. I was terrified and I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail.
11. I was questioned for about two hours. In the end the interrogator told me to sign documents in Hebrew and I refused to sign except in the presence of a lawyer. Then he phoned a lawyer for me and the lawyer told me it was ok to sign but I refused to sign.
12. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep which drove around for many hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 14 days. About a week later I was taken for another interrogation at Binyamin police station.
13. The interrogator was different. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He replayed the voice recording where I am heard confessing. I told him I confessed because the interrogator threatened to shoot me. Then he showed me video footage of the incident and I denied I was there. He questioned me for about three hours. During the interrogation he swore at me. He raised his voice and thumped the table. I continued to deny the accusation.
14. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
15. My first military court hearing was a week after my arrest. It was on zoom and my parents attended. I had about nine hearings. On 19 January 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to seven months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received another year in prison suspended for five years. My parents could not afford the fine so I spent two more months in prison instead of the fine.

16. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Ofer. My parents visited me three times and I called home from a phone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks. In prison I cleaned the ward and was in charge of distributing food to the detainees. I also lifted weights.
17. I was given early release and released at Beit Sira checkpoint on 23 February 2022. My family were told to wait at Ofer. I called them and they came and picked me up. I arrived home at around 11:30 p.m.

Name: I.T.M.B.
Age: 16
Date: 11 September 2021
Location: Al 'Arrub refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.T.M.B. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was trying to get home from Hebron but I couldn't because there were clashes in the area with Israeli soldiers. It was around 4.00 p.m. Instead, I went to my friend's house to wait until things calmed down. My friend and I went to the roof to have a look when all of a sudden three soldiers came up to the roof and accused us of throwing stones at them. One of the soldiers searched me and looked at my hands to see if there were traces of dirt.
2. Then my friend's brothers showed up and started to shout at the soldiers. One of the soldiers pushed my friend down the stairs and a fist fight broke out between the soldiers and the brothers. The soldiers were swearing and pushed us down the stairs. On the way down my friend's mother opened the door to her apartment and I ran inside. The soldiers banged at the door and nearly broke it down so I decided to come out because I wanted to spare my friend's mother the distress.
3. As soon as I opened the door a soldier grabbed me and dragged me down the remainder of the stairs. He wanted to take me out into the street but young boys were hurling stones at us and he could not move. Then the soldier used me as a human shield to protect himself from the stones. I was hit by two stones on my chest. I managed to free myself from the soldier and went back into the building. Then the soldier followed me, aimed his gun at me and threatened to shoot me if I did not come out.
4. I was terrified and so came back out and the soldier and I crossed the street while young boys hurled stones at us. The soldier and I tripped and fell on top of each other. We got up and walked a short distance and another group of about 15 soldiers came and started to beat me all over my body. They punched and kicked me and banged my head against a concrete wall.
5. The soldiers led me cross the street to a military watchtower. One of the soldiers pushed me against concrete block and made me sit down on the ground. He then started to swear at me calling me "a fucker son of a whore". Then he told me to look him in the eye and then he threatened to turn me into a "shahid" by the end of the day.
6. I was left by the watchtower for about 30 minutes. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for days. He also blindfolded me. Then a group of soldiers who were nearby started to kick and slap me while tied and blindfolded. When a soldier started to swear at me I could not take it anymore and I swore back at him. He then he struck me hard on my leg with the back of his gun.

7. At around 5:00 p.m. the area commander came by and accused me of throwing stones at soldiers. He told me he had video footage as evidence. I denied the accusation and told him I did not throw stones at soldiers. He questioned me without informing me of my rights. He told me all would be revealed by the intelligence officer during the interrogation.
8. At around 9:00 p.m. I was put in a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. I was taken to the nearby settlement of Bitar Illit where I was left in an office for about three hours. Several soldiers were guarding me the whole time. Each time I fell asleep the soldiers slapped me and made fun of me to wake me up. I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet. At around 4:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
9. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to remain silent. He spoke to me via an interpreter because he did not speak Arabic. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and claimed he had evidence against me. He told me the soldiers took a video of the incident. Then he showed me the video which showed me and my friend on the roof not doing anything. I denied the accusation and told him the video did not show me throwing stones. Then he claimed he had another video which showed me throwing stones but he never played that video to me and I continued to deny the accusation.
10. Then he wanted to know if I had been arrested in the past and whether I had brothers in prison. Then he told me to phone my father and ask him to appoint me a lawyer because I was going to be taken to the military court the following morning. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours and threatened to lock me up in prison if I did not confess. He also told me he would send me home if I confessed. When I denied the accusation, he told me I had to confess against my friend because he had confessed against me. I did not believe him and told him neither me nor my friend threw stones at soldiers.
11. At the end of the interrogation I was shown a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign something I did not understand. I asked him to translate it for me but he told me there was no need; I just had to sign but I refused to sign. Then the soldier who was translating signed the document.
12. Then I was taken into another room where they took my fingerprints and my photograph. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. On the way the soldiers gave me a sandwich and some chocolate milk. At Etzion I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down while naked which I found humiliating and embarrassing. Then I was taken to a cell together with three other boys. I was left there for 13 days.
13. My first military court hearing was a week after my arrest. It was conducted on video and my parents were not informed and did not attend. My detention was extended. During the 13 days at Etzion I had two more court hearings. Then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched again before being taken into the quarantine section where I spent four days before I was transferred to section 13.

14. I had about 12 military court hearings and at the last one, which was a day before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given another 12 months in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home the following day.
15. In prison I lifted weights and attended classes in Hebrew and Arabic. I had two family visits and I was allowed to make phone calls from a phone provided by the prison authorities once every 14 days. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 13 January 2022, and I arrived home at around 1:30 a.m. I am a bit worried about my school work because I lost a whole semester in prison.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, K.I.K.H. of Al 'Arrub refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was walking home with my friend while clashes were taking place with Israeli soldiers in our camp. It was around 3:30 p.m. My friend and I went inside my house and went up to the roof to drink tea and eat our sandwiches. Suddenly three Israeli soldiers broke into the building. Two soldiers grabbed me. My older brothers and mother came and tried to intervene but the soldiers sprayed pepper spray at them. They pushed me down the stairs and beat me with the back of their guns.
2. When the soldiers took me out of the house I started to shout, calling my father telling him I had been arrested. One soldier was upset and banged my head against the wall and then against my friend's head. He also swore at me. Then he wanted to cross the street with me but we could not because of stone throwing by young men and boys from the camp. We went back into the building. Soldiers then fired tear gas and then I was taken across the street to the military watchtower.
3. At the watchtower soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. I was left by the watchtower for about an hour. During this time a soldier hit me on the head. He also kicked me in my genitals and caused me severe pain. My parents came and tried to intervene but they did not succeed.
4. After about one hour I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was blindfolded and then I was taken to a room. I was not given any food or drink and I was not allowed to use the toilet. At around 3:00 p.m. the following day I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator pulled down the blindfold and kept me tied. He wore an Israeli police uniform. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me "when I ask you a question, you answer me". Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and of giving directions to the other boys to flee the soldiers. He told me by doing so I had obstructed the work of the soldiers. I denied the accusations. He then showed me video footage of me and my friend standing on the roof of our house doing nothing. He asked me if the person in the video was me.
6. He was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice. He threatened to cancel the work permits of my family if I did not confess. He questioned me for about an hour and I continued to deny the accusation. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.

7. Then I was taken back to the room and at around 6:00 p.m. I was strip searched before being taken to a cell. I shared the cell with four other boys.
8. My first military court hearing was on the second day after my arrest. It was conducted on Zoom and my parents did not attend because they were not informed. I spent nine days in the cell at Etzion and then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched again before being taken to the quarantine section. I turned 18 while I was there and I was then transferred to the adults' section.
9. I had about 15 military court hearings. At the last one, which was one day before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because I knew I was going home the following day. Otherwise I was told I would be sentenced to nine months in prison.
10. I spent the rest of my sentence at Ofer prison where I helped in the kitchen and I exercised. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 13 January 2022, and I went home with the family of my friend who was released with me. I arrived home at around midnight. My parents did not visit me in prison because they are both sick with Diabetes. I managed to call home once from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.

Date: 22 September 2021
Location: Al Jalazun refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktail

I, Z.A.M.M. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers broke open our front door at around 3:30 a.m. and came straight into my bedroom. When I woke up I found the soldiers standing over my head. About 25 soldiers entered our home.
2. One of the soldiers told me to stay in my bedroom while they searched my brother's apartment in the same building. They also broke open his front door. Then another soldier called my name and told me to get ready because I was under arrest. I don't know whether they gave my parents any documents.
3. Once I was dressed a soldier took me outside and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for a week. Then he slapped me before taking me to the back of a jeep where I was made to sit on the metal floor. Inside the jeep a soldier struck me with the back of his gun on my back while another soldier laughed and made fun of me. Inside the jeep a soldier also blindfolded me and swore at me.
4. First I was taken to the settlement of Bet El where they sat me down for a short while and asked me for my name. Then they took me to a police jeep which took me to a cell. I was left on the floor for about four hours. Soldiers who passed by kicked and slapped me and swore at me. They did not allow me to use a toilet. I was in the cell with another boy and I finally fell asleep. At around 10:00 a.m. a soldier woke me up and told me it was my turn to be interrogated.
5. I was searched with my clothes on and then I was taken to another room where I sat on the floor. The soldiers did not allow me to sit on a chair. At around 5:00 p.m. a soldier removed the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder. He did not allow me to speak to a lawyer but told me I had the right to remain silent. He showed me photographs and video footage of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. He gave me two dates in 2020 and 2021 and accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusations.
7. The interrogator was calm and did not shout at me but he insisted I had to confess. He questioned me for about two hours and at the end I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail and fire crackers at the settlement. I was tired and wanted to get out of there. Then the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding anything. Then they took my photograph and fingerprints and then took me to Ofer prison.

8. At Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to a small cell with another boy. The cell measured about 2.5 x 2.5 meters without any windows and with a toilet in the room. I was left there one whole day and then I was taken to the quarantine section where I stayed for 11 days.
9. The following day I had my first military court hearing which was on zoom on a mobile phone. I did not understand anything. The whole thing lasted about two minutes and my parents were not informed and so were not there. My detention was extended.
10. I had about 20 hearings. On 23 January 2022, about a month before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me the military judge would give me a higher sentence if I rejected it.
11. After spending 11 days at the quarantine section I was strip searched again before being transferred to the minors' section where I served the rest of my sentence. My parents visited me seven times and I sometimes called home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities. In prison I lifted weights and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics.
12. I was released at Ofer on 22 February 2022, and I went home with my parents and my friends. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m. I will not go back to school because I missed a lot of school days while in prison. I now work at a wedding hall.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.A.M.N. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested at Rachel's Tomb at around 9:00 p.m. At the time there were clashes with Israeli soldiers because they had just shot dead a young Palestinian. A group of soldiers surrounded me and immediately pushed me to the ground. Then one of them handcuffed me behind my back with metal handcuffs and tightened them. I was in pain. He pushed my head down until it almost touched the ground while another soldier kicked me.
2. Then the soldiers took me to a military watchtower where they put a mask over my mouth and another one on my eyes. They also wrapped my jacket around my head. One of the soldiers placed his gun on my leg as if he was going to shoot me. I was left there in an awkward position with my head down for about one-and-a-half hours.
3. Then I was taken to a police jeep where I sat on a seat and the soldiers sat very close to me. I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. We arrived at around 10:30 p.m. I was left on a chair in an outdoor area for about two hours and the soldiers did not allow me to move. I was very tired. Then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the mask and brought me a glass of water. He was in civilian clothes. He wanted to know who else was me at the time of my arrest and I told him. He wanted to phone my father but I forgot his telephone number, I was scared and stressed. He did not phone a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the watchtower. He then asked me how I knew how to prepare a Molotov cocktail. He questioned me for about half an hour and was calm most of the time. I repeatedly asked to use a toilet and he allowed me after I asked four times. In the end I confessed to the accusation. Then the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed.
5. After the interrogation I was put in an outdoor cage where I spent a whole day. I was handcuffed to the front the whole time. I fell asleep for a short time but then the soldiers woke me up to search me. I was searched with my clothes on. I was not given any food the whole day, but I was given some water.
6. After a day I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 1:00 p.m. and I was strip searched. I was told to crouch up and down while naked. Then I was taken to the quarantine section where I spent two weeks.

7. I had five military court hearings. The first one was four days after my arrest. It was on zoom and my parents did not attend because they were not informed about it. The last hearing was three days before I was released. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 18 months in prison suspended for a few years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
8. After the quarantine I was taken to the minors' section where I spent the rest of my time. I did not have any family visits and I am not sure why. In prison I chatted to the other detainees and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I left school and I work in an aluminum shop.
9. I was released at Al Jib on 11 January 2022, and I took a taxi to Ramallah. Then I called my father and he came and picked me up. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers near the checkpoint and I went to have a look. It was around 5:00 p.m.
2. Suddenly I was grabbed by a group of about 15 soldiers. They slapped and kicked me and then tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. I complained about the pain and one soldier felt sorry for me and tied my hands to the front with a tie which was not painful.
3. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to a clinic but I was not checked. Then I was taken to the coordination office with the Palestinian Authority and handed me over to the Palestinian police who asked me some questions.
4. Then my father came to the police station and took me home. I arrived home at around 9:30 p.m.

I, A.M.H.B. of Douha, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was awake at 4:00 a.m. when I heard footsteps outside our house. I looked out the window and saw a group of Israeli soldiers. I woke my parents up and shortly afterwards a large group of soldiers entered our home. One of the soldiers immediately grabbed me and threw me against the wall without saying a word. He then started to slap and beat me.
2. Then another soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. He then blindfolded me before dragging me outside and into a troop carrier. Inside the troop carrier the soldiers continued to slap and kick me all over my body. I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where I was left in a shipping container until around noon. Then I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator replaced the plastic ties with metal handcuffs and handcuffed me to the front. She wore civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. She was about 40 years old and spoke fluent Arabic. She did not allow me to call a lawyer but she told me I had the right to remain silent. She accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail on 13 September 2021 at Rachel's Tomb, near Bethlehem. I denied the accusation. Then she showed me video footage and wanted me to give her the name of a boy shown in the video. She questioned me for about three hours and at times she left me alone in the room. At the end she asked me to sign documents in Hebrew which I signed.
4. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and I was asked to crouch up and down while naked. I was then taken to the quarantine section where I spent 10 days before being put in the minors' section.
5. Two days later I had my first military court hearing. It was conducted on Zoom and my parents did not attend because they were not informed. I had about 20 court hearings and at the last one, which was sometime in December 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for three years. My lawyer encouraged me to accept the plea bargain and I did.
6. I spent 10 days at the minors' section at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched on arrival at Megiddo. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Megiddo. My parents visited me four times and I called home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every 14 days. I attended classes in Hebrew, Arabic and Mathematics. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 20 February

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 4:00 a.m. They banged loudly at our front door. My father answered and about 10 soldiers entered our home. They asked my father about me and then told him I was under arrest. They gave him a document filled out in Hebrew with details about me and where they were going to take me.
2. The soldiers remained inside our house for about 10 minutes then took me outside where a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie. The tie was tight and painful and left a mark on my wrists. My mother followed us outside and was crying but the soldiers did not allow her to speak to me. I was also blindfolded. The soldiers then led me to the police station in Etzion settlement. We walked for about an hour.
3. At Etzion I was taken to a room with lots of soldiers who swore at me. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. Inside the interrogation room a soldier removed the tie and the blindfold. Then the interrogator phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me not to be afraid. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted about a minute.
5. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He told me I had the right to remain silent and that I had to confess to what I had done. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and showed me some photographs. The interrogator was calm and questioned me for about an hour. At the end I confessed. He then asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed some pages but not all.
6. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent 11 days. Then I was taken to the minors' section.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, Q.M.M.N. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:00 a.m. I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My mother opened the door and six Israeli soldiers entered our home. There were many more soldiers outside. The soldiers also went upstairs to my brother's apartment.
2. When the soldiers saw me, a soldier asked for my name and immediately took me to the living room and started to question me together with two other soldiers. They asked me for my name and age and then they gave my mother a document with information about my arrest scribbled in Hebrew. They asked her to sign the document without translating it for her and then took the document with them.
3. Then one of the soldiers told me I was under arrest. He did not tell me why. Then the soldiers took me outside where one of them tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and caused swelling in my hands. I especially felt pain in the hand where I had surgery. After being tied I was also blindfolded.
4. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. A soldier kicked me on my back as he pushed me into the back of the jeep and I fell on the metal floor. Inside the jeep a soldier swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". He also punched me in the back.
5. The jeep drove for a short distance and then stopped. I was taken out of the jeep and the soldiers made me walk to a nearby military base. A soldier deliberately made me walk into a lamp post and when I said "ouch" he swore at me.
6. Inside the military base they made me sit on the ground for about an hour. I called a soldier and told him I was in pain because of the ties and all the other soldiers laughed and made fun of me. But then a soldier loosened the ties. Then I was taken to another vehicle where I sat on a seat. I was taken to Atarot police station for interrogation. At Atarot I was left in an outside cage from around 5:00 a.m. until around 7:00 a.m. and I was not given any food or drink and was not allowed to use the toilet. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. My legs were shackled when I entered the interrogation room. The interrogator had a camera in the room and was typing on a computer the whole time. He did not allow me to

He spoke to a lawyer but he informed me of my right to silence. He told me it was my choice and I could either speak or not speak. Then he told me if I chose not to speak that I should keep in mind that they are the army and they know everything. Then he asked me to write my name on a document and then yelled at me to hurry up.

8. He accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail together with two of my friends whom he named. He also gave me two dates: the 14 September 2021 and 23 September 2021 and told me my two friends had confessed that all three of us had thrown a Molotov cocktail on those dates. He questioned me for about 40 minutes and was aggressive. He thumped the table when I denied the accusation.
9. At first, I denied the accusation but then I confessed because he put a lot of pressure on me. He gave me the impression he was not going to leave me until I confessed. After I had confessed he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed without asking any questions because I was too scared to ask. After the interrogation I was taken back to the cage.
10. At around 1:30 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to a quarantine section where I was with five other boys. I was quarantined for 14 days. During this time I had another interrogation.
11. The second interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The conversation with the lawyer lasted a couple of minutes and the interrogator was listening. The lawyer told me not to add to my previous statements. Then the interrogator started to question me without informing me of my right to silence. This time he focused on asking me questions about my father who is in prison. He questioned me for about an hour.
12. After spending 14 days in quarantine I was taken to the minors' section where I spent another 14 days. My first military court hearing was on the second day after my arrest. It was by video link. My uncle attended the hearing and my detention was extended. I had about seven military court hearings and at the last one, which was on 6 December 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a further six months suspended. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me I was facing one-and-a-half years in prison if I rejected it.
13. On 2 January 2022 I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my clothes. I spent the rest of my prison sentence there. The court decided to grant me an early release. I was released on 23 January 2022, from Salem checkpoint and I went home with my brother and brother-in-law. I arrived home at around 4:00 p.m.
14. In prison I had one family visit because of the Corona virus regulations. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. I left school when I was in Seventh grade because I was not a good student. I now work in a bakery to earn some money but I find it hard because I work from 3:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

I, M.A.O.W. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:30 a.m. I was asleep and woke up to the sound of a commotion around the house. Then I heard loud banging at our front door and my father went to open up. Five Israeli soldiers entered our home.
2. They talked to my grandmother and my father and then they told them I was under arrest. They did not say why but they gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with telephone number to call. They asked my father to sign the document and he did.
3. The soldiers stayed in our house for about half an hour. Then they took me outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. The soldier also blindfolded me. He then pushed me into the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Inside the jeep the commander called me "a bitch" and said "each bitch will have its day". A soldier stuck his elbow in my back all the way to the nearby military checkpoint.
4. At the checkpoint I was left on the ground for about two hours and then I was taken to the back of another jeep which took me to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. I arrived there in the early hours of the morning. They removed the blindfold and I was left in an outdoor cage for about two hours. A soldier told me I was cruel to put my mother through this pain. He wanted to provoke me. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. I was handcuffed in the interrogation room. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He wanted to know what I had done and then accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail. He questioned me for about half-an-hour before allowing me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me not to tell the interrogator everything. The conversation was quick and the interrogator was not listening.
6. The interrogator questioned me without informing me of my right to silence. He wanted me to tell him what I had done. He questioned me for about an hour and sometimes became angry. I confessed when the interrogator told me my cousin had confessed against me. After confessing, the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed it.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and I was taken to the quarantine section where I spent 16 days. During this time, I was interrogated again.

8. I did not speak to a lawyer and the interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence before the second interrogation. He accused me of the same accusation and made me repeat the confession I made during the first interrogation. At the end he asked me to sign documents in Hebrew and I signed.
9. My first military court hearing was three days after my arrest. It was on zoom and my father attended. I had about 10 hearings. About two weeks before I was released I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence but I don't recall the details. I accepted the bargain because my lawyer encouraged me to.
10. After the quarantine section I was put in the minors' section at Ofer. About half way through my sentence, I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. My parents visited me once. I worked in the kitchen to pass the time. I was released at Al Jalama on 23 January 2022. My family were delayed and they did not get there in time so I took a taxi and met them half way. I arrived home at around midnight.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, S.A.M.H. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:30 a.m. to the sound of loud banging at our front door. My father rushed to open the door just in time before the soldiers broke it open. About 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home while lots more remained outside. The commander asked my father about his children; their ages and names. When my father mentioned my name, the commander told him I was under arrest.
2. The soldiers barely gave me enough time to get dressed before a soldier tied my hands behind my back with four plastic ties: two on each wrist and he connected them together in the middle like a chain. The ties were tight and painful. He also blindfolded me and did not allow me to say goodbye to my family.
3. The soldiers remained inside our house for about 30 minutes. Then they gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew. Then a soldier deliberately hit my head against the mirror on the wall and then took me outside.
4. The soldiers led me towards the nearby settlement of Migdal Oz. On the way the soldiers swore at me and called my mother and sisters "whores". They also tried to trip me and made fun of me. When we got to the gate of the settlement they put me in the back of a military jeep. They threw me on my stomach on the metal floor of the jeep.
5. Then they drove to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left outside on the tarmac. I asked to use a toilet but they did not allow me. I asked the soldiers to loosen up the ties but they refused. Then a soldier who spoke Arabic came by. I asked him to loosen the ties and he did but then when he left the other soldiers tightened them again and left me alone. I could not sleep because my hands swelled and were hurting. I was left out in the cold weather from around 3:30 a.m. until around 9:00 a.m. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He later took off the ties later during the interrogation. I told the interrogator I wanted to call my parents. He told me I had to confess first and then he would allow me to call my parents. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to worry. The interrogator left the room during the conversation which lasted less than two minutes.

7. Then the interrogator came back and told me I had the right to remain silent. Later when I wanted to practice my right to silence he yelled at me and thumped the table aggressively. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at a policeman and told me my friends had confessed against me. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about three hours and wanted me to give him the name of the trouble-makers in the village.
8. At one point two other interrogators entered the room and took turns in questioning me. The interrogation was recorded on a voice recorder. The interrogators were aggressive and raised their voices at me. One of them thumped the table when I refused to answer his questions. I continued to deny the accusation and did not give any names.
9. At the end of the interrogation I was not asked to sign any documents but they took my photograph and my fingerprints. Then I was handcuffed again searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell. I waited about an hour and then I was taken in a troop carrier to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 18.
10. The following day I had a military court hearing via Zoom. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. My detention was extended and the hearing was adjourned. I had eight more hearings and at the last one, which was 10 days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 50 days in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received another 10 months in prison suspended for three years with a further fine of NIS 4,500 if arrested again. I accepted the plea bargain because I knew I was going home in 10 days.
11. I was released from Ofer on 22 November 2021, and I went home with my mother, my uncle and my grandmother. We arrived home at around 10:00 p.m. My mother spent her whole day waiting for me at Ofer to be released and did not have time to cook a meal. In prison I attended classes in Arabic. I did not have any family visits because the permit takes a long time.

I, Y.M.A.I. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. to tell me that Israeli soldiers had blown off our front door and were in our house. About 10 soldiers entered and asked my father for our identity cards. Then they told my father they wanted to take me away for an hour for "a chat". They gave my father a document with details about my arrest handwritten in Hebrew.
2. The soldiers remained inside our home for about 30 minutes then one soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside.
3. Once outside the soldiers led me for about 10 minutes on foot towards the nearby military base where they left me on the ground for about 10 minutes. Then they put me in a bus where I sat on a seat. The bus drove for a while and then dropped some soldiers off. Meanwhile I was transferred to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat.
4. The jeep drove to the village of Al-Khader where the soldiers made some more arrests. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left outdoors in the cold until around 9:00 a.m. I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties. He was dressed in civilian clothes. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer took my name and told me he was going to speak to my parents. He told me not to be afraid and told me I had the right to remain silent. The conversation lasted about two minutes. The interrogator was in the room during the conversation but I do not think he could hear anything because the phone was not on speaker.
6. After the phone call the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he accused me of shooting and throwing a Molotov cocktail at the military watchtower about a month earlier. I denied the accusation. Then the interrogator told me he was not going to leave me alone until I confessed. He said he was going to arrest my mother and father if I did not confess and told me my friends had confessed against me. He was aggressive and questioned me for about an hour and in the end, I confessed because I was stressed. The interrogator did not ask me to sign any documents.

7. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts and taken to a cell where I spent 15 days with another boy. During this time, I had three military court hearings over Zoom. My parents attended one of the hearings. Then I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched before being taken to section 18.
8. I had about eight military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 11 November 2021, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 50 days in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 12 months in prison suspended for four years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer negotiated it and I knew I was going to be released two weeks later.
9. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Ofer. I was released on 25 November 2021, and I went home with my brother. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m. I have left school so that I can work at a stone quarry to earn some money.

Name: R.A.M.K.
Age: 17
Date: 21 October 2021
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, R.A.M.K. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:00 a.m. I was asleep when I heard loud banging at our front door just as my sister came to alert me. My father rushed to open the door before it was broken down and about 10 Israeli soldiers entered our home.
2. The soldiers asked my father for our identity cards and then the commander told him they wanted to take me away for questioning. They searched the house without causing any damage and then they took me outside without giving my parents any documents.
3. A soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. They also blindfolded me. I was then taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor between the soldiers' feet. Inside the jeep soldiers verbally abused me and called me "a son of a whore". They also kicked me.
4. The soldiers drove me to a nearby military base where I was given a quick medical examination. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a cell with another boy. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to remain silent during the interrogation and told me there was nothing to be afraid of. The interrogator was listening to the conversation that lasted about a minute.
6. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. He explained it was my right not to answer his questions and that it was up to me. Then he told me if I remained silent he was going to arrest me again. He had a voice recorder on his desk.
7. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and told me my friends had confessed against me. He then gave me a specific date and accused me of firing gun shots on that date. At first, I denied the accusation. Then the interrogator told me if I continued to deny the accusations and did not confess he was going to send me to Al Mascobiyyeh for a harsher interrogation by an intelligence officer. He told me to be respectful to him in order for him to treat me with respect. He also told me if I confessed he was going to allow me to speak to my parents and would give me a cigarette.
8. He questioned me for about 90 minutes and was calm most of the time. At the end I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail because I realised there was no way out for me because my friends had confessed against me. Then the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Arabic and Hebrew but I told him I was illiterate. Still he insisted I should sign and I signed.

9. After the interrogation I was strip searched and taken to a cell where I spent 15 days with one other detainee. My first military court hearing was on the third day after my arrest. It was conducted by video link. My parents did not attend because they were not informed. My detention was extended.
10. I had seven more hearings and at the last one, which was three weeks before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 50 days in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 17 months in prison suspended for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because it brought me release.
11. After spending 15 days in a cell at Etzion I was transferred to Ofer prison where I was strip searched. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Ofer. I was released from Ofer on 25 November 2021 and I went home with my parents and brother-in-law, we arrived home at around 5:00 p.m. In prison I did not have any family visits because the permit takes about two months to be issued. I have dropped out of school and I now work in a quarry in the village to earn some money.

Name: N.N.R.T.
Age: 14
Date: 24 October 2021
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.N.R.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 3:15 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were inside our home. I got up and saw five soldiers in our living room. One of them told my father to collect all the mobile phones in the house. I told the soldier my mobile phone was broken. Then he checked our identity cards and called my name.
2. A soldier then gave my father a document summoning me to the police station in the morning. The summons was written in Hebrew and we could not read it but the soldier explained it to us. He did not give us any reasons as to why I was being summonsed.
3. Later that morning, at 9:00 a.m., my parents and I went to the police station in Etzion settlement as ordered. We waited by a door but then were told to go somewhere else. We went but they sent us back to the first place. Finally, two people came and took me inside and told my parents to go home. It was around 11:00 a.m.
4. I was taken to an interrogation room. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He did not phone a lawyer for me but told me I had the right to remain silent. I did not really understand what he meant.
5. Then he accused me of shooting at soldiers when they entered my village and throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at them. I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and was calm most of the time. He kept urging me to confess and, in the end, I confessed because I wanted to experience life in prison. When I confessed the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and the guard who searched me ordered me to crouch up and down. Then I was taken to the quarantine section for 14 days before being transferred to the minors' section. About three weeks later I was taken for another interrogation.
7. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of the same accusations but this time I denied them because the other detainees in prison advised me to do so. Then the interrogator wanted to know why I had changed my mind. I told him I confessed because I was scared. The interrogator was typing on his computer and had a camera in the room. He questioned me for about an hour and became aggressive when I denied the accusation. He did not ask me to sign any documents and after the interrogation I was taken back to the cell.

8. My first military court hearing was one day following my arrest. It was on zoom and my father attended. It was at the first hearing that I spoke to a lawyer for the first time. The military judge extended my detention. In all I had five military court hearings. A week before I was released I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one month in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a 10-month suspended sentence suspended for three years.
9. I was released on 28 November 2021, and I went home with the family of another prisoner and my family picked me up from there. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m. I did not have any family visits because I was released before the scheduled date of the visit. In prison I was bored.

Name: N.S.G.A.
Age: 15
Date: 11 November 2021
Location: Bethlehem, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, N.S.G.A. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Students at my school left school to mark the anniversary of the death of Arafat. A group of us went to a nearby Israeli military checkpoint. I was arrested there by soldiers. It was around noon. A female soldier grabbed me but I managed to escape. Then I wanted to help one of my friends escape from another soldier, but instead, I was captured by soldiers in civilian clothes. My friend ran away and did not help me.
2. One of the soldiers hit me hard with his pistol on the back of my neck. I lost consciousness. When I regained consciousness, I found myself near the checkpoint surrounded by lots of soldiers. I was handcuffed to the back with metal handcuffs which were painful. They played video footage on their mobile phones and tried to determine whether I took part in the demonstration or not. Then the captain told me I was under arrest.
3. Then the soldiers walked me towards the checkpoint. The female soldier who I escaped from recognized me and hit me on the back and in the stomach. One of the soldiers asked me for my father's telephone number and then called him and told him I was under arrest. I was left kneeling down for about one-and-a-half hours. Then I was taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba. We arrived there at around 3:00 p.m. I was taken in a jeep and I sat on a seat.
4. At Kiryat Arba I was taken to a room and I sat on a sofa. A soldier loosened the handcuffs. Then I spoke to a lawyer on the phone who told me not to be afraid. He also told me I had the right to ask for water and then asked me if I had been beaten. The conversation lasted a couple of minutes. Then a soldier hand cuffed me to the front and then, after about an hour, I was taken to an interrogation room.
5. The interrogator had a voice recorder on his desk. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and I denied the accusation. Then he showed me video footage which showed people throwing stones. I was questioned for about half an hour and the interrogator was calm. At the end I confessed to throwing stones. Then the interrogator asked me about the other boys. I told him I did not know them. Then he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I asked for a translation and then I signed.

6. Then they took my fingerprints and photograph and a DNA sample from my mouth. Then I was examined by a doctor who gave me a PCR test. I told him I was beaten up and he rubbed some cream on my back.
7. After the medical check I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to a cell the size of a small bathroom. It did not have any windows. There was a dim light which they sometimes turned off. I was left in this cell for one-and-a-half days.
8. In the middle of the second night I was transferred to another cell with another detainee who I suspected of being a collaborator. He asked me lots of detailed questions and I did not interact with him. He told me he was like my brother and wanted to know who was with me during the incident. He woke me up at midnight and started to ask me questions about other boys. I called the guard and asked to be removed from the cell because I could not sleep. I was transferred to another cell and three days later I was transferred to another section.
9. I had four military court hearings. The first one was on 24 November 2021, but I did not attend it because I was dizzy. The last hearing was on the day of my release. I was released on bail on 18 November 2021. My father had to pay NIS 6,000 shekels bail and another NIS 50,000 bond. I was also placed under house arrest but I was allowed to go to school accompanied by my father. The military judge released me because my mother had a nervous breakdown when I was in prison. He also wanted me to go back to school.
10. Since my release I have attended four court hearings. The court refunded NIS 2,500 and then later they refunded an additional NIS 1,000. I was given a suspended sentence of eight months in prison valid for five years.
11. I was released at Ofer on 18 November 2021 and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, I.K.M.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. to tell me that Israeli soldiers were in our house asking for me. I got up and went to the living room where I saw three soldiers. One of them told me they wanted to take me for five minutes and would bring me back. Then he gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with details about my arrest. Then he took a photo of my father holding the document.
2. Then they took me outside where I was blindfolded and my hands were tied to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not too tight but when I moved my wrists they got tighter. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. On the way soldiers pushed me around.
3. At Etzion I was given a quick medical examination. The doctor asked me to sign a document and when I refused a soldier slapped me. Then they replaced the hand ties with metal handcuffs and took me to a cell where I spent a whole day. At around 10:00 a.m. the following day I was taken for interrogation.
4. A soldier removed the blindfold and took me to the interrogation room where the interrogator removed the handcuffs. There was a camera in the room. He passed me a cigarette and asked me if I wanted some coffee. He did not call a lawyer for me but he called my father and asked him to bring the car I used during an incident.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator told me I knew the people who hunted gazelles in the hills and he wanted me to give him their name. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail out of a car I was in and then showed me video footage which showed the car. I denied the accusation.
6. Then my father arrived and he was allowed into the interrogation room. The interrogator told my father we were a good family without any security records. Then he asked my father for an explanation for my behaviour and my father told him I was psychologically frustrated. Then he told my father to leave.
7. Then the interrogator told me he was going to keep me there for as long as it took for me to confess. He questioned me for about one hour and fifteen minutes and I continued to deny the accusation. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I spent 13 days isolating with other boys. They wanted to strip search me but I refused and they searched me in my boxer shorts. The following day I had my first military court hearing on Zoom. My parents did not attend because they were not informed and my detention was extended.
9. On the eighth day I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator did not inform me of my rights and did not ask me any questions about the incident. Instead, he asked me if I wanted to cooperate with them after my release. He told me he would help me and my life conditions would improve if I agreed to work with him. I refused the offer and told him I had a job at the quarry and I did not need any help from anyone. The conversation lasted for about 15 minutes.
10. I had seven military court hearings and at the last one, which was 13 days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for five years. My lawyer encouraged me to accept the plea bargain and told me it was good and so I did because I wanted to go home.
11. I spent the rest of my sentence at Ofer. In prison I slept a lot and exercised. I did not have any family visits because the permit to visit was not issued in time. I did not have any phone calls. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 23 February 2022, and I went home with my family. I arrived home at around midnight. My father is keeping a close eye on me, he wants me to work to help the family financially.

I, A.M.K.S. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was grabbed by Israeli soldiers on the main road at around 4:00 p.m. At the time there were clashes taking place between soldiers and Palestinians. One of them swore at me and then tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not tight. Then he blindfolded me and walked me towards the nearby settlement.
2. When we arrived at the settlement I was left in a shipping container for about 10 hours. I sat on a chair and I could not sleep. The soldiers brought me some water but no food. A soldier slapped me on my face as he went by.
3. At around 2:00 a.m. I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. On arrival I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. The following morning I was taken to Salem for interrogation.
4. I was handcuffed but I was not blindfolded when I was taken into the interrogation room. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform and had a camera in the room. Before asking me any questions he phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer told me he would contact my parents and tell them where I was. We spoke for a couple of minutes while the interrogator was listening.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at settlers on the main road a few days earlier. I denied the accusation. The interrogator then yelled at me and told me I was a liar and showed me video footage of the incident. Then he threatened to lock me up in prison for a year if I did not confess. He questioned me for about 30 minutes.
6. In the end I gave a confession but I told the interrogator the incident occurred a couple of years ago and not recently. The interrogator then asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed after I made sure it said I threw stones at settlers a while ago. After the interrogation I was taken back to Megiddo.
7. My first military court hearing was two days after the interrogation. It was on zoom and my brother attended. Four days later I was taken for another interrogation.
8. I did not speak to a lawyer and was not informed of my right to silence during my second interrogation. The interrogator made me repeat what I had told the first interrogator. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents. A few days later I was interrogated a third time. I did not have access to a lawyer and was not informed of my right to silence. The interrogator asked me similar questions and did not ask me to sign any documents.

9. Three days later I was interrogated for the fourth time. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer told me I was going to be released soon and that he would see me in court. He also told me I had the right to remain silent. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and asked me questions about other boys in the village. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
10. In all I had about 15 court hearings. At the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and an additional year suspended for three years. I did not have to pay any fines.
11. I was released at Salem on 2 June 2022, and I went home with my father and uncle. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m. In prison I worked in the kitchen and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. My parents visited me three times.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.S.M.Q. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up when Israeli soldiers raided my friend's house next door and arrested him at around 2:30 a.m. When soldiers tried to enter my house I tried to stop them because my mother was still asleep. A soldier then grabbed me, kicked me on my legs and threw a small gas canister at me which hit me on my side. Then the soldiers went into our house and searched it for weapons but did not find anything. About 30 soldiers were in our house trashing our furniture and turning things upside down.
2. After searching our house the soldiers asked to see my identity card. When I showed it to them they told me I was under arrest. They did not say why and did not give my parents any documents. They spent about an hour inside our home. Then they took me outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with five plastic ties: two on each wrist and one connecting them in the middle. The ties were tight and painful and cut into my wrists until I bled. Later I was taken to a clinic where I was treated for the wounds. A soldier also blindfolded me and took me into a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor.
3. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a room until around 8:00 a.m. before being taken for interrogation. A soldier inside the interrogator's room removed the blindfold and the ties. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. I greeted him as I entered the room but he did not greet me back.
4. The interrogator refused to allow me to speak to my parents and did not phone a lawyer for me. He did not inform me of my right to silence and immediately started to question me. He asked me what I had done and then accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and a pipe bomb at the security camera outside the settlement of Migdal Oz. I denied the accusations. Then he wanted me to tell him where I had hidden the weapons. I told him I did not have any weapons. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and showed me video footage of the incident. Then he told me he would not release me until I confessed. At that point I felt I had to confess. I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail at the security camera.
5. After I confessed the interrogator phoned a lawyer and told him to represent me. I did not speak to the lawyer. He did not ask me to sign any documents. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell together with other boys. I spent 11 days there. My first military court hearing was on 8 February 2022. It was on zoom but my parents were not informed. My detention was extended.

6. I had six hearings. The last one was on 1 June 2022. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because otherwise I was facing 18 months in prison.
7. After spending 11 days in the cell at Etzion police station, I was transferred to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken into the minors' section. I spent a few weeks there and then I was transferred to Damoun prison and then Megiddo prison - both inside Israel.
8. I was given early release and left prison on 25 July 2022 at Salem checkpoint. I went home by myself because my family were not informed. In prison I had two family visits and I studied Arabic and mathematics and I exercised. While in Megiddo I phoned my family from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks.

1. I was home alone when Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 2:30 a.m. My parents were at the hospital taking care of my cousin. I heard a knock at the front door and before I could open it the soldiers had broken the front door and entered. I was still in bed.
2. Many soldiers entered our house from outside. One of the soldiers told me I was under arrest and asked me where I had hidden the weapons. I told him I had no weapons. Then they searched our house and turned it into a mess without finding anything.
3. Then they took me into the front porch where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with five plastic ties: two on each wrist and another connecting them in the middle. The ties were very tight and painful and my hands turned blue. I was also blindfolded. Then the soldiers led me through the neighbourhood for about 30 minutes to a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor. A soldier beat me with the back of his gun on my leg and back which hurt.
4. I was taken into a nearby military base where I was left in a room together with other boys. At around 8:00 a.m. a soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and took me to an interrogation room.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. Without informing me of any rights, the interrogator accused me of weapons possession and throwing pipe bombs. I denied the accusation. Then he told me he had video footage of the incident and showed me the video. I continued to deny the accusation. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me. At that point I felt I had to confess.
6. About half way through the interrogation, and before I confessed, the interrogator phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer told me not to worry and, god willing, he was going to help me. I asked him about my family because they were not home when I was arrested and he told me they were fine. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted about three minutes. I was questioned for about one-and-a-half hours and towards the end I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail at the security camera outside the settlement of Migdal Oz. The interrogator did not ask me to sign any documents.
7. I later found out that the area commander had called my father on the day when I was arrested and threatened to arrest him and summoned him to his office. My father went. The commander told my father he was going to put me under administrative detention.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell at the police station in Etzion settlement with the other boys implicated in the same incident. I spent 11 days there. During this time, I had my first military court hearing on 8 February 2022. It was conducted on zoom but my parents did not attend because they were not informed. My detention was extended.
9. I had six military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 1 June 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. Accusation: Preparing Molotov cocktails

I, F.F.M.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was woken up by the sound of loud banging at our front door. It was around 3:00 a.m. Suddenly about 20 Israeli soldiers broke open our front door and came into our home. They spoke to my father in Hebrew. I did not understand what they were telling him.
2. The soldiers came into my bedroom but did not allow my parents to follow. They searched my bedroom taking my clothes out of the wardrobe and throwing them on the floor. Then one of the soldiers asked me for my identity card and my telephone. When I did not cooperate, he slapped me on the face and kicked me on my legs.
3. A short time later one of the soldiers told me I was under arrest. He did not say what for and did not give me or my parents any documents. They allowed me to get dressed and then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were painful and left marks on my wrists. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside our house.
4. Once outside the soldiers walked me towards the military gate at the entrance to our village where a troop carrier was waiting. I was then taken to the back of the troop carrier and made me sit on the metal floor. Inside the troop carrier the soldiers swore at me.
5. They drove me to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a shipping container for about four hours. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the ties and the blindfold. He wore civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He calmed me down and treated me with respect because the soldiers who brought me in were rough with me. He offered me some food. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer spoke to me for about two minutes. I think he was hinting that I should not confess. He told me to focus and be careful what I say. The interrogator could only hear me but not the lawyer.
7. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator asked me what I had done. He gave me a specific date and then accused me of preparing a Molotov cocktail and damaging a security camera at the entrance to the nearby settlement. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and told me my file was complete. I felt I had no choice but to confess and I did.
8. The interrogator questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. Most of the time he wanted information about people from my village. He told me although I had confessed, he wanted to keep me in his room for more information about the village and what people do. He was calm most of the time. At the end, he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding what was written in it.

9. After the interrogation I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell at Etzion where I spent 11 days together with two other boys. During this time, I had three military court hearings. The first one was on the second day after my arrest. It was conducted on zoom but my parents were not present because they were not informed. My detention was extended.
10. I had about 10 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 16 May 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer advised me to.
11. After spending 11 days in the cell at Etzion police station, I was transferred to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section where I spent the rest of my prison sentence.
12. In prison I worked in the kitchen and cleaned the ward and I was in charge of distributing food to the other prisoners. I had seven family visits and I attended classes in mathematics. I wanted to study Hebrew but there were no Hebrew classes.
13. I was given early release from Ofer on 17 July 2022 and I went home with my family. I arrived home in the evening and had dinner with my family and some friends. I left school when I was in eighth grade and now I am looking for a job but I cannot find one.

Name: M.T.M.N.
Age: 16
Date: 7 February 2022
Location: Al Fawwar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.T.M.N. of Al Fawwar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on a hill where a group of young men were throwing stones at settlers. At around 5:00 p.m. a group of Israeli soldiers grabbed me. They accused me of taking part in the clashes. One of the soldiers beat me on my arms and legs and slapped me on the face. Then more soldiers arrived in a military jeep. One soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: One on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were so tight that I felt my wrists were going to be cut off. The ties left marks on my wrists for weeks.
2. Then the soldiers took me to a nearby military watchtower and left me there for about two hours. Then I was taken in a car to Etzion police station where I was left in a shipping container and the air conditioner was turned on very cold. In the car I sat on a seat. The soldiers did not allow me to fall asleep and kicked me to wake me up. Later in the night I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties and shackled me. He was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. Before asking me any questions he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on the phone. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and that the accusations were not serious. The interrogator was listening on speaker phone and when I asked him to turn it off he refused. My conversation with the lawyer lasted less than three minutes.
4. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at settlers. When I denied the accusation, he yelled at me and told me I had to confess. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He repeated the same accusation again and slapped me when I did not answer him. Then I told him I was walking in the area where boys were running away from soldiers. When I told him I did not throw stones he told me I was a liar.
5. Then he showed me video footage in which a boy was wearing a similar shirt to mine. The interrogator told me that boy was me but I denied it. Then he slapped me again. He questioned me for about two hours and did not ask me to sign any documents. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts and then I was taken to a cell with other boys.
6. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My brother attended and my detention was extended. After court I was taken for a second interrogation. This time the interrogator did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He repeated the same accusation and when I denied it he called another interrogator who was very aggressive. He told me because my friend had confessed, they sent him home. He threatened if I did not confess he was going to send me to prison. I was questioned for about an hour and I was not asked to sign any documents.

7. I was questioned on a daily basis during the following 11 days. I was not allowed to speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence. On the eleventh day I confessed because I was tired and fed up. The interrogator showed me lots of video footage and wanted me to give him all the names of the boys seen in the footage. When I told him I did not know the name of a particular boy, he wrote down my name as if I was the one who was seen throwing stones.
8. After spending 11 days at Etzion, I was transferred to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
9. I had about 15 military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was about a month before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one year in prison, in addition to another year suspended for two years. My parents were not fined. I accepted this plea bargain because otherwise I was facing two years in prison.
10. I spent all my prison sentence in Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. My parents visited me four times. I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics but I did not find them useful, the lessons were a waste of time.
11. I was given an early release. I was released on 5 December 2022, at Beit Sira checkpoint. My parents had no idea I was going to be released on that day, so I took a taxi to my brother's house. I arrived at his house in the evening. My brother took me out for dinner and drove me home the following day.

Name: I.A.M.T.
Age: 16
Date: 10 February 2022
Location: Bethlehem, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Entering Jerusalem without a permit

I, I.A.M.T. of Bethlehem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was near the Israeli settlement of Gilo trying to access Jerusalem to go and pray at the mosque. It was around 3:00 p.m. Two Israeli policemen stopped me near the settlement and checked my identity card. When they realised I did not have a permit to enter Jerusalem they told me I was under arrest.
2. They took me to a police car where I sat on a seat and they drove me to Al Mascobiyyeh police station, in West Jerusalem. They did not tie or blindfold me.
3. At the police station I was strip searched and then I was taken to a room where I waited for a couple of hours. Then I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform. He asked me what I was doing in Jerusalem and I told him I wanted to pray at the mosque. He questioned me without allowing to speak to a lawyer or informing me of my right to silence. The interrogation lasted for about 10 minutes and then I was taken back to the room. The interrogator did not ask me to sign any documents.
5. Three days later I was taken to a court in Jerusalem. The judge decided to release me in return for a fine of NIS 3,000 which my uncle paid.
6. I was released on 12 February 2022, at Checkpoint 300, at the entrance to Bethlehem, and I went home by myself. I arrived home at around noon.

Name: Y.F.A.H.
Age: 16
Date: 11 February 2022
Location: Beit Furik, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.F.A.H. of Beit Furik, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers grabbed me on the bypass road near the settlement of Itamar at around 4:00 p.m. The soldiers got out of four military jeeps and chased me. Then an Israeli settler, who was in the area, started shooting in my direction. I was terrified. A soldier then fired two bullets in the air and said if I did not stop running he would shoot me. I immediately stopped and felt trapped as soldiers surrounded me from all directions.
2. The military commander came up to me and started swearing, calling me "a son of a whore". He was yelling and wanted me to give him the names of the other boys who were with me. Then he told the settler, who was still there, to shoot me if I did not give him the names. The settler cocked his gun as if he was going to shoot me. I immediately gave the commander some names because I was terrified.
3. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. He also blindfolded me. The soldier then lifted my shirt up to search me and took photos of me on his mobile phone. Then the soldiers took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. We then drove to Huwwara military base.
4. On arrival at Huwwara I was taken to a shipping container and the soldiers told me to kneel down and left me in that position until around 6:00 a.m. I was not given any food or drink and was not allowed to use the toilet. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He did not call a lawyer for me and told me I had to answer all his questions. He warned me if I refused to answer the questions and remained silent he was going to consider me guilty.
6. Then he told me a boy had confessed against me and that I had no space for maneuvering and that I had to confess. He told me I was accused of hitting a settler car with a sling shot. At first, I denied the accusation but then the interrogator yelled at me and accused me of lying and told me he was not going to believe anything I said. Then he told me if I did not confess he was going to let me die in prison. I was scared and confessed to throwing stones at settlers which missed.
7. Then the interrogator asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew. When I asked for a translation the interrogator refused and told me I had to sign. I signed electronically on an iPad. The interrogator was aggressive and when I went home I found out my father's work permit had been revoked.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Huwwara military base where I spent eight days in a cell with another detainee. The weather was cold and they left the window open in the cell. On the second day I was taken to a military court where I saw a lawyer for the first time. He told me he had contacted my family and reassured them about me. My parents were not at the first hearing and the military judge extended my detention.
9. After spending eight days at Huwwara I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched before being taken to the quarantine section where I spent four days with other detainees who were mentally disturbed. Lots of CCTV cameras were installed to keep an eye on us.
10. I had six military court hearings. Two weeks before I was released I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received an additional eight months in prison suspended for three years. My lawyer told me if I rejected the plea bargain I would be sentenced to longer time in prison.
11. After spending four days in the quarantine section I was transferred to the minors' section in Megiddo where I spent the rest of my prison sentence.
12. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 24 February 2022. My parents were told to wait for me at Al Jalama checkpoint. I called them and they picked me up. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m.
13. In prison I was bored. I did not have any family visits because the permit for my parents to visits was not issued in time. I was allowed to call home from a phone provided by the prison authorities twice a month.
14. I did not do well at school and failed my exams; that is why I now work at a barber's shop.

Name: S.O.R.G.
Age: 16
Date: 22 February 2022
Location: Al Jalazun refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, S.O.R.G. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers broke into our home at around 4:00 a.m. without making any sound. They quietly opened our front door using a special device and entered while we were asleep. I woke up to the sound of soldiers inside our house.
2. One of the soldiers called my name and asked my parents about me. Then he asked to see my identity card. Then he told my father I was under arrest and gave him a document filled out in Hebrew. He did not tell us the reason for the arrest.
3. Then they searched our house and caused damage to the furniture and the walls. They said they were looking for weapons but did not find anything. After spending about 15 minutes inside our house one of the soldiers tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful. My hands swelled and turned blue.
4. Then they walked me towards the settlement of Bet El. On the way soldiers slapped me on the face and kicked me in my legs. They also swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". One of them also struck me on the head with the back of his gun. At the entrance to the settlement a soldier blindfolded me then they took me into a fenced outdoor area and left me there for about two hours. After two hours I was put in a troop carrier and taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I sat on a seat.
5. At Binyamin I was taken to a small cell for a day. The cell measured about 1 x 1 meters and did not have any windows. It had a dim light. I slept on a small chair. I was not given any food and was not allowed to use the toilet but I was given some water. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. I was handcuffed but a soldier removed the blindfold. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer and then he phoned a lawyer for me. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent and told me not to be afraid. We spoke for about a minute.
7. The interrogator asked me what I had done and did not inform me of my right to silence. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at the settlement. He gave me a specific date for the incident. I denied the accusation. Then he showed me some photographs and thumped the table and told me to confess. He questioned me for about three hours and was aggressive. He raised his voice and accused me of lying. In the end I confessed. After confessing the interrogator asked me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
9. My first military court hearing was the following day. It was on zoom and my parents did not attend because they did not know I had a hearing on that day. My detention was extended. I had about 10 hearings. About a month before I was released I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence but I don't know the details. My father was able to get my sentence reduced by one month by paying another NIS 1,000.
10. About three weeks before I was released I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. I did not have any family visits and I am not sure why. In prison I exercised and took lots of showers. I was given early release on 10 April 2022 and I was released at Salem checkpoint. I went home in a taxi; my parents were not there to meet me. I arrived home in the evening and my father paid the taxi driver.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, D.E.J.L. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:30 a.m. My mother woke me up and told me Israeli soldiers were in our home. I got up and went to the living room where I found eight soldiers in full military gear. They did not say anything except to tell us they had come to arrest me. I think they gave my father a document with details about my arrest, but I am not sure.
2. The soldiers did not give me time to dress. I managed to put my boots on and then I was taken outside in my pajamas. Once outside a soldier tied my hands to the back with one plastic tie which he tightened hard. I was in pain and the tie left marks on my wrists for two weeks. He also blindfolded me. Then I was led to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur where they left me on the ground until around 7:00 a.m.
3. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to a vehicle and driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was given a quick medical examination and then I was taken to a cell where I remained until around noon the following day.
4. At around noon the following day I was taken to Ofer interrogation centre, near Jerusalem, in a troop carrier. At Ofer I was searched in my clothes and then I was taken to a waiting room. At around 3:30 p.m. a guard removed the blindfold and the tie and I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer and I told him there was no need. He did not inform me of my right to silence and told me I had to answer all the questions he was about to ask me.
6. The interrogator told me my friends had confessed against me and told him I threw stones and other objects at soldiers. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was aggressive and thumped the table when I denied the accusation. He also swore at me.
7. The interrogator questioned me for about 20 minutes and behaved like he was in a hurry. He gave me a specific date for the incident but I continued to deny the accusation. At the end he translated a document written in Hebrew and read it out to me and then asked me to sign it. I signed after I realised it was identical to what I had said, especially that I had denied the accusation.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell where I spent nine days with another boy. During this time, I had two military court hearings. My parents did not attend the first hearing because they were not notified but they were at the second one. Both hearings were conducted on zoom and the military judge decided to extend my detention.

9. After nine days I was taken to Ofer prison. I was searched with my trousers on before being taken to section 13.
10. I had five military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 22 May 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for five years. Included in the eight months prison sentence were two months of a previous suspended sentence. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer encouraged me to and told me it was a good deal.
11. On the 16 June 2022, I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel, where the conditions were better than at Ofer. In prison I helped keep the ward clean and I distributed food to the other prisoners. I also exercised and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. I had three family visits and I called home twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.
12. I was released on 6 October 2022. I dropped out of school a while ago and now I am looking for a job to support my family.

Name: D.A.I.O.
Age: 16
Date: 27 February 2022
Location: Abu Dis, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails / pipe bombs

I, D.A.I.O. of Abu Dis, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Five days before I was arrested, a group of Israeli special forces raided our home at around 2:00 a.m. I was at work at the time. I was told later that they broke open our front door with a device and about 15 masked soldiers entered our house. They had a person who filmed everything.
2. One of the soldiers asked for me and when my father told him I was not home they went crazy. They forced my mother to call me and say I had 5 minutes to come home and if I did not they were going to arrest my parents and my two younger siblings. When my younger sister, who is 11 years old, heard the threat, she was terrified and started to cry. Until today she refuses to sleep in her own bed for fear that the soldiers might raid our house again and make arrests.
3. The soldiers searched our house and my bedroom. Then they hand tied my father and took him away in the military jeep. They drove him around for about five hours before bringing him back. Then the soldiers went to the coffee shop where I worked, looking for me but I was not there. They arrested the guard and questioned him about me. Later that day the military commander called my father and threatened that if he did not hand me over, the commander himself was going to hand me over to my father. We think he implied that he was going to bring me back home dead.
4. The commander called my father again and made a similar threat. Then my father convinced me to turn myself in. I went with my father to the roundabout in front of the settlement of Ma'aleh Adumim as instructed. Two military jeeps showed up and told my father to go home. The soldiers handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs which were tight and painful. Then they shackled my feet and blindfolded me and took me in a jeep where I sat on a seat. I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where I was left outdoors in the cold until around 1:00 p.m. and then I was taken for interrogation.
5. A soldier removed the blindfold but kept my handcuffs and shackles on. Then he took me to an interrogation room where a female interrogator was waiting for me. She did not speak good Arabic and spoke to me through an interpreter. She was wearing civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. She did not call a lawyer for me but told me I had the right to remain silent. Then she warned that if I choose to remain silent the court would interpret it as a confession.

6. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones, pipe bombs and Molotov cocktails. She gave me a specific date and showed me pictures of the incident. I denied the accusation. Then she asked me why I was tense if I did not do anything wrong. I told her I was not tense. Then she threatened to arrest my parents if I did not confess. I told her I did not care.
7. Then she pointed to a person in one of the photos and told me it was me. I denied it was me. Then she asked me for the names of the boys in the photo. I did not give any names. She questioned me for about three hours and at the end she asked me to sign documents in Arabic. I read them then I signed.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to another room where they took my fingerprints and photograph before taking me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived at Ofer at around 5:00 p.m. I was searched in my boxer shorts before being put in section 13 with the minors.
9. I later found out that while I was being interrogated, the military commander summoned my father. They told him to go to Qalandia checkpoint and someone would pick him up from there. My father was scared because he thought something had happened to me. At Qalandiya they handcuffed my father and took him to Atarot where an interrogator showed him my identity card and asked him to identify me.
10. Two days later I had my first military court hearing. My father's friend was there and my detention was extended. I had five hearings. At the last one, which was on 19 June 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 10 months in prison and an addition six months for a suspended sentence from a previous arrest. I was also fined NIS 500 and given another six months suspended for three years.
11. I spent one month in Ofer prison and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. Ten months later I was transferred to Megiddo. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 29 May 2023 and went home with my father and some of my friends. I arrived home in the evening.
12. My parents visited me nine times and I was allowed to call home while I was still a minor once every two weeks from a telephone provided by the prison. In prison I worked in the kitchen and in the Cantina. I did not attend classes because they were useless.

Accusation: Protesting

I, M.I.M.Q. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was fast asleep when I heard aggressive banging at our front door. It was at around 2:00 a.m. I knew it was Israeli soldiers so I stayed in bed. My father then came and told me to get up and then he opened the door. Ten soldiers entered our home with lots more outside.
2. The commander took my identity card and then took a photo of me. He then told me to sit on the floor near the front door. Then he took my father aside and started to talk to him. He asked him for my telephone. My father asked me to hand over my telephone.
3. At first, I refused but when the commander threatened to trash the house I gave it to him. He asked me to turn my phone on and he looked at the photos and found one which he did not like. He questioned me about it and then told me to get dressed because I was under arrest. I am not sure whether they gave my parents any documents, if they did, I did not see it.
4. Once outside a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: One on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not too tight and the commander tried to treat me with respect. Then I was blindfolded and taken on foot to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur. I was tied and blindfolded so it was not easy to walk. On the way the commander started to question me without informing me of my rights. He pressed my hands to make me tell him what I had done.
5. At the settlement I was left outdoors for about two hours. Then I was picked up in a white car which took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I arrived there at around 6:00 a.m. and I was taken to a room where I waited until 10:00 a.m. I slept during this time and then I was taken in another car to Ofer for interrogation. I was questioned at around 4:00 p.m. and I was still without any food. I was hungry during the interrogation.
6. Just before I was taken to the interrogation room a soldier removed the ties and the blindfold. Then he shackled my feet. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He allowed me to speak to a lawyer over the telephone. The lawyer told me to take care of myself. The interrogator was listening on speaker phone and I only spoke to the lawyer for about a minute.
7. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and did not show me any documents about my rights. He told me other boys had confessed against me saying I had taken part in a protest following the funeral of someone killed by the Israelis. I denied the accusation. He named the boys and I continued to deny the accusation.

8. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and was aggressive and thumped the desk to scare me. He told me he was not too worried if I continued to deny the accusation because he had enough evidence to convict me even if I did not confess. He threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time if I did not confess. He then left the room and went to the next room and started to shout at another detainee. I think he wanted to scare me and mess with my mind. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
9. Then I waited in a room until around 6:00 p.m. when I was given something to eat for the first time since my arrest at 2:00 a.m. Then I was taken to a cell where I was left with another boy. I spent nine days there and I had two military court hearings during this time. My first hearing was on the third day following my arrest and my parents were not informed.
10. I had about 10 court hearings. At the last one, which was on 10 February 2023, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 14 months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison suspended for three years.
11. After spending nine days at Etzion I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I stayed at Ofer until 30 May 2022, and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. On 5 August 2022, I was transferred to Rimon prison and I was released from there.
12. In prison I distributed food to the other prisoners and cooked in the kitchen. I was allowed to call home twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities. My family visited me only twice because it took six months for the visiting permit to be issued.
13. During this time my parents wanted to take my 10-year old brother to a hospital in Israel for treatment but the authorities refused to issue them a permit. My parents applied again and the commander called my father and told him he was going to give my mother and younger brother a permit to enter Israel for humanitarian reasons, but not him. My brother was turned back three times at the checkpoint before he was finally allowed to cross with my mother.
14. I was released on 30 March 2023, after being granted early release. My father and brother met me at Thayriyeh checkpoint and took me home. We arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

1. My mother woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our neighbourhood. Soon afterwards I heard loud banging at the front door. My sister opened the door and about 10 soldiers entered our home. I could not believe what was happening.
2. One of the soldiers asked me for my name and then told me to prepare myself because I was under arrest. My mother was upset and she tried to protect me but a soldier pushed her back aggressively. He also kicked my uncle who also tried to intervene.
3. As soon as I was dressed I was dragged outside where a military jeep was waiting. A soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was not painful. Then he blindfolded me and took me to the back of the jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to the nearby military base at the entrance to the village of Beit Jala.
4. On arrival at the base I was taken to a room with some other boys where we remained until around 5:30 a.m. At around 5:30 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I waited in a room until around noon before being taken for interrogation.
5. A soldier removed the tie and the blindfold before I was taken to the interrogation room. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. I told the interrogator I wanted to speak to a lawyer. He first allowed me to speak to my mother and then he phoned a lawyer for me. Before I said a word to the lawyer, the interrogator hung up and told me I had already spoken to my mother which was enough.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator told me I had to be frank with him and tell him everything. Then he offered me some coffee and I accepted it. Then he accused me of setting a settler car on fire and of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail on Route 60. I denied the accusations. He ignored my answers and asked me who else was with me at the time.
7. Later the interrogator told me my friends had confessed against me. I continued to deny the accusations. Then he changed his attitude and became angry. He threatened to leave me in prison for a long time if I did not confess. Then he made me stand against the wall and asked me whether I was going to tell him the truth. He told me that all Israel needs is stability and peace and people like me disturb the peace. He kept pressing me to confess and told me otherwise I would spend three years in prison. He shouted at me and accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail. When I told him I had no idea how to make a Molotov cocktail he told me exactly how to make one.

8. In the end I confessed to throwing one stone at a military jeep from a distance of 20 meters. He told me I was a liar and asked me whether I threw only one stone. I told him I threw two stones. He accused me of lying again. In the end I confessed to throwing seven stones.
9. The interrogator questioned me for about 45 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign documents in Hebrew. When I refused to sign something I did not understand he told me it was my statement and insisted that I should sign - so I signed.
10. After the first interrogation I was taken to see another interrogator in another room. This one did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. This interrogator wanted me to confess against other boys and in return he implied I would be released. I did not believe him. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and all he wanted from me was a confession against other boys. I did not confess against anyone. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
11. After the second interrogation I was tied and blindfolded and taken to another room where they made me stand against a wall for about three hours. Then two female soldiers walked me around the police station for a long time. They made me walk slowly, up and down stairs, sat me down then walked me again. I was tied and blindfolded and found it difficult to walk. When I pulled the blindfold down a soldier put it back on aggressively. They walked me aimlessly for a long time.
12. Then I was taken to the main gate where I was left on the ground for about two hours. I was with another boy and a young man. Then they took the boy and the man away and left me by myself for another two hours. Then I was taken into a troop carrier to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
13. About a week later I was taken for a third interrogation. This time I was allowed to speak to a lawyer before I was questioned. The lawyer told me to be careful what I say and to think before I say anything. The interrogator was listening to the conversation with the lawyer which lasted less than two minutes. Then the interrogator allowed me to speak to my mother who told me not to confess.
14. After I spoke to my mother the interrogator told me not to listen to my mother's advice. He accused me of the same accusations without informing me of my right to silence. He told me to confess to all the accusations and to repeat what I had told the first interrogator. I denied everything and told him I confessed to the first interrogator because I was scared and sleep deprived and because he put me under pressure. He was calm and questioned me for about 30 minutes and asked me to sign a document in Hebrew and I did. After the interrogation I was taken to a waiting room before being taken back to Ofer.

15. My first military court hearing was on my second day at Ofer. It was conducted on zoom and my mother and grandfather attended. My detention was extended. I had four more hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given another four months in prions suspended for a year. My parents also paid another NIS 3,000 to reduce my sentence.
16. I was released on 21 March 2022 and I went home with my parents and other relatives. I was released at Ofer and I arrived home at around midnight.

Name: H.A.M.Q.
Age: 17
Date: 7 March 2022
Location: Al Khader, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, H.A.M.Q. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 3:00 a.m. I was not at home at the time. Instead, the soldiers took my older brother and told him they were not going to release him until I turned myself in. In the morning, at around 9:00 a.m. we went to the police station in Etzion settlement to hand myself in. I went with my father, my brother, my sister and my uncle. We waited by the gate until around 12:30 p.m. and then a soldier took me inside, released my older brother and sent my family home.
2. Inside the police station I was cuffed to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were painful. Then I was taken to an interrogation room.
3. The interrogator asked me whether I needed a lawyer. I asked him why he thought I needed a lawyer and he explained to me. Then I told him I did not need a lawyer because I had not done anything wrong. I thought if I accepted a lawyer this would incriminate me.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. Without informing me of my right to silence he told me he had information I took part in clashes with soldiers together with other boys and that I threw a Molotov cocktail. When I denied the accusation, he told me he had photographic evidence against me. I continued to deny the accusation. Then he threatened to sentence me for a year in prison if I did not confess.
5. Later the interrogator told me my friends had confessed against me. He urged me to confess and made me feel I had no choice. Then I confessed to throwing two stones from a distance of 300 meters. After confessing the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding anything.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell together with other boys where I spent 11 days. On the sixth day I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to speak and not to confess. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted about two minutes. I did not feel comfortable telling the lawyer everything.
6. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He did not inform me of my right to remain silent. He was aggressive and asked me whether I frequently went to the mosque to pray. He accused me of throwing stones and wanted to know the distance from which I had thrown the stones. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and wanted me to give information about other boys. I denied the accusation and did not give information about anyone. At the end he made me sign a document written in Hebrew which I did not understand.

7. On the third day I had a military court hearing which my parents did not attend because they were not informed. My detention was extended. After spending 11 days at Etzion police station I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
8. I had another military court hearing in which I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given another three months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because otherwise I was told I would spend 14 months in prison.
9. In prison I exercised and took drawing and Hebrew lessons. I only had one family visit because I told my parents not to visit to save them the hassle and also because I was going to be released within 10 days of the second visit.
10. I was released at Al-Jib checkpoint on 23 May 2022, but my parents were told to wait by Ofer gate. They waited a long time and then got fed up and went home. I took a taxi and went home by myself. I arrived home at around 2:00 a.m. My parents were happy to see me home.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.H.M.A. of Al Khader, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There was a loud bang at our front door at around 2:30 a.m. My father opened the door and found five Israeli soldiers outside. They came into our house and asked my father for the names of his children and then checked our identity cards. When my father named me one of the soldiers told him they wanted to take me for a short while for questioning and then they would bring me home. He did not say the reason for my arrest but gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with some details..
2. About 15 minutes later the soldiers took me outside where a soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. He also blindfolded me before taking me to the back of a troop carrier where I sat on the metal floor.
3. I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was taken to a room with another detainee. I was left there until around 6:00 a.m. Then a soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and took me for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to be aware of being "tricked" by the interrogator. The conversation lasted for a couple of minutes with the interrogator was listening.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me if throwing stones. He told me other boys had confessed against me and he named the boys. I denied the accusation. He threatened to arrest my brothers and to revoke my family's work permit if I did not confess. In the beginning he was calm but then he became aggressive when I refused to confess. He questioned me for about an hour. I was not asked to sign any documents.
6. After the interrogation I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell. A couple of hours later I was taken for another interrogation. This time I did not speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence. The interrogator was wearing a T-shirt and jeans and had a camera in the room. He questioned me for 15 minutes and asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. I signed. After the interrogation I was taken back to the cell.

7. I spent nine days in the cell with two other detainees. During this time, I had three military court hearings which were conducted on Zoom. My parents did not attend the first hearing because they were not informed about it.
8. After spending nine days at Etzion, I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
9. In all I had five military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given another three months in prison suspended for one year. My father was able to reduce my sentence by three months by paying an extra NIS 3,000 on top of the NIS 1,000 fine. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home the following day.
10. I was given an early release and was released at Ofer checkpoint on 22 March 2022. I went home with my father. We arrived home at around midnight. I have dropped out of school because my school is close to the by-pass road used by settlers and clashes with settlers and soldiers occur almost on a daily basis.

Date: 7 March 2022
Location: Shuqba, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Incitement

I, K.A.A.M. of Shuqba, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our house at around 3:30 a.m. I woke up to the sound of aggressive banging at our front door. My father answered and about 25 soldiers entered our home. They searched our house without causing any damage and then the commander told my father he wanted to arrest me. He said they wanted to question me about my Facebook page. Then the commander gave my father a document with information about my arrest written in Hebrew.
2. Then the soldiers took me outside and put me in the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Soldiers in the jeep beat me with the back of their guns on my shoulder and back. They also called me "a son of a whore". Inside the jeep a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful.
3. The jeep drove to the nearby checkpoint near Rantis where I was put in a shipping container. I was left there until around noon and then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was taken to a cell and the following morning, I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator questioned me while I was handcuffed. He was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He did not allow me to call a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of incitement on Facebook. At first I denied the accusation but when he showed me my Facebook page I agreed that the page was mine. He questioned me for about an hour and at the end he asked me to sign a document in Arabic but I refused to sign.
5. After the interrogation I was taken to a cell where I stayed for nine days with one other boy, sometimes two boys. The following day I was taken to a military court. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. My detention was extended.
6. I had about nine court hearings. At the last one, which was about four months before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one year in prison. I also received a suspended sentence. I don't think my parents were fined because our economic situation is not good. My lawyer told me to accept the plea bargain and I did.
7. After spending nine days at Etzion I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched and then I was taken to the minors' section. I spent a couple of months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Rimon prison, and then to the Negev, both inside Israel.

8. In prison I helped keep my ward clean and I exercised and chatted to the other detainees. I had three family visits and I was allowed to call home twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.
9. I was released at Al Thahriyeh checkpoint on 7 February 2023, and I went home with my father and brother. We arrived home at around 8:00 p.m. In prison I missed my family, this was the hardest thing of all. I don't go to school anymore, I dropped out after sixth grade because I was not a good student, I found it hard.

Name: F.A.F.I.
Age: 17
Date: 7 March 2022
Location: Abu Dis, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, F.A.F.I. of Abu Dis, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes between Palestinian boys and Israeli soldiers in my town. Some boys were throwing stones at the soldiers from a roof top. It was around 1:00 p.m. I was on the roof top. A soldier fired gun shots in my direction and I was hit with shrapnel in my right cheek. Then, about 30 soldiers came up to the roof and started to kick and beat us with their fists and the back of their guns. I was bleeding while a soldier was beating me.
2. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. He also covered my eyes with a mask and then took me downstairs and pushed me into the back of a military jeep. When I sat on a seat a soldier slapped me and pushed me down on the metal floor, on top of the other boys whom they had arrested with me.
3. Then they took me to a military base and left me outdoors for about an hour. They took a picture of me and then took me for a medical examination. The doctor asked me what was wrong with my cheek and I told him. Then I was put in a shipping container until around 11:00 p.m. At around 11:00 p.m. I was taken to Hadassah hospital in Jerusalem where they took a CT scan of me. Then they took me to another hospital where a doctor gave me an anesthetic and tried to remove the shrapnel from my face but he did not succeed. I was handcuffed and shackle in the hospital.
4. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I had a military court hearing on Zoom because of the Corona regulations. My father and friend attended the hearing and my detention was extended.
5. Five days after me arrest I was taken for interrogation. It was around 11:00 a.m. The interrogator was civilian clothes. He turned a voice recorder on and I noticed he also had a camera in the room. He called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to her on the phone. She told me to deny everything and not to speak. The interrogator was not listening to the phone call which lasted less than a minute.
6. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and wanted to know the names of the other boys who were with me. I denied the accusation and did not give any names. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and told me soldiers had testified against me.

7. Then he told me the other boys who were arrested with me were sent home because they all confessed. He was calm and asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign because I did not understand what was written in it. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
8. The following day I was taken for another interrogation. It was the same interrogator as the first time. He called the same lawyer and allowed me to speak to her. She told me it was no big deal and said I was going to be released soon. The interrogator turned the speaker phone on but I don't think he was paying attention. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room.
9. This time the interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing stones and I denied it. He questioned me for about 10 minutes and then asked me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign again. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer.
10. Two days later I had a third interrogation. This time I was questioned by two interrogators. I was allowed to speak to a lawyer on the telephone before they started to question me. Then, one of the interrogators told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he showed me photographs of the incident and pointed to one of the boys who was throwing stones and told me it was me. I denied the accusation. I was questioned for about 30 minutes and I was asked to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign again.
11. I had about 10 military court hearings. My lawyer agreed on a plea bargain with the prosecutor but the military judge rejected it. He claimed I was accused of a serious offence which could have killed a soldier like the incident at Al Amari refugee camp in which a soldier was killed when a brick was thrown from a roof top.
12. Then my case came before a new judge who accepted a plea bargain in which I was sentenced to six months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of two years, suspended for two years. I accepted the plea bargain because it was better than 18 months in prison which the prosecutor wanted.
13. I spent all my prison term at Ofer. I passed the time reading and exercising. My parents visited me four times. I called home once from a phone provided by the prison authorities before I turned 18.
14. I was released at Ofer on 23 August. A judge refused to grant me early release because of the seriousness of my charge. My father took me home and I arrived home at around 8:00pm. We did not celebrate because of a funeral of a relative which took place on the same day when I was released. I had Sfeha and stuffed leaves for dinner and then I went to bed.

Accusation: Administrative Detention

I, N.B.U.U. of Qabatiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of Israeli soldiers banging aggressively at our front door. My father answered and about 25 soldiers entered our home, half of who were masked. The commander spoke to my father and asked him about me. My younger brother, who is 10 years old, was terrified when he saw masked soldiers in our home.
2. The commander asked to see my identity card and then told me I was under arrest. He did not give my parents any documents and did not say why he wanted to arrest me. The soldiers also searched our house for about 20 minutes.
3. After about 20 minutes a soldier took me outside where he blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties: one on each wrist and the ties were connected together in the middle like a chain. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a month.
4. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep and the soldiers allowed me to sit on a seat. Inside the jeep a military paramedic gave me a quick medical examination. Then I was taken to Salem interrogation centre, near Jenin. I arrived there around 4:00 p.m. The trip to Salem took a long time and I was exhausted. I was not given any food or drink. I was hungry and sleepy. At around 4:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. A soldier removed the ties and the blindfold. Then he handcuffed me to the back with metal handcuffs and took me to the interrogation room. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes. He tried calling a lawyer but the lawyer did not answer. Then he called my father and told him to appoint a lawyer for me.
6. The interrogator then asked me whether I had thrown stones or Molotov cocktails or shot at anyone. I told him I had not. He did not inform me of my right to silence and did not say he had any evidence against me. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and was mostly calm; he did not shout at me and did not threaten me. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. Two days later I had my first military court hearing at Salem court. My father attended and my detention was extended for more interrogation.

8. After court I was taken for another interrogation. I did not speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence. The interrogator was calm and asked me the same questions as the first interrogator. He questioned me for about 15 minutes and asked me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign something I did not understand.
9. I had five court hearings in all. At the fifth one I was handed an administrative detention order for four months based on secret evidence. I was devastated because it meant I could not defend myself because I was not told what I was accused of.
10. A day before I completed my administrative detention and was ready to go home I was handed another administrative detention order for another four months. My spirit was crushed. Then again, 10 days before I completed my second four months in administrative detention I was handed another four-month extension. It was unbearable.
11. I spent eight months at the minors' section and when I turned 18 I was transferred to the adults' section. The last week in prison I was transferred to Nafha prison in the desert in Israel.
12. My parents visited me about 10 times and I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a month when I was a minor. The phone calls stopped when I turned 18. I passed the time exercising and lifting weights and I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics.
13. On my last day in prison I could no longer wait. It was the longest day in my life, waiting to see if I was going to be released or handed another administrative detention. I was released at Athahiriya checkpoint on 14 March 2023. My father and brother were waiting for me at the checkpoint and took me home. I arrived home at around midnight. I was exhausted. I had dinner and went to bed.

Name: L.D.M.Q.
Age: 17
Date: 16 March 2022
Location: Beit Ummar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, L.D.M.Q. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was in a taxi going home after work at around 5:00 p.m. Israeli soldiers at a military checkpoint stopped my taxi and asked to see our identity cards. A soldier then pointed at me and told me to get out because there was evidence against me. He twisted my leg and beat me on the knee with a baton. He wanted me to give him my cell phone.
2. The soldier then handcuffed my hands to the front with metal hand cuffs which were not painful. Then he blindfolded me and took me into the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. I was taken to a police station in Jerusalem. I was interrogated at around 11:00 p.m.
3. The interrogator removed my blindfold. He was wearing civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder which he turned on as soon as I entered the room. He did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me there were confessions against me that I was involved in throwing stones. I denied the accusation.
4. The interrogator was aggressive at the beginning. He thumped the table when I denied the accusation and spoke to me in a loud voice. Then I refused to cooperate with him and told him if he continued to yell at me and treat me with disrespect I was not going to answer any questions. He then calmed down.
5. I was questioned for about two hours. The interrogator told me that even if I did not confess my file was complete based on three confessions from other boys. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I refused to sign it because he refused to translate it for me. After the interrogation I was taken to a hospital because of a condition in my nervous system which makes me feel dizzy.
6. I was handcuffed and shackled while at the hospital. I was examined and then, at around 3:00 a.m., I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken into section 13.
7. Three days later I was taken for another interrogation at Ofer. The interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me I had the right to remain silent. I spoke to him for about a minute and the interrogator left the room.
8. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent and asked me whether the lawyer had informed me of my right to silence too. I did not remain silent because I thought it would be used against me in court.

9. The interrogator accused me of the same accusation based on confessions from the other boys. He gave me a specific date for the incident and questioned me on and off over about eight hours. He was calm and at the end he asked me to sign a document written in Arabic and I signed because it was identical to what I had told him. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison.
10. On the fourth day I was taken to the military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed of the hearing. My detention was extended. I had 15 court hearings and at the last one, which was sometime in December, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 15 months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I also received another year in prison suspended for five years. Part of my sentence consisted of a previous suspended sentence. I accepted the plea bargain because I was told the prosecutor was asking for 20 months in prison.
11. When I turned 18 I was transferred to Rimon prison, inside Israel, and I was released from there. I was released at Al Thayriyeh checkpoint on 18 May 2023, and I went home with my father and my friends. I arrived home in the afternoon.
12. My parents visited me six times while in prison. I exercised and helped in the kitchen and walked in the courtyard. I did not attend any classes because I left school a while ago.

Name: M.K.I.Z.
Age: 17
Date: 17 March 2022
Location: Deir Qiddis, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.K.I.Z. of Deir Qiddis, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested at around noon near the settlement of Nilli. An Israeli military jeep drove by and a soldier stepped out and aimed his weapon at me. There were no clashes with soldiers at the time.
2. The soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. When I snapped them, because they were too tight and painful, the soldier replaced them with metal handcuffs which were also tight and painful. The soldier pushed me into the military vehicle where I sat on a seat and we drove towards the gate at the entrance to the settlement.
3. Another soldier came and the two of them took turns slapping and kicking me on my face and back and legs. One of the soldiers struck me on my left leg just under the knee with his gun and caused me a lot of pain which lasted for a long time. Then one of the soldiers blindfolded me. About 20 minutes later the soldier removed the blindfold and I could see lots of soldiers and military vehicles in the area.
4. A soldier searched me and made me take off my boots. Then I was taken in a police car to a nearby police station. On the way a policeman told me I had the right to remain silent but warned me that remaining silent might not be in my interest and that remaining silent might result in a stiffer prison sentence. At the police station I was left outdoors on a wooden bench for about one hour. I was not given any food or drink while the soldiers around me were eating. At around 10:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. A policeman removed my handcuffs. There were two interrogators in the room. They were in police uniform and spoke good Arabic. As soon as I entered the room one of the interrogators phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer barely had time to tell me to defend myself before the line was cut off. The conversation lasted less than a minute. The two interrogators were not in the room during the phone call.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, one of the policemen accused me of throwing stones. I denied the accusation. Then he accused me of entering the settlement without permission and that 14 soldiers would testify against me. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice.
7. The interrogation lasted for about 30 minutes. At the end I confessed to throwing stones at the CCTV camera at the entrance to the settlement. Then I was asked to sign a document in Hebrew. I signed without understanding what was written because I thought I had no choice but to sign.

8. After the interrogation was over I was taken to a small cell measuring about 1 x 2 meters without windows. I was left there for about two hours. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken into the minors' section.
9. Two days later I had a military court hearing which was conducted on Zoom. My mother attended and my detention was extended. Three weeks later I had another interrogation. This time I did not speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence.
10. The interrogator accused me of the same accusations which I denied. The interrogator was aggressive and swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". Then he threatened to "fuck me" if I did not treat him with respect. He repeated the threat twice. When I denied the accusation, the interrogator reminded me I had already confessed to throwing stones at the CCTV camera and wanted to know why I was denying the accusation. I told him I confessed because the interrogator was aggressive and yelled at me and I was scared. He questioned me for about half an hour and asked me to sign a document in Hebrew which I did.
11. I had about 15 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day before I was released, the military judge decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 4,000 bail and the judge imposed a suspended sentence of six months in prison valid for three years. This was based on a social worker's report about my situation and because I had a clean past and wanted to sit for my high school exams. I had one court hearing after I was released on bail and the judge turned the bail amount into a fine and closed my file.
12. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 27 April 2015. My parents were not informed so they were not there to take me home. I found a man with a car at Al Jib and he took me to Ramallah where I called my father and he took me home. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.
13. In prison I did not have any family visits. I spent the whole time at Ofer where I spent a lot of time drawing.

Name: F.Z.I.B.
Age: 17
Date: 23 March 2022
Location: Abu Dis, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, F.Z.I.B. of Abu Dis, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 4:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers had surrounded our home. Then I heard loud aggressive banging at our front door and quickly got up. My older brother answered and four soldiers entered our house. One of them told me I was wanted for questioning about stone throwing. Then he gave my mother a document filled out in Hebrew which she could not understand.
2. Then a soldier told me to dress and to say goodbye to my family. Then I was taken outside where I was blindfolded and handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs which were not painful. Then he took me to the back of a military jeep and made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. The jeep drove to the police station at the settlement of Ma'aleh Adumim. I was left outdoors until around 6:00 a.m. and then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was put in a cell where I spent six days with other boys. During this time, I was interrogated six times.
3. The first interrogation was on the day when I arrived. The interrogator removed my blindfold and the handcuffs. He was wearing an Israeli police uniform and had a camera in the room. He talked to me through an interpreter. Before questioning me, he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess. We spoke for about three minutes and the interrogator left the room.
4. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he told me if I remained silent he would consider it a confession, that is why I decided not to remain silent.
5. Then he accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during a protest when a young man from the village was killed by soldiers. He gave me a specific date and told me exactly where the protest took place. I denied the accusation. He then thumped the table and told me I had to confess. He then told me my friends who were with me had confessed against me. He did not show me any photographs or videos and I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about an hour and at the end he wanted me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign something I did not understand. After the interrogation I was taken back to the cell.
6. The following day I had a military court hearing. My mother attended and my detention was extended.

7. I was interrogated five more times over the following six days. Each time I was questioned by a different interrogator. I was always allowed to speak to a lawyer before the interrogation and I was always informed of my right to silence. I was accused of the same accusation and I continued to deny it. Each time I was also asked to sign documents written in Hebrew and I refused to sign.
8. Six days later I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched and then I was taken to section 13. I had about 17 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also was given a suspended sentence of 10 months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home on the same day.
9. I spent the nine months at Ofer where I worked in the kitchen and exercised. I also worked at the Cantina. My mother and brother visited me seven times and I called them while I was still a minor once every two weeks from a phone provided by the prison.
10. I was released at Al-Jib checkpoint on 19 December 2022. My friends were waiting for me at Ofer so I took a taxi and met them there. I arrived home at around 10:30 p.m. I left school when I was in ninth grade and I now work at the tobacco factory.

Name: U.R.U.R.
Age: 15
Date: 24 March 2022
Location: Sai'ir, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, U.R.U.R. of Sai'ir, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 3:30 a.m. I woke up to the sound of aggressive banging at our front door. The soldiers tried to break down our door but my mother managed to open it before it was broken. My father was not home that night.
2. Eight soldiers entered our house, one wearing a mask. The captain told me he wanted to arrest me on suspicion of involvement in throwing stones and Molotov cocktails at soldiers and settlers. He said this verbally and did not give us any documentation. The soldiers searched our house and turned the couches and chairs upside down but did not find anything. My younger brother, who is 7-years-old, was scared and started to cry.
3. After searching our house the soldiers took me outside where they tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. I was then led on foot for about 100 meters before being pushed into the back of a military jeep where I sat on the seat.
4. Inside the jeep one of the soldiers slapped me but did not hurt me. He also called me "a son of a whore". I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left in a small cell by myself for about two hours before being taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He was wearing an Israeli police uniform and had a camera and a voice recorder. Before questioning me, he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him on the phone. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to be afraid and that he was going to see me soon and defend me in court. The interrogator was in the room but he did not hear the conversation which lasted about two minutes, not more.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at soldiers and settlers on the bypass road and of causing a fire on a hill. He did not inform me of my right to silence. I denied the accusation. He gave me a specific date for the incident and showed me a map on his computer screen with the exact location where the incident happened. I continued to deny the accusation.
7. Then he showed me some photographs and mentioned some names of boys whom he claimed had confessed against me. I told him I did not know the boys and denied the accusation. He then threatened to beat me up if I did not confess and to lock me up in solitary confinement tied and blindfolded. He also threatened to arrest my family members.

8. He questioned me for about an hour and tried to get information from me about other boys. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding what the document said. I did not think signing was going to make any difference.
9. About an hour later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. During this time they brought me some sour cream and a tomato and allowed me to use the toilet. At Ofer I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I arrived there at around 4:00 p.m.
10. About a week after my arrest I was taken to the military court. My father attended and my detention was extended.
11. On the 8 April 2022, I was taken for a second interrogation. This time I was questioned by a different interrogator. He was in civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He asked me the same questions and accused me of the same accusations. He was aggressive and thumped the table when I denied the accusation but he did not threaten me. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and asked me to sign a document in Hebrew which I signed.
12. I had about nine military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 10 August 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received another eight months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because it was better than what the prosecutor was asking for.
13. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer where I exercised and watched television and had classes in Arabic and Hebrew. My parents visited me once and I was allowed to call them twice a month.
14. I was released on 23 August 2022, one day before the court had granted me an early release. My parents did not know I was going to be released so I took a taxi to my uncle's house in Ramallah and the following day my father picked me up and took me home.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, T.H.M.S. of Kafr Qaddoum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 2:30 a.m. Israeli soldiers quietly opened our front door using a hydraulic device and entered our home. I woke up when the soldiers entered my bedroom. I opened my eyes and saw a soldier aiming his gun at me.
2. One of the soldiers took me and my younger brother to another room. Then they separated me from my brother and my hands were tied behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful and got tighter as I moved my wrists. I was also blindfolded me.
3. The soldiers searched our house, turning it upside down; they did not leave anything untouched. They did not tell us what they were looking for. My younger siblings were terrified to see soldiers in our home, especially my younger brother who was 11.
4. After the search a soldier gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew and then took me outside. The soldiers then led me on foot to the nearby settlement of Qedumim. The soldiers beat me on the way, kicking and slapping me and swearing at me. They left me outside until around 10:00 a.m. when the intelligence officer for the area took me to a shipping container and started to question me.
5. The intelligence officer sarcastically asked me how I was and told me I was never going to go home. He swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". He accused me of all sorts of things which were a complete fabrication. I denied everything. He spoke to me for about half an hour without allowing me to speak to a lawyer and without informing me of my right to silence.
6. After questioning me I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep took me to Megiddo prison. inside Israel. On arrival I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section.
7. The following morning I was taken for interrogation. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a computer in the room. He did not call a lawyer for me but he gave me a document written in Arabic, English and Hebrew about my rights. It said I had the right to remain silent.
8. Then the interrogator asked me why I was a trouble maker by taking part in clashes with soldiers. He told me young men had confessed against me. Then he showed me some photos of clashes with soldiers and accused me of taking part. I denied the accusation. Then he yelled at me and threatened not to ever allow me to go home if I did not confess.

9. He questioned me for about an hour and at the end he showed me a document written in Arabic and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken to a military court. My parents were there and my detention was extended.
10. I had about 20 hearings. Initially the prosecutor wanted to put me under administrative detention but then the military judge accepted a plea bargain where I was sentenced to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another year in prison suspended for five years. The last hearing was on the day of my release. I accepted the plea bargain because I was desperate to go home.
11. I spent my prison sentence in Megiddo. My parents visited me six times and I was able to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a month. In prison I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics.
12. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 14 November 2022 and I went home with my father and some friends. I arrived home in the early evening.

Accusation: Unknown

I, M.M.A.U. of Qafr Qaddoum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of aggressive banging at our front door. Then I heard my father talking to Israeli soldiers. About 20 soldiers entered our home. First, they wanted our mobile phones. Then they took my father to a separate room and questioned him. When I heard my father scream I tried to intervene and wanted to go into the room where my father was held but the soldiers did not allow me.
2. Then a soldier handed me a phone and told me the commander wanted to speak to me. The commander told me they wanted to take me for a short time to ask me some questions and then they would bring me back home. We were not given any documents. They allowed me to put some clothes on but did not allow me to say goodbye to my family.
3. Within half-an-hour I was taken outside where I was tied behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. When I asked the soldier to loosen them he refused. I was also blindfolded before being led on foot for about half-an-hour towards some military jeeps.
4. During this time soldiers swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". They also kicked and slapped me and pushed to the ground. I was in pain and could not take a deep breath. I later found out that my ribs were fractured from the beating. Because I could no longer walk the soldiers lifted me up and threw me into the back of a military jeep where I sat on a metal box.
5. I was driven to a nearby military base where I was left outdoors for about 20 minutes. Then I was taken inside where a military commander accused me of committing an act against the soldiers. He threatened to destroy my life if I did not confess and to destroy my father's business. He wanted me to confess to something I had not done. He questioned me for about half an hour without allowing me to speak to a lawyer and without informing me of my right to silence. During the interrogation a couple of soldiers were allowed in. They thumped the table and shouted to scare me and make me confess. I did not confess. I was not given any documents to sign.
6. After being questioned I was taken for a medical examination. I told the doctor I was finding it hard to breath and that I had pain in my chest. He recommended an inhaler with oxygen but I was never given one. The doctor asked me if this happened during arrest and I told him it did. Then I was left outdoors for a couple of hours.

7. My condition worsened and the pain intensified. I asked for some water and a soldier brought me a glass of water and placed it next to me. I could not drink because my hands were still tied behind my back. I asked for some food and to use the toilet but I was not allowed. I did not sleep at all.
8. Later I was taken in a military vehicle to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived there at around noon. They wanted to strip search me but I refused. Then I was taken to the minors' section.
9. Three days later I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and was typing on a computer the whole time. The interrogator handed me a phone and told me to speak to the person on the other end. I was not told who that person was. The interrogator told me I was going to be asked some questions and that I should answer the questions I knew the answers to and refrain for answering the questions I did not know the answers to.
10. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator repeated the same accusations and added some more. I denied all the accusations. He told me my friends had confessed against me. When I refused to confess he told me he did not need me to confess because my friends had told him everything. He also told me the minimum sentence I was going to get was two years in prison.
11. I was questioned for about 20 minutes and then told to sign a document written in Hebrew which I refused to sign.
12. After the interrogation I was taken to Salem military court. My parents attended and my detention was extended. I had maybe 20 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day when I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me it was a good deal and I wanted to go home.
13. I spent the rest of my prison sentence in Megiddo prison where I learned to cut hair and cook. I also studied for my high school exams. I had family visits but they denied my father a permit to visit me and lied to him by telling him I did not want to see him. In prison I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a month.
14. During my time at Megiddo I was taken for a medical checkup and the X-Ray showed two fractured ribs. They did not give me any treatment and told me the fractures would heal with time.
15. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 14 November 2022, and I went home with my family and friends. I arrived home at 6:00 p.m. I suffered a lot during the first month and I could not sleep because of the pain in my chest.

I, K.M.M.S. of Kafr Qaddoum, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My father woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were about to raid our home. Shortly afterwards about 20 soldiers came into our house accompanied by the Israeli intelligence officer responsible for the area, "Azzam". Most of the soldiers were masked and my six-year-old brother was terrified. As soon as the commander saw me he ordered the soldiers to arrest me.
2. The soldiers took me to our living room and asked me to hand over my phone. When I refused to hand it over the commander swore at me and immediately went to get my father. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The tie on my right wrist was very tight and painful. Then he blindfolded me, all in front of my family.
3. I was taken to the stairwell while the commander remained inside talking with my father. Then, without giving us any documents, and without giving a reason for my arrest, the soldiers started to take me away. I asked to say goodbye to my mother and they allowed me. I went inside and gave my mother a hug and told her not to worry about me.
4. Once outside the soldiers took me on foot a short distance before putting me into the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. I was taken to a nearby military base where I was questioned by a military commander.
5. The commander did not call a lawyer or inform me of my right to silence. He threatened to destroy my life and make me miss my final high school exam by locking me up in prison for a whole year. He was aggressive, thumped the table and pushed the chairs around. He questioned me for about three hours but did not ask me to sign any documents.
6. After being questioned I was left outdoors in the cold for about three hours. Then I was taken in a military jeep to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. Two days later I was taken to Salem for another interrogation.
7. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry because my file was not too serious. He told me two boys had confessed against me and he named the boys. He spoke to me for about three minutes while the interrogator was listening on speaker phone.

8. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during clashes in our village. When I denied the accusation, he told me he had confessions against me from other boys. I continued to deny the accusation. He told me if I confessed he would reduce my prison sentence by two months. At the end, he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Salem military court. My father attended and my hearing was adjourned. I had many court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to eight months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 10 months suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
10. I spent the rest of my prison sentence in Megiddo prison where I was in charge of the other minors who shared a cell with me. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics and I worked in the Canteen. My family visited me five times. Their first permit to visit was issued three months after my arrest.
11. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 14 November 2022 and went home with my parents. We arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

1. I woke up at around 2:00 a.m. to the sound of a loud explosion nearby. Israeli soldiers blew up our front door and entered our home. Four soldiers locked me, my parents and four siblings in the living room and did not allow us to leave. My younger sister, who is 10-years-old, was terrified.
2. The soldiers asked for me and when my father pointed at me the soldiers took me outside. A soldier struck me with the butt of his gun on my back and called me "a son of a whore".
3. The soldiers wanted my mobile phone. I told them I did not have one but they did not believe me. They looked for it everywhere and searched our house; trashing it and causing some damage. They did not find anything. About an hour later the commander came and handed me a phone to speak to the area intelligence officer. The intelligence officer asked me if I wanted to hand over my phone to the soldiers. I told him I did not have one.
4. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: One on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. Then they took me on foot for a short distance and on the way a soldier blindfolded me. They walked me to the nearby military base where I was left on the ground for about 30 minutes. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of taking part in an illegal protest in the village and told me other boys had confessed against me. He then accused me of firing live bullets during the protest. I denied the accusation. He then threatened to "discipline" me if I did not confess and talked to me in a loud voice. He told me even if I did not confess he had enough evidence to convict me and told me my file was ready. He named the two boys he claimed had confessed against me. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and did not ask me to sign any documents.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched with my clothes on before being taken to the minors' section.
7. Three days later I was taken to a military court. That was when I saw my lawyer for the first time. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. My detention was extended. I had about 22 court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to nine months in prison, six of which were from a previous suspended sentence, and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of one year in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the deal because I wanted to go home.

8. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Megiddo where I helped keep the ward clean. There were classes but I did not attend, I found them boring. I studied for my final high school exams by myself and I passed. My mother visited me four times and I was able to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a month.
9. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 14 November 2022, and I went home with my father. I arrived home late at night and met all the friends and neighbours who were waiting for me.

I, H.D.H.D. of Al Lubban Asharqiyeh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was going home from school at around noon when clashes broke out with Israeli soldiers on Route 60. Two soldiers grabbed me and started to beat me, especially on my back. One of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful. He also blindfolded me.
2. The soldiers then took me to the back of a military jeep where I was made to sit on the metal floor between the other soldiers' legs. Inside the jeep the soldiers swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
3. The jeep drove to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left in a room by myself until around midnight. I was not given any food or drink during this time. Then a soldier removed the blindfold and the hand ties and took me to an interrogation room. It was around midnight.
4. The interrogator was in police uniform and had a camera in the room. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to take care of myself and said he had spoken to my parents and told me they were fine. The conversation lasted for a few minutes and the interrogator was listening.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers during the clashes. When I denied the accusation, he told me to shut up. Then he told me soldiers saw me throwing stones and had testified against me. When I heard this, I confessed. Then the interrogator wanted me to give him names of other boys. He was aggressive and yelled at me the whole time. He swore at me and called me "a son of a whore" and told me to shut up. He questioned me for about an hour. I was not asked to sign any documents.
6. After the interrogation was over I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. The following day I was taken to the military court. My father was there. The military judge extended my detention. After court I was taken back to Ofer.
7. I had about 12 hearings. At the last one, which was three days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I was also given a suspended sentence for one year. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me it was good and I wanted to go home.

8. I spent three months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I spent my remaining time. I did not have any family visits because the permit for my parents to visit me was not issued in time. I was allowed to call home from a phone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks, although sometimes the calls were more than two weeks apart. In prison I attended some classes and I liked to get out into the courtyard to walk and chat to the other boys.
9. I was released at al Jalama checkpoint on 10 August 2022 and I went home with my father. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

1. I was with some friends at Atara military checkpoint at around 9:00 p.m. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers and some people were throwing stones at the military watchtower while a soldier was filming. A soldier fired a stun grenade at one of the boys near to me. I stopped to see if he needed help.
2. Suddenly six soldiers grabbed me and pushed me to the ground. I fell and hit my head on a rock. I felt nauseous. One of the soldiers struck me on my shoulder with the back of his gun and I was hit by a rubber bullet on my left shoulder.
3. A soldier then tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. It left a mark on my wrists for a week. He also blindfolded me. I was then led towards the watchtower where I was taken to a shipping container and left there until around 1:00 a.m.
4. At around 1:00 a.m. I was taken to a military jeep where I sat on a seat and I was driven to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around 3:00 a.m. I was taken to a small cell, measuring about 1x1 meters, which had a metal bench attached to the wall. I was left there for about 30 minutes.
5. During this time an interrogator came in a couple of times and told me how shocked he was by my behavior and that he knew everything about me. He threatened if I did not confess during the interrogation he was going to arrest my brothers. Then I was taken to an interrogation room. By then I was exhausted.
6. A soldier removed my blindfold. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The interrogator did not listen to the conversation which lasted less than two minutes. The lawyer told me to be careful and not to confess even if the interrogator tries to frighten me.
7. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator asked me through an interpreter for my name. Then he wanted to know where I was throwing stones and told me a stone could kill. Then he told me he had photographic evidence against me. When I denied the accusation, he lost his temper and thumped the table. He questioned me for about two hours.

8. In the end I confessed to throwing stones at the watchtower. I confessed because I was tired of the interrogator insisting that I had to confess. After I confessed he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding what was written.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Beit El settlement. On the way soldiers offered me some crisps. I arrived at Beit El at around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to a room for about three hours. I was tied and blindfolded the whole time. When I fell asleep a soldier prodded me to wake me up.
10. Later I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken into the minors' section. I was exhausted and went to sleep straight away.
11. The following day I had a military court hearing. My brother attended and my detention was extended. I had four more hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 28 April 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a suspended sentence valid for three years.
12. I spent the rest on my sentence at Ofer prison where I exercised, helped in the kitchen and attended classes in Arabic and Hebrew. I did not have any family visits because the permit was not issued in time.
13. I was released at Al-Jib checkpoint on 6 June 2022. My family were not there because I was released two days before expected. I found a taxi and he took me to Ofer checkpoint and I called my family and my brother picked me up. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.

Name: I.J.I.M.
Age: 14
Date: 20 April 2022
Location: Qarawa Bani Zaid, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, I.J.I.M. of Qarawa Bain Zaid, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was grabbed by a group of Israeli soldiers during clashes at a military checkpoint. It was around 4:00 p.m. They fired a stun grenade and live bullets in my direction. I was shot in the knee cap and fell to the ground bleeding. A soldier swore at me and then slapped me. I was in shock. I was terrified and thought I was going to die when I saw the amount of blood.
2. The soldiers called an ambulance and the paramedics treated my injury on site before taking me to Belinson hospital where I spent six days. I underwent multiple surgeries. During this time a lawyer visited me and wanted to know what had happened. I told him everything. The doctor told me my knee cap was shattered and badly damaged and my tendons were torn.
3. After six days I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, but the authorities there refused to admit me because of my severe injury. I was then taken to Ramleh prison, inside Israel, where prisoners with medical needs are held. I spent the first two days in a room by myself and then I was taken to another room with other prisoners. The first room measured about 3 x 3 meters and did not have a mattress. The two days I spent there by myself were difficult and I was in psychological distress. On the third day at Ramleh I was taken for interrogation.
4. Before interrogating me, the interrogator handed me a phone to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer told me to remain silent even if the interrogator yells at me. He told me he was going to represent me in court and told me not worry. The conversation lasted for about a minute. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and told me I had to answer all his questions.
5. The interrogator accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and settlers. I denied the accusation and then I remained silent and refused to answer any more questions. The interrogator had a camera in the room and was typing on a computer. When I denied the accusation, he told me not to lie and claimed he had photographic evidence against me. He also told me three soldiers had testified against me and claimed he knew everything about me.
6. Then the interrogator wanted to know why I ran away from the soldiers. When I told him I was scared of the soldiers, he laughed and wanted to know why I was scared of them. I told him I was scared they might beat me up. I was questioned for about 30 minutes and I was not given any documents to sign.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to Salem military court for a hearing. My father attended the hearing. The military judge extended my detention.
8. Two days later I had another interrogation. I spoke to a lawyer before the interrogation. The conversation was very short and the interrogator was listening. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of the same accusations. He interrupted me and did not want to listen to what I was trying to tell him. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and I denied all the accusations. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
9. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ramleh prison. I had five more military court hearings and at the last one, which was on the day of my release, the judge decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 5,000 bail in addition to another NIS 20,000 bond. I was not given any dates for hearings and until today I have not been informed of any hearings.
10. I was released on 1 May 2022, at Salem checkpoint and I went home with my parents. We arrived home in the evening.

Name: S.R.H.B.
Age: 16
Date: 7 May 2022
Location: Al Fara'a refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Membership of banned organisation

I, S.R.H.B. of Al Fara'a refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I had a disagreement with my boss in Jericho and decided to leave work and go home at around 8:00 a.m. I walked because I could not find a taxi. An Israeli military jeep pulled over and a soldier got out and asked me what I was doing there. I told him I was going home but he did not believe me. I called a colleague at work so that the soldier could talk to him. The soldier got hold of my phone and flipped through the photos and saw a picture of someone holding a gun. He did not like it and when he searched me he found my Swiss army knife.
2. The soldier then made me take off my trousers and searched me in my boxer shorts. Then he blindfolded me and tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. It cut into my wrists until I bled and it left marks for a long time. Then he made me sit on the Asphalt for about two hours. The asphalt was hot and my skin burned.
3. After about two hours the soldier took me to the military jeep and forced me to sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. The soldiers kicked me and made fun of me. One of them sarcastically looked at me and told me I was a national hero. The soldiers were eating and teasing me. They did not give me any food.
4. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement, near Ramallah. I sat on a wooden bench in a room for about two hours. During this time, I was given a quick medical examination. I was tied and blindfolded the whole time and I was not given any food. They gave me some water and allowed me to use the toilet. Then I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He was wearing T-shirt and trousers and had a camera in the room. He told me he was going to record everything. He called a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to talk too much and if the interrogator shows me photograph I should say it is not me. The interrogator was sitting next to me and heard me but I don't think he could hear the lawyer.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of membership of Hamas or Jihad Islami which are banned organisations. He told me he based his accusation on the photograph of the person they found on my phone. I told him the weapon in the photo was a plastic toy and not a real one. He did not like my answer and told me he was not going to ever release me from prison. He wanted me to lose hope in order to confess. He thumped the table and shouted at me and kept threatening never to send me home.

7. The interrogator questioned me for about two hours and I continued to deny the accusations. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew and I signed. Then I was taken to a waiting room before being driven to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. At Ofer I was strip searched and asked to crouch up and down in a humiliating manner. At first, I refused to do so but then the person who was searching me brought in someone else to scare me. Then I was taken to section 13 for minors.
8. The following day I was taken to the military court. I waited five hours before I was taken into court which was exhausting because I was handcuffed the whole time. They brought me a sandwich and a cucumber and tomato. My parents were not in court because they were not informed. My detention was extended.
9. Eighteen days later I was taken for another interrogation. This time I was interrogated by a female interrogator who questioned me through an interpreter. She was in her early thirties. She did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. She questioned me for about an hour and accused me of the same accusations.
10. Half-way through the interrogation she replaced the interpreter with another one who was aggressive and threatened to beat me up if I did not confess. He thumped the table and swore. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew and I signed because I was too scared to refuse his request.
11. A few days later I was interrogated again. The guard who took me to Binyamin for interrogation wanted to search me in my sensitive parts. When I refused and pushed him away he slapped and kicked me, took me into a troop carrier where he made me sit on the metal floor. He called me "a son of a whore" and then banged my head against the metal in the troop carrier. When we arrived at Binyamin he aggressively pulled me out of the troop carrier and slapped me. When I went into the interrogation room I had a swollen eye.
12. When the interrogator saw my eye, he asked me whether I was beaten up by the other prisoners. When I told him it was the guard, he did not believe me but then he made a phone call to find out. Then he started to question me without allowing me to speak to a lawyer and without informing me of my right to silence. He was calm and tried to take information from me about other boys whose photos were on my phone. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew and I signed.
13. I had eight military court hearings. At the last one, which was a week before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given a three-month suspended sentence. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
14. Five days before I was released I was transferred to Rimon prison, inside Israel and I was released from there. I slept a lot in prison to pass the time and I watched cartoons on television. I did not have any family visits because the permit was not issued in time. I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a week.

15. The worst thing in prison was the Palestinian adult prisoners who were very strict with us. They often beat me to discipline me if I did not go to bed on time or refused to obey their orders.
16. I was released on 22 June 2022, at Salem checkpoint. My father was told to wait for me at Al-Jalama. My father was furious and started to swear when I called him and told him I was at Salem. He told me to take a taxi to Jenin where I met him and he took me home. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.
17. I left school a while ago. I work at a Date factory in Jericho owned by an Israeli. Thankfully, I don't need a permit to go to work because I am now denied work permits for security reasons.

Testimony 934

Name: I.A.S.U.
Age: 17
Date: 28 May 2022
Location: Ofer prison, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, I.A.S.U. of Ramallah, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested near Ofer prison at around 1:00 a.m. I was with a group of boys and young men protesting the Israeli actions in Jenin; we were angry and wanted to show our anger. I did not tell my family I was there. Things were quiet but then a group of about eight soldiers ambushed me. Then more soldiers came in a military jeep.
2. The soldiers fired their guns in the air while two soldiers grabbed me and pushed me to the ground. They kicked and slapped me as well as swearing at me. They took off my trousers and shirt and a soldier aimed his gun at me while then tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for a week. I was also blindfolded.
3. Then a soldier took a photo of me on his cell phone and made fun of me. Another soldier called me "a son of a whore". He told me he was going to teach me a lesson similar to the one taught to the young men in Jenin. Then he kicked me in the chest and caused me a lot of pain. I was left there without my clothes on until around 5:00 a.m. They only allowed me to put my clothes on and at around 8:00 a.m. when I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat.
4. The jeep drove me to the police station in Atarot, in East Jerusalem, where I was left in a cage outside. I was not given any food but they brought me some water and I was allowed to use a toilet inside the cage. At around noon I was taken for interrogation.
5. A soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and then took me into the interrogation room. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He had a computer and was typing everything I said.
6. The interrogator started to question me but I told him I was not going to answer any questions unless he gave me a cigarette, I was desperate. He gave me a cigarette, then he made a phone call and handed me the telephone and told me it was a lawyer. I was suspicious and cautious. The person told me to say I did not do anything wrong and had nothing to do with anything. He spoke to me for about a minute and the interrogator was not around.
7. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and told he wanted me to cooperate with him because he cared for me like a brother would. He was calm and wanted to make me trust him. He accused me of throwing stones near Ofer. When I denied the accusation, he changed his mood and started to yell at me calling me a liar. He also accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and a pipe bomb and of weapons possession. I told him I was not going to cooperate with him as long as he was yelling at me.

8. He questioned me for about two hours and wanted to know who had sent me or paid me to cause trouble. He then told me the other boys who they arrested with me had confessed against me. I told him to bring the boys to confess in front of me but he never did. He told me he had summoned my mother for questioning and that she was in the next room. I later found out he was lying. At the end he wanted me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign anything I did not understand. He then briefly translated it for me but I still refused to sign.
9. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. I was questioned three more times over the following five days. I was taken back and forth to Atarot. I did not speak to any lawyers, except before the first interrogation and I was never informed of my right to silence. I was accused of the same accusations and I continued to deny them. At the end of the last interrogation I was asked to sign a document written in Arabic which I signed.
10. I had about 10 military court hearings; the last one was on 24 October 2022. It was then that I was sentenced in a plea bargain to one year in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given more time in prison suspended for three years. I kept changing lawyers until the last one got me this deal which I accepted. The previous lawyers could only get me 18 to 24 months which I was not satisfied with.
11. I spent my whole sentence in Ofer prison where I worked as a barber. I also lifted weights. I had six family visits.
12. I was released at Ofer on 30 April 2023. My parents, my brother, my grandfather and my uncles all came to meet me and took me home. I arrived home in the evening.

Testimony 935

Name: A.M.Y.S.
Age: 16
Date: 30 May 2022
Location: Hebron, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / protesting

I, A.M.Y.S. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At the time of my arrest there were clashes with Israeli soldiers during a protest. It was around 2:30 p.m. I was suddenly grabbed by three soldiers and was beaten in my stomach with the rifle butt which hurt. They also swore at me calling me "a son of a whore".
2. The soldiers pushed me to the ground and one of them tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and caused me a lot of pain. They left marks on my wrists for a few days. They also blindfolded me.
3. After I was tied and blindfolded the soldiers led me for about 30 minutes towards the nearby settlement of Hagai. The soldiers slapped and kicked me on the way. I was left on the ground inside the settlement until around 3:00 a.m. At around 3:00 a.m. I was put in a vehicle and driven to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement. The drive took about 10 minutes. When we arrived at the settlement I was immediately taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him before he started to question me. The lawyer wanted to know why I was arrested and I told him for stone throwing during a protest. The lawyer advised me not to confess and to request that they check the CCTV cameras in the areas to prove my innocence. He spoke to me for about a minute and told me to take care of myself. The interrogator was listening to the conversation because he put me on speaker phone.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to remain silent. Instead, he told me I had to answer all his questions. Then he questioned me about throwing stones during the protest. I told him I did not throw stones at anyone. Then he accused me of taking part in illegal protests over a period of four days and accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail at settler cars. I denied the accusations and told him I was at work during the other protests.
6. The interrogator was mostly calm. At one point he threatened to keep me in prison for five years if I did not confess. I continued to deny the accusation. He then showed me video footage of the protests and accused me of taking part. I continued to deny the accusation. He questioned me for about three hours and wanted me to give him names of other boys who took part in the protest.

7. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign some documents written in Hebrew. He read them out to me and translated them. The documents said I had spoken to a lawyer and that there was a voice recorder in the room and that I was interrogated. I signed after the translation.
8. After the interrogation I was taken somewhere for a quick medical examination and then I was driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was put in a cell with another boy for nine days. During this time, I had a military court hearing which my parents did not attend. My detention was extended. After nine days at Etzion I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section.
9. Eight days later I was taken for another interrogation. I was not allowed to speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my rights. The interrogator wanted me to tell him whether another boy whom he named had thrown stones. He told me he wanted to know because he was about to release him and wanted to know from me whether he had been throwing stones or not. I told him he had not. I later found out that that boy had confessed against me. The interrogator asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. I signed after he translated it for me.
10. I had about 10 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 6 July 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 8,000. I was also given another 24 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because it was the best my lawyer was able to get. He told me I would spend more time in prison if I rejected it.
11. I spent the rest of my prison sentence at Ofer where I played table tennis and exercised. My parents visited me three times and I was able to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a month for 15 minutes each time.
12. I had a special court session in Ramleh, Israel where I was granted early release. I was released on 12 September 2022 at Beit Sira checkpoint. My parents did not know I was going to be released early so they were not there to take me home. I took a taxi home. I arrived home just after midnight.
13. I did not go back to school after I was released, instead I enrolled at a vocational school where I am learning how to lay tiles.

Name: J.B.J.D.
Age: 16
Date: 1 June 2022
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktail

I, J.B.J.D. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested on my birthday at around 4:00 a.m. I was asleep when my mother woke me to tell me Israeli soldiers were in our house. I got up and saw about 10 soldiers inside our home. They came straight to my bedroom and asked me and my brother for our names. Then a soldier told me to follow him to the living room. He asked my mother whether I was taking any medication and then he took me outside without giving my parents any documents explaining anything.
2. At the front door I was blindfolded and then my hands were tied behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for a long time. Then a soldier pushed me into the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. Soldiers who were in the back of the jeep swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
3. They took me to the police station in Etzion settlement and left me in a room until around 11:00 a.m. They left me with a soldier. They did not give me anything to eat or drink and did not even allow me to use the toilet. Then a soldier removed the tie and the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was wearing a T-shirt and jeans. Before questioning me, he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to speak and told me god willing he would get me released the same day. The interrogator could hear what I was saying but not the lawyer. I spoke with him for about three minutes.
5. Then the interrogator wanted to know where I was from and why I was in his office. He did not inform me of my right to silence. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail and showed me video footage of the incident. At first, I denied the accusation but then I confessed because I felt I had no choice. The interrogator was mostly calm. He questioned me for about an hour and asked me questions about my friends. He then showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it and I signed.
6. Then I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell where I spent a week with other boys. During this week I had one military court hearing which my mother attended. A week later I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched and then I was taken to section 13. I spent five months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel.

7. I had about 15 more court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on 1 September 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to twelve months in prison. My parents had to pay a fine of NIS 1,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of 11 months. I accepted the plea bargain because the trip from Megiddo prison to the court was exhausting and sometimes took three days. I could not take that trip anymore and that was why I accepted the plea bargain.
8. In prison I had classes in Arabic, English and mathematics. I also lifted weights and played table tennis. My parents visited me five times and I was allowed to call home from a land line provided by the prison authorities twice a month.
9. I was given an early release on 22 January 2023, at Salem checkpoint. Someone gave me a lift to Ramallah and then my parents picked me up from Ramallah and took me home. I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m.

Name: J.M.M.B.
Age: 17
Date: 2 June 2022
Location: Qalqilya, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / pipe bombs

I, J.M.M.B. of Qalqiliya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A week before I was arrested the area commander phoned my father and told him he had information that I was planning a terrorist act. He told my father I was a trouble maker and urged him to discipline me otherwise he was going to discipline me instead. He told my father to check who my friends were and what impact they had on me. He also told my father if I changed my conduct he would not arrest me.
2. A week later, I had just fallen asleep when my mother woke me up at around 4:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were at our front door. Before I managed to get up the soldiers had blown off our door. They were highly trained special forces and not the usual soldiers. They had arrived disguised in a Palestinian pick-up truck.
3. About 20 masked soldiers entered our home and immediately came into my bedroom. They had a service dog which they left at the front door. They swore at my mother when she told them to leave the dog outside. One of them asked me for my cell phone and another told me to get dressed because I was under arrest.
4. Within 10 minutes I was taken outside where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie. The tie was so tight that my hands swelled and I was in pain. The tie left marks on my wrists for a long time. I remained tied until the evening. He then blindfolded me and pushed me into the back of a military jeep. He made me sit on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. The dog was in the back with me and it sniffed me the whole time and I was terrified. They did not give my parents any documents.
5. I was taken to Zufin military base at the entrance to our town where I was left in a shipping container until around 11:00 a.m. I was with another adult detainee. Then I was taken in a military vehicle which drove around for a while before dropping me at Salem military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed. The military judge extended my detention. After court I was taken for interrogation also at Salem.
6. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He appointed a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to be afraid. The interrogator could hear the conversation on speaker phone. I spoke to the lawyer for about two minutes, not more.
7. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me my friends had confessed against me. He accused me of throwing stones, a Molotov cocktail and a pipe bomb. He also accused me of firing a gun. He gave me a specific date and showed me some photographs. I denied the accusations. The interrogator was calm. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and at the end he asked me to sign a document in both Arabic and Hebrew. I read the document and then I signed.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched with my clothes before being taken to the minors' section.
9. Three days later I was taken for another interrogation. It was a different interrogator. He was wearing T-shirt and jeans and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He too told me other boys had confessed against me but I continued to deny the accusations. At the end he asked me to sign a document in both Hebrew and Arabic and I signed.
10. I was interrogated five more times. I did not speak to a lawyer except before the first interrogation. I was never informed of my right to silence. After each interrogation I was taken back to Megiddo prison. I was accused of the same accusations and I continued to deny them. After each interrogation I signed documents written in both Hebrew and Arabic.
11. I had about 20 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 7 December 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 12 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 18 months in prison suspended for five years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer pressured me to accept it.
12. A week before I was released I was summoned for an interview with an intelligence officer. He threatened to assassinate my uncle who lives in Gaza. I think he wanted to provoke me to argue with him so he would then have an excuse to put me in administrative detention. I understood his game and kept calm.
13. I spent five months at Megiddo and then I was transferred to Gilboa prison, also in Israel. I was granted early release. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 5 May 2023. My father, my grandfather and my uncles were waiting for me and they took me home. I arrived home at around 5:00 p.m.
14. In prison I helped keep the ward clean and I attended classes in Hebrew. My parents visited me five times and I was allowed to call home only until I turned 18. I called home twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison.
15. I finished school and I now work at a stone quarry.

Location: Kafr Malek, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, J.M.H.B. of Kafr Malek, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers on a hill near the military base close to our village. It was around 5:30 p.m. Three soldiers ambushed me and immediately started to beat me up. They beat and slapped me on my back and shoulder and side using their guns and hands. They also called me "a son of a whore".
2. The soldiers pushed me to the ground and left me there for a short period of time. Then they made me stand up and a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which he tightened very hard. Then he blindfolded me but I was still able to see.
3. The soldiers then led me for about 50 meters to where a military jeep was waiting. They pushed me into the back of the jeep and made me sit on a metal box in the middle. The jeep drove to a place I did not recognize where I was transferred into another jeep which drove me to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I arrived there at around midnight. At around 1:00 a.m. a soldier removed the tie and the blindfold and took me for interrogation.
4. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform and questioned me via an interpreter because she did not speak any Arabic. She was in her twenties. The interrogator phoned a lawyer for me before she started to question me. The lawyer told me I was going to be interrogated and that it was not going to be a big deal. He also told me I was going to be released if all goes well. He spoke to me for less than two minutes and the interrogator was not listening.
5. After I spoke to the lawyer the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but she warned me that remaining silent may turn against me and implied that remaining silent implies guilt. Then she started to ask me questions. She wanted to know what I did with my time and where I was when I was arrested and what I was doing there.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of taking part in the clashes with soldiers and showed me a photo and claimed it was me. I denied the accusation and told her the person in the photo had his back to the camera and that it was not me. She was calm but the interpreter was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice. He told me if I did not confess I was not going home. He also told me he was going to make me spend the night at Ofer prison. I continued to deny the accusation.

7. I was questioned for about an hour. At the end the interrogator asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. The interpreter translated it for me and I signed it when I was sure it was identical to what I had said.
8. Then I was taken in a military vehicle to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 4:30 a.m. I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I had a military court hearing which both my parents attended. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned.
9. The following day I was taken for another interrogation at Binyamin police station. It was a different interrogator. This one called my lawyer but he did not pick up. Then he called another lawyer who told me the same thing as the first lawyer. The conversation was less than a minute and the interrogator was not listening.
10. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator again accused me of taking part in clashes with soldiers near the military base by our village. He was pretending to be polite and spoke softly. Then, when I refused to answer his questions and told him I wanted to remain silent he became aggressive and yelled at me telling me I had to confess. He repeated the same questions many times but I did not say a word. He wanted me to confess to taking part in the clashes.
11. The interrogator showed me the same photograph that the other interrogator had showed me. He also told me he had video footage of me but he never showed me the video. He questioned me for about two hours and I continued to deny the accusation. At the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I refused to sign and until I consulted a lawyer about it. The interrogator called a lawyer for me and the lawyer saw the document on the screen and then told me it was ok to sign, so I signed. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer prison.
12. On 5 July 2022, I met with a welfare officer based on a recommendation by the military court. She was young and did not speak Arabic. She asked me questions about my family and what I did with my life. I answered all her questions. But then she started to ask me questions about the incident I was accused of taking part in. At that point I refused to answer her questions. She was upset and reported me. Then a lawyer, who happened to be there, told her I was not obliged to answer questions about the incident.
13. I had four military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, the welfare officer presented her report to the military judge who took it into account. The judge decided to release me on bail but imposed restrictions on me. He ordered my parents to pay NIS 7,000 and put me under house arrest until the end on proceedings. He told my parents they would have to pay an additional NIS 20,000 shekels if I broke the conditions of my house arrest. I was allowed to go to school, but nowhere else.
14. I was released on bail on 7 July 2022. I was released at Ofer and I went home with my parents, a couple of my friends and my cousin. I arrived home at around 1:00 a.m.

15. I did not have any family visits while in prison because my parents were not issued a permit in time.
16. I have attended four more hearings since my release on bail. At the last hearing, which was on 1 October 2022, the judge accepted the plea bargain between the prosecutor and my lawyer in which my parents would be reimbursed 6,000 out of the NIS 7,000 they had paid to bail me out. He also lifted the house arrest.
17. I found being under house arrest very difficult. I am not the type of person who likes to stay home. In the beginning, my friends visited me quite often, but then they came less and less. I tried to pass the time by studying but I was bored.

Name: K.I.N.D.
Age: 17
Date: 8 June 2022
Location: Beit Fajjar, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Accomplice

I, K.I.N.D. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was still awake at around 2:30 a.m. when Israeli soldiers banged aggressively at our front door. My father answered and about 15 soldiers entered our home. Half of them were masked and looked terrifying. They spoke to my father and asked him about me. When my father pointed at me a soldier took a picture of my face on his mobile phone, then took my identity card and mobile phone. My older brother intervened and said something which upset the soldiers. They wanted to beat him up but then things quietened down and they sat him down on the couch in the living room.
2. I was then taken downstairs to the street and the soldiers remained in the house for about one-and-a-half hours. They did not give my parents any documents explaining the reason for my arrest. At the front door a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and very painful. When I asked the soldier to loosen them he did the opposite and tightened them even more until my wrists bled.
3. Then the soldiers walked me for about 15 minutes to where some military jeeps were waiting. They pushed me into the back of a jeep and made me sit on the metal floor. A soldier swore at me and called me "a son of a whore" and "a brother of a whore". I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left outdoors on the ground until after dawn.
4. A soldier removed the ties and blindfold and took me to an interrogation room. It was around 6:00 a.m. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He allowed me to speak to a lawyer on the phone. The lawyer told me, god willing, he was going to sort things out and have me released safely. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which lasted about one minute and then he disconnected the line.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me my friend, who was arrested a week earlier, had confessed against me. The interrogator said my friend had told him that I had driven my friend to a location where an incident happened. I denied this but he insisted it was true. He was calm and questioned me for about three hours. All the time he wanted me to confess to something I was not involved in. At the end he wanted me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I refused to sign and asked him for a translation. He then gave me a document in Arabic. I read it and then signed it because it was accurate.

6. After the interrogation I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to a cell with other boys. I spent seven days in this cell. I had one military court hearing during this time. My parents did not know about the hearing and they did not attend. The military judge decided to extend my detention.
7. After spending seven days at Etzion I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was searched in my boxer shorts again before being taken to section 13. I spent seven months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel.
8. In all I had seven military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 1 September 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain based on my friend's confession to one year in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received another 10 months in prison suspended for 2.5 years. My lawyer encouraged me to accept the plea bargain and I did although I was not pleased with it.
9. Conditions at Megiddo prison were better than Ofer. I called home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a month. My parents visited me seven times. I worked as a barber and cut the other prisoners' hair. I also exercised and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. I studied for my high school on my own in prison. I sat for the exam but I failed. I now work at a quarry in the village but it is hard work. I start at 6:00 a.m. and finish at 2:00 p.m.
10. I was released at Tulkarem checkpoint after a hearing in which I was granted early release. I was released on 6 February 2023. I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, M.H.A.D. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was asleep when I heard a noise in my bedroom at around 3:00 a.m. I opened my eyes and saw four Israeli soldiers staring at me. I was shocked. When the soldiers banged at our front door, my father rushed to open it before they broke it. The soldiers told us to sit in the living room and took pictures of me, my siblings and my parents. They also took pictures of the house. My brother's family were visiting and my brother's youngest daughter (2 years) was terrified.
2. The soldiers remained inside our house for about 30 minutes. Then they told me to get dressed and they gave my father a document with my name on it and asked my father to sign it. They did not explain to us why they were arresting me. Then a soldier tied my hands whilst in the house. He tied me to the front with two tight plastic ties on top of each other. I felt my fingers were about to fall off. My mother started to cry and then the soldier blindfolded me.
3. The soldiers then took me outside and walked me for about 50 meters before putting me into the back of a military jeep where they made me sit on the metal floor. The soldiers inside the jeep swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". Then they took me to police station in Etzion settlement where I was strip searched. I was then left in a room until later that morning. I was tied, blindfolded and very cold. I was not given anything to eat but I was allowed to drink and use the toilet. I could not sleep although I was very tired because the soldiers around me were very noisy. At around 7:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator untied me and removed the blindfold. He was wearing civilian clothes and had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me he was my lawyer and told me he would see me when I am taken to the military court. The conversation lasted for about one minute and the interrogator was listening.
5. The interrogator told me if I confessed he would send me home. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me he had video footage showing me throwing a Molotov cocktail and that my friends had testified against me. I denied the accusation. He showed me the footage and a photograph of a car. He was aggressive and thumped the table when I denied the accusation.
6. The interrogator also threatened to arrest my father and brother to revoke my family's work permits. The whole time I told him I did not want to confess but, in the end, I had no choice and I confessed after about an hour. After I confessed he told me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding anything.

7. After the interrogation I was taken to a room where I spent seven days with other boys. I could not eat the food they gave me because it was disgusting; the chicken still had feathers on it. During the seven days I had a military court hearing. My detention was extended. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed.
8. After seven days I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken into the minors' section.
9. I attended about 10 more military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 21 September 2022, I accepted a plea bargain which my lawyer negotiated. I was sentenced to 1 year in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I also received a further 10 months in prison suspended for three years.
10. My parents visited me five times and I was allowed to call them twice a month from a phone provided by the prison authorities. While in prison I played table tennis, attended classes and I cleaned the cell. It was a hard experience but I managed.
11. I was granted an early release and I left prison on 5 February 2023, at Ofer checkpoint. I went home with my parents and my aunt. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, R.M.Y.T. of Deir Nidham, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. when Israeli soldiers came into my bedroom and accused me of throwing stones at settlers. About 10 soldiers were in my bedroom and more soldiers surrounded our house.
2. The soldiers told my parents they wanted to arrest me and gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew with some details about my arrest. Then they tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful. They also blindfolded me before leading me on foot to the nearby military base.
3. When we arrived at the military base I was taken inside and left in a shipping container for about 10 hours. Some soldiers at the base beat me on my back and legs. After about 10 hours I was taken to a police station at a nearby settlement where I was questioned for about half-an-hour.
4. The interrogator was wearing a T-shirt and jeans and had a camera in the room. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and spoke to me for less than a minute while the interrogator listened.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones. I denied the accusation. He repeated the accusation and spoke to me in a loud aggressive voice. When I denied the accusation again, he punched me on the side and on my leg above the knee which hurt. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken into section 13. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were not informed and did not attend the hearing. My detention was extended. I had five military court hearings.
7. At the last one hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and a fine of NIS 2,000. I was also given a further sentence suspended for three years. My lawyer told me it was a good deal so I accepted it.
8. I served my whole sentence in Ofer prison. My parents visited me once and I was able to call them twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities. In prison I helped distribute food to the prisoners.

9. I was released on 11 September 2022, at Al Jib checkpoint. I went home with my sister. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

I, S.M.S.Y. of Deir Nidham, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers grabbed me and my friend as we were taking care of our chickens in a field. It was around 12:30 p.m. There were no clashes at the time. The soldiers struck me in my back with their guns and pushed me down to the ground. They swore at me and called my mother and sisters "whores".
2. One of the soldiers pushed my face down and then tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another tying the two. The ties were very tight and painful and my fingers became numb. Then he blindfolded me and tightened it hard. They left me on the site for about 10 minutes then led me down to the main road near a military base. A commander took my identity card number and allowed me to call my father.
3. A short time later a military jeep arrived and I was taken to the back where I sat on a seat. A soldier forced my legs tight together and then slapped me. I was taken to another military base where I was left in a room. The soldiers turned the air conditioner on very cold and I froze. I was left there from around 1:00 p.m. until around 10:00 p.m.
4. At one-point Arabic music was played really loud and the soldiers made fun of me. I was not given any food or drink. At around 10:00 p.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. A soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and left me on a bench in an outdoor area. At around midnight I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore a red T-shirt and police trousers. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. I asked to speak to a lawyer but the interrogator told me my father would appoint me a lawyer later. Then he told me I had the right to remain silent but when I tried to remain silent he yelled at me and urged me to confess.
6. Then the interrogator started to question me. At first, he was calm and polite. He accused me of throwing stones at settlers. I denied the accusation. He then became angry and yelled at me and threatened to lock me up in prison for two years if I did not confess. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and when I told him I wanted to remain silent he yelled at me and told me I had to confess. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to a small area which looked like a cage. I was left there by myself for about 40 minutes. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. By then it was around 3:00 a.m.

8. The following day I had my first military court hearing. My parents were not informed so they did not attend. I was denied bail and my hearing was adjourned.
9. Six days later I was taken for another interrogation. It was at Binyamin settlement by the same interrogator. This time he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to talk much and if I am asked weird questions I should refrain from answering. He also told me not to sign any documents. The conversation lasted for about five minutes and the interrogator was not listening.
10. This time the interrogator did not inform me of my right to remain silent. He told me his name was "Qassem". Then he told me he had spoken to the military judge and the two of them decided to convict me if I did not confess. Then he showed me some photographs and asked me for the names of the boys in the photographs. I told him I did not know any of them.
11. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. Most of the time he pressured me to give names of other boys. He also wanted me to confess to throwing stones but I did not confess. In the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison.
12. In all I had six military court hearings. The last hearing was five days before I was released. During that hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two weeks in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given additional time in prison suspended for three months. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
13. I was released at Ofer checkpoint on 30 July 2022 but my parents were told to wait by Al-Jib checkpoint. My brother sent me a taxi that took me to a restaurant in Beitunia where my family were waiting for me.

I, K.K.K.I. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Six Israeli soldiers grabbed me at the entrance to our village at around 5:00 p.m. One of them beat me on the back and chest with his rifle butt He swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". Then he pushed me to the ground and stripped me of all my clothes. I was completely naked. They searched me and left me naked for about 30 minutes. They did not find anything on me.
2. The soldiers then placed something beside me that looked like a bomb and took a picture. Then they allowed me to get dressed and they tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for weeks. They also shackled me with plastic ties and blindfolded me.
3. I was left on the ground tied, shackled and blindfolded for about four hours. During this time soldiers aimed their guns at me and threatened to shoot me. One of them told me they had shot my father and killed him. I was devastated.
4. After about four hours I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. Inside the jeep soldiers slapped me and swore at me. I was driven to the police station in Etzion settlement. We arrived there at around 10:00 p.m. A soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was in a T-shirt and jeans and had a camera in the room. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and to take care of myself. The conversation lasted for about two minutes with the interrogator was listening. The interrogator did not tell me I had the right to silence.
6. Then the interrogator accused me of planning a terrorist attack against a soldier. I denied the accusation. Then he told me he had photographic and video evidence against me. I continued to deny the accusation. He was aggressive and spoke to me in a loud voice. He threatened to arrest my family members and to impose a security ban on them. I later found out they had revoked the work permits of my brothers, uncles and my grandfather.
7. I was questioned all night over the course of about seven hours. The interrogation ended at around 6:00 a.m. I was tired and sleep deprived and I was not allowed to use the toilet as much as I needed. The interrogator insisted I had to confess and said he was not going to let go of me until I confessed.

8. In the end I confessed to some charges but not all of them. I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail and denied the accusations that had to do with explosives and weapons. After I had confessed he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. He translated it for me and I signed.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. We arrived there at about 4:00 p.m. I was tired and sleep deprived and completely drained. At Ofer I was strip searched before being taken into the minors' section.
10. The following day I had my first military court hearing. My parents were not there because they were not informed about the hearing. My detention was extended.
11. I had about nine military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 22 November 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I also received a bond of NIS 4,000 payable if I'm arrested again. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home as quickly as possible.
12. I spent about six weeks in Ofer prison and then I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. My family visited me in prison twice. My mother, my grandmother and sisters visited me. I was also allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a week.
13. In prison I lifted weights to keep fit and I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 4 January 2022. I went home by myself; my parents could not pick me up. I found out my mother had not slept at all the night before. I arrived home at around 3:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails / shooting

I, B.A.M.I. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. It was the summer holidays and we were all gathered in the courtyard behind our house chatting and having fun. It was around 2:00 a.m. Suddenly a group of Israeli soldiers came on foot and surrounded the area. We heard loud banging at our front door. My father answered and about 30 soldiers entered our home.
2. A female soldier took my mother and sister into the bathroom and physically searched them. Then the commander told me, my mother and my younger siblings to go into one of the bedrooms and told my father and older brother to go into the living room. They left us there for a long time. My mother wanted to bring some water from the kitchen but they did not allow her, and they did not allow her to open the bedroom door.
3. Then the soldiers called for me and asked me to hand over the weapons. I told them I did not have any weapons. Then they searched our home and took everything out of the cupboards and wardrobes and made a huge mess. They remained in our house for about two hours. When my mother was let out and she saw the condition of the house she vomited.
4. Then the soldiers gave my father a document with details about my arrest filled out in Hebrew. The document had a phone number my parents could call but when they called no one answered. The commander told my father to go to the police station in Etzion settlement in the morning to see me. My father went and waited from around 8:00 a.m. until around noon but he was not allowed in.
5. When the soldiers took me outside our house they tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and cut into my wrists and my hands swelled and turned blue. Then they walked me towards a military jeep and I was taken to the back where I sat on a seat. Inside the jeep a soldier blindfolded me and the other soldiers made fun of me.
6. I was taken to Etzion police station where I was given a quick medical examination. Then I was taken to a room where I was left with two other boys until the following morning. During this time, the soldiers gave me some water and allowed me to use the toilet. At around 7:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator was overweight and wearing civilian clothes. He removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He phoned a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer asked me whether I was suspected of throwing stones and I said yes. Then he told me not to confess. The interrogator was listening and the conversation lasted for about a minute.

8. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator told me my friend had confessed against me. Then he told me I was in his office because I was accused of shooting at soldiers and of throwing three Molotov cocktails. He also told me my friend claimed I had sent him to shoot at soldiers. I denied the accusations.
9. When I refused to answer any more questions, the interrogator got mad and shouted at me and told me to speak and confess because he knew everything about me. He questioned me for about three hours. During this time, I was taken into another room with another interrogator who asked me the same questions. This interrogator was typing on his computer. At the end I confessed to shooting and throwing Molotov cocktails.
10. Then the interrogator asked me to sign on the screen of an electronic device and I signed without knowing what I had signed on. Afterwards they took my fingerprints and then took me back to the room. Sometime later I was walked a long distance to a military jeep which took me to Ofer prison. The drive took about three hours and then I was left in the jeep outside Ofer for about four hours.
11. Eventually I was taken inside the prison where I was searched. The guard asked me to pull down my trousers while he searched me. Then I was taken to section 13. The following day I had my first military court hearing. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. The lawyer and the military judge were talking in Hebrew and I did not understand what was going on.
12. The following day I was interrogated again. The interrogator allowed me to speak to a lawyer but did not inform me of my right to silence. He named a friend of mine and asked me if I knew him. Then he wanted to know what I knew about my friend. Then he asked me the same questions about another friend. He questioned me for about two hours and showed me video footage of my two friends. Then he asked me to sign on the screen of an electronic device. I signed without understanding what I was signing.
13. I had three military court hearings; the last one was on the day of my release. My parents were fined NIS 1,700 and the judge imposed a suspended sentence of NIS 5,000 which my parents would have to pay if I am arrested again in the next eight months.
14. I was released at Ofer on 3 August 2022 and I went home with my father and brother. My father took us to a restaurant in Ramallah and then we went home. We arrived home at around 2:00 a.m.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, Y.M.A.A. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. About five months before my arrest an Israeli policeman phoned my mother at around 9:00 a.m. and told her my father had to bring me to an Israeli police station immediately. I went with my father and got there at around 10:00 a.m. At the gate a guard showed up and took me and my father inside.
2. We waited a long time for the interrogator to show up but he never did and we were told to go home and come back the next day. The following day my father and I went to the police station and we were sent home again and told to come back the following day. The third time my father decided not to go.
3. About five months later, my mother woke me up at around 2:00 a.m. and told me there were Israeli soldiers in our neighbourhood. Then I saw a message on Facebook from a friend saying the same thing. Shortly afterwards I heard loud banging at our front door. My father answered and about six soldiers entered our home.
4. The soldiers took our telephones and then sat me down on the couch with my parents and my sister. They kept us there for more than two hours. My knees hurt because I was scared. During this time the soldiers searched my bedroom with a device but did not find anything. My sister asked for a glass of water and when my mother stood up to go to the kitchen she felt nauseous and found it hard to breathe.
5. Later one of the soldiers told my parents they wanted to take me away. When my mother asked where they were taking me the soldier only told my mother that I was a "trouble maker." Then he gave my parents a document filled out in Hebrew with a telephone number for my parents to call and ask about me. When they tried calling the number the line was busy and no one ever answered.
6. Then a soldier followed me into my bedroom while I got dressed. Then the soldier took me outside where he tied my hands with to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. Then they walked me towards the entrance to my village where a soldier blindfolded me with three folds on top of each other.
7. Then they took me to a troop carrier and made me sit on a seat. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. At Etzion I was taken to a cell with other boys. I was left there for about two hours and I could not sleep. Some soldiers swore at me in Hebrew and others brought me some water and allowed me to use the toilet. Then I was taken to another room with couches and I was able to rest a bit. At around 11:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.

8. The interrogator removed the blindfolds but kept me tied. He was in civilian clothes. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He only asked me for my name and then sent me to another interrogator.
9. The second interrogator was also in civilian clothes. He asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer I told him I did. Then he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer asked me whether I was involved in throwing stones and told me not to confess to anything. The interrogator was listening on speaker phone and the conversation lasted for about two minutes.
10. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He showed me video footage of my friend and asked me for his name. I gave his name. The interrogator wanted to know what was my friend doing. I told him I did not know. When he insisted, I told him my friend was throwing a Molotov cocktail.
11. The interrogator questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. He was calm and at the end he asked me to sign on an electronic device on a text written in Hebrew. I signed without understanding. Then I was blindfolded and taken back to the cell for about three hours. I was then taken back to the interrogation room where I confessed to throwing a Molotov cocktail.
12. Then I was taken to a military vehicle which drove around for about three hours. Then I was taken to Ofer military court. My parents did not attend the hearing because they were not informed about it in advance. My detention was extended. After court I was taken to Ofer prison where they asked me to pull down my trousers for a search. Then I was taken to the minors' section.
13. I had three more court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to time served and fined NIS 1,700. I was also given a suspended sentence of eight months suspended for five years and ordered to pay NIS 5,000 if arrested again. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
14. I was released on 3 August 2022 at Ofer and I went home with my father. We arrived home at around 2:00 a.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, A.L.A.T. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up when an Israeli soldier asked me for my name at 3:00 a.m. Four soldiers had entered our home while I was asleep and were in my bedroom. One of the soldiers told me to get up because I was under arrest.
2. The soldiers did not give my parents any documents or reasons for my arrest. They searched our house without causing any damage. One of the soldiers asked me what I had done and I told him I had done nothing wrong.
3. About 30 minutes later they took me outside where a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were tight and painful and my hands swelled. I still have marks on my wrists six months later. They also arrested my 19-year-old brother at the same time.
4. The soldiers led me on a dirt road up a nearby hill all the way to the police station in Etzion settlement. The walk took about an hour. On the way the soldiers beat me on my legs and head and struck me on the back with the butts of their guns. They swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
5. On arrival at Etzion I was blindfolded and left in an outdoor area until around 6:00 a.m. I was not given any food or drink. At around 6:00 a.m. a soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator was dressed in civilian clothes. There was a camera on the wall. He did not phone a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He immediately started to question me and accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at the settlement near our village. He asked me for the reason for such acts. I denied the accusation. Then he told me he had photographic evidence against me. I still denied the accusations.
7. The interrogator then showed me video footage of the incident and I denied I was there. Then he told me my cousin had confessed against me. He was aggressive and thumped the table as he spoke to me. Then he threatened to beat my brother whom they had arrested with me who was waiting outside. Then I heard my brother screaming of pain as someone beat him hard. I later found out they broke my brother's shoulder and he spent a week at the hospital.

8. I was questioned for about three hours but I did not confess; I denied all the accusations. The interrogator forced me to sign a document written Hebrew without translating it for me. He kept insisting and yelling at me telling me to sign until I did.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. We arrived there at around 4:00 p.m. I was taken to the military court and the military judge extended my detention. My parents were not in court because they were not informed about the hearing. Then I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section in the prison.
10. Three days later I was taken for another interrogation, this time at Ofer interrogation centre. It was the same interrogator. He did not call a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He was aggressive and told me I had to confess. Sometimes he spoke to me in Hebrew in a loud voice and I did not understand what he was saying.
11. I was questioned for about two hours and did not sign any documents this time. After the interrogation I was taken back to prison. Eight days later I was transferred to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched on arrival. I spent the rest of my time in prison there.
12. I had six military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 2 January 2023, three days before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a further 10 months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home. After court I was taken back to prison.
13. The following day I was told I was going to be released. I packed my belongings and then I was taken to the waiting room. Five hours later I was told they had made a mistake and took me back to prison. This happened again the following day; I was told I was going to be released and after waiting for about five hours I was sent back to prison again. I felt devastated as I walked back to my cell again. Thankfully, on the third day, I was released.
14. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 5 January 2023. My parents were not informed of my release so I took a taxi to a village near Jerusalem and then I called my father and he picked me up. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.
15. In prison I exercised and helped in the kitchen which kept me busy. I lifted weights and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. I had two family visits and was able to call home twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.
16. I want to take a few days off and then I want to go back to school. I am in tenth grade.

Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, D.H.H.S. of Beit Fajjar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers blew up our front door at around 3:00 a.m. without waiting for my father to open the door. About 30 soldiers came into our house and some of them came straight to my bedroom. I woke up to the voice of soldiers talking to me telling me to get up because I was under arrest. I was terrified.
2. The soldiers collected our identity cards and then searched our house, turning it into a complete mess. One of the soldiers struck me in the back with his gun in front of my mother. My mother started to cry. They remained in our house for about two hours. Most of this time they were searching for something.
3. They barely allowed me to say good bye to my family and told me I was suspected of throwing a Molotov cocktail. They immediately took me outside without giving my parents any documents. Outside the house a soldier tied my hands behind my back with five plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful. He also blindfolded me and then took me on foot for a long distance.
4. I was then put in the back of a military jeep and made me sit on a metal box on the floor. The jeep drove to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was left outdoors for about an hour and then, at around 6:00 a.m., I was taken for interrogation. During this time soldiers swore at me calling me "a son of a whore".
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the ties. He was wearing civilian clothes and had a pistol on his side. He had a camera in his office. He called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. He turned on the speaker phone and listened to me while I spoke to the lawyer. The lawyer told me he was going to contact my parents and tell them where I was. The conversation was less than a minute long.
6. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to defend myself by remaining silent. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail. I denied the accusation. Then he told me other boys had confessed against me. I asked for evidence but he never presented any evidence. Then he named the boys and threatened never to send me home if I did not confess. Then he said he was not going to give me any food until I confessed. He also swore at me. He questioned me for about three hours and at the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. I signed because I thought I had to.

7. Then I was taken for a second interrogation. This interrogator did not allow me to call a lawyer but he told me I had the right to remain silent. He accused me of weapons possession and of firing a gun. I denied the accusations. This interrogator was calm and told me my friends had confessed against me. He too asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without understanding anything. He questioned me for about two hours.
8. After the second interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I was taken to the military court. My parents were not there because they were not told I had a court hearing. The military judge decided to extend my detention.
9. I had about 15 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 30 November 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 12 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another two years in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer told me if I rejected it they would throw me in prison and then give me a two-year sentence. I was scared and accepted the plea bargain.
10. I spent two months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. I spent three days there and then I requested to be transferred to Megiddo prison, also in Israel. The authorities accepted my request. In prison I studied Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics and I chatted to the other prisoners. I left school when I was in seventh grade and I now work at a stone quarry in the village. My parents visited me six times and I was allowed to call them twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison administration. Sometimes it was once every three weeks.
11. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 23 May 2023. I was given an early release and I called my mother after I borrowed a phone from a person I met at the checkpoint. I waited for my family to come and take me home. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

Name: A.A.A.D.
Age: 15
Date: 26 August 2022
Location: Nabi Samuel, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.A.A.D. of Nabi Samuel, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 11:00 a.m. It was holiday and I was still in bed. I woke up to the sound of soldiers in our house. I got up and found about 10 soldiers already inside. They searched our house for about 30 minutes but did not find anything. They told my mother they wanted to take me for a short while for questioning and "would bring me back soon". They did not give us any documents.
2. The soldiers took me outside and put me in a car where I sat on a seat. Inside the car a soldier handcuffed my hands to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were tight and painful. I was not blindfolded. Then they drove to Al Mascobiyyeh police station, in West Jerusalem, where I was left in a small underground cell. The cell measured about 2 x 2 meters without any windows. I was left there by myself for a day. During this time, I was taken for interrogation.
3. Before questioning me, the interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry and told me I had the right to remain silent. The conversation lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator was listening.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes. I don't think he mentioned anything about the right to silence. He accused me of throwing stones at a settler during a protest in our village. He gave me a specific date which was three days before I was arrested. When I denied the accusation, he aggressively pushed the chair I was sitting on and threatened to beat me and told me to turn my face to the wall. Then he pushed the chair again.
5. He questioned me on and off for about three hours. He would tell me to "think about it" and would leave the room and come back to see if I was ready to confess. He told me that if I confessed he would send me home immediately. He also told me all my friends had confessed against me. I did not confess.
6. At the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and, without allowing me to read it, told me to sign it and I did. After the interrogation I was taken back to the cell. At around midnight, I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. Three days later I was taken for another interrogation.
7. This time I was not allowed to speak to a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence. I was questioned by two interrogators about the same accusation. One of the interrogators pretended to be the good guy and was nice to me. The other interrogator was more aggressive. He shouted at me and thumped the table urging me to confess. I did not confess and insisted on my innocence. I was questioned for about an hour. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer. I spent a couple of months at Ofer and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel.

8. The following day I was taken to the military court. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. My detention was extended. I had about 20 hearings. At the last one, which was on the day when I was released, I was released on bail. I was put under house arrest and my parents had to pay NIS 3,500 shekels bail in addition to a bond of NIS 20,000.
9. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 26 January 2023, and I took a taxi home. I arrived home late at night.

1. I was going for a walk with some friends at around 3:00 p.m. when an Israeli police car pulled over, checked my identity card and then ordered me into the police car without explanation. I sat on a seat and the car drove to Al-Jib checkpoint.
2. On arrival at the checkpoint I was handcuffed to the front with metal handcuffs which were tight and painful. I was left at the checkpoint until around 6:00 p.m. then I was taken in a car to Al Mascobiyeh police station, in West Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 7:00 p.m. I was searched with my clothes on and then I was left in a courtyard. At around 10:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
3. Before the interrogation I was allowed to phone a lawyer. The lawyer explained to me I was about to be interrogated and assured me there was nothing to worry about. He told me I had the right to silence and warned me it might not work in my favour in court. I spoke to him on a speaker phone for less than two minutes. The lawyer told me to move away from the interrogator so that he does not listen in.
4. After calling the lawyer, the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent. Then he accused me of assaulting a settler and a policeman during a protest in my village. He gave me a specific date and I denied the accusation. Then he told me soldiers saw me and testified against me. He also told me he had video footage of the incident and that other people who they had arrested had confessed against me. Still, I denied the accusation.
5. He questioned me for about three hours and was typing on a computer. He threatened to lock me up in prison for a long time if I did not confess. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. At first, I refused to sign but when he told it was my statement, I signed.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.
7. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court. My uncle attended and my detention was extended. Ten days later I had another interrogation. This time I was question about a Facebook posting. I did not speak to a lawyer and was not informed of my right to silence. I was questioned for about half-an-hour and then I was taken back to Ofer prison. I was not asked to sign any documents.

8. I had about 20 military court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, the military judge decided to release me on bail and to put me under house arrest. He imposed a bond of NIS 20,000 to be paid if I violate my house arrest conditions. My family had to pay NIS 3,500 for bail. I was allowed to go to school but nowhere else.
9. I spent six weeks in Ofer prison and then I was transferred to Damoun prison, inside Israel. I spent two days there before being transferred to again to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I spent the rest of my sentence in Megiddo prison until I was released on bail.
10. In prison I attended classes in Hebrew. I did not have any family visits but I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks. I was released at Al Jalama checkpoint on 26 January 2023. My parents had arranged for a taxi to take me home. I arrived home at around midnight.

2. The commander spoke to my father and told him they wanted to arrest me. He did not say why and did not give us any documents. Then, 30 minutes later, they allowed me to say goodbye to the family and then they took me outside.
3. Outside the house a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists. Then he blindfolded me and took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor between the soldiers' legs. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was given a quick medical examination. Then I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel. I arrived there at around noon. I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section.
4. The following day I was taken to the military court. My parents attended and my detention was extended. After court I was taken for interrogation. I was shackled when I entered the interrogation room. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and not to sign any documents. We spoke for two minutes on speaker phone while the interrogator listened and then the line was cut off.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of the right to silence. He told me my friends had confessed against me and asked me what I had to say in response. I denied having done anything wrong. Then his mood changed. He became aggressive and threatened to keep me in prison for a long time if I did not confess. He thumped the table aggressively. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then asked me to sign a document in Hebrew, but I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken to the minors' section at Megiddo.
6. I had about 10 military court hearings. On 3 January 2023, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given another 10 months in prison suspended for three years. Later I had another court hearing during which a judge was supposed to decide whether to grant me an early release. I refused to apologise to the judge and he denied me early release.

7. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo. I played table tennis and I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. My family visited me five times and I was allowed to call home twice a month from a phone provided by the prison authorities.
8. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 7 February 2023 and I went home with my father and brothers. We arrived home at around noon

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, T.M.T.S. of Beit Sira, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 4:00 a.m. They blew open the front door with an explosion and stormed in. It cost us NIS 1,900 to fix the door. Many soldiers entered and spread out all over our house. They took our telephones and identity cards. Then one of the soldiers told my mother they were looking for Mustafa. My mother told him Mustafa was her husband but he died 10 years ago. Then the soldier checked the annex in my mother's identity card, made some phone calls and then told her they wanted to arrest me.
2. A soldier gave my mother a document filled out in Hebrew and asked her to sign it. They did not tell us what they wanted me for. About 30 minutes later they took me outside where a soldier tied my hands to the front with a tight plastic tie. It was so tight that it caused me a lot of pain. He also blindfolded me before leading me towards the fence of the nearby settlement of Maccabim.
3. When we arrived at the settlement a troop carrier picked me up. I sat on a seat and I was taken to a police station at Modi'in. The trip took eight hours although the police station is not that far. At the police station I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator did not remove the tie or the blindfold. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. He then left the room. The lawyer told me to take care of myself and not to confess. He spoke to me for about a minute. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator threatened to trash our house if I did not confess. He accused me of throwing stones and wanted to know the names of the boys who were with me.
5. I was scared that he might go to our house and trash it, so I confessed against myself only and did not give any other names. The interrogator questioned me for about an hour and at the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew which I signed without understanding.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken into the minors' section. The following day I had my first military court hearing. My mother did not attend because no one informed her. My detention was extended. I had seven other court hearings.
7. At my last hearing, which was on the day of my release, the military court decided to release me on bail based on my age and a medical report on my mental health condition.

My mother had to pay NIS 4,000 bail and I was told my file had not been closed and that there will be more hearings. I was then released on the same day, 11 November 2022.

8. I did not go to the first hearing after my release because my mother did not think it was necessary. My next hearing will be on 2 January 2023 which I will attend.
9. In prison I watched television and chatted to the other boys, but I was bored. Since my release I avoid leaving the house except to go to school. I stay home and don't go out to play with my friends like I did before. My mother told me it was better for me to stay home. I am finding it hard to focus at school, I still think of my experience in prison.

Name: M.I.M.A.
Age: 14
Date: 4 October 2022
Location: Beit Sira, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.I.M.A. of Beit Sira, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers broke down our front door at around 3:00 a.m. They did not wait for my father to open up. He was right behind the door when it was broken and the soldiers aggressively pushed him aside even though he is handicapped.
2. A large number of soldiers entered our home along with a person who was wearing a Balaklava so they could not be identified. The person wearing the Balaklava showed the soldiers the way to our house. Some of the soldiers went straight to my bedroom. They shone the torch lights on their guns at me and told me to get out of bed.
3. The soldiers put my family into one room and did not allow them to leave. They told my brother, who shares the bedroom with me, to get out and then they started to beat me without any provocation. One of the soldiers then asked me for my mobile phone and identity card. I told him I was too young to have an identity card but he did not believe me and continued to beat me on my arms, shoulders and back. Then he took my father's mobile phone.
4. Then one of the soldiers told me I was under arrest. He gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew, asked him to sign it and then he took it away. They did not allow me to put on proper clothes and dragged me outside in my shorts and under shirt. The soldiers prevented my parents from following me. My younger brother, who was eight, was terrified.
5. Once outside a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them and I was in severe pain. Then he blindfolded me and walked me to where the jeeps were waiting. On the way the soldiers continued to beat me with the back of their guns and kick me, as well as swearing at me. They called me "a son of a whore".
6. The soldiers made me stand by one of the military jeeps and a soldier beat me on my shoulder and neck for no reason. I did not resist or say anything, still he beat me up. Someone accused me of throwing stones at soldiers and wanted to know why I did that. Then I was pushed into the back of a jeep and made me kneel on the metal floor. A soldier pushed my head down with his boots and caused me pain.
7. The jeep drove to a nearby checkpoint where I was given a quick medical examination. The doctor asked me some questions and wanted to know if I had any illnesses. Then I was taken to a deserted area I did not recognize where I was left sitting on a rock. It was cold. Then the alarm on my father's phone, which a soldier had taken, went off so I knew it was 6:30 a.m.

8. About two hours later I was put in a troop carrier which took me to the police station in Binyamin settlement. At Binyamin the soldiers made me sit on a bench and brought me a Coke and a Tuna sandwich. Then a soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
9. The interrogator was in civilian clothes. He had a voice recorder on his desk. He asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer. I thought a lawyer would cost money which my father cannot afford. I told the interrogator I could not afford a lawyer but he told he would call a lawyer paid for by an NGO. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to tell the interrogator I only go to school and back, nowhere else. The call was on speakerphone and the interrogator heard everything.
10. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, he accused me of going with some friends to throw stones at a security car. I denied the accusation. He gave me a specific date and told me my friends had confessed against me. Then he played a voice recording of my friends confessing against me and showed me their signatures on their confession documents.
11. The interrogator questioned me for about two hours and told me I had to confess. He told me lying was not good for me and he wanted me to be frank and straightforward with him. He was aggressive when he said these things but then he changed his mood and became calm and polite. He told me he would bring me cigarettes and food if I confessed. He also told me if I confessed against my friends he would send me home.
12. At the end he wanted me to sign electronically on an iPad. I signed one page and refused to sign any more. The text was in Hebrew.
13. After the interrogation was over I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement where I was left for five hours in a cell by myself. Then an old person with a beard was brought in. He was weird and did not speak to me. He did not return my greeting and I was suspicious of him although he gave me his food. Then a walkie talkie fell out of his pocket and he freaked out. He called the guards as if I had attacked him and they took him out immediately.
14. Later two other people were brought in. One of them claimed I was a collaborator, the other disagreed. He said I had done what I did to defend my country and that it was a noble cause. Then he told me he had killed a soldier and that he was sentenced to 15 years in prison. I told him I had only thrown two stones at soldiers, nothing compared to what he had done. Then the two men were taken out.
15. Later I was strip searched and taken to the minors' section at Ofer prison, near Jerusalem.

16. My first military court hearing was two days after my arrest. My parents did not attend because they were not informed and my detention was extended. I had about eight hearings.
17. At the last hearing, which was about two weeks before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to 3 months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence for three years. I accepted the deal because the prosecutor wanted to keep me in prison for 19 months. My parents needed me and I wanted to go home.
18. I was given early release after signing a document saying I regret what I had done and would never repeat it again. I went home on 4 December 2022.
19. I was dropped off at Al Jib checkpoints but my parents were not there because they were not informed of my early release. I called my father from someone's phone and he started to cry when he heard my voice. I took a taxi to my aunt's home nearby and the following day my mother picked me up and took me home.
20. In prison I passed the time chatting to the other prisoners. I did not have any family visits because the visiting permit was not issued in time.
21. Until this day my parents are unable to fix the front door because they cannot afford it. We all feel unsafe and worry that soldiers might raid our home again.

Date: 10 October 2022
Location: Al Mazra'a Asharqiya, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.F.A.Z. of Al Mazra'a Asharqiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with some friends on land owned by my family, enjoying the nice weather, when a group of Israeli soldiers ambushed us. Two soldiers grabbed me and more soldiers joined and started to beat me up. They kicked and slapped me all over my body. They called me "a son of a whore" and pushed me down to the ground. Other soldiers right next to me shot live bullets in the air to scare us. I was terrified.
2. A soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie and tightened it hard. The tie was very painful and left marks on my wrists for several days. My palms swelled and I lost sensation which was a scary experience. He then blindfolded me and left me on the ground for about 20 minutes.
3. Then the commander came and started to ask me questions without informing me of my rights. He wanted to know what I was doing in the area and whether someone had sent me to throw stones at settlers. I told him we were just having fun on our land, chatting and walking when the soldiers ambushed us for no reason. Then the soldiers made me kneel down on the rough ground until a military jeep arrived.
4. Once the jeep arrived I was taken to the back where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove towards a military base near the village of Sinjil where I was left outdoors on the ground for about an hour. Then I was taken to a room where I was left with the other boys who were arrested with me until the following morning. At around 9:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement and I was immediately taken for interrogation.
5. I was handcuffed during the interrogation. The interrogator was dressed in civilian clothes. Before questioning me, he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed to speak to him. The lawyer told me to deny all accusations and to say no to all questions. The conversation lasted for two minutes and the interrogator was not in the room.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at a settler car. I denied the accusation. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and that soldiers saw me throwing stones. I continued to deny the accusation. Then the interrogator started to speak to me in a loud aggressive voice. He wanted me to confess but I did not confess.
7. I was questioned for about 10 minutes. At the end of the interrogation the interrogator showed me documents written in Hebrew and wanted me to sign them but I refused to sign. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to the minors' section.

8. The following day I was taken to the military court. My parents were there and the hearing was adjourned.
9. A few days later I was taken for another interrogation. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of the same accusation and told me it was in my interest to confess. He said if I confessed I would not spend a long time in prison. I did not confess. I was questioned for about 40 minutes. At the end he showed me a document in Hebrew and told me it was my statement. He asked me to sign it and I did. Then I was taken back to Ofer.
10. I had about seven military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 9 January 2023, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I also received another six months in prison suspended for three years in addition to a bond of NIS 4,000. I accepted the deal because my lawyer told me it was the best he could get.
11. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer prison where I worked at the canteen and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. The level was too low and I did not benefit at all. I dropped out of school after tenth grade and I now work as an electrician.
12. I was given an early release from prison. I was released at a checkpoint near Tulkarem after a hearing in Ramleh where they decided to grant me early release. I was released on 6 February 2023, and I went home by myself because my parents were not informed of my early release. I hitch hiked to a nearby village and then called my father who came and picked me up. I arrived home in the evening and had a warm welcome from all my friends and family. I was very happy to finally be home.

I, F.O.A.M. of Al Mazra'a Asharqiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was ambushed by a group of Israeli soldiers at around 7:30 p.m. I was with my friends enjoying a walk in the hills when the soldiers surrounded us. One of the soldiers kicked me in my side and I was winded. I could not take a breath in and felt I was suffocating. It was a terrifying feeling. Another soldier kicked my legs and swore at me.
2. Then a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie and tightened it hard. My hands swelled and the tie left marks on my wrists for days. I was also blindfolded and left on the ground for about 30 minutes.
3. After about 30 minutes I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep drove to a nearby military base where I was left on the ground outside for about three hours before being taken inside. I could not sleep and I was not given anything to eat or drink. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement.
4. At the police station I was left in a room until around noon before being taken for interrogation. Before questioning me, the interrogator called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to worry because the interrogator was not allowed to beat me. The conversation lasted for about a minute and the interrogator left the room.
5. The interrogator was dressed in civilian clothes. He did not remove the tie during the interrogation. The soldiers who arrested me were also in the room with a female soldier.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested and whether someone had sent me there. I told him I was having a picnic with my friends by a well on my friend's land. He told me he did not believe me and accused me of intending to throw stones at settler cars. When I denied the accusation, he raised his voice at me and I yelled back at him. Then he told me my friends had confessed against me and told me to confess and not lie to him. I continued to deny the accusation.
7. He questioned me for about 30 minutes. At the end he asked me to sign some documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign something I did not understand. I asked for a translation but he did not provide a translation.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where they wanted to strip search me but I refused to take off my clothes. They searched me in my boxer shorts. Then I was taken to the minors' section. I arrived at Ofer at around 9:00 p.m.
9. The following day I was taken to the military court. My father and brother attended and my detention was extended.
10. About a week later I was taken for another interrogation. I was allowed to call a lawyer before the interrogation. The lawyer told me not to worry. The interrogator left the room during the phone call which lasted about three minutes.
11. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator played a voice recording of me swearing at him. When I denied it was me he accused me of lying. He questioned me for about 90 minutes and was calm most of the time. At the end, when I was driving him crazy, he said I should wait and see who laughs last. Then he asked me to sign a pile of documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
11. After the interrogation I was taken to a room with two other boys who were arrested with me. The interrogator came by and threatened to beat us up if we did not confess. Thankfully he did not carry forward his threat.
12. I had about seven military court hearings. At the last one, which was about a month before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I also received a suspended sentence of another six months, suspended for three years. I was also put on a NIS 5,000 bond. I accepted the plea bargain based on my lawyer's advice.
13. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer. My family visited me once and I was able to call home three times from a phone provided by the prison authorities. In prison I worked as a barber and I walked in the courtyard to keep fit.
14. I was given an early release and I was released at a checkpoint near Tulkarem on 6 February 2023. My parents were not informed of my release and I took a lift with person who drove me to the nearby village and then I called my father who picked me up. I arrived home at around 7:30 p.m.

I, H.S.H.A. of Al Mazra'a Asharqiya, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with my friends on a hill along Route 60 at around 8:00 p.m. when we were suddenly ambushed by two Israeli soldiers. One of them shot live bullets in the air and then aimed his gun at me. I was terrified. He told me to raise my hands up and then told me to lie down on the ground.
2. A few minutes later they were joined by about 10 more soldiers. One of the soldiers swore at me calling me "a son of a whore" and then he kicked and slapped me. He kicked me hard on my right leg and caused me a lot of pain.
3. Then one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. My hands swelled and the tie left marks on my wrists for days. I was also blindfolded and left on the ground for about two hours.
4. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. Soldiers inside the jeep made fun of me and continued to swear. I was taken to a military base where I was left in a courtyard with about 50 soldiers who made fun of me and swore at me and my religion. I was left there until around 6:00 a.m. The soldiers did not allow me to sleep and kicked me to wake me up whenever I fell asleep.
5. At around 6:00 a.m. I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left in a room for about six hours. I pleaded with the soldiers to allow me to use the toilet and to bring me some water but they refused. Then I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. He was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to tell the interrogator what had happened and told me not to worry. We spoke for about three minutes and the interrogator was listening because he turned the speaker phone on.
7. After speaking to the lawyer the interrogator wanted to know what I was doing in the area where I was arrested and whether someone had sent me to throw stones at settler cars. I told him I was with my friends on the hill. He wanted to know whose idea it was and whether we came by car.
8. He was mostly aggressive and when I told him I had not done anything wrong he threatened to arrest my parents and to lock me up in prison for a long time. He yelled at me for about an hour and at the end he asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew and I signed. Then I was taken into another room while my friends were interrogated.

9. At around 7:00 p.m. I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken into section 13, where I had my first meal in 24 hours.
10. The following day I had a military court hearing. My brother and cousin attended and my detention was extended.
11. Ten days later I was taken for another interrogation. I was allowed to speak to a lawyer before the interrogation. He gave me a general idea about what might happen to me during the interrogation. The interrogator was listening to the call that lasted about three minutes.
12. After speaking to the lawyer the interrogator informed me of my right to silence. He had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. He questioned me for about an hour about the same suspicions. I repeated the same answers. Then he asked me to sign a document written in Arabic. I refused to read or sign the document because the other prisoners at Ofer warned me against signing any documents except in the presence of a lawyer.
13. I had about eight military court hearings. My last hearing was about two months before I was released. During that hearing I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 1,500. I also received a suspended sentence of six months in prison suspended for three years. My lawyer advised me to plead guilty to throwing stones at the main road used by settlers in return for a reduced sentence. It was tough for me to confess to something I did not do especially when the prosecutor did not have any evidence against me.
14. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer. I had an early release hearing and my time in prison was reduced to four months.
15. In prison I walked in the courtyard to keep fit and I chatted to the other prisoners and played table tennis. We were about 66 minors in the section; 15 of who had spent time in solitary confinement. I found it hard to be away from my family and friends. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. My parents visited me once and I was allowed to call home twice a week from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.
16. I was released on 6 February 2023 at a checkpoint near Tulkarem after the early release hearing. My parents were not expecting me to be released on that date so they were not there to take me home. I took a lift with someone to a nearby village and then my family picked me up from there and took me home. I arrived home in the evening.

I, M.M.S.I. of Beit Sira, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested from home at around 3:30 a.m. I was asleep when I heard loud banging at our front door. By the time I got out of bed many Israeli soldiers were already inside our home. I heard one of the soldiers call my name. He told my parents they wanted to arrest me and question me about stone throwing. The soldier gave my parents a document filled out in Hebrew and asked my father to sign it. They did not give us a copy of this document.
2. The soldiers took away all our phones. Within about half-an-hour I was taken outside where my hands were tied to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were a bit painful. I was then blindfolded before being led away on foot for about 30 minutes before being put in the back of a troop carrier. Inside I sat on a seat.
3. The soldiers inside the troop carrier made fun of me and the other boys and threatened to strip me. We were then taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left outdoors for about three hours before being taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold but kept me tied. The interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him while he left the room. The lawyer told me not to confess and to persevere. The conversation lasted for about two minutes.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator asked me if I knew why I was in his office. When I told him I did not, he told me I was accused of throwing stones at the Wall during clashes. At first, I denied the accusation.
6. The interrogator insisted I had to confess. He gave me a date in September and told me one of my friends had confessed against me. He then brought his face close to mine and shouted "confess, confess". He was swearing and wanted me to confess against my friends. He asked me about one of my friends and wanted me to tell him what I knew about him. I told him his father had died when he was very young and that he stutters a bit.
7. At one point another interrogator came in and yelled at me urging me to confess. Then he opened the door and ordered me to strip. I refused to strip and confessed to throwing two stones at the wall. I was questioned for about one-and-a-half hours. I did not confess against my friends.
8. Then the first interrogator asked me to sign lots of documents in Hebrew. I signed without understanding anything. Then I was taken to Ofer prison where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to the section for children. The following day I had a military court hearing. My father attended and my detention was extended.

9. I had six more military court hearings. At the last one I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence for two years and an order that my parents had to pay another NIS 10,000 if I'm arrested again. I accepted the plea bargain because my lawyer negotiated it.
10. I spent the rest of my sentence at Ofer where I studied Hebrew and Arabic, watched television, helped in the kitchen and chatted to the other boys. I worried about my school work and my younger brother who had to undergo surgery in my absence. I did not have any family visits because the permit to visit was not issued in time.
11. I was given early release and I was released on 4 December 2022. I was dumped someplace I did not know. I asked someone and he told me I was at Al Jib checkpoint. My parents were not informed of my release and they were not there so I called them and my father and uncle drove from the village to take me home. I arrived home at around 1:00 a.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, J.M.J.H. of Beit Sira, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 4:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our home. I got up and found eight soldiers in our house with many more outside. One of the soldiers told me to sit down on the floor and told my parents that I threw stones at soldiers and wanted to know why. Then one soldier gave my parents a document filled out in Hebrew and asked my father to sign it. Then they told me to get dressed because I was under arrest.
2. After I got dressed a soldier tied my hands to the front with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were not painful. Then they blindfolded me and took me outside. The soldiers remained in our house for no more than 15 minutes; it seemed like they were in a hurry.
3. The soldiers then led me towards the Wall where I waited a short before I was taken to a troop carrier where I sat on a seat. I was driven somewhere where I was given a quick medical examination before being taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. I was taken to a room where I sat on a chair. At around noon a soldier removed my blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator wore civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He started to interrogate me before allowing me to speak to a lawyer. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of throwing stones and wanted me to confess. I denied the accusation.
5. At first, he was calm but when I denied the accusation he became angry and spoke to me in a loud voice. He scared me with his loud voice. When I told him I did not know anything he shouted even louder and slapped me. At the end I confessed to being too close to the Wall and then I confessed to throwing five stones.
6. After confessing the interrogator phoned a lawyer and handed me the telephone to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess because if I did I would go to prison and if I did not I would be sent home. When I told the lawyer I had already confessed, the line was cut off. The conversation lasted for less than a minute and the interrogator left the room during the conversation. I don't think I was asked to sign any documents.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.

8. The following day I had a military court hearing which both my parents attended. My detention was extended. I had eight court hearings. Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails

I, J.O.M.H. of Beit Sira, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 4:00 a.m. I woke up to the sound of loud banging at our front door. At first, I thought I was dreaming and went back to sleep, but then a soldier struck me with his elbow on my knee and grabbed me by my T-shirt around the neck. He pulled me out of bed and pushed me into the corner of the bedroom.
2. Five other soldiers surrounded my parents and siblings. My mother was terrified and she passed out. I was worried about her. Then one of the soldiers pulled out a piece of paper from his pocket and marked my name on it. Then he took me to another room with my father. He told my father they wanted to arrest me but did not give a reason. He then gave my father a document filled out in Hebrew and asked my father to sign it. He then took the document away and did not give my father a copy.
3. A soldier then told me to get dressed but did not give me enough time. I wanted to grab a warm jacket but there was not time. The soldiers then took me outside without allowing me to say goodbye to my family.
4. Outside our house a soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were not painful. Then the soldiers walked me on a dirt road for about an hour. On the way I fell a couple of times and the soldiers kicked and slapped me and called me "a son of a whore". I was so upset that I swore back at them. When we got to a military watchtower a soldier wanted to blindfold me but I refused.
5. I was left by the watchtower for about 30 minutes before being taken into a bus which drove me to a place where I was given a quick medical examination. About an hour later I was taken to the police station in the settlement of Modi'in Illit.
6. Inside the settlement a soldier brought me a disgusting tuna sandwich which I could not eat. I was desperate to go to the toilet and after pleading with the soldiers multiple times they finally allowed me to use the toilet. At around 2:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. I was suspicious of the person on the line and refused to talk to him. The interrogator spoke to the lawyer himself but not me. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of chasing a soldier with the intention of killing him. I denied the accusation and challenged him to provide evidence.

8. Then the interrogator told me my friends had confessed against me. He showed me a photograph of a person and told me he had thrown a Molotov cocktail at a settler car and broke the car windows. He wanted me to give him the name of that person and I told him I did not know him. Then he threatened to lock me up in prison for three years. He raised his voice and thumped the table when I denied the accusation. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and then asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I refused to sign.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to a military court. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the hearing. My detention was extended. After court I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, but the authorities refused to admit me. Instead I was taken for more questioning by an intelligence officer at Ofer.
10. The intelligence officer did not inform me of my rights and did not call a lawyer for me. He told me if I helped him he would help me. I was questioned for about 15 minutes and was not asked to sign any documents.
11. After the interrogation I waited for about four hours before I was finally admitted into Ofer prison. I was strip searched before being taken into the minors' section. The other prisoners treated me well, they prepared dinner for me and sat with me to watch television.
12. The following day I was taken to the military court. The military judge decided to release me on bail. My parents had to pay NIS 1,000 and I was told I would be called in to attend court hearings in the future. So far, I have not been informed of any dates for court hearings.
13. I was released on 14 October 2022, the day of the last hearing. I was dropped off at Ofer gate and I did not find my family. I walked all the way to a supermarket in the nearby village of Beitunia and asked the shopkeeper to call my father. My father came and we arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

1. I was going home from school to prepare for my exams at around 11:00 a.m. At the time there were clashes with Israeli soldiers in the area and one of the soldiers ordered me to stop but I kept walking. He then shot live bullets in my direction and I started to run. I ran a short distance but then I tripped and fell to the ground and the soldiers grabbed me.
2. A soldier lifted me up and dragged me towards a military jeep. The soldiers moved away very quickly because they were being pelted with stones by the young men who were in the area. When we got to the jeep a soldier tied my hands to the back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. Then he pushed me into the back of a jeep and allowed me to sit on a seat. Inside the jeep the soldiers kicked and slapped me and called me names and said rude words about me. The jeep drove to the nearby checkpoint where I was left on a chair for a short while.
3. Then I was taken to the police station at the nearby settlement of Kiryat Arba where I was blindfolded before being put in a shipping container. They made me sit next to a pile of ammunition and the soldiers around me were tense. I was left there for about five hours and I was not given any food or water but I was allowed to use the toilet.
4. After about five hours I was taken to the settlement itself where the soldiers picked up another detainee. Then they took the two of us to Etzion police station. On the way soldiers swore at me and called me "a fucker". I was left by the gate for about an hour and then the interrogator came by, removed the ties and the blindfold and spoke gently to me. He wanted to befriend me so that I would relax and give him the information that he wanted. I did not really trust him.
5. Then he took me to an interrogation room. He showed me an official document with my father's photo printed on it. Then he called my father and told him I was in detention. Then he told my father to appoint me a lawyer.
6. The interrogator then showed me a document written in Arabic and Hebrew about my rights, including my right to silence. He did not call a lawyer for me. Then he started to question me. He told me three soldiers had testified against me and told him I was throwing stones. I denied the accusation. Then he told me a soldier was hit by a stone and a wing mirror on a military jeep was broken. I continued to deny the accusation.

7. Then he wanted me to tell him the names of the boys who were throwing stones at soldiers. I told him I did not recognize them because they were all masked. He was calm and treated me well, I think because I was small in size and he thought I was younger than I actually was. He told me it was better for me to confess because then he would send me home. He questioned me for about three hours. He told me he had video evidence against me. When I asked him to show me the video he refused.
8. Then he told me I had to confess because he needed a reason to send me to prison. I later found out that when I refused to confess he wrote down I had confessed to throwing three stones. At the end of the interrogation he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I refused to sign he told me if I did he would send me home within two days.
9. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I arrived there at around 1:00 a.m. Two days later I was taken to the military court.
10. My parents did not attend my first court hearing because they were not informed and my detention was extended. I had five more hearings. At the last one, which was about six weeks before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 4,000. I was also given another two months in prison suspended for two years. I accepted the deal based on my lawyer's advice.
11. I spent all my prison sentence at Ofer where I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and Mathematics. The lessons were not useful because the level was very basic. I was a good student before I was arrested and was hoping to get a good average in my high school exams, now I am not sure. My father applied for a permit to visit me in prison but he was rejected, so I did not have any family visits. I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks, sometimes less.
12. I was released at Ofer gate on 2 February 2023. The prison authorities did not give me back my school bag which I had when I was arrested. All my books and school supplies were in it. To replace them I would need at least NIS 800. I went with another prisoner's family to Al Ram where my father met me and took me home. I arrived home at around midnight. I did not sleep all night that night because I was very happy to be home and too excited.

Name: A.I.A.S.
Age: 16
Date: 20 October 2022
Location: Beit El, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, A.I.A.S. of Al Jalazun refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was arrested during clashes near Beit El settlement at around 4:00 p.m. I was standing on the side of the road watching the clashes when somebody shouted "soldiers.... soldiers". I immediately ran as fast as I could.
2. An Israeli military jeep drove up behind me and nearly ran me over. Then four soldiers stepped out of the jeep, grabbed me and started to beat me hard. They kicked me on my legs and punched me in the face until blood came out of my nose. I was in pain. They also swore at me and called me "a son of a whore".
3. The soldiers took me to the back of a jeep and made me bend down on the metal floor as if I was praying. A soldier put his boots on my head and pushed me down. I was left in that position for about two hours. Then a soldier tied my hands to the front with one plastic tie which was very tight and painful. It left marks on my wrists for days. I was also blindfolded with a rag that smelled of tear gas.
4. About two hours later I was transferred to the back of another jeep where I sat on the metal floor between the soldiers' feet. Then I was taken into the police station in Binyamin settlement where I was left in a room with other detainees for about five hours. At around midnight, a soldier removed the blindfold and I was taken for interrogation.
5. I was still handtied when I was taken into the interrogation room. The interrogator was in an Israeli police uniform and had a camera in the room. He did not speak Arabic and questioned me through an interpreter. He phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid and to tell the interrogator I was just watching the clashes and did not take part. He also told me the interrogator was not allowed to physically abuse me. The interrogator left the room during the conversation which lasted for about a minute.
6. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He wanted to know the distance between my house and the area where I was arrested near the settlement of Beit El. Then he wanted to know how many stones I had thrown at soldiers. Then he told me a soldier had testified that he saw me taking part in the clashes. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was calm and moved on from one question to the next methodically. He questioned me for about one-and-a-half hours. In the end he wanted me to sign electronically on an iPad on text written in Hebrew. I signed because the interpreter translated the text for me.

7. After the interrogation was over I was taken to another location where I sat on a chair. When I fell asleep a soldier slapped me to wake me up. During this time I was given an apple. I remained on the chair for about four hours.
8. After about four hours I was taken to Al Mascobiyeh police station in West Jerusalem. where I was strip searched on arrival before being taken to a cell with other detainees. I spent four days at Al Mascobiyeh. During this time, I had two court hearings. The first hearing was at Ofer military court, which was attended by my bother, and the second one was conducted on zoom which my family did not attend.
9. During the second hearing the military judge decided to release me on bail because I have had major surgery on my arms. When I was young I fell and badly broke both arms. My father had to pay NIS 2,500 bail. After the zoom hearing I was taken back to the cell. Then, at around 6:00 p.m., one of the prison guards called my name and told me I was going to be released.
10. I was released on 25 October 2022. I was dropped off at Qalandiya checkpoint and I took a taxi home to the camp. I was confused and did not know the way home. My brother met me at the entrance.

Date: 20 October 2022
Location: Hebron, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, L.B.L.A. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. There were clashes with Israeli soldiers at Bab El Zawiya at around 4:00 p.m. I was there. A soldier grabbed me and immediately started to beat me up. He banged my arm and back against a concrete block and caused me a lot of pain. He also beat me with the back of his gun. The soldier also swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". Then he shackled me and blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with a Kufiyeh which was not painful.
2. Then the soldiers took me to a bus where I sat on a seat. The bus drove to the settlement of Kiryat Arba. At the settlement I was left in the rain for about three hours. I was kicked and slapped and soldiers swore at me as they passed by. When I fell asleep a soldier struck me with the back of his gun to wake me up. We were four detainees there and they brought us one glass of water for all of us. A soldier also threatened to shoot me if I moved. In the middle of the night I was taken for interrogation. I was hungry and sleep deprived.
3. As soon as I entered the interrogation room they replaced the Kufiyeh with one plastic tie. They painfully tied me to the back and the tie left marks on my wrists. The interrogator called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him on speaker phone while he listened. The lawyer told me to tell the interrogator exactly what I had done. I spoke to him for less than a minute.
4. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He told me he had video evidence against me and asked me what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. He questioned me for about an hour and was aggressive at times. He was in civilian clothes. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. I signed without understanding anything because I could not care less.
5. After the interrogation I was taken back to the outdoor area where I was left until 6:00 p.m. the following day. I did not sleep at all. Then I was put in a bus which took me to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was tied and blindfolded and when I tried to remove the blindfold a soldier slapped me. I arrived at Etzion at around 8:00 p.m. I was taken to a cell by myself.
6. In the morning I was taken to a military court but my parents were not informed and they did not attend. My detention was extended. After court I was taken back Etzion police station for a second interrogation.

7. The interrogator did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of the same accusations and showed me my friends' files. He told me if I confessed against any of them he would send me home. He questioned me for about three hours and accused me of planning a terrorist act. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
8. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 6:30 p.m. I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I had five military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 20 December 2022, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to three-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received another three months in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home rather than remain in prison for more court hearings.
9. I spent all my prison sentence at Ofer. I left school when I was in eighth grade and that is why I did not attend classes in prison. My family visited me twice and I was allowed to call them twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.
10. I was released at Ofer on 20 January 2023. I went home with my brother and uncle. I arrived home at around 7:00 p.m.

I, Q.I.A.R. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at the supermarket at around 11:00 a.m. when I saw a group of undercover soldiers running towards me. I ran away but they chased and caught me. At the time there were clashes with soldiers involving shooting, tear gas and stun grenades. One of the soldiers accused me of throwing stones at soldiers.
2. I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on the metal floor. A soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were a bit painful and left red marks on my wrists.
3. The jeep drove to the nearby checkpoint where I was left on the ground for about an hour. I was told the soldiers were waiting for the commander to arrive. Then I was taken to another checkpoint where I was put in a shipping container. Soldiers surrounded me and made fun of me. I asked for some water and they brought me some.
4. In the afternoon I was taken to the police station in Kiryat Arba settlement where I was left until around 3:00 a.m. Then I was left in a room but I was tired and hungry and I could not sleep. Whenever I fell asleep the soldiers kicked me to wake me up. At around 3:00 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator called a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to tell everything that had happened to me in court. The conversation lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator was listening.
6. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and questioned me while I was still hand tied. He had a camera in the room and a pistol on his side. He told me I had to tell him everything and to confess. He did not tell me I had the right to silence. He also told me if I apologised and said I was sorry he would send me home. He told me the other boys whom they had arrested were sent home because they said they were sorry. At first, I denied the accusation but then when the interrogator showed me some photographs and told me I would have a reduced sentence if I confessed, I decided to confess.
7. I was questioned for about 30 minutes. At the end the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed without understanding anything. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13.

8. The following day I was taken to the military court. My parents were not there because they were not informed. My detention was extended. I had five court hearings. At the last one, which was a week before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four-and-a-half months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a further one year suspended sentence and a bond of NIS 10,000. I accepted the bargain because I knew I was going home in a week.
9. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer prison where I played table tennis and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I also attended drawing lessons which I liked. I missed four months of school and I found it hard to keep up when I went back. I did not have any family visits but I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks.
10. I was released at Ofer on 2 February 2023. My parents were told to wait somewhere else so I took a ride with another parent to Al Ram and then my father picked me up and took me home. I arrived home at around midnight.

I, E.E.N.U. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at the supermarket at noon when clashes broke out between young men and Israeli soldiers. It was chaotic. Four soldiers ran towards the supermarket and three of them came in and grabbed me. One of them tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties connected to each other like a chain. They were tight and painful and left marks on my wrists. He then blindfolded me and quickly took me outside and pushed me into the back of a military jeep and forced me to sit on the metal floor.
2. The jeep drove to a nearby military base called Jabara where I was left in a room. At around midnight I was taken for interrogation. The interrogator removed the hand ties and blindfold. He was not wearing a uniform and had a voice recorder on his desk. He immediately started to question me and told me soldiers had testified against me. He claimed they had told him I was throwing stones. I denied the accusation. Then he told me to save himself and myself the hassle and confess because it was late at night and he was tired.
3. He questioned me for about 45 minutes and at the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew and I signed without thinking much about it because I was tired. He questioned me without allowing me to speak to a lawyer and without informing me of my right to silence. At one point another interrogator came into the room and claimed he had photographic evidence against me. When I asked to see the photographs the other interrogator told him he was not going to show me anything. Then he asked me if any of my family members had work permits to work in Israel. When I told him my brother had a permit he threatened to revoke it if I did not confess.
4. After the interrogation I was taken back to the room where I was left on the floor until noon. I did not sleep at all. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. The following day I was taken to the military court. My family did not attend because they were not told I had a hearing, and my detention was extended.
5. I had seven military court hearings. About a month before I was released I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 2,500. I also received a suspended sentence of six months suspended for three years. My lawyer told me it was a good deal and advised me to accept it and I did. He told me there was no other choice for me.

6. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer. My parents did not visit me because they did not apply for a permit. In prison I played table tennis, watched television and attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I recently sat for my final high school exams and I am hoping to get a good average. In the meantime I am working at a shoe shop to earn some money.
7. I was released from Ofer on 23 January 2023, and I went with another family to Ramallah. Then I took public transportation to Hebron. I arrived home in the evening. My parents were not expecting me on that day and that is why they did not come to meet me.

Accusation: Protesting

I, M.I.R.H. of Azzun, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up to the sound of a loud explosion at around 4:00 a.m. I got out of bed to see what had happened and found about 30 Israeli soldiers spread all over our home. My mother asked them what they wanted but almost immediately things got out of hand.
2. One of the female soldiers twisted my sister's arm and pushed her to the floor; another punched me in the face when he asked me for my identity card and I told him I did not know where it was. He swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". Another tried to lock my mother in the bedroom and then punched her in the chest when she resisted.
3. After this violence a soldier told my mother to collect all our phones and identity cards. My mother was in shock and she could not find the identity cards and the phones easily. She was tired having spent her day in the fields picking olives.
4. The soldiers then searched our house and trashed it. They deliberately broke furniture and kitchenware and threw our clothes on the floor and broke shelves and doors. The situation was chaotic and scary. The soldiers remained inside our house for about two hours, causing a lot of damage and scaring my younger siblings, who were 6, 11 and 12 years.
5. Later one of the soldiers told my mother they wanted to arrest me. They did not give us any documents and did not tell us the reason for my arrest. Then they took me into my bedroom where a soldier tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was tight and painful. A soldier told me not to speak to my family from then on and told me to change my clothes. Then he blindfolded me and took me outside.
6. Once outside the soldiers took me on foot to the nearby settlement of Karni Shomron. I walked for about one kilometer and then I was taken to a room where a soldier guarded me the whole time. Inside the room I sat on a chair and the soldier did not speak to me.
7. At around 1:30 p.m., I was taken to Megiddo prison, inside Israel, where I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to the section for children. The following day I was taken to Salem for interrogation.
8. At Salem I was taken to an interrogation room, handcuffed and shackled, and the interrogator did not remove them. I was questioned by a female interrogator who spoke fluent Arabic. She was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. Before questioning me, she allowed me to speak to a lawyer. The lawyer asked me whether I had already confessed then told me not to confess and not to worry. The interrogator was able to listen to the short conversation on speaker phone.

9. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator told me she had confessions from my friends that I had taken part in a protest in the village. I denied the accusation and told her I did not know the boys whom she claimed had confessed against me.
10. The interrogator was calm and did not shout or threaten me. She questioned me for about 30 minutes and then she asked me to sign a document written in Arabic. I read the document and when I found it was identical to what I had said I signed it.
11. After the interrogation I was taken to Salem military court for a hearing. My parents were not informed and they did not attend. My detention was extended.
12. I had 10 military court hearings, the last one was on 28 February 2023, on the day when I was released. I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I also received a further three years in prison suspended for five years. Two of the four months in prison were to serve a suspended sentence for a previous detention. I accepted the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
13. I spent my prison sentence at Megiddo where I spent my time chatting to the other prisoners. My parents visited me four times.
14. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 28 February 2023, and I went home with my father. I arrived home in the evening.

Accusation: Intending to stab

I, Z.Y.I.Q. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was shopping in the market when an Israel soldier called me over to him. It was around 5:00 p.m. There were clashes in the area at the time. Suddenly about 10 soldiers approached me and one of them handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. They were tight and painful. I was also blindfolded. Then I was put in a military vehicle and taken to the settlement of Kiryat Arba.
2. When we arrived at the settlement there were lots of Jewish people staring at me. I was taken to a room where I was left until around noon the following day. I was not given any food or drink and I did not have access to a toilet.
3. At around noon the following day I was taken somewhere else for interrogation. Before taking me to the interrogation room a soldier removed the handcuffs and the blindfold. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a voice recorder on his desk. He called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him before questioning me. The lawyer tried to calm me down and told me there was nothing to be afraid of and told me to take care of myself. The interrogator was listening to the conversation which was less than two minutes.
4. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He accused me of attempting to stab a soldier. I denied the accusation. The interrogator was calm. He questioned me for about 15 minutes and asked me to sign a document in Hebrew which I signed.
5. The following day I had another interrogation. The interrogator had a camera in the room and he allowed me to speak to a lawyer but did not inform me of my right to silence. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and accused me of the same accusation. At the end he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew which I signed.
6. After the interrogation I was taken to Hasharon prison, inside Israel, where I was strip searched. While there I had three more interrogations. Each time I spoke to a lawyer but I was never informed of my right to silence. Each time I signed documents in Hebrew.
7. My first military court hearing was after the first interrogation. I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My parents were there. The military judge extended my detention. I had about 10 hearings. At the last one, which was about four months before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,500. I also received a suspended sentence valid for five years.

8. After spending two weeks at Hasharon I was transferred to Damoun prison, also in Israel. My parents visited me twice and I was allowed to call them for a total of one hour divided over five days.
9. I was released at Salm checkpoint on 9 April 2023. My parents and brothers were there to meet me. I arrived home in the evening.
10. In prison I walked in the courtyard and I read and watched television. I also attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. The lessons were useless; they were appropriate for first graders, but not for a 17-year-old. After I was released I sat for my high school final exams and I am hoping to get a good average. I want to get a driving license and to go to university. I would like to become a school teacher for young children.

Name: B.S.A.L.
Age: 16
Date: 2 November 2022
Location: Aida refugee camp, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Unknown

I, B.S.A.L. of Aida refugee camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. A night before I was arrested, "Captain Shaker", the Israeli officer in charge of Aida refugee camp, phoned me and told me to meet him at the checkpoint. He threatened that if I did not show up at the checkpoint he was going to send soldiers to get me.
2. The following night I received a message on my mobile phone from my friends at around about Israeli military activity in our camp, it was around 3:00 a.m. I looked out the window and saw lots of soldiers by our front gate. I immediately woke my parents up. My father rushed to the front door and opened it. About 20 soldiers pushed the door and came in. Some of the soldiers were masked.
3. The commander asked for my older brother, who is 20. When my mother heard him call his name she panicked and started to shout and tried to push the soldier out of my brother's bedroom. She was worried about my brother because of he had a gunshot wound. A soldier aggressively pushed my mother away and pushed my father into the corner. The soldiers then started to search our house looking for mobile phones. They had a special device that locates mobile phones. They broke my wardrobe while searching. Then they arrested my older brother although he was on crutches. My younger sister, who is 7, was terrified.
4. Then the commander told me to dress because they wanted to arrest me too. He did not give my parents any documents and did not give a reason for my arrest. I put my clothes on and the soldiers took me outside.
5. By the front door a soldier tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties on top of each other. They were very tight and painful and left marks on my wrists for days. He also blindfolded me. The soldiers then took me and my brother on foot towards the entrance to the camp. It took us a long time to walk because my brother was on crutches.
6. After reaching the centre of the camp the soldiers continued with me through the cemetery. The soldiers slapped and kicked me whenever we passed a grave. They slapped me on the face and kicked me on my back and stomach. I still have pain in my back until this day, especially at night.
7. I was taken to the military base at Rachels Tomb and the settlers there abused me. They called me "a son of a whore". By then it was around 5:30 a.m. I was left outside the military base until around 7:00 a.m. and then I was put in the back of a military jeep where

I sat on a seat. The jeep took me to Atarot police station. I arrived there at around 8:00 p.m. I was tired and sleepy.

8. At Atarot I was left in an outdoor cage until around 3:00 p.m. the next day. It was cold and one of the soldiers made me take off my warm jacket and took it away from me. When I told him I was cold and needed my jacket he refused to give it back and told me it was not cold. They did not give me any food or water and did not allow me to use the toilet. At around 3:00 p.m. a soldier removed the blindfold and took me into the interrogation room.
9. The interrogator removed the plastic ties and replaced them with metal handcuffs. The interrogator was wearing civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. He started to question me before allowing me to speak to a lawyer. He did not tell me about any other rights. He showed me photographs of other boys and wanted me to give their names. I told him I did not know them.
10. Later on during the interrogation he called a lawyer and handed me the phone to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be afraid because these people are not scary. I spoke for a couple of minutes while the interrogator listened.
11. The interrogator spoke to me through a translator who was aggressive and accused me of lying when I told him I did not know any of the boys in the photographs. I was questioned for about two hours. The interrogator threatened to arrest my parents if I did not give him the names of the boys. He told me he was going to send a special unit to our house to damage it. He told me if I gave him the names and told him what each of the boys does during the day he was going to send me home. He also told me if I did not cooperate with him he was going to send me to prison for a long time.
12. The interrogator also showed me a photograph of me standing on the side of the road doing nothing. I denied it was me. He then told me I was wearing the same boots as in the photo and accused me of lying.
13. At the end of the interrogation he did not ask me to sign any documents and I continued to deny knowing the boys. Then I was taken to Binyamin police station for another interrogation.
14. The second interrogator was in civilian clothes. He allowed me to speak to a lawyer before he started to question me. It was the same lawyer I spoke to at Atarot and he told me the same thing. The conversation lasted for a minute and the interrogator was listening.
15. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and did not show me any documents about my rights. He was aggressive and thumped the table all the time. He showed me the same photographs as the first interrogator and wanted me to tell him the names of the boys. He told me if I gave him the names he would allow my father to attend the interrogation. He swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". He questioned me over the course of 10 days and did not allow me to leave the interrogation room. I sat on a chair and put my head on the desk at night to try and fall asleep.

16. I had a very hard time during those 10 days. I started to doubt myself and wondered what I had done to deserve this punishment. I realised I had no choice; I either confessed to get out of that office or refused to confess and stayed there. My parents did not know where I was and were worried about me.
17. The interrogator turned the dim light off at night before he left. They brought my food to the interrogation room. I was questioned for about an hour each day and then I was left alone. At the end I was tired and fed up and confessed to throwing stones. He wanted to know whether anyone had sent me to throw stones and I told him no one did. After I confessed he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew after he translated it for me. I then signed the document.
18. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken into section 13. On the same day I had a military court hearing. My parents did not attend because no one told them. My detention was extended.
19. I had five military court hearings. On 18 January 2023, I had my last hearing in which I was sentenced in a plea bargain to six months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence of six months valid for five years. I accepted the deal because I knew the date when I would be going to go home.
20. I spent the rest of my sentence at Ofer. My parents visited me three times and I was allowed to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities once every two weeks. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics but did not benefit. I left school when I was in tenth grade.
21. I was released on 28 February 2023, at Al-Jib checkpoint. My parents were told to wait at Ofer. I called my father from a taxi driver's phone and my father told the driver to take me to Ofer. I arrived home at around midnight and my father took me out for dinner.
22. The prison authorities never gave me back my telephone. The intelligence officer called me on my father's telephone after my release and told me if I wanted my phone back I needed to meet him at the checkpoint. I refused to go.
23. I will probably never be issued a permit to work in Israel or to visit Jerusalem. The last time I visited Jerusalem was when I was five years old. I don't think I will ever see Jerusalem again.

Name: Y.A.M.S.
Age: 17
Date: 5 December 2022
Location: Al Bireh, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, Y.A.M.S. of Al Bireh, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My mother woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our house looking for me. They had banged at our front door and my father let them in. Seven soldiers entered our home and came straight into my bedroom.
2. The soldiers searched my bedroom and found four sling shots. They slapped and kicked me and called me "a son of a whore". Then they told me to get ready because I was under arrest. The soldiers remained in our house for about 30 minutes before taking me outside.
3. At the front door one of a soldier tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties. He also handcuffed me on top of the ties. The ties and the handcuffs were tight and painful. He also blindfolded me and then took me on foot to the nearby settlement of Psagot. I was left outdoors in a courtyard until around 6:00 a.m. I was not given any food or drink.
4. At around 6:00 a.m. I was put in a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor. The jeep took me to Beit El settlement where I was left in an underground room until around 7:00 a.m. the following day. A soldier was in the room with me the whole time. During this time, I was given a quick medical examination and then I was taken to the police station at Ma'aleh Adumim for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the ties, the handcuffs and the blindfold. He was wearing an Israeli police uniform and there was a camera in the room. He allowed me to speak to a lawyer before the interrogation. The lawyer told me not to confess, even if the interrogator shows me photographic evidence. He assured me the interrogator was not going to beat me. The call lasted for about two minutes and the interrogator was not in the room. Still I did not speak frankly with the lawyer because there was a camera in the room.
6. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at settlers using a sling shot. He gave me a specific date. When I denied the accusation, he showed me some photographs of the incident he was talking about. I continued to deny the accusation. At times he became aggressive and told me if I confessed he would send me home.
7. He questioned me non-stop for the whole day and I was exhausted. I think he finished questioning me at around 3:00 a.m. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. I barely had time to sleep when at around 6:00 a.m. I was told I had another interrogation.
9. I was taken back to Ma'aleh Adumim for the second interrogation. I was exhausted and sleep deprived. This time the interrogator did not call a lawyer for me and did not inform me of my right to silence. He repeated the same accusations and questioned me for about two hours. He did not ask me to sign any documents. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer court. My parents were not there because they were not informed. My detention was extended.
10. A week later I was taken to Ma'aleh Adumim for a third interrogation. I was not allowed to call a lawyer and I was not informed of my right to silence. This interrogator was the worst in terms of his style. He was aggressive and thumped the table many times. He threatened to arrest my mother and father if I did not confess. He questioned me for about six hours and wanted me to give the names of my friends. I did not give any names. He did not ask me to sign any documents. After the interrogation I was taken back to Ofer prison.
11. I had about 11 military court hearings. At the last one, which was about three weeks before I was released, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to four months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given a suspended sentence for three years with a NIS 3,000 bond. I accepted the plea bargain because the prosecutor had wanted 6-months in prison.
12. I spent my prison sentence at Ofer where I read some books, played table tennis and chatted to the other prisoners. My family visited me twice and I was able to call home from a telephone provided by the prison authorities twice a month, although sometimes it was once a month.
13. I was released on 21 March 2023, at Ofer checkpoint and I went home with my family. I arrived home in the evening and had a nice meal with my family and friends. I left school when I was in eight grade and now I work as a mechanic.

Name: U.F.I.L.
Age: 16
Date: 14 December 2022
Location: Al Mughayyer, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones / Molotov cocktails

I, U.F.I.L. of Al Mughayyer, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on my way to school in a car with four other students at around 7:30 a.m. There were lots of temporary Israeli military checkpoints on the way. We passed the first one without any problems but we were stopped at the second one.
2. The soldiers ordered us out of the car. One of the soldiers pulled me aside, and immediately tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were very tight and painful. He made me wait on the side of the road and then I was taken in a civilian car to a military base at the settlement of Ofra.
3. At the military base a soldier blindfolded me and took me to a room where more than one soldier started to ask me questions. They accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at settler cars. I denied the accusation and told them I was on my way to school. They questioned me without first allowing me to speak to a lawyer and without informing me of my right to silence.
4. When I denied the accusations, they accused me of lying to them and started to beat me up. They kicked me and beat me with wooden batons. I could not tell how many soldiers took part in beating me because I was blindfolded but I could hear their voices. They also called me "a son of a whore" and "brother of a whore".
5. Then one of the soldiers called my father and asked him for my identity card number. Then I was taken to another room where I was left until the afternoon. During this time, I was not given any food or drink but I was allowed to use the toilet. Later I was taken to Binyamin police station where I was left outdoors until around 11:00 p.m. I was still without any food or drink. At around 11:00 p.m. I was taken for interrogation.
6. The interrogator removed the blindfold. He was wearing T-shirt and black trousers. He phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him before he started to question me. The lawyer told me not to say anything and to reply with "I don't know anything" to any questions he might ask me. The interrogator left the room during the phone call which lasted about three minutes.
7. When the interrogator came back into the room and told me I had the right to remain silent. During the interrogation I sometimes chose to remain silent and at other times I chose to speak especially when he accused me of things I did not do. I felt I had to defend myself.

8. The interrogator accused me of setting fire to tires and of throwing a Molotov cocktail at a settler car and a military vehicle. He also accused me of throwing stones. I denied all accusations. He then showed me video footage of the incident and claimed I was there. I denied it was me. He then thumped the table aggressively and accused me of lying. He threatened to keep me in prison for a long time if I did not confess.
9. I was questioned for about 30 minutes and at the end the interrogator asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I asked him to translate it for me and he refused, I refused to sign it.
10. After the interrogation I was left outdoors all night. I did not sleep at all and I was still without food or drink.
11. In the morning I was taken to the military court. My parents did not attend because they did not tell them about the hearing. My detention was extended. After court I was strip searched and then I was taken to Ofer prison. In prison I had my first meal since my arrest. I was tired and hungry.
12. A few days later, on the day I was released, I had another court hearing. The military judge decided he was satisfied with the time I had already spent in prison. He fined my parents NIS 1,000 and imposed a suspended sentence on me of three months in prison valid for five years.
13. I was released at Al-Jib checkpoint on 21 December 2022, and I went home with my brother. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m.

Accusation: Weapon possession

I, F.N.D.A. of Al Mughayyer, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was on my way home at around 6:30 p.m. when a convoy of Israeli military jeeps entered our town. There were no clashes at the time and things were quiet. One of the jeeps pulled over next to me, a soldier stepped out, grabbed me and pushed me into the back of the jeep and threw me onto the metal floor.
2. A soldier blindfolded me and then tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. The ties were very tight and painful and cut into my wrists until I was bleeding. The soldiers inside the jeep, including the driver, slapped and kicked me. They also swore at me and calling me "a son of a whore" and "a brother of a whore".
3. They drove me to a nearby military base and dumped me in a room with cameras for three days. I was by myself in the room and I didn't speak to anyone or see anyone. I was scared and lonely and could not sleep. I was worried about my parents because they had no idea where I was. Occasionally a soldier would walk into the room and slap me. On the third day, at around 2:00 p.m., I was taken to the police station in Binyamin settlement. A soldier removed the ties and the blindfold and took my fingerprints. Then I was taken into a room with a female interrogator who spoke to me through an interpreter.
4. The interrogator had a camera and a voice recorder in the room. She pointed them out to me and told me everything I say would be recorded. Then she called my parents and told them where I was and asked them for the phone number of a lawyer.
5. Then she called the lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to tell the interrogator what I had done. He also told me there was nothing to be afraid of. The interrogator was not listening to the conversation which lasted less than two minutes.
6. After I spoke to the lawyer the interrogator told me what my rights were. She said I had the right to remain silent and the right not to sign any documents in Hebrew if I did not speak Hebrew. She also told me I had the right to consult with a lawyer.
7. Then she wanted to know why I was arrested by the soldiers. She accused me of possessing a bomb of some sort. I denied the accusation. Then she thumped the desk aggressively and threatened to keep me in prison for a long time if I did not confess. Then she took me to a cell and left me there for about 30 minutes. She questioned me for about two hours and showed me a document written in Hebrew and said it was ok if I did not want to sign it if I did not understand the language. I did not sign.

8. After the interrogation I was taken to Al Mascobiyeh police station in West Jerusalem. By this time I was exhausted and sleep deprived. On arrival I was strip searched in a humiliating manner. When I objected I was beaten up while completely naked. Then I was put in a cell with two other detainees. I thought they were informants and did not trust them. I spent 18 days at Al Mascobiyeh.
9. During this time, I had four military court hearings. After each session I was taken to Binyamin police station for more interrogation. I spoke to a lawyer each time and I was informed of my right to silence each time. I was accused of the same accusation which I continued to deny. After each interrogation I was asked to sign documents written in Hebrew but I refused to sign.
10. After spending 18 days at Al Mascobiyeh I was transferred to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being put in section 13.
11. I attended about 15 military court hearings. My parents attended all of them except the first one. At the last hearing, which was on 15 May 2023, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 2,000. I was also given another one year in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because I was going to be released on the same day.
12. I was released from Ofer on 15 May 2023. I went home with my father and brother. We arrived home at around 11:30 p.m.
13. In prison I read the Quran and I helped keep the ward clean. I also attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics. I had two family visits and I was allowed to call home twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.

Age: 14
Date: 13 January 2023
Location: Hebron, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Weapon possession

I, A.A.A.I. of Hebron, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. At around 10:30 a.m. I was on my way to visit my grandparent's house when I decided to stop by the Ibrahim mosque. I was at school that day and we finished early because we had exams. I was not familiar with the security arrangements near the mosque and I walked beside the metal detector instead of through it. The soldiers were alarmed and immediately grabbed me. They searched my bag and found a kitchen knife which I keep in for self-defence as there are a lot of sexual harassment incidents.
2. When the soldiers saw the knife I think they thought I was planning to stab a soldier. One of them punched me in the face and bruised my nose and mouth. I was in severe pain and I passed out. When I recovered I found myself blindfolded and handcuffed to the back with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were not painful.
3. I was left there, next to a small room, handcuffed and blindfolded, for about four hours. Then I was taken to the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat and taken somewhere for a quick medical examination. Then I was taken somewhere else for interrogation. It was around 4:00 p.m.
4. I was allowed to call my father before the interrogation but I was not allowed to speak to a lawyer. The interrogator was an Israeli policeman. He removed the blindfold. He did not speak good Arabic and spoke to me through an interpreter. As soon as I entered the interrogation room he wanted to know why I was in possession of a knife. He questioned me without informing me of my right to silence.
5. The interrogator wanted to know why I was in the area of the mosque. He accused me of intending to stab soldiers. He questioned me for about three hours and was aggressive at times. He did not threaten me but sometimes raised his voice at me when he did not get the answer he was expecting. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
6. After the interrogation I was taken in a vehicle to Hasharon prison, inside Israel. By then it was around midnight. I was exhausted and in pain. At Hasharon I was taken to a cell where I spent a whole week by myself. I found this time hard. I thought of my younger brother who was a month old. I wanted to be with him. I was also worried about my school. I did not want to miss or fail my exams as I am a good student with an average of 90.

7. The cell was small, the size of a small bathroom, with a tiny window in the door. I was able to see faint day light and was therefore able to tell day from night. Although I managed to sleep, I was not rested. I woke up tired and anxious.
8. The following day I had a military court hearing which my father and uncle attended. I was denied bail and the hearing was adjourned. I had four military court hearings. At the last one, which was on 1 February 2023, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to two months in prison and fined NIS 3,500. I also received another nine months in prison, suspended for three-and-a-half years. My lawyer advised me accept the plea bargain and I did.
9. After spending a week at Hasharon, I was transferred to Damoun prison, also in Israel, where I was held with 27 adult female prisoners. A few days later I was taken for another interrogation.
10. The interrogator did not allow me to speak to a lawyer and I am not sure whether he told me anything about the right to silence. He had a camera in the room and asked me the same questions as the first interrogator. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
11. In prison I spent my time reading books. I also helped clean the ward and I cooked and folded laundry. I did not have any family visits and I was not allowed to call home.
12. I was released at Salem checkpoint on 17 February 2023, following an early release date. I went home with my father and three of my uncles. We arrived home at around 4:00 p.m. I missed my family badly; this was the hardest thing about being in prison.

I, A.B.M.K. of Azzayyem, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I went with two of my friends to the shops at around 7:30 p.m. My two friends went into a shop to buy things while I waited outside. All of a sudden six men in civilian clothes approached me and started to beat me on my back and stomach. They swore at me and called me "a son of a whore". When I saw they were carrying guns I realised they were Israeli special unit soldiers in disguise.
2. The men led me towards the nearby military checkpoint where an Israeli policeman handcuffed me to the front with metal handcuffs. The handcuffs were tight and painful. I was left at the checkpoint for about one-and-a-half hours. During this time they phoned my father and summoned him to the checkpoint.
3. After my father arrived at the checkpoint they put us both in a police car where we sat on seats. They took us to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem, where we were both left outdoors in the cold weather from around 8:30 p.m. until around 11:30 p.m. Then they sent my father home and took me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being put in section 13.
4. At around 2:30 p.m. the following day I was tied and taken for interrogation. The interrogator was in civilian clothes and had a camera in the room. She did not speak Arabic and questioned me through an interpreter. She phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to be scared and to answer the questions to the point, no more and no less. He spoke to me for less than a minute. At first the interrogator was listening but then she told me to turn the speaker phone off.
5. Then, without informing me of my right to silence, she asked me what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. I told her I was waiting for my friends who went into the shop. Then she accused me of throwing stones and a Molotov cocktail at the checkpoint. I denied the accusation. Then she accused me of lying and claimed she had video footage of the incident. She showed me the footage and I continued to deny the accusation. She threatened to arrest my parents if I did not confess. She also threatened to keep me in prison for five years. Still, I did not confess. At the end of the interrogation she asked me to sign documents written in Hebrew. The interpreter translated the documents for me and I signed.
6. As soon as the interrogation was over I was taken to Ofer military court. My father was there. My detention was extended by the military judge. I had three hearings.

7. At the last hearing, which was one day before I was released, the military judge decided to release me on bail. My father had to pay NIS 1,000 bail and I was told I had to come back to the military court on the 20 February 2023.
8. I was released at Al Jib checkpoint on 8 February 2023. My father was told to wait for me at Ofer checkpoint. I called my father from the telephone of a man who happened to be there and my father came and picked me up. I arrived home at around midnight.
9. On the 20 February 2023, I went back to the military court with my father. My father told the military judge he wanted me to go to school and that he would guarantee I never get involved in anything. The judge accepted my father's promise and my file was closed.
10. I found it hard being in prison and I spent my time thinking and worrying about my family. I am in eighth grade and my grades are ok. I want to study hard and focus on my school work.

1. My older brother woke me up at around 2:30 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were surrounding our house. By the time I got out of bed there were about 30 soldiers already inside our home. They had broken our front door open before we managed to open it. My younger brothers, who were 4-years-old and 9-years-old, were terrified.
2. One of the soldiers told my father they were looking for me. When my father identified me one of the soldiers told us they were going to arrest me. He did not say why and did not give us any documents. About 15 minutes later a soldier tied my hands whilst I was still inside our house. He tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. He tightened them hard and I was in pain. I was also blindfolded. Then I was taken to the back of a military jeep where I sat on the metal floor.
3. The soldiers inside the jeep called me "a son of a whore" and kicked and slapped me on my head. Accusation: Throwing Molotov cocktails / pipe bombs

I, B.A.B.O. of Aida Camp, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My parents woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me to get up because Israeli soldiers were in our house. I got up confused and saw about 20 soldiers in our home with more outside. Two of the soldiers were wearing masks.
2. One of the soldiers asked to see my identity card and then he made a phone call. He then told me I had to go with them. When I asked why he told me I would find out during the interrogation. They did not give my parents any documents.
3. The soldiers did not search our house but they did take some pictures and stepped over my younger siblings (5 and 7 years) waking them up. They also took a video of my parents and then, within less than 10 minutes, they blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties on top of each other. They were tight and painful and when I asked the soldier to remove them he refused.
4. Outside the house a soldier slapped me in front of my mother because he wanted my cell phone. My mother hugged me and said goodbye. Then I was led on foot to an area near Rachel's Tomb behind the Wall, not far from our house. When we got there a military doctor removed my blindfold and ties and asked me if I had been beaten. When I said "yes" he asked me to sign a document written in Arabic. I read it and then I signed it because it said I was beaten.
5. Then I was re-blindfolded and handcuffed with metal handcuffs behind my back. The handcuffs were also tight and painful. Then they took me to the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat and I was taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem. On the way soldiers verbally abused me calling me "a son of a whore".
6. At Atarot I was left in an outdoor cage until around 6:00 p.m. During this time, they brought me unappetizing food which I could not eat. Then I was taken for interrogation.
7. The interrogator removed my handcuffs and blindfold. He was wearing civilian clothes. He had a camera in the room and told me he was going to record everything. Then he called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me to take care of myself and not to confess and if I am asked any questions I should answer with no. I stood away from the interrogator and he did not hear what the lawyer was telling me. We spoke for about two minutes.

8. Then the interrogator told me I had the right to remain silent but warned if I remained silent it was possible I would be convicted. Then he accused me of throwing pipe bombs and Molotov cocktails. I denied the accusation. He told me other boys had confessed against me. He thumped the table and shouted at me. He questioned me for about two hours and the whole time he was trying to get me to confess. At the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed without understanding because I thought I had to sign. I later found out he made me sign on a false confession.
9. After the interrogation I was taken back to the cage where I remained until around midnight. Then I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem, where I was strip searched before being taken to section 13. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents were there and my detention was extended.
10. In all I had about 20 court hearings. At the last one, which was about a month before my release, I was sentenced in a plea bargain to five months in prison and fined NIS 3,000. I was also given more time in prison suspended for three years. I accepted the plea bargain because it was better than what the prosecutor was asking for.
11. I spent the whole time at Ofer where I walked in the courtyard and lifted weights. I also worked in the kitchen and helped clean the cell. I attended classes in Arabic, Hebrew and mathematics, but they were useless because they were for beginners. My parents visited me twice. I also called my parents twice a month from a telephone provided by the prison authorities.
12. I was released from Ofer on 12 June 2023, and I went home with my parents. I arrived home in the evening.

1. I woke up at around 6:00 a.m. and found about 10 masked Israeli soldiers in my bedroom. I was terrified and for a moment I thought I was dreaming. They asked me for my name and then the commander told me they had come to take me to prison. He did not give us any documents or reasons for my arrest.
2. The soldiers then tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie which was loose and not painful. The soldiers remained in our home for no more than 15 minutes and then took me on foot to the nearby settlement of Karmi Zur. When we arrived at the settlement a soldier blindfolded me and then led me on foot for about 200 meters. On the way the soldiers swore at me calling me "a son of a whore". They also slapped me a few times.
3. I was then led on foot all the way to the police station in Etzion settlement. I walked for about one-and-a-half hours. It was hard to walk because I was blindfolded. When I arrived at Etzion police station I was taken for interrogation.
4. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie. He was in civilian clothes. The interrogator phoned a lawyer who I spoke to. The lawyer told me not to worry because there was nothing to be afraid of. He told me to be a man. The interrogator was listening on speaker phone and the phone call lasted for about two minutes, not more.
5. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. He asked whether I had ever thrown stones at Israelis. Then he accused me of throwing a Molotov cocktail sometime in November 2022. He claimed he had photographs of me throwing stones but he did not show me any photographs. He was aggressive and thumped the table and slammed the door. When I denied the accusation, he blindfolded me again and shut the door and told me I had to confess.
6. The interrogator questioned me for about two hours and kept pressuring me to confess. I told him I had no idea what he was talking about and that I knew nothing. He did not believe me. At the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it. I signed because I was fed up.
7. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 11:00 p.m. I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section. The other prisoners made me two sandwiches and then they went back to bed.

8. The following day I had a military court session. My mother and cousin were in court and the military judge decided to extend my detention. I had about 20 court hearings. At the last one, which was on the day of my release, I was given a plea bargain which I accepted. I was sentenced to four months in prison and fined NIS 1,000. I was also given another six months in prison suspended for three years. I was very happy because I was going home.
9. I was released on 2 August 2023, at Ofer and I went home with my cousins. I arrived home at around 10:00 p.m.
10. In prison I chatted to the other prisoners to pass the time and I tried to forget that I was in prison. I did not attend any classes because they did not register me. I did not have any family visits because my parents' permit to visit me was for 6 August 2023, four days after my release. I was allowed to call my parents twice a month from a telephone which the prison management provide. Now I want to go back to school, I am in ninth grade.

Name: M.A.H.A.
Age: 16
Date: 14 May 2023
Location: Husan, occupied West Bank
Accusation: Throwing stones

I, M.A.H.A. of Husan, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was at work when an Israeli military jeep approached the area and soldiers started to shoot in the air. It was around 2:00 p.m. Everyone went outside to see what was going on, including me. Then one of the soldiers fired shots in the air in my direction and gestured to me to come over. I turned to go back into the workshop and the soldier followed me. He grabbed me by the T-shirt and took me outside.
2. My employer tried to intervene and told the soldier I had done nothing wrong and I was at work all day. At that point the soldier fired shots in the air right by my face and I was terrified. One movement in the wrong direction and I would have been dead.
3. Then the soldier tied my hands to the front with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. Then he pushed me into the back of a jeep where I sat on a seat. The jeep drove to the nearby military base where one of the soldiers tightened the plastic ties even more.
4. At the military base I was taken out of the jeep and a female soldier blindfolded me and painfully pushed my head down while leading me into the military base where I was taken to a room. She left me there for about an hour and made me turn my face to the wall. Then the military commander came and started to question me without allowing me to speak to a lawyer or informing me of my right to silence.
5. The commander wanted to know who was with me when I was arrested. I told him I was at work and did not do anything wrong. I told him to check the CCTV cameras if he did not believe me. He questioned me for about 20 minutes and threatened to prevent my father and brothers from ever entering Israel for work or any other reason if I didn't confess to taking part in protests. He also threatened to make my father pay NIS 30,000. I was worried about my family and took his threats seriously. I denied the accusation and told him I was at work and did not take part in anything.
6. About 30 minutes later I was taken to the police station in the settlement of Bitar Illit. On the way soldiers swore at me calling me a "dirty fucker". I was taken to a room for about 30 minutes before being taken outside where I was left in the sun for about two hours. Then I was taken for interrogation. It was around 5:00 p.m.
7. There was an interpreter in the room who removed my blindfold but kept me tied. The interrogator was wearing an Israeli police uniform. He told me he was going to record the session. Before questioning me, he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and asked me for my father's telephone number. Then the line was cut off and the interrogator took the hand set away from me. I spoke for less than a minute while the interrogator stood over my head and listened to the call.

8. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence. Straight away he wanted to know the distance between me and the car which was hit by a stone. I told him I did not throw stones at cars. He framed his questions in such a way as if it was accepted that I threw stones and all he needed were the details. I denied the accusation but he ignored my answer and continued to request information about the incident. I told him I was not there and was not involved.
9. Then he asked me to describe to him how Molotov cocktails are prepared. I told him I did not know and never prepared one. He questioned me through the interpreter for about two hours and was typing on his computer the whole time. Then he took my photograph and fingerprints and asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew. When I asked him to tell me what was written in it he told me it was what I had told him. Then I signed.
10. After being interrogated I was taken to a vehicle which drove along the main road to where an Israeli ambulance was waiting. I was given a quick medical examination by a paramedic in the ambulance. He asked me whether I took drugs and whether I had any illnesses. Then I was taken to Al Mascobiyeh police station in West Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 1:00 a.m.
11. On arrival at the police station I was given another medical examination. Then I was strip searched before being taken to a cell with other boys. There was no bed for me in the cell. One of the boys woke up and gave me his blanket and I slept on the blanket on the floor. I did not sleep well.
12. Later that morning I was taken to another cell which had a bed for me but there was no mattress. I slept on a blanket on the metal bed. Later in the day I asked for a mattress and they brought me one.
13. The following day I was taken to Ofer military court, near Jerusalem. My parents attended and my detention was extended. After the court I was taken to Ofer prison where I was strip searched again before being taken to a small cell with three other boys because there was no room for me in section 13. The cell measured about 3 x 3 meters and only had two beds. I shared a bed with one of the boys and the other two boys shared the other bed. The cell did not have any windows and they left the light on until 5:00 a.m. I was so tired that I fell asleep.
14. I was taken to the military court three more times. Twice I attended hearings and my detention was extended and once I was left in the waiting room from around 7:00 a.m. until around 5:00 p.m. without being taken into the court room. My last hearing was on the 24 May 2023. My lawyer spoke to me before the session and told me I was going to be released without charge.

15. On 24 May I was taken into the court room and the military judge told he had decided to release me because my lawyer showed him CCTV footage proving I was at work and not on the street when the car was hit by stones. I could not believe it. My mother and brother were in court and they were very happy. My parents did not have to pay any fines and I was given a document in Hebrew with the court decision.
16. I was released the same day at around 6:30 p.m. A military jeep dropped me off at Al-Jib checkpoint but my parents were told to pick me up at Ofer checkpoint. I took a taxi to Al-Izariya and my three brothers together with my best friend picked me up from there and took me home. We arrived home at around 9:00 p.m.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, D.S.A.A. of Husan, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My brother woke me up at around 3:00 a.m. and told me Israeli soldiers were in our home. I quickly got out of bed and went to the living room where I saw 10 soldiers. Some of the soldiers were masked and looked scary. One of them spoke perfect Arabic.
2. As soon as I showed up, one of the soldiers pushed me back into my bedroom and told me to take off my trousers. He wanted to see the bullet wound I had sustained about two months earlier when I was at my grandparents' house during clashes with soldiers and a stray bullet hit me in the leg. Then the soldiers searched my wardrobe and threw all my clothes on the floor. Then one of the soldiers told me to get dressed because I was under arrest. The soldiers did not give my parents any documents and did not tell us the reason for my arrest.
3. Outside our house one of the soldiers tied my hands behind my back with one plastic tie. He tightened it hard and I was in pain. The soldier who held my hand pressed hard and held my hand up in a painful position. Then he blindfolded me and took me on foot a short distance to where the military jeeps were waiting. I was put in the back of one of the jeeps and the soldiers made me sit on the metal floor and did not allow me to sit on a seat. Then the jeep drove to the police station at the nearby settlement of Bitar Illit.
4. The soldiers asked me to sit on a chair in an outdoor area and a female soldier asked me some medical questions and gave me a quick medical examination. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. I was left in a car and a soldier told me I needed to wait until the interrogator arrived. At around 6:30 a.m. I was taken for interrogation.
5. The interrogator removed the blindfold and the tie. He was wearing a T-shirt and jeans.. Before questioning me, he phoned a lawyer for me and allowed me to speak to him and then he left the room. The lawyer told me not to confess and to tell the interrogator I had nothing to do with anything. The conversation lasted about two minutes.
6. Then the interrogator started to question me about my gunshot wound. He wanted to know details about the time when I was shot. He did not inform me of my right to silence. He wanted to know who else was with me and who carried me when I was shot. He also wanted to know the name of the hospital I was taken to. He questioned me for about three hours and told me soldiers had testified that they had seen me throwing stones. I denied the accusation.

7. The interrogator was mainly calm, but told me I was facing up to two years in prison if I did not confess. He did not ask me to sign any documents.
8. Then I was taken back to Bitar Illit for another interrogation. This time the interrogator was in police uniform and had a camera in the room. He did not call a lawyer for me but told me I had the right to remain silent if I wanted to and warned me that choosing to remain silent would turn against me in court. I understood this to mean that it was better for me to speak and not remain silent.
9. The second interrogator repeated the same questions as the first interrogator and he spoke to me in a loud and aggressive voice. He threatened to keep me in prison for a long time if I did not confess. He also told me he was going to deny me a permit to enter Israel for seven years if I did not confess. He reminded me that they had revoked the work permits of my father and two older brothers and my three uncles soon after I had been shot and told me I would never be allowed to have a work permit. My father lost his job inside Israel where he had worked for 17 years and was earning a good income. He now works with a Palestinian employer and his salary is a fraction of what he used to earn.
10. I was questioned for about three hours and I continued to deny the accusation. At the end he asked me to sign electronically on an iPad. When I told him I did not read Hebrew and wasn't going to sign anything I did not understand, he shouted at me and told me I had to sign and I did.
11. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 2:00 p.m. I was tired and hungry because I was not given any food since I was arrested in the middle of the night. I was taken to a cell with two other boys and I was not taken into the minors' section until 9:00 p.m. the following day. That was when I had my first meal.
12. During this time I was taken to the military court. My parents were not informed and they did not attend the court hearing. My detention was extended. After court I was taken back to the cell and then, at around 9:00 p.m., I was strip searched before being taken to the minors' section.
13. I had two more military court hearings. At the last hearing, which was on the same day of my release, my lawyer told me he had agreed on a plea bargain with the prosecution in which I had to confess. My parents had to pay a NIS 3,000 fine and I was given a suspended sentence valid for two years. The military judge was satisfied with the time I had already spent in prison.
14. I was released at Al-Jib checkpoint on 23 May 2023, but my parents were told to wait for me at Ofer. I called my father who told me to take a taxi to Ramallah and my he met me there. I arrived home at around 1:30 a.m.
15. I am in ninth grade, and I want to focus on my school work.

Accusation: Planting explosives

I, H.A.U.L. of Al Mughayer, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I was with two of my friends at around 8:30 p.m. when the car we were in got a flat tire. I got out of the car to fix it when all of a sudden a group of about 30 Israeli soldiers ambushed us. They fired their guns in my direction. I was seriously injured in the leg and I fell to the ground and could not move. One of my friends, who was still in the car, was shot too. My third friend, who was the driver, was not shot and he drove away with a flat tire.
2. I was left on the ground, bleeding heavily. The soldiers shot me again, I think they wanted me dead. They shot me from about two meters away and they could see I was incapacitated, but still alive. They could have easily arrested me if they wanted to. I was hit with three bullets in the thigh and one in my right shoulder.
3. One of the soldiers kicked me in my wounded leg to see if I was still alive. I screamed in pain. Then he pulled me over the gravel from the other leg and dragged me about two meters away. Then he took a photo of me and showed it to the commander on his telephone. Then the soldiers hugged each other in celebration and fired a stun grenade. They swore at me and calling me "a son of a whore". Then they took off my clothes and left me completely naked, bleeding heavily.
4. Then a military ambulance arrived and took me away. I passed out because I lost a lot of blood. I was shot on Sunday and I remained unconscious until Tuesday. I regained consciousness and found myself at a hospital, handcuffed and shackled to the bed by my other leg. It was 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday when I woke up.
5. I was told I had three surgeries on my leg and shoulder. I was in pain. A soldier interrogated me while in bed. He asked me why I wanted to kill Jews and what I was doing in the area where I was arrested. When I told him what happened he did not believe me and accused me of lying. He questioned me without informing me of my rights. He questioned me for about 30 minutes and threatened to arrest my parents and my brother if I did not confess. I told him I was changing the flat tire and did not do anything wrong.
6. Then I told him I was in pain and could not talk anymore. He told me I had to answer his questions and he did not care if I was in pain or not. Then he asked me to sign a document in Hebrew but I refused to sign because I did not understand what was written in it. I asked for a translation but he never gave me a translation.

7. The following day I had a military court hearing via a telephone on zoom. I saw my mother on the screen for 30 seconds. She was in tears when she saw me. She later told me they had no idea where I was or what had happened to me and they announced that I was dead in the village. She knew I was alive on Wednesday when she was told I had a court hearing.
8. A few days later I was taken to Ramleh prison, inside Israel, where they have a hospital for injured and sick prisoners. Five days later I had another military court hearing, also on zoom. The hearing was adjourned for two days.
9. For my last hearing, I was taken to the military court on a wheel chair. My mother was there and she smiled when she saw me. I wanted to talk to her but the guards did not allow me. The military judge decided to release me in a plea bargain. He imposed a fine of NIS 2,000 and gave me a suspended sentence of 12 months valid for two years. I was not happy with the plea bargain because they wanted me to confess to something I did not do. I had to confess to attempting to place an explosive device on the side of the road. But then I decided to accept the plea bargain because I wanted to go home.
10. I was released on 11 June 2023. They dropped me off in front of Ofer, without crutches and without a wheel chair. I leaned against another boy who was released with me. Lots of family and friends came to Ofer to take me home. I arrived home at around 11:00 p.m. A day after I was released I had to be hospitalized for an appendix surgery, it was one thing after another. I still go to the hospital for checkups.
11. The Israeli hospital never gave me my medical report to give to my doctors in Ramallah and the prison authorities never gave me back my identity card. I left school when I was in eighth grade and I have a job at a dates factory in the Jordan valley but I cannot go to work because I still do not have my identity card. I have a platinum implant in my shoulder and I still have shrapnel in my leg which the doctors could not remove.

Accusation: Throwing stones

I, F.H.A.N. of Al Mughayyer, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. My cousin was arrested and interrogated by the Israelis. During his interrogation the interrogator told my cousin he wanted to see me the following day at 9:00 a.m. for questioning. My father and I went to the police station in Binyamin settlement at 9:00 a.m. as directed. I was taken inside and they told my father to go home.
2. I was taken to a room with two other boys. I was left there for about two hours and then I was taken for interrogation.
3. The interrogator was not wearing a uniform. He asked me if I wanted to speak to a lawyer so that he could tell me not to speak during the interrogation. I did not understand what he meant and I did not speak to a lawyer.
4. Then the interrogator accused me of throwing stones at settler cars. He did not give me a date but when I was released I was given a document which had a specific date of the incident. I denied the accusation. Then he told me he had photographs of me in the village outside my school holding a sling shot. I continued to deny the accusation. He then told me it was better for me to confess. He said this in a loud aggressive voice to scare me.
5. The interrogator questioned me for about 30 minutes but I did not confess. At one point another interrogator joined him and they both asked me the same questions and accused me of the same accusation.
6. At the end of the interrogation I was asked to sign a document written in Hebrew. I signed some pages but not others; I only signed the pages where my name was written. Then they took my fingerprints and photographed me and took me back to the room with the other boys. I was left there for about two hours before being taken to a nearby military base where I was left outside on the ground for about three hours. I asked a soldier for some water which he gave me and he allowed me to use the toilet. He did not give me any food.
7. After about three hours a soldier called my name and told me they were taking me to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 11:00 p.m. I was searched in my boxer shorts before being taken to section 13. I slept for about three hours and then they woke me up and told me I had to go to the military court. My parents were not in court because no one told them I had a court hearing and the judge postponed the hearing till the following day.

8. The following day my parents came and attended my hearing. The military judge decided to release me and told my parents they had to pay a fine of NIS 2,000 and another NIS 2,500 as a bond. He also imposed a suspended sentence on me of three months valid for a year.
9. After the court I was taken back to Ofer. I was released on 9 June 2023. My father was waiting for me outside Ofer court and I went home with him. I arrived home at around 8:00 p.m. I was tired and sleepy. I had dinner and then went to bed. It was a hard experience being in prison, I did not like it.

Accusation: Incitement

I, M.F.S.L. of Al Mughayyer, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. Israeli soldiers raided our home at around 4:00 a.m. I woke up to the sound of aggressive banging at our front door. My father opened the door and around eight soldiers came into our house with lots more outside. My sister, who was 15-years-old, was terrified to see soldiers in our home.
2. The soldiers went straight to my wardrobe and took out a T-shirt and a pair of trousers. They threw everything else on the floor. Then they told us me and my father were under arrest. They did not give us any documents. Once outside a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with three plastic ties: one on each wrist and another connecting the two. The ties were tight and painful. They also tied my father's hands.
3. The soldiers then took us to the back of a jeep. I sat on the metal floor and my father sat on a seat. We were then driven to a nearby military base. We were left in the jeep for a short while and then they drove us to the police station in Binyamin settlement. At the police station I was separated from my father. I was taken to a room where I was left for about five hours, tied and blindfolded and I found it hard. I was not given any food but I was given some water and I was allowed to use the toilet.
4. After about five hours I was taken for interrogation. They did not allow my father to attend my interrogation.
5. The interrogator wore an Israeli police uniform. He removed the blindfold and started to ask me some questions but I refused to answer and insisted on speaking to a lawyer first. The interrogator tried to deter me and told me a lawyer would cost my family a lot of money. I told him I did not care and insisted on speaking to a lawyer. He then slapped me and then called a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him.
6. The lawyer asked me whether they had taken any clothes from our house. He then told me not to talk a lot and advised me to be brief. I spoke to the lawyer for about two minutes and the interrogator left the room during the conversation.
7. When the interrogator returned to the room he accused me of incitement on Facebook. He then searched my Facebook page and found a video of a young man from our village who had been shot dead by soldiers. He questioned me without informing me of my right to silence.

8. The interrogator was aggressive and yelled at me. He asked me whether my parents had enough photographs of me to hang on the wall to remember me because he was going to lock me up in prison for five years at least. He told me if I confessed he would take me to the military court where I could apologise to the judge and I would be released. I told him I had not done anything wrong and was not going to confess.
9. The interrogator questioned me about four times; each time for about 30 minutes. At the end he showed me a document written in Hebrew and asked me to sign it but I refused to sign.
10. After the interrogation I was taken to Ofer prison, near Jerusalem. I arrived there at around 11:00 p.m. I was strip searched before being put in section 13. Two days later I was taken to Ofer military court. My mother and sister were there. The military judge decided to release me because the prosecutor did not present a charge sheet.
11. After the court hearing I was taken back to prison where I was told I was going to be released. I was released without charge on 11 June 2023. I went home with another family from my village. I arrived home at around 9:00 p.m. My father told me they had questioned him separately and showed him photographs of me on the road when settlers raided our village. I was not doing anything, just watching.

Accusation: Setting a fire

I, N.A.Z.A. of Beit Ummar, after being warned under oath that what I say shall be the truth, or I shall be subjected to criminal penalty, declare as follows:

1. I woke up at around 3:00 a.m. to the sound of aggressive banging at our front door. Then I heard the sound of breaking glass and I rushed to the living room. My father rushed to open the door and about 10 Israeli soldiers came into our house. They broke the glass on the front door and were about to break the door open but my father got there just in time.
2. One of the soldiers called my name and I identified myself. He told me to get dressed because I was under arrest. Then he asked for my mobile phone. When I told him I did not have one he took my mother's phone and found my name in her address book and called a number under my name but there was no ring. They gave my mother a document filled out in Hebrew and they asked her to sign it.
3. Then a soldier blindfolded me and tied my hands behind my back with two plastic ties tied together in a chain. The ties were tight and painful. Then they took me to the stairwell and went back in to search our house. They broke wardrobes and threw everything on the floor. They told us they were looking for weapons but they did not find any weapons.
4. After searching our house the soldiers took me away on foot. They walked me about 50 meters and then put me in the back of a military jeep and made me sit on a seat. I was left in the jeep for about 30 minutes and then I was taken somewhere and given a quick medical examination. I was left at that place for about two hours. Then I was taken to the police station in Etzion settlement. At around 9:00 a.m. someone removed the ties and the blindfold and took me for interrogation.
5. The interrogator was wearing a shirt and jeans. Before questioning me he phoned a lawyer and allowed me to speak to him while he left the room. The lawyer told me I was about to be interrogated about a fire on a hill near the settlement and a Molotov cocktail. He told me not to confess and not allow the interrogator to trick me into confessing.
6. After speaking to the lawyer the interrogator returned and told me I was accused of setting fire to land near the settlement of Karni Zur. The interrogator did not inform me of my right to silence and I denied the accusation.
7. The interrogator then told me another boy had confessed against me and gave me his name. I told him I did not know that boy. He threatened to lock me up in prison for two years if I did not confess and to impose a seven-year security ban on my father to prevent him from entering Israel for work. I told him I did not care and was not going to confess to something I had nothing to do with. Then he gave me a specific date in July and said I set the hill on fire on that date. I denied the accusation and told him I was in Ramallah during the whole month of July.

8. The interrogator questioned me for about 40 minutes and at the end he asked me to sign a document written in Hebrew but I refused to sign because I did not trust what he had written. After the interrogation I was taken outside.
9. About 30 minutes later a soldier told me I was going to be released. I was released without charge and I went home with the family of another boy who was released with me. I arrived home at around 11:00 a.m. My father was not home because my lawyer had asked him to go to the military court to attend my hearing. My father was waiting outside Ofer court for my name to be called to let him in but my name was never called. When I arrived home my mother called my father and told him I was home.

1. I was sleeping in the living room next to the air conditioner because it was so hot. At around 2:30 a.m. my mother woke me up and told me that Israeli soldiers were at our front door. My father quickly took me back to the bedroom. My mother opened the door and about 10 soldiers entered our home. One soldier came straight to my bedroom and told me I was under arrest. They did not give us any documents.
2. Within about 10 minutes I was taken outside where I was blindfolded and my hands were tied behind my back with metal handcuffs. They were tight and painful. Then the soldiers led me on foot to Rachels' Tomb, not far from our house. When we got there I was put in the back of a military jeep where I sat on a seat. I was then taken to Atarot police station, in East Jerusalem.
3. At Atarot I was left in an outdoor cage until around 9:00 p.m. when a soldier removed my handcuffs and blindfold before taking for interrogation.
4. The interrogator had a camera and a voice recorder. She told me she was going to record the interrogation. I asked to speak to a lawyer and she called a lawyer and I spoke to him. The lawyer told me not to confess and whatever the interrogator tells me I should say it wasn't me. The interrogator was not listening. Then she told I had the right to remain silent.
5. The interrogator then said that it seemed to her that I wanted to go to prison for six months. She showed me a photograph and told me I was suspected of throwing stones at Rachel's Tomb. I denied the accusation and told her to show me the evidence.
6. She was calm but I lost my temper and shouted at her when she repeated the accusation. She got upset and told me she no longer wanted to interrogate me. She questioned me for about 30 minutes and then she asked me to sign a document in Hebrew. I refused to sign. After the interrogation I was taken back into the cage. During this whole time, I was not given any food but I was allowed to use a toilet in the cage.
7. At around midnight I was taken to Al Mascobiyeh police station, in West Jerusalem. I was strip searched before being taken to a cell where I was left in solitary confinement for three days. After three days I was taken back to Atarot for another interrogation.

8. Back at Atarot I was interrogated by the same interrogator. She named a lawyer and called him but I refused to speak to him and asked to speak to a different lawyer. I spoke to the second lawyer who told me not to confess.
9. Then the interrogator told me again that I had the right to remain silence. Then she told me she had questioned my father about a photograph which she claimed I was in, and that my father had confirmed it was me. I did not believe her. She was aggressive and raised her voice at me. The interrogation lasted for about 15 minutes and I continued to deny the accusation. I was not asked to sign any documents. After taking my finger prints I was driven back to Al Mascobiyeh.
10. The following day I had a military court hearing. My parents attended and my detention was extended. A few days later I had another hearing. Then, after the hearing I had another interrogation. This time I was allowed to speak to a lawyer but I was not informed of my right to silence.
11. On 14 August 2023, I was told I had another military court hearing. I was taken to court but I was left in the waiting room. Then, a guard told me I was going to be released for lack of evidence. I did not believe him.
12. Later that day I was taken in a military jeep to Al Jib checkpoint where I was released without charge. My cousin was there and he took me home. I arrived home at around 8:30 p.m. When I got home I found out they had revoked my father's work permit. I was upset because my father is in dept and now he is without a job.
